

Emergency food assistance option for Yolo County low-income seniors and other vulnerable residents during Covid-19 mitigation

To address coronavirus mitigation-related barriers to food access for low-income seniors and other vulnerable populations in Yolo County, Yolo Food Bank began a free home-delivered food service on Monday. The program will continue until further notice. Please call 530-668-0690 or email info@yolofoodbank.org to participate. Individuals who are not low-income are urged to contact a for-profit grocery delivery service, so that Yolo Food Bank can prioritize the needs of low-income residents during this time of crisis.

“The Coronavirus social distancing measures being implemented in Yolo County and elsewhere are creating unforeseen barriers preventing seniors, residents with underlying health conditions, and other vulnerable populations from meeting their basic needs,” stated Yolo Food Bank Executive Director Michael Bisch. “California’s food banks are among the first responders to ‘mitigating’ the Coronavirus public health mitigation measures. Yolo Food Bank has been mobilizing since last week to provide food delivery services for these residents disproportionately impacted by social distancing measures.”

All other individuals who regularly access food via Yolo Food Bank’s more than 100 ongoing public distributions each month throughout the county should continue to visit these locations. As some of these sites are being temporarily relocated due to the closure of public facilities hosting these distributions, please visit <https://yolofoodbank.org/get-help/> for up-to-date information.

Addressing the emerging community needs created by the coronavirus outbreak requires an all-hands on deck response. Yolo County service organizations, volunteer groups, nonprofits, and students who may be on an unanticipated break from school all are welcomed to participate in this urgent, meaningful work. To lend a hand, please contact Robb Davis, Yolo Food Bank’s Coronavirus Response Coordinator, at 530-220-2344 or robb@yolofoodbank.org.

Yolo Food Bank urges all community members and organizations to follow Yolo Public Health Officer Ron Chapman’s recommendations for social distancing, in particular, postponing all non-essential events and gatherings. Dr. Chapman has communicated that this is the most effective means of slowing the spread of coronavirus, helps to avoid overwhelming our local healthcare system, and sustains our ability to meet basic needs such as food distribution. Please go to www.yolocounty.org/coronavirus for a comprehensive list of public health recommendations.

“We are a resilient community,” Bisch said. “By working together, we can meet this coronavirus challenge.”

Advised by his doctor not to fly, a neighbor had to cancel a planned trip to Arizona. His doctor also told him to quit post-operative workouts in the Mercy Hospital gym. Too much risk. Yes, the neighbor is 79, and a recovering cancer and cardiac patient. But he thought a short, domestic flight would be okay. He thought his medically supervised workouts were safe. He hadn’t factored in the new phrase that changes everything for millions: co-morbidity (two or more illnesses occurring at once in the same person). My neighbor has vulnerabilities that double the potentially lethal punch of the Corona Virus pandemic.

I have asthma, well controlled, but I factored it in with locality (Sacramento was one of the three chief hot spots on the CDC Virus Map), age (in the danger zone) and communicability risk (high), and called the Kaiser Advice service. It was recommended I self-quarantine until the government got a handle on this. Well, hell. That’s a long quarantine sentence. The problem is that the government’s tardy and inadequate response had been further retarded by the president, whose mindless posturing would be funny were it not so deadly. First he said, at a Feb. 28 rally in Charleston, South Carolina, “This is their (the Democrats) new hoax.”

A hoax. Well, nobody wants to catch this hoax that has already killed thousands and daily kills more. I don’t want the highly communicable “hoax” to stalk family and loved ones. I don’t want to have to gasp, “Keep away. I’ve got the Hoax.” Not long ago Trump addressed the nation in that somber, hypnotic tone he gets when he has to read something. After unseemly bragging about our greatness in a world beset with affliction, he said we Americans would conquer the thing he had only a week earlier

Major, big time corona virus volatility in the stock market! If you’re retired on a pension, chances are you view this development with alarm. Especially on the heels of the market ‘correction’ last October. Simply put, a correction is declared when stock prices fall below a certain point and a ‘boom’ market starts going bust.

