Oroville Dam Update

from Assemblyman James Gallagher

Here are the responses from DWR:

- The current outflow ability of Hyatt Powerplant is 13,000 CFS.
- The current elevation of the lake is 894.65 ft.
- There is currently 82,000 acre-feet of flood space in the reservoir.
- The current inflow into the lake is 10,901 CFS.
- Inflows have been tracking at about 9,000 – 12,000 CFS.
- Estimated daily average inflows over the next 7-10 days are between 10,000-12,000 CFS.
- Operations will maintain the lake around the current elevation (894-895 feet) over the next week.
- Lake elevation may increase through June, but will not exceed 899 feet.
- Releases will be subject to inflows, water demands and Delta needs.

I understand the distrust of DWR and the concern regarding lake levels. Know that we are continuing to bring a skeptical and protective eye to all of our meetings.

I believe the water management system at Oroville can and should be changed. This is what Butte County is also requesting. I have and will continue to push for what is called “forecast based operations,” meaning that the water should be managed to better account for changes in our watershed and what we are seeing in real time with snow-pack and potential storms.

In the winter months, this would allow for releasing water earlier to provide a better buffer in the reservoir to protect from a warm storm and large inflows like we experienced in 1986 and 1997. I am also pushing for further investments in infrastructure to ensure the highest level of safety at the Dam.

As always, I will remain engaged on this important issue and keep you informed.

Darkness at Oberlin

by Lou Binninger

“Oh, how the mighty have fallen.” Out of the Second Great Awakening when more than 600 colleges were founded in the Midwest, Oberlin College was established in 1833 by Presbyterian ministers John Jay Sipherd and Philo P. Stewart to promote Christian values.

In 1835, Oberlin became the first white collegiate institution to admit African American male students and two years later it welcomed all women as well, becoming the first co-ed college in the country.

Oberlin continued to be a premier institution for blacks for the next century. By 1900, one third of all black professionals in the U.S. had undergraduate degrees from Oberlin.

In 1858, more than 30 Oberlin students and townspeople invaded a city nearby and freed a male slave held in captivity to be returned to his owners in Kentucky.

Oberlin’s commitment to the abolition of slavery made it a welcoming and safe environment for 19th Century black students. As part of the Underground Railroad, Oberlin’s intricate network of back road routes and safe houses, the college and town provided refuge for fugitive slaves bound for Canada with Lake Erie being just 15 miles away.

To this end, the school appointed one of its faculty Charles Finney, America’s greatest revivalist and also a fervent abolitionist, to be their second President. Finney routinely denounced slavery from the pulpit and advocated the end to servitude through all means possible.

However, intolerance, “politically correct” group think and racism have consumed and now shamed this once amazing institution. The college is full off anti-frackers, socialists, gender activists, and social justice warriors touting government hand-outs. Oberlin College’s unofficial slogan is clear: “We put the liberal in liberal arts.”

The day after the 2016 election victory of Donald Trump, a black male Oberlin College student was caught shoplift-

The Tyranny of Barack

by Lou Binninger

While the narcissist Barack Obama insists his administration had no scandals, the True the Vote vs IRS harassment case may be coming to a close. You remember, when asked by the media about the “IRS Scandal,” Obama replied that reading the newspaper was the first he heard about it. That’s right all our Presidents seem to be the last to the party.

Prior to Obama’s second election campaign he sought to stomp-out the conservative opposition by eliminating its organizers. He commissioned IRS leadership to slow down or not approve 501(c)3 and 501(c)4 nonprofit organization applications. Illegal probing and questioning were done of the organizations and their members. Tea Party chapters, religious organizations and voter integrity and get-out-the-vote applications were all targeted.

When the Obama administration was questioned about the bias and harassment it was completely denied, but then “We will investigate and punish those responsible.” Such a liar that Obama.

While most Americans today are passive, lacking much they are willing to have a street-fight over, Lois Lerner of the IRS and her alphabet soup of enforcement agencies picked the wrong lady in Texas to jack slap.

According to True the Vote it was in 2010 that the IRS, the Department of Justice (DOJ), the FBI, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF), and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), began targeting Bryan and Catherine Engelbrecht and True the Vote. The battle lasted years and sought to bury Englebrecht and her organization in government bureaucracy. A “barrage of attacks,” including 23 separate audits, investigations, and inquiries, were used to stop True the Vote from its work.

The weight of the federal government coming down on the Engelbrechts, their business and True the Vote was so intense and far-reaching that it was obvious the federal government targeted them. Some agencies went after them twice.

At its core, it’s about control through fear,” Catherine Engelbrecht said. “They wanted to silence us so they over-

Capture Your Fish with a Camera!

