

Cornish Christmas Celebrates 50 Years

Grass Valley, Ca. — Recapture the spirit of Christmas past amid the charming surroundings of historic downtown Grass Valley California during the annual Cornish Christmas Celebration. 2017 is its 50th anniversary, and this wonderful tradition takes place on five Fridays, from November 24-December 22, from 6-9 p.m.

Started in 1967 as a way to preserve Grass Valley's Cornish heritage and holiday traditions, Cornish Christmas remains one of the town's most popular events. Mill and West Main Streets are closed to motorized traffic and filled with the sights and sounds of an old fashioned Christmas; carolers, jugglers, musicians, fire pits, mulled wine, roasted chestnuts, food and craft vendors, the Grass Valley Cornish Carol Choir, Tommyknocker Cloggers and of course, Santa Claus photos at Three Lilies Photography. Santa's elves are gathering to build a workshop for kids' crafts at the Artists Workshop. Tofanelli's Gold Country Bistro will have a Letters to Santa mailbox for all ages with stationary and guaranteed reply from Santa.

Cornish Connection includes free gift wrapping, Cornish Trivia, and Cornish King and Queen photo opportunities at M3Mall on Neal St. Classic cars from Roamin' Angels Car Club will pepper the surrounding streets with lots of photo opportunities. Live trees from Weiss Brothers Nursery and photo stands designed by Howard Levine add to the ambiance. Delicious food and drink can be purchased from a number of Grass Valley restaurants and specialty food vendors.

Christmas is a family friendly opportunity to celebrate the holidays while enjoying a taste of small town life and days long gone by. Event is held rain or shine, and admission is free. Period/holiday attire is encouraged for attendees, as well.

YCWA and CID Resolve Disagreements

Marysville, Ca.

The Yuba County Water Agency Board of Directors approved an agreement with Cordua Irrigation District, resolving several disagreements, including two lawsuits.

The pending lawsuits and disputes between YCWA and Cordua that this agreement will pardon include:

1. A lawsuit against YCWA seeking approximately $4.5 million in damages for a dispute dating back to 2015, in which YCWA did not approve a Cordua proposed groundwater substitution-based water transfer and sale.

2. A lawsuit against Cordua claiming California Environmental Quality Act and Brown Act violations relating to Cordua's 2016 approval of a CEQA addendum for its groundwater substitution transfers to State Water Project contractors for 2016 through 2024.

3. A YCWA and Cordua dispute over the price owed by Cordua to YCWA for Yuba River Development Project water delivered in 2016.

Under the approved agreement, YCWA has agreed to pay $675,000 to Cordua to resolve the 2015 transfer request lawsuit. Cordua has agreed to pay $60,000 to YCWA to resolve the 2016 project base supply billing dispute, and YCWA and Cordua both agree to dismiss each of its lawsuits.

"This agreement paves the way for a much brighter and more productive working relationship with Cordua Irrigation District," said YCWA General Manager Curt Aikens. "The important thing in all of this is that now we can put the past disputes behind us and begin to work together better and more collaboratively in the future."

The Cordua Board of Directors approved the agreement during its Nov. 16 meeting. Prior to the agreement taking effect, the Sacramento Superior Court must provide its approval as well.

YCWA Helps Fund Road Repairs, Enhances Evacuation Routes

Two major Yuba County road revitalization projects are nearing completion, and address internal drainage issues that could have potentially resulted in the closure of important evacuation routes.

Yuba County Water Agency and Yuba County have partnered to provide funding for two separate, complete street projects — North Beale Road and Olivehurst Avenue — that will benefit area residents in the case of a major flood event, while improving the aesthetics and functionality of the roads overall.

Improvements for both of the street projects include storm drains, street widening, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, bike lanes and transit stops. The Olivehurst Avenue project also included the undergrounding of utilities, as well as the addition of a new traffic signal at the McGowan Parkway intersection. The North Beale Road project will further enhance street lighting, in addition to center median landscaping.

The total cost for both revitalization projects is approximately $8 million. YCWA granted $985,665 for the Olivehurst Avenue project and upwards of $1.8 million for the North Beale Road project to address internal drainage flooding.

YCWA was established to provide flood protection and flood management for the people who work and live in Yuba County. Because each of these roads is located along major evacuation routes, the Agency and Yuba County realized the necessity to perform improvements for the safety of people residing in the area.

"YCWA funds projects like these to help keep Yuba County residents safe," said YCWA Board Director Andy Vasquez. "These road improvements will enable safe, reliable and necessary evacuation routes for the people in the community."

Taxpayers Pay for Screwing-Off

by Lou Binninger

You ever get tired of government employees getting their off-time confused with their employment-time? How do people get their work done and do all this harassing and molesting of fellow workers and innocent bystanders? And, the little people, the taxpayers are paying for all the fun.

The Congressional Office of Compliance (OOC) released a year-by-year breakdown recently of federal harassment settlements, showing $17 million awarded to 276 victims throughout the past two decades.

The OCC said the settlements involve all types of harassment and originate from multiple offices inside the legislative branch other than the House and Senate. Maybe the House and Senate didn't get their fair share since victims had yet to come forward.

