Newsom wants statewide panel to review any COVID vaccine

Gov. Gavin Newsom says Californians need to have confidence in a vaccine, and the state will have a review process regardless of which presidential candidate wins in November. Photo by Chokniti Khongchum from Pexels

By Ana B. Ibarra, CalMatters.org

Coronavirus vaccines approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in coming months will not be distributed in California until a statewide panel of health experts can ensure they meet safety requirements, Gov. Gavin Newsom announced Monday, October 19, 2020.

While there is no vaccine available yet, California and other states have been gearing up for its eventual distribution. On Friday, California sent a draft of its vaccination plan to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In the draft, state officials said a scientific safety review workgroup, made up of immunization and public health experts from agencies and universities across the state, will help “ensure public confidence in vaccine safety, efficacy, and implementation efforts.”

Other states also have created committees to review any coming vaccine in response to concerns that the Trump administration might rush the regulatory approval process.

“Of course, we don’t take anyone’s word for it,” Newsom said, in a nod to the politicization of the COVID-19 pandemic.

“This vaccine plan will move at the speed of trust. You have to have confidence in the efficacy of the vaccine, confidence that we’re not rushing to judgment in terms of its distribution and its accessibility,” Newsom said.

In response to a reporter’s question, Newsom said the review group process will stand even if former Vice President Joe Biden wins the election.

A new survey from STAT and The Harris Poll showed 58% of people in the U.S. said they would get vaccinated for COVID-19 as soon as the vaccine became available — that’s down from the 69% who said the same thing in mid-August, possibly indicating a growing mistrust among the general public. Only 43% of Blacks said they’d get the vaccine as soon as it was ready compared to 59% of white respondents, according to the poll.

In the summer, California was tapped by federal health officials to help plan for a large-scale rollout of a COVID-19 vaccine as early as Nov. 1. Some public health experts pushed back on the idea that a vaccine could be ready for safe distribution by then.

The drug company Pfizer is expected to have one of the first coronavirus vaccines. If its vaccine proves effective, safe and can be consistently manufactured, the company would apply for emergency use authorization in the third week of November, CEO Albert Bourla said in an open letter last week.

But even if ready in this calendar

CHP Implements
a Regional Effort to Save Lives

By Joshua Oglesby, CHP

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - Saving lives is the core mission of the California Highway Patrol. In order to accomplish this mission, the CHP Yuba-Sutter and Oroville Area offices will jointly use a federal grant to conduct a safety campaign to reduce traffic crashes and crash victims attributed to unsafe speed, improper turning, and wrong side of road violations in Yuba, Sutter, and Butte Counties. The project started on October 1, 2020, and ends on September 30, 2021.

The CHP Yuba-Sutter Area will deploy officers on enhanced enforcement on State Routes 20, 65, 70, 99, and 113; and unincorporated roads in Yuba County and Sutter County where the CHP Yuba-Sutter Area has jurisdiction. In addition to enhanced enforcement, this traffic safety effort will include a community-based task force, and public awareness and education campaign to reinforce key traffic safety messages.

“Our public education campaign is to reduce the number of victims killed and injured in motor vehicle crashes attributed to unsafe speed, improper turning, and wrong side of road violations,” said CHP Captain Julie Harding, Commander of the Yuba-Sutter Area office. “This grant will allow us to provide additional enforcement and raise awareness about traffic safety with the ultimate goal of saving lives.”

According to the CHP’s Statewide Integrated Traffic Records System, there were 418 people injured and killed in traffic crashes attributed to unsafe speed, improper turning, and wrong side of road violations on state highways and unincorporated roads patrolled by the CHP Yuba-Sutter jurisdiction in Yuba and Sutter Counties between October 1, 2017, and September 30, 2018.

Funding for this program was provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. ★

Motorists Shifting to New Alignment on Highway 20 in Browns Valley

CalTrans Special Alert

YUBA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Construction crews will be shifting traffic this week to a temporary roadway alignment at various locations on State Highway 20 in the Browns Valley area.

Crews are currently restriping the sections of newly paved roadway between the Dry Creek Bridge at Hammond Grove Park and the Parks Bar Bridge over the Yuba River. It is anticipated crews will start moving traffic to the temporary alignment on Wednesday.

At the same time, detours will be set up for motorists traveling on Valhalla Way and Steffen Trail to access Highway 20. Valhalla Way east will be closed at the highway during construction.

Caltrans is alerting motorists the traffic lanes will be reduced by a foot to 11 feet wide in both directions. The speed limit in the construction zone also has been reduced to 45 mph.

The work is part of a $61.5 million project funded in part by Senate

Bill 1, the Road Repair and Accountability Act of 2017, to straighten and flatten roadway curves and slopes, widen shoulders, construct a new bridge and rehabilitate a 4.5-mile section of roadway in the Browns Valley area. Construction is expected to be completed in 2021. Project information and construction updates are available at www.FixYuba20.com

Weather or unexpected events may delay or prolong the work. Caltrans advises motorists to “Be Work Zone Alert.” The department will issue construction updates on Twitter @CaltransDist3 and on Facebook at CaltransDistrict3. ★

VOTE
Nov. 3

News Outlook

By Josh F.W. Cook

There is a uniquely American political phrase - October Surprise. Because we have our Presidential elections in November, most truly vote changing, and at the same time, surprising storyline plot twists that affect elections usually occur in October. In 1840 (in mid-October), Federal Prosecutors announced plans to charge Whig Party operatives for committing "stupendous and atrocious fraud" by paying Pennsylvanians to cross the state line and vote for winning candidates in New York during the 1838 elections. Fast forward to 1884; Republican nominee James Blaine attended a meeting at which a Presbyterian preacher claimed that the Democrats are the party of "Rum, Romanism, and Rebellion." Blaine did not repudiate this sermon, and anti-prohibitionist, Catholic immigrant, and Southerner support evaporated - just before the election, and he lost. In 1940 president Roosevelt woke up to find that his Press Secretary, Mr. Early, had kneed a black Police Officer in the groin outside Madison Square Garden. The outrage in the Black Community was such that Roosevelt found U.S. General Benjamin Davis, one of the few African-American Generals at the time, and promptly announced the creation of the Tuskegee Airmen, a squadron of all black aviators to make his October surprise go away. (It was a great movie, but they didn't mention that was the political reason they formed that squadron). President H.W. Bush faced accusations of flying in a supersonic jet to free the Iranian hostages, and George W. Bush had Democrats roll out a 20-year-old drunk driving charge, and then Dan Rather falsified Bush's Air Guard records to surprise people before the vote. The question today is this: Is there anything surprising enough to make any significant number of people change their minds?

California Mailed "Massive" Number of Ballots in Error and Risks Voter Fraud

By Jordan Gurnett, Reform California

SAN DIEGO, CA (MPG) - Reform California releases a bombshell research study providing proof that Californians are being inundated with "bad election ballots" that have been sent by state election officials in error. This report includes results of a survey of voters revealing nearly one-out-of-ten California households have received some kind of "bad ballot" in the mail.

To provide concrete proof of the problems surfaced in the survey, Reform California also provides actual pictures of "bad ballots" and testimonials from voters who say they received duplicate or triplicate ballots for themselves or received ballots for dead people, illegal immigrants, or people who do not even live at their house.

"The evidence in this report is irrefutable proof that California's voter rolls are a complete mess and the risk of voter fraud in California's election has never been greater," said Carl DeMaio, Chairman of Reform California. "When almost one-out-of-ten households in an election in a state are receiving some form of bad ballots that is a massive problem that could impact races that are decided by fractions of a percent in vote totals," DeMaio warned.

The following are the results from a survey Reform California conducted between October 10-13 using online and text screens of 1251 registered voters (4.4% MOE) in California asking them if their household received any erroneous ballots in the mail:*

HH Received Multiple Ballots for Same Person-9 at .7%; HH Received Ballots for Wrong Person-98 at 7.8%; HH Received Ballots for Dead Person-8 at .6%; Total Error Rate Per Household-115 at 9.2%**

*Note: 106 responses (8.5%) indicated no ballot had been received yet.
**Numbers off due to rounding.

