Three Day Operation on Illegal Cannabis Grows

Yuba County, Ca.
On July 29th, 30th and 31st, the Yuba County Marijuana Enforcement Team (METYU) assisted by Nevada County Sheriff's Department, California Department of Fish and Wildlife, California State Water boards, NET-5, California National Guard Counterdrug, and the California Department of Food and Ag Cal Cannabis Cultivation Licensing, executed fifteen search warrants in regards to environmental violations due to cultivation of marijuana. These locations focused around cultivation sites in close proximity to South Honcut Creek, Natchez Creek, Tennessee Creek, and Dry Creek in the foothills of Yuba County.

As a result of the investigation, 5104 marijuana plants were eradicated, 53 lbs in processed marijuana was seized, and 10 people were arrested and/or cited. 28 Fish and Wildlife and water violations were discovered, including diverting creeks and pumping from the creeks to the cultivation sites. Additionally, violations totaling over 15 million in potential fines were noted by the California Department of Food and Ag Cal Cannabis Cultivation Licensing at the targeted properties.

The locations searched were in the areas of:

- 12000 block of Edgehill Way, Loma Rica
- 12000 block Lone Tree Ln, Loma Rica
- Pineview Ln, Loma Rica
- 16000 block New York House Rd, Brownsville
- Indiana Ranch Rd, Dobbins
- Scott Forbes Rd @ Deer Creek, Browns Valley
- 17000 block Ponderosa Way, Brownsville
- 16000 block Vierra Rd, Rackerby (9 locations)
- 7900 Reed Ln, Rackerby (3 locations)

Measure K Hokey Pokey

by Lou Binninger

Yuba County Administrator Robert Bendorf and his County Supervisors wanted their cake and eat it too when it came to the Measure K Sale Tax. Their private lobbying, town hall meetings, mailers, social media postings and signage sold the Measure as a Public Safety Special Tax that would be restricted to a special fund.

However, a "special" tax requires a two thirds passage by voters according to Prop 13 and 218 laws. The funds then are legally restricted to in this case public safety. But Measure K's funds can be used for anything, contrary to what voters were told. Yuba officials wanted to use the sales pitch of a public safety "special" tax to curry the voters' favor but they did not want to risk failing to reach the two-thirds vote threshold of the "special" tax.

Selling Measure K as a General Fund Tax to be used for anything would have met resistance because people are put-off by the exorbitant entertainment-style salaries of county officials, 'Cadillac' pension / health plans and the mismanagement of CalPERS (government employee retirement fund). Voters see rich salaries / pensions and poor quality public services. After paying county personnel, there is little left to go toward improving the county. Most of Measure K's revenues now will be utilized for the runaway unfunded pension debt.

Some agency leaders were alarmed when learning that Measure K monies could be diverted from public safety. Bendorf assured them that he would take care of it in the fine print of the ordinance. What does that mean?

The funds are restricted or they aren't. Years ago, a Transit Occupancy Tax on hotels was put to voters with officials saying that the funds would be used to boost tourism in the county. It passed and the funds disappeared into the General Fund black hole.

County-hired attorneys Colantuono, Ruderman, and Harkins are selling a mirage that it was a General Fund Tax in order to preserve the government's simple majority win. This is a "special tax" pig with lipstick. In a December 16, 2017 email to Supervisor Mike Leahy from Crystal Martin, the county's

Aronson Cover-Up

by Lou Binninger

In June 2018, the Sutter County Grand Jury (GJ) refused to sign a severely edited version of their work and resigned. Therefore, no GJ report was available for the public.

Sutter County Superior Court Judge Brian Aronson, after taking over GJ supervision from Judge Sarah Heckman who was unable to manage the controversial testimony given the jury, did his best to bury the information gleaned about troubled District Attorney (DA) Amanda Hopper and County Counsel Jean Jordan.

Next, Aronson resigned his position on the bench after just being elected to a fifth 4-year term of office. Hopper was re-elected to her second term and Jordan was given an extension on her contract by the Board of Supervisors.

Former DA lead investigator Jason Parker, also of interest to the GJ, was fired and his dismissal upheld by county supervisors even after an Administrative Law Judge ruled the county had no grounds to dispose of Parker. Both Parker and investigator Dave Williams were repeatedly attacked by Hopper in Appeal Democrat newspaper articles questioning their credibility and character.

The 2017-18 Grand Jury received numerous complaints regarding Hopper's office that led to its inquiry. The complaints included a "hostile work environment, retaliation, listening to an illegal wiretap, and violating the county vehicle use policy."

Current and past employees interviewed described working in a "hostile work environment." Vulgarity, profanity, juvenile behavior and inappropriate text messages were noted as common place and condoned by the DA. The GJ found the accusations credible while the DA considered the behavior acceptable since the employees were adults.

Hopper is quoted, "I'm never going to tell an adult human being in my office, you know, hey we're having a conversation, watch your mouth. No, that's not what would happen." The GJ report said this gave staff the impression that vulgarity and profanity were acceptable.

An illegal recording of a private conversation with Anu Chopra, former attorney in the DA's office was presented by a citizen to DA Hopper. Chopra had been fired from the office, then sued the county for unlawful dismissal and was considering opposing Hopper for re-election.

