Umbrella Sky Comes to Marysville

Yuba Sutter Arts Mounts Major Art Installation

Marysville, Ca.
So what are those 100 umbrellas doing floating over the central courtyard at Yuba Sutter Arts? In a practical sense, they provide shade from the intense summer sun, but there's a lot more to the presence of the umbrellas than a simple utilitarian function. Most importantly, when you see them they will make you smile!

The original Umbrella Sky Project began in 2011 as a part of an annual art festival in Águeda, Portugal. Each year, during the hot summer months, a handful of the city's narrow streets gain colorful umbrella canopies that provide shade for the pedestrians passing through. The numerous parasols help cool the roadways in a creative and cost-effective way, and the sea of umbrellas forms a unique pattern overhead as well as changing shadows on the roadway below.

“We first heard about the Umbrella Sky concept in an article in a recent issue of Sactown magazine titled, ‘Why Not Here’,” said David Read, Yuba Sutter Arts Executive Director. “We said, ‘why not?’ and started planning our installation which came together in about three weeks,” he added.

There is an aesthetic to the colors and the shapes of the umbrellas and the geometric shadows they cast on the ground. Even the slightest breeze causes the umbrellas to shift and realign themselves turning them into “dancing umbrellas.” Five different color umbrellas were used, each about 40” in diameter. They are suspended on a wire grid system about ten feet off the ground.

In Águeda, these pop-up shade structures have become an annual summertime installation and they have developed a cult following around the world. Creators of the Umbrella Sky Project have also launched offshoots of this work in other cities including a few in the United States, where they have added to the streetscape by stringing multicolored balloons over urban alleyways. The polka-dot shadows that shine down onto the street below add more color to people's lives in everyday settings.

Umbrella Sky will be on display through at least September. There is no admission to view the installation or any of the Yuba Sutter Arts exhibits. Hours are Wednesday through Saturday from 11-4 or at other times by appointment. Yuba Sutter Arts is located at 624 E Street in Marysville. Plenty of free parking is available on the streets adjacent to the theatre and at the Umpqua Bank and Bank of America parking lots directly across the street. Come support art in the community and enjoy this unique project.

Yuba County Borrowing to Pay Debt

by Lou Binninger

A family in financial crisis with multiple credit cards maxed out at 18%-24% often “saves money” by consolidating all cards on a lower rate credit plan. Did they reduce their debt load? Of course, but did they change their ways? Don't jump to any conclusions.

This scenario is analogous to the Yuba County Water Agency (YCWA) recently approving a 6.6 million dollar loan to save Yuba County money on their annual debt payment to CalPERS (California Public Employee Retirement System).

“Yuba County is fortunate to have a collaborative relationship with the Yuba County Water Agency that allows us to achieve unique solutions,” said County Administrator Robert Bendorf. “This short term loan helps us achieve substantial savings and protect funding for ongoing vital services.”

“It is great to see government agencies working together,” said YCWA Board Chairman Brent Hastey. “This loan will benefit the County, YCWA, and the people of Yuba County.”

It's not what these two Bendorf / Hastey quotes say it's what they don't say. These ‘compatible’ agencies with this collaborative relationship are led by two boards of essentially the same people. YCWA has two additional members elected by the public. So, basically the five Yuba County Supervisors petition themselves as YCWA directors for a loan which they then approve as YCWA directors. It's nice to get along with yourself but bad juju for future bad ideas.

The YCWA used to say their money was utilized for flood control, water resources and hydroelectric power. However, since YCWA now has the deep financial pocket in the county, will they now become a slush fund to bail other Yuba County agencies and cities out? Marysville would like some help and what about Wheatland? Maybe the supervisors / directors don't have such warm feelings toward these folks.

Robert Bendorf did not create CalPERS but as county administrator has conformed to the employee union - CalPERS gig, even taking part in giving huge retroactive raises to long-term employees back to their date of hire when Yuba County had some extra cash.

Bendorf's comment that the savings will protect funding for vital services is telling. All agencies and districts have been told how much extra money into the future they have to contribute to CalPERS. So, taxpayer funds are not going to traditional infrastructure maintenance and will begin cutting into law enforcement, the primary reason for taxation.

What is hypocritical is to be told that Yuba Co leaders are saving the taxpayers money when they created the problem to begin with. This is like the meth addict stealing his partner's stash, and then helping him look for it all night.

Cities and counties have been told by CalPERS to prepare to double contributions over the next 5 years. In May, Joe Lopez, Modesto's acting city manager, said the city eventually could not afford its CalPERS bill, which will nearly double over the next eight years.

Last month, Chico Councilman and financial planner Randall Stone said CalPERS would eventually collapse as the benefits it paid out exceeded the money it collected. The grim assessment comes from a report showing the city's CalPERS bill increasing about $370,000 in 2018-19, $803,000 in 2019-20 and nearly $2 million in 2020-21.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for 73 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

The hot weather has driven the trout population down deep in most reservoirs and lakes. Trolling for them in the summer months usually means downriggers or lead line. The downrigger will place your offering exactly where you spot fish on your finder, while the lead line has colors for each number of feet.

Many anglers fish water that does not hold fish and they also depend on that blip which shows them a fish. There are certain areas of reservoirs which hold fish and other areas which are bare. That expensive fish finder will tell you where the most likely spots hold fish which is usually where there is drop offs, underwater canyons and an uneven bottom. Trout and bass will go deep this time of year but will also cruise the shallows at night for food. If you hit the water before first light we suggest two lines in the water, one down deep and the other near the surface.

I have had fishing friends, who spend a bunch of time on the water, who put their boat on the trailer as soon as the sun hits the water. They consider trolling during the morning hours when the lake or reservoir has the sun on its surface to be a waste of time.