Duplicate Ballots Mailed to Individual Voters

Reform California compiled examples of multiple ballots individual voters received with the exact same name on the ballot but a different voter identification number. While California election officials check to see if a ballot is cast twice using the same voter identification number, systems are not in place to properly review for an individual to vote twice or three times using multiple voter identification numbers. As reflected in the attached examples of bad ballots, "Peggy Smith" in San Diego, CA received one ballot using her familiar name and also received a second ballot for her legal name of "Margaret Smith."

Receiving Ballots at Wrong Household

The most common problem identified by Reform California relates to the state mailing ballots to addresses that the individual does not live at. In some cases these erroneously mailed ballots were sent to an individual who no longer lives at the address in question - having moved away long ago. In other cases the ballots were mailed to homes where the current long-time residents had no idea who the individuals were. One individual in Jamul, CA reported and provided proof of receiving 11 extra ballots at their address for individuals who do not live there.

Ballots for Dead People

Reform California received several reports of deceased individuals receiving ballots - some having died long ago.

Ballots for Illegal Immigrants

Reform California even captured several examples of illegal immigrants receiving ballots. Detecting this problem is difficult as it requires someone to admit they are not a citizen and not eligible to vote, but several individuals courageously reported these bad ballots to the study.

Reasons for California's Election Problems

Reform California outlines three main reasons why California's voting system is a mess:

- (1) Flawed Motor Voter Program: The State of California implemented a motor voter program in 2017 that automatically enrolled any individual who got a new driver's license as a voter. A separate bill passed the same session allowed illegal immigrants to receive new driver's licenses. California's motor voter program has been plagued by problems from the outset and state election officials have failed to properly review eligibility requirements for voters that are registered through this program;
- (2) Failure to Maintain Voter Rolls: County election officials do not conduct proper audits or reviews of their voter rolls. A analysis of the voter rolls in California's 50th Congressional District in December 2019 found an 11% variance between the voter rolls for that district and the National Change of Address (NCOA) database used by the postal service to track individuals who move away from their previous address;
- (3) Failure to Check for Duplicates: A simple way to check for duplicates would be to search every address on the voter rolls and examine any voters at that address who share an exact birth date. In some cases the voters may be twins or triplets, but in most cases this simple search would surface individuals who are registered more than once.

Seven Questions for Seven Candidates

By Seti Long

LIVE OAK, CA (MPG) - The Yuba-Sutter Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the Appeal Democrat presented voters with a Candidate Forum highlighting Live Oak City Council Candidates.

Candidates up for election to Live Oak City Council this November 3rd are (in alphabetical order by last name): Dale Carlson, Johnny Ceballos, Jeremy Chapdelaine, Lakvir Ghag - incumbent, Cruz Mora, Nancy Santana, and Aleks Tica - incumbent.

Held in the Live Oak Middle School gym, the seven candidates vying for only two open seats on the council answered questions generated by the Candidate Forum Committee, audience and Appeal Democrat readers. Candidates were allotted 90 seconds to make an opening statement, one minute to answer questions posed and two minutes for their closing statements. Moderators for the event were Steve Miller, Editor of the Appeal Democrat and Bob Harlen Executive Director of the Yuba-Sutter United Way.

Candidates addressed the following questions:

1. Has Live Oak done all it can to assist businesses that are hurting badly because of Covid-19? What more can be done?
2. Name a couple of your pet issues that you are anxious to work on should you be elected.

3. The most recent Sutter County Grand Jury report noted several unfavorable issues with Live Oak city government. Do you have any general take-aways from the report?
4. To some it appears the current council lacks cohesion that might inhibit it making real progress. What do you think? If you see that is an issue, what could you do as a council member to change it?
5. First the Grand Jury highlighted the issue regarding consulting contracts that were costing the city unnecessary expenses and opening the door to financial loss and litigation. How should the City correct that issue? And secondly the Grand Jury also noted the lack of oversight with public works projects that resulted in delays and additional costs. What do you propose to do about that situation?
6. The Grand Jury also recommends creation and implementation of a water rate increase. What are your thoughts?
7. Constituents want growth to create a more economically viable area but they don't want growth to interfere with their lifestyles or views. How do you walk this wire? What can be done to stimulate development in a way that is acceptable for its constituents?

"Tales from the Terror Tellers"

The Speed of Trust

David Read Day of the Dead

By David Read, YSA

MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - How about a little scary story time just in time for Halloween? Actor and later filmmaker, Orson Welles, caused a bit of a panic back in 1938 with his Halloween eve radio drama, "The War of the Worlds," about a real time alien invasion. His Mercury Theatre Players played it so straight that listeners thought that Martians were actually landing on earth. Our Terror Tellers will be presenting stories and poems, readers theater style, live for our listening audience kind of like an old-time radio show. This is your chance to listen to some chilling tales of terror on Halloween Eve. There might be some stories that are frightening or scary or even poems that make you shudder and shake. Spend an hour or so with our Terror Tellers and shiver and tremble your way into Halloween. The performance will be streamed live on Friday, October 30 at 7pm on Yuba Sutter Arts & Culture's Facebook page. There is no cost to view the show. Here is the list of the outstanding Tales from the Terror Tellers cast members and the stories they will be sharing. Alex Cesena will be sharing "Dead Man's Hate" by Robert Ervin Howard and "Haunted Houses" by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Janet Frye will read "Bluebeard" by Charles Perrault and "The Interlopers" by Saki. Shawntay Arroyo checks in with "Annabel Lee" by Edgar Allen Poe and "Day of the Dead" by Alberto Rios and Janet Frye delights with "The Monkey's Paw" by W. W. Jacobs and "The Cask of Amontillado" by Edgar Allen Poe. Robert Read will present "A Deadly Secret Wrapped in a Tarp," author unknown and "The Haunted Mansion" by X Atencio. David Read (yes, they are brothers) reads "Strictly Germ-Proof" by Arthur Guiterman and teams up with Robert for the Witches' scenes from, well, that Scottish play, by William Shakespeare. Sue Graue will present a series of seasonal limericks and Tom Galvin is bringing up the rear with, well, we're not sure yet, but it will be great. Maybe he will share some of his own original stories and poems. So, sit back, and relax and enjoy a great home-grown performance by these talented and dedicated performers. Continued from page 1 year, Newsom said, supply is expected to be limited and, just like previously with coronavirus diagnostic testing, people who are considered high risk would be first in line. In one projection, Newsom said that about 45 million doses could be ready for national distribution by the end of this year. California would only get a percentage of these, and each person will likely need two doses. Health workers and first responders would be prioritized, followed by people with high risk of becoming severely ill if infected, according to the state's vaccination plan. To the rest of Californians: Don't anticipate getting a vaccine at your local pharmacy anytime this year, Newsom said. Newsom also acknowledged that the state will need to work through some logistical hurdles. Some of the prospective vaccines will need to be stored in cold or "ultra cold" spaces, and their administration would require additional supplies of needles, alcohol pads, bandages and more face masks as doses become available. Ana is a Sacramento-based health reporter. She joined CalMatters in 2020 after four years at Kaiser Health News, where she covered California health care and policy. ★

Robert Read

Annual Unmet Transit Needs Hearing

By Keith Martin, Yuba Sutter Transit

MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento Area Council of Governments (SACOG), the regional transportation planning agency for Sacramento, Sutter, Yolo and Yuba Counties, holds a series of public hearings each year to determine if there are unmet transit needs that are reasonable to meet in the region. Input from these hearings are used to make decisions regarding the allocation of transportation funding in each local jurisdiction. This year's hearing for the Yuba-Sutter area will be held at 2:00 p.m. on Tuesday, October 27th. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the hearing will be held entirely on-line. Information on how to access the hearing is available at www.sacog.org/unmet. Comments can be provided either during the hearing, by email at transitneeds@sacog.org, by text/phone at (916) 426-3799 or through the on-line comment form at www.sacog.org/unmet. # Mayoral Race Hit Piece

Commentary
by Lou Binninger

It's common as elections draw near that desperate politicians utilize the hit piece against opponents. The article, ad, mailing or social media post aims to sway public opinion by presenting false or biased information in a way that appears objective and truthful. Or, it can also be used to derail a movement or candidate early in the campaign.

Democrat presidential candidate George McGovern in 1972 chose U.S. Senator Thomas Eagleton as his Vice Presidential choice. Highly-educated with a stellar record of public service Eagleton had struggled with bouts of depression and an irritable gut in the past. As this confidential health information was leaked, the McGovern campaign dropped Eagleton even though 77% of those surveyed said the issue would not affect their vote. McGovern was embarrassed.

