Oroville Spillway Releases Begin

The Department of Water Resources released the following press release on April 2, 2019.

Due to forecasted storms and growing snowpack, the California Department of Water Resources (DWR) began to release flows at 11 a.m. on April 2nd from the Oroville main spillway. By early afternoon, releases from the main spillway were about 8,300 cubic feet per second (cfs). This is the first time the spillway is used since it has been reconstructed and its use will provide room for flood storage within the reservoir.

“The Oroville main spillway was rebuilt using modern engineering practices with the oversight of state and federal regulators on site and a team of experts assisting the Department,” said Joel Ledesma, Deputy Director,

State Water Project for DWR. “With an average concrete thickness of seven and a half feet, 12.4 million pounds of reinforcing steel, and approximately 7,000 anchors, the main spillway is ready to handle flows.”

The information below reflects current reservoir level estimates. Forecasts can change quickly and may affect the estimates provided.

- Current Oroville Reservoir level: 854 feet elevation

- Planned Main Spillway Releases: approximately 8,300 cfs by early afternoon on April 2

- Planned Total Releases to the Feather River: up to 20,000 cfs from Oroville facilities and other natural inflows

DWR may increase flows to the Feather River again later this week to between 40,000 and 60,000 cfs to prepare for forecasted inflows. DWR also anticipates potential further releases to manage snowmelt and lake elevations later this spring.

Oro Dam Blvd. East will be open to pedestrian and vehicle traffic unless flows exceed 30,000 cfs. If spillway flows exceed 30,000 cfs, the road will be closed to ensure public safety. Credentialed media will be provided access past the roadblocks located at Glen Drive and Canyon Drive and can use turnouts along Oro Dam Blvd. East.

DWR has followed its standard process of notifying regulatory agencies, local law enforcement and local elected officials regarding the anticipated use. The Department will continue to update the public, media and local partners through emails, news releases and social media.

Yuba & Sutter Counties to Test Phone/Email Emergency Alerts

Wednesday 4/10/19

Yuba and Sutter Counties emergency officials are encouraging residents to sign up to receive emergency alert through their phones, cell phones and emails, prior to next week's test of the CodeRED alert system.

Testing of the CodeRED alert system will take place on Wednesday, April 10. On that day, residents in one county will receive alerts in the morning, and residents in the other county will get their alerts in the afternoon. Officials say the Alert Day is taking place to raise awareness of the service and to get a better understanding of its effectiveness.

“Our communities have been confronted with both devastating fires and terrifying flooding threats over the past couple of years, and each time we began by using an alert systems to notify residents of the emergencies,” said Yuba County Office of Emergency Services Manager Scott Bryan. “While no single notification method is perfect, the CodeRED system is the best way to send targeted alerts about real dangers to our residents in the shortest amount of time.”

Yuba County has been using the CodeRED emergency notification systems for several years, and Sutter County switched to the same system last October. Emergency officials from both counties point the ability of the notification system to quickly send messages to specific neighborhoods, regions, or entire counties to alert residents.

To sign up, residents can go to their county's emergency preparedness website. Sutter County residents can sign up at BePreparedSutter.org and BePreparedYuba.org is the site for Yuba County residents. Both pages have links to the Co-deRED registration page, which is a free service.

Each person completing the CodeRED registration process are first asked to provide a name and address, in order to make it possible to alert them about an emergency specific to their neighborhood. The participant can also list any phone numbers or email addresses to receive messages in a declared emergency.

The April 10 message that goes out through text messages and emails will make it clear to those receiving the notification that it is part of a test and that there is no actual emergency.

Teacher Student Sex Epidemic

by Lou Binninger

In August of 2014, World Net Daily (WND), an online news publication, produced an article “The Big List: Female Teachers with Students.” The piece was updated on 1/25/17 giving 13 pages of accounts (approximately 20 per page) of female school teachers having sex with underage students, in most cases males.

WND has carried numerous stories about what it calls a national epidemic of sexual abuse in schools. The irony is how often the female predator or perpetrator gets off with probation. Similar acts performed by a male teacher with an under-aged female or even by adult non-teachers outside of school would get years in prison.

The joke used to be that in union-controlled government schools it would take a teacher sexually assaulting a student to get fired and lose their credentials. Not so true anymore. And poor work performance or bad character isn't a job killer because of the cost to prove it is prohibitive.

