Confirmed COVID-19 Case at the Yolo County Elections Office

A staff person working in the Yolo County Elections Office tested positive for Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) on Monday, November 9, 2020. This staff person had minimal interaction with Poll Workers but did work with other Elections staff and some election observers. There was limited exposure to Voter Assistance Centers or Yolo County residents and voters. The County’s Contact Tracing team will be working to ensure that those that were in close contact are notified.

The Yolo County Elections Office has been adhering to social distancing and disinfecting protocols and have been requiring all staff and visitors to wear a face covering in compliance with state and local guidance.

Since confirmation of a positive COVID-19 case, the Yolo County Elections Office has enacted the following additional mitigation steps:

- Temporarily limiting Election staff within the office to critical infrastructure to continue the canvass of the 2020 General Election.
- Scheduling deep cleaning for impacted facilities.
- Communicating consistently with Yolo County Public Health.
- Launching contact tracing investigations.
- Sending all staff home who are deemed to have been in close contact with the exposed staff member to self-quarantine and providing testing information.
- Authorizing staff who are deemed non-critical infrastructure to telework for the time being.

Mayoral race still to close to call as Martha takes the lead

BY MICHELE TOWNSEND

COVID-19 has changed every part of our lives in the year 2020. Elections are no exception. People have been able to vote for weeks and have been taking advantage of that. This election you’ve even been able to track your ballot. This has been nice because people have been able to make sure that there were no problems with their ballot. If there were any problems, most people were able to correct the problem, and the vote was then counted. It seems as though the tally of votes should have been easier and processed more quickly considering the election offices have been receiving them for so long. However, according to Bloomberg, the 2020 elections had the highest voter turnout rate since the year 1900 when William McKinley won reelection with a 73.7% turnout. Out of the approximate 239.2 million Americans that were eligible to vote, at least 161 million people voted in the 2020 elections. That’s roughly 66.8%. The Federal results and updates are easy to find on any News channel. Also, they are tallied a little differently than local votes for our home town races. The race for Mayor is a hot and heavy one in West Sacramento. From the beginning of the counting process, the numbers have been extremely close, with the difference in votes swinging one way or the other by less than 150 votes at each update. With roughly 19,000 people voting, that’s pretty impressive.

Yolo County General Election results are updated every Friday. On Friday, November 6th, Mayor Christopher Cabaldon was in the lead with 7,128 votes to his opponent Martha Guerrero 7,006 votes. Counting continued, however, and on Friday, Nov. 13 update, it showed that the front runner had changed, but it remains too close to call.

Mayor Christopher Cabaldon

City Council Member/mayoral challenger Martha Guerrero

As of the most recent update, Martha has pulled ahead of Mayor Cabaldon, but only leads by 137 votes. The current counts were reported to be Martha Guerrero has 8,267 votes and Mayor Christopher Cabaldon at 8,130 votes. The Elections Office has until December

Race and Ethnicity Data Now Available on Yolo County COVID-19 Dashboard

As part of ongoing efforts to provide transparent COVID-19 data to residents, Yolo County has added fields for race and ethnicity on the main COVID-19 dashboard at: www.yolocounty.org/coronavirus-dashboard. The purpose of sharing this data with the public is to better inform residents of COVID-19 in their community. Yolo County joins neighboring counties in reporting this data, including Sacramento, Napa and Solano.

Residents will now see a third row on the main dashboard that toggles between race and ethnicity. Both tabs will show two pie charts, one pie chart showing the breakdown of confirmed COVID-19 cases by race or ethnicity and a second pie chart showing the breakdown of Yolo County’s population by race or ethnicity. There will also be a text box explaining ‘unknowns’ and ‘other’ below the pie charts; ‘unknowns’ are residents who chose not to respond or provide this information during testing or contact tracing efforts and ‘other’ are residents that did not identify with any of the options that were provided. This data is collected voluntarily.

“Across the United States, we have seen COVID-19 disproportionately impacting people of color,” said Yolo County Public Health Officer Dr. Aimee Sisson. “I am pleased that Yolo County is making data on race and ethnicity available to the public so we can begin to have a local conversation about health equity and COVID-19.”

Certain patterns and disparities can be noted by looking at this new data. Such patterns are not unique to Yolo County and can be seen in neighboring counties, throughout California and across the country. The causes of disproportionate COVID-19 cases in certain racial and ethnic groups are multiple and involve social, economic and environmental determinants of health. These determinants include occupation, such as being an essential worker or agricultural laborer, living in poverty or crowded housing, and not having access to health care.