If you plan on fishing the bottom of a lake or reservoir we recommend using power bait or an inflated night crawler along with whatever else you have on your hook. Both the power bait and the inflated worm will keep your baits off the bottom which will have your offering floating above the grasses which grow in just about all lakes and reservoirs.

Trolling with flashers and a night crawler cannot be beat for fishing in lakes and reservoirs, but one must not forget lures and spoons or try removing the flashers or ford fenders for a different drag and presentation. If trolling in a straight line does not produce any strikes we recommend zig zagging or trolling in a figure eight pattern. Also a sudden stop of your boat and then to continue may produce a strike due to the flashers falling which will attract a fishes attention.

Another way to catch lake trout this time of year is to jig with jigs or a night crawler. This is done on the bottom of the reservoir and is especially productive for brown trout.

Closing thought: "Do what is right, not what is easy."

Appeal of Marysville Planning CUP Denied

by John Mistler

Marysville, Ca.
On April 26, 2017 the Marysville Planning Commission passed a Conditional Use Permit (CUP) for a Marijuana Dispensary at the old Cargil building across the street from Ellis Lake Park. The CUP decision was appealed by Buck Weckman of Families Against Cannabis Trafficking (FACT), based on Marysville Municipal code that requires a 500 ft. setback of dispensaries from Parks and Recreation Areas (Ellis Lake). In what is believed to be an attempt to subvert the appeal, a special meeting of the planning commission was scheduled for June 14th.

The Marysville Planning Commission meeting on June 14, 2017 was scheduled to change the zoning requirements for the proposed Marijuana Dispensaries since they violated the city's existing zoning ordinance. The change, if passed, would eliminate any compliance with state or federal law. The June 14th agenda stated: Consider modification or elimination of statements in the Marysville Municipal Code Title 18, Zoning, regarding upholding the laws of the State of California and the United States, specifically Sections 18.08.070, 18.67.060, and 18.67.120 and possibly other code sections, and consider recommendation to the City Council.

The vote by the Planning Commission was 4 to 1 against eliminating or changing the ordinance, thereby upholding State Law, Federal Law and Marysville Municipal Code. Two commissioners were absent and the lone vote to eliminate was Michael Paine.

On July 18th the Marysville City Council met to hear Mr. Weckmans appeal. There were approx. 70 people in attendance, six people spoke in favor of the appeal and there was no opposition. Mr. Weckman made a presentation to the City Council showing that the setbacks from Ellis Lake Park and the Cargil Building did not meet Marysville's own ordinance. When Councilman Pedigo asked the city planner if he had checked the distance for the setback he replied, "No that was done by my predecessor, but I stand by them".

The issue of a setback from the dispensary deals with the presence of children. It was suggested by Mayor Samyoya they require the dispensary to be closed when the Kiwanis had their Children's Fishing Derby. This suggestion shows that the council knew what they were doing was wrong. Councilwoman McKenzie made the point that there are always children around the park. The Mayor responded, "There are always children walking around everywhere."

The appeal was denied on a 3-2 vote with councilmen Simmons, Pedigo and Mayor Samyoya voting to deny.

Following the Appeal Hearing Buck Weckman made the following statement:

"A majority of the Marysville City Council are morally corrupt and inept. By approving and granting a Conditional Use Permit for a Marijuana Dispensary at this location they continue Marysville City's downward spiral into becoming another Oakland. By voting to approve the CUP, Marysville Mayor Samyoya, and Councilmen Simmons and Pedigo violated their own City Municipal Code Section 18.67.120. At best their action is an Infraction of the Law. The Police Chief Aaron Easton is charged with the duty of enforcing City Laws, where is he on this issue? Does City Ordinances only apply to Business signs and the little people?"

Yuba Sutter Youth Choir

In Concert at the Lee Burrows Theater

Marysville, Ca.
 This summer, Yuba Sutter Arts took the first steps in the re-introduction of the Yuba Sutter Arts Choir to the community. Since early June, 30 young people from the ages of 7 to 14 have been raising their voices weekly as part of their training and preparation for a performance on Thursday July 27th under the direction of Obie Leff.

The Yuba Sutter Youth Choir is part of Yuba Sutter Arts' Arts in Education program funded, in part, by a generous grant from the California Arts Council. Some members of the Choir performed at the annual July 4th concert in Yuba City with the Yuba Sutter Symphony Orchestra,

"Our students have been exposed to a great variety of music this summer," said Obie. "The concert themes for the upcoming performance will be 'Growing Together' and 'Beyond Broadway' and we'll also be presenting a medley featuring the work of pop artist, Shawn Mendes, and a few of my original songs," he added.

"We were honored when Mr. Leff approached us with the idea of bringing back a youth choir," said David Read, Yuba Sutter Arts Executive Director. "It has been on our bucket list for several years and all we needed was that secret ingredient, a very special and gifted Choir Director. Obie is a blessing to the community."

Obie Leff, has taught music in the Yuba-Sutter community for more than 20 years. Currently, he directs the music program at Twin Rivers Charter School in Yuba City, which includes classroom music for all students in grades TK-4 and Choir programs for students in grades 4-8. Alex Cesena, who recently completed a three year, international engagement with The Young Americans performance group, has been assisting Obie and will make a guest appearance during the concert.

The concert will be held at the Lee Burrows Theater at Yuba Sutter Arts, 624 E Street in Marysville on July 27th at 6:30pm. Tickets are $5 for adults, $1 for 12 and under and children under 2 are free. To purchase tickets online, go to yubasutterarts.org or call 742-ARTS.

