137th Bok Kai Parade, The Year of the Rooster

The Bok Kai parade's rich history is believed to have started as far back as the 1850s. Always held on the weekend closest to the second day of the second month of the Lunar calendar it is the longest continually held parade in California. The parade honors Bok Eye, the Chinese Water God, who protects Marysville from flooding.

The event brings in thousands of visitors from the local community as well as San Francisco, Seattle, Oregon, and even Hong Kong. The parade features community organizations, schools, businesses, traditional Chinese lion dancers, lots of fire crackers and the famous 175 foot long golden dragon named "Hong Wan Lung." Dragons play a big part in the Chinese culture as well as in the Bok Kai parade's history.

The Bok Kai event will take place on March 4th and 5th. The parade starts at 11:00 a.m. on March 4th 2017 at the corner of 6th and D Street. The parade will last approximately 2 1/2 hours.

The 2017 Bok Kai Grand Marshal is John Young.

The 2017 Bok Kai Hostess is Stacy Suen. Stacy was born and raised in Yuba City the daughter of Dr. Ron L.C. and Lucy Suen. She has an older sister, Stephanie Suen, who was the 2012 Bok Kai hostess. Stacy is River Valley High School alumni and was the senior class treasurer. Throughout high school Stacy played tennis and was named MVP her senior year. She was also a part of Key Club, Interact, and Red Cross, and volunteered a few hundred hours for the community throughout high school. Stacy was involved with of the Yuba Sutter Youth Symphony during high school – she was the pianist and cellist. She is a recent graduate of University of California, Santa Cruz, class of 2016. Stacy double majored in Ecology and Evolution Biology (B.S.) & Molecular, Cellular, and Developmental Biology (B.S.). When Stacy isn't working, or studying she enjoys surfing, playing tennis, biking, and traveling. She is currently helping out at her father's dental office. Stacy is very excited to represent the Chinese Community as the 2017 Bok Kai Hostess! She remembers always attending the parade since she was a little girl, and it is definitely a great way for her to trace back to her cultural roots. Stacy wishes everyone a Happy and Prosperous Year of the Rooster!

Janet Nguyen Shushed, Dissed, Removed by Senate

by Lou Binninger

Republican State Senator Janet Nguyen of Garden Grove found she was the wrong minority (Vietnamese), the wrong party and had the wrong position on the Vietnam War to address the Senate on Thursday 2/23/17. If she were Black, Mexican, homosexual, from a Muslim country, or a democrat and opposed to the war she was good to go. She wasn't, so she was silenced.

Nguyen stood to inform the Senate of the Vietnamese view of the late Senator Tom Hayden. "Today I recognize in memory the millions of Vietnamese and hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese refugees who died in seeking freedom and democracy. On Tuesday, you had an opportunity to honor Senator Tom Hayden. With all due respect, I would like to offer this historical perspective....." At that point Nguyen was interrupted and her microphone silenced by Sen. Ricardo Lara (D-Bell Gardens), presiding over the Senate, who then gave the floor to Sen. Bill Monning (D-Carmel). Monning repeatedly exhorted Nguyen that she was out of order.

Though Senate leadership knew she planned to address the body and the subject matter, she was forcibly removed by security as she kept speaking. On the Senate floor Minority Leader Jean Fuller (R-Bakersfield), Joel Anderson (R-San Diego) and Jeff Stone (R-Temecula) each expressed their indignation at the prejudicial action taken against Nguyen.

However, Senator Jim Nielsen (R) representing Yuba-Sutter and seated just behind Nguyen, appeared confused and detached. He did not stand to support her nor did he attempt to intervene to protest her removal. Even a stunned Democrat Tony Mendoza (D-Artesia) arose to question the strong-arm tactics to shut down the voice of the Vietnamese people.

Though some liberal senators carped that Nguyen violated parliamentary procedure, the real issue was her topic. Nguyen noted Senator Hayden's national leadership in opposing the Vietnam War and his encouragement of the communists. Vietnamese believe Hayden's work contributed to the torture, loss of life and suffering of their people.

Nguyen's district has the largest population of Vietnamese in the nation, around 500,000. As the Senate adjourned in memory of Hayden (died 1/23/16) lauding his liberal politics, service to the country and his intellect, Nguyen left the Senate chambers and delayed presentation of her perspective in deference to Hayden's family attending the session. The Nguyen take-down occurred two days later.

After the communist takeover of South Vietnam, Nguyen's parents were repeatedly caught in attempts to leave the country and incarcerated. South Vietnamese and Hmong were being executed, placed in re-education (concentration) camps and starved. The communists were barbaric, executing resisters, torturing and burying people alive, raping, cutting open those who were pregnant and smashing infants on rocks. Nguyen's uncle was also killed.

Finally, her father and brother succeeded in escaping. Later, the mother and the two daughters left. Janet was 5 years of age at the time. They fled Vietnam by small boat. Millions of Vietnamese risked their lives in ramshackle flotillas adrift at sea. Thousands were shot, drowned or died of exposure.

