Practice Perfects the Farm!

FFA Mock Show Prepares Students to Exhibit Animals

By Cecilia Feser

RIO LINDA, CA (MPG) - It doesn't matter if it's your sport or your hobby, you must practice to be at your best. That is what brought me to the Mock Show/Plant Sale put on by the FFA this past weekend. Future Farmers of America students were having a 'Mock Show' to practice their 'Show Ring Etiquette' for this summer's Country and County fairs.

You can join the FFA even if you live in an apartment or housing development. You don't need to have land for your animals. Behind the Rio Linda High School is a whole site of pens to hold many types of farm animals. The way it works is you will pick your animal off a list at the Ag office in school. There are cows, chickens, goats, pigs and even turkeys.

Once you're assigned an animal all of the care is done by you. You must buy the feed, the bedding, the grain or hay for your animal. You must clean the pen daily or twice daily for some of the animals, and make sure there is fresh water. You're responsible for getting your animal in tip top show condition by learning about your animal's needs. You also are responsible for all the training to show your animal in a show ring. You have to bathe your animal enough that it gets used to a bath. Before each show the animal is bathed and fluffed and should be in show weight. To me this is as close to owning your own property.

Once you have made your choice and done all the above it will be show time! That brings us all back to today's practice show. The students get to wear their official FFA uniform for the day. There were two rings to show in.

First in the show ring were pigs. There is no leash and halter for a pig. You steer it with a stick. I am sure it has an official name; I just did not catch it. I tell you those pigs looked shiny. They strutted too. The ring judge's name was Catharine Renner. A previous 4-H'er then FFA and now at U.C Davis getting her degree in

Sacramento Spare the Air Season Underway

Sac Metro Air District News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento Metropolitan Air Quality Management District (Sac Metro Air District) and the air districts of the Sacramento region launched the 28th annual Spare the Air season on Sunday, May 1.

The region's Spare the Air program runs each year from May 1 through Oct. 31, and a Spare the Air alert is issued when the Air Quality Index (AQI) for ground-level ozone pollution is forecast to meet or exceed 126, rendering air quality unhealthy for sensitive groups. Air pollution affects everyone. Even healthy people can experience health impacts from polluted air, including respiratory irritation or breathing difficulties during exercise or outdoor activities. In addition to its harmful health effects, air pollution impacts businesses, the economy, and the environment.

Small changes can make a big difference in our community. During the past two years, the Sacramento region saw a vast improvement in air quality. Residents of Sacramento, Placer, Yolo, Solano, and El Dorado counties are encouraged to consider teleworking, taking transit, driving a low or zero emission vehicle, or using other active transportation options such as walking, biking, or riding a scooter when possible. By making individual efforts to reduce air pollution, we can come together as a community to make a much larger impact on air quality in our region and combat climate change.

Please follow these tips to continue to improve the region's air quality: Download the free Sacramento Region Air Quality app to view daily air quality forecasts and real-time air pollution readings for Sacramento, Placer, Yolo-Solano and El Dorado counties. Drive less to help reduce vehicle emissions, especially on a Spare the Air Day.

Telework at least once per week, if possible. Use active transportation, such as riding a bike, walking, or taking a scooter for your errands, or as a way to commute to work. Take public transit or carpool to reduce the number of single-passenger vehicles on the road. Use a zero-emission hybrid or electric vehicle.

For more information on Spare The Air, please visit www.SpareTheAir.com, and follow the Sac Metro Air District on Twitter @AQMD or on Facebook at Facebook.com/ScooterTheSpareTheAirDog.

Extreme Heat Action Plan Announced

Office of
Gov. Gavin Newsom

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Amid intensifying climate impacts, Gov. Gavin Newsom announced Thursday, April 28 that the state has released an Extreme Heat Action Plan outlining a strategic and comprehensive set of state actions to adapt and strengthen resilience to extreme heat.

The announcement comes on the heels of a heat wave earlier this month in Long Beach that reached a high of 101°F, nine degrees hotter than the record high in April 2014.

“Extreme heat driven by climate change endangers the lives and livelihoods of Californians in every corner of our state, and threatens our vital natural systems,” said Governor Newsom. “The Extreme Heat Action Plan is a critical part of California’s commitment to strengthening community resilience and will guide partnerships and investments in equitable solutions to protect all Californians.”

Projections from the state’s best climate science forecast that all of California will be impacted in the years and decades to come by higher average temperatures and more frequent and life-threatening heat waves, impacting public health and safety, economic prosperity, and communities and natural systems – with profoundly disproportionate consequences for the most vulnerable Californians. Extreme heat ranks amongst the deadliest of all climate change hazards, with structural inequities playing a significant role in the capacity of individuals, workers, and communities to protect and adapt to its effects.

In partnership with the Legislature, Governor Newsom advanced an $800 million package in last year’s budget to protect California’s communities from heat. The package includes $300 million to support implementation of the Extreme Heat Action Plan and numerous other investments that protect communities, the economy, and natural systems from extreme heat. The Governor is proposing to allocate this additional funding in the 2022-23 budget to support the implementation of the Extreme Heat Action Plan.

