

The 74th Stonyford Rodeo Parade

by Roy Stewart

The Stonyford Rodeo Parade is May 6, 2017 at 10 a.m. This is a small-town parade of the type that the late Charles Kuralt used to feature in his “On the Road” segments on CBS News. Rodeo action begins at 1 p.m.. This parade has a rich history. The antecedent to this parade dates back 78 years, to April 1939. In March of that year, a group of Stonyford men met at Charlie Butler’s store and decided it would be fun to have a parade in which people dressed in 1890s clothing and paraded down Market Street in old wagons and buckboards. Thus began the “Gay Nineties” parade that became an annual event for the next twenty years, until 1959. In 1943 a rodeo was added and a group that became the Stony Creek Horsemen’s Association was formed and incorporated to manage the parade and rodeo. The rodeo continued beyond 1959, until the present day.

In 1940, the parade’s second year, 2,000 people crowded into this little mountain settlement to attend this parade and the picnic that followed. According to newspaper reports clipped and gathered in a scrapbook located in the Stonyford Museum, between 1500 and 2000 people attended these weekend events every year until the parade’s demise in 1959.

While the parade died in ‘59, the rodeo continued and grew from its one-day amateur event to the two-day PRCA event that it is today. Now, more than 5,000 people turnout every year for this fun weekend.

In 1985, the parade was re-born and has continued until

Yuba-Sutter Political Notes

by Lou Binninger

Marysville Planning Commission and the City Council are determined to bring two marijuana dispensaries to town. Although Yuba County residents twice opposed the idea, neither zoning, set-back problems nor children will hinder the city’s purveyors of bud.

No sooner did the city council establish codes and zoning for dispensaries did they alter them to make their favored applicants compliant. Other people wanting to establish an “old school” business in Marysville only dream of such flexibility with city rules.

The one city attraction that children and families frequent every day is Ellis Lake. In fact, it is the only park sought out by visitors. Most other “parks” are such a mess that only drunks and addicts are comfortable there. Marysville residents normally travel to Yuba City when needing a park other than the lake.

Sex registrants cannot dwell within 2000 feet of where children play but marijuana dispensaries can locate a couple hundred feet from youngsters in Marysville. Has anyone noticed that homicides, shootings and home invasions involving marijuana were not an issue while marijuana use was illegal, before Proposition 215, the Medical Marijuana legislation?

Once people recognized where the plantings and stash were, they knew where to get what they wanted. Dispensaries will have abundant supplies of both cannabis and cash since most banks will not deposit the money due to federal restrictions.

It would be ethically tidier if the city council did away with all codes and made their arbitrary decisions based upon what really counts, cash contributions and influence. Who could miss the mayor’s new Cadillac after collecting $10,000 from those interested in the bud business.

The question people are asking about Marysville politicians is, Are they smokin’ what they’re sellin’? Citizens must follow the rules but politicians may or may not.

Marysville’s highest sales tax rate in the region of 8.5% is having an impact. City employees all got raises and businesses are closing or thinking about it. Residents are paying hundreds more per year for their everyday Marysville purchases and when they buy a car anywhere on the planet.

Sin Tax on Driving

by Lou Binninger

If you get out much you’ll notice Californian’s pay $1-2 per gallon more for gasoline than many states in the nation. There are a number of reasons for it, all political.

In spite of the state and off-shore being loaded with oil and natural gas reserves, liberal politicians forbid expansion of extraction activities. That’s partly because they are controlled by environmental groups funded by foreign oil competitors like Russia and Venezuela.

Of course, politicians say they are protecting the environment, but it’s their bank account that’s being fortified. Why would oil producing nations fund environmentalists? High oil prices in the US boost foreign nations’ profits off their petro sales.

Liberal politicians argue for green energy, usually solar and wind, and elimination of fossil fuels (oil). However, today green energy represents a miniscule share of the state’s power source. And, since green companies lose money without government subsidies the taxpayer is paying higher taxes, utility and fuel costs.

For decades, fuel taxes have been used for nearly everything except roads. Legislators and the governor have openly diverted fuel taxes to bike and horse trails, parks, high speed rail and other projects while allowing our once premier roadways to crumble.

Recently, liberals stole another $52.4 billion over ten years via Senate Bill 1, the Road Repair and Accountability Act, a complete fraud. There is no accountability and roads get only some of the take. The bill was passed, not because there wasn’t enough money, but because legislators misspent it. In fact, less than 5% of the new money can be spent on expansion of roadways.

The revenue stream will come from a number of new taxes and fees on driving, the liberals’ new “sinful” behavior.

According to the State Board of Equalization the total amount in fuel excise taxes will reach 41.7 cents per gallon on Nov. 1, 2017. Then the rate will be reset at 47.3 cents a gallon in July 2019.

There is more. There is an underground storage tank fee of 2 cents per gallon.

Plus, California is one of six states that charge a sales tax on gasoline. The state’s 2.25 percent sales tax fluctuates according to the price of gasoline and it works out to about 9 cents a gallon at current prices. Gas in Marysville is even higher due to an added 1% local tax.

By 2019, when all California taxes and fees are added, you get:

Yuba City Bears Sign Three Powerful Pitchers

Yuba City, Ca.

The Yuba City Bears are proud to announce the signings of 3 powerful pitchers spreading from the Sacramento area to Washington. The new additions to the team include Bryce Sanford, Andrew Fuentes, and Danny Chavez. "We have been focused on pitching since day one and it is nice to see things developing for us," says VP/GM Michael Mink.

Bryce Sanford is a 6'5 sophomore from St. Helens. He comes to the Bears from Clark College in Vancouver, Washington with a 1.86 ERA. "I have heard nothing but great things about Bryce. I am looking forward to having a power arm in Bryce that gets up in the 90's. I'm excited to see him on the mound this summer with the Bears," says Coach Gillen.