Jordan Farmer, PhotographyMyWay

The Rooster Tails Fishing Club monthly breakfast will be held at the Auburn Elks Lodge at 195 Pine Street in Auburn on Friday, June 21st. This free event is open to club members, spouses, and non-member guests. Doors to the Lodge open at 7:00 a.m. to share fresh brewed coffee. A fantastic $15 wide-selection buffet breakfast is served at 8:00 am, followed at 9:00 am with special guest speaker, Jordan Farmer, owner of PhotographyMyWay, a professional photographer and photography instructor. Jordan has taught thousands of people over ten years how to use their cameras. Long after the details of your magnificent fish fades, the photograph you took will allow you to relive the excitement of the fight, the challenge of netting, and maybe even the fantastic dinner that was made from it. A quality image of that moment-in-time freezes the excitement and happiness that will allow you to relive the catch over and over again (besides providing proof of your fish story!). Some people might argue that we have become obsessed with taking "selfie" pictures with our smart phones rather than living in the moment. However, just that one perfect photo will tell it all!

These days we frequently take photos on our smart phones for granted. But just think about that for a minute...beyond fishing photos, how amazing is it that you could capture your grandchildren doing something wonderful so that special memories will be there to hold and share forever. Please bring the photographer in your family to the meeting... your spouse, partner, or family members PhotographyMyWay has 4 locations in the Sacramento region committed to offering practical hands-on classes focused on topics the average photographer would actually use. Most classes are capped at 8 students and offer continued support outside the class via phone, Email or Facebook.

The 30 year old, 200+ members Rooster Tails Fishing Club of Northern California, Inc. is a non-profit organization that meets the third Friday of each month to educate, entertain, and enhance fishing experience. Unlike many bass and fly fishing clubs that concentrate on very specific types of fishing, the Rooster Tails Fishing Club provides a balanced mix of fishing techniques presented by fishing experts targeting a variety of fish species on multiple types of waters. For more information contact Jim, Club Chairman, 530-887-0479, or visit the club's web site at www.rooster-tailsfishingclub.org.

Hosts must provide their own self-contained RV or trailer and personal vehicle.

CRITIC'S CORNER

by Matt Woolery

Rocketman

Starring: Taron Egerton, Jamie Bell, and Richard Madden. Rated: R, Runtime: 2 hours, 1 minute.

A young boy finds he has a talent for the piano. He uses it as an outlet for his insecurities and it leads him down the road to fame, fortune, excess, and a deeper look at his own reality.

Rocketman, earns three out of five, Sequined Monkeys. This is an intimate story told in a very personal manner. It holds little pride and less concern for societal opinions. The acting is pretty good and done without fear. The cinematography is unconventional and best thought of as being the inner view of, Sir Elton Hercules John.

I found the movie interesting in its style and subject matter. It will certainly not appeal to some viewers but the intimate insight it gives to the life of Elton John and his experiences and unique point of view are compelling. It brings to light that everyone has problems and if we can look past our own long enough, we can see the pin in others. Unfortunately, I did not get a song stuck in my head as I left the theater. Should I ever meet Sir Elton John I shall endeavor to give him a hug. There are naked men in this film, so for those offended by such things, You Have Been Warned.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for more than 75 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

A short ride in the red boat last Tuesday on the Feather River produced four nice stripers along with about 20 or so shakers which were released to grow for next year. We hit upon a school and quietly dropped anchor and within fifteen minutes I had two fish on. The fish were so hungry they were hitting the bait as we bumped it downstream.

We will be in Tahoe in June for the annual mackinaw fishing trip out of South Shore and will be taking along Val's daughter Laura from Texas and her son Mathew who will be here from Holland. Looking forward to an exciting day as usual.

Shad are still in the system and area being caught all over the local rivers. These fish are real fighters for their size and are a thrill to catch and release.

Expect the cooler weather last week and into the weekend to turn again hot and will more than likely stay that way for a while.

Roads in the high country are finally opening up and some of the high lakes and reservoirs are now clear of ice. Look to this year as a bumper crop of successful fishing and a great year for water conservation. We are looking forward to great times for all who fish in the valley, foothills and the high Sierra Nevada Mountains.

To T.J. and Annika we say congratulations on a baby girl to become a part of the Johnson and Petersen families in the near future. God bless.

We are looking forward to the coming fishing season in the high country. It will be wonderful to wet a line and share in the outdoors and especially for those who chase after the elusive trout the wary bass and the other fish who swim in the waters of this great state of California.

Closing thought: "Never forget the miracles of Mother Nature...help to preserve all of the wildlife for our future generations."

Making their Yuba-Sutter debut, the Folias Duo will present a program of all original classical music for flute and guitar influenced by Argentine tango, Astor Piazzolla, jazz and world music. The duo, Andrew Bergeron and Carmen Maret, are performers, composers and music educators based in Grand Rapids, Michigan. For the past fifteen years, this husband and wife duo has established themselves as one of the world's premier composer/performer ensembles for flute and guitar.

The concert will be held on Saturday, June 22. A reception will be held in the courtyard starting at 5:30 pm followed by the concert at 7 in The Burrows Theater, 630 E Street in Marysville. General admission tickets are $15 which includes appetizers. Wine and beer will be available. Free parking is available on the side streets and in the adjacent Umpqua Bank and Bank of America parking lots.

As both tango dancers and tango musicians, Carmen Maret and Andrew Bergeron of the Folias Duo have performed at tango milongas and taught musicality classes featuring their own "Golden Era" tango arrangements since 2003.

