

RCHS Senior Athletes Reflect on 2020

BY ALAND HOERMANN
AND CHAR GHIO

The fall and winter athletes from River City had their chance to represent as Raiders. Many of them found success.

The girls tennis team made it to the Sac Joaquin Section playoffs as they always seem to do. The football team had a 3 game winning streak during a season with a very difficult schedule. Both water polo teams made section playoffs. The cross country team was growing in numbers and improving times. Boys soccer, girls volleyball, and the basketball teams all competed with spirit.

The girls soccer team had an electric season, winning their second straight league championship and making it to the section semi-finals.

The wrestling team reached historic success, finishing undefeated Metro League champions as a team and celebrated senior wrestler Michelle Kamyshin placing 3rd in states.

The seniors on these teams were able to share the spotlight and give thanks to their families during halftime and pregame ceremonies, exchanging roses and hugs on the field, the courts and the pool deck. A moment to recognize that behind every senior athlete are the families and friends that made it all possible, the ultimate cheering section.

Then the world changed. Suddenly, high school athletes across the country and across the world learned that the spring sports that they had spent so much time and effort preparing for were now cancelled.

Some of these sports had just begun their regular seasons when the school closures came while some were just about to begin. The boys tennis team was 5-0 after the doubles team of Carson Cook and Darien Pham, both seniors, clinched RC's 5 to 4 win over Rocklin in the ninth and final match of the day. That was March 12th and nobody could have known that it would end up being the last match of the season and their last chance to compete as a Raider.

The swim team had been in the weight room since January and diving into the pool since February in chilly morning and after school practices. They had completed 2 meets against Laguna Creek and Kennedy, coaches were working with swimmers to improve their times in preparation for the league championship meet. Their last practice ended up being March 13th.

"I was deeply disappointed," said senior swimmer Kylie O'Hara. "I was really looking

New Vic Fazio Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area sign installed

Next time you drive east on Interstate 80, before you cross the Yolo Causeway, be sure to look for the brand-new sign that was installed on May 22, 2020. The sign displays the logos of the many Yolo Basin partners who worked together towards the establishment of the Vic Fazio Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area. The original sign was destroyed during a big wind storm in the winter of 2017. "Yolo Basin Foundation is pleased to be able to honor former Congressman Vic Fazio by installing the new sign. His legacy lives on through the thousands of people who visit the 16,800-acre Vic Fazio Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area each year and the hundreds of species of birds and other wildlife that call it home," stated Bill Ziebron, Yolo Basin Foundation Board Chair.

Ducks Unlimited provided the new sign design. Manufacture and installation of the sign was made possible through funding from California Department of Water Resources, California State Water Contractors Association, and Kathy Sawyer, wife of Vic Fazio.

Establishing the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area was achieved through a unique partnership of many private and public entities. In 1990, Yolo Basin Foundation was founded as a community based organization to assist in the establishment of the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area. Congressman Vic Fazio was instrumental in establishing the Yolo Basin Wetlands Project, a project of the Army Corps of Engineers (ACOE), in the early 1990s. The

THIS 'n' THAT The Civil War Remembered

BY CAROL BOGART

As I write this, it's Memorial Day. My flag is flying, in honor of those who died in service to our country and their families. This year, flags are flying at half mast, not only for our military, but also America's many front line responders who've lost their lives to Covid 19.

I realize that by the time this publishes, the legal holiday will long be over, and the big news may be how partial reopening of, for example, churches, could mean a surge in Covid cases. Since as of today's date, May 25, I can't know that yet, instead I'll tell you about my ancestors who served in the Civil War.

Adam Fell and Eben Root, both sons of immigrants from Scotland, served as Union soldiers from Ohio. Adam, captured by Confederate troops, was delivered to Andersonville Prison at Camp Sumter, Georgia with his regiment. The prison – opened in 1864 and closed in 1865 – became notorious for the suffering of the prisoners. As the war wound down, Union ships blockaded southern ports. With supply lines cut off, Andersonville's Union POWs starved. In just 14 months, more than 13,000 died – 40 percent of the Union's casualties.