However, job termination for lustful misdeeds may not be an option in the future as sexual-deviancy interest groups lobby for new consent laws allowing for child / adult sexual relations. Rhode Island (RI) is one of a few states where it is legal for teachers and other school employees to have sexual relations with students once they turn 16.

Rhode Island also received a D grade from a year-long study by “USA Today” for how well states track and share information about teachers who are abusers. In Michigan, sex between a teacher and student is prohibited at any age. Laws vary state by state.

Both the National Education Association and the United Federation of Teachers opposed a Rhode Island bill this month to make it a crime to have sexual interaction with students after their 15th year. Union officials and their members are well aware that sexual predators move from district to district and state to state and that threat of termination and loss of credentials are not sufficient deterrents and do not protect children. A district may get rid of an abuser but they have no ongoing concern for where they end up.

In a 2018 report, NPR's (National Public Radio) Erin Logan says: “That cycle — abuse, dismissal, rehire and abuse again — is one that experts and researchers say is far too common across the nation. It has long been known as ‘passing the trash,’ and despite years of efforts to make policies to keep it from happening, no one really knows how often it does.”

The Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) became law in 2003 setting standards of behavior in lockdown institutions and de-

Freedoms Surrendered

by Lou Binninger

In traveling to communist countries since the early 1990's, there was once an appreciation for the freedom and lack persecution and government corruption in America. However, the differences have dissipated.

Both China and Vietnam have economically mimicked Western ways after experimenting with socialism and starvation, living off insects, critters and global hand-outs. Beginning around 1990, Vietnamese were allowed to operate their own businesses and keep much of what they earned. Vietnam is now making huge economic strides. China got about a 10-year head start on Vietnam allowing commercial freedom to realize their economy turnaround.

However, government and police bribes are still everyday occurrences there, along with political and religious persecution. Communists are extremely paranoid and prefer a police state.

China is currently on a rampage to shut down churches and other religious groups and destroy meeting places. Government-authorized churches where pastors are hired and told what to say by bureaucrats are using facial recognition technology at building entrances to monitor who is there. Children, young people and the military are forbidden to attend. Google is assisting the government to track people with technology.

Communist Party members with a religious bent have been asked to submit to re-education, renounce their faith or resign their position of prestige and power. Being a party member is like being in the US Congress—lots of benefits.

Political activists and religious folks disappear to show-up not in court but in camps. For some with the right DNA, their body parts are “donated” to those from around the world eagerly paying the government for a new organ. Some hospitals special-

Food and Farm News

Will big snowpack boost farm water supplies?

With the key April survey showing the Sierra Nevada snowpack far above average, farmers wait to see how water supplies will be affected. The state Department of Water Resources said Tuesday the snowpack stands at 162 percent of average, and most reservoirs hold above-average water levels. Despite that, many agricultural customers of federal and state water projects still face reduced water supplies.

have slowed planting of crops including cotton and tomatoes. Development of many crops has been running up to two weeks later than usual.

Midwest flooding affects California dairies

Heavy snows in Canada and flooding in the Midwest have California dairy farmers scrambling to find substitutes for a number of feed commodities. A combination of weather damage and shipping delays has reduced availability of canola meal, soybean meal and other products used to feed cows. Dairy farmers have been able to find alternative feeds, but often at much higher prices--and changing feed formulations can also affect cows' milk production.

Farm Bureau urges Senate to act on disaster relief

With a disaster-relief bill stalled in the U.S. Senate, the American Farm Bureau Federation urged senators Tuesday to set aside political concerns and prioritize concern for the nation's food producers. In a statement, AFBF President Zippy Duvall said farms and ranches across the country have endured losses from floods, wildfires and other natural disasters, with many farmers facing "near-complete losses" of crops, livestock, buildings and equipment.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for more than 75 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

As the old saying goes, "April showers bring May flowers" which also applies to migrating fish in local rivers. One of these is the Shad which arrives in the Feather and Yuba River in late April. We all know when the cotton pods drop from the trees that it is time to go fishing for shad also known as the 'poor man's tarpon'.

Shad were not a native fish and were placed in the Sacramento River in 1871. Like the salmon and steelhead plants in the Feather River they headed downstream to the ocean. When they returned to the river they have expanded their presence in all rivers and can be found throughout California and Oregon.

