St. Flagpole Rededication and 4th of July Parade

Yuba City, Ca.

On Thursday, July 4, 2019 at 9:30am, Corner of Plumas St. and Colusa Hwy the City of Yuba City will be celebrating a Flagpole rededication along with the annual 4th of July Parade. The flagpole was originally dedicated on November 12, 1983, to all who honorably serve their country by military service; past, present, and future. With the current flagpole being inoperable, two local sponsors have come forward to provide for the installation of a new flagpole. The new flagpole will be dedicated to those who serve and have honorably served to protect their country and community including emergency services. Mayor Shon Harris said, "We'd like to invite citizens, active duty military, veterans and emergency services personnel to attend the re-dedication".

Parade; Ages 0 – 12 can join in on the parade! After the parade, enjoy a hot dog lunch at the Town Center Fountain! No registration is required. The parade will begin at a different location this year, on the North end of Plumas Street with the unveiling of our new Flag Pole. No animals, pets, or motorized vehicles will be permitted, although battery operated vehicles are permissible and safety helmets are required by those participants.

Last Surviving Signer

by Lou Binninger

How humans have survived and thrived is amazing when you have the curiosity to look closely. It's a shame the teaching of history comes off so boring.

Mark Twain wrote, "Many public-school children seem to know only two dates--1492 and 4th of July; and as a rule they don't know what happened on either occasion." Today, Americans' understanding of their history is often seriously lacking or revised.

We just passed the 75-year commemoration of the World War II D-Day attack to liberate Europe and many realized that at the next 5-year ceremony there will be no surviving veterans still with us. In the same fashion Americans noted the passing of those 56 brave signers of the world-changing Declaration of Independence and particularly when there were just three remaining.

On July 4, 1826, on the 50th anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence the only three signers still alive were John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, and Charles Carroll. In a strange coincidence in American history, Adams and Jefferson both died that day, so Carroll became the lone surviving signer.

Carroll died in 1832 at age 95. He was a patriot, a public servant and far brighter than political leaders today. The signers risked their lives, families and assets. Carroll had much to lose as he was known as the wealthiest American at that time. He uniquely signed the Declaration as "Charles Carroll of Carrollton" to not bring persecution on other family members with the same name elsewhere. His wealth was used for the revolution.

Some thought John Hancock, another signer and Boston's leading merchant, was the wealthiest, but Charles Carroll the father of the signer, and his son were one and two. Charles Carroll the Founding Father was an only child and inherited his father's wealth to add to his own.

Richard Stockton, a lawyer from Princeton, New Jersey, became the only signer of the Declaration of Independence to recant his support of the revolution. On November 30, 1776, the delegate was captured by the British. After months of harsh treatment and meager rations, Stockton renounced his signature on the Declaration of Independence and swore his allegiance to King George III. A broken man when he regained his freedom, he took a new oath of loyalty to the state of New Jersey in December 1777.

Carroll represented Maryland at the gathering to draft and con-

Deep State Corruption

by Lou Binninger

Who do you believe in government? Officials tout how transparent they are and then it takes months to answer a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request and years to investigate wrongdoing. Getting the facts is like extracting an impacted wisdom tooth.

Our local assemblyman and senator in Sacramento said there were ample funds in the budget to upgrade our highways and bridges. However, our Yuba County officials repeated the lies from the legislature saying we needed more taxes for roads, so the gas tax repeal (Prop 6) lost and here we are, the highest gas prices in the nation while legislators, the highest paid nationally, get a raise.

The fraud and waste are epidemic. How about the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) official John Beale not showing-up for work for years, ordered to repay nearly $900,000 in salary and benefits and do 32 months in prison? A Caltrans employee got a job in Sacramento, but never moved there. Instead, she flew to work and had taxpayers pick-up her tab.

According to the state auditor, this state employee treated herself to the travel budget, charging thousands of dollars in airfare. She also secured rental cars, charged the state for mileage during her time in Sacramento, and was reimbursed for meals and incidentals.

The state audit shows Caltrans approved the receipts she submitted totaling more than $40,000 for her commute to work from February 2016 to March 2018.

A longtime administrator in the Valley State Prison (VSP) used his state-issued computer during work hours to access thousands of YouTube videos (from Sept. 2017 through June 2018 2,256 videos) unrelated to his work.

It's unclear exactly how much time the administrator spent viewing videos, but the allegation stated, "He watched YouTube videos 'every day, all day long, five days per week.'" On one particular day, investigators found he accessed 55 videos that did not appear related to his duties. Most of the videos were about recreational vehicles, crimes, and political or religious commentary. He now is retired with no consequences.

In 2015, a state audit found a Caltrans engineer golfing instead of working on 55 of his scheduled work days. In 2016, another state audit found Caltrans reckless spending protocols were vulnerable to fraud along with identifying 3,500 excess workers.

Now, auditors found California State University (CSU) system hiding $1.5 billion in discretionary reserves while raising tuition and lobbying for more funding according to a report from state Auditor

Motorcade for Trade rolls out support for USMCA

Promoting their Motorcade for Trade, an organization favoring enhanced agricultural trade visited Sacramento Tuesday as part of a swing through California. The Farmers for Free Trade group has been traveling across country in support of the U.S.-Mexico-Canada Agreement. The group says the agreement would stabilize agricultural trade among the three nations. Canada is the No. 2 market for California agricultural exports, and Mexico ranks fifth.