Having composed more than fifty original compositions for this intimate combination, Folias Duo's performances have taken them to venues throughout the United States, Europe and South America. Bergeron and Maret have a fearless approach to developing new repertoire, an expertise for Argentine tango, and a passion for South American folk. As Fanfare Magazine writes: "Carmen Maret and Andrew Bergeron are facile players...they draw on tango rhythms and melodies sometimes; at other times they write with a scenic sensitivity, mysterious, charming and evocative."

In addition to their adventurous touring schedule, Folias Duo has established a reputation as one of the premier flute and guitar performer-composer duos in the studio. With six albums, including their most recent, Dreaming to Live, the duo champions original classical music and enjoys sharing their flair for multiple musical genres.

Come support live music in the community and hear two great and very gifted musicians.

Because Your Money Matters!

Marc Cuniberti hosts "Money Matters" on KVMR 89.5 FM Thursdays at noon. His website is www.moneymanagementradio.com

Can you protect your stocks from a falling market automatically?

In the world of investing, protecting profits and limiting losses is tantamount to success. The most common method of protecting your money from downside whether it be to keep profits or limit losses, may be to sell out all or some of your holdings and turn that into cash.

You could have a preset price on percentage in mind, much like going to a casino to play a slot machine and the spouse says you can't lose more than $200. Although most people exercise good money management at the one armed bandit, far fewer people have this exit point strategy in mind when dealing with their retirement funds.

Is it wise to have an exit strategy?

One only needs to remember how it felt during the 2008/09 market freefall. Thoughts of losing it all put the squeeze on many investors grey matter and more than a few investors and advisors lost some sleep during those dreadful times.

That said, having a predetermined sell point might be a good idea in case of a catastrophic market collapse. No one can say it will or won't happen of course.

Investors could just keep in the back of their mind a predetermined selling point. Something like if they lose a certain amount or if a stock hits a certain price, you call your broker and tell them to sell. The problem here is you might forget, lose your nerve, change your mind or worse yet, be unable to get through to your broker, which can happen during severe market upheavals.

However there is a way you can enter a sell order automatically on certain types of stocks and funds with some exceptions of course.

A "stop" order can be entered ahead of time by phone, computer or otherwise. These work by keeping your order on file and when the price is hit, the sell order is transmitted to the appropriate people in the market place who then attempt to sell your stock.

This order can be placed usually anytime and at any price you prefer. They work like this:

Suppose you have a stock that is $100 a share today and you decide you want out at $90.00 or lower. You enter your order as a "stop" order (in lieu of a market or limit order) at $90.

That order will sit for a predetermined amount of time, usually 60 days, and if the stock never hits $90 the order expires at the end of the term. If the stock does hit 90 anytime during the timeframe the stop order then becomes a market order. This means when your order hits the trade pits you get the market price for it. This also means you could get less or more than your stop price. In fast moving markets, your stop price, becoming a market order, means you get what they give you when your order hits the front of the line.

Another type of stop order is to add the word "limit" to the above order and enter a "stop limit" order.

The "stop limit" order means you want out at a certain price and will take no less than that price.

Although this sounds like a better way to go, the old adage there are no free lunches comes into play. Suppose you own the same stock at $100 a share and you enter the order under a "stop limit" (versus a stop order) at the same $90 price as before. The stock hits 90 and your order triggers. In this case, your order instructs the market makers to get you $90 but no less.

Should the market be moving fast and because your order again has to wait in line, if the stock keeps dropping, you may not get out. The market makers have their marching orders from you which are "I want $90 and no less". If the stock hit 90, and your order triggered, but while waiting to get filled the stock kept dropping, if it now is below 90 and because you said you want 90 and no less, you MIGHT NOT get out at all, or only get partially filled.

Summarizing: a "stop order will certainly get you out but the price you get may be below your stop price. A "stop limit" will get your price but you might not get out at all or only be partially filled.

Keep in mind during the 1000 point flash crash (August 24th, 2015) the drop happened so fast, many stop orders were filled significantly below their stop price. Keep in mind stop-limit and stop orders may not prevent losses and there is no guarantee of being filled under ideal conditions but these types of orders do illustrate some strategies that many investors might not be aware of. Contact your local financial professional for more information on protections strategies that may be available to you.

Early Risers Kiwanis Club of Yuba City Awards $18,000 in Scholarships

The Early Riser Kiwanis Club of Yuba City has awarded nine (9) $2,000 scholarships to local high school seniors on behalf of the Vern Williams Scholarship Program, the Early Riser Academic and Key Club Scholarship Program. The recipients were selected from twenty-four applications. Interviews were conducted before the field was reduced to the final nine students.

The Vern Williams Scholarship was created in memory of Vern Williams, a long-time community volunteer and fellow Early Riser Kiwanian who had a special dedication to the youth in our area. His untimely death spurred the club to do something in remembrance of his love for youth and his desire to help them enjoy a happy and successful life. This scholarship provides financial assistance to students who have overcome difficult obstacles or demonstrated a marked change in behavior to successfully graduate from an alternative education program or any of the area high schools and who demonstrate a commitment to improving the quality of their lives through education.