In the settlements, harassment payouts averaged almost $400,000 per victim in 2002. In 2017, so far there has been nearly $1 million in payouts divided among eight victims.

Who did the harassing? Well, of course that's confidential. President Trump is suggesting exposing the culprits from now on.

Free Speech and the Johnson Amendment

by Lou Binninger

On May 4, 2017 President Trump signed an executive order to end the Johnson Amendment's stifling effect on the free speech of religious organizations and pastors. Some people hoped the action would nullify the amendment altogether. It didn't do that but it was progress. An act of Congress could do away with it completely.

Since it was adopted in 1954, the Johnson Amendment prohibits charities and churches from "directly or indirectly participating in, or intervening in, any political campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) any candidate for elective public office." Groups that violate the amendment could be faced with revocation of their tax-exempt status.

In the colonies, prior to the fight for independence, churches were congregating places for both spiritual and secular purposes. Preachers or ministers cast the vision for freedom and independence from England. Churches did not pay taxes and there were no limits on speech or restrictions on houses of worship.

Although settlers hated state-enforced religion, today's myth of a separation of church and state would have been considered nonsense to them. Colonists believed that the Providence of God brought them to the New World. Having Godly people leading the nation was never considered as government mandating a particular religion.

By the time of the American Revolution, nine of the 13 original colonies were officially giving some kind of tax relief to churches. In 1777, Virginia enacted an exemption from paying property tax to "houses for divine worship." New York followed in 1799, and Congress exempted all churches in the District of Columbia from paying property tax in 1870.

However, giving churches a property tax break was not unanimous. During the 19th Century, opposition to churches retaining property tax exemptions was expressed by at least three US presidents: James Madison, James Garfield, and Ulysses S. Grant.

American churches' federal income tax exemption was not formerly enacted as legislation until the Tariff Act was passed by Congress in 1894, providing tax exemptions to "corporations, companies, or associations organized and conducted solely for charitable, religious, or educational purposes."

On Jan. 14, 1924, the US Supreme Court interpreted the reason for the exemption in Trinidad v. Sagrada Orden: "Evidently the exemption is made in recognition of the benefit which the public derives (from churches') corporate activities."

In 1954, Senator Lyndon Johnson from Texas was getting panicky in his re-election bid. With Russia, China and now North Korea becoming communist, American anti-communist fervor was hot

by Boots Johnson

Dan “Boots” Johnson has fished and hunted in California for 73 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

As I sit in my office writing this week’s report the rain is falling steadily and I can see the pools begin to form around the spa in the courtyard. This storm is quite a difference from the warm weather we have been experiencing lately. Expect this one to finally turn local rivers on the brown side and bring up the sturgeon.

The planted rainbow trout continue to grow in size. It has been common to catch four and five pound rainbows, with an occasional fish in the six to eight pound range. Now a rainbow trout was caught near Angels Camp, California which was over nine pounds. The big fish was caught trolling around 35 feet down at New Melones Reservoir.

While things have slowed here in the Sacramento Valley the stripers were in full bite mode in San Pablo Bay last week with limits for just about anyone with a line in the water.

We hear from Knights Landing. The catfish are on the bite in that area. We have also have reports of nice catfish being taken in the 18 pound range above Verona on the Feather River. Expect this bite to slow down with cooler weather on the way.

Trout fishing at Collins Lake above Marysville has picked up considerably but the buzz there is the big catfish caught last week. The fish weighed in at 18 ¾ pounds. The big cat was caught fishing from shore near the beach. It is unknown what was used for bait.

Anglers trolling flies up at Eagle Lake are having success in shallow water down to around six feet. Anglers are reminded that while the lake is still open for fishing the marina has closed down for the winter and will reopen next April.

Folsom Lake received a rainbow trout plant last week. The only other lake we are aware of in the North part of the state which received a planting is Jenkinson Lake with the rest of the planting taking place further south.

Closing thought: “We all have a fresh beginning every twenty four hours.”

Have Lunch with Ernest Hemingway

Emily Dickinson, Beatrix Potter and Other Great Authors

Marysville, Ca.
Have you ever wished you could have met a famous person from history like one of your favorite authors, for example. Here's your chance to meet not one, but seven literary greats at a Literary Luncheon put on by The Friends of the Packard Library of Yuba County.

It's the latest in the ongoing and very popular series which celebrates literature and raises funds to encourage reading and support the programs and resources of the Yuba County Library. The event will be held on Saturday, December 2nd starting at 11:30.

"When I first got involved with this project,

I was invited to portray Hemingway as part of a 'literary tea,' said David

Read, Executive Director of Yuba Sutter Arts. "I said, 'sure, I can pull off the Hemingway part, but he wouldn't be caught dead at a tea party' so we changed it to a luncheon," he added.

The December 2nd event will feature a three-course lunch and portrayals of six well-loved authors by local "literati" in addition to emcee, Ernest Hemingway, portrayed by David Read:

Poet Robert Burns, portrayed by Terry Docherty

Poet Emily Dickinson, portrayed by Carmen Smith

Jhumpa Lahiri, ("The Namesake"), portrayed by Narinder Dhaliwal

Gabriel Garcia Marquez, ("Love in the Time of Cholera"), portrayed by Ricky Samayoa

C. Clement Moore, ("The Night Before Christmas"), portrayed by actor Gene Branaman

Beatrix Potter, ("Peter Rabbit"), portrayed by Louise Miller

The Luncheon will be held in the Great Hall of St. John's Episcopal Church, 800 D Street in Marysville. Doors open for luncheon guests at 11:30, lunch served at noon and, to paraphrase Mark Twain, "the trouble begins at 12:30."