In response to the disparity evident in the data and in recognition of the unique vulnerabilities faced by many residents, Yolo County has implemented multiple efforts to effectively communicate with all residents, including hiring additional Spanish-speaking staff, translating infographics

Colusa, Sutter, and Yolo County Boards of Supervisors Approve Regional Child Support Agency

Over the last week, the Boards of Supervisors of Colusa, Sutter, and Yolo Counties voted to approve a shared memorandum of understanding (MOU) which will create a combined, regional child support agency to serve the three counties.

The counties began exploring the potential of regionalizing the three child support programs in January of 2019 which included a complete examination of the various aspects of child support and department operations. During a time when child support allocations from the State of California have been flat for almost two decades, creating a single child support agency would generate increased efficiencies, cost effectiveness, shared key positions, centralized mail processing, and a consolidated training program. With a more strategic use of resources, the agency will be better able to serve its communities' child support need and continue to provide a high level of customer support and service delivery.

The newly approved agency, titled "The Colusa, Sutter, and Yolo Regional Child Support Agency," begins January 2, 2021. Each of the three counties will retain a physical child support location to ensure easy access by customers.

"This is a wonderful example of government collaboration! I am proud to be part of this process," said Colusa County Administrative Officer Wendy Tyler.

"It's a big step for all three counties and I'm looking forward to seeing its continued development," said Director of the California Department of Child Support Services David Kilgore.

"This is an exciting milestone as we have undertaken a deliberative process including the staff of the three offices, working to design a regional operation that is able to continue to support these three communities," said Director of Colusa, Sutter, and Yolo County Child Support Offices Natalie Dillon.

THIS ‘n’ THAT

About This Year’s Thanksgiving

BY CAROL BOGART

Seriously? Family gatherings OUTDOORS ONLY ... in November? Today, as I write this, it is Nov. 9. We’re under a freeze warning. Overnight temperatures as low as 28 degrees. Thanksgiving is the 26th. Cold mashed potatoes anyone?

But with the new (presuming no successful Supreme Court challenge) administration promising swift action on the pandemic (once our current President is free to play golf full time), further draconian measures likely are in store that will match, or be more restrictive, than are Yolo County’s.

Here’s why. Depending on which side of the Covid dispute you fall, the country is now in its second (or third) wave of this stubborn virus. Denmark, apparently the mink coat capital of the world, has killed millions of ‘farmed’ mink. A mutated Covid strain was detected in its caged minks. (Thinking of getting a ferret? Might think twice.)

Under Biden, get ready, governors nationwide will be informed that masks are not optional, they’re mandatory. Community spread in the U.S., say experts, is the #1 reason we now have one fifth of the Covid-19 infections in the world.

With its many nursing home deaths from Covid, Yolo has released the new rules in a renewed effort to abate the spread. Thus, this Thanksgiving, family gatherings, already limited, are now restricted to no more than 16, including guests. Recommended: Grandma and Grandpa, in fact all older or ‘immuno-compromised’ family members, should stay home, says Yolo Health.

For Thanksgiving and any other get together, here are the updated county rules (and yes, it includes Christmas):

1. No more than 16 people (including guests and hosts) can gather
2. From no more 3 households
3. For up to 2 hours
4. Outdoors only

Just as Yolo’s election counts may change as all mail in ballots are fully counted, so, too, might pandemic measures be adjusted, depending on virus activity here and in California.

Do we like rules? Especially rules we don’t agree with? Of course we don’t. I don’t like staying home from church, which has been meeting outside in numbers much reduced, and there’s no more choir. I loved being in the choir. When the weather worsens, the pastor wants to move back inside. Will the congregation be invited? Likely not. The program, recorded, has been broadcast to those outside, and to those at home (via the church’s website). Only those IN the program are allowed inside. Even the restroom’s monitored. One masked entrant at a time.

But, I get it. This virus can be a killer. Better safe than grieving. I wonder. With new strains circulating, will a vaccine for the first strain be enough?