If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. The selection is announced in the August issue of Wine Spectator as part of its 36th annual international awards program. The restaurant is recognized among other winners from all over the globe as a top destination for wine lovers.

"Restaurants continue to raise their game when it comes to wine, and we are particularly proud to present this year's winners," said Wine Spectator editor and publisher Marvin R. Shanken. Friar Tuck's was recognized for its well-chosen selections of quality wine producers and thematic match of wines and menu in both price and style. Award of Excellence winners typically offer at least 90 wine selections.

Medical Discounts

On a recent visit to the local hospital near my home to get a rather involved medical test, I compared the cost of paying cash to paying by insurance. I told them due to my type of insurance I would pay cash and get a receipt to submit to the company. This is regarded by the hospital as what it is: a cash payment collected at time of visit. The cost was $1,780.00. If I had paid by insurance, the cost that would have been billed to the insurance company would have been $2,620.00.

This works out to a difference of $840.00 or an almost one third higher price. One then asks the question: what is it about getting paid by an insurance company versus cash that requires the hospital to charge a third more.

Having to wait for payment might be one reason but even a extremely high usury rate assumptions, the opportunity cost (the use of the money I paid up front versus waiting for the insurance company to pay) certainly amounts to but a few dollars. Assuming an unheard rate of return based on current interest rates of 10%, which the hospital likely gets nowhere close to that return, and assuming a liberal 90 day pay period for an insurance company, the loss incurred by waiting for insurance company to costs the hospital less than $100.00.

What other costs does the hospital incur when dealing with an insurance company which could amount to $740.00?

The question does boggle the mind, at least mine. Since shipping and handling (actually processing and handling- pun intended) is the only major cost I can imagine that is incurred in dealing with an insurance company, just how involved and costly is that entire process. Apparently very.

The required paperwork is detailed. The submittal process exacting and the kickback rate significant. Since the old adage is an insurance companies secret mission is to "keep the money as long as they can", you can imagine there are many landmines in the paper trail awaiting an inexperienced clerical worker in crossing all the "T's and dotting all the "I's".

Even experienced clerical managers can make mistakes on the pile of forms required during a claim submittal. Resubmissions can be required and every box left unchecked or checked incorrectly means a longer wait until the reimbursement check arrives.

Of course, should legal issues arise that requires the services of a lawyer to recoup a denied claim or loss, the hospital will pay that out of its pocket as well. That cost is therefore assumed by the hospital as a reoccurrence at a presumed rate and is then built into the insurance rate as well.

Sit over a cup of coffee for a spell and the possibilities of what problems could arise when transmitting and transacting complicated medical procedures can occupy ones mind for hours. I know, it did it, and I basically gave up after compiling quite a list of things that could go wrong when dealing with a profit driven insurance conglomerate and trying to get them to cut the hospital a check. Never mind the government requirements heaped on the poor processing souls when dealing with a Obamacare, Medicare, Medi-Cal or other government entity.

After an hour or two of listing all the pitfalls and requirements that does and could befall a processing hospital or Doctor, I'm actually surprised that a 30% surcharge covers it. And that's one reason your medical costs are skyrocketing.

Spider-Man: Homecoming

Starring: Tom Holland, Michael Keaton, and Robert Downey, Jr.
Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 133 minutes.

Yet another reboot of the Spider-Man franchise with the third actor taking on the role of Marvel's most popular character. Unlike the first two adaptations, we are spared the origin story of how Peter Parker acquired his powers and jump right to him learning how and when to use them.

The villain's story arc is very well crafted as well as the interaction betwixt Ironman and Spider-Man. The value of good communication and how young Peter Parker really is in this film stand out and are excellent plot points. I enjoyed the story and the acting was great with some really good performances. The special effects are about as good as you can get.

Spider-Man: Homecoming, earns a solid four out of five, High Altitude Seal Monkeys. A great movie worth seeing any day of the week and true Spider-Man fans will not be disappointed. True Marvel fans will enjoy it, even to the end.

OPINION

The Donald

President Trump has indelibly changed the political landscape. He built a new road to the White House, arrived January 20th on time and under budget. Despite racing against the well funded, experienced candidates, driving over the liberal media pot holes, no toll money from special interests and a half a tank from the Republicans.

Most of us, season after season, have seen the same presidential campaigns. A career Democrat vs. a career Republican, same platforms, same issues, same debates, same eight year rotation of power with the exception of President George H. Bush following President Reagan. Like Reagan he shares the ability to connect with the people. Their styles are very different but the effect is the same, people can relate to them. Both their elections were 10 on the Richter scale of elections.

Trump's candidacy was precisely what the Democrats and Republicans feared the most. A rogue candidate that did not speak their language or dance their dance. He ran on DTS, Drain the Swamp. That means the DC zip code, one of the strongest economies in the land, is about to have a correction. The entrenched elite, the Shadow government, is not going to go without a fight. Evidenced by the leaks and the constant Russian drum beat provided by the "fake" news. President Trump brilliantly defined the news media before they could define him. He has the bully pulpit, the skill to use it, better than anyone since Reagan, and he has Twitter. Despite the criticisms, his followers continue to grow.

The voters resoundingly voted out a third term of Obama with Hillary's crushing defeat and voted for change, destroying Obama's hope for a transformative presidency. It's too early to tell if President Trump will be a transformative president but he has transformed the race to the Oval Office. He proved that money does not buy the office, he upped the ante with social media, he dared to step out of the bounds of political correctness to raise issues, he used the media to get his message out, and, not since the Reagan era, he motivated the Silent Majority and persuaded the Reagan Democrats, now the Trump Democrats, to get out and vote. And like a great communicator, he honed his winning message into four simple, understandable words, MAGA, Make America Great Again.

