MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - The endless popularity of dinosaurs has only increased over the decades thanks to film franchises like "Godzilla" and "Jurassic Park" and all the related spin offs and variations. Dinosaurs feed the imagination and provide fodder for those looking for anything from pure fantasy to those inclined more towards the actual paleontology and even zoology about the various species.

Yuba Sutter Arts & Culture was recently presented with a unique opportunity thanks to someone fairly new to Yuba-Sutter, "art-trepreneur," Chris Bolton. Chris has an extensive background in electronics and robotics and is the kind of guy who was building his own computers back before you could just order an off the shelf housing and components and bolt it all together. Chris was looking for a home for his collection of half-life-size animatronic dinosaurs. He met with YSAC about a space to refurbish them and possibly set up workshops to teach modeling, sculpting and robotics and the result was the formation of

"The Dinosaur Factory" in Yuba City.

Chris is a self-described "Jekyll and Hyde" to explain his artistic, creative side in contrast to his electronics and IT business side. These two skill sets seem to co-exist somewhat compatibly for Chris although he admits to being partial to the creative side of what he does. He needed a workspace and Yuba Sutter Arts & Culture had just opened Kalakara Art Studios. Chris looks at the project as a form of Career Technical Education which is an important option for students in the area. As funding becomes available through grants or sponsorships, the plan is to create a menagerie of dinosaurs that can be used for events and festivals for edu-tainment purposes and endless selfie opportunities.

"I first got into the dinosaur business in the late 80s in Los Angeles when I teamed up with a bunch of guys who wanted to build animated museum exhibits, so we formed 'Dynamation'," he said. "We didn't make any money, but some of the team like Jose Fernandez of Ironhead Studio, went on to great careers in the

Board of Supervisors Approves COVID-19 Business Relief Grant

By Rachel Rosenbaum,
Yuba County

YUBA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Local businesses affected by the COVID-19 pandemic may be eligible for up to $15,000 in grant assistance, under a program unanimously approved Tuesday by the Yuba County Board of Supervisors.

Qualifying businesses can use the grant funds to alleviate specific hardships resulting from the pandemic. The funds – part of a $500,000 relief grant program – can be used to cover day-to-day operating expenses such as payroll, rent/mortgage, utilities, equipment, inventory or supplies, replacement of lost revenue since March 13, establishment or expansion of operations to comply with the State order, and more.

"We are proud to be able to offer this relief to local businesses that have weathered the last five months with resiliency, innovation, and cooperation to keep their community safe," Yuba County Administrator Kevin Mallen said.

The program, called the Small Business Economic Resiliency Grant, receives its funding from the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act. Applications for the grant will be accepted beginning this Friday, Aug. 14, at 10 a.m. and continue until Aug. 28 at 3 p.m. or until funds have been exhausted.

Complete information about the grant program is available online by going to www.yuba.org/coronavirus and clicking on the "Toolkit for Businesses" button. Businesses can find the application on the Yuba-Sutter Economic Development Corporation website ysedc.org when the application period opens this Friday.

"Our local businesses are the backbone of the economy, and any relief we can offer will help our community as a whole," Yuba County Board of Supervisors Chair Doug Lofton said. ★

News Outlook

By Josh F.W. Cook

I always try to be upbeat and positive when I write these columns. It's my way of making the world a little bit happier and better during a period of incredible historic media-driven negativity. So it is with great chagrin that I take to the keyboard to complain about something that is a source of irritation. Yet, I thought it would be more cathartic to get it off my chest in a public way, hoping that people who are in charge of the retail checkout process read this column and make necessary changes. When I am hyperventilating from wearing a mask, slathered in alcohol hand sanitizer, trying to stay 6 feet away from people, I do not want to have the point of purchase card reading machine ask me 20 questions. I don't even want to enter my PIN number, let alone join a frequent shopper club, or donate to a good cause or anything else that keeps me another minute in a store that they have convinced me is so dangerous I have to wear a ventilator, or I might die. The two messages run contrary to each - you cannot convince people it is a potentially near-death experience to shop and then hold them up at check out playing 20 marketing questions. Those of you in the retail business should be wary. Many many companies are going bankrupt in this time of economic adjustment we are having. I'll offer you some free advice - don't ever get in the way of people giving you money and taking your stuff. It is the heart of the retail shopping experience. Also, just one more ... don't use hand sanitizer that smells like cheap Tequila, that smell trapped in a mask is overwhelming. Please use Purell brand; it is the Cadillac of hand sanitizers.