Nguyen knows every Vietnamese that escaped has a story to tell like hers. She was their voice on the Senate floor that day to tell the other perspective of Hayden's life.

However, like Stephen stoned to death for telling the truth about Jesus, Nguyen's anti-communist and anti-subversive voice could not be tolerated. The Senate chambers and college campuses are similar, speech is permitted to those with accepted beliefs.

A recent example is when homosexual activist Senator Mark Leno (D-San Francisco) was allowed to speak in May 2016 against a resolution honoring former President Ronald Reagan for advancing the public good. Leno was critical of Reagan's cuts to AIDS research funding, ranted at length against Reagan, and said he would not support the resolution according to writer Katy Grimes.

Other dead or retired conservative officials recognized by the Senate have been the brunt of derogatory but permitted remarks of liberals, as well. Liberals speak freely. Nguyen is the latest victim of suppressing the truth and free speech of conservatives.

Oregon Peak Lookout Volunteers Celebrate 25 Years

Recently a luncheon was held at the Alcouffe Community Center in Oregon House honoring the volunteers that staff the Oregon Peak Lookout. Oregon Peak is located on Oregon Ridge between the town of Dobbins and Bullards Bar Reservoir. The volunteers, known as V.I.Ps (Volunteers In Prevention), first started staffing the lookout in 1992, when the California Department of Forestry stopped funding paid Lookouts. At that time Guy Wolf and Greg Crompton, representatives from the former Lake Francis Grange, approached Cal Fire with the idea of staffing the lookout with volunteers from the Dobbins and Oregon House area. Approval was given and the Oregon Peak Lookout became the pilot model for this type of program. Many Lookouts from throughout the State of California followed their lead. Over the years Oregon Peak and other Lookouts have been credited with numerous first reports of wild-land fires.

The latest luncheon was attended by over 50 volunteers and Cal Fire personnel. The volunteers were recognized for their service; some with just one year of duty, but there were others with 5, 10 and even more than 20 years of lookout duty. Greg Crompton was given a plaque honoring 25 years of service for the training, scheduling and organizing of the Oregon Peak Program. The plaque was signed by the Cal Fire, Nevada-Yuba-Placer Unit Chief, George Morris III and the Dobbins Battalion Chief Tom Webb. Also in attendance was Battalion Chief Sean Griffis and retired Battalion Chief Buck Weckman. Buck was the Dobbins Battalion Chief in 1992 when the program first began. The food was provided by CHY Timber Company and prepared by some of the Lookout Volunteers. CHY Timber has been a supporter of the Volunteer Lookout program for many years; much of their land surrounds the Lookout and is in the immediate area. The service provided by these volunteers generally goes unseen, but is appreciated by those with knowledge of the program.

Pedestrian Access Around Colgate Powerhouse Closed

The steel walkway around the Colgate Powerhouse that provides access to the Yuba River in Dobbins, CA remains closed to the public.

As a result of the continuous heavy storms, high flows have deposited floating debris on and around the walkway and may have damaged it.

The Yuba County Water Agency has closed the area to pedestrian access until maintenance crews are able to clear the debris and check for any damage.

Timing of the removal and inspections are dependent on the potential of future high-flow events, which remain a possibility due to the New Bullards Bar Reservoir storage and a significant snowpack.

THE WAY IT USED TO BE

ing in June the 305 foot, earth fill dam had been filling at the rate of four feet per day. It was almost full and had filled much faster than anticipated due to a very wet winter and spring.

Leaking at the dam's toe was noticed at 7:45 AM. Then a hole was noticed 40 feet up from the dam's base at 10:30 AM. The hole was growing and was leaking 15 cubic feet per second. By 11 AM emergency and construction crews had arrived at the dam to try to plug the hole. At 11:30 two bulldozers were pulled into the hole with their drivers barely able to run to safety.

At 11:57 the hole had grown upward and toward the right side of the dam near the spillway. Then the entire dam fell away. 80 billion gallons of water were released into the valley.

Over the next two days the flood swept through five small and medium sized towns in its 90 mile swath through the area.

Damaged were 65 canal systems, 427,000 acres of cropland, 250 businesses, 350 farm buildings, and 4,000 homes.

Thousands of livestock drowned and eleven people died.

So did this occur in a poor, backward country a hundred years ago?

No, this occurred on June 5, 1976 in the state of Idaho.

The initial 30 foot wave of water spread out and took out the towns of Sugar City, Rexburg, Idaho Falls, Firth and Blackfoot.

The Teton Dam, built by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, was located on the Teton River and cost $80 million dollars to build.

Why had the dam failed? It was determined the dam had been poorly designed and that internal erosion had occurred due to inadequately sealed rock joints. This article is simply food for thought. We need to make sure that money is applied sufficiently to our infrastructure. Recent local events have highlighted that need. Oroville Dam's embankment has been safe for 49 years but the spillway needs work.

