

Council member Martha Guerrero announces candidacy for West Sacramento Mayor

Community leader and current member of the City Council, Martha Guerrero announced her candidacy for Mayor of West Sacramento on July 8. Guerrero is a 16-year resident of West Sacramento with over two decades of experience in public policy and governmental administration. She has served on numerous boards focusing on community support and has loaned her time and expertise to many local civic organizations and has taken a turn as chair of the West Sacramento Planning Commission.

Guerrero stated: “As a longtime resident of West Sacramento, I am excited to announce my campaign for Mayor. I am so fortunate to live in this city and it has been an honor to be a part of promoting strong economic growth, stable government infrastructure leading to enhanced quality life outcomes for all. Community engagement has always been key to my leadership, and through this campaign, I pledge to continue that tradition meeting with both residents, businesses and civic leaders to build a stronger West Sacramento together.”

Guerrero has served on the City Council since 2018, and also serves as Vice-Chair of the Yolo Habitat Conservancy Board, Regional Water Agency Board, Yolo Subbasin Sustainable Groundwater Agency Board, League of Cities Transportation, Communication and Public Works Policy Committee. She has also served as past Chair of the West Sacramento Planning Commission. Prior commission and council appointments include: Yolo County Local Mental Health Board, Universal Pre-School for West Sacramento (UP4WS) Advisory Council, Yolo County Citizens’ Advisory Transportation Committee, West Sacramento Aging Commission, and the Economic Development Advisory Commission.

Councilmember Guerrero, a Licensed Clinical

Social Worker, earned her Bachelor’s Degree in Social Work from California State University, Los Angeles. She went on to obtain her Master’s Degree in Social Work from the University of Southern California. She serves on the Centennial Rotary Club and the University of Southern California Sol Price School of Public Policy-Sacramento Board, and has recently served on the National Association of Social Workers’ Board.

Guerrero has been working to build consensus and create solutions through over 20 years as a policy advocate enhancing her skill set in the areas of strategic planning, public administration, and legislative and budget analysis. Working at the local, state and federal level of policy development have provided a deeper understanding of key leadership areas such as strategic employment and growth opportunities for disadvantaged populations, increased protections for vulnerable populations such as children, the elderly, people with disabilities, increased access to health insurance, expanding services to combat homelessness, and improved access to early education. Promoting self-sufficiency for those that have experienced long-term unemployment and homelessness, she has also lent her time and expertise to community based organizations such as Turning Point Community Programs providing mental health services in the greater Sacramento area.

Man Convicted in 1996 Davis Hostage Case is Denied Parole

On July 16, 2020, a two-commissioner panel of the Board of Parole Hearings denied parole to 49-year-old Ronald Martin who was sentenced to prison for 33 years and 4 months in 1997. The hearing commissioners were Deborah San Juan and Teresa Meighan. The hearing took place at California State Prison at Solano in Vacaville, California.

On February 22, 1996, Martin entered the Davis Food Co-op armed with handguns and forced employees into the cooler. He and his accomplice demanded that the manager open the store safe. Martin discovered that officers had arrived and attempted to leave the business through the rear door. He began firing at officers when he was confronted at the rear of the store. In an attempt to avoid the police, then Martin used the store employees as human shields, herding them outside a rear exit attempting to protect himself from officers. He threatened to kill the employees if not allowed to pass. Martin subsequently released the employees and fled into

VFW at risk of permanent closure

BY MICHELE TOWNSEND

On Sunday, July 12, West Sac Veterans of Foreign War (VFW) Post 8762 suffered another bout of vandalism. In the last 12 months, VFW’s outside water pipe has been vandalized 15 times. According to the video surveillance, it appears to be happening by transients trying to have access to water.

Each time it occurs the building has suffered extensive water damage. Sunday’s incident was no exception. The pipe was broken by a man wanting to take a shower. It was then left spraying water into the air for seven hours. The pipe is located inside of a locked, fenced yard. The members of the post have enclosed the pipe with a wooden cover, and have even built a metal cage around the pipe to protect it. The wooden cover was torn apart and the cage was ripped out of the wall, leaving a big hole in the outside wall. VFW has even tried leaving the water on so that people had access, but it still got vandalized. This has been just another blow to trying to keep the VFW alive. With COVID closures, the VFW is yet another establishment trying to keep from going bankrupt.

