The Great Zucchini Race

By C.L. Feser

RIO LINDA, CA (MPG) - Only in a small town, which I love, do you see such crowds at a zucchini race-off. It was held at Depo Park across from the hardware store. Registration was at 5:30 with the races kicking off at 6:15 or close to it. This race was put on by the Grange of Rio Linda and started in 2013. The Grange members were the ones who made the 'race track'. It was side by side, painted white and elevated on the start side. No engines allowed on your zucchini vehicles, just wheels and a bottom to hold the zucchini on the wheels.

First, what is a zucchini race-off? Simply stated you choose the size, yellow or green, zucchini. Then you put your creativity to it. Anything goes, as long as it is on wheels. The kids had dinosaurs, batmans, all toy themed. The adults had feathers, googly eyes, hats, feathers and other props to make more grown up visions. All were ingenious. Both were proud of their entries.

The winners played winners until only ONE racing zucchini was crowned. Lots of laughing and back slapping. Trophies went to the First Place racer and a trophy to the 'prettiest'. Smaller little zucchini awards went to runner-ups. Kaden Silva a younger contestant, with his Dragon Duster, went up against 'Dan' a grown-up, (ha,ha) entered one for Rio Linda Pest Control. Dan won. After that match both Kaden and Dan shook hands in friendship, and "I'll get you next years thrown around". I am glad I went and I have an idea for my Zucchini racer come next year. Until then, be good to each other. ★

Sandi Abbott Makes it to World Horseshoe Championship

C.L. Feser

RIO LINDA, CA (MPG) - A few months ago, I was invited to the VFW's (Veterans of Foreign Wars) horseshoe competition. I mentioned then that it is a very serious sport—I had no idea. I was thinking picnics, horseshoes, a summer thing. No. There is a World Champion to be crowned. To qualify for that, let me tell you how.

First, the season for horseshoes is from April to August. There are three tournaments you must compete in to qualify for the Championship. You take the average points of three tournaments and that gives you your percentage average. The percentage tells you who you compete with. It is like you don't play a rookie against an All-star.

Of course, many, many horseshoes are thrown in between tournaments. Practice and more practice gets you to the top. Photo by Connie Smart

It equals out who plays who in the finals. Of course, many, many horseshoes are thrown in between tournaments. Practice and more practice gets you to the top.

Having met many of the players for my last article I heard that Sandi Abbott, who was mentioned in the earlier article, just came back from Winamucca, NV, having qualified to compete in the World Championship for Horseshoes this year on July 19-31. I asked her how long she had been

County to Hold Realignment Plan Community Workshop

By Robyn Howland,
Sacramento County
Probation Department

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento County Juvenile Justice Coordinating Council (JJCC) Subcommittee will host a Realignment Plan Community Workshop to present and encourage community participation and feedback in Sacramento County's Realignment Plan. The Community Workshop will be conducted virtually via Zoom.

The JJCC Subcommittee, chaired by the Chief Probation Officer, is comprised of representatives from the District Attorney's Office, the Public Defender's Office, Child Protective Services, Behavioral Health Services, Sacramento County Office of Education, and a representative from Superior Court. In April 2021, four community members were selected as members of the JJCC Subcommittee.

The JJCC Subcommittee is responsible for the development of Sacramento County's Senate Bill 823 Division of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) Realignment Plan to be submitted to the new state Office of Youth and Community Restoration. The Realignment Plan addresses programs, re-entry, rehabilitation and support services for youth realigned from the State DIJ to the Valley Oak Youth Academy (VOYA) located within the Sacramento County Youth Detention Facility.

The VOYA provides a safe and secure environment for youth serving commitments at Sacramento County's Youth Detention Facility. Through the utilization of community-based responses and intervention, opportunities are provided towards positive outcomes for youth and public safety, reduced transfer of youth to the adult criminal justice system, reduced racial and ethnic disparities, and reduced confinement in the juvenile justice system.