Oh, by the way, on March 12, 1928 an even worse dam break happened near Castaic, California. The St. Francis dam broke and carried everything away from Castaic to the Pacific Ocean near Ventura; a distance of 54 miles. More than 450 people were killed.

A Slight Miscalculation

The dam took a bit more than four years to complete. The area had been suffering from floods for many years and the primary reason for the dam was to control flooding and provide water during dry periods.

Most residents of the area had been very supportive of the dam. They felt that it would be a great asset to the region.

There had been some opposition to the construction of the dam. There had been lawsuits filed due to concerns regarding the geologic and seismic conditions of the area. Other opposition to the dam was because it would ruin a wild and scenic river and destroy a trout and wildlife habitat. In spite of this the lawsuits were dismissed. They had delayed, but not cancelled, the construction of the dam.

Mink Nabs River Valley Jeramy Gillen to Lead Bears in 2017

Former Baltimore Orioles organization player and current Head Baseball Coach for the River Valley High School has been hired to lead the 2017 Yuba City Bears Baseball Club. Gillen is in his first season as the Head Coach for River Valley and fifth season overall with four playoff appearances. "We are excited to have Jeramy as part of our organization and the inaugural Coach of the modern-day Bears. Jeramy is well respected by the community and has shown tremendous success at River Valley. We look for big things from Jeramy in 2017, leading the Bears into the GWL campaign and we know he will have the players ready," said VP Michael Mink.

Gillen was born in Appleton Wisconsin but was raised in Southern California. A product of Laguna Hills High School where he was a 4-time Varsity letterman and 4 time all league player. Gillen went on to college to play at Saddleback and Fresno State University. Jeramy received his Bachelors in Physical Education and is currently working on his Master's in Education. Gillen played 2 years professionally in the Baltimore Orioles Organization to wrap up his baseball playing career. "This is an exciting opportunity for me to be part of the Yuba City Bears. With the rich history of baseball in Yuba City this is great for the community and the city of Yuba City by having the Bears return," said Head Coach Jeramy Gillen.

Jeramy started coaching in 1997 at Saddleback college working with pitchers and outfielders at California Community College with Hall of Fame coach Jack Hodges for 5 years where the team compiled a record of 164-68 with 5 playoff berths and 1 Orange Empire conference championship, along with a runner-up in the 1998 California State Community College Championships. "I look forward to working with players from our community and communities surrounding the Yuba-Sutter area. Going to the ballpark is a great form of entertainment, with Yuba City having its own team it gives local players a way of continuing their baseball dreams. It not only brings families out to support a local team but also brings the community together as well," said Head Coach Gillen.

"I believe being a baseball coach is one of the most rewarding careers I could ever have. I strongly feel that the team effort is solely responsible to win any kind of game. The whole idea is that everything is a choice. You must choose what you focus on. In the game of baseball if you can focus on the right things, then the results will take care of themselves. I will make sure that my players have the same amount of enthusiasm and love for the game as I have. That will help to bring the best out of everyone," said Head Coach Gillen. "Jeramy will have this team ready as we open up on the road in Medford on May 30th." We do need to reach out to the community because, as we sign players the need for new host families grows for this season," said VP Mink.

FISHIN' TALK

by Boots Johnson

Dan "Boots" Johnson has fished and hunted in California for 70 years. Anyone with questions or comments can email him at boots3@syix.com

All of us who fish wish for a chance to catch the big fish which will be the topic of conversation for years to come. To many of us it does not matter if it swims in salt or fresh water or clean or dirty water. To others it must be a "big one" caught in their favorite fishing hole or a backwoods trout stream and to some anglers their wish is in the ocean or a huge reservoir. To some the feat must be accomplished in the presence of others for bragging rights.

No matter where it might happen it will be the thrill of a lifetime. I have been fortunate to have caught large fish in just about all of the above mentioned waters. But the one that sticks in my mind is that large brown trout caught the opening weekend of trout season many years ago. Bill and I were fishing in high, fast murky water in the middle of the Feather River canyon. He decided to go down stream so I went up stream. I spotted the current on the opposite side of the river feeding a large pool directly in front of me. The distance to than fast water was too far for me to cast with my fly rod so I climbed a large rock, gaining about thirty or forty feet. I had decided, upon seeing the water conditions, to tie on one of the biggest flies in my creel, a streamer I had tied several years prior to imitate a rainbow minnow.

My idea was to drop that big streamer fly right where the white water was as it churned into the pool. My first cast was right on the money and I stripped line off the reel like crazy to keep up with the fast water. Finally my line slowed down as it moved across the pool I felt a jerk and set the hook. I was standing on top of the big boulder and as I retrieved my line I could see the fish in the early morning light.