My own pension, for example, changes from one year to the next. Part of it is ‘fixed’ (i.e. the value is guaranteed to stay the same no matter what the market does). The larger portion is ‘variable’— which means it varies with the

A security company guard saw Dante Jordan McCowan on video walking through the apartment complex parking garage pulling on door handles. McCowan was then seen getting into a two-toned SUV inside the garage. Officers arrived on scene and located him hiding inside of the vehicle, lying on the floorboard. He provided a false name to officers at the time he was detained. He located the owner of the vehicle, who stated she did not know him and that her personal items inside of the vehicle had been moved around and some items were placed inside of a boot that was found in the car and belonged to him. He was eventually identified as Dante McGowan and arrested and transported to WSPD pre-booking. Under Miranda, he gave a false name because he did not know if he had any warrants in Yolo County. McCowan also stated he did not know why he placed the items from the car inside of the boots that he brought with him into the vehicle. He was transported and booked into Yolo County Jail.

Reporting date and time: March 9 at 9:30 a.m.
Location of incident: 2920 block of West Capitol Avenue

Police responded to an alarm at the location. Upon arrival, officers contacted the manager and additional witnesses who stated three young males (two were later identified as Demoni Simmons and Jamonte Davis) entered the business. The manager said two of the suspects came behind the counter and ordered him to open the safe which he complied and no weapons were seen. He said these suspects took about $10,000 worth of merchandise and $900 from the safe. He also said the suspects took $200 from the cash register. After this occurred, all three suspects fled the business and entered a Ford Explorer and left the scene. Photos of the suspects were sent out to surrounding agencies. Police received information that a search warrant was being served in Sacramento by a Safe Team Task Force and Simmons matched the description of one of the suspects from the West Sacramento pharmacy robbery. When Simmons was contacted by the Task Force, he had about $220 in cash on his person. He was contacted and stated he was at the pharmacy participating in the robbery and said his cousin Jamonte Davis was the other person with him during the robbery, acting as the lookout person inside.

ORDENES DE RESTRICCIÓN DEL DERECHO ESTÁNDAR DE LA FAMILIA
Comenzando de inmediato, usted y su cónyuge o pareja de hecho están restringidos de:

1. removing the minor children of the parties from the state or applying for a new or replacement passport for those minor children without the prior written consent of the other party or an order of the court;

1. retirar a los hijos menores de las partes del estado o solicitar un pasaporte nuevo o de reemplazo para esos menores sin el consentimiento previo por escrito de la otra parte o una orden de la corte;

3. transferring, encumbering, hypothecating, concealing, or in any way disposing of any property, real or personal, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, without the written consent of the other party or an order of the court. Before revocation of a nonprobate transfer can take effect or a right of survivorship to property can be eliminated, notice of the change must be filed and served on the other party.

4. crear una transferencia no testamentaria o modificar una transferencia no testamentaria de manera que afecte la disposición de la propiedad sujeta a la transferencia, sin el consentimiento por escrito de la otra parte o una orden del tribunal. Antes de que la revocación de una transferencia no testamentaria pueda entrar en vigencia o se pueda eliminar el derecho de supervivencia a la propiedad, se debe presentar y notificar el cambio a la otra parte.

WARNING – IMPORTANT INFORMATION

California law provides that, for purposes of division of property upon dissolution of a marriage or domestic partnership or upon legal separation, property acquired by the parties during marriage or domestic partnership in joint form is presumed to be community property. If either party to this action should die before the jointly held community property is divided, the language in the deed that characterizes how title is held (i.e., joint tenancy, tenants in common, or community property) will be controlling, and not the community property presumption. You should consult your attorney if you want the community property presumption to be written into the recorded title of the property.