Sacramento, Ca.
On July 20th, the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association (HJTA) filed a lawsuit to stop the Legislature's unconstitutional efforts to undermine the voter-led recall of State Senator Josh Newman. "The Legislature has pulled out all the stops to silence the voice of taxpayers and undermine the people's right to a fair and democratic process," stated HJTA President Jon Coupal. "You can't justify changing the rules midway through, which is why we believe we'll prevail in asking the court to step in and right this wrong." For months, the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association has been working with concerned taxpayers who seek to recall Senator Josh Newman over his vote to impose over $5 billion in new annual taxes on cars and gasoline. On July 7, the Secretary of State reported that 87,884 signatures had been collected—far and above the 63,593 signatures needed to qualify the recall for a vote.

Lawsuit Filed Over Attempt to Stop Recall

In an underhanded attempt to protect Newman, the Legislature scrambled to pass Senate Bill 96, a gut-and-amend bill that would deny voters in Senate District 29 their due process by unnecessarily extending the state's recall approval process.

Joining with four of the recall petitioners, HJTA filed the lawsuit to issue a stay on the implementation of SB 96 and compel the Secretary of State to certify the recall petitions.

HJTA is a non-profit organization dedicated to protecting the interests of taxpayers in the Legislature and at the ballot box. Earlier this year, HJTA formed Californians Against Car and Gas Tax Hikes, a Committee to Recall Josh Newman, Sponsored and Funded by No New Taxes, a Project of the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association, in order to aid SD 29 residents in their effort to recall Newman.

AT&T is Stealing Our Landlines

The public paid for America's sturdy, reliable and essential copperline landline infrastructure through rates and tax-subsidized incentive programs. But AT&T wants to eliminate copperline service. Most Californians don't know this. "Dependable" is not in vogue, and AT&T no longer wants to service this system. It claims it must make way for new technology, and that this service is no longer essential or economical for them to continue, despite AT&T's huge profit last year.

Tell that to Californians who live in rural areas, are older, have medical devices, are disabled, or are low income. They rely on this service. "Traditional landline phone service remains the backbone and only reliable two-way communication mode," says the Rural County Representatives of California.

Many states have allowed AT&T and other companies to disconnect, despite opposition by the public and organizations like AARP. Illinois just approved landline elimination. Michigan did so in 2014. Last year, California Assemblymember Low sponsored AB 2395 to disconnect copperline landlines by 2020, but vocal opposition, including from rural counties, stopped it.

The California Alliance of Retired Persons says: "AB2395 would leave California consumers without essential public safety protections. Voice-over-Internet-Protocol (VoIP) services do not provide line power during an electrical outage. ... The FCC's rules have serious gaps: batteries must only provide a minimum of eight hours (24 hours after 2019); it is up to customers, not the provider, to purchase the battery at their own expense; and notification need only be at the point of sale."

AT&T is trying several work-arounds. The first is FCC WC Docket No. 17-84. The FCC will likely preempt "wayward" states that want to retain copperline for their residents and adopt measures to speed up destruction of the copperline system. AT&T's second move was to send notices to AT&T customers this month, notifying them that they agree to any and all changes to their telephone service and the installation of any and all equipment on their premises that AT&T wants to do, including installing equipment that uses electrical power. "If you do not allow AT&T to install the new network equipment at your premises, your telephone service may be disconnected ..." Any customer who doesn't accept the terms must call AT&T to cancel their service." This becomes effective July 1.

Yet, the CPUC and TURN told me last week that AT&T has not been approved to abandon copperline.

AT&T plans to use broadband over powerline — a dangerous system that puts the microwave signal directly on powerlines, where it travels along all wiring and onto household wiring. It broadcasts microwave radiation everywhere and cannot be blocked. It was vehemently opposed by physicians in Austria and Switzerland when it was mandated there for Smart Meter communication, saying it would cause widespread health problems.

AT&T is also pushing Senate Bill 649, which effectively turns most utility poles in a community into cell towers. Cities and counties have to approve them, even in residential neighborhoods. SB 649 has been approved by the Senate and now faces the Assembly.

The Mendocino County Board of Supervisors said last year, "Don't take away the most reliable way to reach 911 in an emergency. 911 dispatch centers automatically know our location when we call from home. Our home phone lines will keep working for weeks if there is a power outage. Wireless signals can be unreliable when we need our phones the most. Don't let vulnerable people be left without reliable phone service."

In power outages and in disasters, copperline landlines are a lifeline.

The Declaration of Independence
A Great Achievement in History

Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were just three of the Founding Fathers of our nation. They were smart, courageous and willing to place their lives on the altar of liberty. Liberty from the tyranny of laws without representation and dictated by a motherland ruled by a capricious king. These three men were hunted and a price was placed on their heads. Many of their own countrymen were loyalists and conspired to defeat the experiment of democracy they were trying to establish.

The Declaration of Independence and our form of democratic government is one of the greatest achievements in history. This document and its attendant Bill of Rights have resulted in a living form of government that has become fair to all, and a source of stability for almost every one of our citizens. I know that our system of government is not perfect. However, I salute and honor these three men for helping to create this noble effort to promote and educate all of us about the strengths of our First Amendment.

Fake News Results

I know this will never reach anyone who will use it on the air but I will feel better. Does anyone see that the Democrats and their fake news friends have taken a page right out of the Nazi play book on propaganda. Hitler and Globes used this same plan to confuse the German people in early 1936. Nobody will call the news what it is.

They're lying all the time. I would love for someone to bring this up.