Recipients of the Early Riser Academic Program, in addition to academic achievement, must demonstrate a strong desire to further their education and a life plan that embraces community involvement, a desire to make the most of their individual potential and a commitment to improving the quality of their lives through education.

The Key Club Scholarship is awarded to outstanding Early Riser Key Club Members who in addition to academic achievement, and a desire to make the most of their individual potential, have demonstrated a commitment to their schools and communities through the use of their leadership skills and volunteerism.

The club's annual "Brews, Blues and BBQ" event is the source of the funding. This year, the "Brews, Blues and BBQ" event will be held at the Yuba-Sutter Fairgrounds on Saturday, September 7, 2019 from 4 – 8 p.m.

Food and Farm News

Weather brings fewer but larger avocados

An intense heat wave 11 months ago has reduced the California avocado crop. Farmers who typically would harvest fruit into early July report they've already finished their harvest. Southern California heat last July damaged the developing fruit. But ample winter rains allowed the remaining avocados to grow to larger sizes. Forecasters estimate the avocado crop at 175 million pounds, about half the volume of a year ago.

Ranchers welcome benefits of grass growth

Plentiful grasses stimulated by abundant rainfall have improved the outlook for California cattle ranchers. The rangeland grasses will allow cattle to grow to higher weights before being marketed, helping ranchers offset part of the impact of weaker prices. Trade uncertainties have also put a damper on the market as beef production heads toward a potential record this year, but ranchers say the improved range conditions will help them save costs.

Tomato harvest may run late

Rainy, cool weather slowed California tomato planting, but crop estimators say they still expect the state's farmers to harvest more than 12 million tons of processing tomatoes this summer. An updated estimate says the later planting might delay harvest by about a week, but that the crop could catch up during warm summer days. Processing tomatoes are used for salsa, ketchup and other products. Fresno County leads the state in processing-tomato production.

Invasive species damage environment, economy

From the burrowing nutria threatening waterways to the small insect carrying disease to citrus trees, invasive species cause ecological damage and economic losses. As agencies commemorate California Invasive Species Action Week, they urge Californians to take care not to transport new species into the state. The University of California estimates a new invertebrate species establishes itself in California every six weeks, on average.

Yuba City Police Participates in Torch Run to benefit the Special Olympics

Members of the Yuba City Police Department will be escorting the "flame of hope" torch as they run an 1.8 mile stretch through Yuba City on Wednesday, June 19th at 9am. This will be one of many "legs" of the run and the torch will be handed off to Marysville Police Department in front of the Wheeler Auto Center on Colusa Highway.

This Law Enforcement Torch run for Special Olympics Northern California has been around for many years and precedes the Special Olympic Games which will take place at the UC Davis campus on Saturday, June 21st.

Community members are invited and encouraged to come to the front of the Police Department the morning of June 19th at 8:45am and send off the runners as they leave with the torch. The route will be from Poole Blvd. to Civic Center Blvd. to Colusa Highway and then up to Wheeler Auto Center at the base of the 10th Street Bridge. The roadway will remain open as the runners will be utilizing the sidewalk. Due to safety concerns, members of the public will not be allowed to run the route nor hold the torch. If anyone has any questions, please contact Katy Goodson at 822-4725.

The morning show from 6 am to 9 am weekday mornings with Fish informs and entertains with interviews from local business owners, civic leaders, community organizations and everyday people who are making a difference in our great community.

Sunday is Father's Day and where would we be without our dad's? The piggy back rides, the tickle attacks, the wrestling matches, teaching you how to change your own tire, taking you out hunting, the strong arms that squeeze you when you're sad. We wish all you dad's and granddad's a blessed Father's Day.

The crazy thunderstorms seem to be over (but you never know for sure), and summer is creeping up on us. Soon family camping will begin and everyone will be hitting the lakes for water sports. This is just a quick reminder of some summer tips. Always keep an eye on your small children when in or around water. It only takes a split second for an accident to happen. Don't forget the sunscreen. Obey all campfire rules in campgrounds. Leave your campsite cleaner than you found it. Last but not least, have a fantastic summer! I'll be hiding inside where it's cool, waiting for fall.

Is there activity around the Gold Eagle's empty space? It has been a year and all of us are looking forward to having Gold Eagle back. Groceries, gas and a bulletin board have been so missed.

Look Back in Time- In 1913 there were 327 autos in Butte County. One person in every 100 owns a Joy Carriage (wonder where the gas stations were).

Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

Darkness at Oberlin

ing wine at Gibson's Bakery and Market in downtown Oberlin, OH. Shoplifting by college students is a big problem in the town. You know, the poor take from the rich.

Gibson's had been in existence since 1885, was frequented by students, and also provided baked goods to the college dining halls. A scuffle ensued that day and was joined by two black female Oberlin College students accompanying and assisting the male shoplifter. All three eventually would plead guilty to shoplifting and aggravated trespassing, and would avow that Gibson's was not engaged in racial profiling.