Tickets are $22 per person ($20 for members of the Friends or Yuba Sutter Arts). They may be purchased at Digs (322 D St.) or Yuba Sutter Arts (624 E Street) in Marysville & online at yubasutterarts.org. There is also an option to have tickets delivered to you in Marysville and Yuba City; leave a message at (310) 936-9001. Purchasing tickets in advance is highly recommended. Space is limited, and the last luncheon was sold out. Additional information is available on the Friends' Facebook page, at www.facebook.com/PackardLibraryPals.

Food and Farm News

Study evaluates produce consumption

California does better than the nation as a whole, when it comes to eating recommended daily amounts of fruits and vegetables. But only a small proportion of the state's residents met the dietary guidelines, according to a new study. In California, 13.6 percent of respondents met the guidelines for fruit intake, compared to 12 percent nationally. For vegetables, about 11 percent of Californians met the goal, compared to 9 percent nationwide.

Farm advisor tests purple sweet potatoes

Purple sweet potatoes could have a bigger future in California. A University of California farm advisor is working with farmers in Merced County, testing sweet potato varieties that have both purple skin and flesh. The farm advisor says the purple potatoes carry even more nutrients than the traditional orange varieties. One purple sweet potato variety is already being grown in California. The farm advisor wants to learn if others might also do well.

Dried persimmons could expand fruit's market

Experiments with dried persimmons aim to make the fruit more available to more people at more times of the year. Right now, persimmons are available mainly fresh and mostly in California during the autumn. Researchers with the U.S. Department of Agriculture say drying persimmons to make chips would provide more year-round demand for the fruit. Their studies identified six persimmon varieties that tested best for drying taste and texture.

Farmers reduce wheat acreage

With large supplies of wheat available on the worldwide market, California farmers say they won't be planting as much this year. Russia has emerged as a large wheat producer, with those supplies added to the world market. That has driven wheat prices down, leading farmers to reduce acreage both in California and nationally. California farmers say they're planting alternative crops such as lettuce, onions, garbanzo beans and barley.

Coffee & Crooners

Coffee & Crooners is a fundraiser benefiting the Friends of Yuba City Parks & Recreation Foundation, a non-profit organization devoted to providing scholarships and quality parks for our community. Taxpayers Pay for Screwing-Off

The release of 21-years of documentation came the same day that Minnesota Senator Al Franken was accused of sexually harassing a news anchor multiple times during a 2006 USO entertainment tour in the Middle East. Right after the news anchor talked more ladies came forward to attest to Franken grabbing their breasts, butt or inserting his tongue down their throat or all three.

However, for Franken and our other amazing politicians who meet and greet thousands of people in massive crowds it is hard to recall whose butt and boobs were fondled. It's all just a blur.

Even Jesus in Mark 5 after realizing that healing power left him in a large crowd was just like Franken "Who touched my robes?" Jesus asked. The culprit was a woman suddenly healed of 12-years of bleeding after spending all her money on doctors. Heh, if God in the flesh can't keep track of these touches what do we expect of fallible molesters?

Maybe Franken and other perverts can use the Messiah defense--- intense crowds, bad with names and all butts and boobs feel the same after a while. It's a tough job but someone has to do it.

The apologies of politicians are titillating in themselves. "I don't remember her but if I hurt her feelings I am sorry if I overstepped my bounds by having my hands up her dress." Or, "I have taken thousands of photos with ladies in very crowded rooms. Sometimes the only spot to rest your hand is on a butt. I try not to squeeze. If she did not appreciate that then I sincerely apologize. However, I don't actually recall any of these events."

The California Legislature is so overrun with hundreds of groping and harassment accusations from employees that they are going to conduct hearings. Now this is like leaving your 10-year old with a pedophile.

The legislators sitting in judgement are the very ones who force all our government school children to celebrate May 22 as Harvey Milk Day. Harvey majored in screwing and having oral sex with underage boys. And, he proved to be a chronic liar, as well. Yes, a true California hero.

These "leaders" brought us transsexual bathrooms, co-ed school showers and curriculum teaching that homosexual behavior is normal. Next year, will it be sex with a sheep. Why not make Harvey's way legit...sex with boys?

In Sutter County as shamed District Attorney Carl Adams resigned after being exposed for sexual dalliances and misappropriation of funds the Supervisors never even ordered an investigation into the office accounting or into other rumors of his devious ways. It cost taxpayers $230,000 without even taking a close look. The Supervisors are comfortable with paying people-off and covering for themselves.

Why should we expect any better justice and accountability from the state and federal people? If we can't hold our locals accountable forget about it elsewhere.

For you little people don't try any of this behavior at home. You'll get arrested.