Shad are aggressive fighters. When one hits your lure most anglers are surprised to see the size of the fish when it is landed. A two pound male will fight like a four or five pound striped bass. Most male shad run up to two or three pounds but the female has been reported to get up to eight pounds. The males arrive ahead of the females sort of like the striped bass runs each year.

Shad do not spawn and die like the salmon, but spawn and return to the ocean to then return again and again. Some folks can testify they thought they had on a striped bass and it turned out to be a shad. Shad are fast, very fast in the water and are suckers for lures, spinners, darts and spoons, but will hit bait on a hook. However, their mouths are small and paper thin so it is highly unlikely a person will catch a shad on striped bass gear.

We who live in this area are in prime shade country. The Feather and Yuba River are excellent for shad as well as the American River and the Sacramento. The best time to fish these waters is early in the morning or late in the evening hours. Shad tend to move close to shore during this time and can be caught right next to the bank at the right time of day.

We have fished for shad from shore in the Feather River as well as other areas and by boat. All is needed is a spinning outfit, some shad darts and enough weight to reach the bottom. Cast upstream and follow the lure as it moves with the current. A strike is usual at the end of the drift as the line turns and heads to shore. A fast retrieve will also bring results. Over the years I have caught hundreds of shad, returning almost all to the water.

The biggest shad I caught was in the Feather River a couple of hundred feet downstream from the Fifth Street Bridge. The fish was a female and measured at 23 inches. When she hit my shad dart I thought I had a snag.....but the snag moved and it moved upstream. There were other people on the shore fishing, but only one upriver. He reeled in his line and stepped out of the way. The fish turned and headed downstream. What followed was utterly crazy. Anglers were reeling in and jumping out of the way as I passed with my Mitchell 300 reel drag singing. I had placed the small reel on the fiberglass rod which was filled with four pound test line.

I stumbled and talked to the fish as I continued working my way downstream. People were yelling and some had already thought I had a striper or salmon on the end of the line. It was a couple hundred feet before I managed to bring the big shad to dry land. Everyone around me wanted to see the fish as I quickly measured her and gently placed her back in the water. She laid motionless for a few seconds and then was gone in a flash. What a thrill that evening was!

Boots fishing tip for the week: "If you go shad fishing this year make sure your reel has a loose drag."

4th Annual Historic Faire Honors “Historic Hero” Cotton Rosser

Marysville, Ca.
In Early February Judy Mann and Russell Hogue, the co-chairs of the “4th Annual Historic Faire” visited Cotton Rosser at Cotton’s Corral, with an invitation to be the “Historic Hero” for this year’s Historic Faire to be held on May 11, 2019 in Marysville
When presented with the honor it took him by surprise and within seconds, he told the representatives he was thankful and quite humbled. He then continued to do what he does best tell stories of his Rodeo Days.
For the last three years the Historic Faire has chosen an outstanding person whom is tied to Marysville’s History. It is most fitting that the Focus on Marysville Group and the Mary Aaron Museum select for 2019 Marysville’s Horton Alexander “Cotton” Rosser as the “Historic Hero” The groups had no problem in selecting “Cotton” a cowboy pioneer most of his life who will turn 91 in August.

As a young buck growing up in Long Beach, California, where he delivered newspapers from the back of a donkey named Jack, cleaned stalls at local stables, and worked cattle on Catalina Island during the week so he could rodeo on the weekends, he has come a long way.
Rosser has always called Marysville, California, his home. The Owner of Cotton’s Cowboy Corral on D Street in Historic Marysville and owner of the Flying U Rodeo, which is the oldest rodeo company in the world and the major supplier of rodeo stock in the United States, he has received countless honors and awards, for his lifelong commitment to rodeo, ranching and agriculture.

It is most fitting that with all these awards under his belt, the Focus on Marysville group takes pride in honoring this man with yet another award from his hometown. He leaves a trail behind that is hard to follow.
As the co-chairs stepped away Cotton stated
“I am much honored to be this year’s Historic Hero” for the 4th Annual Historic Faire. I’m very excited there is so much energy being put towards this event and we need to give the people something new, which is Marysville’s Historic Past”.