"Through the dedication and collaboration that exists between our culturally responsive probation staff, contracted employees, county partners and more than 100 volunteers from community based organizations, the youth within the Sacramento County Youth Detention Facility receive a wide range of programs," said Marlon Yarber, Interim Chief Probation Officer. "We look forward to continued collaboration with the community to create new partnerships, while providing a high level

Airshow Ambassadors Needed for Aviation Festival

Volunteers don't need to have any prior experience, and you don't need to know anything about aviation. Photo by Mark Loper, courtesy CCA

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Volunteers are needed for the 2021 California Capital Airshow (CCA), which is presented by Sacramento County in partnership with the City of Rancho Cordova. The annual event, held at Mather Airport, is designed to honor the history of aviation while inspiring attendees with exciting in-air performances by talented pilots.

Volunteers will have behind-the-scenes access to all the excitement the festival has to offer, while playing a crucial role in ensuring the success of the airshow. Volunteers work in the performers chalet, where the pilots have lunch; pick up debris on the main show ramp as part of the Foreign Object Debris (FOD) Squad; and engage with attendees in a range of hospitality roles, such as greeting guests and helping them get autographs from their favorite performers.

Ronlyn Vasconcellos, CCA volunteer coordinator, said in a press release that the volunteers are referred to as “Airshow Ambassadors,” and that “many have served for a decade or more, providing an opportunity to build a great sense of community around this event.”

One such volunteer is Mark Crawford of Rocklin, CA, who has been volunteering at the airshow for approximately 13 years. He first started out years ago by getting a group of people from his office to volunteer with him, and after all their hard work, he said they saw the “direct benefit of our efforts and the success of the show.”

Crawford is now a Hospitality Team Leader, and he has volunteers on his team who come back year after year – in addition to new recruits each year who are eager to get in on the action. “It is a lot of work, and several long days,” Crawford said, “and it is all worth it. I’ve not only built relationships with the other volunteers, I’ve also built relationships with many of our guests that have also been coming back year after year. It is so awesome to watch their kids grow and experience this special event every year.” Crawford has even been getting his own son involved as an Airshow volunteer in recent years.

Volunteers don’t need to have any prior experience, and you don’t need to know anything about aviation. “We have many great volunteers that can tell you all kinds of information about every single plane they see, and we have volunteers that don’t know anything about planes ... you don’t need to be a plane expert to get involved,” said Crawford. “Anyone with a heart to serve and a smile on their face will do an amazing job and have one of the best times at the airshow.”

Crawford explained that volunteers are well taken care of during the airshow: “Caring for the volunteers is always a high priority for the organizers, so we have plenty of water to drink during the day, opportunities to take breaks during the day to explore everything, and they provide a great lunch as well each day.”

If you enjoy helping others, engaging in exceptional customer service, and working outdoors in a fun, fast-paced atmosphere, consider volunteering your time at the 2021 California Capital Airshow. Adults (18 and older) can volunteer either Friday, September 24 from 1:00 PM to 8:00 PM or Saturday, September 25 and Sunday, September 26 from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM. Volunteers will receive an “Airshow Crew” t-shirt, and meals and water will be provided. Volunteers will also be required to comply with all state and local COVID-19 protocols during the airshow.

Why Is Medicare Denying Paying for My Doctor Visit?

Toni King

I have a $900 doctor bill with a new cardiologists and Medicare says they will not pay? I recently retired and enrolled in Medicare and a Medicare supplement for freedom to pick my own doctor!

This is too confusing for me. I need some advice. Thanks, Jane from Ft. Worth

Hello Jane:

I rarely see a problem with doctor's/provider's bills, but when it does happen, there is a process you must do to find out if the office visit or procedure will be paid as a "Medicare approved" service.

If Original Medicare will not pay for care you received, you will find this out when you receive your Medicare Summary Notice (MSN). The MSN is a summary of claims for health care services Medicare processed for you during the previous three months. The MSN is not a bill. Medicare Summary Notices (MSNs) are mailed four times a year and contain information about submitted charges, the amount that Medicare paid, and the amount you are responsible for. MSNs are used only with "Original Medicare" and not with a Medicare Advantage or Medicare Part D Prescription Drug Plans.