I was once asked to not talk about politics or religion at a dinner party I was preparing to attend... so I just didn't go. I love hearing and telling exciting stories, and religion and politics are always that. Consequently, I followed with great interest the story of the Catholic Diocese of Sacramento this week as they had to excommunicate an errant priest. He continues to celebrate the Catholic Mass of the Holy Sacrament, recognizing the former German Pope Emeritus instead of the current South American Pope. This priest has been asked on multiple occasions to stop officiating under the wrong Pope, but he believes the new Pope (Francis) is not the right Pope. So he Masses with the masses while expressing filty to Emeritus Pope (Benedict). People, in general, are uncomfortable with change. Religious people usually enjoy a tremendous life change, and then they seek stability and continuity, so this attachment to the previous Pope is not without historical precedent. Among the various denominations, there seems to be a pattern in which one wing of the church does not want to go the new direction, and splinters occur. There is a unifying faith principle which applies to Catholics, most Protestants, and The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints people, and it is this: The Bishop is most respected, loved, admired, revered, and beloved officer in the Church, and he/she occupies one of best - yet worst jobs in the Church. I feel sorry for Bishop Soto, he is a wise, kind, loving, smart, and all-around effective Priest, and I can confidently say the guy gets no joy in excommunicating anyone (especially in a global Catholic priest shortage). The major Sacramento newspaper ran with the story and outlined that the Bishop had sent a letter, and then another note, and another, hoping to reconcile - all to no avail. In the middle of everything else, he had to clean up a schism. So join me in making an effort to love your local church leader, recognizing that we are in a time of incredible need in all of our communities - at a time when the church finances are in free fall. It may be a good time to donate a little extra to the cause of your people, whichever people you align with.

Dahle, Gallagher Building Local Control Coalition

By Curtis Grima,
Office of Assemblyman
James Gallagher

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Assemblywoman Megan Dahle (R-Bieber) and Assemblyman James Gallagher (R-Yuba City) are spearheading a new effort to reinstate local control over COVID-19 closures and prevention measures. The Assemblymembers are working to create a unified voice of local elected officials in Northern California via a letter currently in circulation.

In part the coalition's letter to the Governor reads:

We write to you as a unified coalition of elected representatives from Northern California committed to advancing the health and safety of our communities through scientific, data-driven public health strategies to mitigate the spread of COVID-19. We appreciate your past flexibility in allowing regional and local governance based upon local conditions. It is in this spirit that we ask the state to reinstitute this approach and allow regional variance in implementing business closures and prohibitions on certain activities.

"If you agree that the Governor's arbitrary one-size-fits-all mandates are unjust, we urge you to contact your local elected officials and urge them to sign this letter and join the coalition. The North State must band together and send a message that cannot be ignored in Sacramento," said Dahle and Gallagher.

To date, more than 50 County Supervisors City Councilmembers from Northern California have agreed to sign onto the letter.

Assemblyman James Gallagher represents the 3rd Assembly District, which encompasses all of Glenn, Sutter, Tehama and Yuba counties as well as portions of Butte and Colusa counties.

Assemblywoman Megan Dahle represents the 1st Assembly District, which includes portions of Butte and Placer counties, along with Lassen, Modoc, Nevada, Plumas, Shasta, Sierra, and Siskiyou counties.

Governor Must Do Better to Serve the Unemployed

By Nghia Nguyen,
Office of Senator
Jim Nielsen

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - With over half of all adults in California reporting lost income since March and a 17% unemployment rate across the state, Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Tehama) joined over 60 lawmakers to demand the Employment Development Department (EDD) to do better to serve Californians.

"The first and last priority of all government workers is to serve," said

Senator Nielsen. "EDD is failing at its job. There are no excuses for not serving Californians who lost their jobs to no fault of their own, who have depleted their life savings, gone into extreme debt and are filled with anxiety each, and every day."

"Governor Newsom's administration must do better and expedite these funds to desperate Californians."

Since the pandemic, Senator Nielsen's office has resolved over 375 EDD cases, with 136 outstanding. These numbers reflect those who have contacted Senator Nielsen's office. Statewide, 1.13 million Californians are still waiting on benefits.

Elected to the State Senate in January 2013, Senator Nielsen represents the Fourth Senate District, which includes the counties of Butte, Colusa, Glenn, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, Tehama and Yuba. To contact Senator Jim Nielsen, please call him at 916-651-4004, or via email at senator.nielsen@senate.ca.gov. ★

Governor's Minimum Wage Decision a Case of Continuing Amnesia

National Federation of Independent Business

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The state's leading small-business association minced no words in slamming Gov. Gavin Newsom's announcement that he would not use his authority to suspend a scheduled Jan. 1, 2021 increase in the state's minimum-wage rate.

"It has to be asked if the governor even cares about small business," said John Kabateck, California state director for NFIB. "Small businesses in California are dying, so what is the Golden State doing to stanch the flow of the carnage? It hits them with increased costs in paid family leave programs, increased workers' compensation premiums via rebuttable presumption, zero fixes to a deeply flawed independent contractor law, and now a scheduled increase in minimum wages. We have an official economic policy in California, and it's to completely annihilate small businesses."

Everything the governor and Legislature have done has been for the employee and nothing for the people who have to bring in the money to pay the employee, according to Kabateck. "It's as if they are expecting the COVID-19 crisis to vanish tomorrow," he said. "As someone whose job it is to support the opening and sustaining of small businesses, I never thought I'd be advising small-business owners to do neither. You don't have your state government in your corner."

Keep up with the latest on California small-business at www.nfib.com/california

For more than 77 years, NFIB has been advocating on behalf of America's small and independent business owners, both in Washington, D.C., and in all 50 state capitals. NFIB is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, and member-driven association. Since its founding in 1943, NFIB has been exclusively dedicated to small and independent businesses and remains so today. Truck Rolls Over After Collision with Stolen Vehicle

Yuba City Police Department

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - On August 1, 2020 at approximately 3:52 am, a Yuba City Police Officer driving a patrol vehicle equipped with a LoJack alert system received an alert of a stolen vehicle in the vicinity of Shasta St. and Bridge St. LoJack is a stolen vehicle recovery system which can be installed on a vehicle as an aftermarket product. The LoJack device will emit a signal when the vehicle is reported as stolen to law enforcement. Law enforcement vehicles equipped with a LoJack alert system will receive a signal of a stolen vehicle, be provided a full description of the stolen vehicle and direct officers to the general area of the stolen vehicle.