A Poet’s Life For Me

An Afternoon with Marcelo Hernande Castillo and Friends

Marysville, Ca.
In honor of National Poetry Month, Yuba Sutter Arts is proud to welcome its Poet in Residence, Marcelo Hernandez Castillo, and four other remarkable poets to the Burrows Theater. This celebration of poetry will be held on Sunday, April 14 at 2pm. The address is 630 E Street in Marysville. The event is free and open to the public.
Marcelo has invited some of his poet friends each of whom are well known in the field; Norma Beatriz Sánchez, Rooja Mohassessy, Sara Borjas and Angela James. National Poetry Month was inaugurated by the Academy of American Poets in 1996. Over the years, it has become the largest literary celebration in the world with schools, publishers, libraries, booksellers, and poets celebrating poetry’s vital place in our culture.
Norma Beatriz Sánchez is a Mexican poet and member of the literary group Escritores Del Nuevo Sol. Ms. Sánchez's set will be a Spanish/English, on-stage collaboration with Marcelo.
Rooja Mohassessy was born in Iran and has lived in Europe, Asia and the United States. She is currently pursuing an MFA in poetry at Pacific University and working on an ekphrastic project of poems inspired by the art of her late uncle Bahman Mohassess, the important Iranian artist often referred to as the "Persian Picasso."

Sara Borjas is a Xicanx poeta and a Fresno poet. Her debut collection of poetry, Heart Like a Window, Mouth Like a Cliff was published by Noemi Press in 2019. She lives in Los Angeles but stays rooted in Fresno.
Angela James is a poet and storyteller steeped in the oral tradition of her family in the Caribbean. Her eclectic mix of poetry, stories, music and motion appeal to a wide range of audiences. Angela's work has been published in the literary magazine, Sussuruss and in three collections - Personally, Random Pieces and Words. She has been a judge for the California Poetry Out Loud competition and has worked with Poets in the Schools.
Marcelo Hernandez Castillo is a poet, essayist, translator, and immigration advocate. He is the author of Cen-zontle (BOA editions, 2018), chosen by Brenda Shaughnessy as the winner of the 2017 A. Poulin, Jr. prize. He is a founding member of the UndocuPoets campaign which successfully eliminated citizenship requirements from all major first poetry book prizes in the country. As an AB540 student Marcelo earned his B.A. from Sacramento State University and was the first undocumented student to graduate from the Helen Zell Writers Program at the University of Michigan.

Teacher Student Sex Epidemic

claring a zero tolerance for rape. Mandatory trainings are conducted for all employees to prevent fraternization with inmates as well as a sexually charged work environment and harassment. PREA seeks to insure that jails and other correctional settings protect inmates from sexual assault, sexual harassment, "consensual sex" with employees, and inmate-inmate sex.

Yuba County Office of Education (YCOE)

placing 41-year-old teacher Heather Frey on administrative leave for an alleged improper relationship with an incarcerated juvenile hall minor raises a number of questions. Do YCOE employees working in detention facilities or at the Thomas E Mathews (TEM) Court school have PREA training?

If not, are there teacher-pupil standards of behavior that instructors agree to when being employed by YCOE? In 2015, a 26-year-old female teacher was arrested for having sex with a 15-year-old boy at TEM.

Is YCOE contributing to NPR Erin Logan's described cycle of abuse, dismissal, and rehiring of predators to abuse again? To fill Ms. Frey's position, Jim Whiteaker, dismissed by Yuba City Unified School District for repeated accusations from female students of sexual abuse, has been hired by YCOE.

Freedoms Surrendered

ize in parting-out prisoners and notifying next of kin that their loved one has passed. There is no Freedom of Information Act there.

In America, the last two decades have not been kind to government transparency and economic or religious freedom. There is no move or decision made here that is neither taxed nor managed by an overseer. Thousands of new regulations created during the Obama reign crushed particularly small businesses and restricted the ability of citizens to do what they wanted.

Politicians and bureaucrats are routinely bought. Leaders in our most respected agencies have proven to be despicable in trying to overthrow the Presidency. Bureaucrats known as the Deep State are in full rebellion working to sabotage our government and the policies of the current administration.

Our schools are now indoctrination centers. Published in Econ Journal Watch (September 2016), a study of faculty voter registration at 40 leading universities found that out of 7,243 professors, Democrats outnumber Republicans 3,623 to 314, or by a ratio of 11 1/2 to 1 or more than 90% liberals.