As I brought the fish towards me and it began swimming on top of the water I could see it was a small rainbow when suddenly the water exploded and the fish disappeared. My fly rod doubled over and I let out a hoot so loud Bill turned, saw what was going on and began walking back towards me.

I was running two pound leader and was worried about a breakage as the fly line zipped across the water and back again. Then the fish decided to head down stream and I had a heck of a time holding him so he would not strip my spool. I had two problems. One was the fast water and the other was the size of the fish.

After what seemed like a lot longer than a couple minutes I carefully laid the big fish on the sand bar below, jumped down and grabbed the trout. Just before I had the fish in my grasp the little rainbow came out of the bigger fish's mouth. As I sat there with a big grin on my face I marveled at the size of the brown trout. My dealer scale measured him a 16 3/4 inches. The brown was spectacular in colors and was covered in black spots with orange running off his body into the fins and gills.

That was an amazing morning and it was not that the brown was large for the area, but because I had caught not one fish but two at the same time on the same fly. Needless to say, Bill and I talked about that day for years and it was a great tale to tell around the campfire to those who had not heard the story.

To this day I marvel how the small eight inch rainbow trout managed to swallow my two inch streamer fly.

CLOSING THOUGHT: "Never assume you are stuck with the way things are. Life changes every minute and so can you."

Why Create the Great State of Jefferson?

Author, Chuck Frank

The State of Jefferson must be created because in the end it will offer the kind of freedom, liberty, property rights and prosperity that was envisioned by our freedom loving founding framers who gave the American people a Bill of Rights which is contained within the U.S. Constitution. The Bill of Rights was meant to protect the people from big government and the states were also supposed to represent the people to where their liberties and freedoms would not be compromised.

However, as one can see, California is not a state that is concerned about freedom. It is as if the governor and the legislature has become the "enemy of the state" which has gone far beyond its call of duty. With thousands of laws on the books which are there to regulate everything from lemonade stands to cookie sales, and also laws that require permits to cut someones lawn or shovel snow off of someones driveway, isn't it plain to see what has actually transpired across the great late State of California. And if the State of Jefferson isn't created soon, we can all kiss northern California goodbye as it will descend further and further into an endless black hole called despair.

But what are some of the potential benefits of the great State of Jefferson for Northern Californians? I will list them here one by one.

1. The people's property tax dollars will no longer go to the State of California and then be doled back to the counties while the state keeps a major portion of that money. In the new state, all the money will stay in each county.

2. Property values will no longer be measured by only the price of ones property but a formula will be used to determine the net income of every person in the State of Jefferson, and if that income for a family of three or four is small, then the amount of property tax for that family will be reduced.

3. International Building Codes will be thrown out.

4. Code Enforcement and anonymous complaints will be eliminated.

5. All arbitrary taxes such as a tax on wells or well water usage will be eliminated.

6. Counties will have major changes in their government framework.

Supervisors as well as CEO's and all the rest of the bureaucrats will have to swear an oath to uphold the U.S. Constitution.

7. A Constitutional Commission will oversee the governing body of the counties to make sure that the administrators are representing the people and not themselves or the state.

8. The State of Jefferson will also be beholden to a Constitutional Commission as well which is a 5 member body voted into office by the people. However, anyone that runs for the office of Constitutional Commissioner must have already taken a mandated course in the U.S. Constitution and who also has shown a fervent desire to use Constitutional law for the benefit of the people.

9. Minimum regulation will be sought in all areas.

10. Timber, mining, agriculture, fishing, and access to the public lands will be the priorities of the new state.

11. Many more U.S. representatives will be part of the new State of Jefferson.

12. Lawyers will need to represent their clients using the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

13. 2nd amendment rights will be protected.

14. Lower state taxes will be put into place.

15. A major reduction of all government agencies.

16. Raids will not be executed upon any business or individual unless that person has already caused harm to another person and there was an injury.

17. The State of Jefferson or its counties shall not be a government institution registered as a corporation under the laws for government for it will be seen as an entity as only a government that is for and by the people.

18. Environmental and sustainable legalities will not be a priority and overrule ones livelihood.

19. The State of Jefferson will not be linked to a New World Order, International Bankers or Agenda 21.

20. The State of Jefferson is only an exit from California and not the U.S.

In summary, there will be other protections for the people as they are envisioned. I would encourage all persons to get involved with their local State of Jefferson chapters in the county where they live. Let freedom ring.

The Great Wall
Starring: Matt Damon, Tian Jing, and Willem Dafoe. Rated: PG-13, Runtime: 103 minutes.

These historical movies are getting better and more accurate all the time. In this telling we learn of the real reason the Great Wall was built. Not only to keep out the Mongolians, but that the Mongolians were lizard monsters. That explains the green scales on my legs.

A band of mercenaries leave Europe in search of black powder. They find the Great Wall and a new battle, not for money or fame but for the human race. The acting was good and the effects are just down right great. The design of the monsters is new and crazy cool.