I have fond memories of long ago Thanksgiving gatherings. As a child, with all my cousins, aunts and uncles at my grandparents’ dairy farm. Home from college, with my brother who brought my niece and nephew. At a fancy restaurant’s Thanksgiving buffet with Mike when he was in college. One year, on my farm, I made Thanksgiving dinner for my brother, Keith, his wife, his youngest son and Mike. Turkey, ham, prime rib. Mashed and sweet potatoes. Green beans from my garden. Rolls. I even made bread pudding from scratch, like my mother made it, because Keith loved it. This, I will tell you, was a herculean feat for one with focus issues. Once the last pan was in the dishwasher, our company headed home, I turned to Mike, said, “OTO,” and then collapsed.

I think, maybe, in West Sac, I’ve put together a Thanksgiving of sorts once. The easy kind. You let Raley’s make it and warm it up.

There is one dish, the recipe for which I found in a magazine in a doctor’s office, I make if I’m invited somewhere. Since that won’t happen this year because of the dumb pandemic, I will share it with you in case you’re interested. I must warn you. It is VERY labor intensive, highly caloric, and once it’s baked, you may need a nap.

SWEET ONION PUD-DING

- 1 C whipping cream
- 1 (3 ounce) pkg shredded parmesan cheese
- 6 lg. eggs lightly beaten
- 3 T all-purpose flour
- 2 T sugar
- 1 t baking powder
- 1 t salt
- ½ C butter or margarine (I use butter)
- 6 med. sweet onions (I use white)

Stir together whip cream, cheese & eggs in lg. bowl. Combine flour and next 3 ingredients: flour, sugar, baking powder. Gradually stir into egg mixture and set aside. Melt butter thoroughly in lg. skillet over medium heat (don’t let it evaporate or burn). Peel the onions down to the sweetest part, then make quarter-inch slices pulled apart (like you would for onion rings). Add the onion slices to the skillet and cook 30-50 minutes or until onions are caramel colored. Stir often. (I use a cast iron skillet that was my mom’s and flip the onions with an egg flipper. Is that a spatula? I can’t remember.) Stir onion into egg mixture, spoon into lightly greased 13x9 baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. (I have a fast oven. I poke it in the center with a fork occasionally. If the fork comes out clean, it’s done). Serves 8. Fewer if they love it. Which they will.

Happy almost Thanksgiving. Stay safe. I’m grateful for you.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder’s office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 916-939-0772 or visit this Internet Web site www.nationwideposting.com, using the file number assigned to this case 131252-5. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. # Korean War vet receives medal for service

BY LANCE ARMSTRONG

Bob Ceccato, who was instrumental in the establishment of a local church, recently received an Ambassador for Peace Medal for his service in the Korean War.

He received the medal during a ceremony hosted by U.S. Rep. Ami Bera, D-Elk Grove, on Oct. 9. The medal is an expression of appreciation from the Korean government to United States service members who served in the Korean War, which occurred from 1950 to 1953.

Also referred to as the “Forgotten War,” the Korean conflict was a war between South Korea, which had the support of the United Nations, mainly the United States; and North Korea, which was backed by China and the Soviet Union.

During the ceremony at Margit and E. Henry Kloss Park in Elk Grove, Ceccato was joined by several members of his family, Bera, South Korean Consulate General Park Joon-yong and other representatives from the Korean Consulate in San Francisco.

Ceccato, 90, told this paper that he was “humbled” by receiving the Ambassador for Peace Medal.

“I’m not one for big celebrations myself,” he said. “I’ve always put myself last. But I’m happy they did (present him the medal), because this is a forgotten war. The only people who knew we were there were our families and close friends. That’s it.

“When we came home, there was no fanfare or what have you. We weren’t given any recognition at all, and I feel that what we did over there preserved the democracies in that area – Japan and Korea.”

Ceccato spoke in greater specifics about his service in that war.

“I was part of the force that entered Korea and worked on their liberation in the north,” he said. “I arrived approximately a year after the war began and I spent the time with some of the earlier arrivals.”

Ceccato mentioned that although he came to Korea with “18 weeks of training to kill,” he was given a separate assignment two days later.

“They called 50 of us out from Northern California, told us to report to the 21st Medical Co.,” he said. “We didn’t know what it was. We thought we were sick or (had) some disease. They said they needed medics. They were going to train us for three weeks.”

Ceccato added that he was assigned to Company L of the 21st Infantry Regiment.

“I was in the second platoon and I was the medic,” he said. “The first time I was called to attend to someone, we were in the dugout under machine gun fire. We were cornered in there, trying to stay alive.”