Adam Fell survived, but barely. Little more than a living skeleton when he came home from the war, his anguished but grateful mother prepared all his favorite dishes. Adam ate 'til he could eat no more.

His starved body simply couldn't handle so much food. To his mother's horror, her beloved son died. An uncoun- ted Andersonville casualty. Buried in Ohio, Adam was the brother of my great-grandmother.

Eben Root, my great-grandfather, also served as a Union soldier, but seemed to have come through the war unscathed. He married Adam's sister, Jemima

OBITUARY

Rosemary Alice Morris Pommells

Rosemary Alice Morris Pommells, a longtime resident of West Sacramento, peacefully passed away from respiratory failure at the age of 91, on Monday, May 25, 2020. Rosemary, more commonly known as Rosie, passed away on one of her favorite days for patriotic celebration, Memorial Day. She was born in Cleveland, Ohio to the late Odus Glen Morris and Ilo Martha Silcott Morris on June 7, 1928.

She was predeceased by her only sister, Corinne Bonar of Hartville, Ohio.

Rosemary was a graduate of West Technical High School in Cleveland, Ohio in 1946 and proud recipient of her B.S. Degree in Education in 1949 from Kent State University in Kent, Ohio.

Rosemary settled in California in 1950 after a cross country bus trip leaving her hometown of Cleveland, Ohio.

Rosemary married Lyndon Pommells on July 18, 1958 in Lakeport, CA and they divorced in 1970. Together they had three daughters.

Fond memories of Rosemary include her trombone freezing in parades during her winters in Ohio, her participation, along with her beloved father, during World War II planting a Victory Garden, participating in scrap metal drives and writing to our military soldiers during the wartime, thus instilling her lifelong love of our veterans and military history.

One of her proudest moments was being selected as a Fullbright recipient where she was selected to teach for a year on an exchange basis at a rural school in Folkestone, England. As part of this experience, she was invited to have tea with the Queen's Mother at Buckingham Palace in London. This was a fond memory she never grew tired of sharing with others!

Rosemary worked as a teacher for 30 years in the Washington Unified School District beginning her teaching career at Elkhorn Village School and also teaching at Evergreen and retiring from Westfield Elementary School in West Sacramento.

Rosemary truly lived life to the fullest enjoying simple pleasures; reading about current events, military history, people-past and present, and when she was younger, traveling! Some of her favorites destinations included Washington D.C., Civil War battle sites and Ohio.

Rosemary was a long term patron of the West Sacramento Arthur Turner Library. Retired librarian, Gail Stovall, fondly remembers Rosemary as insatiably curious with a phenomenal memory who loved her family.

She is survived by three daughters, seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren. A memorial service will be held on Sunday, June 7 at 11:00 a.m. at East Lawn Cemetery on Greenback Lane in Citrus Heights.

Farm and Flavor: Of Bad Haircuts and Burnt Pans

BY KERIN GOULD

During this Covid-19 health crisis, I confess that, as an introvert, I don't find quarantine to be terrible, and as a curmudgeonly farmer, I have plenty to do and just keep plugging away at planting, weeding, feeding and irrigating, much as I would normally. Even if I don't know how those crops will reach other people. Still, I can sympathize with the folks with rambunctious kids in the house, stubborn elders to care for, a suspended social-butterfly's calendar, no transportation to get to a spacious walking path, no pets for company, and work/business on hold indefinitely. (My whole business model is changing too, and that part is overwhelming.)

But while some folks are longing to go back to "normal", whatever that is, maybe it's time to try out some new things, so our future "normal" is better for having gone through this.