Out of five departments analyzed by the authors, the field friendliest to conservative scholars is economics, where there are only 4.5 liberal professors for every conservative. Conversely, history was by far the least conservative-friendly department, where liberals outnumber conservatives by 33 1/2-to-1.

The campus is the last place you would go to find tolerant people. Thinking of themselves as intellectuals they have become fools. Liberal professors need only apply.

If a student follows Jesus, is pro-Israel, pro-life, pro-military / law enforcement /America, a capitalist, heterosexual, questions evolution and man-made global warming, he or she may be shamed in class, mocked, and even physically attacked. Grades are influenced by political persuasion.

If you are a visiting campus speaker holding a view other than the dictated liberal ideology your event could be blocked, boycotted, or disrupted. Rather than the university being a market - place of free, different and critical thinking it has become a “no-think” zone inhabited by political and cultural zombies.

Admission costs are over-priced, corrupt, and entrance rules racist. Unless students are seeking a technical degree like engineering, accounting, medical or mechanics etc. attending a college is a waste of a good brain and hard-earned dollars.

America's courts have been corrupted by politicians posing as judges doing what is right in their own eyes. A Muslim bakery can refuse to make a wedding cake for a homosexuals but a Christian bakery cannot. Muslims have religious freedom to pray and teach their ways in government schools but Christians do not. Judges look more like political puppets versus being safeguards of the Constitution.

It was conservative and Christian organizations targeted by the Internal Revenue Service and harassed by the alphabet soup of enforcement agencies under Obama. No country is perfect, but America is a mere glimmer of the beacon of light it once was.

Churches, once the voice of activism in the colonial era, are irrelevant to the culture today. They have been silenced. The Deep State comes to take what it wants while citizens cower behind their doors with earbuds in place.

United Way Citizen Review Teams Forming Now

Volunteers Needed! United Way of Nevada County's annual Community Impact Process for calendar year 2019 has begun. At this time, current United Way of Nevada County (UWNC) partners may request funding. As part of the annual process, UWNC forms teams of Nevada County volunteers who visit local partner agencies for a review of the agency funding requests and an evaluation of how the agency is addressing the needs of our community. This is part of the due diligence UWNC does for their donors.

This project is a fun, learning experience for all who participate! The commitment isn't a large one; including a short training meeting on April 25th and a two week period of agency visits (May 1st through May 15th). All in all, you're looking at a small commitment to UWNC (about 6-10 hours) with a large payoff to Nevada County!

UWNC's mission is to improve lives by mobilizing the caring power of our community. UWNC will be concentrating on the Basic Needs of those in our community which include Food, Emergency Shelter and access to Health Care. Any community member that is interested in participating in the process, may contact UWNC at 274-8111, or drop by our new office located at 202 Providence Mine Rd., Ste 107 in Nevada City.

OPINIONS

THINK About It!

By Charlie McNiff

Some Honest Journalism in Washington, D.C.

A couple of journalistic pearls were recently purloined from the Washington Examiner's pool of reporters...one from Charlie Hurt reads:

"The job of newspapers was once to "comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable." Today, that job seems to be to give voice to liars and shout down the truth.

You really cannot blame Democrat voters in America for fleeing in droves the fetid airwaves of MSNBC and CNN, which have suffered a collapse in ratings last week as viewers learned they have been steadily and spectacularly lied to for the past two years by the so-called "mainstream" media about the so-called Russian collusion "story."

Examples abound of pundits and reporters from once-respected newspapers and cable "news" outlets leveling outlandish charges about this twisted fantasy of collusion between President Trump and the Kremlin. Equally alarming are the endless examples of these same "news" outlets airing and publishing outright lies told by politicians hell bent on destroying Mr. Trump.

It is a sad fact in our broken world: politicians lie. The whole point of the so-called "Fourth Estate" — that unofficial, quasi-fourth branch of government — is to mercilessly hound politicians from their comfortable lairs of mendacity.

Unless, apparently, those politicians are lying about Mr. Trump and spinning fairy tale yarns about prostitutes in Moscow hotel rooms, secret liaisons in Prague that never happened, and chance bar meetings in the Seychelles.

No one has been given more airtime and ink to spread his lies than Rep. Adam Schiff, California Democrat, chairman of the House Intelligence Committee and chief prevaricator. That anyone this dishonest is allowed to hold a position of such importance and power in Congress tells you all you need to know about Washington these days.