River Salmon Fishing with Scott 'Curly' DiBella

The Rooster Tails Fishing Club monthly breakfast will be held at the Auburn Elks Lodge at 195 Pine Street in Auburn on Friday, August 16, 2019. This free event is open to club members, spouses, and non-member guests. Doors to the Lodge open at 7:00 a.m. to share fresh brewed coffee. A fantastic $15 wide-selection buffet breakfast is served at 8:00 am, followed at 9:00 am with special guest speaker, 'Curly' DiBella, Curly's Guide Service, giving a special presentation on how to catch trophy salmon from the central valley rivers as well as the ocean. You don't want to miss this one!

Curly will provide breakfast attendees with proven techniques for tackle rigging and strategies to score quality salmon and locations of traditional salmon hot spots. Learn where fellow fishing guides fish a special Sacramento River hot spot called the 'Hippy Hole' that Curly made famous for catching a 65 pound salmon! Curly enjoys sharing his non-traditional fishing secrets that has made his guide service in high demand. Some angler's may find his fishing strategy a little unorthodox from traditional methods but effective. Breakfast attendees will see the modified 'Silvertron Curly Lure' and techniques for using it and hear about the jarring explosion of monster salmon slamming this hybrid spinner.

You can book a memorable guided salmon trip by contacting Curly at 530-559-1443

The 30 year old, 200+ members Rooster Tails Fishing Club of Northern California, Inc. is a non-profit organization that meets the third Friday of each month to educate, entertain, and enhance fishing experience. Unlike many bass and fly fishing clubs that concentrate on very specific types of fishing, the Rooster Tails Fishing Club provides a balanced mix of fishing techniques presented by fishing experts targeting a variety of fish species on multiple types of waters. For more information contact Jim, Club Chairman, 530-887-0479, or visit the club's web site at www.roostertailsfishingclub.org.

Lake Oroville Recreation Update

by Assemblyman James Gallagher

Spillway Boat Ramp Reopening

The Spillway Boat Ramp is scheduled to reopen early to mid-August. Over the next week, the Department of Water Resources will work with state partners to test technical systems and perform a dry run to ensure full functionality of the ramp. Once reopened, the ramp will be available from Friday-Sunday 5 a.m. – 11 p.m.

Road Closure Near Oroville Dam Lifted

Oroville Dam Blvd. East opened to traffic at 12:30 p.m. Monday after paving work was completed earlier than scheduled.

Feather Fish Hatchery Closure

Feather River Fish Hatchery will be closed to the public for approximately two weeks for routine maintenance and inspections.

Public Access to Top of Dam

The pedestrian lane on the lakeside of Dam Crest Road is open from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week to all walkers, joggers, and bicyclists. Parking is available at the Upper Overlook. For safety considerations, the public is not able to drive across the top of dam.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for more than 75 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

Reports tell us salmon are being taken in the Sacramento area to the south and the Red Bluff area to the North. Local fishing in both the Sacramento and Feather Rivers has been somewhat productive but is extremely slow at this time. Local resident Ted Johnson fished the Feather River last week and managed to land one eleven pound buck salmon. He caught the fish above Boyd's Pump boat ramp. Boats have been seen on the waters but are few and far between.

Most trout in reservoirs and lakes in the valley and above have gone into summer mode which means they have gone deep to find cooler water. Downriggers will be necessary from now until Fall but those without them and who have a boat can also score with jigs and bottom fishing with bait and a sliding sinker.

Mono and Inyo Counties received most of the trout plant last week with fish also planted in Lassen, El Dorado, Shasta and Tehama counties in the usual streams and reservoirs.

We hear from Lake Davis near Portola. The trout here are cooperating and anglers using lures or trolling with night crawlers are scoring big at this time. Fish are running from 18 to 22 inches.

We recommend not fishing in the Thermolito after bay at this time, but to concentrate on Lake Oroville for bass. Kings are also being taken for those who fish for them. The bass population can be found in waters between 40 and 60 feet at this time. Find a school and have a ball.

The catfish bite is still in full swing at Collins Lake above Marysville. We hear of a catfish which was huge and was said to be over three feet long. What did it weigh?

Well, the darn fish was not weighed or accurately measured so we have several different weights from folks at the scene. Some say over 20 pounds while others say maybe 15 pounds or so. Either way it was a "BIG ONE"

Closing thought: "The opening of the school year is just around the corner so look out for the kids."

Food and Farm News

Senate hearing focuses on USMCA trade pact

Saying a new agreement would "lift the cloud of uncertainty hanging over North American trade," farming organizations urged the U.S. Senate to ratify the U.S.-Canada-Mexico Agreement. Farm groups and agricultural businesses testified before the Senate Finance Committee, as did automotive, trucking, small-business and labor groups. The American Farm Bureau Federation said Congress and the administration should "double down" on talks to approve the agreement.

Tariff reductions help pistachio exports

Reducing tariffs on American-grown pistachios helped sell an extra 2.3 billion pounds of the nuts to foreign customers, according to a new study. The increase came during a nine-year period as a result of lower tariffs from Israel, Mexico, China and the European Union--and before some of those nations imposed retaliatory tariffs on pistachios and other crops. Virtually all U.S.-grown pistachios come from California.