ADVERTENCIA-INFORMACIÓN IMPORTANTE

La ley de California establece que, a los fines de la división de bienes tras la disolución de un matrimonio o sociedad doméstica o tras la separación legal, los bienes adquiridos por las partes durante el matrimonio o sociedad doméstica en forma conjunta se presumen propiedad de la comunidad. Si cualquiera de las partes en esta acción muere antes de que se divida la propiedad comunitaria conjunta, el idioma de la escritura que caracteriza cómo se posee el título (es decir, la tenencia conjunta, los inquilinos en común o la propiedad comunitaria) controlará, y no la comunidad Presunción de propiedad. Debe consultar a su abogado si desea que la presunción de propiedad de la comunidad se escriba en el título registrado de la propiedad.

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. Elections Office Canvass Process Update

The Yolo County Elections Office began the canvass process for the 2020 Presidential Primary Election on March 5, 2020 to ensure every eligible ballot is counted accurately. The time allowed to complete the canvass for this election is thirty days (30).

The Elections Office conducted a public manual tally of 1% of the Election Night precinct results that began on Friday March 6th and was completed on March 10th. The counts balanced and there were no inconsistencies.

On Election Night in Yolo County, 32,266 ballots were processed and tallied for the 2020 Presidential Primary Election. This figure included Vote by Mail ballots that were received through March 1st and precinct ballots cast at the polling locations.

During the canvass period the Elections Office reconciles all provisional and conditional ballots, in addition to all the Vote by Mail ballots that were submitted just prior to Election Day, on Election Day at polling or satellite locations or postmarked on Election Day and received by the Elections Office within three days (by March 6th). During the canvass period, Vote by Mail ballots that were returned to other counties are also forwarded to their respective counties. To give a context, Yolo County has forward Vote by Mail ballots to 40 other counties over the last few days.

As of Tuesday, March 10, 2020 at 2:30 p.m., the grand total of ballots remaining to process increased by 7,155 above initial post-election figures for a new total of 32,024 ballots to be processed during the canvass period. A more detailed breakdown of the ballots being processed is provided below:

Vote by Mail Ballots (Includes ballots forwarded from other counties)

- 25,068 Provisional Ballots
- 2,956 Conditional Voter Registration Provisional Ballots
- 3,109 Other (Includes unprocessed ballots that require further review or are damaged and need to be remade)

- 891 Total Ballots
- 32,024

Please note these figures are estimates and are subject to change. The Elections Office is still receiving Yolo County Vote by Mail ballots from other counties (deadline for receipt of Vote by Mail ballots from other counties is today, 3/11/2020).

The canvass processes take place at the Yolo County Elections Office located at 625 Court St Suite B05, Woodland, CA 95695. Visitors are welcome to observe various election activities including the canvass procedures.

“Staff has been busy processing the very high volume of Election Day Vote by Mail submittals over the last several days in order to report accurate election results as soon as possible. The time allowed to complete the canvass for this election is thirty days; however, we anticipate to provide a significant result update within the coming days and to comp

Curbing U.S. population growth would fight climate change

BY GARY WOCKNER

Millions of young Americans want to shrink their carbon footprints.

The best way for them to do so? Limit their family size. Having one fewer child can be up to 30 times more effective at cutting greenhouse gas emissions than the next-best action, “living car-free,” according to a series of recent studies from the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the “Drawdown Project,” and other academic papers.

These studies, coupled with heightening anxiety over climate change, have even spawned a global #Birthstrike movement. Across the world, young people are realizing that the planet simply can’t sustain endless population growth.

However, these reports, as well as #Birthstrike members themselves, often overlook the science behind who actually emits the most greenhouse gases -- and therefore whose population growth needs to be curbed.

Point blank: Citizens in developed countries, especially here in the United States, emit dramatically more greenhouse gases than citizens in developing countries. The Union of Concerned Scientists reports that the average American produces five times more greenhouse gases than the average Mexican and ten times more than the average person in India.

