

School supply drop off brought the community together

BY MICHELE TOWNSEND

Recently, the News-Ledger brought you a story of the retirement of Yolo County Children's Alliance's (YCCA) Executive Director, Katie Villegas. When Katie retired, Jeneba Lahai stepped into the position of Executive Director. Jeneba has been a very important part of YCCA, the organization's growth and the indescribable amount of help that the YCCA has helped West Sacramento and Yolo County.

Out of the many programs that Jeneba has been a part of, one that she is especially close to is the backpack give-away program that Jeneba started six years ago as part of the back-to-school health fair that they held that year. Then, five years ago, the West Sac Kids Give Back group (WSKGB) joined forces with YCCA. The WSKGB is an organization that was started by West Sacramento City Councilwoman Quirina Orozco and her children. Their purpose is to help the community and two of their biggest projects are hygiene care packs that they collect and assemble for the homeless and the collection of school supplies for the annual backpack give-away sponsored by YCCA.

On Sunday, July 18th, the 2021 school supply collection was held at Jefferson Bar and Grill on Jefferson Boulevard. People of all ages stopped by to drop off pencils, pens, colored pencils and crayons, notebooks, rulers, erasers, binders, and of course – backpacks. These are just some of the school supplies donated that day. Young and old, some brought just a few items, some brought bags of donations. No matter how many items were donated by who, every one of them was met with great thanks and appreciation! I just happened to be there when Mayor Martha Guerrero showed up with her donation. In addition, City Manager Aaron Laurel and his family arrived with their donations. There were lots of smiling faces when people saw the outpour of generosity from our community members. Each year the donations, and the need, grow. Jeneba said, "Last year we assembled and gave away about 700 backpacks."

Community Invited to Discuss Broadway Bridge Project in a Virtual Open House

The cities of West Sacramento and Sacramento are hosting a virtual open house on Wednesday, July 28, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. to notify the public about the release of the Draft Environmental Impact Report/Environmental Assessment (EIR/EA) and the public comment period for the Broadway Bridge Project. The project team will present details about the preferred bridge alignment, estimated project schedule and the project environmental impact analysis results.

The Broadway Bridge is a proposed "neighborhood friendly" bridge across the Sacramento River downstream from Pioneer Bridge (US 50/Business 80) that will connect South River Road on the west side of the river with Broadway on the east side. This crossing will be a movable bridge which will accommodate boat river traffic and provide enhanced travel connections for people who walk, bike, take transit and those who drive.

"This bridge will ultimately provide better connectivity for people traveling across the Sacramento River," said Jason McCoy, Supervising Transportation Planner and Project Manager

Repeat Drug Trafficker Sentenced to Prison

West Sacramento resident Jayson Garcia was sentenced last week to 12 years, 8 months, local prison stemming from six separate drug trafficking arrests spanning a one-year period, and all committed while on mandatory supervision. Mandatory supervision is a portion of a local prison sentence, determined by the court to be served in the community under the supervision of the probation department.

In May of 2019, Garcia, 43, was originally sentenced to four years in local prison after pleading no contest to possession with intent to sell methamphetamine and admitted an enhancement for having suffered a prior prison term. Garcia was ordered to serve half his term in custody and the remainder on Mandatory Supervision.

After being released from custody, Garcia was arrested on February 24, 2020, by the West Sacramento Police Department

The Faces Of West Sacramento: Ray Perez

My name is Ray Perez Jr and I was born and raised here in West Sacramento. I went to Our Lady of Grace Catholic school for 9 years, graduated from River City High school ('06!), and graduated from Sac State with my degree in communications. I grew up an Oakland Raider fan and was a season ticket holder for 10 years in the infamous Black Hole. I was one of the crazy fans that dressed up with face paint and shoulder pads; I went by the moniker Dr. Death. I spearheaded a movement to keep the Raiders in Oakland which resulted in me being on the cover of Sports Illustrated. I also worked in the restaurant business for 10 years and later a full-time Uber driver in San Francisco for

THIS 'n' THAT 'Once In a Generation' Flooding

BY CAROL BOGART

Okay, so it's in Germany but it gives me pause because it also could happen here. The odds are small (less than 2 percent) that West Sac could have a catastrophic flood at any time in any year (Source: California Dept. of Water Resources & Army Corps of Engineers). But living within walking distance of the Sacramento River and a too short levee – flooding elsewhere does make me ponder how our levee's 'Reach 8' is doing now.