Worldwide citrus production to increase

There will be more citrus fruit on the market around the world this year. The U.S. Agriculture Department says worldwide orange production will rebound to the highest level in eight years, accompanied by record global crops of tangerines, mandarins, lemons and limes. The U.S. is among the nations producing more citrus. California leads the U.S. in fresh oranges, tangerines, mandarins and lemons, with larger crops expected for all except lemons.

Farmers report benefits from soil-health activities

Case studies released Tuesday indicate actions to improve soil health can help farm profitability as well as the environment. American Farmland Trust worked with farmers in California and three other states, reviewing practices such as composting, use of cover crops and other soil-health techniques. Researchers say the examples show farmers being able to reduce their costs and improve crop yields, while also enhancing water and air quality.

The Acting Company Presents:

The Musical...ANNIE (Main Stage)

Directed By: Stephanie Bollinger

Performances: Sep. 20th - Oct. 27th

With equal measures of pluck and positivity, little orphan Annie charms everyone's hearts despite a next-to-nothing start in 1930's New York City. She is determined to find the parents who abandoned her years ago on the doorstep of a New York City orphanage that is run by the cruel, embittered Miss Hannigan. With the help of the other girls in the orphanage, Annie escapes to the wondrous world NYC. In adventure after fun-filled adventure, Annie foils Miss Hannigan's evil machinations... and even befriends President Franklin Delano Roosevelt! She finds a new home and family in billionaire, Oliver Warbucks, his personal secretary, Grace Farrell, and a lovable mutt named Sandy. Annie—the perfect family musical.

Main Stage performances are Fridays and Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2:00 p.m.

Tickets are $20 per person. Best to make reservations in advance. Opening Weekend Discounts: $18 for Seniors, Students, and Military Families. Scheduled groups of 6 or more, tickets are $18 per person.

8th Annual Community Resource Fair

Announcing the upcoming 8th Annual Community Resource Fair, "Assisting Those in Need." The fair is Saturday, August 17th from 10 a.m.-1:00 p.m. at Gauche Park, 421 C Street, in Yuba City. The Community Resource Fair is an opportunity for residents to learn about no-cost and low-cost programs and services available to their families from more than 70 non-profit and governmental agencies.

The first 500 attendees will receive a complimentary barbecue meal, plus there's a kid's fun run, twice an hour prize drawings, education and awareness about valuable community resources and activities for all ages. Our main goal is to reach the at-risk members of our community. More than 600 area residents attended the event last year.

Measure K Hokey Pokey

hired “snow job queen,” Martin called the future Measure K “Yuba County Law Enforcement Sales Tax.”

That has been the drum beat all along. Sacramento attorneys Bell, McAndrews, and Hiltachk, LLP representing the opposition to K intend to show Judge Stephen Berrier that there has been a bait and switch campaign employed by Yuba County government to deceive voters.

If Judge Berrier decides that the Measure K campaign was legitimate it will undermine Proposition 13 and 218’s protections passed by voters to make it more difficult for a simple majority to raise taxes.

The other travesty is that the county used hundreds of thousands of tax dollars for a media campaign to deceive citizens to vote to tax themselves even more. Why? To shore – up the General Fund pension debt. County officials called this an “educational campaign” to get around being charged for a misuse of public funds.

This is a freedom of speech violation. The spending is against the law but California’s Fair Political Practices Commission (FPPC), an impotent group with weak enforcement powers, says district attorneys will not prosecute. Prosecutors and even judges have a conflict of interest since they all benefit from the additional revenue.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-19-854571-CL. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. You can't make this stuff up.

Well you have to admit, crazier things have happened but not many. Bernie Sanders, presidential candidate and democratic socialist(kind of like being half pregnant and a contradiction in terms) and millionaire (go figure) posts some strange endorsements on his official campaign website page. <https://berniesanders.com/anti-endorsements/>

That a semi-socialist would run in a capitalist country (still thank God) and think he has a chance to win is odd enough, but what his endorsement section looks like makes one wonder just how sane this 77 year old is.

Not that I am knocking or endorsing him myself mind you, but being an economic guy and self-professed capitalist, I have to call out folks who I perceive are posting stuff that makes one question if the grey matter within their head is sound enough to run a small country, let alone the most powerful one on the planet.

Apparently other

likely much smarter folks then me have entertained that thought as well and it becomes rather obvious when you look at what some pretty powerful and successful people are saying about him. Bernie had the guts (maybe there's a better word for it) to actually list what's being said about him on his official page, thinking these types of things will help him get elected. Quoting Franklin Roosevelt on the section above the anti-endorsements: "Judge me by the enemies I have made". Ok Bernie, we will do just that.