McGovern was in favor of amnesty for Vietnam War resisters. He believed that the right to abortion should be decided by the states and not the federal government. He also favored decriminalization of marijuana. McGovern's democrat opponents reported this to conservative Catholic columnist Robert Novak.

Novak then wrote that McGovern was for "amnesty, abortion, and acid (LSD)." This hit piece and the Eagleton discovery doomed the McGovern run for President.

In the 2010 California gubernatorial race, liberal lawyer Gloria Allred accused Republican candidate Meg Whitman of employing an illegal alien.

Female housekeeper, Nicky Diaz, was employed by the Whitmans for about nine years and was paid $23 an hour. She was hired from an employment agency and Diaz said that she was then fired by Whitman once the campaign for governor got underway.

Whitman denied any wrongdoing, saying she thought Ms. Diaz was legit. The issue was center stage during the debate with Jerry Brown. Brown was for open borders but hypocritically attacked Whitman for the supposed labor miscue nonetheless.

Last week, Marysville Councilmember Brad Hudson sent a mailer via Tampa, Fla using the return address of his bar, Stassi's Fourth Ward, to attack mayoral candidate Chris Branscum's character. The barkeep is hoping Mayor Samayoa will be re-elected but if not him, then Councilmember Stephanie McKenzie, anyone but the 'outsider.'

This smacks of the "elect anyone but Trump movement" in 2016 unifying liberal and conservative members of the swamp. Maybe just government employees are preferred by council members. For years, more than 80% of the city council has been former or current government workers.

Who paid for this flier – Hudson, Samayoa, McKenzie? If Hudson, he recently announced the closing of his bar, laying-off 16 employees after the governor's Covid rules shut his doors. Then local officials awarded Hudson taxpayer money to stay open. Only a handful of struggling businesses were so fortunate.

Hudson writes that he's never heard a good thing from his bar patrons about Branscum or his family.

The flyer talks of looking for dirt on Branscum's family but Hudson says he has never actually talked to the candidate.

Hudson, who was not raised here, seems to fault Branscum who was, for leaving the community. He avoids the fact that Branscum as a youngster left for the Navy during the Vietnam War. After the service he attended four-year colleges to acquire accounting and law degrees, neither of which could be obtained in Yuba-Sutter.

Sadly, few of our young graduates return here after going away to school. Yuba-Sutter lags behind other larger communities in opportunities for young people who achieve higher education degrees.

Hudson seems jealous of Branscum's life, mockingly saying Branscum left Marysville "to seek his personal fortune decades ago." Is there something wrong with success? Is the word "fortune" politically incorrect? Is the word "fortune" now racist?

Would Hudson rather Branscum have declined the mandatory draft and not attend college? Would this mayoral candidate be more acceptable on the council if he had failed in business or ran out of money?

Hudson's target is someone he knows little about and has never talked with though the city is only 3.6 miles square with phones everywhere. The bar owner appears to be a gossip and hearsay monger willing to slander and libel a candidate for his favorite to win.

This is a classic hit piece full of factual, grammatical and spelling errors. It is sad that this is the best that a Marysville City Councilmember can do.

Publisher's note: We invite Mr. Hudson to respond for next week's issue, prior to election day.

YOUR ONE MINUTE NEWS DIGEST

by Don Rae

- Listening to Kamala Harris "Questioning" Amy Barrett in the hearing was enough to give one a headache. It also embarrassed California and the Country.
- Amazing how Congress feeds at the public trough as millions of American families go without a paycheck. Unconscionable.
- Lots of blather in the Barrett hearings about Obama Care and how wonderful it is. Humorous. Recall Obama telling us that the legislation would save a family of 4 some $2500 annually? The tragic truth is, not only did it cost a family more, the huge deductibles (some as high as $7000/year) assured that few, if any, could receive any benefit from the insurance.
- Pelosi said the review she's starting about the 25th amendment has nothing to do with Trump. Does she think anyone believes her?
- Wouldn't it be a shocker if the Democrats told the truth about anything?
- Did you notice the pictures of the cops in front of the Capital building protecting the politicians from the mob? No masks. No social distancing.
- To go back a few months, remember that Biden, when accused of sexual misbehavior said "this never happened." Interesting how the narrative changes depending on whose ox is being gored. Remember when the Democrats' mantra was "all women must be believed"?
- Again we look to history for enlightenment. Slavery existed on the Iberian Peninsula (Spain and Portugal) since Roman times – or earlier. The slaves were from Slavic countries - thereby the moniker – slaves. As the centuries rolled by, the Slavs became less visible as captured Muslim soldiers took their place. Thought you'd like to know.
- Climate change. A review of the Native American archeological record in southern New England reveals several major climate changes over the past 8000 years. These changes affected living conditions, food gathering and sea levels requiring indigenous peoples to adapt to significantly different life styles. These cyclic changes came about with no fossil fuels, automobiles, no coal fired plants, no human-caused activity of any kind. The changes were natural, nature was in charge. Orbital changes and variation in the sun's output were in charge. Today's indoctrinated children need some real education.

• It is unbelievable what the politicians in San Francisco will dream up. A vote is planned by the SF Supervisors to allow monitoring 911 calls for too many calls reporting people of color committing crimes. The supervisors claim there are too many white people calling the police on African Americans for generally innocuous behavior. Most likely this is the death of the 911 system in SF. If you knew reporting a crime that you saw was committed by a person of color, you would be the one in trouble so you would not make the call. This is another way to promote crime and to make life dangerous in this collapsing city. The criminals, with the assist of government, are winning.

• In Democratic precincts, response to trouble depends on whose ox is getting gored. For example, in Michigan the folks in charge aren't too concerned about looting, arson, and other crimes committed by unruly folks. But when it concerns the potential kidnapping of the state's governor, all stops are knocked down and law enforcement suddenly is actively engaged. Aren't politicians great?

• To show how much we can believe in China's honesty and integrity. We need only look at what it happening in the South China Sea. China previously agreed to arbitration relating to these "islands" but lost. Still, China is acting as though the territory is theirs. China needs a strong lesson in international behavior. ★

Biggs Man Arrested for Armed Threats

Butte County Sheriff's Office Press Release

BUTTE COUNTY, CA (MPG) - On October 6, 2020, shortly after 7:30 AM, the Butte County Sheriff's Office (BCSO) responded to the 400 block of Justeson Road in Gridley for a reported assault with a firearm. BCSO deputies arrived on scene and learned that William Manes III, a 40-year-old Biggs resident, initiated an argument with a victim at the location. According to the victim and witnesses, during the course of the argument, Manes produced a firearm and used it to verbally and physically threaten the victim. Manes eventually left the location with the loaded firearm.

Deputies and detectives conducted follow-up, obtained an arrest warrant for Manes, and a search warrant for Manes' residence. In the late afternoon of October 6, 2020, deputies and detectives from the BCSO Felony Investigations Unit served the search warrant at Manes' resident, which is located in the 300 block of Aleut Street in Biggs. Several loaded firearms, including the one used during the altercation in Gridley, were recovered and removed from the property. William Manes

III was taken into custody and booked at the Butte County Jail for felony charges of assault with a firearm, criminal threats, using a firearm in the commission of a felony, and a misdemeanor charge of exhibiting a firearm.

Manes' bail was set at $163,000. Manes is scheduled to be arraigned at the Butte County Superior Court on Friday, October 9, at 3 PM. The Sheriff's Office is asking anyone with additional information about this investigation to contact Detective William Brewton or Deputy Brad Buchwalter at 530-538-7671. ★

Gold Country Casino Robbery Investigation Update

Butte County Sheriff's Office Press Release

BUTTE COUNTY, CA (MPG) - During the follow-up investigation, Butte County Sheriff's Office (BCSO) detectives determined bank/credit cards were also taken from the victim during the robbery. BCSO detectives located evidence that after the robbery, Jeremy Bowman, age 32 of Yuba City, conspired with Daniel Braziel to charge approximately $1,000 on the victim's bank/credit cards. Detectives obtained an arrest warrant for Bowman, and a search warrant for Bowman's residence, which is located in the 1700 block of Sandpiper Drive, Yuba City.