The Great Wall, earns four out of five, Bungee Jumping Monkeys. This is a fun film and worth taking a look see on the grand scale of the big screen with the big sound. A helpful hint, If you find the sound too loud and it keeps you from enjoying the movies. Wear ear muffs, it protects your ears and lets you feel and see the action of the movie as intended, while looking cool and prepared for all eventualities.

Disclaimer: Any comments about this movie being historically accurate and Mongolians being lizard monsters is meant for humor and if you do not find it even a little bit amusing then I might suggest a bottle of Skelegrow from Hogwarts so that you may grow a new Humerus bone. Now if you don't find that funny please send money to my editor so he can send me to Comedy Camp.

Food and Farm News

Storms bring impacts to farms, ranches

Farmers and ranchers continue to assess the impact of storms that surged through California during the Presidents' Day weekend. A number of orchards and vineyards in Northern and Central California remain flooded as a result of this and earlier storms. Trees and vines could be vulnerable to root disease if floodwaters don't drain soon enough. The storms arrived during almond pollination season, but farmers say they remain hopeful weather in coming days will reduce any problems.

Farmers move dairy cows in advance of rising water

Several dairy farmers along the Tuolumne and San Joaquin rivers had to relocate their cows, because of rising water in the rivers. Dairy organizations had gathered farmers earlier, preparing them for the possibility of flooding. On beef cattle ranches, heavy rains washed out some privately maintained roads, making it hard for ranchers to reach their animals, and muddy pastures have limited ranchers' ability to reach herds on horseback.

Water, markets influence planting plans

Grain and hay fields that have flooded could ultimately suffer reduced yields. Farmers of other field crops will find their planting delayed. Thousands of acres were left unplanted in previous years during the multi-year drought. With more water likely to be available now, farmers say market prices will be a bigger determining factor in what they choose to grow. Prices have been weak for many field crops, forcing farmers to calculate what crops might turn at least a small profit.

Young Farmers and Ranchers schedule conference

More than 200 farmers, ranchers and people in agricultural careers will gather in Modesto this weekend for the annual California Young Farmers and Ranchers Conference. The Young Farmers and Ranchers program involves people between the ages of 18 and 35 who have an active role or an interest in agriculture. The conference will include farm tours and workshops on topics varying from social-media awareness to pest management using drones.

PG&E Donates $5,000 to Support North State Food Bank's Service to Evacuation Centers

Chico, Ca. As part of its ongoing effort to support local communities, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) has donated $5,000 to the North State Food Bank and its managing organization as the agency was stretched thin by serving evacuees of the Oroville Dam emergency spillway incident and flooding.

"The Food Bank continued to serve those who needed it, even though the agency's resources were severely impacted by the evacuation. We are proud to support this agency as it aligns with our own values of giving back to the communities where our customers and employees live," said Carl Schoenhoffer, senior manager of PG&E's North Valley division.

The agency helped to feed evacuees despite the center's main warehouse being within the evacuation area and many of its employees evacuated from their homes starting on February 12. More than 10,000 pounds of food were delivered during the evacuation, from larger evacuation centers in Chico to small shelters as far away as Bangor and Los Molinos.

"We know that people want to help others. That is our purpose," said Tom Tenorio, CEO of Community Action Agency of Butte County, Inc., whose programs include the North State Food Bank which serves Butte, Colusa, Glenn, Plumas, Sierra, Sutter, Tehama and Yuba counties. People can support the Food Bank through online donations at www.buttecaa.com.

PG&E also supports the Red Cross through an annual contribution to support the agency's emergency services and safety outreach throughout Northern and Central California.

PG&E's donations are funded by shareholders and not by PG&E customers.

Second Amendment
 by Kyle Cuniberti
Today for Money Matters I yield my time to my son Kyle, who has written this article in defense of the second amendment.
M. Cuniberti

One of the most controversial issues today is the topic of gun control. The issue takes into consideration the safety and wellbeing of every American. Because of more and more shootings, it is important that Americans have the right to protect themselves by being able to carry a concealed weapon. Among the many topics surrounding gun control is the discussion of the right to carry a concealed weapon. A "concealed" weapon is defined as one that is kept hidden on one's person, or under one's control (Legal).

