Msvl Council Squanders Money and Water Rights

by Lou Binninger

Last Tuesday night the Marysville City Council rejected a proposal by rice farmer Charlie Mathews and former City Councilmember Dale Whitmore to once again pump fresh Yuba River water to Ellis Lake. Mathews was to contribute $10,000 and Whitmore $1,500 along with collaborating with all entities (Yuba Water Agency, State Water Resources, PG and E and the city) to make the lake clean once again.

Longtime council member and former Yuba County Supervisor Bill Simmons put the item on the agenda and made the motion to accept the River Water plan but the effort died due to inaction by councilmembers McKenzie, Samayoa, Buttacavoli and Hudson.

Simmons was the catalyst to rehabilitate and re-open the abandoned Riverfront Park Boat Ramp on the Yuba River after decades of neglect by the city. That was accomplished by collaborating with private businesses working pro bono, federal and state permitting agencies, National Guard equipment operators, and Yuba County. It included dredging the river inlet and all the clearances that entails.

Today's algae-laden putrid lake was once clear and clean enough to swim-in according to former elected officials and long-time city residents. And, that was accomplished by using Yuba River water from melted snow delivered to the lake and then exiting into Jack Slough and onto the Feather River.

The council hired engineering firm EKI Environment and Water to study the lake and propose a plan to resolve the ongoing mess. However, EKI's report makes no sense. It appears they had their mind made-up; they didn't do their homework; or used bad data.

They outright rejected uti-

2010 Appeal Democrat picture when Ellis Lake was supplied with river water

lizing Yuba River water while offering inaccurate or exaggerated assumptions according to Mathews. For example, EKI claims the Yuba Water approach would result in high capital investment, operating and permitting costs.

However, EKI offers no proof of this conclusion but instead uses speculative language to sell its mechanical lake bottom aeration system which does come with exorbitant costs. And, the final outcome would not even clean the lake enough for "contact recreation," normally called swimming.

Yuba County has numerous man-made lakes that are pure and clean being fed by snow water and all having an exit to a stream or river. None utilize compressor-powered aerators on the lake-bottom, nor are they treated with chemicals, and they all have "contact recreation."

In the EKI Table A list of negatives about using Yuba River water EKI uses the words "could," "may" and "might" to construct the downside argument against utilizing nature's way versus creating a "Frankenstein" mechanical lake. For $144,144 they offer speculation.

How about an academic analysis using "would" and "will"? How about offering some facts and guarantees to discount what has worked in the past and to refute the Mathews-Whitmore offer?

EKI and Mathews-Whitmore (M-W) agree that using

CalPERS a Union Transmitted Disease

by Lou Binninger

CalPERS, (California's Public Employment Retirement System), the largest pension plan in the nation ($370 billion in assets), is in the news every week somewhere. It's a fiasco, but that is California these days.

Stories of missed investment goals, fraud, sexual abuse, and tapping participant counties and cities for more money litter the Internet. Who would voluntarily turn over any portion of their lives to be managed by the government – not even the mentally ill? There are no departments free of waste, mismanagement and boondoggles. This is socialist stupid-think up close. California is now a deep pockets Venezuela.

A good friend, preparing to retire from Caltrans as a manager in electrical maintenance said that he wasn't eligible for any of those "$100,000-plus pensions." He was referring to the fact that CalPERS says the current 596,000 public pensions in the state average about $35,000 each per year. However, averages are misleading since they include many people at the lowest salaried positions with the minimum years vested.

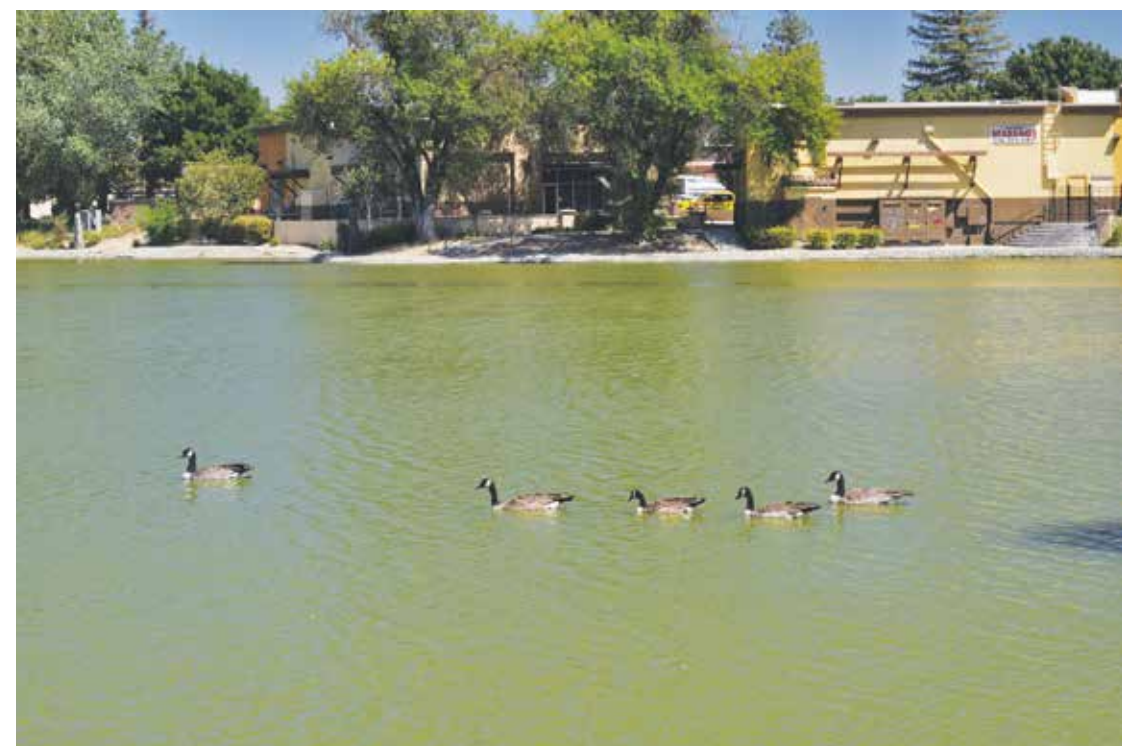

CalPERS pensions also include 1,200 that exceed federal limits. What's that mean? Nine years ago Lee McDougal retired as the manager of a small Southern California city and started collecting the pension he was promised for 38-plus years of employment.