Getting Advice Invaluable

Sending a child off to college can be challenging in more ways than one. Not only is there heartbreak on a personal level from a loved one leaving home for good but the costs can also break the proverbial bank as well. There are a myriad of options as to what schools one can select which run the gamut from local junior colleges, state colleges, or as in California, UC schools. Then there are the many private schools. I was surprised when we started the college selection process just how many private schools there were.

We considered many things as we compiled a list of potential schools for my 17 year old son Kyle. We retained the services of a professional college advisor to help us and in hindsight that was the best decision we made. With all the deadlines and considerations, choices and requirements, we found her services beyond invaluable.

As to school selection, for our son, junior colleges were of no interest so we eliminated that option immediately. Grades and test scores had a bearing on what schools we selected and although Kyle has never received a grade under an A, other test factors determined some schools were still out of the question.

His vocational interests steered us toward some schools and away from others. The list was by default getting smaller and we were thankful for it. The UC system was less expensive than out of state schools yet they themselves offered little financial assistance unless a student was very exceptional in sports or merit. State colleges can cost less than the UC systems but the quality of education at least to my son was in question. Not to say state colleges aren't quality institutions, they are. But Kyle had it in his head to go to a UC school, an Ivy League school or big name private school so that's where we focused.

Private schools offered financial assistance depending on family income, grade merit and athletic scholarship and the smaller colleges seemed to want students and went out of their way to do what they could to help families financially and through the whole process. In the UC schools process however, we felt we were just one of the many mass applicants. Interestingly enough Ivy Leagues schools don't necessarily cost more than others, they are just harder to get in. Acceptance rates in the single digits make trying for one of these schools discouraging but not impossible.

In our particular case, family income was sporadic and varies drastically year to year. Since the financial evaluation system evaluates family income made during the time the student was a junior in high school, we basically got railed due to a one-off circumstance which spiked our income.

Although one-off income streams are just that: one time occurrences, it hurt us badly when it came to qualifying for help. Families not familiar with how these things work could end up paying more for special circumstances like these onetime spikes in income. You can be sure when my next child goes into his junior year in high school, I will take every legal maneuver available to me to get my income down in that particular year.

As of things I did to prepare for college cost years ago, a 529 college saving plan helped and we did what is supposed to be done, mainly set one up when a child is born. These college funds have special IRS considerations which can help defer potential tax liabilities yet can offer growth while the child grows.

Saving income instead of buying a new car every year or going on lavish vacations are wise decisions and can really add to the college accounts over the 18 year span leading to adulthood. Never lose sight of how much college will cost and just how important college is to insuring a happier life for your child when he graduates into adulthood and the workforce.

And for our family, spending money on an independent college counselor (in lieu of the standard high school employees) was one of the best decisions we made. The cost vastly outweighed the potential headaches and application deficiencies we would have experienced had we not retained her services. The hunt for a college and its application process is challenging enough. To go it alone, at least in my opinion, would have been frightening.

We are not done selecting a school for our first child and are far from figuring out how we are going to pay for all of it when all three kids complete the process, but in the end, the rewards to our children and our sense of pride in their accomplishments, makes it all more than worthwhile.

Many businesses donated time and items, people gathered to wash cars, baked goods came in along with many raffle items. Haircut money was donated as well as Beth's stretches. In all, almost $3,000 was raised. All of this money will be given to local fire victims. Thank you so much to all of the donors as well as the shoppers. Pulling together we did well.

The 2nd Annual Foothill Communities Tree Lighting is this Friday, December 1st starting at 6:30pm at the Foothill Firehouse on Willow Glen Rd. in Brownsville. There will be caroling, holiday treats, hot beverages and Santa arrives on a fire truck to light the tree. Come enjoy an evening of Holiday Fun with family, friends and neighbors.

Colusa County
Cameos
by Carol Withington

Grand Island

The area known as Grand Island in Colusa County encompasses land lying between Sycamore Slough at the head and the Sacramento River, which surrounds the area on three sides.

According to research, there were three business points on Grand Island including Sycamore, which was originally named Loch-loch. At one time, it was a small trading community with a hotel, two shops, a saloon, blacksmith shop, a church and a schoolhouse. A post office was established in 1871 with Howell Davis serving as the first postmaster.

The second point was Eddy's Landing which was situated about a mile below Grimes. This area afforded communication with the east side of the Sacramento River and the Marysville Road by means of a ferry. Steamboats also made regular trips up and down the river, hauling away produce and returning with freight for its merchandise stores and farms.

The third point and considered the most important on Grand Island was the village of Grimes. This community was founded in 1855 by Cleaton Grimes. A native of Maysville, Kentucky, Grimes, a tanner by trade, crossed the plains to California at the age of 34. He first tried his hand at gold mining and, for a brief time, in boat freighting before arriving on Grand Island the Spring of 1852.

Grimes soon after purchased 1200 acres of land from Dr. James Morrison where he built a log house near the river. Within a few years, the community grew with the first store built by James Goodhue in partnership with Case. Other establishments included a grain storage warehouse, one hotel, two saloons, one blacksmith shop, one harness shop, a livery stable and a barber shop.

In addition, there was a Baptist Church, a schoolhouse and a large community hall for public gatherings as well as meetings of several benevolent societies.

All-in-all, throughout the years, Grand Island was populated with a "thrifty" class of hard working people.