Prior to COVID closures, the VFW’s monthly expenses generally totaled around $23,000. This is for all expenses. Those expenses are not only for the overhead, but they also covered the cost of aid to veterans for things such as temporary housing, food, bills, medicine, car repairs, etc. The bar, the meals and the hall rental have done pretty well on covering the expenses, but with the COVID closures most of that income is lost. VFW 8762 has still been preparing meals Monday thru Friday. That has been the only income. However with no water, that came to a halt. Since COVID closures the monthly expenses have been shaved

Sutter Health Park and River Cats to host Giants Taxi Squad

2020 Minor League season canceled but baseball still to be played in Sacramento.

Recently, Minor League Baseball (MiLB) announced that Major League Baseball (MLB) would not be providing its affiliated Minor League teams with players for the 2020 season. As a result, the minor league baseball season was officially canceled. The Sacramento River Cats will have to wait until the 2021 season to begin their Triple-A Championship defense.

In addition, the Giants announced today that they would be sending their “Taxi Squad” players to Sacramento for workouts and scrimmages. Similar to a minor league team, the “Taxi Squad” would be a group of roughly 30 players who are working out in order to contribute to the Major League club if injuries or other situations arise where a player would need to be called up. It would also allow teams to play their top prospects, so they do not lose valuable developmental time.

“Baseball is back!” Exclaimed River Cats general manager, Chip Maxson. “Just like our fans, we

THIS ‘n’ THAT Suicide: Permanent Solution to a Temporary Problem

BY CAROL BOGART

He left new track shoes behind. And what looked like a soccer shirt. In one pocket, a small, still-playing, radio. A jogger, noting the belongings on Tower Bridge, and called 9-1-1.

Ace Young, a retired journalist, walks his dog daily across the bridge and was present as police arrived. Within 15 minutes, West Sac search and rescue (DART) combed the Sacramento River. With no trace of the jumper and no ID, Sac police told Young the report would be filed as a missing person.

Seeing the size of the shoes and shirt, Young assumed the jumper was a man. In a NextDoor post, he wondered: “If I’d gotten there 10 minutes earlier ... ? When I crossed the bridge the other way, did I pass him?” His post concluded, “... in this COVID-19 era, I would urge any and all to reach out to others who may be struggling.”

Young’s post struck a chord with many. One shared the death of her friend of 30 years. “A strong man,” she said. “Great sense of humor.”

Until the pandemic-forced restrictions. His wife told her he “missed playing handball.” It was the pandemic, said his long-time friend. He just couldn’t it. This month, he committed suicide.

And here’s one, too. An area combat vet who’d lost both legs and counseled other veterans. Then came the Stay Home order. No more ‘group’ meetings. No social interaction. “He killed himself,” my friend told me. “One bullet to the head.” He lost his purpose.

Door-to-Door: Fantasy Islands

BY PAT LYNCH

My sister and I be-moaned our plight, sequestered as we are because of the skyrocketing numbers of Covid infected. Horrendous surges are everywhere.

“Now we’re going to be banned in the EU,” she says. “Because we can’t control our spreaders. Because they crowd the streets and won’t wear masks. I wish we could deport them all to their own islands.”

White Pride Island. Imagine. They could have their own capitol, Gunville. They could stride around being white, armed, carrying signs: White is Might. Pallid is Valid. Pale is Hale. Pasty is Tasty. They could wear Confederate flag shirts and those god-awful red hats.

On a nearby island, KKK Island, Klan officials could parade in their flowing gowns and pointy hoods, displaying their fanciest ribbons and insignia, unaware that they look life-size garden gnomes. Nearby, White Pride islanders could shoot off fireworks and guns to salute the KKK and to celebrate everybody’s lack of the melanin pigment. They could have Wallow in Whiteness Day with freckle counting contests, white bread sandwiches, vanilla milkshakes and cottage cheese. Yum.