Andrew Fuentes is another player coming to the Bears from American River College. He is a 6'4 LHP sophomore who has been handling the set-up and closing role for the Beavers this season. "Andrew brings to the Bears a great two-seamed fastball that compliments his change-up and curve from the left side. He's a tough competitor on the mound and I'm looking forward to having him play for the Bears this season" says Coach Gillen.

Danny Chavez is a 6'0 RHP freshman joining the Bears from Sacramento City College. He posts a 1.59 ERA. "Danny comes to the Bears with high regards from Sac City Coach Sullivan. Danny's a "gamer" and will be a great addition to the Bears pitching staff this season" says Coach Gillen.

The Yuba City Bears are still looking for housing with host families. For more information or to sign up to house a player, contact us at 530.741.3600 or fill out an application online at yubacitybears.com.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for 70 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

The striped bass run is in full swing and there are many happy faces out there. One in particular is Grass Valley Angler Ken Malott who was invited to come down and fish with Ted Johnson last Thursday. They fished the Feather River drifting minnows when Ken got into a big fifteen pound striper. (Photo on Page 3) It was his first striper and was a beauty. Congratulations, Ken! Many more fish were caught and released except for two legal size bass which were kept for dinner.

Collins Lake will hold its second annual Family Fishing Derby on Saturday, May 6th starting at 7 a.m. until noon. A free barbeque will be held during the weigh in time. Prizes will be awarded, including cash awards for the adult anglers. Kids will be awarded miscellaneous prizes. A raffle is also planned. Pre-registration is $25.00 for adults and $5.00 for children by going on line at collinslake.weebly.com. Tickets will also be available at the site and will cost $5.00 more. In addition, participants must pay applicable day use fees at the lake and a fishing license is required according to state laws.

The opening weekend of the general trout season is behind us. Those who went found their favorite trout stream, creek or river running high with some areas high in elevation still snowed in.

Some rivers, such as the Middle Fork of the Feather are running at flood stage. We are looking at June this year for some decent stream conditions.

Mackinaw lake trout are on the move at Lake Tahoe with fish running in the four to seven pound range and a ten pound fish now and then for big thrills. Most fish are being caught in 200 feet of water at this time.

We hear from Lake Almanor at Chester. Winter conditions, which have made fishing this reservoir difficult, are finally showing signs of spring weather. Trout are being caught as well as some bass.

If you have plans to head up to Fuller Lake above Bear Valley off of state highway 20, you had better hold off due to road work underway. The road to Bowman Lake, which goes right by Fuller, is closed to traffic until June 1, 2017. This makes the lake inaccessible by vehicle.

We advise everyone to stay off the Thermalito After bay below Oroville. The water is still dirty, has lots of debris and is dangerous at this time. Those who are familiar with this body of water are also encouraged to find another lake or reservoir to fish.

Lake Oroville still continues to drop down and the water is full of debris. The bass fishing has been poor due to the constant dropping of the lake level. The Department of Water Resources has announced a reduction in water release which might bring on the bass bite once the fish are able to remain in areas instead of constantly moving with the water levels.

Closing thought: "It is better to offer no excuse than a bad one."

How Government Debt is paid

The U.S. Government finances its massive spending in three ways. It collects revenues from taxes, tariffs and other income sources. It borrows any short falls from investors and world governments through the issuance of its IOUs commonly referred to as U.S. Treasuries. Lastly it can create money from thin air through a process called “Quantitative Easing” (QE). This third process, QE, is really only a variation of the second. Instead of issuing treasuries to investors as IOUs, it issues treasuries to another branch of the U.S. Government, the Federal Reserve, in essence, loaning money to itself.

The combination of these three methods provide the financing for government spending with QE being rarely used (well not so rare now) and is usually regarded as the last resort as it is likened to what is referred to banana republic like policies which is to print “mucho” dollars as fast as you can.

The market for U.S. government debt dwarfs all other asset markets. It is the supermarket for U.S. debt and trades billions of dollars’ worth of U.S. treasuries daily.

Debt from other world governments trade in a similar type of market and through these markets the governments of the world finance their spending.

The more a government overspends the more it has to borrow. The more it borrows, the riskier that government is perceived as it relates to its ability to pay off its debt. Much like a bad brother in law writing checks all over town, the more debt that is issued, the higher the perceived risk of default.

When countries continually increase their borrowing or use QE to finance themselves, the interest that has to be paid on that debt grows ever larger much like over using a credit card. At some point, paying off old debt can only be done by issuing new debt. This type of financing, if you can call it that, requires more and more money at a faster and faster rate as balances and interest payments grow exponentially larger. This initiates a vicious downward cycle.

The eventual end game of this scheme comes when those doing the lending get nervous that the IOUs they hold will never be paid. At some point lenders say enough is enough.

Compounding the problem is the nature of how debt works. When a borrower exhibits the propensity to need more and more debt, the interest rate it has to pay to continue to borrow has to be increased in order to entice more people to continue to loan it money.

The higher interest rates means it costs even more to borrow money and more money therefore must be borrowed.

Think Mexico decades ago, Argentina more recently and hundreds of other examples throughout history. In every case, as these governments borrowed more and more money, the interest rate they were required to pay skyrocketed.

Eventually, interest rates go so high it becomes too expensive to keep borrowing and the scheme implodes leaving the holders of all that debt literally “holding the bag”.

Economic history maintains a perfect record when dealing with overspending governments. The result is always higher and higher interest rates, followed by massive inflation, eventually leading to total or partial default either through unsustainable currency inflation or an outright refusal to make good on all of its debt.