However, prior to the guilty pleas, students at the college declared that Gibson's was guilty of racial profiling, and large protests were organized outside the bakery. Flyers were circulated saying the Gibsons were "racist" and had "a long account of racial profiling and discrimination."

the flyers in front of the bakery. Oberlin College Student Senate passed a resolution claiming Gibson's "has a long history of racial profiling and discriminatory treatment of students and residents alike." The college administration allegedly helped circulate the student senate resolution.

Students launched a boycott of the bakery, initially joined in by the college. The college eventually resumed business with the bakery, but then terminated that business once the bakery owners filed a lawsuit.

Gibson's owners sued the college and Raimondo for libel, tortious interference with business relationships and contracts, intentional infliction of emotional distress, and trespass. Gibson's alleged long-term damage to its business and reputation for the allegedly defamatory accusations and other torts. The plaintiffs in closing argument asked the jury to award $12.8 million in compensatory damages.

Last week, the jury awarded $11 million to the Gibson family. Allyn W. Gibson was awarded $3 million, David Gibson $5.8 million, Gibson Bros. $2,274,500. Next, there will be a separate punitive damages which could be a double award (meaning tripling the $11 million to $33 million).

Lee Plakas, who handled much of the month-long trial and who gave the closing argument, said this case "is a national tipping point."

"What the jury saw is that teaching students and having them learn how to be upstanding members of the community is what colleges are supposed to do, not appease some students who they are afraid of," Plakas said. "People around the country should learn from this that you can use the legal system to right the wrongs, even if the one doing the wrong is some huge institution who thinks they can do anything they want."

Oberlin started-out shining brightly as a city on a hill, but like most all colleges today has descended to a place of philosophical and moral darkness.

MYCC Spotlight!

Marysville Youth & Civic Center is Back!

Most people know us as "Allyn Scott Youth Center". Home of Hot Dog Junction, when it was open in 1998 and ran by Ken and Allyn Scott. A few years ago, Hot Dog Junction closed, and the Scott's were no longer running the Center. The name of the Center had been changed to Marysville Youth & Civic Center and it is now being run by a whole new Board of Trustees.

We still have the same Mission: We will provide a clean, safe, State-of-the-art community center with programs and services for area youth: within the center there will be an atmosphere of trust, respect, ownership and community.

Our goal is to provide a safe harbor for youth, teens and young adults, to help them build a better foundation for their future. We hope to achieve this by building partnerships with our community leaders, law enforcement, school districts, other non-profit organizations and local businesses to inspire, educate and mobilize our community's youth, teens and young adults. Working to keep our youth off the streets, out of prison and away from alcohol, drugs and gangs, by providing them with meaningful and life changing opportunities.

The first of many events to held here at MYCC is the First Annual My First Job Fair, Sponsored by Pathways Prevention Services.

This unique Job Fair is specifically designed to-ward teens 16 and older, to provide them with the tools necessary to obtain their first job. We will feature motivational speakers and workshops in the following areas: Application Process, Resume Building, Interview Skills, Obtaining a work permit & Balancing your schedule and Work Ethics. We will have many local businesses on hand to talk to the youth about what opportunities they offer. Along with other local agencies such as One Stop & Yuba College.

Job fair will be held on Saturday June 22nd from 10 am to 2 pm. For any further information or to have your business attend please email: programs.myc@gmail.com or call Peggy Smith at 530-701-0461 and leave a message.

The last day for registration for the Summer Arts Academy ends on June 26th.

The Summer Arts Academy is a program for kids ages 8-14. Through this program, students will have the opportunity to participate in immersive classes, providing hands-on experience in instrumental music, choir, dance, and theatre.

The program is offered to children of all experience levels. The program culminates in a final performance for friends and family, showcasing all that they have learned in their classes. Students will also be provided breakfast and lunch.

THINK About It!

A Tangled Web by "Her Exaltedness"

John Solomon, investigative journalist at The Hill in Washington, D.C., has been on the trail of the "Russian Collusion" with President Donald Trump for over two years and wrote an article on June 4th on the tangled web of intrigue that portrays Her Exaltedness Hillary Clinton as a prime mover and shaker of the start of the Mueller Investigation.

Following, in part, is his article:

During the combined two decades she served as a U.S. senator and Secretary of State, Hillary Clinton's patrons regularly donated to her family charity (the Clinton Foundation) when they had official business pending before America's most powerful political woman.

The pattern of political IOUs paid to the Clinton Foundation was so pernicious that the State Department even tried to execute a special agreement with the charity to avoid the overt appearance of "pay-to-play" policy.

Still, the money continued to flow by the millions of dollars, from foreigners and Americans alike who were perceived to be indebted to the Clinton machine or in need of its help.

It's time for the American public to call in their own IOU on political transparency.

Never before — until 2016 — had the apparatus of a U.S. presidential candidate managed to sic the weight of the FBI and U.S. intelligence community on a rival nominee during an election, and by using a foreign-fed, uncorroborated political opposition research document.

But Clinton's campaign, in concert with the Democratic Party and through their shared law firm, funded Christopher Steele's unverified dossier which, it turns out, falsely portrayed Republican Donald Trump as a treasonous asset colluding with Russian President Vladimir Putin to hijack the U.S. election.

Steele went to the FBI to get an investigation started and then leaked the existence of the investigation, with the hope of sinking Trump's presidential aspirations.