Last year, McDougal collected $337,000 — nearly a third more than the federal maximum for public pensions. The excess portion then must be paid from his former employer's annual budget instead of the state's public retirement system. And taxes on the portion of the pension exceeding federal limits also cost cities and counties extra, draining revenues that could go toward street maintenance, parks, or public safety. You didn't know that? That was the idea.

The list of pension federal-limit-busting annual payments totaled $197 million and is growing despite a 2013 state law that capped the pensions at the federal limit.

Four years ago, 684 retirees were on the list. Since the 2013 capping law applies only to workers hired after January 1 of

60th Class Reunion Marysville Union High School

On Saturday August 10th at the Peach Tree Golf and Country Club a group of 50 or more gathered for their 60th Class reunion. A social hour, followed by dinner. Over 3,000 years of history filled the room, about half the group were the original classmates of the graduating class of 1959 of Marysville Union High School. The past classmates shared stories and photos of yesterday's school days. A breakfast followed on Sunday morning August 11th where more stories were exchanged. The 2019 committee wishes to thank those who made this possible, to all that donated to the raffle prizes and to the Peach Tree Country Club for their wonderful services.

Stocks and Bonds and other assets

When meeting with clients and discussing strategies, these discussions go a lot farther than stocks and bonds. Unlike many others in my field, I am of the opinion holding only a basket of stocks and bonds is woefully lacking as to true diversification. The word diversification means exactly that, not holding one or only a few things but instead holding many things to provide a wider exposure to assets.

By holding more types of assets than just stocks and bonds, this subsequently may also lessen loss exposure due to the fact you hold a wider number of asset classes. After all, stocks and bonds add up to only two asset classes. Stocks and bonds. But there are many other asset classes which include but is not limited to real estate, precious metals, real estate investment trusts (REITS), energy trusts, mortgages and mortgage back securities (MBS), floating rate and auction rate securities, to name a few.

Many traditional portfolios I see can be stacked with just stocks and bonds with no exposure to other asset classes. I suppose one could make an argument for such, but if stocks and bonds fall in concert with each other during a severe market sell off (such as what happened in 2008/09) an investor might see severe damage to his balances. In 2008/09, many investors witnessed just that: a stomach churning drop in account net worth.

We can't shovel the entire blame on their advisor however, as many advisors held (and still do) the traditional belief that historically stocks and bonds move opposite of each other.

Not to say that the correlation of stocks and bonds doesn't hold true on occasion. In fact more often than not the price of stocks and bonds can move opposite of each other. But not always and certainly this correlation failed to materialize during the crisis that was 2008/09.

Many investors were told "hold for the long haul" and indeed many investors believe in never selling.

Not to put too much water on that belief, but had not the powers to be, mainly the Federal Reserve and the U.S. government cobbled together too many rescue programs to count, the outcome may have been quite different. Specifically here we are 10 years later and the Dow is at or about new all-time highs while in 2008 the financial world looked to be coming to an ugly end.

Although the markets seem to always be able to stage a recovery, the very premise that markets cannot be predicted puts every market theory, belief, quip, rumor or precedent into question.

Simply put, just because markets have gone up over the long haul for almost as far back as the beginning of the Dow market itself, doesn't mean it will continue to do so or even not fall to zero tomorrow. At some point all things will likely happen again and no amount of "long haul" holding, bond and stock complements or real estate holdings will insure against a the possibility of a partial or complete wipe out. It may sound dire and even impossible to some, but the truth of the matter is no one can guarantee anything when it comes to the markets and where they might go.

Regulators monitor advisors like myself (known as compliance) to insure we don't say anything predicting it as 100% certain. This presents a bit of a conundrum. After all, how many advisors repeat the parrot like mantras such as "hold for the long term" or "the markets always come back".

Markets may not go up forever, holding for the long term may not work, stocks and bonds may not move in opposite, the Feds might not be able to rescue the markets again and not having many more assets than stocks and bonds may or may not help. That's the market-awful truth and there are no ifs, ands or buts about it.

No one can say for sure anything market-wise will happen. Not the regulators, not your advisor, not your uncle, your Harvard Econ professor or the head of the Federal Reserve. No one. And just because history might show a tendency, the old saying "past performance is no guarantee of future results" rings true.

What we can say is that common sense may dictate (may mind you) that holding more than just two asset classes like stocks and bonds may not be as safe as holding more stuff. And just because the Dow may have always shown an upward trajectory for the past hundred years doesn't mean it will always do so.

Plainly put, not all things held in long belief may save your retirement should something nasty like the 2008/09 crisis reoccur or worse. Thinking this time won't be different and the old tried and believed-to-be-true methods of traditionally investing will always hold up flies in the face of the truest statement of all. No one, no how, no way at no time can predict what markets will do, not now, not ever.

We can safely suggest however holding more "stuff" then traditional stocks and bonds in your portfolio might (might mind you) be the obvious answer to better protect a retirement plan and your hard earned money. And if I was a betting man (which I am) I would recommend doing so.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for more than 75 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

Success results from the opener of the Upper Sacramento River at the Barge Hole were less than hoped for. Salmon were a hit and miss situation there as well as both the Feather and Sacramento Rivers downstream to Sacramento. Expect to see the action pickup as the fish move from the ocean up the Sacramento and then into the Feather. A key to this is the weather.

A report from Lake Tahoe tells us the Mackinaw lake trout fishing has slowed and the kokanee salmon bite is a best bet at this time.

Boca Reservoir and Donner Lake both received trout plants last week along with the weekly drop at Deer Creek in Tehama County.

Back to the kokanee salmon...Lake Berryessa is putting out limits with no end on the bite in sight. The fish are running from 17 to 20 inches and can be found down at 50 feet in the morning and about a hundred feet later in the day.

We are told the trout are back on the bite at Collins Lake with some large trout up to six or seven pounds. The catfish are also cooperating in the reservoir located above Marysville near Browns Valley.

We advise anglers who fish from a boat to be legal at this time. When the upcoming salmon run hits the Sacramento Valley Rivers and all the boat traffic gets heavy expect officials to start checking boats which will includes fishing licenses.

The bass bite at Lake Oroville has slowed down to a crawl at this time. We are told all arms of the huge reservoir are not producing much action.

Closing thought: "the body achieves what the mind believes."

the lake's ground water well introduces minerals into the lake which feed algae. In other words, ground water from a well creates more algae. Snow water from the Yuba River does not have a high mineral content therefore starving out the algae.

Per its report, EKI's aeration system will cost $695,000 for the pilot project and final construction plus $45,000 a year in operation and maintenance costs. Simmons says a one-time treatment of algae killing chemical costs an additional $22,000. EKI has a personal benefit in its aeration proposal, they get paid more.