The debt is then either partially or fully written off or paid with worthless dollars causing dire consequences to both the debt holders and the unfortunate citizens as the economy collapses along with its currency.

Fast forward to today’s U.S Treasury market and oddly enough, in the face of massive debt issuance, interest rates on U.S. treasuries are still close to an historic low. Not exactly obeying economic law, or at least not yet some might argue.

One could deduce either economic fundamentals have ceased to operate or the chickens have not yet come home to the proverbial roost.

A default, even a partial one, by the U.S. is still regarded as inconceivable so U.S. debt is still regarded as the safest in the world. Whether this is actually true or not is debatable.

If history is any example, you have to wonder just how much longer the U.S can continue to borrow without the usual consequences. Some analysts conclude unless the U.S. gets its financial house in order, stops it’s incessant borrowing and curbs it’s spending excesses, investors buying these supposedly safe U.S. treasuries could end holding an awfully big bag of worthless IOUs.

Treasuries anyone?

THE Brownsville Bailiwick & Beyond

Yuba Feather Historical Association will be holding a bake sale at the Gold Eagle on Saturday, May 13, the day before Mother’s Day. Proceeds from this will help build the newest display of interest. This group held its spring meeting in April and is getting ready to open the museum in Forbestown. There is always a great deal of work to be done at the museum, working on displays, planning schedules and more. Opening day will be June 3 from 9 am to 4 pm; then the museum will be open on weekend afternoons throughout the summer. There will be docents on hand to help you enjoy the experience; you might visit the genealogy center to gain some information about your family or another pioneer family, buy a book about local interests, or just have a good time wandering and reading about our area. It is a great spot to have a family picnic or other gathering. Don’t forget there will be monthly Ice Cream Socials, too.

If you haven’t visited the Facebook page for Books & More you might give it a try. Type in Books and More Brownsville and choose the site with a picture of our store. Good to hear from Lisa Cunningham on that site last week. Readers: keep in touch.

Don’t forget the Hill Top Gang Breakfast at the community center. This year Mother’s Day falls on the second Sunday of the month, so the date will not have to be changed. A good chance to treat mom to a great breakfast for only $6.00.

Saturday, May 6, from 4 to 6 pm, drop by the Foothills Lions Community Center for the Chuck Wagon Beef Brisket Dinner. Dinner includes tender beef brisket, ranch beans, coleslaw, texas toast, homemade pie, and ice tea or coffee. Soft drinks and other beverages will be available in the saloon next door. Adults $12.00 and kids 12 and under $6.00. There will also be a silent auction and raffle. Funds go towards a scholarship. Gather up the family and strap on the feed. Is there a local Avon dealer around? As Books & More is planning to expand, we are looking for products to feature. Please stop by Books & More (675-3275) or call Chris Mills (675-9255).

Look Back in Time – In 1915 a large crowd attended the Rackerby Old Home Picnic, enjoying races, baseball games and a dance in the evening at the hall. Feed for the horses was provided (wonder if there was a potluck for people, too).

Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

Food and Farm News

President pledges action on rural concerns

Farmers who met with President Trump in the White House Tuesday say they came away encouraged. The 14 farmers and ranchers in the meeting included former California food and agriculture secretary A.G. Kawamura and the president of the American Farm Bureau, Zippy Duvall. Duvall says the president pledged action to work on challenges facing agriculture. A government task force will report on regulatory and policy changes that would help rural America.

Rain brings extra weeds to forests, rangelands

They look green and lush now, but California forests and wildlands contain both desirable plants and invasive weeds that will dry out and create fuel for wildfires. University of California specialists say they expect more invasive weeds this year as a result of the state’s record rainfall. Ranchers who provide goats and sheep to graze on weedy land say they’re seeing increased business, as agencies work to reduce the future fire threat.

Almond growers stay hopeful about 2017 crop

Even though it rained frequently when their trees were in bloom, California almond farmers say they’re optimistic about the upcoming crop. Farmers and farm advisors say almond trees would have benefited from more calm weather during the bloom, to allow bees to pollinate the crop. But they say the crop looks good. Government estimators will issue an early forecast of almond production next month.

Spring marks peak time for artichoke harvest

It’s a peak season for California-grown artichokes. As with other vegetables grown near the Central Coast, artichoke farmers say their crop is off to a slow but solid start this season. Wholesale prices remain higher than a year earlier. A Castroville-area farmers says harvest is shifting from heirloom, perennial artichokes to ones that are replanted annually. Nearly all artichokes grown in the United States come from California.

Colusa County Fair Calls for Sponsors

The 2017 Colusa County Fair's theme is "Carnival Fun for Everyone" and will run June 8-11 this year. Its not too early to start thinking about making this one of the best Fairs ever said Colusa County Fair CEO Jonathan Howard.

everyone is a reminder that this is one of the biggest family-oriented celebrations each year in Colusa County.

This year is no different from past years as the Colusa County Fair Board and CEO Jonathan Howard have laid plans for a great fair.

"We've made some changes to our entertainment line up this year, and we are happy to say we will have a great line-up of performers on three stages as well as ground acts, and ongoing activities at Kid's World," said Howard.

Howard said he is so thankful for the support the Fair receives each year. "Not only do we have great patrons who support us by attending our fair, but we are lucky that we have the continued support of our county businesses and residents," he said.

There are many ways to support the fair.

Howard said volunteers, as always are the mainstay behind the smooth operation of the event, but there is also a need for financial support.

Along with the entertainment fees, there is always a need for sponsorship of events such as the Demolition Derby, Miss Colusa County Pageant, Mini Miss Pageant and Mr. Cinderella Pageant or other attractions.

"The great thing about managing the Colusa County Fair is the support we receive," said Howard.