Grand Island Shrine

Built in 1883, the Grand Island Shrine is listed on the National Register of Historic Places in Colusa County. Located on a rural stretch of State Route 45 between Buster and Earp Roads, one can see the small chapel and large cross "reminiscent" of shrines built in Europe long ago to provide solace to pilgrims, shepherds and outcasts in the wilderness.

Mounted on a stone base at the entrance to the grove is the following inscription: "Site of the first Catholic mass to be said in Colusa County, May 1856. In 1864, a Catholic mission was conducted and a large wooden cross erected to commemorate the occasion. Masses, pilgrimages and visits were made here continuously thereafter. In order to preserve the identity of the place, Father Michael Wallrath secured a deed from Mrs. Anna Myers to this parcel of land and constructed a small shrine from hand kilned bricks in 1883". It is well worth the short drive to view this unusual Shrine as well as visit the many historical communities of neighboring Colusa County.

against sympathizers.

Groups were organizing against candidates they thought were pro-communist. And, black churches were much more conservative-leaning than today. White conservatives in the south were anti-Jim Crow and pro-Civil Rights for Blacks. The Black churches were thriving and they would get out the vote, possibly against Johnson.

In a self-serving act to save his career, Johnson added his amendment to a large omnibus bill. His amendment would stop organizations, religious or secular, from campaigning for or against politicians or causes. The Amendment passed and he won the election.

For groups and churches organized under IRS Code 501(C) 3, speech which had been a right granted by God became a privilege granted by government in trade for a tax exemption. All the while, as the Supreme Court acknowledged, churches and nonprofits have always done the heavy-lifting in social work.

President Trump said at a White House signing ceremony, "We will not allow people of faith to be targeted, bullied or silenced anymore. No one should be censoring sermons or targeting pastors."

Trump's order directs the IRS to "alleviate the burden of the Johnson Amendment."

"Rolling back the Johnson Amendment does not favor any particular religious views over others, and the President has broad authority to decide not to enforce certain laws," said Robin Fretwell Wilson, a professor at the University of Illinois College of Law.

The Landmark Church, formerly known as the Church at Pierce Creek, in Binghamton, N.Y. on Oct. 30, 1992, just four days before the presidential election, placed full-page ads in USA Today and the Washington Times warning Christians about Bill Clinton.

The ads' headline, "Christians Beware," was followed by a statement explaining that Clinton's positions concerning abortion, homosexuality and the distribution of condoms to teen-agers in schools violate biblical principles. A notice at the bottom of the ad appealed for "tax-exempt donations" to pay for placing the ad.

Following the election of Bill Clinton the IRS withdrew the church's tax exempt status. Hopefully, the gutting of the Johnson Amendment will prevent this in the future.

The Shadow Government (OFA)

by Charles Krauthammer

I do not understand how living in a country with its democracy established over 200 years ago, and now, for the first time in history, suddenly we have one of our former presidents set up a group called "Organizing for Action" (OFA).

OFA is 30,000+ strong and working to disrupt everything that our current president's administration is trying to do. This organization goes against our Democracy, and it is an operation that will destroy our way of governing. It goes against our Constitution, our laws, and the processes established over 200 years ago. If it is allowed to proceed then we will be living in chaos very much like third world countries are run. What good is it to have an established government if it is not going to be respected and allowed to follow our laws?

If you had an army some 30,000 strong and a court system stacked over the decades with judges who would allow you to break the laws, how much damage could you do to a country? We are about to find out in America!

Our ex-president said he was going to stay involved through community organizing and speak out on the issues and that appears to be one post-administration promise he intends to keep. He has moved many of his administration's top dogs over to Organizing for Action.

OFA is behind the strategic and tactical implementation of the resistance to the Trump Administration that we are seeing across America, and politically active courts are providing the leverage for this revolution.

OFA is dedicated to organizing communities for "progressive" change. Its issues are gun control, socialist healthcare, abortion, sexual equality, climate change, and of course, immigration reform.

OFA members were propped up by the ex-president's message from the shadows: "Organizing is the building block of everything great we have accomplished. Organizers around the country are fighting for change in their communities and OFA is one of the groups on the front lines. Commit to this work in 2017 and beyond."

OFA's website says it obtained its "digital" assets from the ex-president's re-election effort and that he inspired the movement. In short, it is the shadow government organization aimed at resisting and tearing down the Constitutional Republic we know as AMERICA.

Paul Sperry, writing for the New York Post, says, "The OFA will fight President Donald Trump at every turn of his presidency and the ex-president will command them from a bunker less than two miles from the White House."

Sperry writes that, "The ex-president is setting up a shadow government to sabotage the Trump administration through a network of non-profits led by OFA, which is growing its war chest (more than $40 million) and has some 250 offices nationwide. The OFA IRS filings, according to Sperry, indicate that the OFA has 32,525 (and growing) volunteers nationwide. The ex-president and his wife will oversee the operation from their home/ office in Washington DC.

Think about how this works.. For example: Trump issues an immigration executive order; the OFA signals for protests and statements from pro-immigrant groups; the ACLU lawyers file lawsuits in jurisdictions where activist judges obstruct the laws; volunteers are called to protest at airports and Congressional town hall meetings; the leftist media springs to action in support of these activities; the twitter sphere lights up with social media; and violence follows. All of this happens from the ex-president's signal that he is heartened by the protests.