Governor Newsom has put forward a historic $37.6 billion climate package – more than what most other countries are spending – to protect all Californians from the costs and impacts of climate change, while accelerating efforts to reduce the dependence on big polluters and fossil fuels.

With the launch of the Extreme Heat Action Plan, the Newsom Administration is announcing an all-of-government approach to address extreme heat across four action areas:

Building Public Awareness and Notification

The Administration will prioritize the needs of high-risk California communities most impacted by extreme heat by increasing access to timely and appropriate information and resources that can help them stay safer. The most impacted groups include people experiencing housing insecurity, outdoor workers, older adults, young children, and people with existing health conditions. Additionally, the public awareness effort includes actions to equip communities, governments, and tribes with easily accessible data.

Strengthening Community Services and Response

The burden of extreme heat falls disproportionately on rural and disadvantaged communities and California Native American tribes. The community services and response effort include a suite of actions that reduce heat exposure, build communities’ capacity to respond to heat events, support local climate adaptation planning and implementation, and advance heat illness prevention standards for indoor and outdoor workers.

Increasing Resilience of the Built Environment

As temperatures increase and heat waves become more frequent and severe, the cascading impacts of extreme heat on infrastructure and the environment exacerbate risks to people, the economy, and the natural environment. The built environment track includes actions to protect critical energy, transportation, and other infrastructure, support heat-resilient communities through relevant regulations and codes, and scale weatherization and cooling technologies.

Utilizing Nature-Based Solutions

Nature-based solutions deliver multiple benefits, including addressing extreme heat by cooling communities, providing strategic shade, and regulating temperature of buildings and surfaces during extreme heat events. This track includes actions to promote nature-based solutions to reduce extreme heat risks, support nature’s ability to withstand and adapt to increasing temperatures and reduce heat risk to water supply and systems.

The content and organization of the plan was guided by extensive public input, including listening sessions and regional workshops, as well as consultations with California Native American tribes. Stakeholder input highlighted the need for the Extreme Heat Action Plan to drive coordination and collaboration across federal, regional, and local efforts, support localized action through funding and technical assistance, and maximize multi-benefit strategies that advance the state’s climate and public health goals.

Implementation progress of the Extreme Heat Action Plan will be tracked through the California Climate Adaptation Strategy’s annual reporting process to advance California’s all-of-government approach to climate adaptation. ★

In the other ring was Ken Mitchell. A well-known Ag teacher and breeder of farm animals; Another patient man teaching each student and their animal on what a judge is looking for. He was judging Turkeys. You will never guess how they show a turkey:
Upside down!!
Yep, you grab the legs and flip them up so their backs are in your chest. I took a picture of this as I would never have guessed. It makes sense if you need to feel the breast for weight. Coming up later in the morning would be cattle, goats and sheep.
It was great weather for the Mock Show. I am so glad I was invited. There was also a plant sale as you walked in behind the pool. I supported them by buying my first of the summer tomato plants, green pepper plants and some herbs. This is such a great way to teach kids about responsibilities,

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Legislators Must Fund Suicide Crisis Services

May is Mental Health Awareness Month. As a volunteer and advocate with the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention, I am asking everyone to join us and demand #MoreForMentalHealth.
I am doing more by calling on my legislators at the federal and state levels to support legislation that will fund the implementation of 988 and the suicide and mental health crisis system across our nation, particularly for those in underserved communities.
Currently, the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is available at 1-800-273-8255 and de-escalates the crises of tens of thousands of callers each day. On July 16, those in distress and those that support them will be able to reach the Lifeline through a simple 3-digit number: 988. By making the Lifeline more accessible through this shorter number, calls, texts, and chats to the Lifeline's network of crisis call centers are expected to increase. It is vital that the federal government work with states to ensure callers in distress will have: Someone to call, Someone to come help, and Somewhere safe to go. We must act NOW to secure funding to equip call centers and community crisis response services throughout the country with the staff and resources to respond to everyone in crisis.
Join me this month in urging our federal and state public officials to do #MoreForMentalHealth. You can start by visiting moreformentalhealth.org.
Together, we can help #StopSuicide.
Sincerely, Jere Dozier

Celebrate Mother’s Day

Commentary
by Dr. Glenn Mollette

Celebrate Mother’s Day anyway you can but don’t miss the opportunity to honor mom. The opportunities pass us by. While mom is alive is the time to do something for her. Too often someone dies and we want to make sure we attend their funeral and buy flowers. We talk about missed opportunities. While your special person is alive is the time to cherish and make a big deal about that person.

Do what you can do. Mom’s simply want to know you care. You could clean out the garage or clean the house. Spend a day working in the yard or trimming shrubbery. People buy flowers and take mom out to dinner typically on Mother’s Day. It is no secret that flowers have become even more expensive and many restaurants are having employee issues. If you had to wait to be served in the past this Mother’s Day may be challenging. Consider taking mom a card and writing her a letter. Tell her how you feel about her and thank her for being a great mom. The main thing is don’t forget the day. If you are a long way from home by all means, make a phone call.