The M-W plan would cost the city $10,000 – 15,000 in power costs annually to bring fresh water into the lake. And M-W is donating the "seed" money of $11,500 to hook-up and test the pump and obtain the proper permits. M-W suggest turning off the ground water pump in September and using Yuba River water instead as a test while they pick-up the cost.

M-W say if the council agrees to the approach of pumping from the Yuba River, Ellis Lake could then be drained, the fish and debris removed and the lake could be refilled in 11 days with fresh water.

The river water is free and Marysville has pre-1914 riparian water rights on the Yuba River. Numerous articles dating back to 1903 in the Appeal Democrat describe fresh Yuba River water brought by ditch and flume into Ellis Lake. If the council declines the use of the river water their rights to the Yuba River will be suspended squandering millions of dollars in future benefits.

“The Theater Arts Gallery” Sutter Performing Arts Association's

On Thursday, September 5, The Theater Art Gallery will be hosting an Artist Reception from 5 - 7 pm for MARY ANN and BOB NATION whose eye-catching paintings will be on exhibit through the month of September. Also joining them will be the gallery's resident artists Rosalynn Bliss, D.Ellen Day, Luisa Leger, Paul Spoto, and Janet Todd. This event is free with complimentary refreshments. The art show and sale continues through September 28. Come and chat with the artists as you enjoy the artwork they created. The reception coincides with the Downtown Business Association's First Thursday Stroll. The gallery is located next to the Sutter Theater at 756 Plumas Street, downtown Yuba City. Hours: Thurs - Sat, 12 to 5 pm. Wed by appointment. Call 908-5704 or 329-1733. Visit us at www.suttertheater.org or on Facebook.

Trained in a number of painting workshops, refining her work over 18 years, MARY ANN NATION has gradually developed her style of loose, impressionistic landscapes and seascapes. Most of her picturesque work has been done plein air in Mendocino, the Sacramento Valley, and in the foothills. Other paintings have been done from her own photos or still life objects. All her oils are created with a palette knife, and recently she switched to using less toxic water mixable oils, achieving the same excellent results. She has shown her work in galleries in Ft. Bragg, Colusa, Marysville, and Yuba City. For Mary Ann painting has become a way to capture nature and share its beauty with others. She enjoys working from clients' travel photos, providing them with original oil paintings of treasured and memorable places.

Six years ago BOB NATION began painting using watercolors under the tutelage of various Mendocino - Ft. Bragg artists. Early in 2018 he started to prefer using oils for his artwork. He has shown his work at the Colusa County Fair in 2018, winning 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place awards on his oils. Since then they were shown at the City Hall in Yuba City and are currently on view at Ting's Refuge restaurant in Yuba City. Both husband and wife enjoy being out in nature and creating beautiful scenic landscapes. This is a must-see show and guaranteed to please all viewers!

The Theater Art Gallery is open every week, Thursday through Saturday, from noon to 5:00 pm, and Wednesday by appointment. Call 908-5704 or 329-1733. Proceeds from The Theater Art Gallery benefit the Sutter Performing Arts Association's effort to renovate the Sutter Theater, turning it into a viable community center. CalPERS a Union Transmitted Disease

2013, the list of pension-limit-busters will continue growing for decades. Many of the retirees on the list were managers in cities, counties and special districts that now pay money out of their operating budgets for their excessive pensions. To comply with tax law, the jurisdictions provide benefits above the federal limit by paying the remainder as wages from their general funds, further crippling operating budgets.

“A government’s obligation should end at the federal limits,” said Dan Pellissier, president of California Pension Reform. “If you want to do more, do more, but the government shouldn’t be responsible for subsidizing luxury spending in retirement.”

In 2018, 774 of the 1,205 retirees on the luxury pension list had retired from local governments.

McDougal, 68, is receiving the largest supplementary payment of all the retirees on the list, although his overall pension isn’t the largest CalPERS pension in the state. That notoriety goes to Michael Johnson, a former Solano County administrator who gets $402,000 per year.

Retired Sacramento Police Chief Sam Somers Jr., who retired in 2016, gets $205,000 in annual pension benefits in line with IRS limits plus $14,000 in payments above the cap. Former Public Works Director Jerald Way is paid $152,000 from CalPERS plus $14,000 as wages from the city.

Eight Sacramento Metropolitan Fire District retirees receive a total of $1.97 million in annual pensions including $196,000 in above-limits payments. Four Sacramento Municipal Utility District retirees have pensions worth a total of $973,000 per year, with $157,000 in benefits above the IRS limits.

Meanwhile, CalPERS announced that it earned a paltry 6.7 % return on its investments for the last fiscal year ending June 30 missing the 7% target needed to put – off demanding additional contributions from the budgets of cities and counties.

CalPERS reported an 8.6 percent investment return in the 2017-18, and 11.2 percent in the 2016-17 and missed its target in 2015-16, when it earned an embarrassing .61 percent.

CalPERS’ assets are worth about 70 percent of its total obligations to public employees and current retirees. That means it cannot currently afford to keep its promises. So, it must rob the taxpayer of additional funds to pay the overpromised government employees.

Any competent finance expert outperforms CalPERS because its board’s investment guidelines are more concerned with saving seals, transgender rights, and adjusting the world’s thermostat than it is making money to pay retirees.

Food and Farm News

Effects of Chinese trade action remain uncertain

After China announced it had suspended purchases of U.S. farm products, California agricultural exporters say they continue to assess how the action may affect them. China directed its state-owned enterprises to stop buying American farm goods as part of ongoing trade disputes. But exporters say it’s still unclear how or whether that will affect private Chinese firms that buy California-grown nuts, wine and other products.

Farmers describe progress of coastal vegetable harvest

California’s long, intense winter continues to affect vegetable production on and near the Central Coast. The wet winter delayed vegetable planting and harvest, but Salinas Valley farmers are rotating into their third crops, planting new fields of lettuce, spinach and other vegetables. Farmers report good demand for their crops, though that often dips in the summer due to local and homegrown production in other parts of the country.

Forecasters expect increased fruit production

More California-grown peaches, pears, apples and olives should be reaching shelves this summer and fall. Crop estimates from the U.S. Department of Agriculture show California peach production up 6 percent, pears up 15 percent and apples up 20 percent. The same report estimates the total grape crop to be nearly the same size as last year. In a separate report, forecasters predicted the canning-olive crop would be much larger than a year ago.