If Barack Obama did not do enough to destroy this country in the 8 years he was in office, it appears his future plans are to destroy the foundation on which this country has operated on for the last 241 years.

If this does not scare you, then we are in worse trouble than you know.

So, do your part. You have read it, so at least pass this on so others will know what we are up against. We are losing our country and we are so compliant. We are becoming a "PERFECT TARGET" for our enemy!

Media is Bought Out by Progressive Leftists

I don't know how many of you know that Jeff Bezos who is the Richest man in the world and also a Progressive Leftist who owns the Washington Post, has fired all conservatives and hired leftist reporters... He sent reporters to the yearly Progressive Socialist conference that was held November 2nd in California. Several reporters were sent to learn how to manipulate the Sheeple through media propaganda... They were there to learn how to destroy the US Republic and how they are going to control the Global Governance and eliminate those who believe in Liberty... George Soros and Nancy Pelosi were key speakers at this conference.. The Media has been bought out for the most part and leftist Propaganda is going to get more intense.. CBS, NBC, ABC, CNN, MSNBC are "All In" with the Bezos, Soros, Pelosi Agenda to destroy our Republic and Liberty.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Daddy's Home 2

Starring: Will Ferrell, Mark Wahlberg, and Mel Gibson. Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 100 minutes.

A father and step father work out their differences and become friends to give their children a good peaceful environment to thrive in. With the holidays rolling around their dads come for a visit and in true comedic fashion they are polar opposite personalities. John Lithgow and Mel Gibson certainly fit the bill as opposites.

The story rolls along at a decent pace with a few forced scenes to keep it going. There are some funny gags and not a lot of low brow humor, which is appreciated. The acting is good with Will Ferrell playing a more sedate part with less of his rushing-bull comedy style. He seems to read off of his fellow actors and interact with them much more naturally than he has in previous films.

Daddy's Home 2, earns three out of five, Snow Blower Monkeys. This is a fun low key movie with some good laughs and even a good gun safety message. There are worse ways to spend a cold November afternoon.

Yuba County Senior's Building Fund

Due to the building being sold that has housed the Yuba County Seniors for the last nine years, the senior organization is seeking a permanent home for the group.

The seniors have $25,000 in their building fund that is being matched by an anonymous donor to total $50,000.

There is a GoFundMe.com page under "Home for Yuba County Senior Center" for money donations.

Your One Minute News Digest

by Don Rae

- Perhaps Moonbeam and his cronies could vote to make the State Capitol building a sanctuary for women. Does it surprise you that more than 100 women have signed a letter claiming they were subjected to sexual harassment while working at the Capitol Building? Which political party has been in charge of that building? Such behavior was legislated as improper and illegal more than 50 years ago. The Democrats don't believe they have to follow the rules or the law. Drain the State sewer.
- Lois Lerner demands that her "under oath" testimony be kept secret forever, Bull excrement. Jail her.
- Congress has used millions of taxpayers' dollars to settle sexual harassment claims against congressional members. Why? These perps should pay for their misdeeds themselves. What do you say, Garamendi?
- The release of bin Laden's papers show conclusively that Obama lied over and over again about "winning" against Al Queda.
- In the 1960s women working for the City of San Diego said they wouldn't ride alone in an elevator with the mayor.
- The state legislature is now considering making the middle lane of a four-lane highway available only for passing. If they can't figure out what a nightmare this will create, they should resign as being mentally deficient. Think of how that plan would work with a 55 mph speed for one class of traffic (trucks) and 70 mph for cars. However, if the brilliant traffic engineers would check other states, they would find that the same speed limit for all traffic works well and goes a long way to lessen congestion and dangerous situations. Try I-95 on the East Coast and I-25 in Colorado for starters.
- California really is the land of the loons.
- In your entire life have you ever seen anyone obsess about why they lost an election like Hillary is doing? No Dignity.

- Just think what it would be like to have cry-baby Hillary in the White House with Hubby Bill lurking in the hallways preying on a new crop of interns.
- If ever there was a statistic which shows how useless Congress is, the following takes the prize. The Senate Ethics Committee has never taken action against a Senator. It is a travesty for Chuck Schumer to suggest that Al Franken be investigated by that same committee. Neither of these two should be anywhere near a political office.
- Tom Steyer is putting out untold amounts of money for a commercial demanding that Trump be impeached. For what?
- While we consider tax reform, let's review the bidding. Under Obamacare the Medicare Tax went from 1.45 to 2.35%. The top income tax bracket went from 35 to 39.6%. The Capital gains tax went from 15 to 28%. The Dividend tax went from 15 to 39%. And on top of that a real estate transfer tax was imposed of 3.5%. These were all included in the Obamacare Bill, which Nancy Pelosi said we had to pass in order to know what was in it. Not a single Republican voted in support.
- A brilliant NFL player in the Mexico City stadium stands for the Mexican national Anthem but kneels for the American. The ungrateful wimp.
- According to news reports California "regulators" have approved a $400 million plan to rescue the Salton Sea. Are you aware of how the Salton Sea was created? It was due to an accident in 1905 when a canal that diverted water from the Colorado River to the agricultural area of the Imperial Valley broke. The Sea shouldn't be there in the first place.
- The proposed tax reform bills in Congress seem to be taking aim at deductions which are mainly used by the "middle class." State and local taxes and mortgage exclusions. Perhaps someone in Washington can explain how these eliminations help the middle class. And they are going to leave the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) alone, whereby low income folks can get a check from the government every year?
- Three UCLA basketball players, while on tour in China, decided to shoplift sunglasses from a store. They are a total embarrassment to California and the nation as a whole. Their families ought to be mortified and taking action against their sons, rather than complaining about Trump.