"We have folks who return year after year with financial support or volunteer their time and/or equipment. It just takes a lot of hands, bodies and work hours to pull this off each year," said Howard. "We are lucky that the folks here just want us to have the best fair possible," he said.

We Get What We Vote For

Abraham Lincoln said, "We get the government we deserve when we vote". And I say if you don't vote keep your mouth shut.

We know the Democrats are liars. That they lean so far left they are Socialists. Yet we keep putting them in office. I have said that Governor Brown has never seen a tax that he did not like.

He taxed the state to death and spends millions on his illegal aliens making laws, which he can't do, to protect non-citizens at the expense of the legal citizens that he puts last.

As a 76 year old, I can tell you the troubles I have had with Medi-Cal that if I was illegal I would be given at no cost and no problem.

Now I have lived in California and I have seen this state go from the Golden State to the "Nanny State". We have the highest percentage of people on welfare in the country.

Award Winning Wooden Coin Promo Back for Fair

Colusa, Ca. – Premier Mushrooms Inc., is the 2017 Colusa County Fair Wooden Coin sponsor.

A few years ago, Colusa County Fair devised a fair promotion using wooden coins.

The Fair; "Carnival Fun for Everyone" is slated for June 8-11, 2017.

The wooden coins' popularity and success in Colusa County previously earned it the title of Small Fairs Best Single Day Promotion from the Western Fairs Association, and resulted in a number of other county fairs picking up the idea for their fairs.

Thanks to the generosity of Premier Mushrooms Inc., the coins will once again be a part of the 2017 Fair promotions.

The wooden coins redeemable ($1 value) at any participating Colusa County Fair food vender are once again being handed out by fair "spies" around the county.

If a fair patron is overheard by a fair spy promoting the fair, they will receive a wooden coin.

"You never know when someone might hand you a coin," said Fair CEO Jonathan Howard.

Premier Mushrooms Inc. is a local mushroom grower. Their farm in Colusa produces about 300,000 pounds of mushrooms weekly and employs more than 200 employees.

"We appreciate that Premier has always supported the fair and many other County events," said Howard.

In the past collecting the coins became a competition among some groups," said Howard. He reminds fair patrons though that only 2017 coins stamped with the Premier Mushroom logo are redeemable at this year's fair. "Coins from past years will not be honored," he said.

Fair patrons can redeem the coins at any Colusa County Fair food vendor where they see the Premier Mushroom logo displayed.

For more information contact Howard at (530) 458-2641 ext 103.

Also, come early and get a good breakfast for $7 at the fire hall, which is at the end of the parade route, next door to the rodeo and camp-

The Trump Pushback

by Ronny Santana: Ronny Santana currently lives in Tokyo. Along with being an entrepreneur, is a theological political writer for several media publications.

What’s behind the rage ? Holey moley, are the dems madder than a mosquito at a mannequin factory or what ? I wasn’t going to write this article, because I thought the left would eventually calm down after Trump took office and move on, ..that didn’t happen. So I guess I gotta’ bust out another political article. After removing myself from politics after running two Congressional campaigns, I haven’t done a political article for quite a while, I guess it was time.

So then, why such a demonstrative pushback over a rich guy with a bad haircut ? The same people expending so much energy to hate Trump were just a few months ago Trump Apprentice lovers, ..the next minute they’re haters ? Doesn’t make sense on its face, unless you dig deeper.

The pushback against Trump that is being missed is not Trump at all. He has nothing to do with it. It goes way deeper than a person or a political party. The pushback against Trump pure and simple is for what Trump stands for. To clearly understand the source of all the rage, one needs to have the cognizance of the two operating forces in the world; good and evil, and it’s representatives; God and Satan.

God says in the Bible that you are either for me or against me. Actually Bob - I can’t carry a tune - Dylan kinda’ said the same thing in one of his songs; “You gotta’ serve somebody.” So depending who you are following, will dictate who you have chosen to serve, which will determine your reaction to social issues one way or the other. So far, the side of the issues that Trump is standing on that is whipping the left into a lather is of course in direct opposition to a liberal agenda and the forces behind that agenda.

Pick your poison on any of the issues with Trump. For brevity we need only pick one issue, as the reactions are all rooted in the same thing anyway. Let’s pick abortion, allowing people to kill babies - the holy grail of the socialist agenda. Remember the two forces in the world, good and evil ? If one cannot say that the horrific killing of a baby is not the most evil thing a human can do, ..words escape me.

So now let’s connect the angry dots. Trump obviously stands on the side of not killing babies. Because of that he will be met with every force in hell to snuff out his life saving agenda. Hence the extreme rage and massive pushback against Trump explained with laser accuracy. This answers the question of the article, why the pushback against him. Again, remember, Trump is merely the token vehicle representing what is right. And because he is the face for what is right, he becomes the target of the attacks in the attempt to rid the visual representation of what is right. In the same way the people who read this article, that also have never met me, will also have the same polarized reaction about me as merely the messenger. It’s the broken human condition.

Rewind 2000 years ago. When Jesus came on the tumultuous political scene, the secular Roman government and the religious legalistic Jewish Pharisees, were having their way unopposed with their leftist agenda. Then Jesus came along and spoke out against the political majority and was also met with the full weight of hell in an attempt to eradicate what was true and right.

Back to the future, the liberal agenda had it’s way for 8 years unabated. And Trump is now the flavor of the week for what is right and meeting the same angry opposition for the same reason - people want to do what they want to do, and naturally they don’t want anyone around who does not condone their beliefs. People want their sin legitimized so they feel better about their chosen lifestyle. This is exactly why you will never see the “Let’s Help Old Ladies Across the Street Club” rioting, because it is right and need not be legitimized.