On October 6, BCSO detectives and personnel from the Sutter County Sheriff's Office served the search warrant. During the execution of the search warrant Bowman was located, placed under arrest, and later booked into the Butte County Jail for a felony count of identity theft and a misdemeanor count of possession of stolen property. Detectives located evidence at Bowman's residence showing Bowman was the individual who used the victim's bank/credit cards. Detectives also located numerous other illegal items to include heroin, stolen property, and ammunition. ★

How PG&E is improving Public Safety Power Shutoffs in 2020.

Smaller, shorter, smarter.

PUBLIC SAFETY POWER SHUTOFF (PSPS) is a statewide effort to prevent wildfires by proactively turning off power to communities when severe weather is forecast. As California battles historic wildfires, a Public Safety Power Shutoff is just one of many tools that PG&E uses to help keep customers and communities safe.

PG&E is working to make PSPS events smaller, shorter and smarter, by:

Installing over 600 devices that redirect power to limit the size of outages

1

Using more than 765 advanced weather stations to pinpoint where severe weather is most likely to occur

2

Adding backup generation in some high fire-threat communities to keep the lights on

3

Nearly doubling our helicopter fleet from 35 to 65 and adding more field crews to cut restoration time in half compared to 2019

4

Upgrading our Community Resource Centers (while following COVID-19 health guidelines such as the use of masks and social distancing) by providing water, snacks, and other resources

BYLT Announces the 2020 Conservation Award Winners!

Bear Yuba Land Trust Press Release

GRASS VALLEY, CA (MPG) - Bear Yuba Land Trust (BYLT) is proud to announce Shelly Covert and Debra Weistar as the recipients of the 2020 BYLT Conservation Awards. Covert is recognized with the William Nickerl Award for Conservation Leadership for her tireless commitment to conservation and dedication to enriching the community's connection to the ancestral homelands of the Nisenan Tribe. Weistar is recognized with the John F. Skinner Sierra Outdoors Recreation Award for her lifelong commitment to educating and mentoring youth through nature programming and documentary filmmaking.

Covert and Weistar will be presented their awards at BYLT's annual fundraiser, Open Spaces & Wild Places Gala and Conservation Awards, a virtual event taking place Friday, October 16th and hosted by Nevada County Media.

"This year, it feels especially important to recognize two truly inspiring women who are deeply connected to the land," said Erika Seward, Co-Executive Director of BYLT. "Through their work, each has elevated the public consciousness around the critical importance of conservation and stewardship."

Shelly Covert is the Spokesperson for the Nevada City Rancheria Nisenan Tribe. She sits on the Tribal Council and is community outreach liaison. She is also the Executive Director of the Tribally guided, non-profit, CHIRP, as known as the California Heritage: Indigenous Research Project, whose mission is to preserve, protect and perpetuate Nisenan Culture. Nevada City Rancheria Nisenan Tribal members are direct, lineal descendants of the original Indigenous people who were here thousands of years before the gold rush.

Most of Shelly's work is focused within the Bear and Yuba River watersheds which are the ancestral homelands of her Tribe. Recently, with the efforts to restore federal recognition to the Nevada City Rancheria, her work has taken on a wider scope that includes social, environmental, and racial justice topics that impact the Tribal community and their well-being. Undoing the erasure of Nisenan history has been at the forefront of Tribal efforts and a focus for CHIRP. Raising the visibility of the Nisenan through community outreach, public events, and education has been of great importance as the Tribe struggles with the reintroduction of its culture and identity in 2020. As Tribal liaison, Shelly works closely with the Elders, Tribal Council, and Tribal members, to identify the areas of greatest need, and then guides CHIRP as Executive Director, to develop and implement projects that have found funding.

Debra Weistar, 2020 John F. Skinner Sierra Outdoors Award Winner.
Photo: Bear Yuba Land Trust

Debra Weistar is a lifelong resident of the Sierra, which imprinted on her before she was a year old – at the rustic Fallen Leaf Lake cabin built by her great-grandfather in 1913. Knowing firsthand what connection to place means to a child, she has spent the last 35 years working with youth in wild places; introducing them to conservation issues and activism, often through documentary filmmaking. She has mentored dozens of youth over the years – many who have gone on to careers in conservation and environmental leadership. She and her husband, Tom, co-founded and direct Synergia Learning Center, a non-profit youth organization based on the San Juan Ridge, and for five years ran Finding the Good, a high school semester program based on studying and documenting innovations in regenerative systems. Their most recent initiative is Nature School, for local 6-11 year olds. Motivated by deep concern for protecting our watershed for future generations, in 2015 Debra joined the Board of Directors of SYRCL, the South Yuba River Citizens League, and has served as co-president, secretary, and most recently as vice-president. In 2017, she was selected for one of the environmentalist seats on the Nevada County CAG (Community Advisory Group for commercial cannabis ordinance).

Covert and Weistar were selected from nominations submitted by the public for local conservation heroes; from that pool of candidates, a committee made these selections.

"Gaining community input is a special part of our process," said Robin Milam, BYLT Board of Director and Chair of this year's selection committee. "It is truly inspiring to learn of the impact of innovative change makers throughout the Bear and Yuba River watersheds who share our commitment to preserving local lands, wildlife, water and trails and their efforts to improve our way of life."

"These awards help connect us to a long legacy of conservation leaders and outdoor enthusiasts who have made incredible contributions to improving the health and resilience of the Bear and Yuba River watersheds," says Seward. "The annual gala is the perfect setting to show our deep appreciation as a community."

All net proceeds of the Gala will support Bear Yuba Land Trust (BYLT), an accredited land trust and non-profit based in Grass Valley with a mission to protect and defend the working and natural lands of the Bear and Yuba River watersheds and empower healthy, resilient communities through nature access and education. This year's event was made possible by the BriarPatch Food Co-op, Emily's Catering & Cakes, Grass Valley Brewing Company, Volz Brothers, and Moxie Bookkeeping & Coaching.

The online silent auction is already underway with a plethora of unique gifts, works of art and nature experiences open for bidding. Visit BYLT's Silent Auction to explore and place your bids. Check back often as new items are being added daily until the closing on October 16.

Proposition 15 Will Hurt Yuba County Farmers, Small Businesses, and Residents

Commentary by Stephen Duckels

For more than four decades, California homeowners and businesses alike have benefited from predictable and stable property taxes, thanks to Proposition 13. This in turn has provided local governments and schools with a dependable source of revenue. Unfortunately, all of this is at risk on November 3, when voters decide the fate of a measure to raise property taxes on commercial and industrial properties by $12.5 billion each year.

Unless defeated by voters, Proposition 15 will "split" the property tax roll, requiring that business property and farm production be assessed differently than residential properties.

Today, property taxes for land, improvements and structures are calculated based on 1% of the property value at acquisition. Annual property tax increases are capped at 2%, even when property values rise quickly, providing certainty that property owners won't receive a sky-high property tax bill.

Under Proposition 15, certain commercial and industrial properties will be reassessed to market value at least every three years. The proponents tout that the measure will be a boon for local governments across the state, but that couldn't be further from the truth.

For small rural counties like Yuba, Proposition 15's complex exemptions and high administrative costs would likely result in an overall decline in net property tax revenue, not the massive gains promised by proponents. Even the nonpartisan Legislative Analyst warned about this unintended consequence.

And if this isn't bad enough, Proposition 15 will be the nail in the coffin to small businesses that are already reeling from the COVID-19 pandemic. According to the National Federation of Independent Business, 78 percent of small businesses rent their property. Most small businesses use triple net leases which make them responsible for paying the property taxes, maintenance and insurance costs.

Without a doubt, Proposition 15's higher property taxes will be passed along to small businesses in the form of higher rents. Small businesses will have few choices to cope – either lay off employees, raise prices on consumers or shut their doors. That means a higher cost of living and even more job losses when millions of Californians are applying for unemployment and struggling just to get by.

Even worse, Proposition 15 would subject improvements on agricultural land, like barns, orchards, vineyards, dryers, and processing plants to skyrocketing property taxes. For a county like Yuba that depends on agriculture, Proposition 15 would be devastating.

And while homeowners might think they are safe, the truth is that the supporters of Proposition 15 have a long history of saying they want to repeal all of Proposition 13's taxpayer protections – even for homeowners.