You don't hear much about flood risk during drought. Right now, 'California burning' vs. drowning is the bigger threat. But it seems to me, and others, it's all related. The U.S. Geological Survey warned us several years ago that "climate change is here and it's here to stay." (Yes, I know I've reported that before, but I think it bears repeating in the context of this column.)

Consider the Arctic's fast-melting ice and its real threat to coastlines. Is Sacramento back far enough? How about our

8 things health experts want you to know about the Delta variant

A Sacramento-area COVID-19 surge is likely, given the highly contagious variant and the low vaccination rate. For most of June, there were fewer than 10 patients with active COVID-19 at the UC Davis Medical Center on any given day. On several days there were five or six. This week, it's ranged from 18-25 patients daily. And UC Davis Health experts expect that to go up.

Another COVID-19 surge

"We're all thinking that another surge is likely," said Christian Sandrock, director of critical care at the medical center. "It is frightening. I don't think we'll go back to the worst we've seen, due to the vaccine, but it's hard to tell."

The state of California re-opened June 15, lifting most masking and distancing requirements. The Delta variant, which originated in India, was spreading rapidly in the U.S. around the same time.

"The substantial increases in COVID-19 cases are consistent with a fourth surge largely, if not entirely, driven by unvaccinated people and not masking," explained Natascha Tuznik, associate clinical professor of infectious diseases at UC Davis Health.

"It's a concern but it's not unexpected, given the increased transmissibility of the Delta variant in combination with opening back up," said Dean Blumberg, chief of pediatric infectious diseases at UC Davis Children's Hospital. Sacramento County has the third highest COVID case rate in the state, with 11.5 cases per 100,000 people over the last seven days. The county's COVID-19 vaccination rate is around 50%, well below the statewide rate of 63%.

UC Davis Health experts are warning that Delta should be taken very seriously. Here's what they've learned about the variant:

1. Delta is highly contagious

Nearly 80% of current COVID-19 cases in UC Davis Health patients are the Delta strain.

That's in line with what the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Rochelle Walensky, told a Senate committee this week: Delta accounts for 83% of the new cases in the U.S - up from about 50% just a couple of weeks ago.

"The Delta variant is 40-50% more transmissible than the Alpha variant," said Tuznik. The Alpha variant was 50% more transmissible than the original strain of SARS-CoV-2.

2. Symptoms are the same, but cases are skewing younger

"We haven't really seen more severe symptoms with Delta [than the other strains], but we are seeing one trend internationally: 30-50-year-olds are making up more hospital admissions," Sandrock said.

"Symptoms are the same but what we are seeing with Delta is 'quicker sicker,' especially in younger people," Tuznik noted. One possible explanation? Research published recently found that the variant grows more rapidly – and to much greater levels – in the respiratory tract.

3. Delta is hitting the unvaccinated

"The Delta variant in the U.S. is affecting, for the most part, the unvaccinated," said Lorena Garcia, professor of epidemiology in the Department of Public Health Sciences. "That is different than the surges in winter or early spring when the vaccine was not available to everyone. Now when you combine being unvaccinated with not wearing masks and no social distancing, you see this surge during the summer."

Most hospitalized COVID patients at UC Davis Medical Center are unvaccinated. "Vaccines continue to work very well – including against Delta," Blumberg said. "At this point in the pandemic, you're either going to get vaccinated or you're going to get COVID."

Nationally and statewide, the data show that areas with lower vaccination rates tend to have higher COVID-19 infection rates.

"My biggest concern is the unvaccinated population and ongoing refusal to vaccinate," said Tuznik. "Vaccination works. Vaccination prevents severe COVID-19 disease, which may be fatal. Essentially all fatalities at this time are being seen in the unvaccinated."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

The September 14 recall election will present voters with two questions. The first will ask whether Newsom—elected in a landslide victory with 62% of the vote -- should be recalled. The second will ask which of the 46 listed candidates should succeed Newsom if he is recalled. While a mere majority vote is required on the first question, the candidate with the most votes on the second question would win, no majority required.