Wildfire preparation gains higher priority

With summer starting and wildfires already punishing California, authorities encourage people to be prepared. They say the advice may be familiar, but the urgency has intensified. Observers say rural residents should be ready year-round with an emergency evacuation kit and other preparations. State and federal agencies are working on fire-prevention projects that include vegetation clearing, creation of fuel breaks and other measures.

Peak apricot season arrives

Harvest ramps up this week for California's main apricot variety, the Patterson. Farmers say they expect the state's apricot production to double this year--and they're looking for buyers for all that fruit. Most apricots are sold for canning, drying, jams or other uses, but demand from processors has declined. Some fruit that had been destined for processing may be sold fresh, but sometimes isn't suitable.

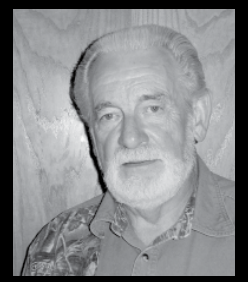

California-grown flowers compete with imports

To compete with imported flowers, California growers emphasize freshness and grow specialty or heritage varieties. The California Cut Flower Commission estimates three-quarters of domestically grown flowers come from California--but the vast majority of the flowers sold in the U.S. are imported from other countries. The commission held a Field to Vase dinner on the grounds of the state Capitol to highlight California-grown flowers.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for more than 75 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

Our annual trip to Lake Tahoe proved to be both outstanding and excellent fishing. We boarded the Hopper 4, a 28 foot fishing boat out of the marina at South Shore just prior to 6 A.M. The Captain advised his first mate that we would get underway at 6 A.M. and we did just that, heading out into beautiful Lake Tahoe. As the boat broke the perfect mirror surface of the lake we all enjoyed coffee and breakfast rolls while enjoying the magnificent scenery. We were headed for the Northwest side of the lake and arrived there after a 40 minute ride.

Accompanying us this time was Val's daughter Laura who resides in Texas and Val's son Mathew who came all the way from Holland. About half way to the fishing area we enjoyed music from the cabin of the boat. Also along for the ride was a fellow from Sacramento.

The first spot we fished proved to be slow so the Captain had us reel in our lines to go to another spot. About 15 minutes later we were instructed to drop our lines to the bottom of the lake and jig with live minnows. As soon as the weight hit the bottom of the lake we had fish on. Valerie caught the first fish with me not far behind. At 10:15 A.M. we had our limits of two fish each. About an hour prior to that the captain advised it would be a rough ride back to the marina and he hit the fact right on the head because we returned with high winds and choppy waters with whitecaps. As the boat moved through the rolling waves of the water the only place dry was in the cabin due to the boat plowing through the rough seas making the water flow over the cabin and into the back of the boat.

While underway to the Marina our first mate cleaned the fish and packaged them in plastic bags. Due to the wind and weather conditions it took over an hour to make it back to the marina. As rough as it was on the lake that day no one got sick and we all held on so as to not be tossed around.

Ten fish were caught with the largest fish weighing six pounds. My request to release the smaller fish fell on deaf ears which I feel was not the Captain and first mates decision but that of the person who caught the fish.

We spent time on the white sandy beach, went of hikes, paddled in Valerie's two kayaks around the area and enjoyed a Mackinaw Lake Trout barbeque the same evening we caught the fish consisting of a tossed green salad, the fish, garlic bread and chilled white wine.

Closing thought: "Love is when another person's happiness is more important than your own."

WHO WOULD SO NEEDLESSLY ALTER THEIR OWN TIMELINE?

PRELIMINARY DATA FROM MY TIME-SPACE DISTORTION ANALYZER INDICATES THAT IT'S DR. IWOMMUG FROM UNIVERSE 2.

THAT EXPLAINS WHY I DETECT THE UNMISTAKABLE STENCH OF CORN DOGS.

SOMEONE IS ALTERING HISTORY IN THEIR UNIVERSE, AND IT'S CHANGING OURS!

THE SCIENCE IS COMPLICATED AND INVOLVES DIMENSIONAL CAUSALITY AND QUANTUM TRANSMUNIVERSAL NODES.

AND I OBVIOUSLY DON'T NEED TO EXPLAIN IT TO YOU, AS EVERYONE IN OUR UNIVERSE IS A SUPER GENIUS.

SO, DR. PIEDRA, WHAT DO WE DO ABOUT THE TEMPORAL SCOFFLAWS RUINING OUR UNIVERSE?

FIRST, WE GO TO THEIR UNIVERSE AND UNDO THE CHANGES THEY'VE MADE TO THEIR TIMELINE.

THEN WE GIVE THEM AN INCREDIBLY STERN WARNING.

AND FINALLY, IF ALL GOES WELL, WE BASK ONCE AGAIN IN THE PATRIOTIC GLORY OF THE DANCING STATUE OF LIBERTY.

FINE, NO FANNY PACKS. I CAN JUST KEEP ALL THE CUBES IN MY POCKET.

AND WHO IS THIS LITTLE SCAMP?

THIS IS MY NEW FRIEND, MEGGS. CAN WE TAKE HER ON OUR NEXT ADVENTURE?