- NBC, on video over the air, decided to show what an AR-15 "assault rifle" does to a watermelon. The brain-dead news team used a shotgun to demonstrate. No wonder there are no meaningful gun laws when people don't know one type of gun from another. Knowing the media, they probably will win a "Pulitzer."
- Homeless evicted from public lands by Marysville are claiming $2.5 million? Their trash is worth that much? They should have sold it and bought a house or two. Hopefully this craziness is denied in a second.
- The environmental wacko's need to come to their senses. They failed on the Ice Age fear, global warming hoax, and climate change fiasco. Now they are demanding that everyone who does not believe in their "dumb as a fence post" claims be killed. Their desperation is pathetic.
- The Center for Immigration Studies reports there are some 45 million immigrants now in the country. Unfortunately for Americans, some of these immigrants have brought in hepatitis, tuberculosis and other diseases not found in America for some time. And, of course, there is the criminal element. Perhaps a better policy on immigration is in order. Back in the days when immigrants entered through Ellis Island they were checked for diseases.

Sutter Buttes Tea Party Hosts Jeremy Talcott! Attorney for Pacific Legal Foundation Dec. 4th

Jeremy Talcott Property Rights. Every citizen has them but are they safe? Property rights are the basis of our Liberty. Your life is your property. Your land is your property. Your stuff is your property. The Pacific Legal Foundation (PLF) is an organization that has argued before our Supreme Court many times and won. Of the last 11 appearances before our Supreme Court, the PLF has walked away with 9 wins. That's one darn good track record. Jeremy Talcott joined the Pacific Legal Foundation in 2016. He focuses on property rights, administrative law, and the separation of powers and federalism principles that (ought to) define American government. Jeremy obtained his undergraduate degree in Communications from the University of Central Florida, but for transparency, accountability, and long-term changes to operations and maintenance. It's not enough to fix the spillway and call it good. There are also downstream impacts that need to be addressed, like the massive silt buildup in the river.

He'll also be talking about his "Representation Equality Act" (ACA 16) and his efforts to change the makeup in Sacramento to bring more common-sense voices to the State Capitol.

Don't forget — Our regular feature In The News with Paul Preston, Agenda 21 Radio, will follow our Special Guest Speaker. Paul will be discussing events of the day.

Following the meeting, everyone is invited to our pie and ice cream every minute he spent in classes, he spent five more playing guitar or bass in several noteworthy-for-their-obscure rock and roll bands. A few tours across the country later, Jeremy realized that he was spending all of his free time reading about the principles of liberty and decided to make a career out of it. He graduated cum laude from Chapman University, Fowler School of Law in Orange, California, where he was president of the Federalist Society, Senior Articles Editor of the Chapman Law Review, and "that guy who keeps trying to talk about the Constitution" of the Chapman Moot Court team. His two favorite parts of law school were externing for Judge Andrew J. Guilford in the Central District of California and getting the top grade in Administrative Law from his favorite

Raiders' Lynch Sits for U.S. Anthem, Stands for Mexico's

By Valerie Richardson, The Washington Times

Oakland Raiders running back Marshawn Lynch sat Sunday for "The Star-Spangled Banner," as he has done all season, but then stood for the Mexican national anthem before his team faced the New England Patriots in Mexico City.

Lynch's double move, reported by the Associated Press and Boston

Globe, was reminiscent of the Sept. 24 game in London, in which about two dozen players stood for "God Save the Queen" after kneeling for the U.S. national anthem.

Not surprisingly, the decision drew a reaction on Twitter, with some applauding Lynch with comments like "legend" and "awesome," and others blasting him.

"Marshawn Lynch doesn't protest Mexico's long history of human rights abuses by corrupt politicians but sits for our National Anthem — the 'land of the free and the home of the brave.' Disgusting," said commentator Neil A. Carousso.

Yuba Sutter Arts Welcomes Max Komissarchik

December Artist of the Month

Marysville, Ca.
Each month in its home gallery in Marysville, Yuba Sutter Arts features an artist (or artists) of the month. This month, the public is in for a special treat as YSA welcomes back Max Komissarchik, who will present his show titled, “Turkeys, Cats and Splats.” Max’s show will be on display during December at The Gallery at Yuba Sutter Arts, 624 E Street in Marysville. A free opening reception and “Meet the Artist” event will be held in the gallery on Friday, December 1 from 5-7pm.
Maxim Komissarchik began to paint and make sculptures at a very young age. He made his first gouache painting at the age of seven inspired by the magic and colors of the circus. Born and raised in St. Petersburg, Russia, a place which has inspired three centuries of great artists, he was able to absorb and transform its rich art tradition.
Max immigrated to the United States over twenty years ago and has continued to explore the realm of forms, lines and colors while assimilating to the totally new experience of living in America. While his work is not overtly political, Max’s art is still full of hidden symbolism found among the intricate patterns and color spaces. His long involvement in spiritual work here and in Russia has served to help connect him to himself, thereby enriching his art. Each of his art works conveys a storm of emotions. The viewer is submerged into the sometimes surreal world of Max’s vivid imagination. For Max, joy is the driving force of inspiration. When he is fully immersed and devoted to the work he is doing, Max says he feels himself to be really alive and truly happy.