On its face, it is arguably the most devious political dirty trick in American history and one of the most overt intrusions of a foreigner into a U.S. election.

Clinton and the Democratic National Committee (DNC) used the law firm of Perkins Coie to hire Glenn Simpson's research firm, Fusion GPS, which then hired Steele — several layers that obfuscated transparency, kept the operation off the campaign's public FEC reports and gave the Clintons plausible deniability.

Steele's first overture on July 5, 2016, failed to capture the FBI's imagination. So the Clinton machine escalated. Steele, a British national, went to senior Department of Justice official Bruce Ohr — whose wife, Nellie, also worked for Fusion — to push his Trump fake dirt to the top of the FBI.

Nellie Ohr likewise sent some of her own anti-Trump research augmenting Steele's dossier to the FBI through her husband. Perkins Coie lawyer Michael Sussmann used his connection to former FBI general counsel James Baker to dump Trump fake dirt at the FBI, too.

In short, the Clinton machine flooded the FBI with pressure — and bad intel — until an investigation of Trump was started. The bureau and its hapless sheriff at the time, James Comey, eventually acquiesced with the help of such Clinton fans as then-FBI employees Peter Strzok and Lisa Page.

The Clinton team's dirty trick was as diabolical as it was brilliant. It literally used house money and a large part of the U.S. intelligence apparatus to carry out its political hit job on Trump.

After two years of American discomfort, and tens of millions of taxpayer dollars spent, it's time for the house to call in its IOU.

Longtime Clinton adviser Douglas Schoen said Friday night (May 31st) on Fox News that it's time for Clinton to answer what she knew and when she knew it.

Here are 10 essential questions:

1. In January 2018, the Senate Judiciary Committee sent a formal investigative request for documents and written answers from your campaign. Do you plan to comply?

2. Please identify each person in your campaign who was involved with, or aware of, hiring Fusion GPS, Glenn Simpson and Christopher Steele.

3. Please identify each person in your campaign, including Perkins Coie lawyers, who were aware that Steele provided information to the FBI or State Department, and when they learned it.

4. Describe any information you and your campaign staff received, or were briefed on, before Election Day that was derived from the work of Simpson, Steele, Fusion GPS, Nellie Ohr or Perkins Coie and that tried to connect Trump, his campaign or his business empire with Russia.

5. Please describe all contacts your campaign had before Election Day with or about the following individuals: Bruce Ohr, Nellie Ohr, Glenn Simpson, Christopher Steele, former Australian diplomat Alexander Downer, former foreign policy scholar Stefan Halper and Maltese academic Joseph Mifsud.

6. Did you or any senior members of your campaign, including lawyers such as Michael Sussmann, have any contact with the CIA, its former Director John Brennan, current Director Gina Haspel, James Baker, Peter Strzok, Lisa Page or former FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe?

7. Describe all contacts your campaign had with Cody Shearer and Sidney Blumenthal concerning Trump, Russia and Ukraine.

8. Describe all contacts you and your campaign had with DNC contractor Alexandra Chalupa, the Ukraine government, the Ukraine Embassy in the United States or the U.S. Embassy in Kiev concerning Trump, Russia or former Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort.

9. Why did your campaign and the Democratic Party make a concerted effort to portray Trump as a Russian asset?

10. Given that investigations by a House committee, a Senate committee and a special prosecutor all have concluded there isn't evidence of Trump-Russia collusion, do you regret the actions by your campaign and by Steele, Simpson and Sussmann to inject these unfounded allegations into the FBI, the U.S. intelligence community and the news media?

Hillary Clinton owes us answers to each of these questions.

- Taxpayer money is to be used to give free medical care to illegal invaders? Crowded ERs, hospitals and doctors' offices to the detriment of Americans who paid for the service? Fire those politicians for even suggesting the policy.
- Mueller came up with nothing – except ragging on some Russians who will never be tried (and Mueller knew they wouldn't be). This was a gigantic rip-off of taxpayer money.
- When are the Democrats going to wake up to the fact that numerous infectious diseases are crossing the Mexican border and endangering Americans?
- The poor, uneducated, brutalized illegal invaders are coming by the thousands. What isn't said too often is they need $7000 or more to buy food, water and pay smugglers. Who are they fooling? Where did they come up with fistfuls of money?
- The Middle East is a mess and will remain so until someone with a brain sets borders that make sense. The borders drawn by the League of Nations in 1919 are idiotic, chaotic and were always destined to fail.
- The former police officer who did not run toward the sound of the guns in a school shooting is being criminally charged with what amounts to cowardice. What do you think about that approach?