A second Yuba City Police officer was in the area of Clark Ave., and Forbes Ave., driving toward the first officer when he passed a tan, 2015 Toyota Camry at the intersection of Clark Ave. and Forbes Ave. This vehicle matched the description of the stolen vehicle, which had been reported stolen earlier to the California Highway Patrol out of the Yuba County area. The driver of the stolen vehicle immediately accelerated and attempted to flee the area after passing the officer in the intersection. The officer made a U-turn on Forbes Ave in order to catch up with the suspected stolen vehicle and conduct an enforcement stop. The stolen vehicle was last seen making a turn onto northbound Stafford Ave., from Forbes Ave. Once the officer reached the intersection of Forbes Ave., and Stafford Ave., the stolen vehicle was still traveling north on Stafford Ave., near Bandy Wy., at a high rate of speed.

The stolen vehicle was observed failing to stop for the stop sign at Stafford Ave., and Colusa Ave., and continuing north through the intersection.

When the stolen vehicle was traveling through the intersection of Colusa Ave., it struck a Toyota Tundra which was traveling east on Colusa Ave., causing the Tundra to roll over in the middle of the intersection. The stolen vehicle then struck a second vehicle, a white sedan which was traveling west on Colusa Ave., causing the sedan to spin and end up facing east bound in the west bound lanes of Colusa Ave.

The driver of the sedan was not injured. The driver of the Toyota Tundra received serious injuries and is being treated at UC Davis Medical Center in Sacramento. The three juvenile occupants of the stolen vehicle also received serious injuries and are being treated at UC Davis Medical Center. Due to the suspects' ages, their identities are not being released. The victim's information is also being withheld at this point due to the continued investigation.

The Yuba City Police Traffic Division was called out to the scene and is continuing an investigation into this incident. Criminal charges are pending upon the conclusion of the investigation. Based on security camera footage obtained from surrounding businesses, there was a fourth vehicle at the intersection at the time of the collision which was uninvolved. The Yuba City Police Traffic Division is asking for the driver of this uninvolved vehicle to contact them at (530) 822-4795 in regards to what they witnessed. Any other witnesses of this incident are also encouraged to contact the Traffic Division. ★

Butte County Sheriff's Office Investigating Berry Creek Homicide

Butte County Sheriff's Office Press Release

BERRY CREEK, CA (MPG) - On August 6, 2020, at 2:01 p.m., the Butte County Sheriff's Office (BCSO) received a 911 call from an individual who reported a dispute on Spence Way, Berry Creek. During the 911 call the individual reported a male, later identified as Scott Halliburton of Berry Creek, 40, had been shot. Deputies and detectives arrived and located Halliburton near the driveway of a residence. Deputies immediately began applying first aid to Halliburton. Deputies eventually determined Halliburton was deceased.

While deputies were providing first aid to Halliburton, deputies and detectives began interviewing witnesses. Witnesses identified the individual who shot Halliburton as Matthew Pia of Berry Creek, 51. One witness told detectives Pia returned to his neighboring property on Spence Way after the shooting and committed suicide. Deputies and detectives immediately responded to the property to check on Pia. Deputies and detectives located Pia on the property. Deputies and detectives determined Pia was deceased as a result of a gunshot wound.

Detectives obtained a search warrant for Halliburton and Pia's properties, which are both located on Spence Way. After obtaining the search warrant, detectives from the Felony Investigations Unit, the Butte Interagency Narcotics Task Force, the Butte County Sheriff's Office Special Enforcement Unit, Designated Area Deputies, and the California Department of Justice processed the crime scenes and searched the properties. During the search numerous evidence items were located to include video surveillance, large quantities of marijuana, firearms, and a butane honey oil manufacturing lab.

Based on video surveillance and witness statements, detectives determined Halliburton and Pia were involved in a dispute over a property line. The dispute escalated and Halliburton and Pia both shot at each other. Halliburton died as a result of a gunshot wound sustained during the shooting. Pia returned to his property, where he died as the result of a gunshot wound. This investigation is ongoing. Detectives are in the process of interviewing witnesses and reviewing surveillance. The Sheriff's Office is asking anyone with additional information to contact Detectives Tristan Harper or Vaj Thao at 530-538-7671. ★

Kirchner’s top priorities will be to help our small businesses stay alive and to maintain public safety by trimming the City budget of non-essential items.

Kirchner spent 20 years as a Sales Manager in the private sector and the past 14 years teaching in the Yuba City Unified School District. He holds a Bachelor’s degree and a teaching credential.

Service runs in his

Another Version of ‘Ethnic Studies’

By Dan Walters, Cal Matters

A year ago, the California Department of Education released a draft of guidelines for implementing “ethnic studies” in public high schools.

It unleashed a torrent of controversy – for good reason.