“I paint both what I see and what I feel – focusing on the sensation and context of my experience. I employ both traditional and innovative techniques, while letting the uncertain nature of painting free my hand,” said Max. “My paintings are finished when they are able to convey a moment or sensation of where I am, as well as what I am seeing,” he added.

In addition to his work in acrylics and as a muralist and abstractionist, Max is a lot of fun as a teacher. He has been the guest artist/instructor for several Yuba Sutter Arts “Art Parties,” a series of artist-led evenings whereby participants learn basic art techniques and complete a project over the course of two hours while enjoying fine wines and appetizers. Max has a devoted following in Northern California and now nationwide and has had a number of showings in our area. He continues to be a driving force in the art scene in our community.

BALD MOUNTAIN NURSERY

December is here and the 21st of December is the first day of winter. We never know what kind of weather it will bring. But whatever the weather, it is usually a busy month for nursery workers. Many different things become available at nurseries because it is the dormant season for so many trees and plants making them easier to ship without causing them damage.
December is a month that doesn’t require too much effort in the yard, though there are some things that are needed. The most important of those is the second spraying of dormant spray to keep the fungal infections at bay, and that should be done in late December. As mentioned in November, curl leaf on peach- es and nectarines is the main target, and it is useful on a host of other things which can be found on the directions for use. December usually brings cold enough weather that we need to be alert for the possibility of frosty and/or freezing cold nights. All citrus trees are quite vulnerable to the cold weather because they are evergreen and subtropical . A light frost will likely damage the leaves of the plant, whereas a hard freeze will cause much leaf damage and fruit damage as well – best to be ready for it. An old blanket can be placed over a plant as long as it isn’t apt to rain causing it to get wet and heavy. A blanket would be best used by putting them on at night and taking them off daily in order to be exposed to the sunlight. I’ve seen large cardboard boxes sheltering plants. Frost cloth is not expensive, works well, can be held in place by tucking it under a few of the pots so wind can’t displace it, and it can be saved and re-used – just fold or roll it up and put it with other gardening supplies. It also has the advantage of being permeable enough to water plants with it in place. Adequate sunlight also reaches the plants. Plastic should not be used directly on a plant. It has no insulation quality, in fact it can direct the freezing temperature directly to the leaves. Make a temporary frame work with a few stakes several inches from the foliage of a plant and put the plastic over it as a covering, tee-pee style. Or, three to four stakes can be driven a little way into the ground to create an enclosure over which to put the plastic covering. The dead air space within has insulating quality. Time was that a light bulb could be hung in the enclosure and provide warmth, but the newer, more efficient bulbs do not emit much heat. If you have any of the older bulbs, or any strings of the old Christmas decoration lights, they can be used to keep plants warm when the weather forecasts suggest that it will be especially cold. For containerized plants, be sure that they have been very well watered when especially cold weather has been forecasted . A dry plant will freeze more quickly than a wet one. The moisture in a potted plant will freeze at 32 degrees and roots won’t get colder than that because of their insulating blanket of ice. Dry cold can be much colder and damaging. Of course, any delicate foliage on the plant will need to be covered Are you interested in bare root fruit trees? Bundles of them will start coming in soon. It takes a bit of time to get them all organized once they arrive, but we are usually ready to offer them for sale by late December. Roses will also be here soon. If you are interested, we have availability lists to help you make choices. If you are wanting to get out to “get something done in the yard”, many smaller bare root items arrived in November that could satisfy your need to plant something. Cane berries, like raspberries and blackberries, asparagus, rhubarb and artichokes all arrived in November Oregon stock with live Christmas trees and dogwoods and other Oregon stock usually comes in late November, so should be here and ready for sale. You can see that there are lots of possibilities for the gardeners. Many of them are also good Christmas gift possibilities as well.

Lilacs do well in our area and don’t require lots of care, but they are especially happy in very cold climates. The flowers they produce are generally larger clusters than those grown in our more temperate climates. To compensate for the lack of very cold weather, try putting ice cubes around the base of the plants several times during the winter to keep the roots colder, as they would be in snowy climates. Poinsettias are a frequent gift at this time of the year. They seem to bloom and fit right into the season with the festive red flowers. If you are given one or buy one, and the pot has a lovely foil wrapping on it, before you water it cut out a circle of the wrap on the bottom of the container, then place the plant on a saucer with a layer of pebbles to hold it out of any standing water – then water when needed. The wrap won’t become a reservoir to waterlog the plant and you will enjoy its beauty longer. We wish everyone a Joyful Christmas.