Yup, it's time to make lemonade from this

Covid lemon! First twist: what healthy sweeteners can replace sugar in my lemonade ? Experiment! Is lavender lemonade too foo-foo, or is it nice? These are questions for your test-kitchen. Are there healthier ways to sweeten desserts? Test a recipe! Can almond flour substitute for some white flour in my quiche crust? Test a recipe! Which vegan cheeses and fake bacon recipes are worthy? Can I make my own dirty iced chai, and does it need more cinnamon?

Is there a farmers' market with specialty crops I've never tried or never had super fresh? And can I get a whole lot of berries and try that Pomona Pectin to make (white) sugar-free jam? Yes, just try it! Nobody needs to know unless you discover something great.

Chances are a few of those attempts may fail. If you haven't ever burned a pot or pan beyond recovery or under/overcooked something, used the Happy Anniversary, Valley Clean Energy!

BY YVONNE HUNTER

CHAIR, VALLEY CLEAN ENERGY COMMUNITY ADVISORY COMMITTEE

As Valley Clean Energy reaches its two-year anniversary, memories of my role in its formation keep popping into my head.

Way back in 2002, it was my job as a lobbyist representing a statewide association of cities to advocate on behalf of cities before the California Legislature. This included the legislation that became law and authorizes cities and counties to buy electricity on behalf of their residents and businesses. These are known as Community Choice Aggregation (or CCA) programs.

Little did I know that, 18 years later, this new law would blossom and flourish into 21 operating CCAs throughout California, successfully serving 10 million customers in more than 170 cities and counties.

More amazing to me is that the new law ultimately enabled my own city of Davis and my county, Yolo (along with Woodland), to form their own CCA — Valley Clean Energy. Frankly, this is a very humbling experience.

VCE reflects the best of local government — local control, transparency, community engagement and expert administration — to provide services to residents and businesses it serves. I've had a front-row seat in VCE's formation and evolution, from my involvement in the legislation that authorized CCAs, to membership on the Davis Advisory Committee charged with evaluating whether Davis should form a CCA, and concluding with chairing the VCE Community Advisory Committee.

It's been an honor to serve with so many talented and dedicated individuals on the Community Advisory Committee. Not only are they knowledgeable about energy and utility issues, they have their respective fingers on the pulses of their communities and offer thoughtful input to the VCE board and staff.

It is exciting to observe how VCE has changed the energy landscape in Yolo County. Yes, our rates are competitive with PG&E's, and the amount of renewable energy VCE buys is higher than PG&E's.

What truly sets VCE apart from PG&E, though, is what was originally envisioned 18 years ago in the authorizing legislation — local energy decision-making that's accessible to all, combined with expert staff and community members dedicated to designing programs that reflect the needs of the communities they serve.

For example, an emphasis on local community economic development and local energy development is at the core of VCE. In May, the VCE board of directors approved renewal of a small contract to purchase electricity produced at the Indian Valley Hydro Power Facility, owned and operated by the Yolo County Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

And VCE recently approved a long-term power er purchase agreement to buy 50 megawatts of renewable energy from a new solar project in the Central Valley. VCE is also negotiating to buy electricity from another new solar project; our involvement will help get both of these projects built.

Finally, in April, VCE issued a request for offers to purchase renewable energy from qualifying local projects, either here in Yolo County or from the six adjacent counties.

While all of these accomplishments are important, what truly delights me is how VCE engages with the communities it serves. Do you have a question about your bill or about how VCE's rooftop solar program works? Would you care to comment about a proposed new program or policy or pose a question about VCE's budget?

It is easy to connect with VCE — either drop by the VCE office (when that becomes feasible again), attend a live or virtual VCE board of directors or Community Advisory Committee meeting, or simply call or email your question at 855-699-8232 or info@valleycleanenergy.org.

You can also stay informed about what's going on by signing up for an email list at <https://valleycleanenergy.org/get-in-touch/>.