The 303-page document was ersatz Marxist agitprop that, if adopted, would have drummed into young minds the notion that in America, anyone not a white male is virtually enslaved.

“At its core,” the draft declared, “the field of ethnic studies is the interdisciplinary study of race, ethnicity, and indigeneity with an emphasis on experiences of people of color in the United States,” adding, “The field critically grapples with the various power structures and forms of oppression, including, but not limited to, white supremacy, race and racism, sexism, classism, homophobia, islamophobia, transphobia, and xenophobia, that continue to impact the social, emotional, cultural, economic, and political experiences of Native People(s) and people of color.”

In critiquing “systems of power,” it advised, “These are structures that have the capacity to control circumstances within economic, political, and/or social-cultural contexts. These systems are often controlled by those in power and go on to determine how society is organized and functions,” adding, “some examples of systems of power are: white supremacy, capitalism, and patriarchy.”

Get a veteran journalist’s take on what’s going on in California with a weekly round-up of Dan’s column every Friday.

Some of most pointed criticism came from Jewish legislators who said in a letter, “we cannot support a curriculum that erases the American Jewish experience, fails to discuss anti-semitism, reinforces negative stereotypes about Jews, singles out Israel for criticism and would institutionalize the teaching of anti-semitic stereotypes in our public schools.”

Hurriedly, state education officials, including Superintendent Tony Thurmond, promised a makeover. The new version is definitely toned down – less a call for social revolution and more a conventional academic outline.

There’s some irony in that transformation. The new draft was released as the fundamental change advocated in the first version was gaining currency in response to the suffocation death of a Black man, George Floyd, with the knee of a Minneapolis policeman on his neck.

Nevertheless, the new draft still contains echoes of the previous proposal, to wit:

“Ethnic studies should help students become more engaged locally and develop into effective civic participants and stronger social justice advocates, better able to contribute to constructive social change. It can also help students connect current resistance movements to those of the past, and to imagine new possibilities for a true democracy.”

There’s another bit of irony in the declaration that ethnic studies “can help students learn to present their ideas in strong, compelling, jargon-free language.”

The draft itself is loaded with undecipherable jargon, such as saying ethnic studies help students “conceptualize, imagine, and build new possibilities for post-imperial life that promotes collective narratives of transformative resistance, critical hope, and radical healing.” Can anyone translate that?

When the Legislature required an ethnic studies curriculum to be created, its expressed rationale was that since Californians are a complex matrix of ethnicities and cultures, students should become more aware of who we are and how we got here.

No argument there. And there’s absolutely nothing wrong with taking a warts-and-all approach, including slavery, genocidal treatment of native peoples and immigration patterns. Facts are facts and we shouldn’t shy away from them.

But ideological indoctrination, which the first draft clearly embraced and still colors the second, is not knowledge. The histories of America and California are not only tales of conflict, including a very bloody civil war, but also narratives of overcoming adversity and achievement, and well-balanced ethnic studies should include them as well.

The Legislature is weighing whether to make ethnic studies mandatory. If so, we’d better get it right.

Educational Choice is Essential

Commentary by Assemblywoman Megan Dahle

As school districts in Los Angeles and San Diego have announced their continued closure through the coming fall semester, I am one of many concerned parents that fear this trend could spread statewide. The communities I represent in the First Assembly District overwhelmingly depend on schools to provide meals, care, and a safe place for our children, and our region is not alone in this. What’s more concerning is that the arguments driving the school closure debate are focused more on politics than actual science and what’s in the best interest of students. As such, it has never been more important for educational options to abound for parents.

For many students in the North State the reality is that the local public school is their only option. Our students have some of the highest Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) scores in the state. In eight of the nine counties I represent, the number of students that qualify for free and reduced-price meals at school ranges between 50 and 70 percent of all students, and they live in frontier areas. There are no daycare facilities, and access to broadband is spotty for some, and nonexistent for most. The local public school is the life source for these students, and our communities cannot afford to do without them through the coming fall semester.

Furthermore, CDC data seems to demonstrate the risk of reopening schools is worth the reward of preventing learning loss, as children under the age of 18 are far less likely to contract the virus and fatality rates are extremely low. Even fears that kids will transfer the virus to adults are starting to be dispelled based on preliminary research from reopened schools across Europe. Despite these facts, teachers’ unions like UTLA have succeeded in strong-arming some districts into closures with politically motivated demands like banning charter schools. This is entirely contrary to what the state ought to be doing, which is expanding educational choice for parents.

If the option of returning to public school is going to be held hostage by teachers’ unions across the state, parents need viable alternatives like charter schools. Many have been incredibly successful in transitioning to distance learning and combining blended learning models that parents are desperate for. As a result of the flexibility they offer, many charters have seen especially high numbers of new applicants in the months immediately following Newsom’s March 19th stay at home order. But slots have been increasingly limited due to years of Democrat policies systematically restricting parental choice. ★

Some of the most recent examples of this include:

- AB 1505 (2019) gave further power to school districts to deny charter applications and enacted a temporary moratorium on non classroom-based charters.

- AB 1507 (2019) added arbitrary location restrictions that limit where charter schools can operate.

- SB 98 (2020) enacted hold harmless provisions that cap K-12 average daily attendance (ADA) at 2019-20 levels, unfairly punishing schools that have operated successful programs and attracted new students during COVID-19, many of which will be charter schools.