The argument for carrying a weapon is a valid one, due to the facts concerning the well-being of an American. The US homicide rate in 2014 was 4.5 per 100,000 ("FBI"). The rate keeps on increasing as the years go on. For instance, 2015 reveals a 3.9 percent increase in the estimated number of violent crimes which means that more crimes are being committed and the safety of American citizens are more at stake as the year's progress. As the rates of crimes increase, the time for an officer to come to the rescue remains the same. Meanwhile, the average response time for an officer to arrive is seven minutes ("Average"). Seven minutes can seem like an eternity if you are the one experiencing a crime against you. With many criminals armed with knives, guns or other weapons, the average victim is little match for the experienced criminal and by the time police arrive, the crime and your life could well be over. Not only has the crime rate increased; there also has been an alarming increase in public shootings, ranging from schools to night clubs. Many times these shootings lead to multiple deaths and injuries before the authorities arrive, assess the situation, and stop the perpetrator. There were 372 mass shootings in the US in 2015, killing 475 people and wounding 1,870, according to the Mass Shooting Tracker ("Guns"). There were 64 school shootings in 2015, according to a dedicated campaign group set up in the wake of the Sandy Hook Elementary School massacre in Connecticut in 2012 ("Guns"). In many cases, there were no weapons carried by the victims nor did any of the victims have immediate access to one. Most of the assailants were unopposed until police arrived on the scene with their weapons. Had a gun been accessible to any persons on scene to confront and challenge the gunman, the victim count may have been lower. Simply put, the ability to shoot back presents a gunman with a threat to be dealt with, which would consume time and draw attention and fire away from unarmed persons.

Having the ability to carry a concealed weapon on one's person or hidden in a desk drawer would help protect a large assembly of persons in a public setting by giving at least one avenue of defense against a potential shooter. It is easy to construct many scenarios in which possessing a firearm would have a more favorable outcome than a group of unarmed citizens being at the mercy of a crazed gunman or criminal blasting away uncontested. Carrying a personal firearm would also help prevent crimes against an individual and those in their immediate vicinity such as family members or workmates. Peace of mind is another benefit of a personal firearm. For persons who work at night, carry valuables, or work in dangerous neighborhoods or perform jobs that could subject one to harm, carrying a gun would provide the safety and security necessary to complete the work day.

The statistics in favor of personal possession of firearms is convincing. According to GOA (gun owners of America), "law abiding citizens use guns to defend themselves from criminals as many as 2.5 million times every year." Firearms are used more than 80 times more often to protect the lives of honest citizens than to take lives." These statements prove that officers cannot protect people all the time. Americans need to take situations regarding their safety into their own hands. The carry of a concealed weapon provides that safety. Not only can the police not guarantee Americans safety; they also are incapable of perusing and catching the correct criminal. "Armed citizens kill more crooks than do the police. Citizens shoot and kill at least twice as many criminals as police do every year. And readers of Newsweek learned that "only 2 percent of civilian shootings involved an innocent person mistakenly identified as a criminal. The 'error rate' for the police, however, was 11 percent, more than five times as high."

Overall, due to the increase of crime rate and public shootings, it is important that Americans have the right to protect themselves from these events by being able to carry a concealed weapon. There is no reason that Americans cannot have the right to protect themselves. If one is in fear they should have the right to feel safe.

OPINION

Thanks for Keeping Us Safe

My name is Donald Lewis and I live at the Butte Christian Manor in Marysville Calif. We were told first by phone that we were told to evacuate, Jan told me they had a plan I thought it was best to stay put and wait. And sure enough a employee came by and said to meet in the dining room that we were going to evacuate. We waited and then we were told to go back to our rooms and we would be told when the busses arrived. Jan came to get me when it was time to go. We loaded up and I am 76 yrs old and this was my first evacuation ever. I was amazed how well it went. The buses came and away we went. The 2 young men who drove our bus were firemen and all the firemen were first class. The trip was smooth and really nice. When we arrived at the Nevada County Fair grounds it was amazing they were ready for us. The first thing they did was feed us. Then they took us to the building where we would sleep. It was like 2 large dorm rooms and they had a nurses station manned by Red Cross nurses who were angels. They checked our needs 24/7.

They called EMT's twice for our group. Took one to the hospital for more treatment and brought him back the next day. As this was my first time I would like to say I was well cared for, feed all the time and met some great people. I felt safe and well cared for, they ask all the time if we needed anything or if we felt OK. I want to give a great thank you to all the first responders that made this evacuation almost enjoyable. God Bless everyone for keeping us safe. Donald E Lewis Marysville, CA