As not only America, but the world witnesses first hand history repeating before our eyes with the overt pushback of the current president, it reinforces the fact that history teaches us we learn nothing from it. Having said that, yes there is still hope (for those who earnestly seek it), and that hope is not in Trump, or any other politician, nor has it ever been. That hope is simply stated in Romans 10:9 (for those who earnestly seek it).

Socialist Radicals Giving Up on Government Schools

by Stephen Frank

We always knew that when push comes to shove, even socialists, radicals and defenders of big government would support quality education over government education. Now, the wife of Facebook founder Zuckerberg is trying to open up a CHARTER SCHOOL in the belly of the beast, San Fran.

“Dr. Priscilla Chan, wife of Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg, has been in talks with city and school officials to open a charter or alternative public school in San Francisco for nearly a year, the San Francisco Examiner has learned.

The school, modeled after a private school Chan and her husband opened in East Palo Alto last year called The Primary School, would focus on the health and education of at-risk children from before birth through eighth grade and their parents.

The school would be the first expansion of The Primary School and mark yet another endeavor into The City for the couple, who donated $75 million to the newly renamed Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center in 2015.

Note they have already opened a charter school in East Palo Alto. They understand that education is the way out of poverty. East Palo Alto is a minority community where the children get a union controlled education—not an education to prepare them for the future. Glad to see even Socialists realize government is the enemy—maybe they will check their other views?

Mass Transit Passengers Need Guns

by Stephen Frank

How safe are you on a BART train? Think those security camera’s are protecting you? Will the transit police come to your rescue? On Saturday night between 40-60 gang members rampaged on a BART train in Oakland. During that time the cops never came—and the BART folks refuse to release the video—claiming the gangsters “looked” like they were under age (what does that matter to the assault and theft victims). Could the real reason be that NO video exists—or that it will show the gang membership was based on race?

“There is a simple solution to this kind of crime: Make sure that BART passengers carry firearms.

If the violent attackers are shot or killed, that would send a message to individuals contemplating crimes to stay away from BART trains and stations.

A similar incident to the one in Oakland occurred on the New York City subway system on December 22, 1984. Subway passenger Bernard Goetz shot four muggers, seriously wounding all of them. Goetz fired five shots.

Nine days after the shooting, Goetz surrendered to police and was charged with attempted murder, assault, and offenses relating to firearms laws.

A jury eventually acquitted Goetz of all charges except one. He was found guilty of carrying an unlicensed firearm and served eight months of a one-year jail sentence.”

But, Goetz and others lived because he was willing to break the law—since the police would not protect him and his fellow passengers. If you do not like the Second Amendment approach to stopping gangs on BART—here is another plan. STOP USING BART. STOP BEING A VICTIM OF AN EXPENSIVE SCAM. It is already losing ridership—you are safer in your car that a BART train that acts like a prison, holding in victims and criminals in a confined space.

Your One Minute News Digest

by Don Rae

terms of release of public information. Last year the Democrats in the legislature established the University of California Gun Violence Research Center.

- It’s happening and Fox News is taking the bait. Whenever someone wants to destroy another person “sexual harassment” has now become the weapon of choice. Some of the stories that these so-called victims tell are questionable at best and downright lies at worst. All they are doing is trying to throw conservative media off the air. Such tactics undermine the legitimate victims of sexual harassment. Some Democrats have found their way out of the election fiasco by promoting this character assassination.

- Senate Bill 1, legislative Democrats proposed to steer tax dollars that will be collected in November to non-transportation proposals including: $5 million for park restroom maintenance; $5 million to buy land for improved animal travel e.g. corridors; $5 million for grant programs to encourage people to visit parks.” It looks like only half the money will go to roads and streets. No sense asking Attorney General Becerra to investigate corruption within the Democrat Party as he is a leading member of it. It would be like asking the fox to investigate the security of the chicken-coop.

- The usual suspects keep harping on the unfair treatment received by the idiot taken down by Sacramento Police. This wasn’t about jaywalking; it was about obeying the lawful commands of a police officer.

- Only 55% of California firms reported providing health insurance to employees in 2016, down from 69% in 2000. Isn’t Obamacare peachy?

- Would it surprise you to know that a professor from a New York University claims in a New York Times editorial that the 1st Amendment does not mean free speech for all. He says it only applies to that speech which the right folks can agree upon. If his analysis is typical of university professors, we are in deep trouble.

- As we go forward with the purging of the conservative press – by that we mean what is happening to Fox News – it would be good to keep in mind that some 97% of media reporters are registered Democrats.

- Some psychiatrists have gathered together to come to the conclusion that Trump is mentally ill. This diagnosis is made without even seeing the patient. Does that sound ethical? Perhaps these psychiatrists should have their licenses revoked.

- Do you believe this one? San Diego Unified School District is planning on “educating” parents and teachers about Islam and Islamaphobia.

- Climate change is completely misunderstood – deliberately so. Consider the Great Lakes. This is an iconic world wonder with huge amounts of fresh water and scenic beauty. How did they form? Climate change. The Ice Age came to an end and the massive glacier covering what is now the Great Lakes basin has disappeared. No human input. No fossil fuels spewing co2. No cows disturbing the planet with flatulence. No Al Gore to brainwash people about the cause of the disappearance of the ice. All natural. Just like what is happening today.

Cut funding for science in the next federal budget? Maybe deleting funds for projects such as those designed to research shrimp on treadmills isn’t such a bad idea.

- Howard Dean claims hate speech is not covered by the First Amendment. Perhaps he shouldn’t practice law without a license.

- Janet Napolitano was Homeland Security Secretary and charged with protecting the entire United States from evil. But now as President of the UC system she is unable to protect a speaker on the Berkeley campus?

- Some California schools are laced with unfit teachers. One prime example is the Oakland public school teacher saying that shutting down the “right” with violence is okay. Teachers such as these should not be teaching the next generation.