Governor Newsom has approved each of these bills that edge charters further out of the picture, and with them, many viable options for students. Now, with a pandemic on his hands, widespread public school closures, and parents becoming desperate for educational choice, it appears the chickens have come home to roost.

Now is the time for the state to correct its course. Any decisions regarding the reopening of schools this fall should be regional, taking into account that not all communities have been affected the same by the pandemic. It should not be up to the political whims of teachers’ unions to decide if public schools should open in the fall, but rather local leaders in concert with community stakeholders. Charters should receive equitable funding on par with public schools and be promoted as the viable option that they are. Whether parents feel comfortable sending their kids back to school or not, they deserve options. ★

Kool-Aid Any Good?

Commentary by Lou Binninger

A friend posed a question on social media regarding the Corona Virus 'psyop' - "Tell me again how good that Kool Aid is?" above which she posted the ailments from the World Health Organization that kill people. Comparatively, Corona is a 'Nothing Burger,' but few people have the 'Spaldings' to say so, fearing they will be publicly shamed.

Of course, the cheap flavored sugar and water, the go-to beverage of the 1950's, was made famous in the phrase "Drinking the Kool-Aid." This referred to 'blind followership' at its extreme.

The phrase became famous after a delusional pseudo-guru named Jim Jones led his cult, San Francisco's Peoples Temple, to a mass suicide in 1978. More than 900 people, including 304 children, killed themselves by drinking a grape-flavored beverage laced with cyanide after an exodus to Jonestown, Guyana.

'Blind followership' is a social phenomenon with which the majority of any population can be afflicted. The examples from the graveyard of totalitarian movements are abundant, Nazi Germany, Emperor-led Japan, Soviet Union, China, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, North Korea, Cuba, Venezuela, and various African nations. Hundreds of millions of adults and children have been exterminated with surviving generations suffering from extreme poverty, mind-control and enforced compliance under police states.

The reasons for cult-like followership are many. Victims can't think for themselves due to indoctrination. They are full of fear and avoid risk at all costs.

Americans today are controlled by their stuff, money, status and ego. They will suffer nearly any wrong to not lose their comfort and ease.

They are easily bullied by those that now rule over them. Americans have been dumbed down by the state school system and the mainstream media. They have little spiritual and intellectual muscle to resist.

The people's elected representatives are no help, being comprised primarily of the self-indulged, swindlers and sexual perverts. Those few with integrity often lack courage to act. These officials would not have been considered worthy to serve even without pay by our Founding Fathers. Those who believed in evolution rather than a Creator were even thought to be of unsound mind.

Danish author Hans Christian Andersen, wrote a folktale, "The Emperor's New Clothes" about a vain emperor who is exposed before his subjects.

Two swindlers arrive in the city of an emperor who spends lavishly on clothing at the expense of state matters. Posing as weavers, they offer to supply him with magnificent clothes that are invisible to those who are stupid or incompetent. The emperor hires them, and they set up looms and go to work.

A succession of officials, and then the emperor himself, visit them to check their progress. Each sees that the looms are empty but pretends otherwise to avoid being thought a fool. Finally, the weavers report that the emperor's suit is complete.

They mime dressing him and he sets off in a procession before the whole city. The townsfolk uncomfortably go along with the pretense not wanting to appear inept or stupid until an honest clear-speaking child blurts out that the emperor is wearing nothing at all. The people then realize that everyone has been played for a fool. Although startled, the emperor continues the procession, stubbornly walking more proudly than ever.

Israel's King Solomon in Ecclesiastes (5:8) wrote, "If you see oppression of the poor and perversion of justice and righteousness in the province, don't be astonished at the situation, because one official protects another official, and higher officials protect them."

Medical practitioners, successfully treating Corona patients without hospitalizing them, have humiliated the top medical figures in the nation that employ their Nazi-like tactics to ban the use of common inexpensive treatments and also from mention of them in the media. The good physicians dared to note the nakedness of the medical emperors and must now be punished.

Democrat governors sent thousands of elderly Corona patients to their death in nursing homes while new fully-staffed hospitals stood empty. Their strategic national 'cure' triggered a pandemic of suicide, overdose deaths, child abuse, divorce and domestic violence. They troubled the mentally and physically fragile and destroyed millions of businesses.

The Centers for Disease Control and now California State Health officials have admitted that they have no idea what the real numbers for those afflicted are. And these numbers were used to justify governmental excesses. People are receiving notices that they have the virus after applying for, but never being tested. Only government could survive this incompetence.

What the national medical establishment has proven is that it is sick, being politically and financially motivated, but most citizens would rather die than say so. The establishment is exposed, but proudly so.

"Buy the Rumor, Sell the News"

"Buy the rumor, sell the news" is an old adage on Wall Street. It refers to investor tendencies to buy a company's stock on a rumor of good things to come, and sell the stock when the actual news hits the wires.

Such may be the case when it comes to a possible CoVid vaccine announcement. No doubt the rumor has driven some of the markets gains and hopes. But will sell the news come into play with the actual announcement?

Although the common belief is that a vaccine will light the afterburners of stocks, my dad used to say when everybody thinks the same thing, nobody is thinking.