Estimates show mixed outlook for field, grain crops

Production will be down for California’s most widely planted field and grain crops, according to federal forecasters. Estimates released this week show alfalfa and rice production off slightly, and the California cotton crop down by one-third. Bean production will also decrease. The report forecast higher production for other California field and grain crops, including oats, barley, wheat and corn.

A Long Ways To Go Lowell Guy Robinson & Robinson Enterprises

“Lowell Robinson’s forebears were early foothill ranchers who drove cattle each summer into the High Sierra. e family ranch, while providing him plenty of experience riding horses and caring for livestock, never won his heart. Machinery, on the other hand, sparked his imagination and suggested endless opportunities beyond the white fences. By acquiring and accumulating equipment, Robinson made his career harvesting timber on an industrial scale. . . Lowell Robinson’s life was the expression of a spirit, an energy, which drove him and inspired other men to follow. e bond between him and the talented men who joined in his enterprises was a bond of mutual recognition. These men saw in Lowell a natural leader, a man who could do and would do any job he would ask another man to do, and likely turn a profit while doing it. At the same time, he could see the potential in other men. . . . He was a man of unquestioned- able integrity. He measured his words carefully, and once having spoken, would do as he had said, and no one ever doubted it.”—Gage McKinney, Award winning author of MacBoyle’s Gold and e 1930s: No Depression Here

Yuba Sutter Veterans Stand Down 2019 August 21, 22 and 23

Yuba Sutter Veterans Stand Down 2019
August 21, 22 and 23
Marysville, Ca.

The original Stand Down for the homeless veterans was modeled after the Stand Down concept used during the Vietnam War to provide a safe retreat for units returning from combat operations. At secure base camp areas, troops were able to take care of personal hygiene, get clean uniforms, enjoy warm meals, receive medical and dental care, mail and receive letters, and enjoy the camaraderie of friends in a safe environment. Stand Down afforded battle-weary soldiers the opportunity to renew their spirit, health and overall sense of well-being. Stand Down is an intervention that was conceived from the ground up specifically for veterans. It is designed to transform the despair and immobility of homeless into the momentum necessary to get into recovery, to resolve legal issues, to seek employment, to access health and benefits, to reconnect with the community and to get off the streets...A very tall order for a three-day event. Stand Down is a belief in the triumph of the human spirit over extraordinary odds. It grows out of a conviction that the overwhelming number of homeless veterans on the streets of America is unacceptable and that the veteran community itself must respond. Each year the Yuba-Sutter Veterans Stand Down has grown, been refined to meet the needs of our veterans, homeless or not, all active duty personnel and their dependents. There are organizations / agencies and more than 2,800 and growing volunteers from all walks of life that make Stand Down happen. Some never set foot on the Stand Down field; others are there from the first day of set up until the site is returned to its original form. Perhaps the hallmark of success is that each year more and more of our volunteers were once participants who have made the courageous move to change their lives.

The “Munchkins” are back in school and that means the school buses are back on the road again. Now, Munchkins have been known to not pay attention and dart out into the road, especially the younger ones, although the older Munchkins do have the same problem occasionally. Be aware of the activity around the bus and the stop signs on the bus when it is pulled over to pick up or drop off.

My internet hot spot doesn't work well when I'm inside, so I sit on my deck each morning and check emails, write my portion of the column, research for my book, pay bills, and work on all things internet. The air is still cool and refreshing as the roosters crow out their morning salutations. Bushy tailed squirrels playfully chase each other up and down the tree trunks. A Stellar Jay squawks his disturbance as I interrupt his morning. The breeze tickles the wind chimes, they dance and sing. I feel as though I could sit here forever. Soon I will have to go back inside and take care of all things not internet. But my mornings on the deck are such a delightful way to start my day.

Look Back in Time – In 1910 traction engines were hauling lumber from the hardwood mill at Woodleaf to Oroville. They had a million feet to haul before snow hit (hope they made it).

PG&E Wildfire Assistance Program Accepting Applications for Aid

by Assemblyman James Gallagher

Beginning August 15, 2019, those displaced by the 2017 Northern California wildfires and 2018 Camp fire can apply for aid through an independently administered Wildfire Assistance Program funded by PG&E. PG&E's $105 million fund, approved by the judge in PG&E's Chapter 11 cases, is intended to help those who are either uninsured or need assistance with alternative living expenses or other urgent needs. This funding is being made available from PG&E's cash reserves. PG&E will not seek cost recovery from its customers.

Applicants can request a “Basic Unmet Needs” payment of $5,000 per household for victims who establish basic eligibility requirements and self-certify that they have at least $5,000 of unmet needs such as water, food, prescriptions, medical supplies and equipment, infant formula and diapers, personal hygiene items, and transportation fuels that have not been compensated by FEMA.

Those who receive basic payments may also qualify for a “Supplemental Unmet Needs” payment. These funds will be available only after “Basic Unmet Needs” payments have been issued. Supplemental payments will be available to individuals and families who currently face extreme or extraordinary circumstances as compared to others who were impacted by the 2017 and 2018 wildfires.

To qualify for the payments, applicants' primary residence must have been within the boundary of the 2017 Northern California wildfires or the 2018 Camp fire. Applicants also must establish proof of identity and certify that they are not requesting payments for an expense already paid for by FEMA.

Applicants can find more information and apply for assistance at <https://www.norcalwildfireassistanceprogram.com/>. The deadline to file for aid is November 15, 2019.

Another Day in the Life of Yuba-Sutter

Marysville, Calif.
The long wait is over! The Another Day in the Life of Yuba-Sutter books are arriving this week.

Like its predecessor volume, A Day in the Life of Yuba-Sutter, this project was not a competition, but rather an all-inclusive, community involvement photo event intended to create a commemorative book. The only rule was that all images had to be made during the same time frame.

The finished product, Another Day in the Life of Yuba-Sutter, is a gorgeous 11”x14” coffee table book, professionally designed and printed. The club has ordered an initial run of 500 books and at $40 per copy, they will likely sell out quickly. The books are available at Yuba Sutter Arts, 624 E Street in Marysville Wednesday through Friday from 11-4. Cash, checks and credit cards are all accepted. Special deliveries and other accommodations can be made to help you purchase a book so don't hesitate to call 742-2787 or email david@yubasutterarts.org. Mail order is also an option for an additional $10.

Inspired by the great series of books published in the 1980s which celebrated America and other countries, the South Yuba County Sunrise Club again invited photographers to shoot whatever struck their fancy during the set time period. We wanted to see the beauty and grandeur of Yuba-Sutter, interesting aspects of our region's infrastructure, businesses, any special events occurring on that day and most importantly, people; people in everyday situations, posed or candid, at work, people from all walks of life. Once again, we met and exceeded all expectations and the final result is spectacular.