There should be a place for everybody, don’t you think?

There are over 500,000 islands on Earth, some of which the U.S. happens to own. It makes sense to export our citizenry to our own territories. Eileen and I will remain on the Mainland, wearing our masks, staying home, waiting for the soaring infection rate to subside. “We’re the Mother-ship,” she says. “We supply the islanders. We’re like parents. We let the kids rebel but we watch over them.”

She’s a better parent than I. I think these people are loutish and stunted, and am glad to ship them off. Now will the islands be as bare and miserable as the concentration camps we have for immigrant kids? No. Eileen won’t let me.

No Vax Island will be a noisy place where suffering children moan and whimper while other children, not yet manifesting their diseases, rampage, screeching, through the village. Mass contagion is the goal here. The anti-vaxers think vaccines give kids Autism so they’re not hoping for a breakthrough Covid vaccine next winter. They hate vaccines. They let their kids “catch everything” so they can get over it. Therefore their kids can get Measles, Mumps, Chicken-pox, Small-pox (yes, they’re bringing back Smallpox), Tetanus, HPD, Hepatitis B, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria and Polio. You can see why this whole batch of humans need to be on an island.

Dr. Fauci says their anti-vax influence may dilute the effect of a future vaccine for the rest of us, making it only 75 percent effective. So this gullible, hysterical minority may usher in many more Covid fatalities. Plainly we need to ship them off. They’ll stay busy on their island while their sick children writhe through their diseases and the parents scheme how to get the survivors in our public schools.

Conspiracy Island will be near No Vax Island, but not near enough for wind borne Diphtheria pathogens to threaten the conspiracy-minded (tough they won’t believe that). And since current conspiracy theories undermine our efforts to battle Covid with masks and distancing, conspiracists have to go. Chief amongst them will be Judy Mikovits, maker of the absurd video, Plandemic. Plandemic, as described by the New York Times, “wrongly claimed that a shadowy elite” (for “shadowy elite” read, scientists, journalists, medical researchers and physicians) exploited Covid and a potential vaccine to enrich themselves. This brew of falsehoods “went from a niche conspiracy video to a mainstream phenomenon.” It was especially effective for people who don’t like to (or can’t) read their misinformation, but can grasp it presented as a movie. Anyway, the Plandemic video stirred up a frenzy amongst the conspiracy minded, and they took to the streets and airways to orate against measures to control Covid.

You may wonder why the same people are always drawn to conspiracy constructs. Psychologist John Grohol, PhD, says conspiracists tend to “have lower levels of analytic thinking” and a “need for uniqueness” which makes them susceptible to a conspiratorial interpretation of events. Their conspiratorial notions enable them to feel smarter and better informed than the rest of us. Psychologists have also noted narcissism and a touch of grandiosity in their fevered presentations. So imagine them on the island, all together, all talking at once, exhaling their Covid particles on one another’s unmasked faces. It’s too bad. But better there than here.

Finally, Halleluiah Island. This is my fave. This is where all the Evangelical mega-church peeps will go. Their pastors and faith healers (not one of whom has laid hands on a Covid sufferer and produced a miracle cure) will go too. They’ll all trudge to a big island near Alaska where it gets cold. But no worries, they can huddle together and sing hymns around the fire. Will there be bears? I say yes. Gay bears. Hungry gay grizzlies. Then we’ll see how they pray the gay away.

The pastors of these congregations are financially well off and live in mansions. Yet few of them have donated one cent to Covid relief. Joel Osteen, for example. He’s worth a hundred million. How much has his Christian compassion inspired him to give? Nada. He wouldn’t even open his remodeled church (worth another 100 million coughed up by parishioners) to the destitute after Hurricane Harvey. How about Franklin Graham, son of the late Billy Graham? Franklin thinks God wants Trump to rule and likely imagines God, like Trump and himself, to be a white supremacist. On Halleluiah Island all the preachers and their followers will huddle around bonfires by day and sleep in huts at night, ever alert for the scratch of claws.