It is possible markets may go through some major upheavals when the announcement comes and in my opinion, when a vaccine is announced, there may be a major rotation of stocks bought and sold in masse, subsequently catching many investors and advisors by surprise.

When the CoVid shutdowns began, the market fell historically hard and most stocks fell in concert with each other. Indeed, the 38% crash of the Dow (DJIA) occurred in record time and obliterated an all-time Dow high, falling into bear market territory (down 20%) in about three weeks.

No sooner than the low was reached, a handful of stocks turned and headed higher in blistering speed.

Although most stocks joined hands in the downward crash, only a handful of stocks reversed course.

Keen investors soon realized that although a huge number of companies would be devastated by the shutdown, some companies would not only remain unscathed but actually benefit from the new "stay at home" economy.

Those that fell into the trap of buying broad based index and mutual funds at the turn may have found these widely held and diversified vehicles did not rise in lock step with the news making companies whose share prices skyrocketed.

If there ever was a stock pickers market, it was then, and still is. Simply put, many companies held in a large fund basket would be hard hit, some possibly going under in the process. To participate in the selective recovery that occurred, one had to buy the right stocks and stay well away from wrong ones.

Stay at home stocks saw their sales explode as buying habits were drastically altered. With many people stuck in their homes, the internet traffic increased dramatically, and the companies that serviced it and sold their products through it saw their stocks quickly rise.

In contrast, the companies that depended on retail outlets, travel, transportation, entertainment and other brick and mortar business models languished. Indeed, some of these stocks have barely budged. It's safe to say the markets recovery has been confined to a handful of stocks with many others still stuck in the mud.

That said, some of the stocks that benefited in the recovery have reached dizzying heights and have very expensive multiples.

In the opinion of some, this analyst included, there may be a surprise and viscous backlash on those companies whose stocks have exploded during the shutdown with a vaccine announcement. That historic announcement could slam in reverse the mindset and shopping lists of investors.

Investors may turn their portfolio gun-sights away from the familiar high flyers and instead look for better bargains in the beaten down sectors that are still languishing.

The thought being these hammered companies whose share prices are still in the dirt may see their stocks race higher in anticipation of an opening economy and the release of a massive pent up demand from stir crazy consumers.

It is said for a stock being beaten up from bad news to turn, it doesn't necessarily need good news. The news just has to stop being bad. A vaccine announcement would certainly qualify.

It may be wise for investors to step back from their love of certain stocks that have blasted off and instead consider what profits they may have made and look to preserve those profits. With a vaccine, there is no telling what will occur, what sectors will rise and what sectors will go in the opposite direction. I am of the opinion there will be a lot of money changing hands during a massive rotation that may take place starting the second the announcement is made.

It might be wise to consider that the stocks in the news today may also be in the news tomorrow for a whole different reason and many other surprise stock candidates may make up a new top 40 list.

Shortage Of N95 Respirators Complicates Farm Work

With the state's wildfire season beginning to intensify, farm groups say they're looking for solutions to a lack of N95 respirators. State regulations require the respirators to be available to outdoor employees when wildfires worsen air quality, but the masks have been in short supply during the pandemic. Groups representing the fresh-produce business have asked Congress to include resources for farm employee safety in the next COVID-19 relief package.

Wildfire Smoke May Lead To Crop Damage

Farmers in Northeastern California say they expect smoke damage to crops from the Caldwell Fire, which has burned nearly 81,000 acres of land in Modoc and Siskiyou counties. Officials continue to assess damage to grazing land scorched by the fire, and farmers say smoke will likely hurt the quality of hay, potatoes, onions and other crops. One farmer says irrigated farmland acted as a buffer that stopped the fire from spreading to some areas.

Uc Study Shows Forest Impact On Water Supply

New research quantifies how forest-management activities such as mechanical thinning and prescribed burns contribute to increased downstream water availability. By studying 20 years of data and satellite imagery for the Yuba and American rivers, scientists at the University of California, Merced, determined the forest-management actions could enhance runoff in the basins by up to 10% – enough water for as many as 4 million people.

Pandemic Boosts Demand For Fresh Produce

The pandemic has spurred people's interest in fresh food, and speakers at a virtual conference of fresh-produce professionals said they expect that could continue after the virus fades. A firm that researches trends in the food business says more people now value freshness and health in their foods. As restaurants continue to struggle, produce suppliers say they're trying to package fresh fruits and vegetables in ways that require less labor in restaurant kitchens. ★

Bundys Prevail Against Government

Lou Binninger

In 2013-14, mainstream media and the Obama Administration portrayed the Bunkerhill, Nevada Cliven Bundy farm family as lawless, freeloaders, and unsophisticated. Then there came an armed confrontation between government agents and pro-Bundy protesters supposedly over illegally grazing cattle and no permits for using Bureau of Land Management (BLM) property. The Bundy's were tried and convicted in the media, then arrested and illegally jailed in solitary confinement with no bail for two years.

Two weeks ago, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit affirmed the dismissal of the case by Obama-appointed federal Judge Gloria Navarro, who, despite her hatred of the Bundys and their attorney, was forced to dismiss after it was revealed during trial that Department of Justice (DOJ) attorneys engaged in criminal prosecutorial abuse.