Simply stated, Proposition 15 is a wolf in sheep's clothing. It will do nothing but fund large urban counties, create a never-ending administrative quagmire, and harm Yuba County residents by cutting funding for our local schools, law enforcement and fire departments, at a time when we need it most.

Proposition 15 is poorly drafted measure that will disproportionately hurt rural counties, devastate small businesses and farmers, and increase the cost of living for everyone at a time when we are suffering from the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression. Join me in voting NO on Proposition 15.

Senator Cotton to Big Tech After Censorship of Biden-Burisma Report: 'Winter Is Coming' | 16 Oct 2020 | Sen. Tom Cotton (R-AR) on Thursday warned Big Tech "oligarchs" that they will soon face regulation, after Twitter and Facebook censored reports from the New York Post that were unflattering to former Vice President Joe Biden and his son Hunter Biden. After the first of the series of articles published, Facebook reduced the articles' distribution and Twitter slapped a warning label on the stories and locked accounts belonging to the Post and those associated with the Trump campaign, claiming the stories violated their policy on hacked material... Republican senators requested subpoenas for the heads of Facebook and Twitter to testify before the Senate. "You have big tech oligarchs declaring war on Donald Trump, on the Republican Party, on conservatives across America," Cotton said on a Trump campaign press call on Thursday. "Refusing to allow people to post the url of a story, and then they just issue a mealy-mouthed apology saying that they could have communicated better...that is not exactly the standard that big tech oligarchs apply to every story about Donald Trump for the last five years," he said. "And for all of those tech oligarchs who think they can get away with this, I will simply say that winter is coming."

Rep. Ken Buck demands DOJ investigate removal of big tech protections after censoring of NYPost Biden article | 14 Oct 2020 | Rep. Ken Buck, R-Colo., sent a letter to the Department of Justice on Wednesday, asking the attorney general to look into accusations of censorship by Twitter and Facebook, after the big tech giants took steps to limit the exposure of a New York Post article critical of Hunter Biden. "I write to express my concerns regarding Twitter and Facebook's recent actions to censor a prominent American news outlet," Buck began. "These actions violate the platform's immunity under Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act and threaten to chill free speech throughout our nation." The NY Post story, entitled "Smoking-gun email reveals how Hunter Biden introduced Ukrainian businessman to VP dad," touched upon reports that the former vice president's son had unscrupulous financial and business ties to a natural gas firm in Ukraine – Burisma Holdings – and that his father later stepped in to have a probing prosecutor fired for looking into the matter.

Twitter Locks Trump Campaign Account Over Hunter Biden Post - Spokesman | 15 Oct 2020 | Trump's reelection campaign said Thursday that Twitter suspended its official account, claiming that Team Trump's post about Democratic presidential nominee Joe Biden and his son, Hunter, is a violation of its policy. "Your account has been locked," the Twitter message said. "What happened? We have determined that this account violated the Twitter Rules. Specifically, for: Violating our rules against posting private information." The account was active and posting on Twitter again hours after campaign officials first said it had been locked. The original campaign post which Trump campaign spokesman Tim Murtaugh said triggered Twitter to take action was apparently taken down. The incident came less than three weeks from the Nov. 3 election.

California wildfire that killed 4 may have been sparked by power line equipment –The Zogg Fire erupted in Shasta County in September and destroyed over 200 structures | 11 Oct 2020 | Investigators in California probing the cause of a recent wildfire that killed four people have taken possession of equipment belonging to Pacific Gas and Electric, the utility said Friday. In a filing with the California Public Utilities Commission, PG&E said investigators with the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (Cal Fire) have taken some of its equipment as part of the ongoing investigation into the Zogg Fire. The Zogg Fire erupted in Shasta County on Sept. 27 as high winds were impacting the region, quickly growing into a blaze that has consumed at least 56,338 acres. The fire killed four people in the community of Igo and later spread into neighboring Tehama County. ★

NYWD General Manager has not been very productive

In 2011, the North Yuba Water District hired its current General Manager. Since that time, the irrigation season, traditionally from April 15 until October 15, has become shorter and shorter, now ending by the end of July.

The domestic users in Brownsville, Rackerby, and Forbestown are, by law, given priority over the water. With 800 acre feet use per year, these customers have always received their water. Except for the recent fire when residents of Brownsville and Forbestown, having to evacuate, naturally left their sprinklers on to protect their homes. As a result, the district ran out of water.

The General Manager has had nine years to work on the "solution," which is to pipe the Forbestown Ditch. The current piping project proposes to pipe nine miles of ditch with plastic pipe, both above and below ground, designed to convey 3,700 acre feet. The water district has permits from the Department of Water Resources for 23,700 acre feet. 23,700 - 3,700 = 20,000.

What is going to happen to the 20,000 acre feet that cannot fit down the pipe?

The General Manager is not saying. With additional environmental impacts now under consideration, this pipe could be another year or more out before construction could begin. Clearly, the General Manager has not been very productive during his tenure. However, the current NYWD board seems quite happy with the General Manager's performance. Something is not adding up.

There is an alternative approach to bringing water down the Forbestown Ditch, which is to improve and maintain the current ditch. Not only would this approach be able to convey the full 23,700 acre feet, it would flow water at 50 cubic feet per second (cfs), twice the flow of the piping solution at 24 cfs. Much of this work could be done in time to improve the capacity for next year's irrigation season. Also to note, water running in a concrete lined ditch, unlike a plastic pipe, would be resilient to fire damage.

TV ads are saying Biden has a plan to cope with the Covid-19 virus, if so why doesn't he tell us about it for the betterment of his fellow Americans?

On second though he's just telling another lie like the rest of the "Dam"ocrats are notorious for.

The first few months of Trump's Presidency you saw the economy begin to climb, then the "Dam"ocrats started mud-slinging and slowed things down.

The lies and innuendo's to slow Trump's actions on important issues we face was intentional to make him look bad.

They act like spoiled BRATS and need to return to school for further education.

As for California we are hurting! Especially Mom and Pop stores, small businesses, kids, seniors, YOU NAME IT.

As a local Marysville city ratepayer I am writing to express my outrage that you have the audacity to cotribute $5,000 towards Ricky Samayoa's re-election campaign. Hopefully this action of your will be investigated and you be ordered to reverse your course of action which is a real "Conflict of Interest" to us voters. What gives you the right to spend the rate-payers monies on only "your choice" for a "Political Candidate." I feel exploited.

Well this voter can do something even though the known corrupt CPU refused to look into this "improper action." I will not vote this election for Ricky Samayoa or any of the other candidates that sit on Marysville's City Council. Also I will actively tell everyone I know and interact with to likewise NOT vote for him. Furthermore I will encourage as m any voters as possible to not ever vote any more ratepayer requests you ask of us cit-izens/ratepayers for going forward. Your action is at the very least stunningly unethical! Make Mr. Samayoa pay these monies back to us ratepayers that didn't even vote for him! Change your CEO and get your heads examined.

Farm Groups Pledge to Work with Biodiversity Collaborative

It will be up to a new California Biodiversity Collaborative to help enact Gov. Gavin Newsom's executive order to conserve natural and working lands. The order establishes a goal to conserve 30% of California land and coastal water by 2030. Agricultural organizations say they plan to participate in the collaborative, to assure state agencies recognize ongoing stewardship work by farmers and ranchers.

Proposals Would Expand Water Storage

Plans to expand two federal reservoirs in California would help the state adapt its aging water system to meet "significant and steadily mounting water insecurity issues," according to the California Farm Bureau Federation. The Farm Bureau and other groups say expansion of Lake Shasta and San Luis Reservoir would benefit the environment and economy. On Tuesday, the White House announced creation of a Water Subcabinet to streamline federal water management.

Pumpkin Patches Modify their Businesses

The pandemic has changed operations at California pumpkin patches. Many have closed altogether. Those that remain open require masks, have scaled back activities and revamped their spaces, for example by realigning corn mazes. Some pumpkin patches require advance ticketing to assure social distancing or have converted to a drive-through format. But farmers say customers appear grateful the patches offer a safe, family activity.