· "In 2016 I saw Bernie Sanders and the kids around him. I thought: 'This is the antichrist!'" — Home Depot Co-Founder Kenneth Langone

· "If Bernie Sanders became president, I think stock prices should be 30% to 40% lower than they are now." — Billionaire hedge fund manager Stanley Druckenmiller

· "Just because it resonates doesn't make it right." — JPMorgan CEO Jamie Dimon Sanders' wealth tax proposals on the rich

· "Bernie Sanders, in my opinion, doesn't have a clue." — Leon Cooperman, a former partner at Goldman Sachs

· "The senator's uninformed views are, in a word, contemptible." — Former Verizon CEO Lowell McAdam

· "All of these proposals, Sanders' proposals, they are just going to kill growth." — Hardees and Carl's Jr. CEO Andy Puzder on Sanders' plan to raise the minimum wage

· "How many jobs have you created?" — Disney CEO Bob Iger on Sanders' calls to raise wages at Disney

· "GE operates in the real world. We're in the business of building real things and generating real growth." — Former GE CEO Jeffrey Immelt after Sanders called out the company's greed

· "It has the potential to be a dangerous moment," Former Goldman Sachs CEO Lloyd Blankfein said of Sanders's campaign

· "Remember, the basic problem of inequality is a fact that people are born that way." — Former Fed Chair Alan Greenspan on Sanders' agenda

· "He's the enemy of every entrepreneur that's ever going to be born in the country and has been born in the country." — Home Depot co-founder Bernard Marcus

I really get a kick out of Alan Greenspan's quote. Born that way Alan? No comment but although it is said all men are created equal, you have to wonder sometimes.

In any case, there is a lot of pretty accomplished people in the lineup against Sanders here and all of them have a LOT of real business world experience. Again look at their job titles. I might repeat Disney's Bob Iger's quote by asking "Hey Bernie, just how many jobs have you created?"

One might argue these folks are all capitalists and yes, anyone in business is or least should be if they are to be successful. In fact I never knew a business man who stayed one adopting socialistic principals. To be successful you pretty much have to be a capitalist in my opinion.

Concluding now, I doubt Sanders has a snowballs chance in you-know-where and more likely the Democratic candidate will be another multi-millionaire, Joe Biden, perceived by many to be more moderate. He's just as rich as Sanders if not more so.

You can't make this stuff up. Comedy Central here we come.

Let's Celebrate

Part 1 by Carol Withington

Once more, the journey continues as we discover the connection between the African American pioneers of Yuba, Sutter and Nevada Counties.

Although January 1, 1867 was described as "dull" in the "Marysville Daily Appeal", the local African Americans gave it life with the first ever recorded celebration in the community. It was reported that an equal number of whites and African Americans were in attendance during the Emancipation Proclamation event in the District Courtroom in Marysville. The affair included music by the Excelsior Band and readings by Jesse McGowan and S.P. Clanton.

The Rev. James H. Hubbard's opening address was such a success that the entire text was published on the front page of the Marysville newspaper. Rev. Hubbard, a Marysville pioneer, once served as pastor of the local Bethel A.M.E. Church. He later settled in Grass Valley. Over the years, Rev. Hubbard was known as "one of the distinguished African American ministers" in California.

But this would not end the many celebrations of the African American residents of Marysville, Grass Valley and Nevada City. On April 7, 1870 one of the "grandest" Emancipation Proclamation events took place in Marysville. It became even more special because African American males had finally been given voting rights under the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment. A canvas of eligible voters in both Marysville and Yuba County revealed around 120. Of this amount, about one third voted during the 1870 election.

Among those voters listed in a Marysville newspaper were James Monroe, Romeo and Solomon Breeden; James and Phillip Churchill, Edward Parker Duplex, and the Rev. Thomas Randolph with ages ranging from 31 to 73.

The main exercises were held in the City Hall. Duplex was selected "President of the Day" with Jesse McGowan and Isaac Watkins assisting him. Once again the Rev. Hubbard spoke to the huge crowd. The "Marysville Daily Appeal" described his presentation as "one of the most eloquent and learned addresses it has been our pleasure to hear in this state. . ."

And not to be outdone, on April 12 the African American communities of Grass Valley and Nevada City also gathered to celebrate Emancipation Proclamation Day. Neither snow nor mud would hinder it, according to journalist Jennie Carter in her column for the "Elevator" newspaper in San Francisco. The procession to the theater in Nevada City headed by her husband's band "can't be beat", Carter noted. Here the children sang and never was "America" "warbled forth sweeter".

Nathaniel Ford, a Nevada City barber, was the President for the occasion and the oration by the Rev. Hubbard was described by Carter as "killing". She was overwhelmed. George Cantine, a former Marysville resident, was a Reader for the event. All in all, the day "proved to be pleasant" as residents awaited a grand ball in Grass Valley.

Three years later, Carter would attend the Emancipation Day in Marysville. Part 2 of Let's Celebrate in the September issue will reveal this event through the eyes of this popular journalist.

THE Brownsville Bailiwick & Beyond

Please plan a visit to Yuba Feather Museum in Forbestown sometime soon; they will be closing for the summer on August 31. They are open on weekend afternoons from noon until four until then. There is an ice cream social on Aug. 18 and again on closing day. The displays in the museum itself are interesting and the replica village is a great place to imagine life around here more than 100 years ago. Yuba Feather Historical Ass. is always looking for new members, too. Come join the fun.

Time to go to the Farmer's Market in Brownsville this Saturday. Produce is beginning to come in, so they have many things for sale: blueberries, peaches, watermelon, cucumbers, cabbages, corn and more. In addition there are home baked goods, jellies and jams, jewelry, soaps, and crafts. There is room for a booth featuring a bake sale for a non-profit organization. One can set up a booth pretty easily, so come on up and check it out. Have a great lunch and visit with friends and neighbors. Enjoy the fruits of our local farmers' labors and help support this local effort.