Fletcher's Brownsville Meeting

I told a few people I would report on supervisor Fletcher's command visit to a meeting of the Yuba Feather Community Services in Brownsville on January 10th. So here goes. Fletcher, himself, had been dropping tidbits here and there, that he had worked a deal that would greatly benefit our poor community center, but he gave no details. Therefore, Fletcher was duly invited to a meeting, to clear up all the confusion in the community and stop all the second guessing. At the meeting, he started squeamishly in an uncertain tone, by saying he was only trying to help the community, and that, if his idea didn't pan out, he would drop it. After a half hour or more of around the bush stuff, it seemed the crux of the matter was as follows: He tried to work a deal whereby a private and unspecified party would erect a "cell tower" on the property occupied by the community center; and, in so doing, the party would pay for a lease on a small piece of land, thereby helping out the community center with a regular source of income. Admittedly, a unique idea, but not well thought-out. You see, the community center does not own this property...nor does the county, who leases it out to the community center. The land is owned by the BLM (Bureau of Land Management), a federal entity (and apparently jealously managed by the U. S. congress). Such land can only be used for public purposes and not for private gain....and the cell tower would be private. Now, Fletcher knew all this early on (that his brain child was unworkable) but this did not deter him. Apparently at Fletcher's behest, Doug McCoy, of Yuba County Administration Services, wrote the BLM with a proposal for a cell tower on said land. He received, on November 23, 2016, a four-page letter spelling it all out and stating: "REQUEST FOR THIRD PARTY FACILITY DENIED". The cell tower was not recreational nor was it for public purposes. So, Fletcher knew by late November there was no deal, yet he was still talking it up in December and early January and even "working on angles" at the time of the meeting on January 10. At the meeting (with maybe a dozen visitors) people were non-plused and made no comment on the Fletcher issue. It all looks to me like a matter of much ado about nothing. It didn't work out, which Fletcher knew by late November. That should have been the end of it. Enough already! The issue of a cell tower else where is something else. It is a business decision to be made by a private entity. By the way, I have been asked a few times if I am running again for office. ?? Thanks, but no thanks. I am firmly retired AND LIKING IT! Hal Stocker Challenge, Ca.

Peaceful Transition of Power?

We are at war and we have to win this one! It seems the communists are busing in professional protesters to Republican Town-Hall meetings to disrupt the meetings and get negative media against Republicans... Hopefully you Republicans realize this anti-American group is well funded and will stop at nothing to destroy America. They will KILL! They Will Destroy Property!

They Will Attack Police! But... IF WE CONFRONT THEM AND FIGHT BACK THEY WILL BACK DOWN, and run and hide! They are brave in a crowd but cowards when confronted by an equal force that will fight back! We have to realize this is WAR and we are fighting for our Republic, our freedom and our lives! The left is a lying, conniving, despicable group that can never be believed or trusted. They Hate freedom, they hate those who have worked hard for their prosperity, and they HATE YOU AMERICA! They have NO intention of working to bring America together! Their Agenda is to destroy anyone who disagrees with their Agenda! You should be afraid, you should be very afraid! We Have to Defeat Them or WE will be Destroyed! RW GLESS Marysville, Ca.

Your One Minute News Digest

kid or woman successfully bailing him out. This is the message being sent to our male children. Boycott advertisers who indulge in this malicious campaign.

- The mainstream media is still obsessed with the fact that they lost the election. Every "news" article, especially those from the Associated Press, is filled with inflammatory words, phrases and sentences designed to denigrate Trump and anyone who agrees with the new administration's policies. The press is using the 4th Amendment to rile up hate and hell-bent on creating the atmosphere for a coup. It is getting so destructive that some Democrats have already called for a military takeover. Not only is this campaign un-American, it is also highly dangerous.

- State Senate leader Kevin De Leon, Democrat, is proud he comes from a family of law breakers. He is quoted as saying "I can tell you half of my family would be eligible for deportation." He then mentions the false Social Security cards, false identification, false driver's licenses, and false green cards that his family members have obtained in order to find work. What a lesson he teaches to Californians.

- SB 54 by De Leon would make all of California a sanctuary State. If your police officers turn in illegal alien criminals to ICE, they will be breaking California law. Democrats are contemplating making 38 million honest Californian law breakers.

- The student senate at Santa Clara University rejected a petition to form a campus chapter of Turning Points USA, a conservative activist group. Why? Because opponents of the group complained that its presence would make them feel "unsafe". Back to the pacifier and crying towel.

- Moonbeam is a joy. He provides Medical care to illegal aliens and pays for it with the penalties citizens pay for not buying Obamacare.

- If Congress were required to buy Obamacare as they demand of the rest of us, it would be repealed so fast it would make your head spin.

- Have you noted that 18 of 22 Obamacare co-operatives have gone bankrupt? Didn't see that in the mainstream media.

- The "M" on my remote at home is unreadable. Shutting down the number and frequency of TV commercials screaming at me has caused the letter to wear off. Paying a huge fee for cable to watch commercials is ridiculous.

- The lefties are crying crocodile tears over big business access to the White House. Apparently lefties don't realize that businesses invest in huge projects which create the need for employees and satellite businesses.

- The Clinton Global Initiative is falling on bad times. Some 20 employees have been let go and the whole operation is in jeopardy. Looks like another loss of jobs by Democrats. It is difficult for this "charity" to gather money when there is no longer a possible "quid pro quo". Former donors know there is no reason to give money when they can't get any favors in return anymore.

- Shortly before he died, Democrat Lyndon Johnson was heard to say that his "Great Society" program was a beautiful woman and "I figured she'd be so big and beautiful that the American people couldn't help falling in love with her... they'd want to keep her around forever." Another leftie social experiment, like Obamacare. Neither one produced anything positive; in fact, quite the opposite.

- Political Correctness to the extreme. In Great Britain the health system cannot call pregnant women "expectant mothers".