- A Democratic state senator named Kevin DeLeon claims US immigration policies are based on “White Supremacy”. Why do we keep electing brain-dead snowflakes like him to office?

There are many ways to enjoy the Vintage Tractor Hobby . It is not just for senior men. Participants of all ages are involved. A very special tangent is growing in the Yuba Sutter Basin and I with great pride call them," Tractors for Humanity, doing things that make us more human" The originator of the term was my daughter, Julie.

The catalyst for this movement is the famous Pink Tractor which was involved in raising over $22,000 for community services. The next edition was a Farmall BN which was altered to become wheel chair compatible. Third in line was a Farmall A painted purple and dedicated to the elimination of Domestic Violence owned by Norma Escheman. We are very proud to introduce this 1939 Allis-Chalmers Model B dedicated to the elimination of Autism. The art work of the fractured puzzle parts were the vision of the owner Diane Diede of Smartsville, California, and the paint job was done by her husband Leroy.

This tractor made its public debut at the Historic Faire Parade in Marysville and was warmly received .

Our next effort should be finished by summer and the Farmall Cub will be pledged to Down's syndrome.

The Allis Chalmers Model B was the most successful tractor for sales that AC produced. It also had the longest run of manufacturing that AC possessed. The B was the result of the research of Harry Merritt and designed by Brooke Stevens.

The Allis Chalmers Company began in the late 1800s, evolved in 1912 under the guidance of General Otto Falk to produce farm equipment. Quite a few other companies who were producing related machines were assimilated, and the conglomeration was sold to a German group in1985. AC was noted for quality equipment, power engines, and an array of industrial products.

The B was manufactured in West Allis, Wisconsin and South Hampton, England. The English produced units had a serial number with a preceding EB. About 120,783 were built depending on the reference you read. The introductory price in 1937 was about $570 depending on options and grew to about $1,500 by 1957. The tractor had three different engines which included a 1.9L, a 2.1 L and a 1.9L Waukesha. There were several variants of the B. The IB was the industrial. There was also an Asparagus, Potato Special, and the English plant rotated the final drives and reversed the front axle to lowered the unit to make the B an Orchard unit. The B was a second generation row crop tractor and came with different shaped front axles to meet the customers desires and the crop (wheat vs soybeans). Drawbar HP was 19.51 and Belt was 22.25 HP. Weight ranged from 2,060 to 4,193 depending on options. You could buy the tractor on steel or rubber and have a PTO or a Belt Pulley. You could crank it or have a starter. You might buy lights or not. The three speed transmission could go slow and will keep up with four speed transmissions in the drives of today. The standard seat was wide and allows a grandchild to sit by your side.

The hand brakes on each side were later replaced by foot operated brakes.

The B proved that there was a need for a small, inexpensive, lightweight, high clearance tractor for the late 1930s . Fifty per cent of the farms in this time frame were under 100acres. The B moved AC from four per cent of tractor sales in 1937 to thirty-four percent by 1939. Painting It orange made it more appealing and the skinny torque gave great vision for cultivating. Sales literature claimed it was less expensive to operate than horses and the concept was quickly proven to be correct.

The Model B forced other manufacturers to provide a comparable unit after the War such as the Farmall A.

Those that owned a B loved it . I can attest to that fact. My 39 is easy to drive, always starts easily, and is easy on the eye. It is a great little tractor!

Big changes are on the horizon. WWII would soon break out. In 1941 only about 1/3 of the farms had electricity. 1/4 had phones. Farm production had jumped because of better machines, new varieties of crops and animals, improved fertilizers, evolved seeds, and irrigation. The Spaniards would have never believed the changes they discovered when they observed the Indians using irrigation what effect it would have. Good or bad the farming business would be strongly affected by government programs bursting on the scene forcing farmers to become managers of paperwork.

We are in a historic time now. The little Model B made a mark in the history of man.

THE WAY IT USED

TO BE

By Larry R. Matthews

MOWED DOWN

I've always been afraid of power tools. But only those that could maim or kill me.....which with my lack of coordination probably includes most of those infernal machines.

When I lived in Chico in the late 70's I had a postage stamp sized piece of lawn so I went down to my local hardware store and asked to buy a manual push lawnmower. The smart-alecky part time clerk (probably a Chico State student) said, "Nobody buys those anymore". I just looked at him and told him "Well I'm a nobody so you can just go get one so I can get out of his store as soon as possible".

I was quite happy with the push mower for about 4 years. As a matter of fact, when I moved to a house in Oroville I still had all of my toes and fingers to prove just how safe it had been.

But with the new, bigger property I had to give up and actually buy a power mower. It was a nerve wracking step but I never maimed myself. The only mishap I had with that mower was when I forgot to put oil in it for a year or so and had to give it a decent burial in the back yard.

When I moved to Yuba City 18 years ago I bought one of those power assist mowers....the ones that propel the driving wheels to help old guys like me make it up inclines.

That one worked pretty well until I took it over to my mother-in-law's house. Her property is a mine field of holes and obstacles and I ended up straddling a stump and totally destroying that relatively new mower. We now hire a professional to do her yard. I think he carries a mine detector with him.

As for me I have another self-propelled mower and it takes me about an hour to mow the estate.

This year the only obstacles that I have found to a rapid mowing of the lawn have been guys with clipboards. I can't tell you how many people have stopped me in mid push to try to sell me something. I guess I'll have to carry around a "no solicitors" plaque on me when I mow. They do take off pretty fast though when I ask them to help me do some yard work.

My friend Scott let me drive his riding lawn mower last year. He even has video of the event. I guess it will someday prove valuable in a bloop reel of my life.