VCE believes in meeting community members where they live — literally. Over the last two-plus years, I've enjoyed helping at the VCE booth at the Winters Carnitas Festival, the Woodland Honey Festival, and Capay Almond Festival (yes, lots of festivals here in Yolo County) and the Davis Farmers Market.

This entails more than just hanging up the VCE banner. These events offer opportunities to listen to and talk with residents to answer questions, hear their concerns and suggestions and trouble-shoot possible problems for VCE's customers and family.

My friends know that I like to collect T-shirts, and the turquoise-green VCE T-shirt is one of my favorites. I've worn it while meeting camels in Mongolia, piranha fishing on the Amazon River and hiking at Machu Picchu. It is my way of staying connected even when I'm miles away in a different reality. But VCE is always close to my heart.

So, happy anniversary, Valley Clean Energy. Here's to many more years of successfully serving our community.

— Yvonne Hunter is a longtime Davis resident and chair of the Valley Clean Energy Community Advisory Committee.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DORIS I. MANDALA
CASE NO: PB-2020-92-1

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of:

Doris I. Mandala

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Anna M. Mandala in the Superior Court of California, County of YOLO.

The Petition for Probate requests that Anna M. Mandala be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows:
Date: June 24, 2020
Time: 9:00 a.m. Dept: 10

Address of court: Superior Court of California, County of Yolo 1000 Main Street, Woodland, California 95695.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to your of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The DA's office welcomes 5 summer interns and a volunteer attorney.

In spite of COVID-19, the Yolo County District Attorney's Office will host five legal interns over the summer. Due to COVID-19, many DAs' offices across the state and country have delayed, discontinued, or scaled back their summer intern programs. Fortunately, due to Yolo DA's progressive technology, it will be able to continue hosting summer interns. Chief Deputy Jonathan Raven, who oversees the program stated, "We are thrilled to welcome the addition of five legal interns from UC Davis King Hall and McGeorge School of Law. It will be an exciting challenge to conduct all business remotely. These new members of our DA team bring a tremendous amount of talent and a diverse array of life experiences to the table."

Legal interns will conduct all of their work remotely including conducting research, writing motions, and "appearing" in court via Zoom. The DA's office just started its two-week intern training program using Zoom. The training will include a brown bag lunch with Judge David Rosenberg through Zoom. Also, each intern has been assigned a mentor. On Monday, May 18, interns came to the office to sign paperwork. The office set them up in desks, all 6 feet or more apart, and they wore facial coverings. Raven swore them in being mindful of social distancing.

Gustavo Figueroa is a returning intern who is entering his third year at McGeorge. He was born and raised in Yuba City, California as the son of a Mexican immigrant father and a Mexican-American mother. He attended UC Santa Barbara and graduated with a degree in Psychology in 2018. While at UCSB, he was involved with the community service organization Hermanos Unidos and worked in the Recreational Center as a fitness assistant. His hobbies include watching or playing sports (mainly football, soccer and basketball), working out, catching up on Game of Thrones, or making and selling R&B instrumentals.

Matthew Lanthier is entering his second year at King Hall. He grew up in San Mateo with his parents, two younger brothers and rescue pup, Bailey. He attended UC Santa Barbara immediately after high school, graduating with a history degree in 2018. After commissioning through the ROTC program at UCSB, he spent five (very cold) months in Missouri finishing his training as an MP in the California Army National Guard. In the months immediately preceding law school, he worked in the ranger unit of a Bay Area open space agency. He boasts that he's easily distracted by dogs and episodes of Cheers on Netflix.

Rose Reinacher is entering her second year at King Hall. She grew up in a small town in New Hampshire, where her mother still teaches at a local school and her family lives within walking and biking distance of several farms. As an undergrad, she attended Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. and majored in German and Government. During college she worked with several organizations through Georgetown's Center for Social Justice, including as a manager for an English language access and tutoring program. She also studied abroad in Berlin, Germany, and wrote her honors thesis in German. She enjoys practicing yoga, writing, and watching reality TV.