WOULD THAT WE COULD, OOP. UNFORTUNATELY, DINOSAURS AREN'T ALLOWED TO TRAVEL THROUGH TIME.

OH!

IS THAT TRUE, DOC?

NO, BUT THE LAST TIME I BROUGHT A DINOSAUR TIME TRAVELING, IT ESCAPED INTO A SCOTTISH LAKE, AND I NEVER SAW IT AGAIN.

Men in Black: International
 Starring: Chris Hemsworth, Tessa Thompson, and Kumail Nanjiani. Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 1 hr 54 min.

A woman seeks out a secret organization that protects the earth from extraterrestrial danger. Once she joins, the Men in Black, she quickly finds herself fighting to save her new job as well as all life on Earth.

Men in Black: International, earns four out of five, Well Hydrated Monkeys. The story was decently written and spread out on the big screen with the spatula of good editing. The acting was well performed. The special effects are great and just out of phase enough to keep the feel of the Men in Black vibe going.

This is the fourth movie in the Men in Black franchise and is definitely one of the better ones. The characters are smart and have knowledge of things in their universe that is refreshing to see. Some movies the characters are oblivious to things that if they actually lived in the world of the story they would know. This movie is certainly worth a trip to see on the big screen.

Delgreta Brown Artist Gallery Show

Marysville, CA.

Yuba Sutter Arts is pleased to welcome a new artist to the community this month in its main gallery. Delgreta Brown is a contemporary and Afro-futurism visual artist who has exhibited her artwork throughout Northern California and the Bay Area. She is an artist who continues pushing the boundaries of expression in her artistry.

A free "Meet the Artist Reception" will be held on Friday June 21 from 6-8pm at the Gallery at Yuba Sutter Arts, 624 E Street in Marysville. All are invited to attend this special event. Refreshments will be served. The exhibit will continue to be on display through the month of June.

The exhibition titled "Convergence" conveys a mixture of cultural elements coming to a summit or an intersection, as Delgreta describes it. It is about making a connection between ideas, sentiments, identity and heritage. She hopes to link past, present and future temporalities as expressed by the African diaspora.

Delgreta was nominated for the 2013 Pre-ludes Arts & Business Award in both the Arts Journalism and Emerging Artist categories. In 2015, she accomplished her landmark solo exhibition "(N)EON: The New Eon" at the Union Gallery of California State University, Sacramento (CSUS).

In August 2017, Delgreta was selected to participate in the curated art exhibit "Nightlight Multimedia Festival" hosted by SOMArts Cultural Center in San Francisco, CA. It was there she shared her experimental luminous works titled "The Nightshade Series." The series - a black light installation - was a stunning visual success.

In October 2017, she realized her desire to paint on a larger "canvas." She participated in the Wide-Open Walls "Street Art Jam" and created her first mural "Keys To The Wave rider." During January 2018, the artist celebrated her nomination for "Emerging Artist" in the Sacramento Region Arts Awards.

In Delgreta's Artist Statement for the show she says, "I have begun to incorporate mixed media elements to communicate authenticity and to symbolize prosperity, or regal status. Additionally, my work utilizes intricate graphic designs and patterns. I have developed an affinity for these incongruent geometric shapes and patterns. I hope to use this graffiti-esque style to articulate ancient culture in a futuristic or "future forward" way.

Gallery hours are Wednesdays from 11-6, Thursday and Friday from 11-4. The Gallery is also accessible by appointment at other times by calling 749-8065. There is plenty of free street parking and in the parking lots at Umpqua Bank and Bank of America directly across the street.

AAUW Scholarships Awarded to Three Yuba College Students

Three students from Yuba College have been awarded scholarships by the Marysville-Yuba City Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW). On Saturday, June 1, Alyssa Perez, Margarita De La Vara, and Tingzian Liu were the featured speakers at the AAUW branch luncheon held at the Adventist/Rideout Conference Center in Yuba City. They were recognized for their outstanding accomplishment as students and as individuals. Each told her own story.

Alyssa Perez has worked hard to be able to attend college. As the older offspring of a working family, she has been responsible for helping care for her younger siblings and had to take many night or online classes. She also cared for her ailing grandmother, a task which she says made her "fall in love" with Nursing. She has done very well with her classes, and has a near 4.0 GPA. She has earned an AS degree in Natural Science and hopes to enter the Nursing program this fall.

Margarita De La Vara was in and out of foster care as a younger student, but managed to earn a GED and enter Yuba College. She later completed a phlebotomy course and started working at a local lab, and has continued towards her goal to complete a nursing program. She has earned an AS in Natural Science and has now completed two of the four semesters towards her nursing degree. She has been volunteering at a dialysis center and hopes eventually to work in that field. She is also the parent of a special needs child, and feels this scholarship will be very helpful in helping her complete her Nursing program.

Tingzian Liu moved to America just 3 years ago from Shanghai, China. She speaks fluent English as well as Chinese and even a bit of German. She has been a student at Yuba College since 2017 and is a straight A student. Prior to coming to America, she was enrolled in East China University of Political Science and Law. While at Yuba College she has been a math, physics, and chemistry tutor at the Marysville campus. She is nearly finished with her program at Yuba and hopes to transfer to UC Davis in fall 2020 to work on an Engineering degree. For additional information about AAUW see our website mvycc-ca.aauw.net or like us on Facebook.