The DOJ and the BLM were carrying out orders of then-President Barack Obama and then-Sen. Harry Reid of Nevada. Reid hoped to sell Bundy's and other lands to the Communist Chinese. The Chinese wanted rare earth elements and property for solar projects. Globalist Obama wanted the Chinese to buy-up America. The Reids would profit via son Rory, a go between with the Chinese.

The Obama Administration had been on a mission to separate farm families from their lands held in some cases for more than one hundred years. Some ranchers killed themselves rather than be evicted. The federal government with deep legal pockets unethically litigated hundreds of families off their ranches.

To set in motion the China sale for the Bundy's ranch Harry Reid had Obama appoint the Senator's former chief of staff, Neil Kornze, to direct BLM. Once in charge, Kornze, along with a corrupted FBI and hired mercenaries, made a despicable move on the Bundy family – threatening the Bundys' lives, assaulting family members, killing hundreds of cattle and committing a host of other felonies.

The final raid included snipers surrounding the Bundy homestead, with the phony purpose of seizing the Bundys' cattle. In reality, the armed assault was meant to drive the Bundys from the land they had tended for over 150 years, starting when Cliven's grandfather began on over 400,000 acres around Lake Mead.

This was entrapment, set-up and led by the U.S. Attorney for the District of Nevada. The move violated DOJ ethical practices and norms. At the time, the U.S. Attorney was Daniel Bogden along with his assistant attorneys Steven Myhre, Daniel Schiess and Nadia Ahmed.

Before the raid began, these corrupt DOJ lawyers went to the Bundy Ranch to plan and implement an illegal entrapment, by which it would be falsely claimed that the Bundys and the other peaceful protesters threatened BLM and FBI agents at gunpoint when it would be exactly the opposite. This was the basis for the criminal charges that ultimately would be brought against the Bundys.

During the criminal trial, it was revealed by a BLM whistleblower, Larry Wooten that some BLM agents had a Bundy kill list and mocked them around the office, largely as a result of the agents hating Mormons. Wooten, who once was a supervisor over the Nevada operation, is a Mormon. The government's outrageous criminal behavior provoked Wooten to come forward at great risk. He was warned to keep his mouth shut by the DOJ's Myhre and then was retaliated against when he finally spoke-out.

Judge Navarro dismissed the indictment, though having previously denied Cliven Bundy his Sixth Amendment rights of counsel and to a speedy trial. All charges having been dropped against the Bundy's in two separate cases (Nevada and Oregon), but no charges have been filed against the government criminals by either former U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions or current William Barr.

This seems to be the standard approach similar to those FBI, CIA and DOJ agents involved in the criminal coup to overthrow the presidency known as the Trump Russian Collusion Hoax and Impeachment Fraud. There are now laws for the people and different laws for government employees.

Fired FBI Director Jim Comey, former Deputy Director Andrew McCabe, former head of the DOJ crime task force Bruce Ohr, former FBI special agent Peter Strzok and attorney Lisa Page, and former Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein have not been held criminally accountable for their attempted coup.

Now, it seems that the Bundy malefactors U.S. Attorney Daniel Bogden, his assistant U.S. Attorneys Steven Myhre, Daniel Schiess, Nadia Ahmed and BLM enforcer Dan Love that relished the death of law-abiding ranchers will never be prosecuted.

What is the news from schools? They are having a hard time making plans, for sure. There will be no buses for now and that in itself is a hardship for many. We wonder how many children have access to "distance learning" as well as help with their lessons. It would be difficult to foresee helping a high school student with algebra or any higher mathematics work. Hoping that the Covid vaccination will be available soon, making school plans are difficult. There is a room with internet available at Books & More that could be of some help. Please call for information – 675-3275.

The Brownsville Farmer's Market is selling out of fruit and vegetables each Saturday so make sure you get there early. It starts at 9:00 am until 1:00 pm. You'll find local fruit, vegetables, crafters and much more. Don't miss it!

The Brownsville Peddler's Fairs, held at the Brownsville Mercantile on Willow Glen Rd., have been quite successful. The next one is scheduled for Saturday, September 5, Labor Day Weekend. Booth space is free and is first come first serve. Set up starts at 7:00 am. Bring your crafts, yard sale goods, fund raiser items, etc. Plenty of space. If not a seller, then come browse through the many treasures available.

Look Back in Time – In 1910 traction engines were hauling lumber from the hardwood mill at Woodleaf to Oroville. They wanted to haul a million feet before snow fell (good old logging trucks).

Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

LOCAL FISHING

SACRAMENTO RIVER, bank fishing. Don't have a boat? And still want salmon for dinner. Use: 40-pound line attached to a river Planer Board. Chinook like a Mepp's Flying C. (g) Feather River; cabin fever got you down? Try below the old Rock Dam. The Poormans Tarpon is on the bite. Use: Pink Jig Heads with green Grub Tails, or fly fish six pound sinking line with a Big Humpty wet fly. (b) Or – use Senko's in spotted green for small mouth bass below the old Shanghai Bend rapids, even lots of 14-inch stripers taking Cut Plugs with bloody tuna scent will keep you tuned up. (b) Camp Far West; spotted bass are going for Speedy Shiners trolled at 1- MPH within 30-feet depths. (b) Little Grass Valley Res; brown trout to 16 pounds. Use: Rapala X-Rap Stickbait, trolled 100' plus feet behind a 1.2 MPH watercraft. (b) [bring your crawdad traps for that extra dinner treat. (b)