On the Mainland we’ll shelter in place, keep a 6 to 8-foot distance, stay informed, help others—all the while at potential risk of 100,000 people per day catching the virus (Fauci, CNN). All this because our racists, anti-vaxers, conspiracists and religious fundamentalists were joined by bar-hoppers, sun worshipers and GOP governors who closed their states too late and opened too soon. So we’re going to have to have some new islands. The bar crowd and the sun crowd will go north and they’ll have to bring their own booze because we’re not serving. They’ll have to bring their own sun too because it’s cold on those melting arctic ice-burgs. The Guvs will go to an island filled with hefty predators. Eileen says this is harsh, but how else are they going to learn to scurry up trees screaming for help?

Peril is humbling. It’s instructive too. Time they learned.

Garden guru shares advice on gardening with children

BY MONICA STARK

Plant whatever brings you joy. I read that book and I like the title, but the very idea is problematic since planting anything is wrought with the opposite of joy – horrible sinus pain.

Give me my Benadryl, a glass of wine, draw a bath and I'll see you in the morning.

When toilet paper became a rare commodity due to the corona, I freaked out and became a TP hoarder. I even joked on Facebook about how I use a roll a day to keep the boogers at bay. I had folks volunteering to make me hankies!

Sometimes my allergies actually make me sad because I want to be that mom, the one with the beautiful victory garden tended to with help from her 8 year old daughter. You, know, that Waldorf mom who also likes crafts and could sew her own darn hankies (and Covid-19 face masks, which could also be helpful with the allergies when gardening, I suppose). When I think of my dear mom friend (and friend in general) Sara Bailey I have an image of her wearing her gardening shoes, hat and gloves while her two children play in the dirt and watch the grass grow. She is that mom who plants joy at school. She's also my friend whose children sewed me some hankies and gave me a packet of harvested sunflower seeds. Sunflowers do bring me joy. She must have known. Afterall, Sara has two children and runs the garden program at our children's school.

Over the phone she explained the Mexican Sunflowers are easy to grow; even children have success with them. Excellent.

Also a community seed-sharer, Sara saved seeds from last year's harvest, including Mexican Sunflower, to basil, squash, pole and bush beans beans, making for neighborly exchanges during the quarantine. "Some were from seeds I saved and some were from friends and family that we exchanged with. I planted so many seeds, so I had so many to share. It was one thing we could do – share. That was like 'eleventy' years ago. It feels like 400 years ago we were planting seeds."

Her expertise working with children in the garden has grown over the years. Sara says Soil Born Farms in Rancho Cordova has helped instruct grown-ups, like herself, on how to explain plants to them. She learned that teaching kids how their hands are tools and how they can use them in the garden have born fruitful results. And, planting different size seeds requires specific handling; you can plant that one seed with your finger. "Otherwise you end up with 4 million seeds all over the place, which happens anyway, and that's totally fine. That's all part of it," she says.

If you actually want to get some gardening done, Sara recommends having a clear plan and supplies at the ready. That said, sometimes it's best not to have a plan and be more open-ended and ask them to use their senses to see what's there. "That doesn't have to be so structured. It's a balance of figuring out what needs to get done and what makes sense to do with kids and just having it really planned out."

Bringing her to a total let-go of control, Sara said gardening with children will never be the way you planned it in your head no matter how much planning you do. So much of it is going with the flow. For instance, when they ask questions, she doesn't always answer them. Rather, she lets their curiosity stay in that zone and asks them what they think.

While children at the school always ask to grow carrots, Sara advises against it. "It's not that I don't do carrots with kids – they're just hard. They don't germinate really easily and they take forever to grow." On the flip-side, radishes although aren't typically a crowd-pleasing vegetable, Sara likes to plant them with children because of how quickly they germinate. "In a short amount of time, you will have radishes, which is not a thing kids necessarily love. If you cut them up and offer them to a bunch of kids, and a couple of them like them, then more kids will try them. They are just fun to do because they happen really fast."