Are you interested in learning how to play the piano? Well, we have a wonderful piano teacher right here in our own backyard. Gail Creel would love to teach you how to tickle those ivory keys. If you are interested in lessons please call Books and More at, 675-3275, to get Gail's phone number. And, as long as we are on the subject of piano lessons, the Hillside Community Church has a free piano and or organ they wish to give away. If you are interested you can contact the church at 530-675-2151.

These hot summer days are a good time to sit in the shade with a cool glass of lemonade or ice tea and read a good book. Books and More, in Brownsville, is the only bookstore in Yuba County and they have an extensive array of genres, titles and more. What you can't find they can order for you. Stop in and browse the many isles and shelves of books that can take you to far away places, introduce you to interesting and or unusual people, wander in the jungle with wild animals, fall in love with a prince, or take a flight on a magic carpet. The possibilities are endless. Books and More is located on Willow Glen Rd. in Brownsville.

Look Back in Time — In 1933 Mae West said that the secret to her curves was a diet of thick cream, pies and pastries, rich sauces and wearing a padded corset (wonder what her cholesterol levels were).

Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

OPINIONS

Our Free Speech Crisis

by Dr. Walter Williams

The First Amendment to our Constitution was proposed by the 1788 Virginia Ratification Convention during its narrow 89-to-79 vote to ratify the Constitution.

Virginia’s resolution held that the free exercise of religion, right to assembly, and free speech could not be canceled, abridged, or restrained. These Madisonian principles were eventually ratified by the states on March 1, 1792.

Gettysburg College professor Allen C. Guelzo, in his article “Free Speech and Its Present Crisis,” appearing in the autumn 2018 edition of City Journal, explores the trials and tribulations associated with the First Amendment.

The early attempts to suppress free speech were signed into law by President John Adams and became known as the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798.

The liberal Left continue to push their radical agenda against American values. The good news is there is a solution.

Later attempts to suppress free speech came during the Civil War, when President Abraham Lincoln and his generals attacked newspapers and suspended habeas corpus.

It wasn’t until 1919, in the case of Abrams v. United States, when the U.S. Supreme Court finally and unambiguously prohibited any kind of censorship.

Today, there is growing contempt for free speech, most of which is found on the nation’s college and university campuses.

Guelzo cites the free speech vision of Princeton University professor Carolyn Rouse, who is chairperson of the department of anthropology.

Rouse shared her vision on speech during last year’s Constitution Day lecture. She called free speech a political illusion, a baseless ruse to enable people to “say whatever they want, in any context, with no social, economic, legal or political repercussions.”

As an example, she says that a climate change skeptic has no right to make “claims about climate change, as if all the science discovered over the last X-number of centuries were irrelevant.”

Rouse is by no means unique in her contempt for our First Amendment rights.

Faculty leaders of the University of California consider certain statements racist microaggressions: “America is a melting pot”; “America is the land of opportunity”; “Everyone can succeed in this society, if they work hard enough”; and “There is only one race, the human race.” The latter statement is seen as denying the individual as a racial/cultural being.

Then there’s “I believe the most qualified person should get the job.” That’s “racist” speech because it gives the impression that “people of color are given extra unfair benefits because of their race.”

Other seemingly innocuous statements deemed unacceptable are: “When I look at you, I don’t see color,” or “Affirmative action is racist.” Perhaps worst of all is, “Where are you from, or where were you born?”

We should reject any restriction on free speech.

We might ask ourselves, “What’s the true test of one’s commitment to free speech?”

It does not come when people permit others to say or publish ideas with which they agree. The true test of one’s commitment to free speech comes when others are permitted to say and publish ideas they deem offensive.

The test for one’s commitment to freedom of association is similar. Christian Americans have been hounded for their refusal to cater same-sex weddings.

For those who support such attacks, we might ask them whether they would seek prosecution of the owner of a Jewish delicatessen who refused to provide services for a neo-Nazi affair.

Should a black catering company be forced to cater a Ku Klux Klan affair? Should the NAACP be forced to open its membership to racist skinheads? Should the Congressional Black Caucus be forced to open its membership to white members of Congress?

The true test of a person’s commitment to freedom of association does not come when he permits people to associate in ways he finds acceptable. It comes when he permits people to voluntarily associate in ways he deems offensive.

I am afraid that too many of my fellow Americans are hostile to the principles of liberty. Most people want liberty for themselves. I differ. I want liberty for me and liberty for my fellow man.

Potential Break-up of PG&E Looking Less Likely

by Chris Reed for Cal Watchdog

Eight months after the head of the California Public Utilities Commission suggested it was time for a radical shake-up of Pacific Gas & Electric, the state’s largest power utility appears to be at much less risk of a hostile takeover or being broken up into smaller utilities.

While Gov. Gavin Newsom has been sharply critical of PG&E for years for fires and disasters blamed on its lax practices, the former San Francisco mayor has offered no encouragement to London Breed, the city’s current mayor, who is interested in taking over some PG&E assets and using them in a municipal power utility.

The bill passed by the state Legislature this month at Newsom’s behest to create a $21 billion account jointly funded by utilities and ratepayers to help deal with the high cost of wildfires included provisions that gave the CPUC more power to control the fate of PG&E assets. It also specified that any new owner of a utility cannot reduce the number of employees for three years, which analysts saw as an attempt to discourage a takeover.