Yuba County Accepts Mediated Settlement Related to Cascade and Camp Fires

Marysville, CA
Yuba County and eight other northern California counties and cities today announced they reached an agreement with Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) and have accepted a mediator's proposal to resolve claims related to the fires of 2017 and 2018.

The agreed settlement figure for all nine jurisdictions is $415 million, which will be allocated among each of the participating cities and counties. In addition to the still-undetermined amount to be allocated to Yuba County for the damages from the Cascade Fire, the county will be receiving $12.5 million for impacts related to the 2018 Camp Fire in Butte County.

sel Mike Ciccozzi said he does not expect the county to receive the settlement funds anytime soon, because the payment is to be incorporated in, and subject to, confirmation by the Bankruptcy Court, as part of its plan of reorganization to be filed by PG&E in its pending Chapter 11 case.

Settlement amounts reached in this agreement are unrelated to claims filed against PG&E by residents, individuals, or businesses. The amounts are intended to compensate public entities such as Yuba County for losses that include damage to roads and water systems, reductions in revenues, and other public losses and costs not covered by insurance or disaster assistance programs.

"Yuba County incurred massive costs related to the fires, and those costs will continue for many years to come, so this settlement is both appropriate and necessary," Yuba County Board of Supervisors Chairman Mike Leahy said. "We joined the lawsuit against PG&E because we have a responsibility to recover taxpayer dollars, so that other vital services to our residents are not impacted."

Judge Jay Gandhi presided over several days of in-person mediation sessions held in San Francisco. Participants in the broader mediation included 14 public entities with various claims from the 2015 Butte Fire, the 2017 North Bay fires and Wind Complex/Cascade fires, and the 2018 Camp Fire. Judge Gandhi ultimately presented settlement proposals totaling $1 billion to address all of the claims, which PG&E and all 14 public entities accepted.

Last year, Yuba County joined the multi-agency lawsuit against PG&E through outside counsel Scott Summy, John Fiske, and Britt Strotzman of Baron & Budd.

firm the Declaration. He was also a devout Catholic which limited his political aspirations due to colonial intolerance of certain faith movements. He was the only Catholic signer.

Most students learn only of the Boston Tea Party, but there were a number of "tea party" uprisings. On October 15, 1774, the ship Peggy Stewart owned by the Annapolis mercantile company of Dick and Stewart sailed into the harbor of Annapolis, Maryland, carrying tea. On arriving, the ship's owner paid the tax applied by Britain to importations of tea to its American colonies in compliance with the Tea Act of May 1773.

Charles Carroll led the Tea Party movement in Maryland. On October 19, 1774, Charles Carroll helped set fire to the British ship Peggy Stewart.

Charles Carroll wrote to Rev. John Stanford on October, 9, 1827: "To obtain religious as well as civil liberty I entered jealously into the Revolution, and observing the Christian religion divided into many sects, I founded the hope that no one would be so predominant as to become the religion of the State.... That hope was thus early entertained because all of them joined in the same cause, with few exceptions of individuals."

"God grant that this religious liberty may be preserved in these States, to the end of time, and that all believing in the religion of Christ may practice the leading principle of charity, the basis of every virtue."

After John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died the City of New York sent a committee to Carroll to get his final thoughts on the Declaration. He wrote on August 2, 1826: "Grateful to Almighty God for the blessings which, through Jesus Christ Our Lord, He had conferred on my beloved country in her emancipation and on myself in permitting me, under circumstances of mercy, to live to the age of 89 years.... do hereby recommend to the present and future generations the principles of that important document as the best earthly inheritance their ancestors could bequeath to them, and pray that the civil and religious liberties they have secured to my country may be perpetuated to remotest posterity and extended to the whole family of man."

or statues. Just because you did doesn't mean racism no longer exists and just because their on display doesn't mean you support slavery.

Travel down that path and half the world's art and artifacts would go up in a protestor's puff of smoke.

These are historic artifacts and a part of our history, like it or not. I where we came and that applies to all Americans. Many of these pieces are precious works of art.

So following their logic, if you could call it that, Rome killed Christians because of their religion. Obviously a restriction of religious freedom and a major violation of human rights. Shall we destroy all Roman statues or knock down the Coliseum?

Hitler attempted and partially succeeded in massacuring an entire race. Shall we now destroy all the WW2 German artifacts? Or is it simply we pick and choose because of the amount of time that has passed.

Obviously Rome was a long time ago, so apparently its OK we let those artifact remain. Wait minute, the Nazi regime was only about 80 years ago, and the Civil War 158 years ago. But WW2 artifacts are OK but the civil war is not?

Humm.

Somethings not adding up. Perhaps those that want certain past representations destroyed because of bias yet allow other artifacts to remain have their reasoning in who or what group was enslaved, killed or tortured rather than a blanket protest against discrimination itself?

Let's see now. The Nazi's targeted Jews and the Romans hunted the Christians.

Suppose I dare not go there.

In any case the logic is idiotic and the acts ridiculous. The hurling of rocks at civil war statues. The destruction of certain collector flags, the removal of a gold miner statue at a college in so called respect of the Native Americans because gold mining was a scourge of native lands. The removal of books like Huckleberry Finn from certain school districts. Even flying an American flag can get you into trouble in some places apparently because it means you support a certain President.