State of Jefferson and Equal Representation

So what is going on with the State of Jefferson? Let me give you a little history lesson first. In 1964, the Supreme Court case known as Reynolds v Sims ruled that equal representation of counties in the state legislatures was unconstitutional. This ruling unlawfully amended the Constitution of each and every state. Rather than allowing each county to have equal representation in the state legislature, the Supreme Court ruled that political subdivisions known as Senatorial Districts must be created.

So since 1964 we have been caught up in an unconstitutional law that was designed to take the power away from the counties and give it to others. Little old Northern California that had land in agriculture, timber and beautiful mountains had lots less population, so less power. Anyone with good common sense can see how that went for us.

In California there are 58 counties, which were carved into 40 Senatorial Districts. Instead of have 58 counties with equal representation they created 40 Senatorial Districts with equal representation. So today, Los Angeles has 11 representatives in the state Senate, whereas all 11 counties in northern California have only one. So look at that, they have a lot more voice than all of us, for that matter all the rest of California.

The Framer of the Constitution wanted to guarantee that the people would have equal representation in the House of Representative and the states would have equal representatives in the Senate. Thus the GREAT COMPROMISE (Connecticut Compromise of 1787) was reached which determined that the House members would be based on population of the state and the Senate would be equal (2) per state. So there you see what happened in 1964 is wrong.

Very easy to see why 21 counties sued the State of California for non-representation. We are sick of our vote never counting, and living in a state that is out of control. We are now in a process. There is a path in the Constitution to add another star to the flag and we are going for number 51. If you need more information go to SoJ51.org. THE TIME HAS COME FOR 51.

Sanctuary Cities Back Fire: MORE ICE Agents Going to Those Cities

by Stephen Frank, California Political News and Views

Thanks to the declaration of being a Sanctuary City, San Fran L.A. and other criminal cities have done what is not possible. ICE has announced it is sending hundreds of agents to these cities—that means illegal aliens are now in greater danger of being deported, thanks to the policies of the Democrats. Yup, now the illegal aliens in these cities have a reason to fear deportation—De Leon, Mayors Lee and Garcetti have put a target on their backs. “According to the paper, Homan said he plans on sending hundreds of agents to those cities. “We’re going to enforce the laws on the books without apology, we’ll continue to prioritize what we do,” Homan continued. “But it’s not OK to violate the laws of this country anymore, you’re going to be held accountable.” During his interview with the Examiner, Homan also praised the Trump administration, saying it has “taken the handcuffs off law enforcement,” allowing them to address immigration more thoroughly.

“You can like President Trump, not like him, like his policies, not like his policies, but one thing no one can argue with is the effect they’ve had,” said Homan. The better news is that ICE is about to hire 10,000 more agents—again to concentrate on Sanctuary Cities. The Democrats have made this a cause—and government, under Trump agrees. The law must be enforced, even if local officials are corrupt and protect criminals from foreign nations.

Run for Representation SOJ Increasing Awareness to Rural California’s Lack of Representation

On July 29th, Herve' Leconte, a 57-year old resident of El Dorado County, will begin his 12 day, 500 mile run, from Sonora in Tuolumne County, ending his final leg of the run in Siskiyou County. Herve' will travel through 15 rural counties of Northern California aka State of Jefferson that encompasses a total of 21 counties. Herve' is a native of France, becoming a proud American in 2000. He and his wife Julie, became immediate supporters of Jefferson in 2015, after attending a State of Jefferson El Dorado County Town Hall. Herve' appreciates the freedom and liberty that is America and that emphasized and supported by the State of Jefferson. Additionally, Herve' is more appreciative and knowledgeable about the Constitution than many Americans. Herve' was raised in a Parisian suburb called Malakoff, which to this day is still run by the Communists. He has seen firsthand the many faces of Socialism and Communism. Growing up, he remembers his French mother tearing up, when she told the story of being liberated on D-Day by Americans/allies. His French father also recounted many stories from experiencing the German Occupation of France, leaving Herve' with a deep understanding of Tolaterian regimes and a reverence for Freedom. Today, Herve' has put his hobby of running to good work by using it to raise funds and awareness for various causes that are dear to his heart. Herve' has done numerous runs for law enforcement, first responders and military families. In fact, Herve' is the Chairman of the Board for a local non-profit called Military Family Support Group and he and his wife work tirelessly to help veterans and military families in their community. In May of 2017, Citizens for Fair Representation dba State of Jefferson, filed a lawsuit against the State of California for lack of representation and dilution of vote. For over three years the California State Legislature has ignored these rural county citizens' requests to return to the fair/equal representation that existed, prior to 1964, when just about every county had one State Senator representing the concerns and needs of their constituents. Currently, California's population is just under 40 million, represented by 40 State Senators and 80 Assembly members. The same number of representatives that in 1862 represented 416,640 people. Claimants state: “California's refusal to increase its level of representation to reflect its exponential population growth is both arbitrary and unconstitutional.” Herve' stated: “This is why the “Run for Representation” is so important and I am determined to bring more awareness to both the Citizens for Fair Representation and the State of Jefferson movement and do all I can to make it a reality”! - Congratulations to the City Council of Marysville for contributing to the City's decline by encouraging the use of drugs.