Stephanie Allen is entering her second year at McGeorge. She was born and raised here in Northern California. She lived in El Dorado Hills until she graduated high school. After High School, she moved to New Hampshire to live with her dad. She returned to Sacramento in 2008 and soon began working full-time in low-income housing property management and compliance. She met her husband and had her son before deciding to go back to school in 2014. In 2018 she graduated from Arizona State University with bachelor's degrees in political science and religious studies. When she is not studying, she is usually busy teaching her 6-year-old son how to read and playing games with him. In a rare moment of downtime, she enjoys binge-watching home renovation TV shows and cooking shows with her husband who pretends to enjoy them too.

Yuliy Tsybmal is entering his third year at McGeorge. He was born in Ukraine and moved with his family to Sacramento when he was five years old. He still visits Ukraine every summer to run Summer English Camps in the beautiful village of Temnohaytsi. He went to UC Davis for his undergraduate degree in Managerial Economics. He brags that he drinks a lot of tea (it's a Slavic thing) and a decent amount of coffee. He loves exploring new Thai food places and finding the best ratio of cheap prices to best quality food.

The DA's office also welcomes back Negar Tager as a volunteer attorney. She recently was admitted to the CA Bar. She worked as a legal intern in the office for the past year. She is Turkish-Iranian-Australian-American. She has a Bachelor and Master's degree in Architecture, a Master's degree in International Relations and Master's degree in Project Management. She speaks Turkish, Farsi (Persian), English, and some French. She is a tea-drinker, an e-reader addict, and she says she's unable to catch a ball, but is an expert in catching sarcasm.

Beware of Charity Scams During COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic has shown that people have bonded together and helped their neighbors in time need. Charities across the country have stepped up to fill these needs, while others have decided to profit illegitimately from people's generosity. Scammers are using counterfeit appeals, fake charities, and fabricated causes to swindle donations from good-hearted people.

No one wants their Coronavirus donations went to a scammer. Often times it is difficult for law enforcement to track and get this stolen money back to you. So, before you give to charities, do informed research. Search online for the charity's name and the words "scam" or "fraud." Review the ratings of the charity by the following organizations: BBB Wise Giving Alliance, Charity Navigator, Charity Watch, and Guide Star. You can also check the charity's registration status with your local charity regulator. Make sure they registered to take donations here in California. You can check here at the California State Attorney's General website: (<https://oag.ca.gov/charities>).

Here is a list of precautions you can take to ensure you are not victimized by these scammers who want to take advantage of your generosity:

Use a credit card to make your donations. It's the safest way to donate. Never donate giving out gift card numbers or using a wire transfer. If someone asks you to donate that way, you can be sure it's a scam.

- Always double check the name of the organization where you are sending your donation. Many fake charities pop up during times of national crisis. Often these fake charities use names similar to those of well-known organizations, but with one word different or the name slightly misspelled.
- Remember to ask lots of questions. What's the charity's contact information? Do they have a website and physical address? How much of my donation will go to the program I want to help? How many people will the charity help? If donating locally is important to you, ask how the charity uses your donation in your area? If you get vague answers, move on from this questionable charity.
- Beware of donation requests solicited through social media. Just because a friend liked it or shared it doesn't mean it's legitimate. Do your own research. Call your friends or contact them offline to ask them about the charity.
- Confirm your donation is tax deductible. You can use the IRS's Tax Exemption Organization Search (<https://www.irs.gov/charities-non-profits/tax-exempt-organization-search>) to verify. Know that donations to individuals are not tax deductible.

Remember if it sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't. For more tips on donating wisely to charities visit: <https://www.ftc.gov/charity>. To report charity scams and fraud locally, call the Yolo County District Attorney's Fraud Hotline at: 1-855-4-YOLO-DA. While there are people looking to take advantage of others in this uncertain time, taking precautions and being aware of recent scams can protect you and others from being the next victim.