Mayors blast part of wildfire legislation Breed, San Jose Mayor Sam Liccardo, and Oakland Mayor Libby Schaaf sharply criticized these provisions in a letter to Newsom and legislative leaders. They “set a dangerous precedent by limiting local government autonomy over its own employee relationships,” the mayors wrote.

Newsom also effectively sided with PG&E in opposing the attempt by utility bondholders to force the utility to change its present plan to emerge from the Chapter 11 bankruptcy it filed for in January because of $30 billion in expected claims over wildfires blamed on the utility’s equipment. PG&E wants to use a portion of its earnings and cost savings to issue tax-exempt bonds to pay for wildfire costs. Bondholders back a complex alternative plan that would sharply reduce the equity of shareholders.

PG&E, which has 16 million customers, must finalize and file its reorganization plan with federal bankruptcy court by Sept. 29. To qualify for assistance from the $21 billion state wildfire relief fund, it must be out of bankruptcy by June 30, 2020.

Meanwhile, the CPUC president who blasted PG&E in December is likely in his final weeks on the job. Michael Picker announced in May that he would retire this summer but would stay on until Newsom chose his replacement.

Picker has long faced criticism for the perception that the utilities commission was too protective of the state’s three giant investor-owned utilities – PG&E, Southern California Edison and San Diego Gas & Electric.

New scandal was last straw for CPUC chief

But a turning point came in December when the CPUC staff presented evidence that PG&E knowingly followed unsafe practices in maintaining and inspecting natural gas lines for five years after a natural gas explosion killed eight people in San Bruno in 2010.

“This process will be like repairing a jetliner while it’s in flight,” he said. “The keystone question is would, compared to PG&E and PG&E Corp. as presently constituted, any of the proposals provide Northern Californians with safer natural gas and electric service at just and reasonable rates.”

Picker subsequently said the CPUC and state leaders should consider a state takeover or having the utility broken up into smaller components.

The new scandal and Picker’s remarks helped drop PG&E’s stock price from over $23 a share in mid-December to under $7 a month later. The share price had rebounded to $18.70 as of the close of the market on Friday, reflecting analysts’ confidence that PG&E will survive Chapter 11.

THINK About It!

By Charlie McNiff

Omar Faces Challenge

Ilhan Omar, the congresswoman from Minnesota’s Minneapolis area has no problem dismissing the 9/11 terrorist attack as made by “some people who did something”... as if the monumental tragedy that took over 3,000 lives by bringing down New York City’s Twin Towers was simply a trivial event.

Her anti-Semitic remarks that affronted the Jewish peoples by conjuring up visions of World War Two’s Holocaust by Nazi Germany when describing detention centers on our southern border housing hordes of illegal immigrants primarily from three Central American countries that include El Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala... and many other anti-American insults

Senator Steve Daines (R-Mont.) summed it up recently when he stated, “Montanans are sick and tired of listening to anti-American, anti-Semitic, radical Democrats trash our country and our ideals.”

It seems to be a constant barrage of “America Bashing” by Omar and her three congressional comrades that include ringleader Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (D-NY), Rashida Tlaib (D-Mich.) and Ayanna Pressley (D-Mass.).

Well, it could be curtains for Omar because a challenger from her district jumped into the ring last week who could be a formidable opponent that could result in a two-year flash-in-the-pan existence for the congresswoman.

Following is an article on July 30th by Holly McKay of Fox News:

Chris Kelley Tosses His Army Vet Cap In Against Omar

“Chris Kelley, who has collected eleven military medals as a 27-year veteran of the U.S. Army and Army Reserves and clocked more than 36,000 hours patrolling the Minnesota streets as a 20-year veteran of the Minneapolis Police Force, has his sights set on knocking Omar from her seat representing Minnesota’s 5th Congressional District in 2020. (Courtesy Chris Kelley)

When Rep. Ilhan Omar ignited steep controversy in March describing the September 11 attacks as “some people did something,” it was then that a longtime cop in her neighborhood decided he needed to do more than just bemoan what he perceived as a shocking trivialization of a terrorist attack that tore through the fabric of his beloved country.

“September 11 was a terrible loss of life, not just for police officers and firefighters and other first responders, but 3,000 people and non-combatants died, and to be dismissive of that was an outrage. I could sit and complain or I could do something about it,” Kelley, who is campaigning as an Independent, told Fox News. “And I believe I can be a positive voice in standing up for people in our country, and for our first responders and the people every day on the frontlines.”

In his view, current representative Omar has devoted too much time to crafting her “celebrity” than on being of service to the community, which he insists he will serve honorably if elected.

“As former military, I am here to serve and not further my status. I want to do a good job for the people I represent and I don’t have a personal agenda,” noted Kelley, who deployed once during Operation Desert Storm and twice during Operation Iraqi Freedom as an intelligence analyst and also holds an master’s degree in Criminal Justice Leadership from Concordia University in St. Paul.

“I’m passionate about service and I just want to be able to continue that.”

He isn’t totally a political rookie. Kelley campaigned for the Republican Senate endorsement in 2016 and, while unsuccessful, it gave the 49-year-old a taste for what Minnesotans wanted and needed.