As for me, a riding lawn mower is way too much technology for my medium sized yard. At least all of the neighborhood cats will be safe for the foreseeable future.

Marysville Art Crawl

Wine, Dine and View Art So Fine

Marysville, Ca.

Join Yuba Sutter Arts on Friday, May 12th for its first ever "Marysville Art Crawl." Sacramento has its "Second Saturday" art events and Chico has its "All About Art" programs and now Yuba-Sutter has "Art Crawl!" Fun for you and your friends is guaranteed when you sign up to be part of this creative new way to start your weekend.

Join us as we wander historic D Street in Marysville with a purpose and visit some amazing destinations including Buzz Saw Gallery and Axe Throwing Parlor, LoveYenergy & Blessings, Dig's Vintage Home Furnishings and Accessories, Apples Personally Yours and The Brick Coffee House Café. These locations will be made even more amazing with the addition of artists displaying their works of art.

The evening will start at 6pm with bacon-wrapped water chestnuts, and beer or champagne, progress to chicken pesto croissant sandwiches and other treats, sangria and wine and wrap up with dessert and port. Don't forget the great original artwork you'll be viewing and the artists you'll be meeting; Ron Slater, James Amrine, Max Komissarchik, Ruth Soto and Cheri Cutts Kopacz are among the exhibiting artists currently scheduled.

For only $20, you will get to see a boatload of art, meet fascinating artists, and enjoy delicious bite-sized nibbles and treats and drinks at every stop along the way. This will be the Art Event of the month!

"Our first Art Crawl on Plumas Street in Yuba City in March was a huge success with over 25 participants," said David Read, YSA Executive Director. "Those interested in attending should sign up immediately as we had to turn away over 30 people from the first Art Crawl," he added.

For Yuba Sutter Arts, it's all about engagement; finding new ways to get people interested and actively involved in the arts. Art parties, art crawls, other special art events and arts in education are just a few of the many ways Yuba Sutter Arts works to bring art into the lives of local residents, young and old.

Space for Art Crawl is limited so sign up soon to confirm that you'll be part of this "sure to be the next big thing" in Yuba-Sutter! Call 530-742-2787 to register today. Thank you for joining Yuba Sutter Arts on its "maiden voyage" of the Marysville Art Crawl!

Last week, Yuba County supervisors talked about following Marysville's example. Nowadays, there is Christmas, Easter, Fourth of July and the annual declaration that we can't afford to pay for county employee pensions and health policies. Well, payments are made but community services are cut. This year, County Administrator Robert Bendorf says the supervisors need to find an additional million dollars and change.

Who commits to paying for what they cannot afford - broke families and politicians. Supervisor Vasquez suggested taxing the people to solve the million dollar debt.

The corrupt and collapsing CalPERS (California Public Employees' Retirement System) along with egregious health costs are not bad enough yet for supervisors to make a change. They accept union endorsements and cash during election campaigns and give union bosses what they want. However, it's not what the citizens want.

Maybe supervisors should lay-off the rest of the road workers and give the county administrator a raise. They did that last year.

Yuba County Sheriff's Department needs to fill vacated spots throughout the agency. The problem is that a woman can conceive and give birth faster than the human resources department can employ someone. Maybe it's because once you are a government employee, you are there for life.

There are many dedicated public workers, but thinning out duds is more likely to occur via workplace violence. It is noteworthy that the Department of Veterans Affairs with 345,000 workers and a budget exceeding $152.7 billion allows veterans to die waiting for a medical appointment while giving directors bonuses. Then, they lie about it but no one loses a job.

This appears unsolvable using the current employees and system. Whistleblowers are threatened.

President Trump authorized a new Office of Accountability and Whistleblower Protection to address the shameful situation. VA Secretary David Shulkin said the office will help identify "barriers" that make it difficult for the department to fire or reassign bad managers and employees. Apparently no managers of the 345,000 workers had the "Spauldings" to purge the union-protected leaches.

Sin Tax on Driving

47.3 cents in primary and secondary excise taxes, 2 cents on the underground storage tank fee and 9 cents on the sales taxes (not including Marysville's tax). That is a total of 58.3 cents per gallon in state fees and taxes.

Then, add federal taxes of 18.4 cents a gallon for a total of 76.7 cents per gallon. Diesel drivers pay more, an increase of 20 cents per gallon plus a 5.25% sales tax increase.

SB 1 then adds a new vehicle licensing fee in January 2018, ranging from $25 for cars valued at less than $5,000 to $175 on cars worth $60,000 or more.

SB 1 also finally tags buyers of zero-emission vehicles (ZEVs). For the first time, owners of so called "clean-energy cars" will pay $100 each year, although it won't go into effect until July 1, 2020 and applies just to the sale of new ZEVs. So, ZEVs pay about a third of that for other cars, use the same roads and get a three-year tax holiday.

If a driver of an internal combustion vehicle puts 12,000 miles on a car that gets 25 miles per gallon, the cost would be about $280 a year in state gas taxes and fees, using the 58.3 cents-per-gallon figure or $368 when adding in the federal taxes. Your smog test charge and normal motor vehicle fees are additional costs.

Finally, Californians also pay more per gallon than the national average for regular gasoline before taxes and fees, due to the state's requirements for cleaner-burning gasoline that reduces smog but is more expensive to refine. Few refineries even produce the product. So, if you fuel up in Nevada or Oregon it is a different product and cheaper.

Oh, if you smoke and drive you are paying an additional $2 per pack tax of 20 cigarettes, as well. Pleasant travels.

CRITIC'S CORNER

by Matt Woolery

Phoenix Forgotten

Starring: Florence Hartigan, Luke Spencer Roberts, and Chelsea Lopez.

Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 87 minutes.