Kiwifruit Farmers Add New Varieties

New varieties of kiwifruit, with red or gold flesh in place of the traditional green, may allow farmers to expand markets for the crop. One San Joaquin Valley farmer has been working for more than 20 years to refine growing techniques for a red kiwi-fruit variety he says has a sweeter flavor. Others now offer gold-fleshed or extra-large green fruit. California farms produce nearly all the kiwifruit grown in the United States. ★

The Brownsville Bailiwick & Beyond

A Yuba Feather Community Service board meeting was held, our first one downstairs since Covid hit. These board meetings, open to the public, are held on the second Tuesday of each month (except December) at 7 pm. The opening of the buildings for activities such as Stone Soup and Hill Top Gang was brought up, but there are still many restrictions on large group gatherings. Until Yuba County gets into the Orange tier, we are limited for group activities. There is also interest in using the tennis courts. Hopefully a volunteer or two will take on that area. There was a good bit of trash scattered around the amphitheater, right next to a trash barrel. Often that is why areas cannot be opened.

On Saturday, October 31 (Halloween), the Brownsville Farmers Market will be open for their last day. Be sure to stop by and pick up those fresh veggies, fruit etc. The vendors will also be welcoming the kids to trick or treat at each booth. The farmers market is located at the Foothill Fire Department parking lot in Brownsville.

Also, on Saturday, October 31 st , the Brownsville Mercantile will be holding a peddler's fair in their parking lot. Booth space is free and you can bring down the treasures you wish to sell. There will be music and the kids will be able to trick or treat at each booth. The peddler's fair will be from 9 am until 4 pm. The Brownsville Mercantile is located on Willow Glen Rd. in Brownsville.

Look Back in Time – In 1924 Chauncey Bean brought his cattle down from the mountains (now we use cattle trucks instead of driving the cattle).

Hope to see you in Brownsville soon

President Protects Children Who Survive Abortions

Liberty Counsel Press Release

WASHINGTON, D.C. (MPG) - President Donald Trump announced he will be signing a Born-Alive Executive Order "to ensure that all precious babies born alive, no matter their circumstances, receive the medical care that they deserve." The executive order, once signed, will legally protect babies born alive after a failed abortion.

The full text of the order has not been released but it is expected to be similar to the Born-Alive Infant Protection Act that would provide for criminal penalties for abortionists who fail to provide proper medical care for babies who survive abortions. Democrats in Congress refused to pass this legislation more than 80 times, allowing abortionists to essentially get away with infanticide. Through petition signatures and fax campaigns, Liberty Counsel has delivered over 14,500 names to House and Senate members urging them to support the Born-Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act.

Speaking at the National Catholic Prayer Breakfast, President Trump called this "our sacrosanct moral duty."

President Trump said, "We believe in the joy of family, the blessing of freedom and the dignity of work and the eternal truth that every child born and unborn is made in the holy image of God. I will always protect the vital role of religion and prayer in American society, and I will always defend the sacred right to life."

The president also stated that his administration is increasing federal funding for neonatal research "to ensure that every child has the very best chance to thrive and to grow."

Abortion survivors are not "hypothetical." Statistics from the Centers for Disease Control, as well as the personal testimonies of nurses and abortion survivors themselves, provide evidence that babies survive abortions. According to the CDC, at least 143 babies were born alive after botched abortions between 2003 and 2014 in the U.S., though there likely are more. The CDC also notes that this number is likely underestimated because of unclear terminology and a lack of understanding about spontaneous abortions.

In addition to the CDC's findings, several states report that babies are born alive after botched abortions. In 2017, Florida reported that 11 infants were born alive following an abortion, and six were born alive in 2018. Arizona reported that 10 fetuses or embryos were born alive after an abortion in 2017 and Minnesota reported that three babies were born alive following an abortion in 2017.

In addition, during the preliminary criminal hearing for Liberty Counsel's client Sandra Merritt, the undercover journalist who exposed Planned Parenthood's trade in baby body parts, an expert in stem cell research testified that various studies involving baby human hearts had to have been conducted while the hearts were still beating when cut out. In other words, the babies had to have been born alive.

Liberty Counsel Founder and Chairman Mat Staver said, "We applaud President Trump for once again protecting the lives of precious babies that have survived an abortion and are fighting for life. If this protection is not implemented, the abortionist simply backs away from the table and leaves the baby to suffer and die. We must continue the fight to make the womb a safe place once again in America."

Founded in 1989, Liberty Counsel is a 501(c)(3) non-profit litigation, education, and policy organization that advances religious freedom, the sanctity of human life, and the family.

Liberty Counsel is supported by tax-deductible donations and maintains offices in Central Florida, Virginia and Washington, D.C.

Liberty Counsel provides broadcast quality TV interviews via Hi-Def Skype and LTN at no cost. ★

YUBA COUNTY PET OF THE WEEK

CHEWBACCA

I am a Pit Bull mix and I am currently staying at Yuba County Animal Care Services, animal ID# A186144. I am ready to find my new home and I hope your home will be my perfect fit. What I recently discovered with my prev Photo by Chokniti Khongchum from Pexels ious mom and dad was that I want to be the only child with no human brothers or sisters. As for dog or cat siblings I don't know how I would react around them. How I envisioned my perfect home is just with one mom or dad or two parents and myself. I know sit, and like to play with chewy toys! I do need some minor training such as no jumping or pulling on the leash, but i am a smart boy and should learn quickly with proper guidance. If this sounds like you Please call and make an appointment to see me at 530-741-6478.

Forecasting Market Direction is the Holy Grail of Investing

Because the market is made up of hundreds of millions of trading investors at any given time, one would have to know the cumulative decisions of all of them and then know what effect that would have on a particular stock or index. Much like the impossibility of forecasting the twists and turns of a million flying Swallows, the best man can do is base his forecasting on what the markets have done in the past, which leads to the popular disclaimer "past market performance is no guaranteed of future results."

Although anything can happen in markets, knowing what usually happens in the front of big events may be helpful in preparing for major upsets or giddy upswings.

It is generally accepted that stocks and bonds can move opposite of each other. Bonds are simply IOU's for money borrowed.

The reason for the contrary movements in bonds versus stocks is because bond vehicles, whether they be individual issues or baskets (like a bond fund) can offer a fixed rate of return much like a savings account or C.D. Because investors buy these products for the fixed rate return, the price of bonds generally don't move as much as stocks do.

Bonds fall into the class of fixed income which also can include preferred stocks, mortgage products and other investments that pay a fixed interest rate. The mindset adopted by investors when purchasing bonds is widely acknowledged. Investors expect bonds and stocks to move contrary to each other. When markets are in rally mode, investors may shed bonds in favor of stocks, hoping stocks rise in price faster than the fixed rate fixed income investments offer. When markets fall, investor tend to sell stocks in favor of bonds.

This opposite movement of stocks and bonds is the reason investors and their advisors allocate a portion of portfolio funds to each. The percentages of how much to hold in each varies depending upon the investor and any mix of bonds and stocks is possible. The desired result may be partial protection no matter which way markets may turn.

Where problems can arise is, in my opinion, is when the markets sell off and continue to do so in a prolonged event. I visualize a series of events that may indicate there is more to the sell off than meets the eye. In other words, there are canaries in the coal mine of the markets if you know where to look.

For example, if the market sells off for a day or so, bonds might rise, exhibiting the desired offsetting effect on portfolio balances. Should the market continue to sell off however, the depressed mood of investors can start to bleed over to the fixed income market, meaning bonds and similar investments may stop rising, flat line, then even start to join the downward direction of the overall market.

When looking at market routs, I tend to watch the bond market as to investment sentiment. Often if stocks keep falling, investors may start to sell off bonds to raise cash for margin requirements, which is a credit line some investors use to buy more stocks than they have money for.

Additionally, since bonds are just IOU's from a borrower, falling markets can cause cash shortages, making the possibility of a bond default (the borrower is unable to pay the bond interest or principal) because money is being lost in the markets.

Although there are many events that can indicate increasing stress in financial markets and experienced analysts should know what to look for, novice investors and advisors might simply keep an eye on the fixed income markets of which bonds are a big part of.

Should they begin to reverse and follow the markets down, it may indicate more is afoot then just a normal and healthy correction.

Commentary by Lou Binninger

Most Californians learned about 'ballot harvesting' in 2018 after election night as conservatives were leading in a number of Southern California races. Then, at the last minute, boxes of ballots arrived to flip seats from red to blue. Conservative losers were suspicious. Libs said nothing to see here.

Now with all Californians getting a ballot by mail, voters are confused wondering where to vote, do all ballots have to be mailed, and will their ballot be discarded if sent by mail?