It also explains how a vulgar outsider and political novice like Donald Trump won the election in 2016.

Sure, Mr. Schiff should step down from the committee chairmanship. He also should be stripped of all security clearances by Democratic leadership.

Don't hold your breath.

In reality, he should be kicked out of office. By the good people of California's 28th Congressional District. Conservatives should dump him for all the obvious reasons. Democrats should dump him for lying to them so relentlessly for the past two years.

But the lying politicians are not the only ones deserving our contempt and scorn. Merchants of lies in the media deserve even more contempt and scorn. The New York Times and The Washington Post led the way. Dunces at CNN and MSNBC trotted right behind.

Used to be that reporters took enormous pride in the depth of their skepticism. They would talk about how finely tuned their "BS-detectors" are. They had a nose for when somebody was peddling lies.

All that evaporated in the Age of Trump, when anything goes — so long as it slimes the president."

This Writer's Take: I can see, from a recent pic on TV, why Trump has hung a monicker on "Shifty" Schiff with the "Pencil Neck" label. It fits.

A couple of months ago I gave him a different angle. How about hearkening back in TV Land many, many years ago to the weekly episodes of "TAXI." I can't remember the stage name of the hilarious resident idiot but the actor's name was Andy Kauffman. He was the guy with the Bulged-Out Eyeballs peering back and forth (with his Pencil-Neck?) as if searching for something...like "Shifty" does when he spouts off about "clear evidence for everyone to see" about Trump's Russian Collusion...only to follow that up by explaining "we can't comment on that because it is still being investigated."

C'mon Shifty, you've been saying that almost every day for the last two years. The Mueller Report IS OVER. He couldn't find any evidence...where's yours?

Shifty retorts by saying "You're right, but as the new chairman of the committee we know the evidence is still there and we're going to find it."

O.K. Bug-Eyed Shifty, keep at it. Maybe you can unleash your evidence when you are called to testify before Senator Lindsey Graham's committee.

Trump Open For 2nd Special Counsel

Here's another "Honest Pearl" from the Examiner's reporter's pool... by Zachary Halaschak:

"President Trump is reportedly open to the idea of a new special counsel to investigate how special counsel Robert Mueller's investigation came to be.

During Trump's meeting with Republican senators on Capitol Hill on Tuesday, the president appeared "excited" about the prospect of a second special counsel when discussing Sen. Lindsey Graham's call to bring on a new lead investigator, according to Fox News, citing an unnamed source.

The senator from South Carolina was in a lunch meeting with Trump and fellow GOP senators recently when the topic was reportedly broached. Graham has called for a second special counsel in the past and has been vocal about questions he has relating to alleged abuse of the Foreign Surveillance Intelligence Act (FISA)."

Graham wants the focus to shift to the FBI and former presidential candidate Hillary Clinton's campaign, following news that special counsel Robert Mueller did not find any evidence of collusion between Trump and Russia.

"When it comes to the FISA warrant, the Clinton campaign, the counterintelligence investigation, it's pretty much been swept under the rug except by a few Republicans in the House. Those days are over. Going forward, hopefully in a bipartisan fashion, we'll begin to unpack the other side of the story," Graham said at a Monday, March 25, news conference.

Feinstein Not Happy W/9th Circuit Nominees by Stephen Frank

Poor Dianne Feinstein. Under Obama and Bush she was able to stop the appointment of judges that used the Constitution as their guideline. Instead, she got what she wanted, judges that believed in feelings, thought the Constitution is outdated and prefer to make law from the bench instead of interpreting the law.

Now, President Trump has been clear, only those that believe in the Rule of Law, the Constitution and refuse to use the Bench as a legislative Body, will be appointed. Dianne and Kamala are beside themselves—honest judges being appointed.

"I take it that without notice or discussion, the blue slip is essentially dead," Feinstein, the ranking member on the Senate Judiciary Committee, said in televised remarks on Thursday. "This change in practice not only harms the Senate, it harms the federal judiciary. And I wish we could've had an opportunity to discuss it. I really believe it's a mistake."

Feinstein went on: "Before President Trump took office, the blue slip had been a Senate practice for nearly one century. And during the past 100 years, before this presidency, the Senate confirmed only five judges with only one blue slip, and the last one was in 1989 — and in 100 years the Senate had never confirmed a judge without two blue slips."