How does one find himself in a dark rundown theater sitting all by his lonesome at twelve twenty on a Thursday afternoon? First I have no friends, second it was my full intent to see Baahubali 2, however the tickets were thirty dollars a person. While the salary of a movie critic is lucrative it does not mean I will pay thirty dollars to sit in a dark theater reading subtitles for two hours. I will pay no more than fifteen dollars for that privilege, unless there is pizza involved. Now, about the movie I did see.

Three teenagers head out into the Arizona desert to investigate strange lights in the night sky. Twenty years later the sister of one the investigators investigates their disappearance. Fortunately it is all filmed with hand held cameras used by people that slammed the door in the face of the steady cam salesman. The story runs a full arc with a cool ending and with more than a few forced scenes to move the pace along.

Phoenix Forgotten, earns one out five, Petroglyph Finding Monkeys. There are some tedious parts that will make you wish you paid the extra twenty three dollars to see the exploits of, Amarendra Baahubali even as I write this I regret not seeing it. If you have a hankering to see Phoenix Forgotten then you had better hurry it is almost out of the theater. I strongly suggest you Netflix it. It isn't worth the trip to Red Box.

Speaker Series for Youth Wraps Up Its Second Season

Featuring Caroline Beteta, CEO of Visit California and California's Director of Tourism

Caroline Beteta, CEO of Visit California and the State of California's Director of Tourism, spent Wednesday evening sharing her experience and words of advice with students from Nevada Union and Bear River. Caroline served as the final guest speaker in the second series of the Fairgrounds Foundation's Speaker Series, which brings business education to local high school students.

Caroline Beteta – President and CEO of Visit California, and the State of California's Director of Tourism – spent Wednesday evening with local students from Bear River and Nevada Union high schools as the final guest speaker in the second season of the Nevada County Fairgrounds Foundation's Speaker Series. The series provides students an opportunity to hear about a speaker's career path, how goals were achieved, insight regarding areas of expertise, and an opportunity for questions.

Beteta shared with students a typical "day in the life" – working with businesses, government, media and consumers – as the CEO of Visit California. She also shared words of advice, including to get involved (volunteer and take advantage of opportunities to gain experience), be persistent (it only takes one yes), never take no for an answer (you can always find another way), be authentic and true to yourself, find your strongest talents by trying a myriad of things, find a mentor, and dream big. She also reminded the students, regardless where they are in their school or career path, to "be the CEO of your own desk every day."

In her dual capacity as CEO of Visit California and California's Director of Tourism, Beteta is responsible for implementing Visit California's $115 million global marketing program and serves as the lead spokesperson for California's $126 billion travel industry. Caroline has shepherded the growth of Visit California into a global marketing franchise, delivering millions of visitors and billions of dollars of economic growth to the state every year. She has received numerous awards for her creative work and leadership in the travel industry, including 2009 State Tourism Director of the Year, the Robert Mondavi Wine and Food Award in 2013, and the U.S Travel Hall of Leaders Award in 2016.

Caroline holds a bachelor's degree in International Relations from the University of California at Los Angeles, and a master's degree in Public Administration/Intergovernmental Affairs from the University of Southern California. She has also completed the Stanford Graduate School of Business Executive Marketing Management Program.

Beteta and her husband, Art Whitney, are avid supporters of the Nevada County Fairgrounds and have children who were livestock exhibitors. Their generosity to the Nevada County Fairgrounds is evidenced by the naming of the livestock barn – Whitney Pavilion.

The Fairgrounds Foundation's speaker series, which began in October, featured six speakers. The series, will start up again in October and high school students are invited to attend.

Yuba Sutter Arts Welcomes the Foothill Art Society

Not One, Not Two but Eleven Great Artists

Marysville, Ca.

Each month in its home gallery in Marysville, Yuba Sutter Arts features an artist or group of artists. This month, the public is in for a special treat as YSA welcomes back The Foothill Art Society. Eleven members of the Society will display their art during the month of May at The Gallery at Yuba Sutter Arts, 624 E Street in Marysville. The public is invited to the special opening reception which will be held on Friday, May 5 from 5-7pm. Wine and appetizers will be served. If you have never been to an art gallery exhibit or to a gallery show opening reception, this would be a great way for you to get introduced to the fun and beauty of it all.

This talented group of artists create works of art featuring the natural beauty of our region and our agricultural heritage in addition to work inspired by their travels. The good news is that their creations are affordable for even the most modest budget. The exhibiting artists will include Angeles Lendeck, Marge Miguel, Betty Damrel, Chariese Prickett, Constance Laiberte, David Giles, Merisha Wazna, Pat Vermillion, Yvette O'Key, Maxine Vassar and Elise Zabolski.

In addition to each members' individual artistic endeavors, the mission of the group is to share their passion for art with local elementary school children. They have worked with first through sixth graders teaching them watercolor and acrylic techniques. The student work has been shown in the community and at the Society's annual art show in September.

The Foothill Art Society holds an annual Labor Day Weekend Art and Wine Show in Brownsville. Throughout the year, the group meets regularly and sometimes travels abroad seeking inspiration. The weekly meetings are at Sutter North Medical Center circle in the Hoffman Arts Building in Brownsville on Thursdays from 9 to noon.

The group's most recent trip abroad was to France, which included visits to Paris and the Louvre, the French countryside with its farms and villages, stone houses and narrow cobblestone streets. The trip included stops in Bayeux, Caen, Honfleur, and Giverny. A highlight was a visit to Monet's Garden in Giverny to see his pond with lily pads and weeping willows and the amazing colors. The garden is fashioned to change with the seasons using a rainbow effect with the different colors in the flowerbeds. The group stayed near the seashore where the beaches were peaceful and expansive and within walking distance of the site of the D-Day Invasion in 1945.