“No majority required.” In a recall election, the candidate replacing a recalled candidate need only get the most votes. And there we see the crux of it: Republicans cannot win a majority vote, fair and square. Anti-democratic forces have seized upon the recall option to try to win with far less than 40% of the vote.

If you hold dear your democratic right to vote and to have your vote count, vote No on Sept. 14.

FOOD RECIPIENT SPOTLIGHT: Meet Nancy, Knights Landing resident

Meet Nancy. Once each week at 4:00 a.m., Nancy makes the drive from her home in Knights Landing to the "Eat Well Yolo" free, fresh food distribution at the Yolo County Fairgrounds in Woodland, often with neighbors or other family members. They can't risk not arriving in time for the food that they need to survive.

As a housecleaner, Nancy's work has been sporadic during the pandemic due to her clients' needs to shelter and isolate. She's filled in with odd jobs, but she isn't predictably able to meet her monthly expenses, including buying the healthy food that she needs. In between visits to this drive-through site, she also accesses food from our "Eat Well Yolo" distribution at the Empower Yolo Knights Landing Resource Center.

Despite her circumstances, however, Nancy never refuses her family or friends in need. In fact, she cooks big meals, because many who are in need come to her for food if they are down on their luck. Nancy's spirit of generosity is inspiring, and your engagement in this spirit advances Yolo Food Bank's ability to ensure food for ALL in Yolo County. To support these efforts, please visit yolofoodbank.org/give.

FEEDING PEOPLE, NOT LANDFILLS An Equitable, Sustainable Local Food System

BY JOY COHAN

Nearly half of all families in Yolo County don't earn enough to meet basic needs. Not only did the pandemic triple the need for food assistance, but it also illuminated the inadequacies of the local food system. At the same time, about 2.2 billion pounds of perfectly good, nutritious food is dumped in landfills every year in California.

Almost 40% of the food produced in our state is never eaten; instead, it's sent to rot in landfills, emitting methane gas, a potent climate super-pollutant. Investing in surplus food recovery feeds people instead of landfills, and slashes climate emissions.

Yolo Food Bank's already robust surplus food recovery program routinely rescues unsold food from grocers, food distributors, and processors to distribute to struggling families. But more can be done to ensure a fair share of our county's bounty for the low-income rural residents who labor in the fields to ensure that our county's agricultural economy thrives, as well as for those struggling to make ends meet amidst rising housing costs in Yolo County's incorporated cities.

Forward-thinking California legislators passed SB 1383 in 2016, which reduces waste and climate emissions while providing food security for those most in need. Beginning January 1, Yolo County and each of its cities are mandated to collect the maximum surplus, edible food possible from grocers and other large-scale food businesses to redirect to a food recovery organization capable of storing and distributing the food to neighbors in need. Yolo Food Bank is working with local officials to embrace the scale and scope of this opportunity and prevent millions of pounds of fresh, healthy food annually from being needlessly thrown in the Yolo County Central Landfill. The new law is the best hope in decades of building a sustainable local food system to provide for the residents most in need in Yolo County.

Substantial support, primarily from private donors such as you, logistically equipped and propelled Yolo Food Bank's recovery and distribution of nearly seven million pounds of recovered surplus edible food to residents in 2020. As the launch of massive mandatory surplus edible food donations approaches in just six months, your support continues to be critical to providing nutrition for children, seniors, farmworkers, and all who deserve a nourished future in Yolo County. Please continue to Nurture Yolo to pandemic resilience at yolofoodbank.org/give. Joy Cohan is the Director of Philanthropic Engagement for the Yolo Food Bank. She can be reached at joy@yolofoodbank.org.

POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call or visit this Internet Web site www.ndscorp.com/sales, using the file number assigned to this case 20-30131-PM-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. The Crocker Art Museum is pleased to announce Monet to Matisse: Masterworks of French Impressionism from the Dixon Galleries and Gardens

The Crocker Art Museum is pleased to announce Monet to Matisse: Masterworks of French Impressionism from the Dixon Galleries and Gardens featuring 50 works by some of the most well-known artists of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, on view from October 3, 2021 through January 9, 2022.

The exhibition boasts significant works of art by the most dynamic artists to work in this period in France, including Claude Monet, Auguste Rodin, Pierre Auguste Renoir, Paul Cézanne, and Henri Matisse. From plein-air landscapes to scenes of modern life in Paris, the exhibition illustrates the radical innovations launched by artists we know today as Impressionists and Post Impressionists.