As for his second assignment, Ceccato said that he “experienced every wound I think in the book that day” in a battle at Old Baldy in west-central Korea.

“(It) was the wounds of our people I was attending to,” he said. “At Old Baldy, the Chinese were bombarding it with artillery, and we had many casualties.

“I was tending to this one person who was badly wounded, and I pulled him across on the wrong side (where) artillery was coming in. I asked for help to pull him in and I couldn’t get any, so I put him on a poncho and drug him across to safety.”

Ceccato said that his time of service during that war was relatively short.

“I got there in June of 1951 (and) I was wounded in October of 1951, and I ended up in a hospital in Japan for a month and (was) transported back here to the states,” he said.

Regarding the injuries he sustained, Ceccato said that they occurred during a mission to capture a prisoner for interrogation.

“On our way there – I’d say 100 (yards), 200 yards out of our area – we were ambushed,” he said. “Mortars were coming in here, here, getting closer and closer. We were backed in.

“I was one of the oldest in our squad. I said, ‘Hell, we’ve got to move ahead with our objective or get the hell out of here, because they’ve got us.’

“By that time, boom! One landed close and I was under water, bleeding. I couldn’t move. Both legs were shot. Mortar – I’m still carrying some of that in my right leg. I haven’t slept on my right side in 60, 70 years.”

Ceccato, who earned the Purple Heart Medal for the wounds he suffered, said that his first day on assignment with the 21st Medical Co. was the only day he was scared.

“After that, you don’t have time to be afraid,” he said. “I can tell you that right now, because I had people’s lives in my hands.”

Having fought in the Korean War, Ceccato noted that he learned a very important lesson.

“Freedom is not free,” he said. “That’s the one thing that I think all of our young people don’t understand. And other items in this world are not free. Somebody has got to pay for them.”

In his postwar years, Ceccato spent 40 years living in South Land Park, beginning in 1972. He lived there with his wife, Josephine, and their four children, who all graduated from John F. Kennedy High School.

Ceccato owned his own business in West Sacramento. It was originally known as West Sacramento Auto Parts.

He mentioned that he ran that store from 1963 to 1975, and then added a business partner, at which time this West Sacramento store became known as Ram Auto Parts.

During the 1970s, Ceccato served as a division chairman in the construction fund drive for St. Anthony Catholic Church’s $1.2 million church and parish at 660 Florin Road in the Pocket area.

Ceccato retired from his business in 2010 and moved to Elk Grove.

One of his favorite things to do during his life was travel throughout the United States. He has visited about 30 states, and believes California is the best place to live.

Asked to summarize his life, Ceccato noted that his life has been good.

“To summarize my life in these 90 years is I’m an optimist,” he said. “I made the best of everything that was thrown at me. I’ve had a good life.”

Yolo County WIOA Funding for Underserved Individuals Impacted by COVID-19 Extended to December 31

Residents impacted by COVID-19 now have until December 31, 2020 to apply for up to $800 in financial assistance through the WIOA Dislocated Worker Funds for Underserved COVID-19 Impacted Individuals program.

The program is administered by the Yolo County Workforce Innovation Board (WIB) and Yolo County Health and Human Services Agency Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) and is funded by the California Employment Development Department and the Labor & Workforce Development Agency. The original deadline was September 30, 2020 but has now been extended through December 31, 2020.

The program will provide up to $800 per person for basic needs such as housing and utility assistance, childcare and transportation costs. In addition, funding assistance for equipment needed for teleworking along with digital services for Wi-Fi access may be available for workers in some areas.

Individuals must meet all the eligibility requirements, including:

- Working as a caregiver for someone who is subject to quarantine
- Caring for children because of school closure or closure of other childcare provider
- Being at higher risk of getting seriously ill from COVID-19; or living with someone who is higher risk, as outlined on the California Department of Public Health COVID-19 website
- Required to telework, but does not have the necessary equipment for supportive services assistance

Additional information on the program can be found at the program's FAQs. Individuals can apply by calling: (530) 661-2710 or (916) 375-6331 and leaving a voicemail with contact information and staff will reply within 24 hours (Monday – Friday, 8:00 am – 4:00 pm). Individuals can also be connected to a WIOA Case Manager by emailing: WIO-Aprogram@yolocounty.org. This is the result of initiatives Governor Gavin Newsom announced in April 2020 to support California's workers impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Local veteran helps other veterans regain hearing

Local resident, Dick Shultz, a 72-year-old Navy veteran, will be celebrating his five-year hearing anniversary on Nov. 17. Dick suffered from hearing loss for over 25 years, and in 2015, after hearing aids no longer were providing the hearing support needed, he opted to receive a cochlear implant. The cochlear implant has brought him into the world of sound, according to Dick, who now spends his time helping other veterans in similar situations. More than 2.7 million veterans suffer from hearing loss.