This 'n' That

Fell, and became a successful cattle rancher (widely reputed, it was said, to negotiate best when he'd been drinking). The couple had four children – three older, Little Davey, and Jemima was expecting – when suddenly, Little Davey grew gravely ill. In the family's isolated farmhouse, Jemima tried compresses and the like, but nothing worked. "Eben!" she said, "You must go to town and fetch the doctor!"

Knowing his listless son might not survive triggered Eben's battle scar. What today we know as Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. In town, he went on a three-day bender Returning with the doctor, he was too late. Little Davey died.

Jemima gave Eben no more children after giving birth to Bessie. Bessie would eventually marry a man she didn't love. Asked why, she told her two daughters, "He was good looking, had a good job, and he didn't drink." He was a good provider, working on the mail train run, Toledo to Chicago. His being away for weeks at a time suited Bessie. Her youngest daughter, my mother, told me, "We lived two lives. When he was home, and when he wasn't." Suffering from dementia, he died in the state hospital when I was 5. Another of war's tragedies.

And, now, we mourn the mounting death toll caused by an 'enemy' we call Covid. "More dead than all our losses in Vietnam," intoned a commentator.

Will we risk returning to our churches? I don't know. But a prayer seems fitting: for all the dead, their bereft families, and for those whose war wound we can't see.

135 people a day with test results available within 48 to 72 hours. Please note this is not antibody testing; this is to test if individuals have COVID-19.

Following Governor Gavin Newsom's announcement to add more than 80 community testing sites across the state focused on underserved communities, testing for novel coronavirus (COVID-19) began May 5 in Yolo County at the Fairgrounds in Woodland. That location has completed more than 5,000 tests, and will be shut down after tomorrow, May 30, 2020.

ACOE did the initial planning and design of the wetlands. Ducks Unlimited was contracted for construction. In 1991, the original 3,700 acres was purchased for the California Department of Fish and Wildlife by the Wildlife Conservation Board. In 1995, construction began and in November of 1997, President Bill Clinton dedicated and transferred the management of the land from the Army Corps of Engineers to the California Department of Fish and Wildlife as the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area. The project was hailed as a national model for meeting the challenge of "trying to improve our economy and lift our standard of living while improving, not diminishing, our environment."

Since 1997, two additional units have been purchased which include upland and vernal pool habitat and the wildlife area has both rice farming and grazing leases. Yolo Basin Foundation continues as the communication link between many people and organizations involved in creating wetlands and managing the land in the Yolo Bypass. The Foundation facilitates the Yolo Bypass Working Group, which provides a focused opportunity for farmers, landowners and agencies within the Yolo Bypass to share information on Bypass related issues.

The Foundation also offers environmental education experiences about wetlands and wildlife to nearly 12,000 people annually. The Foundation works towards expanding public appreciation and stewardship of wetlands and wildlife in the Yolo Basin through education and innovative partnerships, with a focus on the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area between Davis and Sacramento.

Athletes

forward to improving my times and maybe even going to sections with my relay team again this year.” Then the season was over and after 11 years of swim meets and parents cheering on her every stroke, O’Hara was left with the memories.

“I miss being able to go to practice everyday. I miss being able to see my teammates and watch all of our improvement as the days go by. I believe this season would have been great.”

Track and Field was also excited to compete. Everyday after school, for weeks, these athletes could be seen running their hearts out and getting ready to set personal bests.

Senior shotput and discus thrower Anna Grexton was set to try to break her own school records in both events this year but missed out on the chance.

“I was heartbroken,” said Grexton. “I was most looking forward to solidifying my spot in the school records and hopefully going to masters and maybe state, however now I will never know.”

Grexton is fortunate that she will get a chance to compete at the next level, throwing for the track and field team at Cal Poly. For others, it’s time to say goodbye to the sports that they love.