I would say "what the ----" but this is a family newspaper and I'm supposed to be a respectable columnist.

In any case the latest in the saga of the destruction of American culture akin to the Nazi's burning books the political correctness Gestapo have set their sights on Mel Brooks and his award winning film "Blazing Saddles". Those of you who saw it, and likely not many haven't, know its contents. I won't hash it out for the four or so people who haven't seen the flick but just know it's a parody on racism set in cowboy times.

It's a ridiculous assumption to think Mel Brooks, a brilliant film producer, is a racist. In fact he is a Jew and made another film just as controversial called "The Producers" which takes a similar tact on the Nazi regime. And to destroy or not air the film or even protest it is another in many slippery slopes those that advocate such things are going down.

That the social warriors of correctness continue their zero tolerance practices against anything they find offensive, the irony and contradiction is too funny for words. Actually it's not funny at all.

Considering all the works of art and books that the Nazi's burned and destroyed, it's a sick twist on life that those trying to preserve their so called perfect view of America, in aiming for a world with no references to intolerance to be left standing, that in course of their self-administered "purification" of America, they are not only wiping clean some of its history, they are acting a lot like the subjects they so abhor in the two Mel Brooks films.

Think that ever dawned on them? Not likely. They're too busy trying to find more things showing intolerance that they can't tolerate.

The Horrific Forest Fires and Loss of Life Need Not Occur

by William J. Prater, Clipper Mills

On March 2, 2019, the President of the United States gave a speech in which he emphasized the fact that our forests in California are mismanaged and how dead trees contribute to the horrific forest fires that have caused so much misery, shedding of tears that will be everlasting, loss of property and, yes, loss of precious lives, both human and animal. The President is absolutely correct and these disastrous forest fires need not occur.

There are many reasons why the recurring, devastating forest fires need not happen. In future articles I will address a series of events that have led up to these fires and will propose logical corrections to rectify the malfeasance and reckless conduct of several government agencies. Drastic changes must be made to the agencies in charge of forest management who have failed miserably. However, the following appalling conduct by the US Forest Service is just one of many instances of mismanagement that could be corrected today.

Just recently it was estimated in California alone there are 147 million dead trees that fuel these forest fires. This not a new event in California and decades ago, acting in concert with a United States Senator and the US Forest Service Regional Forester, I helped implement a timber sale program to remove these dead trees from our forests.

This program is known as the Special Salvage Timber Sales program (SSTS) and is for companies with twenty-five employees or less. It remains in effect today and is specially designated to remove these dead and dying trees from our forests. Many people do not realize that if these trees are harvested in time they not only help eliminate fires but they are still suitable for lumber purposes and that their sale would add monies to the federal treasury.

In addition, not only does the harvesting of these trees help eliminate destructive forest fires but also reduces the cutting of healthy green trees.

Recently I contacted a group of small companies in the timber business who are eligible for this program to harvest the dead trees, and they are more than willing to purchase the trees but, believe it or not, the US FOREST SERVICE PLUMAS NATIONAL FOREST in Quincy, California, REFUSES TO SELL THESE TREES that fuel these dreadful forest fires. For their failure to act prudently they bear some responsibility for these forest fires. Harvesting of these dead trees would also add jobs to the local communities who have become slum areas because of the US Forest Service's Timber sale policies regarding truly small businesses. They have forgotten that small business is the backbone of America.

Failure to implement this program is the fault of many beginning with the contracting officer of the Plumas National Forest in Quincy, California, who probably does not know one species of tree from another, and ending with the Chief of the Forest Service.

The fault to implement this program to reduce forest fires also lies with our elected representatives and with the media who stick their heads in the sand and ignore the catastrophic situation. They, not this layman, have the responsibility to bring this egregious conduct to your attention but because of money received from the Government and others they, for the most part, lie mute.

I will continue to do what I can to remedy this situation, but I respectfully request that you call or, better yet, write even a short certified letter to your local TV station, newspaper and/or your elected representative and ask them why they have allowed this situation to continue and how and when they plan to rectify the situation.

Deep State Corruption

Elaine Howle.

"CSU put the money, which primarily came from student tuition, in outside accounts rather than in the state Treasury," according to Sacramento Bee's Sawsan Morrar.

"At the same time, the CSU Board of Trustees increased pay for the top administrators, including those in the Chancellor's Office and CSU president," said union legislative director David Balla-Hawkins.

In addition, Howle's audit "criticized CSU for building costly parking facilities at four of its 23 campuses: Sacramento, San Diego, Fullerton and Channel Islands. CSU raised student parking permit fees as high as $236 per semester to pay for the new structures, but added no new parking ca-capacity."

Being a criminal is contagious in California. In 2017, Auditor Howle's office exposed the University of California Chancellor's Office for hiding a $175 million slush fund from public view while also increasing tuition.

In 2012, California State Parks Director Ruth Coleman was forced to step down when it became public that the Parks Department was shielding $54 million in "hidden assets" from the state Department of Finance.

You remember those days when money was so tight that the state only funded "essential services." State parks had to close due to 'no funding.' That was the hold-people-hostage strategy by closing the parks while stashing money already taken.

These deep state people are jerks.