The project would not have been possible without the participation of all our wonderful photographers including amateurs and professionals, who shared their artistic vision and personal views of the region. Photographers paid a modest $25 entry fee and could submit up to ten images. They were guaranteed that at least one of their photos would be included in the book.

We also owe a huge debt of gratitude to our generous sponsors who made the project an even greater financial success and helped further the community youth programs supported by the South Yuba County Rotary Club and Rotary International. This has been an excellent project for the South Yuba County Rotary Club and helped raised awareness about all that it does for the community.

MYCC Spotlight Building a Drug Free Community

One of the things we are in the process of, is establishing Marysville Youth & Civic Center as a Drug Free Community with CADCA, Community Anti-Drug Coalition of America. Our first step in completing this is to establish a Drug Free Community Coalition.

What is a coalition: a coalition is a voluntary, formal agreement and collaboration between groups or sectors of a community in which each group retains its identity but all agree to work together toward a common goal of building a safe, healthy, and drug-free community

Community coalitions are comprised of parents, teachers, law enforcement, businesses, religious leaders, health providers and other community activists who are mobilizing at the local level -- and nationally under the CADCA umbrella -- to make their communities safer, healthier and drug-free

What does a Coalition do for the community: Coalition building is a smart strategy that promotes coordination and collaboration and makes efficient use of limited community resources. By connecting multiple sectors of the community in a comprehensive approach, community coalitions are achieving real outcomes.

The coalition gathers people from specific sectors of the community and builds a working relationship to gain momentum from the public's participation within the events and efforts to improve the lives of our community's youth and help them build a foundation for a better future. By offering programs, events and activities we reduce the risk of our youth being tempted by the chaos of substance abuse, we keep them off the streets and away from alcohol, tobacco and drugs.

The coalition must include at least one member from the following groups: Youth Leadership, Parents, Businesses, Media, Schools, Youth Serving Organizations, Religious Organizations, Law Enforcement, Civic and Volunteer Groups, Health Care Professionals, State, Local or Tribal Agencies, And Organizations involved in Reducing Substance Abuse.

In forming this coalition, the Youth Center will qualify for a variety of grants that can be used to better the lives of our local Yuba/Sutter youth, teens and young adults, by concentrating their efforts on building more programs, events and specific activities to enrich the lives of our youth in the Yuba/Sutter area. We are very close to completing the necessary requirements to form a working coalition within MYCC.

It is going to take a community to change a community. If you are interested in being a part of our Drug Free Community Coalition please email me at programs.myc@gmail.com Together we can build a better future for our children, teens and young adults by improving their participation within MYCC.

MYCC offers many ongoing programs like Fencing, Gymnastics, Archery, and Performing Arts through Rise-Up. Follow MYCC on Facebook for all upcoming events and programs. Come join the fun. Come join the cause!

Celebrate the 8th Annual Harvest the Arts Festival at J. Heier Farms

Marysville, Ca.

Have you ever been to the biggest outdoor art festival in Yuba-Sutter which also includes locally produced foods prepared by hometown chefs? Plan to attend the 8th annual Harvest the Arts party put on by Yuba Sutter Arts. This year's event will be held on Saturday, September 2st from 6-10 pm at historic J. Heier Farms, 4880 E. Butte Road in Live Oak across from the Country Vet. Once again, the Harvest the Arts team is bringing together local farmers, artists, restaurants, musicians, wineries, and the entire community to help raise funds for arts programs throughout Yuba and Sutter Counties.

Entertainment headlines will be ThorKat, the popular rock cover band playing hits from the 70's through today. The Gay Galvin Jazz Trio will kick off the live music for the evening up on the main stage followed by The West Grand Brass Band from Oakland who will make a joyful noise guaranteed to get everyone up and moving.

You will enjoy an expanded “Culinary Row” where local restaurants will be serving farm-to-fork items from their menus. Silver Dollar Saloon, Dancing Tomato, Hillcrest Landing, City Café and Justin's Kitchen will be on hand to tickle your taste buds. All three Sutter County-based wineries along with several of the Yuba County foothills wineries will be providing tastings of a variety of their wines. And, yes, there will be beer. Competitive flair bartender, Jason Omoto, will be flying in from San Diego to mix up some specialty cocktails for guests and will add that special touch only a master of mixology can muster. And in keeping with tradition, you'll be invited to join the celebratory “toast” as the sun sets behind the Sutter Buttes at 7:06pm.

Over 30 visual artists will be on hand to show off their latest work. These include Lila Rivera, Yuba Sutter Arts' “Visual Artist in Residence,” a highly regarded local artist known for realistic portraits and still life paintings. Max Komissarchik, who is from St. Petersburg, Russia and came to America in 1989, is known for his expressionist urban landscapes and large format, colorful abstracts. Madelyne Templeton has been a key artist in the “Cover It! Utility Box Mini Murals” project with three new murals underway in Yuba City. Local nature photographer, Sue Graue, will display some of her stunning bird and butterfly images and other wildlife photographs.

At the event, you will also be able to sign up for an exclusive “Art Safari” plein air painting adventure in the Buttes. Think of it as a “sip and sketch party on steroids.” You and your friends will spend an afternoon of artistic expression in a beautiful and otherwise inaccessible corner of the Buttes. You will be “chauffeured” via hayride to the location and all supplies will be provided. Fine wines and appetizers will be served while you are guided through a landscape painting project by a professional artist.

Ticket prices for Harvest the Arts are $35 each in advance or $45 after September 18. Tickets are available online at yubasutterarts.org or may be purchased at Yuba Sutter Arts' office at 624 E Street in Marysville, Wednesday through Friday from 11-4pm. Tickets are also at the Chamber of Commerce office in Yuba City and at Digg's in Marysville. Sponsorships for this and other Yuba Sutter Arts events are available. Call the office, 742-ARTS (2787), or email abbie@yubasutterarts.org for more information.

Fast & Furious Presents Hobbs & Shaw

Starring: Dwayne Johnson, Jason Statham, and Idris Elba. Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 2 hours, 14 minutes.

Another drop in the bucket from the cash cow that is the, Fast & Furious, franchise. In this money raking installment Jason Statham and the Dwayne Johnson, team up to battle Idris Elba for the fate of humanity. It could not have been done without the connections of a brave Sky marshal.