She is right—under Trump the abuse of power and the power in the appointment of judges has ended. Now all 100 Senators are equal—she prefers two of the hundred being able to blacklist quality candidates. She is a socialist, she does not believe in majority rule.—if she is not the majority.

This Month In Your Garden by Cecilia M. Rice

BALD MOUNTAIN NURSERY

6195 BALD MOUNTAIN ROAD • BROWNS VALLEY, CA • 530-743-4856

April is a pretty name for what is usually a pretty month. The first day of spring greeted us on March 20th, and April is celebrating its presence with fresh shades of green as a backdrop for all the wonderful color we will begin to see. Our weather usually takes a turn for the better — not too cold and not yet uncomfortably hot. It is just right for gardening without having to face the water shortages we all struggled with during the long drought. Enjoy it!

Vegetable gardens are underway or in the planning stage for lots of folks. Sometimes early April still brings us some very cold nights. Keep in mind that the night time temperatures should be at a consistent 50 degrees to sustain the best growth. Seeds that have been planted should be fine, but small plants can be stunted by cold nights. Many people feel that April is a late start, but, that is an opinion, not a fact. Monitor the night time temperatures for a few nights and make your decision. Up in our foothill areas there are lots of microclimates depending on whether you are up on the hill or in a valley where the cold is more apt to settle — the difference in temperatures can be significant. Many people in the higher foothills, such as Grass Valley or Brownsville wait until May because of the almost inevitable late cold spell that is apt to come along and freeze the small plants making it necessary to start all over again.

There is an abundant display of colorful plants to get into the soil anytime now to make your yard wonderfully colorful. There are many seasonal bedding plants that will bloom all summer long for your enjoyment — pansies, marigolds, snapdragons, petunias alyssum, annual vinca, portulaca lobelia and others. Some perennial plants will bloom though the season if planted now, such as foxglove, coral bells, coreopsis, gaillardia, dianthus and many others.

If you planted any fruit trees during bare root season or recently purchased any in containers, this is just a reminder that the tree trunk should be painted with tree-trunk paint from the ground up to the first limbs to protect them from sunburn. Sunburn can cause the young, still thin bark to crack creating a possible entrance for pests. As we progress into the hot weather, the young trees will need a good, deep watering two to three times a week, depending on how hot it is. This is very important to help them develop deep roots to become healthy trees. A quick watering every day or so will develop shallow roots that will not be able to sustain them well as they grow larger. This actually applies to any trees you may plant - especially with the hot weather that we know is coming along. Roots seek the water wherever it is.

Citrus trees are available and have been blooming and soon the very small fruit will be seen in their place. They are probably no longer in need of protection from cold weather, but be ready to protect them should some freezing weather be predicted. Citrus trees should be fertilized regularly to keep them nice and green. If they begin to have yellow leaves with green veins they should be given some chelated iron.

Lawns should be fertilized with a lawn food. If your lawn areas have weeds invading them, it is helpful to use a lawn food that has a weed control incorporated in the formula. This is also a good time to plant a new lawn if that is in your plans. It is much easier to do it now before the daytime temperatures become hot. That requires more frequent watering sessions to keep the soil moist enough to help the seed sprout without washing some of the seed away or drowning the first new little sprouts. There are many opinions about lawns since the recent drought. It is a fact that they require lots of water and we are still being cautioned about not wasting water. Huge lawns can be avoided, but even a small oasis of lawn can make the yard seem cooler and more inviting. That, of course, is my personal opinion.

It has been nice to see all of the early blooming plants. Our fence line of daffodils at the nursery were beautiful. I have noticed orchards in full bloom and the few fruit trees we had left from bare root season were pretty to see in all their different colors. Of course, the flowering quince along the roads and the yellow low forsythia in yards are always early clues that spring like weather will soon be here.

History Repeating Itself? Vintage Tractor Show

by Rod Hisken

It is often said that history repeats its self.

It could be that we are in that cycle and are so close to it we don't recognize it.

The Alcouff Center in Oregon House will be presenting their Annual Vintage Tractor Show on May 4th and 5th. The show is a great place to take the family for a variety of the activities and low costs. A wide variety of vintage tractors, bounce houses, farm crafts, hay rides, and vendors related to the age are some of the things that will be available.