COASTAL WATERS

San Francisco currents: anchovies, krill and chinook salmon are being drawn north up the California coast... leaving the party boat catch down to 1-fish per rod. (a) Six-Pac boats are limiting 2-fish per rod. (b) Bodega; southerly winds are pushing chinook salmon into Bodega waters. Limits of salmon on most boats. (b) Albacore at 30-50 miles out. Only the tough may apply. Eight foot swells, every eight seconds. Very few fish. (g) Private skiffs are "mooching" in grassy waters (cannot troll), dropping the Mooching Jig straight down, few small salmon. (g)

SAN FRANCISCO BAY- DELTA

South and Central Bays; Potluck Boats, fish limits on halibut stripers and rock fish...many yelloweye rock fish being returned to the water. (bb) Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta; still windy. Stripers not interested in your bait during any tide movements. (g)

LAKES, RESERVOIRS AND RIVERS

New Melones Reservoir; have a yen for naturally spawned kokanee's to 19-inches? Use: hammered dodgers trailing orange, or blue Hoochies-- lead core line on your level wind, line counting reels, 1.2 to 3,0

Hoochi

MPH does the trick. (b) Eagle Lake; Tui Chub (Siphateles bicolor) 16-inch fish will not stay off your Swim Baits and small Spoons. Avoid them. Use: slow troll Needle Fish in copper red, fished in the 25-35-foot thermocline. [3 to 4-lb fish] (b) Union Valley Reservoir; Use: Hoochies in orange to attract lots of Kokes near the Pump House/Penstock. Also, crowded with lots of boats. American River; a few chinook salmon on opening day. (g)

Fisherman's Comment: "That's typical for the American River Brownie." Feather River; delayed run, occasional salmon in Gridley waters. Flows are down to 2100 CFS and warm. Find cooler 66 degree water further up river. Use: the old tried and true Flat Fish with a sardine filet wrap. Don't forget to bounce tubed pencil lead with Roe at the afterbay outfall for a fighting steelhead. (g) Note – the fall run should prove to be better. Bullard's Bar; slow the troll down to 1.2 MPH at 60-feet. Use: Pink Cut Plugs with corn kernels on the back hook only. (b)

Fisherman's Comment: "Fishermen who dare to be different finds success by switching to a bait that no one else is using." No name.

Clear Lake; Black Bass Tournaments. Normally, bass tournaments are not held in hot weather – too much stress on the fish populations. This year two tournaments of 6-hour durations for three days, were held back-to-back, with more than 100 boats enrolled in each tournament.

Several hundred bass died in bass boat live wells for lack of oxygen and heat... not to mention the "delayed mortality" die off. Fisherman's Comment: "Why?" "All contestants should be asked about the three types of live well systems, and be expert on their specific system. Also, they should be quizzed on the proper technique of "fizzing" a bass retrieved from deep waters. Signed: s Bass Conservation Pro.

TROUT PLANTS

Southern California trout hatchery experienced a 3.2 million trout loss to an unknown bacteria. Resulting in no trout plants in the South East Sierra waters; therefore, effecting the Walker and E. Walker Rivers, Carson river, Silver Creek and Bridgeport Reservoir and others. Fisherman's Comment: "Will the CDFW supplement the eastern waters with trout from Northern California trout hatcheries?"

A trout in hand is worth two in the net. ~ Brownie ★

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

Bid and Buy at the 2020 Nevada County Fair

By Wendy Oaks,
Nevada County
Fairgrounds

NEVADA COUNTY, CA (MPG)

The Nevada County Fairgrounds, in partnership with the Nevada County Livestock Producers, will host an online Junior Livestock and Ag Mechanics Auction on August 13 – 15 at NevadaCountyFair.com. The auction opens at 9 am on August 13 and begins closing on August 15 at 9 am, with lots closing in 90 second intervals until the final lot is complete.

The auction provides an opportunity to support youth in agriculture, fill your freezer with delicious locally-raised meat, and purchase hand-crafted projects for your home and garden.

Online bidding will be open for three days. During that time, buyers can bid on animals and projects, support the exhibitors individually with "Add On" bids through the online platform or they can contribute to a "Community Pool" of funds that will be used to broadly support the sale and junior exhibitors.

The 2019 Junior Livestock and Ag

Mechanics auctions grossed a record setting $736,000 for the youth of Nevada County. These auctions represent the culmination of a long year of work and dedication by FFA, 4-H and independent youth exhibitors. Each bid and purchase is an investment in the next generation of agriculture and supports their future projects in agriculture, college funding and vocational training.

If you are a new buyer, please complete the new buyer registration form at www.NevadaCountyFair.com in advance of the online auction. Existing buyers are already in the system, but if your contact information has changed, please call the Fairgrounds Office to update. Once the auction begins on August 13, all buyers will be able to log in, review the auction lots, and bid. The Fairgrounds website has a page dedicated to buyers and includes information about how to bid and buy and will include a direct link to the auction once it opens.

For information about the auction or participating in the auction, visit NevadaCountyFair.com or call (530) 273-6217. ★