For decades, on absentee ballots there was a line on the envelope where a relative could be designated to take the ballot to the polls or the county clerk. Then liberal legislators changed the law so anyone could be authorized by the voter to deliver the completed ballot. However, the law was not strictly enforced and the person that the voter authorized on the ballot did not necessarily have to take the ballot in. Someone else could do so according to the latest liberal voter law revisions.

To complicate the process, there have been numerous incidents nationally of mail carriers discarding ballots, mainly from conservatives. Now, those voters are wary of using the postal service fearing that their ballot may be discarded. So, Republicans, churches and businesses are beginning to offer their facilities as ballot collection centers.

Last week, a pastor's wife in Murrieta, CA invited people on social media to bring their completed ballots to the church and then the church would take them to the county election's clerk. However, the police arrived to arrest the woman for breaking election law. Then, attorneys got involved to debate a flawed election process designed by democrats.

California Attorney General Xavier Becerra and Secretary of State Alex Padilla issued a Cease and Desist letter mandating that the Republican committees and others take down their ballot drop boxes. Then, attorney Thomas Hiltachk of Bell, Mc Andrews and Hiltachk wrote the two state officials known for deceiving voters to politely invite them to drop dead. (This is same firm suing Yuba County over its illegal Measure K sales tax law).

The liberals in their own VBM (Vote by Mail) words wrote, "These opportunities include in-person early voting, the option to vote-by-mail, and giving voters the power to decide who they most trust to return their vote-by-mail ballot for them if they choose."

Hiltachk informed Becerra / Padilla (B/P) that "The program you now falsely claim to be illegal is a perfect example of what you 'proudly' stated to be permissible just last year. In this case, voters have decided, for themselves, that they trust the staff and volunteers at their local political Party headquarters, or their church, or a business that they patronize, to securely deliver their VBM ballot to the appropriate election official."

Hiltachk explains to B/P that their threatening letter ignored AB 306, enacted by liberals in 2018, which eliminated the requirement for a relative taking the ballot by saying "a ballot shall not be disqualified solely because the person authorized to return it did not provide on the identification envelope his or her name, relationship to the voter, or signature."

Hiltachk tells B/P that it is "legal for any organization, or other person, to accept completed VBM ballots from any voter, whether it is at a local Party headquarters, a church, or a union hall, or a voter's doorstep. Indeed, there is no requirement that the voter affix the name of the person to whom he or she has entrusted to deliver the VBM on the actual envelope or even know his or her name."

Hiltachk reminds B/P that Republicans were never in favor of 'ballot harvesting' and it was the liberals who created the broken system with few checks to prevent voter fraud. Hiltachk has stopped the B/P Cease and Desist double-talk at this point

Misusing Taxpayers' Money for Campaigns

By Dan Walters CALMatters

California voters are not only voting on presidential, congressional, legislative and local government offices and a dozen statewide ballot measures but deciding the fate of 234 local tax and bond measures.

The California Taxpayers Association estimates that if passed, the local tax measures would raise about $1.5 billion a year in new revenues. The proposed bond issues, mostly for schools, total nearly $15 billion and their passage would automatically trigger increases in property taxes to repay lenders.

These are hefty financial stakes and the local officials that placed measures on the ballot have reason to worry about their passage. Voters rejected 62% of the 239 local measures on the March 3 primary ballot — and that was before the COVID-19 pandemic struck home, the state's economy plummeted and more than two million jobs were erased.

The recession that's still raging is a two-edged sword for local government and school officials. It has cut their tax revenues sharply and also tends to make voters even more leery about paying higher taxes.

City council members, county supervisors and school trustees are tempted, in their zeal to persuade voters to vote for new taxes and bonds, to violate a state law prohibiting them from using taxpayer funds for campaign purposes.

Government Code Section 54964 forthrightly declares, "An officer, employee, or consultant of a local agency may not expend or authorize the expenditure of any of the funds of the local agency to support or oppose the approval or rejection of a ballot measure, or the election or defeat of a candidate, by the voters."

In fact, such violations have become commonplace in recent years. Under the guise of providing "information," local officials routinely hire campaign management firms to design advertisements, mailers and other material aimed at persuading voters to pass the proposed taxes and bonds.

They have done so because they know that state and local prosecutors just as routinely refuse to prosecute violations of Section 54964 by their fellow officeholders.

The only investigative agency to interest itself in such violations is the California Fair Political Practices Commission and while the FPPC lacks authority to enforce Section 54964, it can treat agencies that step over the line dividing information from advocacy as campaign contributors.

Recently, for example, the FPPC targeted the County of Los Angeles, which in 2017 spent a million dollars for an ill-disguised, but successful, campaign to pass Measure H, a quarter-cent increase in the sales tax. The campaign included broadcast commercials in English and Spanish that used the slogan "Real Help. Lasting Change."

County officials, without admitting liability, agreed to pay the FPPC a $1.35 million penalty for failing to report their spending as a campaign contribution. However, that pales in comparison to the estimated $355 million a year that Measure H's passage will generate.

Last week, the FPPC invited the public to use its "AdWATCH" program to monitor the materials local officials are using to promote their tax and bond measures and upload questionable items to the agency for examination and perhaps investigation.

"The public can play a vital role in helping our enforcement division in making sure campaigns and public agencies are following the rules and ensuring a level playing field," FPPC Chair Richard C. Miadich said in a statement.

The FPPC's efforts are welcome, despite being an indirect and relatively weak way of discouraging improper use of taxpayer funds for campaigns, but it's likely to be the only way as long as prosecutors refuse to enforce the law.

Plumas National Forest Extends Free Personal-use Fuelwood Permit Program

By Lee Anne Schramel, U.S. Forest Service

QUINCY, CA. (MPG) - The free personal-use fuelwood (firewood) permit program on the Plumas National Forest (PNF) will be continued through December 31, 2020. Additionally, permits previously issued with an expiration date of September 30, 2020, will be honored until December 31, 2020.

Wood cutters are required to have a PNF "hard copy" personal fuelwood permit (includes tags) in their possession and to follow regulations associated with that permit.

Personal fuelwood permits may be requested by email, mail, or phone; a permit, including regulations, woodcutting area map, and tags, will be mailed to you after your payment is processed.

Email: Download the Fuelwood Permit Request Form from the PNF website, fill it out, and email (put Firewood Permit in subject line) it back to SM.FS.PNFFSProd@usda.gov . This is the fastest option.

Mail: Download the Fuelwood Permit Request Form from the PNF website, fill it out, and mail to the Plumas National Forest at 159 Lawrence Street, Quincy, CA 95971.

Phone: Call 1-530-927-9276 (leave a message with your name and phone number) if we don't answer. We will contact you, fill out the form for you, and then email it to the Forest Products inbox for processing.

Once we receive your request, your permit package will be processed. It may take one to two weeks to obtain a permit, depending on your request option; please plan accordingly.

These permits are only valid on Plumas National Forest lands open to fuelwood gathering. You may obtain permits for up to 12 cords of firewood for personal use per year. A cord is the amount of tightly piled wood in a stack four feet high by four feet wide by eight feet long. Firewood permits obtained this year are valid through the end of December 2020.

As a reminder, commercial fuelwood is not part of the free permit program, and commercial permits must be purchased. Commercial-use fuel/firewood permits and tags are required when the fuel/firewood collector (cutter) intends to sell, trade or exchange fuel/firewood.

Regulations for commercial-use fuel/firewood and personal-use fuelwood can be found at the Plumas National Forest Website at: <https://www.fs.usda.gov/detail/plumas/passes-permits/?cid=stelprdb5422456>. Green trees may not be cut under either program.

Woodcutting is currently allowed within the Plumas National Forest (public land) if the daily fire activity levels permit. To determine if woodcutting is permitted on a given day, call (800) 847-7766 prior to cutting wood. A recorded message will notify you if the next day is hoot-owl (no cutting after 1 pm), open all day (no restrictions), or no woodcutting allowed that day. Note: call before 4:30 pm on the day you plan to cut as the message is updated for the following day at about that time.

Visit us at <https://www.fs.usda.gov/plumas> or www.facebook.com/usfsplumas for other information about the Plumas National Forest. ★

America's Frontline Doctors Censored by Big Tech

Commentary
by Harold Pease, Ph.D.