Below is what you should do if you believe the claim is medically necessary:

1)Find out if it is possible that there was a billing mistake. Medicare uses a set of service codes, called CPT codes, for processing medical claims. Each medical service has been assigned a specific code. Sometimes providers accidentally use the wrong codes when filling out Medicare paperwork, and this can result in Medicare denials. A denial can sometimes be easily resolved by asking your doctor to double-check that your claim was submitted with the correct codes. Your doctor's billing office can call 800-MEDICARE (800-633-4227) to get in touch with the company that processes Medicare claims if the wrong code was used, ask your doctor to resubmit the claim with the correct code.

2)If the provider believes that the claim was correctly coded or is unwilling to refile the claim, your next step is to appeal. Appealing is easy and many Americans win! The MSN will have instructions for how to appeal. Follow these instructions or call 1/800-MEDICARE for help. If the MSN lists several items and you are not disputing all of them, circle the one you want to appeal. Write "Please Review" on the bottom and sign the back. Make a copy for your files. Then mail the signed original to Medicare at the address on the MSN. Make sure you mail your appeal within 120 days of receiving the MSN. Do NOT wait past the time to appeal!

3)If possible, get a letter from your health care provider saying that you needed the service and why. Send this with your MSN.

*Always keep photocopies and records of all communication, whether written or oral with Medicare concerning your denial. Send your appeal certified mail and make sure you ask the post office or UPS/FEDEX for a signed delivery confirmation. ****

Will Legislature Confront
California Housing Crisis?

By Dan Walters
CALMatters

California had a huge and growing housing problem before COVID-19 reared its ugly head 18 months ago, falling well short each year of state construction goals.

The pandemic, which continues to flare up, "exacerbated a long-standing housing shortage, intensified a statewide affordability crisis, and provoked housing instability," the new state budget declares.

While suddenly unemployed workers struggled, and often failed, to make their monthly payments, the prices for homes soared, freezing out many who aspired to ownership.

The budget projects that California will add, at best, about 100,000 housing units this year, which is scarcely half of the 180,000 units state housing authorities say are needed to meet current demand and reduce the backlog. And that projection did not take into account the current COVID-19 surge.

The Legislature has reconvened after its summer vacation and is sprinting toward adjournment in mid-September. Housing is, or should be, at the top of its agenda.

While many factors affect the housing shortage, the most important is the reluctance of suburban communities to embrace multi-family housing projects, particularly those for low- and moderate-income renters.

Dubbed "not-in-my-backyard," or NIMBY, it is by no means a recent phenomenon. One could trace it back to the anti-Asian exclusion laws of the 19th century, and 20th century anti-okie laws and whites- and Christians-only deed covenants.

As California's population exploded after World War II, some rural communities attempted to avoid becoming commuter suburbs. When Petaluma adopted a strict growth control law in the early 1970s, developers sued and the case went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, which allowed Petaluma's law to remain in effect.

The state has made multiple attempts to overcome NIMBYism, such as imposing residential zoning quotas on regions and cities. Recent versions contain some penalties for cities that ignore their quotas and the state sued one city, Huntington Beach, for ignoring its quota.

One of the state's many anti-NIMBY actions is the Housing Accountability Act, first enacted in 1982 and later tightened up. It essentially bars local governments from arbitrarily blocking housing projects that are "consistent with objective local development standards."

Citing the law, pro-housing organizations have been challenging local governments when they reject low- and moderate-income projects and two cases are looming as tests of the law's efficacy.

One is in Huntington Beach, which rejected a 48-unit project. The California Renters Legal Advocacy and Education Fund (CaRLA) sued but a local judge ruled for the city, declaring that it had valid reasons, such as increased traffic, to deny a permit for the project.

CaRLA is also suing San Mateo, which imposed stringent design requirements on a 10-unit project that its developers said were onerous. Once again, a local judge ruled for the city and even questioned whether the Housing Accountability Act can be constitutionally applied to a charter city under the home rule doctrine.

Both cases are headed up the legal appeals chain and state Attorney General Rob Bonta is intervening in the San Mateo case to defend the law's application.