The auditor said there were more than 800 whistleblower claims in 6 months in 2018. And, that's only the courageous ones trying to do the right thing while being considered a snitch.

Locally, watch for an August 2019 decision on the legality of the Yuba County's Measure K sales tax increase. Judge Berrier will support the tax and it will be appealed. There will be a 2020 ballot measure to gut Proposition 13 along with other tax increases. Also, expect Yuba Water Agency directors to continue increasing their pay. They have more money than they can count.

It's all a great gig if you can tap into the Deep State.

For Whom the Bell Tolls

January 11, 2019

The following Letter was submitted in response to the recent death of Police Officer Tara O'Sullivan, age 26, in Sacramento.

Driving home from Marysville, the event from the previous day just won't leave my mind. Another Law Enforcement Officer was gunned down, this time in the peaceful City of Davis, California. I ask the question "what have we become" and start to cry. I stop at the Browns-ville Sheriff's Sub-Station and leave an anonymous note: "Take care of yourselves; we appreciate your work, a friend". I was glad no one was there to see a man in this condition.

As days pass, we learn more about the fallen officer. She was only 22 years old; a daughter of a Colusa County Sheriff's Deputy, her name is Natalie Corona. A photograph of Natalie shows a beautiful young woman, in a blue dress, holding an American Flag. She looks very much like my wife would have at that age.

It has been days since she died and sometime the tears still come back. We lost much more than a Peace Officer that night. We lost a life time of smiles, a wife, a mother and a spirit that makes living worthwhile. Perhaps that is why, for many centuries, women were not allowed in dangerous occupations; they are just too valuable to risk.

So I continue to wonder, are we too far gone to understand our loss? How many even heard the following sound when her heart stopped beating? The sound of a bell... For Whom the Bell Tolls...It tolls for thee*.

Panama	4,159,000	$424,000,000
Belize	390,000	$78,000,000
Totals		$47,711,000,000

Immigrants from the three Central American nation's sourcing many illegal border crossers sent a record amount of money home last year, bringing the total this decade to $120 billion.

Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador all said that natives in the United States sent over $17 billion home last year alone.

Since 2009, legal and illegal immigrants from those three nations have shipped $120 billion home, according to an immigration expert citing United Nations and Latin American banking data.

And newly released Central American bank data said that the record breaking has continued this year.

The so-called "remittances" have been in the focus of some immigration reform advocates who want to tax the transfers. Proponents said that a tax on the money, some of which is collected under the table and outside payroll taxes, could help pay for President Trump's proposed border wall with Mexico.

Under one proposal that failed to pass Congress, remittances would be taxed 7 percent. Pew Research Center revealed in January that immigrants in the United States sent home $138 billion in 2016 alone. A 7 percent tax would raise nearly $10 billion, enough to fund building the wall in three years.

"These huge numbers also suggest that the United States should follow the lead of Oklahoma, and start collecting a share of the remittances to help mitigate the costs of illegal immigration. You could build a wall with some of that money, compensate victims of illegal immigration, and much more – and Congress should do it," said immigration expert Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies.

Money immigrants send home is a huge part of the economy of those three nations, reaching over 20 percent in El Salvador and Honduras. Over 90 percent of the remittances come from immigrants inside the United States.

Remittance monies sent to Mexico alone have far out-paced Mexico's oil export totals as one of the largest players in their GDP (Gross Domestic Product).

Because it is a sizable share of the economies of those countries, critics claim that El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras have little incentive to make economic reforms that will keep citizens home.

"The sums of money involved are huge, particularly as a share of GDP and personal income in the Central American countries. It offers a big clue as to why these countries are giving only token efforts to stem the tide of migrants to the United States, especially El Salvador and Honduras," said Vaughan, who regularly testifies before Congress on immigration policy.

"A good leader would try to develop other ways to build the economy that benefit more people, instead of just those who have family in the United States. They are betting that the United States will never have the will to enforce its laws, and that's been a good bet so far," she added.

According to columnist Patrick Gillespie (@CNNMoney) article in January, 2018, in part,

"Mexicans living abroad sent cash home in continuing record numbers. The vast majority of the cash came from those living in the United States.

Two main forces drove the trend: Mexico's weak currency, the peso, and President Trump's threat to slap a tax on cash shipments, known as remittances, sent from the U.S. to Mexico.

Mexicans sent home $26.1 billion from January to November 2017, according to figures released by the central bank of Mexico. That's the most ever recorded and better than the $24.1 billion sent in 2016 over the same period.

The 2018 figure went over 30 Billion, setting a new all-time record.

Remittances are one of Mexico's top sources of foreign income, outpacing oil exports, which totaled $18.5 billion between January and October, according to the most recent figures available at the Bank of Mexico."

More than 1,000 Migrants Cross at a Single Time

More than 1,000 illegal immigrants were apprehended in one day by U.S. Customs and Border Protection agents recently near the U.S.-Mexico border -- the largest ever group of migrants ever apprehended at a single time, sources told Fox News on May 30.

The group of 1,036 illegal immigrants found in the El Paso sector included migrants from Guatemala, El Salvador and Honduras, according to sources.

The group was the largest group of migrants ever apprehended at a single time, sources told Fox News. The discovery was made in the El Paso section of the southern border – which provides support for the counties of El Paso and Hudspeth in the state of Texas and the entire state of New Mexico.