Additionally, she says sweet peas are fun and any type of squash are great because they grow really fast. Sometimes things in school gardens you have to think about because things like summer squash and tomatoes do most of their growing in the summer when kids aren't there. On the other hand, pumpkins are great if someone on campus can do the watering over the summer. So, in theory when the kids return to school, they have pumpkins.

One of her favorite things to plant with children is borage, an annual that re-seeds itself easily. "They have awesome purplish blue flowers on them and you can pop the flower off; it's edible and tastes almost like a cucumber. Some people make tea with them. They don't take up a lot of space and they're super fun. That's one people don't know a lot about and they're cool."

Sara says that when she's at school she notices big differences in some children's behavior when they get a chance to go outside. "When you're at a school in your classroom, these walls are around you. Outside, you get to see a different part of kids. There are kids if you are sitting next to them and not looking at them and you're just digging in the dirt together, they will talk to you. You could spend a lot of time in the classroom with them and not ever hear from them directly. The garden is a really safe place for kids to be who they are. There is something for every kid. There's something that they're good at. There are some kids that are really great at ripping out weeds, some who like heavy lifting, and there's things that are more finesse like weeding in between the teeny tiny flowers."

Sara says there's a place for everybody in the garden. Perhaps there's hope.

This ‘n’ That

Maybe you’re worried a loved one is feeling hopeless, or you have Covid-induced depression? In hopes this helps you, here’s what I learned when, at age 19, I wanted to die so tried to kill myself.

I was 14 and already troubled when I lost my favorite uncle and my grandma. A Catholic friend told me suicide was the only unforgivable sin, so I started asking God to please let me die in my sleep. Another and perhaps the biggest factor: back then, ADHD had not been labeled. As far back as I could remember, I was ‘difficult’ – for my parents, teachers, camp counselors – and especially me.

By 19, I had no self-esteem.

Away at college, I lost my bearings. I couldn’t think of a single I cared about. I just felt nothing. I called my mom and said, “Mom, I need help.”

The psychiatrist I started seeing weekly prescribed antidepressants and valium. He told me to avoid serious relationships for at least a year.

Back home for the summer, I met and dated a nice young man. But he started getting serious. So, I ended it. Wanted to hug him as, shoulders slumped, he walked away to his car.

The next day, to keep my mind off Jerry, I took the dogs to the river, rammed around a bit then came back home. Mom was waiting for me at the door and said, “Come sit down.” Her expression filled me with foreboding. Mom handed me the paper. When Jerry left me the night before, he’d gone by himself to Marblehead. That’s where we always went to talk: sitting on the rocks, looking out across Lake Erie.

The story didn’t say all that, of course. Only that, coming back, he took the route that passed my parents’ farm. CR 6. At night, a dark and lonely road. Why his speeding car ran off the road, crossed a field and slammed into a tree, no one could say. But I knew. I knew I’d killed him.

For three days, all I did was cry.

At 19, you don’t know agony won’t last forever. I couldn’t take it another day. I swallowed what was left of my own prescriptions, then all of dad’s Phenobarbital. Hoping God would forgive me because I loved little kids and animals, I yearned for heaven. To see my grandma and my Uncle Chuck. To tell Jerry I was sorry.

To wait for death, I went deep into the Catalpa grove to lean against a tree. Nothing happened. The bark was rough; the ground was sticks and rocks; I was uncomfortable and going unconscious took too long. So I went back inside and laid down on my bed. If mom looked in, I thought, she’ll just think that I’m sleeping.

Complication. The pills, interacting with each other, played havoc with my stomach. Mom, downstairs in the kitchen, heard me screaming. The ambulance came but I was already blue, she said. For three days, she sat vigil by my bedside. She was told my chances were 10 percent and, if I woke up, I might try again.

I didn’t. My first thought was, “God has a plan for me. He must, if I tried this hard but didn’t die. I don’t know what it is right now, but, in time, I will.” And then, I saw my poor mother’s haunted eyes. We both cried as I said, “I’m sorry, mom.”