That brings us back to the final weeks of the legislative session and two highly controversial anti-NIMBY measures. Senate Bill 9 is the latest effort by Senate President Pro Tem Toni Atkins to allow small multi-family projects on lots zoned for single-family homes, while SB 10 would allow local governments to approve up to 10 units of housing on any lot, regardless of current zoning, near transit.

Whether they pass or fail will tell us much about the direction of housing policy as California's crisis continues.

playing, she said, “Only since 2007.” She also told me it was just for fun at first.” But, what an honor it was to play against and amongst the best in horseshoes at the World Tournament”, she said.
The World Tournament is two weeks long. Each player plays 5 games a day for three days. In that 5 games you will have pitched 200 horseshoes per day. Depending on how you do, you will advance or you will practice for next year. Unfortunately, Sandi is aiming for the next year’s championship. She ended up with seven wins and eight losses, which wasn’t quite enough to advance to the Finals. However, she’s still very positive about the experience. “It was a great vacation just the same. You are away from your routine for a while and that is always a good thing”. I told her I am sure I will be back next year to re-interview when she takes

Sen. Nielsen Responds to Hyatt Powerplant Shutdown

Office of Senator Jim Nielsen
SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Senator Jim Nielsen, R-Red Bluff, issued the following statement in response to the shuttering of the Hyatt Powerplant at Lake Oroville for the first time because of record low water levels:

“Governor Newsom and the Democrats running this state should be ashamed.
“Rather than planning for the future, they kow-towed to environmental special interest groups and stalled the construction of Sites Reservoir.
“They fast track through environmental regulations to build sports stadiums, but refuse to do the same when it comes to infrastructure projects that would protect the livelihoods, health and safety of Californians.”
When there’s adequate water in Lake Oroville, Hyatt can generate up to 900 megawatts of electricity. Typically, it produces 450 megawatts – enough to power 800,000 homes. However, due to the record low water levels, only 10 megawatts of electricity were being generated, which is why the decision was made to take it offline. ★

iVoterGuide Provides Key Information about Recall and Candidates

Hamilton Strategies Press Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The California gubernatorial recall election is underway and voters across the state are eager to make their voices heard. This special election is being held to answer two important questions: Should Gavin Newsom be recalled from the office of Governor? If so, who should replace him? How voters answer these two questions could transform the political landscape of both California and the U.S. for years.

For Debbie Wuthnow, president of iVoterGuide, this recall election provides a unique opportunity. “An opportunity like this hasn’t occurred in California in years. Recent polls indicate that the state is evenly split over the effort to recall Governor Newsom, with the majority of California voters still undecided. This is exactly what iVoterGuide is for – equipping voters with facts about each candidate so they can cast an informed vote.”

While Republican voters may have already decided whether Governor Newsom should be recalled, iVoterGuide provides the well-sourced facts that California voters can share with their family and neighbors who need a reminder of Governor Newsom’s policies and actions that led to the recall effort. If the vote to recall exceeds 50%, then the candidate who receives the most votes will become California’s governor until the November 2022 election. The toxic political climate and recent global events underscores the urgency for voters to choose the candidate most likely to respect personal freedoms and govern with integrity.

Voters asked for iVoterGuide to cover this election and provide research to assist them in choosing between the dozens of contenders, and iVoterGuide quickly compiled all the necessary information about the current candidates. iVoterGuide gathered links to candidate websites and social media accounts, as well as listed important ideological donations either given to or by the candidates. For those who have held office, iVoterGuide lists any vote ratings earned. Additionally, each candidate received an issue questionnaire.

iVoterGuide is a one-stop resource for candidate ratings and election information. In 2020, iVoterGuide’s expert researchers gave an in-depth analysis –and overall rating – from the perspective of unchanging truth for 8,000+ candidates in more than 3,300 races nationwide. Additionally, iVoterGuide offers election dates, registration deadlines, polling locations, and other information needed to help Americans vote wisely and identify candidates on the ballot who share their values. Related tools are also available to inform family, neighbors, and business associates about getting their own personalized ballots. iVoterGuide is helping to restore the principles of limited government, free enterprise, and traditional American values.

iVoterGuide also created Pray for Leaders, an easy way for voters to pray by name for the officials whom they personally have the authority to elect.