- Manafort is being moved to Riker's Island prison and put in solitary confinement. Why? It is probably that the prosecutor wants to torture him until he decides to spout lies to end the suffering. Medieval tactics by the US government.
- Nadler is calling John Dean to appear before his committee to discuss the Mueller report. Why Dean? What does he know? This move isn't even a good circus tactic.
- The Governor of Virginia claims the nation will be watching the Commonwealth as it considers "gun control." True enough. The nation will be watching another useless exercise as nothing is done on the real problem – mental health. But it will make the Governor go home feeling good with his armed security.
- NASA says the sea level is rising at about 1/8 inch per year. That comes to about 1 ft every 100 years which is not even close to the 10 feet in 5 years the environmentalists were claiming in the mid 90s. Keep foremost in your mind as you listen to the dumb-as-a-fencepost crowd that not one prediction that the environmental crowd has made since the 1950's has actually happened.
- Didn't we agree that segregation was illegal under national law? Didn't Eisenhower send troops to the Little Rock to enforce the integration of Central High School? Today things have dramatically changed with no outcry at all from the ACLU, NAACP or any other of the so-called racial equality groups. There are black only dorms on UC campuses. 74 colleges segregate blacks for graduation.

- 46 percent of colleges segregate student orientation programs; and 43 percent offer segregated residential arrangements. This seems to be at the request of minority students but why hasn't this practice become a national issue? It certainly is a national disgrace.
- A few days ago the word went out from the usual suspects that "climate change is reducing the number of Tigers in India." From the Indian villager point of view, fewer Man-eating Tigers might be a good thing.
 - This is what happens when a State becomes a one-party rule entity. California has decided that the American Constitution, which provides the criteria for the qualifications for an American citizen to run for President, doesn't meet California's desires. Sacramento Democrats in the Senate recently approved a bill to require candidates in the presidential primary to release five years' worth of income tax returns.
 - Some 60 environmental activist groups have signed a petition requesting California's insurance commissioner to require the more than 1,300 insurance companies licensed in California to publicly disclose their investments in fossil fuel-related companies and any fossil fuel projects they underwrite or insure. The petition links insurance companies' investments to climate change and an increased frequency and severity of wildfires and other extreme weather events. Another fool idea to make things more difficult to do business in California.
 - Pocahontas wants to create a new department responsible for "creating and defending US jobs." Sounds like a good idea.
 - Teenagers want to ban guns. They ignore the fact that 11 teens a day die from texting and driving. Why doesn't the legislature do something positive and constructive? Ban cell phones and take away their cars.
 - Close to 30,000 illegal aliens, annually, are graduating from California high schools. About 27 percent of all illegal aliens graduating from American high schools every year are doing so in California.
 - Keep this thought in mind. The mindless idiots running our country have virtually ended the use of cheap and clean coal, safe nuclear power, and inexpensive hydroelectric energy. Instead the government mandates high priced, inefficient and unreliable "alternatives". And the public suffers.
 - Newsom wants a nationwide background check on ammunition purchases. Such a law is nothing more than another assault on our rights under the 2nd Amendment of the Constitution.
 - AOC claims the world is going to end in 12 years. She must be giving Gore apoplexy, he's been saying that for over 30 years.

Feather River Tea Party Patriots

with Guest Speaker James Stone
President, Nor-Cal Guides and Sportsmen's Association

Yuba City, Ca.
The Feather River Tea Party Patriots announced Nor-Cal Guides & Sportsmen's Association President, James Stone will be the Special Guest Speaker for their next Meeting, Monday, June 17, 2019.
James Stone is the Owner-Operator of Elite Sportsmen Guide Service. He will be discussing the Yuba-Sutter homeless problem along the banks of the Feather River. Their presence has become a health hazard to the community. There are no adequate restroom facilities and the homeless urinate and defecate on the shore or directly in the river. Their excrement on shore washes down into the river. Water contamination is a major concern.

James will show pictures and videos of the issues being created along the banks of the Feather River by the massive number of homeless living there. In a few instances they have dug out caves in the levees to live in. He will share his concerns about the levee erosion and debris issues caused by the releasing of large flows of water from Oroville Dam and the rapid reduction of those flows.
James will also briefly touch on Prop 68 funding for sediment removal in the Feather River and where we are with progress for sediment removal. The accumulation of sediment is a result of multiple years of high water events and the unfortunate events during and after the spillway crisis in Oroville.

Don't forget – Our regular feature In The News with Paul Preston, Agenda 21 Radio Host and President of the New California State movement, will follow our Special Guest Speaker Paul will be discussing events of the day.
There is no membership requirement to attend and everyone is welcome. Doors open at 6:00pm; meeting begins promptly at 6:30 pm. Come early to register, socialize with like-minded patriots, and get a good seat.
The meeting will be Monday, June 17, 2019, at the Crossroads Community Church, 445 B Street, Yuba City, CA 95991.

PG&E Expanding Weather Station and High Definition Camera Network to Monitor and Reduce Wildfire Risk

San Francisco, Ca.
More than 200 new weather stations and 25 new HD cameras installed to date in 2019
As part of its Community Wildfire Safety Program (CWSP), Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) announced that it is expanding its network of weather stations and high-definition cameras to improve the company's ability to predict and respond to extreme wildfire danger. By the end of 2019, PG&E plans to have at least 600 weather stations and 100 high-definition cameras in high fire-threat areas. These new installations are one of the many additional precautionary measures the company is implementing following the 2017 and 2018 wildfires to further reduce wildfire risks.
"The enhanced meteorological data we are receiving from these weather stations is bolstering our ability to forecast high fire-risk weather conditions with further granularity so that we can take swift action to protect public safety," said PG&E CWSP Vice President Sumeet Singh. "Personnel at PG&E's 24/7 Wildfire Safety Operations Center will use these weather stations and cameras to better monitor wildfire risks and coordinate prevention and response efforts, and the data is shared publicly and with agencies such as CAL FIRE."