And here’s what I learned from my failed suicide attempt: When I’m down, I shift my focus to things that lift my spirits. I’m confident there will always be love and beauty, joy and laughter. Look now for ways to have ‘purpose’ in a post-Covid world. And keep the faith: This too shall pass.

Feeling hopeless? Call the national suicide hotline 1-(800)-273-8255 or visit Suicideispreventable.org. Do you worry someone you love is on the brink? Experts say, just ask them: “Are you thinking of killing yourself?” The answer ‘yes’ is a mental health emergency. Call 9-1-1 and ask for a welfare check. We have to accept we can’t change what we can’t control, but retain our faith that God can. Questions, comments? Contact Carol at carol@bogartonline.com.

Parole

an adjacent residential neighborhood. An extensive search was conducted, and the Martin was found hiding in a backyard by the Davis Police Department Swat Team at 2:30 a.m. He entered into a negotiated plea of no contest to seven felony counts and admitted personal use of a firearm in connection with each offense. Martin, based on his plea bargain was sentenced to the California Department of Corrections for a term of 33 years, 4 months. His accomplice has never been apprehended.

The hearing took three hours and after the commissioners deliberated Commissioner San Juan stated that Martin would still pose a continued risk to public safety should he be released from prison. Commissioner San Juan told Martin that his insight was cursory, his conduct in prison evidenced lingering problems with anti-social activity, he lacked self-control and he hadn’t developed the tools to avoid returning to prison, if released.

Yolo County Chief Deputy District Attorney Jonathan Raven represented the Yolo District Attorney’s Office at the hearing by Skype conference, due to the COVID-19 crisis.

District Attorney Jeff Reising commented on the parole denial: “This was an atrocious crime that has no doubt caused severe emotional damage to these victims. Our office is committed to representing the interests of victims’ families and public safety at these parole hearings, and when it’s appropriate we argue against the release of inmates who are a danger to the public.” Martin will be eligible for parole again in 2027.

VFW Closure

down to about $8,000 per month. With these cuts, VFW is now only able to help veterans in need with life sustaining items.

With already struggling and having to draw off of their emergency fund, these new repair costs have put 8762 in the position that they are looking at having to permanently closing their doors in two months. They need your help! Commander James Brasher appeared on Channel 10 and FOX news and they have started to get a little help but need a lot more. The pipes are now fixed and meals are available again. But the challenge of how to prevent this from happening again is still a problem. VFW is working on starting a GoFundMe page. In addition, you can make donations by pushing the “donate” button on their web page www.vfwpost8762.org. They are also trying to get a donate button working on their Facebook page, but for now there is a link to their Paypal account. You can also donate directly to their Paypal account. James said “I just want to thank the people that have already stepped up. This town is wonderful when it comes to helping our community. It always amazes me.”

If you are interested in purchasing dinners cooked by UnChu, you can find the menu at VFW Post 8762 on Facebook. It changes daily. All you need to do is call (916) 371-7245 and order your meal. If nobody answers, leave your name, how many meals you want and your phone number and somebody will call you back. They are doing curbside pick up only and you can pay with cash or card. If you are not familiar with the VFW, it is an organization that offers help and camaraderie to veterans and their families by veterans and their families. And if you have a little money burning a hole in your pocket since all of the other local fundraising has been canceled, this is a good and worthy place to spend it.

Prior to any workouts, the River Cats and Giants are collaborating on a COVID-19 Action Plan, consistent with the MLB 2020 Operations Manual, that sets a guideline for the efficient and effective response to a suspected case of COVID-19 during the 2020 baseball season.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF NATIVIDAD CHACO WILLIAMS CASE NO: PB20-128

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of:
Natividad Chaco Williams
A Petition for Probate has been filed by Edith Marie Beal in the Superior Court of California, County of YOLO. The Petition for Probate requests that Edith Marie Beal be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows:

Date: September 1, 2020
Time: 9:00 a.m. Dept: 10

Address of court: Superior Court of California, County of Yolo 1000 Main Street, Woodland, California 95695.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to your of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