- Welcome back to Stephen Frank who writes “Obamacare is dead”. In 14 of the 17 counties in Nevada, there is no health care insurance—all the firms have withdrawn. In over 1,000 counties in America, out of 3,000, there is either one choice or no choice. There are also legal challenges to the unconstitutional subsidies to the insurance companies. We are beginning to see the insurance companies announcing more double digit increases for next year. Last year 6.5 million paid the IRS a penalty rather than pay for health insurance. This is a system that is in a death spiral.
- OJ has been paroled after 9 years of a 33 year sentence. No wonder we have so many repeat criminals. Do they all get a chance to leave prison so early in their term?
- The Associated Press provided a major article on the huge number of used needles being found in public places throughout the US. And the mainstream media duly printed it without a single comment on the editorial pages. What gives these druggies the right to spread their filth and dangerous diseases in our communities and waterways? What right do they have to cover the community with their filthy belongings and waste products? What gives them the right to steal grocery carts and parade through our neighborhoods with junk falling off into streets and yards? And when will the bleeding heart liberals among our elected officials and social service departments actually do something to solve the dangerous problem these activities create? Why is a virtual blind eye being turned from the dangerous situation, and expressions of tolerance spouted freely? It appears that the Progressive's campaign against being judgmental has hit a new low. These folks really think we must tolerate this? Maybe the tide will turn when the perpetrators of needles and other dangerous substances start appearing on politician's sidewalks, lawns and neighborhoods.
- Going back to Teddy Roosevelt's Administration most presidents had 30 to 56% of cabinet members and senior advisors who previously worked in the private business sector. Except Obama. His cabinet and senior advisors had only 8% previously having been in business. How can China ship canned peaches to the United States and make a profit while still selling below the price of local canned peaches? Our children are eating the Chinese fruit as they sit in schools surrounded by peach orchards. Something is wrong with this picture.

- Recently, the UK debated whether to remove The Holocaust from its school curriculum because it 'offends' the Muslims who claim it never occurred. This is a frightening portent of the future. How long will it be before the attack on the World Trade Center never happened because it offends some Muslim in the United States?
- Reebok , an athletic shoe manufacturer put out an ad chastising Trump for his comments to the French first lady. Trump told her, “You’re in such good shape. She’s in such good physical shape. Beautiful.” Perhaps he was just pointing out the benefits of regular exercise. Reebok should be pleased the President is promoting exercise. They will sell more shoes.
- A family in Florida was fishing together recently. They caught a tilapia, which was going to become their dinner. Immediately they were attacked by a bunch of protestors wearing “Animal Liberation Now” shirts who grabbed the fish (which may have been dead by then) and threw it back into the lake. This same group invaded a Chick-fil-A restaurant a week earlier. There they shouted “animal killers,” wore animal masks covered in fake blood, and pranced around the store stabbing each other with fake knives. Don’t these warped-brained snowflakes know that most species kill others to survive? Have they ever watched a national geographic animal special?
- Vegans blame methane in the atmosphere being brought about by cow flatulence. They demand that dairy cows and beef herds in the US use sacks attached to the bovine's rear to solve the problem and reduce global warming. Why don't they trot over to Africa and run after the millions of Wildebeest and Zebras and try to attach poop-bags to them?

- Think of the USA as a melting pot. Think of the nation's motto “E Pluribus Unum.” Think then of the “Legislative Asian Pacific Islander, Black Jewish, Latino, LGBT and Women's caucuses” who sent out letters to more than 400 lobbying firms, associations and major groups that employ lobbyists asking for data on their employees, including their sexuality. This insanity is nothing more than another effort to divide and segregate us and will follow with a demand that private business hire to meet a quota of LGBT. This is exactly how Affirmative Action hiring started, when in 1974 government agencies were required to identify the ethnicity of all employees to serve as a “base line” against which to monitor future hiring in order to reach parity with the percentage of each group in the population.
- One of the LGBT slogans is “Love is love is love.” Until someone disagrees with them, of course.
- A new term is raising its ugly head in the leftie precincts. It is Universal Guaranteed Income. In other words, everyone gets an income, no matter if they work for it or not. What is not clearly understood by good people is that we already have something like that, only it's called welfare. And a family of 4 can get around $64K in benefits already. How long do these dimwits think the money will hold out to subsidize the non-workers and how many folks do you think will continue earning their daily bread if the government comes around and takes it to give to someone else?
- Shall we comment on “experts” again? In 1970, Senator Gaylord Nelson (Democrat, Wisconsin) wrote in Look Magazine that the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution believes that in 25 years, somewhere between 75 and 80 percent of all the species on Earth will be extinct. Well? Are they?

YCWA Board Approves Over $6.6 Million Loan to Yuba County

The Yuba County Water Agency Board of Directors on July 18 approved a loan to the County of Yuba for its required payment to the California Public Employees' Retirement System, in the amount of approximately $6.7 million. Yuba County has two options to pay the unfunded liability portion of PERS over the next year; either all at once or by making monthly payments. Paying the lump-sum up front will save the County close to $180,000 in interest payments that would otherwise accrue over the fiscal year. YCWA and Yuba County have a special, long-term financial partnership that started with the County providing money that was needed to establish YCWA. Additionally, in 2008, YCWA and Yuba County partnered in $78 million worth of bond sales to pay for the local share of levee improvements. These bonds were refinanced in 2016, and that process shows the County's financial stability and good credit rating. “Yuba County is fortunate to have a collaborative relationship with the Yuba County Water Agency that allows us to achieve unique solutions,” said County Administrator Robert Bendorf. “This short term loan helps us achieve substantial savings and protect funding for ongoing vital services.” YCWA currently has more than $40 million in reserves invested with the Yuba County Treasury. One of the major purposes of these reserves is to have the necessary funds on hand to construct project improvements when the new Federal Energy Regulatory Commission license is issued. The Treasurer-Tax Collector actively helps manage YCWA's funds and investments in accordance with the law. Since YCWA's new FERC license is not likely to be issued within the next year, and the County has budgeted and agreed to repay the loan within one year, the Agency is able to provide these resources without any reduction in earnings or conflict with future expenditures. The Yuba County Board of Supervisors will have the opportunity to accept the loan agreement at its July 25 meeting. “It is great to see government agencies working together,” said YCWA Board Chairman Brent Hastey. “This loan will benefit the County, YCWA, and the people of Yuba County