Agents said they are spending more than half their time feeding and caring for migrant families. Paperwork processing alone can take three hours per family. There were 58,474 families apprehended last month, according to CBP.

"Much media attention has focused on caravans coming across from Central America," Rio Grande Valley Sector Chief Patrol Agent Rodolfo Karisch told the Senate Homeland Security Committee. "But the fact is that Rio Grande Valley is receiving caravan-equivalent numbers every seven days."

The Democrats believe so much in carbon credits that they felt it necessary to raise gas taxes up to 72 cents a gallon, by the first of the year. They demand that the rest of us clap our hands in glee over having our transportation cost more than we could ever afford. Of course, the tax is not the only slap in the face to the community, $500 million a year is going to be given to the "train to nowhere." It's like flying a planeload of cash to Iran. And to make the case stronger, the evidence shows that carbon credits haven't offset the amount of pollution they were touted to accomplish.

The entire Carbon credits scam gave polluters a pass to keep emitting CO₂, but the forest preservation that was supposed to balance the ledger never occurred, Propublica reporter Lisa Song wrote. "It is a Socialist scam to lie to the people about the environment, the climate and then force us to sacrifice to make politicians and special interests rich," reports Stephen Frank. The party only asks for money with little or no cogent information.

California legislators apparently don't recognize the 2nd Amendment of the Constitution. Stephen Franks writes: "Below is an alert about anti-gun legislation that is moving quickly in Sacramento. It is time to take action. The grassroots need to take action. It is our basic right to protect ourselves, our families and community that is at stake. Assembly Bill 12, sponsored by Assembly Member Jacqui Irwin (D-44), would extend the duration of California's "gun violence restraining order" (GVRO) law from one year to a period of up to five years. Meaning a person could be prohibited from owning and possessing firearms for five years at a time without ever being adjudicated mentally ill or convicted of a crime, but based on third party allegations.

Assembly Bill 61 sponsored by Assembly Member Philip Ting (D-19), would expand the list of those eligible to file "gun violence restraining orders" (GVRO) beyond the currently authorized reporters which include immediate family and law enforcement. The new list is expanded to employers, coworkers and employees of a secondary or post-secondary school that the person has attended in the last 6 months. GVRO's can remove a person's Second Amendment Rights, not based on criminal convictions or mental adjudications, but based on third party allegations often without due process until weeks after a person's rights have been suspended. Senate Bill 220, sponsored by Senator Jerry Hill (D-13), would further increase the mandatory storage and security requirements for licensed firearms dealers. California already has some of the strictest laws in the country regarding how dealers must store and secure firearms. This bill simply places more costs and mandates on law-abiding business owners.

Assembly Joint Resolution 4, sponsored by Cecilia Aguiar-Curry (D-4), would encourage Congress to adopt the Background Checks Act of 2019. Assembly Joint Resolution 5, sponsored by Reggie Jones-Sawyer (D-59), would urge the federal government to adopt universal firearm laws using California as an example.

The brilliant Bernie Sanders says we are "delighted" to pay more taxes for free health care, etc. If he really believes that stupid statement, he needs to head back into the Vermont woods and disappear.

Why do Canadians come to the USA to get needed serious medical treatment? If their socialized medicine is so great, then they should get their appointments and life-saving treatment at home. The answer is simple. Socialized medicine is a farce and a killer.

California courts say it is okay for prisoners to have small amounts of marijuana, so long as they don't inhale. How utterly insane.

True or not? ICE gives out free classes on how to present yourself if you are a transgender illegal invader. It's your tax money. Answer this one, Garamendi.

Maxine Waters needs to add to her one word vocabulary. "Racist" is getting worn out. Oh, she has a second useless word — "impeachment".

PGE will take the hit. It won't be the politicians who allowed building homes in dangerous areas. Nor the environmentalists who won't allow proper forest management. Nor the people who bought land in the wilderness and demanded electricity. So, everyone else, who are not guilty of any of these risky decisions will end up paying for the foibles of others.

Is there anything Government does that makes sense? L.A. spent $619 million on the homeless crisis and as a result there are 16% more homeless in the County and 12% more in the City. That money was well used, wasn't it?

Typhus is expanding in downtown L.A. What is the Democrats' answer? Outlaw pesticide that controls rats, making it worse. Continue to raise taxes, and beg illegal invaders to pour into the State. To top it off, Newsom is luring begging women to come to California to kill their babies. The Golden State?

Were you aware that the NFL hands out $20 Million in Grants to Social Justice Causes. You want to make a contribution to some social justice organization, buy a ticket to an NFL game and you will be supporting racism, bigotry and hatred. The Fake News media is keeping this political activity by the NFL silent, in hopes that the public does not catch on. Pass this along to let folks know the NFL has decided to finance Democrat Party causes.

Assemblyman Evan Low, Democrat, is seeking to make it the official position of the State that "religious groups" are the cause for "disproportionately high rates of suicide, attempted suicide, depression, rejection, and isolation amongst LGBT [lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender] and questioning individuals." Low's ACR 99 declares that "religious ministries, counselors and therapists cause harm to people wishing to seek help with their sexual desires." The resolution labels such help as "ineffective, unethical and harmful." So much for freedom of religion and psychological counseling in California.