Georges Hausmann's transformation of the French capital from a chaotic web of medieval streets to a more orderly system of wide, tree-lined boulevards coincided with bustling energy in Paris's many cafés and parks. Keenly observing the new world around them, a group of artists dedicated themselves to "painting modern life" on location to capture a quick impression of a particular moment in nature. Ultimately known as the Impressionists, the artists organized eight exhibitions between 1874 and 1886, changing the course of art history and revolutionizing the way art was viewed in Paris and, eventually, around the world.

The term "Impressionism" was coined by the artist and art critic Louis Leroy, when he witnessed the first of these exhibitions. Focusing on Claude Monet's painting Impression: Sunrise, he reacted to its seemingly unfinished, hazy evocation of the sun reflected on the sea, finding it the epitome of a type of art he disliked. The artists themselves soon embraced the term, branding themselves "Impressionists."

Following these artists, the second generation of younger painters pushed the limits even further. Later known as the Post-Impressionists, they embraced new subjects, invented new pictorial structures, and applied color theory in unexpected ways. These remarkable painters, in turn, set the course of Western art in new directions and laid the groundwork for generations to come, including artists working today.

Alfred Sisley (French, 1839–1899), The Loing at Saint-Mammès, ca. 1880. Oil on canvas, 15 x 22 inches. Dixon Gallery and Gardens; Gift of Montgomery H. W. Ritchie, 1996.2.15

"We are delighted to be able to share this important exhibition of Impressionist art with The public," notes the Crocker Art Museum's Mort and Marcy Friedman Director, Lial A. Jones.

A catalog of the Dixon collection, including a selection of the paintings in the exhibition, is available for purchase in the Crocker Museum Store. Crocker members and visitors will have many opportunities to bring Monet to Matisse to life through a variety of studio classes, events, and public programs. Additional information on each event will be available at crockerart.org/calendar.

Yolo County Health and Human Services Agency Invites Residents to Complete Community Health Status Survey

The Yolo County Health and Human Services Agency, in partnership with CommuniCare Health Centers, Dignity Health, Sutter Health, and Winters Healthcare, has released their three-year Community Health Status Survey and is inviting all Yolo County residents to complete the anonymous survey. The results of the survey will be used to plan for future work in addressing health disparities, barriers to accessing health services, and identifying solutions to the county's most significant health issues.

The survey is part of a larger three-year Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) process that is currently underway among the partners listed above. The CHNA process also includes gathering data from focus groups, key informant interviews, as well as demographic and health data for Yolo County. The CHNA report will highlight the county's top ten most significant health concerns, as well as geographic areas and demographic groups of higher need throughout the county. The report will be available in 2022.

It is essential that as many residents as possible complete the survey, as the voice and perspectives of residents are critical in identifying the county's most significant health issues and barriers to health. The survey is available in English, Spanish, and Russian, using the links below.

Hard copies of the surveys will also be available at all Yolo County Libraries, CommuniCare Health Centers, as well as through outreach events occurring throughout the county in July and August.

Residents can also select to be entered to win one of two $100 gift cards at the end of the survey. Winners will be announced in early September 2021.

The survey will be available for residents to complete through August 25, 2021.

Here are the links to each of the surveys:

Randomized Alphabet Drawing Results for the California Gubernatorial Recall Election

In accordance with Elections Code section 13112(b)(1)(B), the Secretary of State's office conducted a drawing of the letters of the alphabet to determine the randomized alphabet for use in the California Gubernatorial Recall Election. Listed below is the official order of letters for use in determining placement of candidates' names on the ballot.