Boys volleyball, softball, baseball. The story is the same. The thought of what might have been, a feeling that many student athletes in the class of 2020 can relate too.

For the RCHS community, we can only hope that the life lessons that sports have taught us, and these young adults, will serve them on their journey ahead. Even though their seasons ended, they will always be Raiders.

Farm and Flavor

wrong spice (garlic powder is not ginger) or had your leavening utterly fail, you just haven’t taken enough swings at it. Even pro baseball players only hit the ball a third of the time. Same goes for hair-cuts. You can timidly trim your split ends or you can try something bold. Nobody’s going to see you anyway, and unless you have an interview lined up as a company spokesperson, who cares? Try the bangs. Let the gray grow out and dye it blue or purple. Cut it shorter than usual or learn a fancy braid. What if it’s gorgeous? Home perm, maybe not, though.

Try growing something you’ve never grown before, something ambitious, a fussy heirloom or a giant pumpkin, because you can baby it right now. Adopt a pet from a shelter, because you have time to bond and train them now. Sing loudly in your living room and work on your dance moves. Not for TikTok, but for you. Find a meditation spot and try just clearing your mind. Nobody’s looking. Try knitting with organic yarn and unravel it all the times you need to, since cold weather is months away, and nobody will see that scarf for a long time.

And once we have gotten past our fears of burnt pans and bad bangs, and we move into the post-quarantine era, we can boldly try to work on bigger things like climate change, our food system, water conservation, equality and justice, knowing that we may have setbacks and flops, but feeling bold and resilient and running new solutions through our mental test-kitchens.

Here’s a recipe to try. It’s like an inverted lemon meringue pie, also known as a Schaum torte, which I first tasted at my grandma’s house. It’s not difficult, but you can make it better each time you try it. And once you can make the basic meringue, you can try all kinds of toppings, mix with nuts to make individual meringue cookies or any other fluffy, dreamy combination you can come up with.

There is only 4 tsp of cane sugar for the whole dessert – the rest is honey and fruit. I have tried it without sugar, which works fairly well, but brown coconut sugar was...too brown. Adjust as you see fit!

4 egg whites
1/4 tsp cream of tartar
1 tsp arrowroot
4 tsp sugar or substitute
1/2 tsp almond extract

Preheat the oven to 350° Separate yolks from whites, allowing no yellow into the whites at all.

Add in the arrowroot and cream of tartar and sugar, and whip with a blender on high speed.

The egg whites should form stiff peaks. Don’t go too far! Stir in the extract lightly.

Line a pie pan or baking pan with parchment paper (Or perhaps lightly oil/butter and dust generously with almond flour.)

Spread the meringue in a round cake-like shape. (You can also make individual meringue clouds. Adjust the cooking time for the size.)

As soon as you put it in the oven, reduce heat to 250°.

Bake for 50 min to an hour, keeping an eye on it. If it’s browning, reduce the heat by 25°.

When it’s done, turn off the oven and let it cool. It can wait several hours there, until you are ready for it.

To serve, use a butter knife to carefully separate it from the paper.

Lemon curd
2/3 C. fresh squeezed lemon juice strained
1 Tbsp. lemon zest
1/2 honey
2 eggs
a pinch of salt
[The curd should really be made the day before, to make it easier the day you are serving this.]

In a pot, warm on medium-low the juice, zest, honey and maple.

In a bowl, whisk the eggs and the pinch of salt.

When the juice mix is homogeneous, pour it into the eggs while whisking.

Place a sieve over your pot and pour the mixture back into the pot.

Continue to stir with the whisk constantly. You’ll feel it start to thicken.

When it reaches a simmering boil, it is done. Pour it into a glass container and refrigerate.

It will set as it cools.

When you are ready to serve, all you have to do is spread the curd on the meringue and top with 1.5 c washed, dried, sliced (if needed) fresh berries. My preference is olallie-berries or blueberries!