George Runner Responds to Fire Fee Suspension

SACRAMENTO - George Runner today issued the following statement in response to the Legislature's approval of AB 398, which suspends the so-called “Fire Prevention Fee” until 2031. “For six years, ruling Democrats have extorted money in the form of a fire tax from hundreds of thousands of rural Californians, including many seniors on fixed incomes. “After blocking repeal efforts for years, state leaders finally acted today to suspend this unjust tax, but only because they needed to win votes for a costly climate change measure. “In other words, they did the right thing for the wrong reasons. “This seeming victory for California taxpayers is bittersweet. A suspension falls short of a full repeal, and it fails to provide refunds to homeowners who were forced to pay this illegal tax. “It's never too late to do the right thing: Give us our money back!”

Gold Trader Flat Sheriff's Election

at Forbestown Daze

Forbestown, Ca. comes alive with its annual Forbestown Daze. On Saturday, August 5 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. the historic gold rush town of Forbestown comes alive with its annual Forbestown Daze. The center of attraction is the Forbestown Museum and the replica old west town of Gold Trader Flat.

Gold Trader Flat is full of Law Dawgs & Pistoleiros so there are sure to be desperados wandering about Gold Trader Flat just itchin' for a shoot-out. With this undesirable element walking the streets it has become necessary to elect a sheriff every year.

As always there is a hotly contested election for the new sheriff. Vote early and vote often for your favorite is the theme of the election. Like all politics it's the money that makes the difference on the outcome of the election. This is not one man/woman one vote. This is $1 one vote. All proceeds from the Yuba Feather Museum activities go to support its operations.

Trash to Treasure

by Rod Hisken

One of the satisfactions of being in the Vintage Tractor Hobby is to restore something that most do not want to something that creates some buzz. Bringing two units together that complement each other is a very special feeling. Such is Rosie and the water trailer.

Rosie was restored several years ago with a rebuilt engine, new tires and an auto body paint job. She has appeared in several parades and Tractor Shows. The Farmall A has been driven by some of my family members in the Hisken Family Tractor Day. She has been on display at county fairs.

Quite a few years ago as we started our equestrian facility we had to develop a way of dealing with dust. A used water truck seemed to hold promise. It did not take long to discover if you spent under $50,000 you were buying a truck that would need constant attention. Just to get mechanic to come to Oregon House to look at the problem would be expensive. I did not think a water trailer would do the job. My next door neighbor in Truckee had a tank he did not want and a I had a trailer to haul my backhoe. We put out heads together and came up with a design. It worked, but not well. After three or four years of evolution I had a unit that worked well, was low cost, and did double duty as a fire control aide.

Our long time effort working with young people and horses has been wonderful. One of our little girls has now grown up, has children, and is a rated Dressage Instructor. She asked me to build her a water trailer and I did. I colored coordinated to an 8N Ford tractor I had previously sold her.

She put it on Facebook and I quickly got a call for another request from the soon to be the new owner of Rosie.

I often review Craigslist and I noticed an old fruit pallet trailer in Yuba City on George Washington that was free for hauling away. I asked Matt Brugman to load it on my trailer with his forklift as he lived just around the corner on Franklin. The trailer and tank were heavily rusted, had old truck tires and wheels from the 40's that are difficult to get, and the wheels and hubs on the rear of the unit were gone and not available.

Walt Keller, a good friend, of Brownsville is an excellent welder and fabricator. He cut the trailer in two, removed the old axels and installed mobile home axels, and welded the trailer back together.

I bought a good quality pump from Clark and Sons and North State Tire helped with new tires. I plumbed the trailer three spray outlets and made up a fire hose and nozzle available.

We wire wheeled and did some blasting in paint prep and painted the trailer and applied a logo with the barn colored theme.

The Farmall A was manufactured from 1939 to 1947. This model was followed by the Super A which was an improved version. The A is powered by an International Harvester engine of 1.9 L. It was claimed to produce 13hp but was tested at 16.32 at the Drawbar and 16.24 hp at the Belt. The weight range depending on options was 2,400 to 3,450 pounds. They were manufactured in Chicago and Louisville and sold for approximately $750. The transmission is a four speed.

The A was produced to compete with the very successful Allis Model B. It was a tractor that was used on small farms and performed a number of tasks living up to the term "Farmall". The Farmall design was created by the engineers at IH in the early 1920's which made a tremendous impact on future manufacturing. The multiple tasks that could be performed put many manufacturers out of business such as the Fordson Model F. The concept lives on today and is seen in many tractors. So, now Rosie will be working at a beautiful equestrian facility getting many looks and turning heads as she is parked in at the loading spot next to a major road doing dust control and standing by for a fire. The new owner is not dragging hoses by the hour and is grinning with a much more pleasurable task and the neighbors are jealous.

Gee, trash to treasures sure is fun!

Yuba County Borrowing to Pay Debt

what a time bomb this is," Stone told the Chico Enterprise-Record. "You should be screaming with your hair on fire from the rooftops."

In May, the Bay Area News Group reported that three small East Bay towns – Pittsburg, Walnut Creek and Martinez - cut several agencies' budgets for 2017-18 to pay CalPERS bills. These cuts are before the large predicted CalPERS hikes.