I know some great mothers. My wife is a phenomenal mother. I have sisters, daughters and a daughter in law who are great mothers. So, there are plenty of people around for me to honor this weekend. I suspect you may know one or two. Even if they aren’t family, wish them a happy Mother’s Day.

My mother has been in heaven for a long time and so has the mother of my two sons. Mother’s Day is a tough day for them as they lost their mother when they were 20 and 17 years’ old. My wife’s mother passed just a few years ago. It happens. The chair at the table suddenly is empty and all you are left with are pictures and memories.

I miss the long telephone conversations with my mother. We talked on the telephone for 30 minutes sometimes twice a week. When I was a child, she was my advocate. She was my school tutor. We didn’t eat out growing up, so she kept food on the table three times a day. When I was a small child, we still had a wringer washing machine and the water was not great. We caught rainwater in large tubs and then carried it in to wash clothes. I remember a couple of summers of carrying water from the creek to wash clothes. She ironed clothes for an entire day every week. It was a great day when we were finally able to have an automatic washer and dryer.

Mom worked hard and about twice a week dressed up really nice and she and dad went to church. Like most of our mothers I could write a lot about her, but Eula Hinkle Mollette was a wonderful mother. She loved me, corrected me, and supported me. I know there were times I disappointed her, but she never disconnected from me. She was always there as best as she could be.

The point is don’t miss celebrating Mother’s Day. You only have one mom. Cherish every minute. ★

Naval Medical Forces Pacific 2021 Nominee

By Rick Burke,
Navy Office of Community Outreach

MILLINGTON, TN (MPG) - Petty Officer 1st Class Carly Vohs, a native of Sacramento, California, was selected as a Naval Medical Forces Pacific (NMFP) 2021 nominee.

NMFP announced the 2022 NMFP Senior Sailor of the Year during a ceremony at Naval Base San Diego, April 13. Vohs was one of 13 finalists nominated for the award. The finalists represented NMFP commands located from Maryland to Okinawa, Japan. Five hundred and forty-eighth first class petty officer billets across the 13 different NMFP commands competed for the coveted honor. Hospital Corpsman 1st Class David Lay, with Navy Medicine Readiness and Training Command Pearl Harbor, was chosen as this year’s winner.

Vohs joined the Navy nine years ago.

“My decision to join the Navy came after my freshman year at Azusa Pacific University,” said Vohs. “While I would have loved to continue my education, it just wasn’t feasible for me financially at that time. Aside from that, I wanted to get away and make something of myself. I had only planned to stay in for one contract, but here I am nine years later.”

Today, Vohs, serves as a hospital corpsman with Navy Medicine Readiness and Training Command (NMRTC) San Diego.

“My favorite part about being a hospital corpsman is caring for patients and serving alongside my Marines as their ‘doc,’” said Vohs. “For as long as I can remember,

Petty Officer 1st Class Carly Vohs, a native of Sacramento, California, was selected as a Naval Medical Forces Pacific (NMFP) 2021 nominee. Photo courtesy of Navy Office of Community Outreach

I wanted to have a career in the medical field.”

Growing up in Sacramento, Vohs attended Valley Christian Academy in Roseville, California and graduated in 2011. Today, Vohs relies upon skills and values similar to those found in Sacramento to succeed in the military.

“In high school, I played every single sport that my school offered,” said Vohs. “From basketball, softball, to volleyball, I was in sports year-round. I enjoyed every minute, but there were certainly some hard times that challenged me both physically and mentally.”

“Learning how to effectively play as a team and identify my own areas for improvement and strive to work hard in order to overcome physically and mentally challenging situations, played a huge role in preparing me for life in the Navy,” added Vohs. “I often revert back to them to this day.”

Serving in the Navy means Vohs is part of a team that is taking on new importance in America’s focus on rebuilding military readiness, strengthening alliances and reforming business practices in support of the National Defense Strategy.

There are many opportunities for sailors, such as Vohs, to earn recognition in their command.

“My proudest accomplishment in the Navy is being selected as Senior Sailor of the Year for NMRTC San Diego,” said Vohs. “As a mother of two young children, a dual military marriage and a full-time student, it’s safe to say I worked hard for this. This title was earned not only by my own accomplishments, but the many accomplishments of my sailors. This title is a direct reflection of their hard work and dedication to the mission. I am just proud to be able to represent us as a whole.”

As a member of the U.S. Navy, Vohs, as well as other sailors, know they are a part of a service tradition providing unforgettable experiences through leadership development, world affairs and humanitarian assistance. Their efforts will have a lasting effect around the globe and for generations of sailors who will follow.

“Serving in the Navy can be summed up in three words that many service members have heard before - “service before self,”” added Vohs. “Our duties as military members take precedence over whatever personal desires we may have. We are a part of something bigger than ourselves. If I can play even a small role in ensuring my children grow up having their freedom, all of the sleepless nights, challenges and time spent away from them is worth it in the end.”

Vohs graduated from National University in 2022 with an Associates in Human Biology and will continue to pursue her goal in becoming a registered nurse. ★