At least a dozen medical doctors from all over America assembled in front of the Supreme Court July 27 to counter the only message going forward allowed the American people with respect to the coronavirus. Many had already experienced the removal of their messages on Google, which owns 70% of most American media outside Fox News, including FaceBook, and YouTube (Tucker Carlson Tonight, June 16, 2020).

Outside their COVID expertise they had one thing in common that made their contribution superior to those of Anthony Fauci (a vaccine-ologist), the CDC and WHO, they are the actual physicians of those with COVID-19. They also each had come independently to the conclusion that the 65-year-old drug hydroxychloroquine used so successfully in COVID-1 previously, also worked extremely well with its cousin COVID-19 “it's 78% similar to the prior version the COVID-1. Not surprisingly, it works.”

These frontline doctors were seasoned physicians in the trenches with the virus. All knew that consequences against their speaking out would likely follow. All knew that what they had to share would be nuked by every media piping the approved media message – be afraid, stay afraid. All knew that what they would tell the American public would be opposite what most Americans were getting on establishment networks, but all were committed to tell the truth. All probably also knew that if they did not speak out now freedom of the press might be gone. If the medical profession could be silenced all other interests challenging the left side of the political spectrum could never survive. Doctors are among the most revered and least political part of our society.

They reasoned that with their combined story they might get through the wall of censorship already in place. They were wrong!! Google, Facebook, YouTube and Twitter de-platformed them within hours the same day but fortunately not before 17 million heard what they had to say. The establishment print press went after them immediately. It was difficult to find any press, outside Fox News, that did not undermine everything they said, our media is so controlled. It remains that none of the journalists, or fact checkers in these countering pieces were themselves physicians. They know nothing in comparison.

Here are some of the messages Google, Facebook, YouTube and Twitter refused to allow Americans to hear. This is every bit as big a censoring as burning books in the Middle Ages.

Dr. Simone Gold spoke of two phases of the virus, early and late, both treatable with present drugs. But physicians are confronted with a generated “spider web of fear...all around us and it's constricting us” and “draining the lifeblood of the American people,” society and economy that “does not make sense.” The virus is “treatable” now. “That's what we're here to tell you.” “But we implore you to hear this, because this message has been silenced.” “There are many thousands of physicians who have been silenced from telling the American people ... that we can manage the virus.” Why? Because “it's 78% similar to the prior version the COVID-1” successfully treated with hydroxychloroquine. “Not surprisingly, it works.”

Dr Bob Hamilton, a pediatrician from Santa Monica, California practicing for 36 years, told reporters that kids are almost entirely asymptomatic and can go back to school now, implying without social distancing or masking. “The mortality rates of children is about one fifth of 1%.” Kids are “not passing it on to their parents or not passing it on to their teachers.” He quoted a pediatric infectious disease specialist and epidemiologists from Scotland, Dr. Mark who said, “There has not been one documented case of COVID being transferred from a student to a teacher in the world, in the world.” Dr. Hamilton continued, “We need to act out of science,” not out of a generated fear. A fear respecting opening up the schools is driven mostly by the wants of teachers’ unions not the needs of the kids.

Dr Stella Emanuel, who works especially with compromised COVID patients as old as 92 with serious medical conditions: diabetes, high blood pressure and asthma told reporters, that “patients do not need to die.” None of hers has and she has treated over 350 back to health. “I put them on hydroxychloroquine, zinc and Zithromax,” she told reporters, and I’ve “not lost one.” She also placed herself and staff on hydroxychloroquine as a prophylaxis as “we see patients, 10 to 15 patients every day...we only wear surgical masks, none of us has gotten sick. It works.” Adding, “Nobody needs to die.” Implicit in this comment and voiced by other physicians is that most of those who died could have been spared if treated with hydroxychloroquine in phase one as a prophylactic, and in phase two with the other two drugs.

And why does hydroxychloroquine work so well? Dr. Cole explained, “It concentrates in the lungs 200 to 700 times higher” than the bloodstream. The invading virus heads for the lungs but is blocked by the drug chloroquine from getting in. That is why the drug is so effective as a prophylactic. Should it get in it seeks to replicate. The addition of “Zinc will mess up the copy machine called RdRP.”

Dr Stella Emanuel summed up why the frontline doctors were there. “I came here to Washington DC, to tell America. Nobody needs to get sick. This virus has a cure. It is called hydroxychloroquine, zinc, and Zithromax... You don't need masks, or shutdowns, there is a cure.” Then adding, “It is time for the grassroots to wake up and say no, we're not going to take this any longer. We're not going to die.” “When people are dying, it's unethical.” We know how to treat this virus. We do it every day.

New Voter Challenge Brings Fun to Mail-in and Absentee Voting

Erica Nataren, Voterade Challenge

LOS ANGELES, CA (MPG) - In a time of pandemic and national turmoil, many Americans feel anxiety over the upcoming general election. Will they be able to vote safely? If they are receiving a ballot by mail, can they depend on the USPS to return it in time?

In a new grass-roots effort, a small team came up with a new idea, and quickly brought it to life: the #VoteradeChallenge. Registered voters who are voting by mail can plan a Voterade – a trip to their county elections office or nearby dropoff location – with patriotic clothing and décor encouraged. As “Voteraders” submit their ballots, they can add a #DropoffDance or #BallotBump, then upload a picture or video to their favorite social media platform and tag 5 friends to a #VoteradeChallenge of their own.

“My friend Bob Globerman initially asked the question, how can we make it fun for voters to fill out their ballots at home and drop them off in person?” asked Stacy Stern, one of the project founders. “I shared this conversation with Erica Nataren, who was introduced to me by a mutual friend, and we landed on the #VoteradeChallenge idea. The three of us met and decided to launch the project, and Erica went to work creating the website.”

The new site, <https://www.VoteradeChallenge.com>, gives voters all the info they need to plan their own #VoteradeChallenge.

“A couple of things were really important to us,” explains Nataren. “First, while we do have our own political opinions, we wanted this to be a 100% non-partisan effort so that everyone feels comfortable sharing and participating.”

“We also wanted it to be something that individuals can do on their own or virtually. We want to encourage participation with neighbors, but sometimes a solo trip is just easier.”

This year, when Americans are sharply divided, all three hope to offer something everyone can agree on: that voting can and should be something to look forward to doing – together. ★

Proposition 16 Promotes Racial Discrimination

Commentary by Bill Bird, Parents and Students for Racial Equality

Parents and Students for Racial Equality in California is opposing a measure that would result in legal racial discrimination in California. Proposition 16, an initiative on this November's ballot, threatens to introduce institutionalized and legal race-based admissions in our public universities, as well as contracting and hiring policies in all California government settings.

“Although recent polling shows that this measure is struggling to gain traction with California voters, organizations opposed to racial discrimination must remain vigilant,” said organization spokesman and former California State Senate Minority Leader Bob Huff. “Proposition 16 represents a step backwards to the darkest days of this country, when racial discrimination was openly tolerated and encouraged. This is contrary to the fundamental principles upon which this nation was built and for which so many fought to secure. The Declaration of Independence tells us all men are created equal. Proposition 16 tells us that some are more equal and deserving than others.”

Proposition 16 would allow supporters to impose across the board, racial guidelines for all California public school and public university admissions and settings. It would also allow schools, colleges and other government agencies to discriminate in employment, promotions and contracting. The measure seeks to overturn Proposition 209, which appeared on the November 1996 ballot and passed with a strong 54 percent majority in support. Proposition 209 amended the state constitution to prohibit state government institutions from considering race, sex, or ethnicity, specifically in the areas of public employment, public contracting or public education.

Recent polling conducted by the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC) revealed that barely one-third of the state's voters appear to support the idea of racial discrimination. Nearly half are opposed to the proposal and some remain unopposed. A second poll conducted by the Berkeley Institute of Governmental Studies divulged nearly identical findings.

“No person in California should ever be told that they cannot be admitted to a university or not awarded a job or contract because they are the wrong color or sex,” said Huff. “Discriminating on the basis of race, color, sex or religion represents the darkest part of California's history. Measures like Proposition 16 only serve to divide our state at a time when everyone is needed to work together to heal wounds and create a brighter future.”

Parents and Students for Racial Equality is an organization that fights for the rights of all California citizens, regardless of race or color, and believes that government must judge all people equally, without discrimination. ★