“Immigration is a big issue right now. I believe in having a secure border; you don’t have a country if you don’t have a border. Our border agents are doing a great job, but they are being overwhelmed and Congress isn’t giving them the tools they need,” he said. “But I would also like to see a pathway to citizenship for those under DACA; they couldn’t help they were brought here and need a shot to be able to stay here.”

Kelley stressed that he also remains firmly committed to boosting Medicare, while ensuring private health insurance remains available and the costs are driven down. He also supports term limits on representatives of both the House and the Senate.

Furthermore, as the father of a 5-year-old, he also underscored the importance of addressing the ever-looming elephant in the room.

“A big concern I have is our national debt, and I would like to work on bringing this down. It should be a priority,” Kelley continued. “I have a 5-year-old and this debt will be in our children’s lap.”

And despite the blatant political differences he has with Omar, the local police officer is vowing to run a “positive, fact-based campaign” that won’t entail attacking or ridiculing his opponent.

Columnist Note: It appears to be a rocky road for Omar, one of the most outspoken of the Four Pony Riders of the Apocalypse. I defer to one of the tunes that Trump supporters voice when a protester is led away from one of his rallies... Na na na na, Na na na na, hey, hey-ey, gGoodbye

The Sutter County Board of Supervisors Plan Could Add Six New Firefighters to the Sutter County Fire Department

Sutter County, Ca.

In a special meeting Friday, the Board of Supervisors granted the Sutter County Fire Department authority to apply for a Staffing for Adequate Fire & Emergency Response (SAFER) grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). If the County is successful in acquiring $1.1 million in federal funds, the County would be committed to paying a local share of cost of $707,311 over the course of three years.

The Sutter County Fire Department is responsible for 254 square miles outside the city limits of Yuba City between the Feather River and the Sutter Bypass, including the Sutter Buttes. The Department staffs fire stations in Sutter, Live Oak, and Oswald-Tudor, with just 14 fulltime firefighters and some two dozen volunteers. The Fire Department has suffered from low staffing levels for several years and has experienced staffing difficulties due to injuries and related increases in workers compensation costs.

The County has been investigating possible funding measures to increase revenues to the Fire Department. In late June, the Sutter County Grand Jury reported on the critical condition of the Sutter County Fire Department's budget and its impact on firefighter safety and response times. The Grand Jury recommended the Board conduct community outreach to alert the 22,500 Sutter County residents served by the Fire Department about the condition of the budget, and to consider funding options, including reassessing a Special Fire Tax that has gone unchanged since its inception in 1997.

County Fire Departments are uncommon. The Live Oak, Sutter, and Oswald-Tudor Fire Departments were formerly stand-alone fire departments, but growth in the County and the need for more professional firefighting capacity forced a merger into a county-wide agency funded by a Special Fire Tax, in addition to a small portion of property tax that generates about one cent for every dollar of property tax generated.

The Sutter County Fire Department sought a 100 percent grant due to economic hardship, but Fire Chief John Shalowitz told Board members he was notified last week FEMA had denied the County economic hardship status.

Interim County Administrative Officer Steve Smith told the Board the money for the local match would likely come from the County's general fund, although if any other sources of revenue were available they would be used first.

Board members voted unanimously to the funding promise, but noted the grant is a short-term solution to a long-term problem—chronic underfunding of the Sutter County Fire Department as the result of an old funding formula, rising costs, and fewer volunteer fire fighters.

Board members indicated general support for some form of tax measure to increase revenues and appealed to firefighters who attended the meeting to actively support such a measure if placed on the ballot. Board members and County staff would be precluded by law from spending county time actively campaigning for approval of such a measure. However, community meetings can be held where County staff explain current funding and possible funding solutions.

Berkeley is usually front and center of every leftist idea which floats through the ether. Berkeley City Council is voting on an ordinance that would eliminate masculine and feminine pronouns from the city's municipal code, changing gender-specific language to gender-neutral language. Well, in August, 1973, Western City Magazine published an article about the City of San Diego doing the exact same name-change routine. Seems like Berkeley, the left-leaning king of the world, missed this one.

It took 25 years to obtain permission to build 22,000 homes in the Grapevine area of Southern California. Just imagine the jobs that were lost during that time, how much higher the costs are for the homes, how much tax revenue was lost. Still, the environmentalists did everything possible to keep these houses from being built. Newsom and the Democrats cry crocodile tears about the housing shortage, but they have done all they can to make it worse by helping the insane environmentalists..

Democrats are running around saying Trump is Hitler and a racist for maintaining that Baltimore is a disgrace to the country.

? Pelosi is reported to say "Illegal immigrants in sanctuary cities are law-abiding citizens."

The Democrats fired a woman staff member because she was white. Isn't that action a crime under the law? If she were Black and was fired, all hell would break loose. Apparently, diversity means "anything that is not white".

"In the 1970s, we were told we were in a cooling crisis and if we didn't do something immediately we'd find ourselves in a new ice age." says Nick Loris, deputy director of Heritage's Roe Institute for Economic Policy Studies and a Herbert and Joyce Morgan Fellow in energy and environmental policy. Obviously that crisis didn't happen. So the "cry wolf" crowd changed their tune and we were told that "entire nations could be wiped off the face of the Earth by rising sea levels if the global warming trend was not reversed by the year 2000." Obviously that didn't happen either. Remember the experts also told us that Y2K would destroy our electronic infrastructure. Nope. Didn't happen. How many more manufactured crises will we have to endure by "experts" before we get wise to ourselves?