A Canadian research team tells us that men with more masculine facial features tend to be less interested in environmentalism than those who lack such features. Men whose voices are regarded as more manly are also less concerned about preserving and protecting the natural world, the "research team" finds. Isn't there anything better to research than tripe like this?

Problems at Smartsville Fire Department?

by John Mistler

Sighting lack of leadership, lack of professionalism, not using the chain of command and a total breakdown in communication, six members of the Smartsville Fire Protection District turned in their resignations. "These are key components to the success of any department with little to no turnover in personnel" said Assistant Chief Chris Monize in a written letter of resignation. This occurred on or about April 11, 2019 Those resigning were Deputy Chief Ries, Assistant Chief Monize, Captain Berge, Firefighter Monize, Firefighter Berge and Explorer Berge.

It has been reported that calls have not been responded to by the Smartsville Fire Department in May, two vehicle accidents on May 11 and 12,

Calls to confirm and identify the problems were to County Supervisor Fletcher and to Public Information Officer Russ Brown. Both said they were aware that a problem existed and inquires have been made to see what can be done to assist.

Larry Potter, Chairman of the Board, said, "I will not comment I'm not going to say anything."

Calls to Fire Chief Zamora were not returned.

Yuba Water Agency and Partners Plan For Local Water Experience Center and Educational Programs

Marysville, Ca. A state-of-the-art education facility and programming focused on the Yuba River as the foundation for the experience is closer to becoming a reality after Yuba Water Agency's board of directors today unanimously approved moving forward with the next stages of planning and development.

The overarching goals of the Yuba Watershed Experience are to improve Yuba County's quality of life and economic prosperity through enhanced education, and spark community pride while creating opportunities to learn about, explore and develop an appreciation for the natural resources in this region.

"With this project, we are dreaming the way the founders of our agency dreamed when they built New Bullards Bar Dam 60 years ago," said Yuba Water Agency board chairman Brent Hastey. "This facility may very well turn out to be the most impactful thing we can do to truly transform Yuba County for the better."

Yuba Water Agency is currently partnering with the Yuba County Office of Education, Yuba Community College District, South Yuba River Citizens League and the Yuba River Endowment to plan and develop the Yuba Watershed Experience program and center. The advisory group has met several times and toured similar facilities, such as Sonoma Water's Westside Water Education Center.

The educational goals of this center are to enhance educational opportunities for the residents of Yuba County, with curriculum opportunities in science, technology, engineering, art, math, environment, culture and history, without creating resource or funding constraints for the schools.

The programs and facility will target audiences including K-12 schools, college students, as well as career preparatory programs. The K-12 programs will be taught by certificated teachers, and will be designed to meet California's curriculum standards to ensure that they assist the schools in programming and ease the burden on the teachers.

"The information students will learn at the education center will be so impactful that it will trickle down through many generations," said Amy Nore, communications coordinator for the Yuba County Office of Education. "I feel this will continue to be a blessing to Yuba County as it inspires our children to gain a sense of pride and connection to our community. Our hope is that as our students turn into adults, they might have a stronger desire to live and work in Yuba County."

The next steps are to evolve the concept further by reaching out to community partners and educators to further understand needs and how to best accomplish collective educational goals. And while the water education facility concept is in its infancy, the hope is to be able to bring water-related programming into local schools immediately.

"When we participate in the future, and invest in our community and our children's future, we can't lose," said Yuba Water Agency Director Mike Leahy.

North Yuba Water District

Accused of Fraudulently Applying for and Obtaining a Grant

by John Mistler

Brownsville, Ca. A press release from the North Yuba Water Alliance states, "State confirms that the North Yuba Water District is under investigation. The California State Water Board's division of Financial Assistance and the Office of Enforcement confirmed today that they are currently investigating North Yuba Water District."

North Yuba Water

District (NYWD) General Manager, Jeff Maupin said, We are not aware of any investigations. When applying for the Prop 1 planning grant we were walked through the process with the water board. No indication of a problem."

Ailene Voisin of the State Water Board said, "In general, the allegation is that North Yuba Water District fraudulently applied for and obtained a $500,000 Prop 1 planning grant. There are some additional allegations of fraud related to the contracts administered with those funds. We are conducting interviews and will have a better idea of what the allegations are after the interviews are completed. At this point, that consists of reviewing documents and other information in our possession.

Your Money is Not Protected

The new law of the land and It was signed into law in 2010 under then President Barack Hussein Obama.

It's known under many different names:

- The Dodd-Frank Act.
- Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act
- Public Law 111-203
- H.R. 4173
- Bank Bail-In (Google this search phrase: Dodd-Frank Bail-In)

The law states that U.S. banks may take its depositors funds (i.e. your checking, savings, CD's, IRA & 401(k) accounts) and use those funds when necessary to keep itself, the bank, afloat.

That means:

- if your bank makes bad investments in derivatives
- or makes bad loans to sub-prime borrowers
- or manages the bank poorly and can't service its debt
- or even worse the U.S. economy has another 2008 collapse
- Instead of that bank going bankrupt and the banks assets sold off to be given back to its depositors...

Now the bank simply keeps your money and guess what? The bank is no longer bankrupt.

YOUR ACCOUNT IS NOT FDIC INSURED WHEN THE BANK TAKES YOUR MONEY. NOT ONE SINGLE PENNY.