Hobbs & Shaw, earn three out of five, Virus Filtering Monkeys. The movie knows exactly what it is, an absurd plot to bring three of the top action actors together in order to make a lot of money entertaining the horde. The story is cohesive enough to add some substance to the explosions and helicopter towing trucks. There is even a mysterious villain that fires up the parade of bulldozers to plow the ten lane highway to yet another edition of the, Fast & Furious. The acting is fun to watch, and the effects are over the top fun. This is an entertaining movie and worth the money to see in theaters.

Government Compounds Insult by Cheating on Tax Collections

by Jon Coupal is president of the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association

It's bad enough that California taxes its citizens more than almost all other states, but adding insult to injury, government entities often cheat on the way that they collect taxes.

This happens in several ways. First, there are times when a government entity knows a tax is illegal but imposes it anyway either hoping no one will notice or knowing they can collect tons of revenue while the issue is resolved in court. This author's first experience with governments' complete disregard of the law occurred 25 years ago in the 1994 case of Hoo-gasian Flowers v. San Francisco Educational Financing Authority.

In an effort to circumvent Proposition 13's two-thirds voter approval requirement for special taxes, San Francisco created an entity called an "educational financing authority" for the purposes of imposing a supplemental sales tax. Although the Court of Appeal easily saw through the charade and struck down the tax as illegal, the only remedy that was given was a small refund for the handful of retailers who filed the suit. Thousands of businesses never received relief and the city was allowed to keep millions in illegal tax proceeds.

Taxpayers need to remain aware that government entities at all levels have no incentive to make things easy for taxpayers. Just one recent example involves the L.A. County Recorder's Office and the implementation of Senate Bill 2, which imposes a $75 tax on documents filed in conjunction with real estate transactions.

There is a specific exemption from the tax for documents recorded for transfers of residential real property to owner-occupiers. Despite this clear exemption, many taxpayers end up paying the tax because the process at the Recorder's office is unclear. In L.A. County, a man occupying his recently deceased mother's home was charged $75 to record the notice of her death and another $75 to record the grant deed formally conveying the home from his mother's living trust to himself. He was willing and able to provide proof of owner-occupancy, but was unable to secure a refund.

Not only do government entities willingly violate the law, sometimes the laws themselves relating to tax collections create a bizarre, byzantine maze of procedures that have many taxpayers throwing up their hands and giving up on asserting their rights.

Just a few of these procedural hurdles include having to exhaust "administrative remedies," such as appearing at a hearing to protest a tax, the need to file a "claim for refund" before being able to litigate the legality of a tax and the requirement that the tax must be paid first as a condition for being able to challenge it. Compare these hurdles to the ease with which government can come after taxpayers who commit the most minor of mistakes. For example, there is a huge penalty for paying your property tax just a single day late.

This isn't fair. While it is true that the famed jurist Oliver Wendell Holmes stated that citizens "must turn square corners when dealing with the government," subsequent courts have stated that government must turn square corners with citizens as well and that government must "comport itself with compunction and integrity," and not "conduct itself so as to achieve or preserve any kind of bargaining or litigational advantage" over a member of the public. Regrettably, that just isn't true in California. It is little surprise then that our state ranks 49th out of 50 in the quality of tax administration according to the Council on State Taxation.

What is needed is a new law entitled "Taxpayers' Access to Justice" which will level the playing field in tax disputes with government entities in California. It is bad enough to pay absurdly high taxes. It's another to be denied basic due process.

When is Enough, Enough!

I was reading in the only paper in town that will tell you what is going on in our fair city that is the Territorial Dispatch I see all the city council has found new ways to squeeze new Taxes or new charges out of Tax payers. They go around crying poor mouth to all who will hear them they need one more tax to help them out of this mess they got themselves into. And the tax payers of Marysville like well behaved sheep they have begun to vote to give them more money. One thing I have watched in utter amazement all the money that the city county has spent on the non taxpaying homeless THE FLOCK OF WELL TRAINED SHEEP THAT ARE THE VOTERS AND

TAX PAYERS DON'T SAY A WORD ABOUT THE COST. Even when the y poor mouth you when you ask for parks can't afford them fix the roads in MARYSVILLE can't afford it. It's time for the voters and tax payers to stand up and say something they can sue us so let's sue them.

You Always Win If You Own Both Horses in the Race

The blog, "The Democratic Underground" (TDU), a front for the Democratic Party leadership (DPL), is infested with bots throughout their threads, promoting anti-progressive propaganda. Both groups are comprised of the 1%ers, the WORMs of the world, White Old Rich Men, who have been controlling the people of the United States since our founding fathers drafted the Constitution. So why do I believe this?

When I was permanently banned from the TDU after three posts, it seemed harsh and strange. It happened when I responded to a "Metoo" thread on Joe Biden. My post looked further into Biden's seemingly unrestrained touching that he engages in. The post wondered if closeness and touching could be something Biden gets real excitement out of, and could it be a fetish of his.

After pondering for days why this seemingly benign post, mildly derogatory of Biden, was out of line with TDU policy, it then dawned on me. Biden was their man, and the candidate the DPL is promoting through the TDU, and the Democratic candidate the 1% can control to retain its power. It's as obvious as the nose on your face.

THINK About It!

THE HATCHING OF THE RUSSIAN "COLLUSION HOAX" New Book Exposes Hillary-Obama

The Washington, D.C. Swamp Critters are being exposed in a slow and agonizing walk to the Jailhouse. The new Sheriff, Attorney General William Barr, is taking deliberate steps to make sure that charges will stick.

In the August 9th, 2019 issue of the Washington Examiner, Columnist Paul Bedard wrote:

"The first authoritative book about the Russia election collusion "hoax" against President Trump since special counsel Robert Muller's final report was filed charges that the case is a conspiracy to doom the president's reelection, and one that should be investigated.

In Ball of Collusion National Review writer Andrew C. McCarthy said the nearly three-year scandal was hatched by former President Barack Obama and 2016 Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Rodham Clinton to punish Trump should he win.

The book, which details in readable fashion every twist and turn in the case, said the duo had two plans: Plan A was to get Clinton elected. And Plan B, "the insurance policy," to ruin Trump with impeachment hearings and kill his reelection chances.

"This book contends that the Obama administration, abetted by Washington's politically progressive order, exploited its control of law-enforcement and intelligence agencies to help Clinton and undermine Trump," he wrote.

In addition to charting the case and Mueller probe, McCarthy noted that voters didn't care a lick about Russia during an election focused on the U.S. economy, And, he added, despite Obama's best efforts to help his hoped-for successor, Clinton was a terrible candidate who blew the election on her own.

TD COMMENT: Remember the sit-down that President Obama had with Prez-to-be Trump in mid-January, 2017. It seemed to me at the time that Obama had a fixated funny smirk on his face...as if he was the cat that had a canary in his mouth. Now we know why!