Replacing gasoline-driven cars in California would require 134% of current global cobalt production, 67% of current global neodymium production, 50% of current global production of lithium, and 34% of current global production of copper. As said by folks who have done the research; "They can no more decree an EV fleet to be so than they can change the color of the sky."

Haven't heard too much about toxic masculinity recently. We still don't know exactly what this terrible condition is. Is this condition covered by our health insurance?

AOC and Pelosi met alone in Pelosi's octagon. Claws and teeth were the weapons of choice. Result? Nothing. They both are committed to continue to spout insanity to the detriment of the nation.

The Republican Party has 19 members of the State Assembly out of 80. They have 11 in the State Senate, out of 40; and 7 congressional members in a delegation of 53. The GOP has no Statewide officers. In the last report the Republican Party had about $770,000 cash on hand, while the Democrats had over $11 million. The State GOP has not had, and still does not have, a voter registration program. With this fact, it is certain that Republicans will win the next election. Not.

Joe Biden claims to be a "moderate". In the Democrat Party, that means being a "totalitarian Socialist." He wants to make illegal invaders citizens immediately. That policy position shows how desperate the Democrats are to get votes for 2020.

A quote from the internet: "...a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury signifying nothing." Shakespeare wrote those words four hundred years ago -- he must have known ol' Schiff-for-brains would show up sooner or later.

Al Franken says he regrets resigning from the Senate. We don't.

So far this summer there haven't been any heat records. But the phrase "climate change" continues to be a regular insert in the mainstream media. And according to the brilliant AOC the earth has only 12 years left before it kills us all off. So, the ignoramuses demand cheap power and the end of fossil fuel. How do we do that? Why, by blowing up all our hydroelectric plants which produces the cleanest power available, with the exception of nuclear.

It was sad to watch Mueller stumble about in the recent hearing. He didn't even know what FusionGPS was. His handlers should have put the kabash on his appearance. It was a horribly unfair destruction of his reputation. Of course, Nadler and Schiff didn't give a wit. They had to come up with something to justify their claims of evidence spouting out of their lying mouths for the past two years. Not only did they fail miserably, but they proved themselves to be horrible examples of Americans. Hopefully their constituents will take appropriate action and retire them quickly.

San Franciscans are fighting homeless shelters. It appears they like the present conditions on the streets. Maybe some of them want to set up toll boxes so tourists can tour the mess.

Pelosi calls Elijah Cummings a hero. A hero of the rat infestation. A hero of the homeless. A hero of trash. Of course, Pelosi is a hero of the came ilk, as she is from San Francisco which shares some of the blight of Baltimore.

Leslie Marshall lies. She claims that Trump only goes after jurisdictions which are run by minorities. She conveniently forgets that Los Angeles, San Francisco Chicago and Oakland — among many others — are not run by minorities but they are as filthy as those which are.

Federalist 10 (Madison) says "The first object of government is the protection of different and unequal facilities of acquiring property."

Newsom wants private tax returns from presidential candidates or he will remove their name from the ballot in California. Newsom, take a long walk off a short pier.

Ricardo Lara, California Insurance Commissioner, should resign. If not, he should be recalled from office. This Democrat is using his office as a gateway for the favored donors—which means unless you gave him money, he will use his office to harm you. This is called pay to play and is illegal, unless you are a Democrat in California. Years ago a Republican, Chuck Quackenbush, holding that office and was forced to resign when Democrats pointed out the corruption—. Why are they silent now?

HJTA Appeals San Francisco Ruling Denying Need for Two-Thirds Vote on Taxes

The Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association has filed an appeal of a San Francisco Superior Court ruling that special tax-increase measures submitted to the voters last year needed only a simple majority to pass instead of a two-thirds vote.

"This is a brand new loophole contravening the voters' intent in Propositions 13 and 218 that all local special taxes require two-thirds voter consent," said HJTA president Jon Coupal.

The Court based its ruling on a California Supreme Court opinion in a 2017 case, California Cannabis Coalition v. City of Upland. But that case did not involve whether a tax increase proposed by voter initiative needed a two-thirds vote to pass, nor decided if the two-thirds vote applied only to tax increases proposed by government entities.

"We argued that Upland never reached this issue. And we argued that this creates a two-margin system. Now, when the politicians themselves use the citizens' initiative process, they can ignore the requirement of two-thirds voter consent," said HJTA attorney Laura Dougherty, "This violates the traditional understanding of the law over the past forty years and leads to absurd results."

Fifty-one percent of San Francisco voters approved a June 2018 measure, designated as Proposition C. That measure is a tax on commercial rents to raise more than $145 million annually for childcare, early education, and salary increases for preschool teachers. A November measure, also called Proposition C, imposes a gross receipts tax on larger businesses to raise $300 million for homeless housing and services. It received 61 percent voter approval.

Proposition 13, approved by California voters in 1978, requires a two-thirds vote of the electorate to pass a tax increase for any special purpose.

"The Legislative Analyst's Office, California League of Cities, and numerous other local governments have agreed that all local special taxes require two-thirds voter consent," Dougherty said. "The San Francisco Superior Court formally disagrees and has created a huge loophole."