In March, the Ventura County Star told how local cities there were staggered by the CalPERS hikes. Port Hueneme's (pop 21,732 in 2010) pension bill went from $774,000 in 2014-15 to $1.3 million in 2017-18 and will reach $3.2 million in 2022-23 more than quadrupling over an eight-year span.

In Yuba County there is no hair on fire shouting from the roof top even though there is no way to fund the sheriff's department out of the budget if the immigration detainee jail contract is ended. Bendorf uses the euphemism "the cost of doing business is increasing." That's like calling a levee breach a high water moment.

Bendorf is promoting a 1% sales tax increase and now we are borrowing each year to cover the CalPERS payment. The county is in big trouble. When are leaders going to lead instead of whistling together before the train hits us?

Mandatory Commercial Recycling

Mandatory Commercial Recycling was adopted by the California Air Resources Board as a way to divert increasing commercial waste from California's landfills, thus reducing GHG emissions. The goal is to reduce the emissions by 5 million metric tons of carbon dioxide (CO2) statewide.

So, what does this mean for you? Besides being compliant with current laws, recycling will save your business money, help conserve landfill resources and create a healthy environment for our community.

If you own/manage a business (including government entities, schools and non-profit organizations) that generates four cubic yards or more of solid waste per week, or if you own/manage a multifamily residential dwelling (including mobile home parks) of five units or more, then you must arrange for recycling services by way of these options that are available to help you reduce, reuse, recycle, compost or otherwise divert solid waste from our community's landfill:

Recology Yuba-Sutter

offers cardboard and commercial curbside recycling programs to help with your efforts. For a FREE Waste Assessment, call Public Information Coordinator, Jackie Sillman. You can reach her by calling (530) 749-4220 or email at jsillman@recology.com. She will analyze your situation and make recommendations on how to increase your recycling efforts, make them more convenient or possibly even save you money!

Pets and Heat – A Deadly Combination

Part Two

by Carol J. Donaldson

It is the start of summer and already animals have died from the heat. As their caretakers we must do everything in our power to prevent this. Here are a few things to consider for the health of your pet during the summer months. We have already covered heat exhaustion/stroke in Part One.

It is common sense to walk or exercise your dog early in the day while it is still cool. I have seen dogs walked by their owner in the heat; the dog is trying desperately to get off the hot pavement (asphalt or cement) and the owner is totally indifferent to what his dog is telling him. Dogs can suffer 3rd degree burns on their pads from hot surfaces. If your dog sustains these injuries take him to the veterinarian for treatment. Pavement heat increases throughout the day and it is not unusual for it to reach temperatures of 143 degrees and greater (120 degrees is enough to cause burns). Even grass can reach 105 degrees in the sun. If you cannot walk barefoot on the surface neither can your dog. So walk him early in the morning.

You frequently see many dogs riding in the back of pickups in the summer. Can you image how hot the metal must get. Not too mention the dog is baking surrounded by all that metal and asphalt with no protection from the sun. No access to water. If you have vinyl car seats, keep them covered as they can get very hot.

In this heat reconsider transporting or keeping an animal in a crate. There is very little airflow and not much room for the dog to move around.

You often see dogs running along side of bicycles, in this heat it can lead to heat exhaustion/stroke and injuries to their pads. Again only exercise in the cool of the day and provide plenty of water.

You have to set boundaries for your dog when playing as many dogs will not stop playing. There are those dogs who become obsessive chasing balls and Frisbees and will not stop until they are overheated and in trouble.

Do not throw sticks or balls far out into the river. The rivers are cold and moving fast - a dog can be swept downstream.

Livestock should have shade and fresh water. They also suffer the effects of the heat.

There is a high rat population this year and people are placing bait out for rats - if your dog or cat eats one they could end up dying. If you believe your dog or cat has eaten a baited rat take your pet immediately to the veterinary hospital. There are different types of poisons - if you know who placed the bait, try to find out the name of the bait. This will allow the veterinarian to treat your animal with the protocol designed for that particular type of poison. This can be very expensive so dispose of dead rats before your dog or cat finds it.

Always carry fresh water and a bowl with you for your pet's needs during these hot days.

There are many different web sites that are dedicated to protecting your pet during the summer months. It is in your interest to learn all you can on how to make the summer a healthy one for your pet.

Food and Farm News

Wildfires scorch rural land

Rural landscapes around California continue to suffer, as wildfires affect many parts of the state. Cattle ranchers in the area of the Detwiler fire in Mariposa County moved quickly to protect livestock, and said they had lost feed and fencing to the flames. Winegrape growers near the Alamo fire on the Central Coast say their grapes appear to have come through that fire without suffering from smoke damage.

Farmers list NAFTA goals

As the Trump administration outlines its objectives in renegotiating the North American Free Trade Agreement, farmers and ranchers say they want to be sure NAFTA continues to expand agricultural trade with Canada and Mexico. The American Farm Bureau says the agreement has benefited U.S. farmers. Among its priorities for a modernized NAFTA, Farm Bureau seeks improvements on exports of fruits, vegetables, wine, dairy products and other farm goods.

Study predicts increased U.S. meat consumption

More production of red meat and poultry will likely lead to greater consumption, according to projections from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The USDA predicts increased consumption of pork, beef, chicken and turkey in the coming year. The forecast says U.S. production of each of those meats will rise in 2018, and that imports will add to the available supply. The report predicts lamb supplies will decline slightly.

Agricultural Heritage Club to expand

Longevity in agricultural production and representation will be recognized during an event at the California State Fair Wednesday. The fair will induct 21 farms, ranches and agricultural businesses into the California Agricultural Heritage Club, which recognizes 100 or more years of continuous operation. The new Heritage Club members will include eight county Farm Bureaus from around the state.