New weather stations installed in more than 35 counties
Building on the 200 weather stations it installed in 2018, PG&E has added an additional 200 weather stations in 2019 to capture localized, real-time data related to temperature, wind speeds and humidity levels. Approximately 400 new weather stations are scheduled to be installed in 2019, prioritized in areas at elevated and extreme risk for wildfires, based on the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) High Fire-Threat District Map.

To help protect customers and communities during extreme weather events, electric power may be shut off for public safety in an effort to prevent a wildfire. This is called a Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS). PG&E's meteorologists will feed data from these new stations to the company's Wildfire Safety Operations Center team, where it can be utilized to help inform actions such as PSPS.
Before any PSPS, PG&E will carefully review a combination of criteria including predictions of strong winds and very low humidity levels; additional weather stations will assist PG&E's Meteorology team to better predict conditions specific to local geographic areas. Data collected by the weather stations is available to state and local agencies and the public through online sources such as the National Weather Service and MesoWest.
"These new weather stations help us monitor conditions around the clock, improving our ability to understand when and where it is necessary to take this precautionary action in the interest of public safety," said Aaron Johnson, PG&E vice president of Electric Operations.

Counties that have already received weather stations include Alameda, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Colusa, Contra Costa, El Dorado, Fresno, Glenn, Humboldt, Kern, Lake, Lassen, Madera, Marin, Mariposa, Mendocino, Monterey, Napa, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, San Benito, San Luis Obispo, San Mateo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Shasta, Sierra, Solano, Sonoma, Tehama, Trinity, Tulare, Tuolumne and Yuba.

HD cameras being installed throughout high fire-threat areas
PG&E has installed 25 of the 100 high-definition cameras planned for this year. The company has now installed 34 HD cameras since 2018, with a goal of installing 600 new cameras by 2022 as part of the ALERTWildfire Camera Network. The ALERTWildfire Camera Network is a situational awareness tool built by the University of California, San Diego, the University of Nevada, Reno and the University of Oregon. The high-definition, pan-tilt-zoom cameras allow firefighters, first responders and companies like PG&E to confirm and monitor potential wildfires.
The system is used by fire managers and has been instrumental in tracking more than 500 fires since it was first developed in 2013. Images from the ALERTWildfire system are viewable online at www.alertwildfire.org.
Counties that have received cameras so far include Amador, El Dorado, Humboldt, Lake, Marin, Mariposa, Monterey, Napa, San Benito, Shasta, Sonoma, Tehama, Trinity, Yolo and Yuba.

Community Wildfire Safety Program
In addition to improving real-time monitoring and intelligence capabilities, other actions PG&E is taking as part of CWSP include putting in place new and enhanced safety measures and doing more over the long-term to strengthen the safety and resiliency of the electric grid in an effort to further reduce future wildfire risks. More information can be found at pge.com/wildfiresafety.

The Tyranny of Barack

whelmed us on all sides. It was a multi-front war we were facing. It was designed to make us go away, to scare us, to break us, to try to turn public opinion against us. The coordination was through all facets. It was just mind-blowing. But ten years later, on the other side of it, the lesson for True the Vote and all citizens is that as citizens, we are called to stand up, and we are called to engage. The lesson, I think, that is so engrained in my mind is: 'Speak out. We are the government. We are not subjects to whatever it is they want to push down our throats.' There are things that are constitutional and can be protected. Hopefully, we set a great example for that."

True the Vote was an offshoot of the King Street Patriots, a non-profit Tea Party organization founded by Engelbrecht and initially active in Texas. Several members of the King Street Patriots, including Engelbrecht, its president, were dissatisfied with the voting process in Harris County, Texas, during the 2008 election, especially the shortage of poll workers, which they believed "invited fraud and other problems at the polls." So, they founded the voting integrity group in summer 2009.

True the Vote wanted honest elections, anathema to liberals who prefer the dead, dogs, unidentifiable strangers and anyone over for dinner to vote. Liberals tend to lose honest campaigns thus they insist that particularly Blacks and other minorities are too stupid to obtain an identification card to vote or use a condom. However, Blacks interviewed on the streets in Harlem, NY all had ID's. Sadly, most are still a cheap date for democrats.

U.S. District Court Judge Reggie Walton ruled in favor of True the Vote, and penalized the IRS, forcing the tax agency to pay maximum attorney's fees due to the IRS's discrimination against the conservative organization that stemmed from the Lois Lerner scandal surfacing in 2010.

"The conduct of the IRS and the government was nothing short of shocking," Brock Akers of the Akers Firm, one of True the Vote's attorneys, said in the release. "This ruling ought to reflect a collective sigh of relief from everyone that the judicial system really can be turned to for a just end to this nightmare. Check one in favor of Justice v. Swamp."

Founding Fathers would describe the Obama government as tyrannical.