Tom Fitton on Bruce Ohr and Wife Nellie O.

Territorial Comment: Tom Fitton, president of Judicial Watch, has been one of the most industrious of investigators in the last three years of exposing the

Washington, D.C. Swamp in their vicious campaign to obstruct the Trump Administration in carrying out their policy agenda... and especially their heavy-booted CAMPAIGN TO IMPEACH THE PRESIDENT. Fitton has been in court continuously over the last three years to obtain documents that senators and congressmen have said they were not able to get by themselves. Following is an interview by Mark Steyn sitting in for vacationing Tucker Carlson on Carlson's Fox News show last Wednesday, August 14th:

STEYN: "Newly released Department of Justice documents reveal how Nelly Ohr of Fusion GPS transmitted material from the Trump dossier to her husband, senior D.O.J. official Bruce Ohr. That information then, of course, filled the Federal government, percolated all the way through and was used to tank the Trump administration with bogus insinuations of espionage before it had even been sworn in.

Tom Fitton of Judicial Watch obtained those documents, and he joins us now.

Tom, this nexus between one woman who is working for a group that's working for the Clinton campaign who happens to be married to a senior figure in the government. This is basically classic Banana Republic stuff because it's the merger of the party and the state as it were.

TOM FITTON: Yes, Bruce Ohr is telling the F.B.I. essentially, "Hey, I got this information. Let's investigate the President." This is after President Trump is elected. He brings in a flash drive with his wife's material on it, stripped from that material is the header -- the information Fusion GPS -- from the headers, so they were trying to disguise the material.

We get that from the F.B.I. interview notes, and then we get this other batch of documents that you're talking about, which describes the material that Ohr is shepherding on behalf of his wife and the Clinton operation to his colleagues at the F.B.I. and it includes a chart --

I mean, people have got to go with this chart, because it's crazy. It's about 80 names, and then she tries to tie all of them to Russia and to Trump. It's like an insane version of "Six Degrees of Kevin Bacon."

If you saw it on a wall somewhere and you walked into a room with it, and you say, "Who is the crazy person who created this?" This was the basis for the Trump-Russia fraudulent investigation, and the fact that the senior levels at the D.O.J. and the F.B.I. were using this material to target a sitting President tells you volumes about the corruption behind the effort to overthrow him. This is the coup cabal in its insane form.

STEYN: Well, let me ask you a very simple question based on what -- you asked for the documents, the communications between Bruce Ohr and this MI-6 agent, British subject Christopher Steele after he had been gotten rid of by the F.B.I. Bruce Ohr and Steele were still palsy-walsy.

Has there ever been a U.S. domestic election process as interfered with by one foreign national, as has been perpetrated by this British spook, Christopher Steele? I don't understand why Americans aren't mad about that.

FITTON: Yes, I think there's an open question about the involvement of his former colleagues in the United Kingdom. We have the Australian government who is being asked uncomfortable questions about this as well.

This was an international conspiracy against the President. It has laid out in the F.B.I. documents Ohr and Steele are working together during the campaign, after the campaign, and magically, they hire Ohr's wife in the Clinton campaign to help push material into the Justice Department.

You've got to hand it to the Clinton gang. They had all their bases covered. They were flooding the zone -- D.O.J., F.B.I., state and the wife of a senior Justice Department official.

STEYN: And most of Washington's Five Eyes Intelligence allies in on the scheme. It's an amazing thing. Keep digging on this, Tom. There's lots more to come.

CHARLIE'S COMMENT: Finally, the dredging of the Washington, D.C. Swamp is pulling out some shady critters in the corrupt U.S. government hierarchy that has resulted in the largest political scandal in U.S. history. The courts are going to be very busy... and high-priced lawyers are wringing their hands in glee.

NYWD Special Meeting

by John Mistler

Brownsville, Ca.

On Tuesday August 13, 2019 the North Yuba Water District (NYWD) held a special meeting to pass a resolution that would give the General Manager authority to execute grant applications. Rumors began immediately that the NYWD Board was turning their authority over to the General Manager. However; the actual resolution (No. 19-733) stated "Nothing in this resolution authorizes the General Manager to execute any agreement accepting any outside funding for District projects without the District Board's review and approval of such agreements."

The resolution passed on a 4 to 1 vote with Director Flohr as the dissenting vote.

Below is the statement from Director Flohr, published by the Territorial Dispatch at the request of Director Flohr because she was not allowed to finish it during the debate:

About a week ago, I discovered that North Yuba Water District (NYWD) Manager, Jeff Maupin, was working behind the scenes with Yuba Water Agency (YWA) to obtain nearly a quarter-million dollar grant from YWA. Through public exposure on social media and a letter I authored and sent to the Boards of both agencies, this secretive move to hand over yet more money to NYWD was stopped.

In what appears to be an admission of guilt, and an after-the-fact attempt to cover his rear end, General Manager Jeff Maupin wrote a resolution giving himself authority to pursue any and all funding without involving the NYWD Board and then called a Special Meeting for Tuesday August 13 at 8 am to get the NYWD board to pass the self-authored resolution. This resolution will remove the NYWD Board and the public from any transparency in the grant process.

I came prepared with my remarks. Board President Eric Hansard and Vice President Terry Brown put a timer on my remarks and halted me at 3 minutes. This is a new policy that the four directors voted to approve which pertains to Director's Input. It does not and can not pertain to board discussions on passing resolutions or policies. As my remarks were cut off and I was not allowed to actually engage in a discussion of this proposed resolution, I am making my intended remarks public here. You can also watch the videos of the meetings here (<https://she-persisted.life/critics-corner-you-are-invited-to-view-the-board-meeting-videos-for-yourself/>) – decide for yourself

Special Meetings should be called for urgent situations that are not quite emergencies.

This is not an urgent situation. If any justification is present for a Special Meeting, it would be the GM's decision to reduce the top three Irrigation users to half of their allotment for no reason whatsoever, even after one of the user's pond put out a major fire. That would justify a Special Meeting. There is nothing here that could not have waited until the next regular board meeting.

The GM called this Special Meeting to vote on a resolution he authored because he felt it was urgent. If any board member was involved in the creation of this resolution, I am not aware of it- if this resolution was proposed by any board members, I am unaware of it. There was no prior public involvement in the development of this resolution. There has been no prior board meeting discussion whether to put this on an agenda for a vote.