When Dick enlisted in the U.S. Navy, he began his career in the reserves working with submarines. After graduating from college, he joined the U.S. Naval Aviation and flew as a Tactical Coordinator. He served two times in Vietnam during the late 1960's and later transferred to a special operations unit which dealt with torpedo development and testing.

Dick, now retired, frequently attends speaking engagements at both veteran meetings and service club meetings to explain what to do when hearing aids are not enough, and helps answers any questions others may have about cochlear implants.

Autumnal beauty abounds on the American River

Saturday, Nov. 14 was a particularly photogenic day at the American River Parkway. Using the Gristmill access, head downstream about a half mile and you will see birders regularly taking in the sights and sounds.

2nd, 2020 to certify the final count. However, those watching the race closely are hoping for a final count next Friday (November 20, 2020). The News-Ledger reached out to find out how community members are feeling about the election at this point. Here are some of the responses to the most recent update:

“Whoa, that’s great. Organized labor is all for her” – Harry Heinz

“I am very excited to see Martha in the lead! I’m remaining cautiously optimistic that she will be our new Mayor or so as not to jinx anything! Martha loves our city and is vested in the people who live here. West Sacramento would be lucky to have Martha Guerrero as our mayor if that is the final result.” – Tiffany McFaddin

“Yay!! I hope she wins” – Tina Ortiz

“I want the Mayor to win” – Sabrina Gutierrez

“I voted for Martha but if Christopher wins I won’t be mad. I guess I’m saying it’s a toss-up.” – Bill Villanueva,

“This was a close election and we’ll have to wait for the final tally to get an outcome. Regardless of who is the winner, voters have clearly questioned the status quo and maybe indicating they are ready to move forward in a new direction.” – Joe DeAnda into Spanish, Russian and Chinese, and collaborating with local and regional partners on advertising and education. The County has also made regular free testing available across the county targeting vulnerable populations, among other ongoing efforts. Yolo County remains committed to addressing the unique needs of every community during the COVID-19 crisis.

“This new dashboard feature will enable the public to track local COVID-19 cases by race and ethnicity,” said Chair of the Yolo County Board of Supervisors Gary Sandy. “We now know that COVID-19 has disproportionately affected commonly under-represented groups with lower access to healthcare, inadequate housing and language barriers. This new addition to our data sets will enable observers to more closely trace the impact of the virus in these communities.”

Residents of every community are urged to remain informed and comply with all public health rules and guidance, especially limiting social gatherings, wearing face coverings, physically distancing and regularly washing their hands with soap and water or using hand sanitizer.

Free COVID-19 Testing at Elica Health Center

In partnership with Elica Health Centers, Yolo County Public Health is offering free Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) testing for residents through November 30th (Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays ONLY) from 8 a.m. to noon at the Elica Health Center, located at 1276 Halyard Drive in West Sacramento.

Participants must be residents of Yolo County and will need to bring proof in the form of a document displaying their name and address, such as a driver’s license, ID card, utility bill, or rental agreement. This testing location is first come, first served until tests run out. This location is free for all ages who have no insurance and residents with active Medi-Cal accounts can also be tested at this site with no out of pocket cost. Registration is recommended in order to speed up the process but is not required and does not guarantee a test. When residents register online, they will not be able to select a time slot and will not receive a confirmation of receipt. Register at: <https://www.avellinocoronatest.com/patient>.

This is not antibody testing; this is to test if individuals currently have COVID-19. Residents must wear a face covering and practice social distancing. This location is not a drive-thru so residents will need to park their car and walk a short distance to the tent, however residents with handicap placards may be able to park in designated handicap parking spots and be tested from their vehicle. An outdoor medical tent will be set up in the lot at Elica Health Center.

Test results typically come back within a week of receipt from the lab. There may be some delays in getting testing results due to high demand and backlog statewide. For more information about Elica Health Centers visit: <https://www.elicahealth.org/>. Residents can call Yolo 2-1-1 for resource information.