1. X

2. K

3. T

4. V

5. F

6. N

7. R

8. G

9. J

10. Y

11. Z

12. L

13. M
14. B

15. A

16. Q

17. H

18. D

19. I

20. E

21. P

22. C

23. W

24. S

25. O

26. U

Please note that this alphabet is to be applied THROUGHOUT the candidate's entire last name, so if more than one candidate's surname begins with the same letter, the second letter of the surname determines who goes first, according to where the second letter of the name appears in the randomized alphabet. For example, if two candidates with the surname of Campbell and Carlson are running for the same office, their order on the ballot will depend on the order in which the letters "M" and "R" were drawn in the randomized alphabet drawing. To further ensure fairness in our election process, per Election Code section 13111, the Yolo County Elections Office rotates the ballot order of candidates by State Assembly district for state offices and by supervisorial district for city offices.

water supply. Is our freshwater safe? Sea lions – salt water creatures that they are – have been seen in the river by Discovery Park. Frolicking about the confluence of the American and Sacramento Rivers. I’ve seen them with my own eyes. That confluence is all but right across the street (Light-house before it turns into 5th). Not meaning to be alarmist, but climate change- and vaccine-deniers bring it out in me. I’m also not liking the earthquakes much. Some in Sac say the recent shaking from two pretty big ones was ‘the hardest they’d ever felt.’ People in West Sac felt it, too. I didn’t. Probably slept through it thanks to pain medication I take that lets me sleep. That latest quake (as of July 20) just off our NorCal coast makes me wonder whether earth’s tectonic plates are a bit too busy. If earth could ‘kick up’ fossil rocks it hardened 6-8 billion years ago (see photo and caption), what else might it do? I once rode a mining elevator to the bottom of Lake Erie to do a story on rock salt mined there. It’s used to melt winter ice on Ohio roads. There’s lots of it. Leftover from when my home state was under a shallow inland sea. I have saltwater fossils I found in my farm field. And, in Amish country, I took friends and family several times to Nelson’s Ledges – a collection of geologic features you can picture as submerged reefs and caves. Early Ohio had palm trees. Maybe one day, California will have blizzards and icy roads. Here’s my point. Some researchers say the time will come that only poor and old people who can’t afford to move will populate areas that have become unlivable due to heat. Many experts say we need to get used to ‘novel’ viruses escaping from now clear-cut former jungles, like what’s happening to the rain forest in Brazil. The rain forests, left as God creat-

Share Your Passion for Wildlife with Your Community: Become a Wetland Tour Docent

Yolo Basin Foundation is hosting an upcoming training to become a wetland tour docent for leading and assisting with tours of the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area and the City of Davis Wetlands. The training will take place in the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area on Saturday, September 25, 9 a.m. to noon. Training covers the establishment, significance and management of the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area and the Davis Wetlands, the roles of Yolo Basin Foundation, the Department of Fish and Wildlife and the City of Davis, how to lead or assist on a tour, basic interpretation techniques, and an introduction to wetland habitats and common birds. A tour of each location is part of the training. Being a volunteer tour docent is an excellent way to observe and enjoy the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area and Davis Wetlands regularly while providing an important service to the public unfamiliar with the area. Practice your public speaking skills, increase your knowledge of wetland flora and fauna, and gain experience facilitating public tours! The Volunteer Coordinator supplies tour leads and assistants with a roster of tour participants and the tour kit to lead the tour. To sign up to volunteer and register for the training, visit yolobasin.org/volunteer Monthly tours of the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area are held every second Saturday, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. from October through April and 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. in May and June. People of all ages can tour the nearly 17,000 acre Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area with an experienced field trip leader during these wetland tours and view flooded seasonal and permanent wetlands, native grasslands and young riparian forests. Depending on the season, the tour group may see migrating and resident waterfowl, shorebirds, songbirds, raptors, and wading birds. Occasionally, we see wetland mammals such as river otters, beavers, muskrats, and minks. You can also catch glimpses of frogs, turtles, and snakes sunning themselves or on the move in warmer weather. The more you visit, the more you find and observe! These are guided driving, caravanning tours using walkie talkies for communication and with stops to get out of the car and walk to get a closer view of wildlife. In partnership with the City of Davis, Yolo Basin Foundation offers monthly tours of the Davis Wetlands every first Saturday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. from March through August and 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. from September through February. The Davis Wetlands are managed, native California wetland ecosystems that include oak riparian woodlands and native grasslands. The group will caravan along the hard-packed gravel roads of the auto tour route. Several stops will be made along the way providing guests with a closer look at the many species of birds that use the more than 400 acres of reconstructed wetlands. Tours are limited to 25 people who register in advance for the tour. More information about the local wetland tours and links to register to attend can be found at yolobasin.org/wetlands-tours.