The Oregon House effort has a reputation for having some exhibits that tend to not be present at other exhibitions. This year they are going to host three unique displays that have never been seen anywhere.

Last year, a discussion was held explaining how a 1923 patented John Deere Hit and Miss engine ran a 1923 patented five gallon White Mountain Ice Cream machine worked and free samples were given out. A good sized crowd gathered about the curious contraption and enjoyed the special flavor of ice cream.

The speech was so successful the committee wants to try a follow-on experience.

Samples will not be given out because of the requirements of Environmental Health.

This year Rod Hisken and Don Tomlinson will team again to demonstrate how food for people and farm animals was prepared in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

The machines being used were sold by Sears and Roebuck and Montgomery Ward. The Sears machines were owned by residents of Brown Valley. Amazon grew out of the big box stores and box stores ancestors would be the mail order catalogs. The mail order catalog business became possible because of the railroads, enhanced by the development of the truck, and the coming of Rural Free Delivery in 1893 which evolved to a greater maturity by 1909. These businesses came into being as the rural population of America demanded products and did not have the ability to shop in the more metropolitan centers.

Sears was founded in 1886 by Richard Warren Sears and Alvin Curtis Roebuck. A new partner joined in 1906, Julius Rosenwald. They were based in Chicago. Their first store was in Evansville Indiana. The Sears Holding Company eventually built the famous Sears Tower and generated a worldwide revenue of $13.8 billion.

Montgomery Ward began business in 1872 and produced a catalog of one page that boasted 163 items. The company grew rapidly in 1875 when they offered "Satisfaction Guaranteed". The catalog became the national "Wish Book", The first store was in Plymouth Indiana. Ward died in 1913. Another outstanding business generator for Wards was created by a staff copywriter, Robert Wray when he created the caricature of Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer later popularized by Gene Autry in 1946. Unfortunately, the company selected a very conservative leader as he failed to see the future and the company did not prosper with the new culture that came after World War II.

Many outhouses, out where they belonged, had a used mail order on hand for the appropriate supply.

The machines used for the presentation are three. One is a David Bradley number 8 Corn Cob Crusher and Feed Grinder. It was distributed by Sears and the listed price in 1917 was $18.95. The crusher was sold from 1912 to 1928. It would process 10-15 bushels per hour and required a 4-6 horsepower engine. The engine being used to run the crusher is a 1916 Economy Model E. It is a dual fuel, "Hit and Miss", and has a "Make and Break" ignition.

The engine weighs approximately 2,000 pounds and was listed in the catalog for $159. The engine can be traced to pumping water in the Copperopolis Gold Mine. The owner, Adolph Reusser, retired and moved to Browns Valley where he cut wood with it. It sat in Bertha's garden as yard art and was discovered by Carl Mehr. Carl restored the machine in 1998. It is affectionately known as "Big Bertha". The third machine is a 1936 "Wards Grain Buster". The original owner was Sid Campbell of Tehama, Rod hauled hay for Mr. Campbell as a teenager and effected his work ethic.

The presentation will occur at 12:30 to 1:00 on Saturday and Sunday.

This unique opportunity should be interesting and will demonstrate how history repeats itself and how our forefathers prepared food for farm animal power.

CRITIC'S CORNER

The Best of Enemies
Starring: Taraji P. Henson, Sam Rockwell, and Babou Ceesay. Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 2 hours, 13 minutes.

In 1972 Durham, North Carolina, a segregated school catches fire and the parents seek to integrate the school system to meet the needs of the students. This action stirs the social turmoil of the small town and with the help of a Charrette organizer drastically opposed sides are able to come together and through honest and respectful communication work issues out.

The Best of Enemies, earns five out of five, Coke Drinking Monkeys. The story is well written and does a beautiful job of showing both sides as humans locked in their perceptions of each other. How those perceptions are modified as they see each other as human and more similar to themselves than they previously thought. The acting is great. Sam Rockwell, fearlessly tackles his role as Klan leader and Taraji p. Henson, is a force on the screen. Her character reminds me of my own mother. Fierce and quick to right injustices. The production is well done with subtly placed product placement.

The Best of Enemies, is well worth a trip to the movie house to see on the big screen and as a bit of trivia, it opened on the anniversary of the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. His message is still working today. Not for one to dominate over another, but that all should be equal and treated as individuals according to the content of their character.