This self-authored resolution gives Jeff Maupin unilateral authority over grants and removes the NYWD Board oversight of the process. May I remind you that Manager Maupin is being investigated by the State for possible fraud on a grant application. Why, with this ongoing investigation, would this board surrender oversight of grants? If you approve this resolution you are grossly irresponsible and share mutual guilt that may be rendered by investigative agencies.

Jeff Maupin has been caught overstepping his authority by the public and by me. Maupin went around the Board and behind the public's back, to request funding from YWA – a request that would result in adding almost a quarter of a million dollars more to a $500,000 grant. On what planet do engineering plans for a ditch cost almost $750,000.00???? The audacity of a general manager to overstep in this fashion and to overrun the costs of engineering plans by $225K is remarkable and should be punished – not rewarded. Are these Engineering Plans – that the public and I have never seen – gold plated? This is the fourth set of engineering plans prepared for the Forbestown Ditch project. The last set - which analyzed three different options- cost $200,000.00. One thing Jeff Maupin and this board certainly know how to do is spend, or better yet, waste, the taxpayers' and rate payers' money.

Maupin and Board President Eric Hansard were caught violating the boundaries of their authority. Now, Maupin is attempting to cover their wrongdoing, by authoring a resolution to give him the very authority he violated and calling a Special Meeting of the NYWD Board to approve it; thereby covering his hind quarters when he goes back to YWA tomorrow to re-request this additional funding without talking to the board or informing the public. This is the essence of corruption.

I put together a resolution, based on my constituent's concerns, to prohibit the GM from doing just this- self-authoring resolutions that are not done at the direction of the board. The four directors here sat silent, staring at the ceiling and ignored my request and resolution. This is the third such self-authored resolution Maupin has put forth.

Who is running this board? Certainly not the four of you. Why are you on this board? You refuse committees, you do nothing but sign away all oversight responsibility to the very employee you are supposed to be overseeing. Maupin writes a resolution and calls you all here and you approve the resolution? Do you work for Maupin? I thought WE were his employers. He should be admonished and his behavior curbed- his behavior should not be rewarded or covered up.

If you approve this resolution – you might as well have Maupin write the final resolution – dissolving this board - as Maupin clearly runs this board and you have gladly handed him the keys to the vault.

- The left's rhetoric about "no judgment" has led directly to a lack of a core moral center in our youth and young adults. The inevitable result is events like El Paso and Dayton as well as the carnage in Chicago and other inner cities. The left is primarily responsible and needs to be re-educated to reality and morality. Try the Ten Commandments as a start.
- A Garden Grove man kills 4 with a machete. Register knives. Confiscate machetes. Tax knife sharpeners.
- Don't miss Dan Walters' commentaries on government. They read thus: The government can't do anything right. He's right on. Think of all the problems with the DMV, Veterans Bureau, recycling, voting machines and dozens more. We need good managers, not glib politicians.
- Pelosi cries crocodile tears over immigrant children being separated from their illegal immigrant parents. She says nothing about family separation every day in every jurisdiction in the US when parents are arrested. Every day CPS takes children from their parents. Pelosi and her lemmings are just politicking.
- The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has introduced a plan to phase out fossil fuels by eliminating all gas stations in the county. The totalitarian idea is based on junk science and a media afraid to report the facts and the implications of ending gas stations.
- State Sen. Scott Wiener's Senate Bill 288 would allow undocumented immigrants to serve as delegates and to run for Democratic Party County Central Committees in California. Think that is a good idea?
- Let's take a closer look at Kamala Harris. She lied about her "busing" experience. She lied about her "segregated" experience. Both her parents had a Ph.d. She spent a lot of her K-12 education in Canada. She pouts as if she had been poverty stricken—another lie. Harris misrepresents the facts by saying thanks to busing, she was able to be part of only the second class to integrate in the Berkeley public school system. The truth? Berkeley High was already integrated in 1963, a year before Harris was born. She's already told more lies than Obama could even think of.

• San Francisco is creating an Office of Racial Equity, whatever that is. The Board of Supervisors voted unanimously in favor of the office, which is situated under the human rights commission, whatever that is. It will also create a "Racial Equity Framework Plan" that will outline strategies to address racial disparities in San Francisco. Huh?

• Lots of restaurants are barrens of noise. Does the noise violate the Americans with Disabilities Act, which bars places of public accommodation from discriminating against people with disabilities? Think about it next time you are in a restaurant.

• Obama and his administration knew well before the 2016 election that Russia was meddling in election systems but decided not to give warning to the states. Instead Obama started the fiction that it was Trump who was colluding with the Russians. This latest revelation about the dereliction of duty by Obama is not surprising. The entire Obama years were filled with scandals some of which cost people their lives. Obama took the typical left-wing strategy of just blaming someone else. The fact that Obama knew the truth about the Russians and never said a damn thing about it shows his true intentions. Being the worst President in American history is something that is probably not easy to live with so, Obama is trying to deflect blame. Hopefully Barr will catch up with this evil.

• Pelosi runs around calling Elijah Cummings a hero. Such talk denigrates the definition if hero.

• Leslie Marshall lies. She claims Trump only goes after jurisdictions run by minorities when he talks about filth and corruption. She conveniently forgets his missiles fired at San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland, among others run by non-minorities.

• Democrats clamor for more migrants and open borders. Trump says, okay, those who break the law will be re-located in the Democrats' home districts. Oh, no, say the Democrats. That is hateful and political. Hypocrites.

• Why do we tend to glorify people like Jesse Smollett?

• Don't adults have any smarts at all? Are they as dumb as they act? They allow transgender boys to compete in girls' athletics. They are well aware of the disastrous results of such a plan. Why do they put the girls and themselves into a no-win situation?

• Most mainstream media reporters ought to be disqualified and their credentials torn up. They are not journalists. They don't report the news. Their bias shows though in virtually every story they file in the mainstream media.

• newest definition of depravity, deceit and dishonesty is Avenetti. Why hasn't the State Bar acted?

• The mainstream media is picking up a climate change horror story almost every day. It would seem that the newsroom actually believes that humans are jumping around destroying the earth. Consider that we've been hearing doomsday predictions from "experts" for decades.

• One easy partial solution to finding dangerous youth would be to open juvenile files instead of wiping them clean. In that way, the authorities could keep better track of potentially dangerous young adults.

• TRILIA gets a $2 million loan to build a levee protecting us from flooding from the goldfields. Terrific news. Why wasn't this done a long time ago? Maybe TRILIA could have used some of the money they spent planting poison oak around some endangered bushes. The Territorial Dispatch pointed out the danger more than a decade ago. Will the levee be built in the next decade? Or later?