- San Francisco schools have gone from 90K students to 50K. The mainstream press claims that this is because parents have moved out of the high priced city because they could no longer afford it. No mention in their analysis of the massive increase of LGBT folks, now reaching over 23% of the city's population. They don't have children.

- Robert Reich – a former Democratic Labor Secretary and Berkeley professor – suggests that the rioters were really right-wing agitators. He obviously lives in an alternative universe. And we pay his salary.

- What is wrong with Republicans? They have the votes to set the Country on the right track. Get with it, or lose the Country completely.

- The lefties are running around like chickens with their heads chopped off calling Trump and his supporters Nazis. What they don't know is that the term Nazi is a nickname given to the National SOCIALIST German Workers Party.

Chico Republican Women "Caring for America"

Once again, the Chico California Federation Republican Women stepped up in "Caring for America" a local community program associated with the National Federation of Republican women.

At the annual membership meeting February 11, 2017 Larry Wahl Butte Co. Supervisor accepted a check on behalf of VECTORS, from Chico Republican Women Troop Chair, Dee Oliver.

The monies are collected at each monthly luncheon meeting by placing "Troop Jars" on the tables and at the Chico Republican Women's yearly fund raiser "Holiday Elegance".

VECTORS, a transitional housing for veterans is free to use the donation as needed.

This is just one of many local organizations the Chico Republican Women support throughout the year.

Membership is open to all Republican Women, 530-343-8843, for information.

Melissa Poulos has been elected as the Secretary of the Bar Association. She is a graduate of Yuba City High School, California State University, Northridge and King Hall School of Law at the University of California, Davis. She is the Family Law Facilitator/Self Help Services Coordinator with the Sutter County Superior Court.

Farmers Monitor Storms' Impact on Crops, Water Supplies

Strong storms during the Presidents' Day holiday weekend flooded farm fields, caused several dairy farms to relocate their animals and brought other impacts on California farms and ranches. The storms also added more water to an already overtaxed system, and led to renewed calls to modernize the system.

"In the long term, the surge of storms should bring an improved water outlook," California Farm Bureau Federation President Paul Wenger said, "but it has definitely brought worries to farmers and ranchers whose land is inundated or whose crops may be at risk. We remain hopeful that weather in coming days will minimize any problems."

Wenger noted that many reservoirs have filled and have had to release water, which underlines the need to enhance California's water storage capacity.

"Believe it or not, there are people who think we don't need more water storage, and that we should even tear down many of the facilities we now have," he said. "These activists don't care how many people suffer from devastating floods in winters like this. They don't care how many people suffer from water shortages during droughts."

Wenger said California must move as quickly as possible to allocate money from the 2014 water bond, Proposition 1, to create more storage both above-ground and underground. "Environmentalists say we can solve water problems by conserving more water and storing more underground. But we're not able to conserve most of the water flowing through the system now—we have had to let it go. And moving water into the ground takes time. You can't replenish groundwater if you don't have aboveground reservoirs and canals to hold and move water to where it can effectively filter underground," Wenger said.

Farm Bureau said farmers of a number of crops and commodities will be assessing the impact from the weekend storms, including:

- Almonds — The storms hit just as almond trees were blooming. Bees that pollinate almond blossoms don't fly in the rain and prefer temperatures higher than 55 degrees. In addition, a number of almond trees were blown down by strong winds during the weekend. But farmers said the tree losses weren't as bad as feared, and expressed hope pollination would still be successful.

- Berries—The rains delayed strawberry harvest along the Central and Southern California coast. Production may be temporarily reduced as farmers wait for waterlogged fields to dry and discard rain-damaged berries.

- Dairy farms—Several dairy farms located near the Tuolumne and San Joaquin rivers needed to move their animals to higher ground as river levels rose. Other farmers are watching river levels carefully and preparing to move their animals if needed.

- Field crops—Fall-planted grain crops that have germinated could take on too much water, which could ultimately reduce yields. Hay fields have also flooded. Soggy or flooded fields will delay planting for a number of crops.

- Grapes—Vineyards in various grape-growing regions have been flooded. Farmers say that could leave vines vulnerable to root-rot damage if they remain flooded for too long.

- Vegetables — Rains and muddy fields slowed vegetable harvest in Southern California and delayed planting in the Salinas Valley. Rain generally benefited vegetable crops in the Imperial Valley.

- Walnuts — Flooded orchards that remain waterlogged for too long could be vulnerable to root diseases that can kill trees.

- Miscellaneous — Heavy rains in foothill regions have washed out privately maintained roads, making it hard for cattle ranchers to reach their animals, and muddy pastures limit ranchers' ability to reach herds on horseback. Pear orchards in Lake County have been flooded. Citrus fruit harvest was temporarily delayed. The storms brought large amounts of rain to Santa Barbara County farmers who have remained in severe drought. One farmer there reported losing about half an acre of avocado trees to a mudslide.