This excessive consumption -- and the rampant materialism that fuels it -- is depleting our natural resources. Household consumption contributes to “more than 60% of global greenhouse gas emissions and between 50% and 80% of total land, material, and water use,” according to a recent study published in the Journal of Industrial Ecology. A report by the Sierra Club indicates the average American consumes 35 times more natural resources than the average person in India and 53 times more resources than the average person in China.

And the Center for Global Energy Policy at Columbia University published a report indicating that population growth necessitates reliance on high greenhouse gas-emitting energy sources for new construction of buildings, roads, and other infrastructure -- all of which is far more intensive in the United States and other developed countries.

Simply put, if we want to curb greenhouse gas emissions and stop depleting our natural resources, we should focus on limiting population growth in industrialized countries, especially the United States.

America is adding people at a rapid pace. The population has grown by 72 million people since 1965, according to Pew Research. And we’ll add another 100 million people by the year 2065, almost solely due to immigration.

Nearly all immigrants come from countries that have far lower greenhouse gas emissions rates.

But once they arrive here, most adopt the prevailing American culture of ravenous energy consumption and consumerism, causing greenhouse gas emissions to soar.

It’s time we look in the mirror and quit ignoring the devastating, planet-destroying impacts of America’s population growth.

Protocol for Serving Meals While Under a School Closure

Washington Unified School District Nutrition Services will provide an opportunity for families to pick up lunch and breakfast for the following days in a mobile walk up or drive-thru meal service for children 18 and under. This will occur on Monday, March 16, through at least Friday, April 3, at nine school sites from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Elkhorn Village – 750 Cummins Way

Westfield Village – 508 Poplar Ave.
Westmore Oaks Elementary – 1100 Clarendon St.
Riverbank Elementary – 1100 Carrie St.
Southport Elementary – 2747 Linden Road
Stonegate Elementary – 2500 La Jolla St.
Bridgeway Island Elementary – 3255 Half Moon Bay Circle
River City High School – 1 Raider Lane
WUSD School Bus – 731 F St.

These meals will be available for free for anyone 18 and under regardless of what school they attend. No paperwork is required. Children must be present in order for meals to be provided. Meals will be provided based on the number of children present.

This program will be solely for the pick-up of meals, and meals will not be consumed on-site. WUSD encourages families to continue to be proactive in reducing the risk of COVID-19 by not congregating at the school site and utilizing social distancing once meals have been distributed.

Door-to-Door

depicted as a hoax. Then he said we should wash our hands.

My Manhattan nephew, Andrew, was among the last American passengers to fly home from Italy. He said when he was there it was eerily easy to get into everything, everywhere (he did not go to Milan). There were no crowds, no long lines. It was like a ghost country. When he got back to New York he was quarantined for 14 days.

Right now in New Rochelle, New York, Governor Cuomo has activated the National Guard to establish a mile radius Coronavirus containment area. The Guard delivers food to the impacted citizens. Have other states called out the Guard? Yes, Florida, Iowa, Louisiana, Rhode Island and Washington. So far.

Then the NBA suspended its season, St. Patrick's Day parades were canceled everywhere (even in Dublin), more schools and universities closed, stores sent out notices suggesting online shopping, political speeches were delivered without audiences, customers bought and hoarded sanitizers and toilet tissue, the CDC said to stop shaking hands, stay away from malls, movie theaters, and religious services, cities banned large gatherings, concerts were canceled, meetings postponed. Nobody seemed to still believe this was a hoax.

"I'm self-distancing," said a friend. "Because I have that heart murmur."

My Ex called. "I have to stay home practically all the time. The gym closed." He sighed. "Can you believe it? The gym."

But of course the gym closed. Because droplets of possibly contaminated sweat shine from every glistening chrome bar. Because the gym is a fountain of hazard for senior jocks. The young can take their chances because they can usually beat back the virus. But it's harder, and potentially lethal, for seniors who have weary immune systems. Trust me. Once I got an infection in a super easy-going water aerobics class where we flapped, splashed, and giggled for an hour. If something that mild can undermine your immune response, imagine the Corona Virus, which can take six weeks before it's done smacking you around. It can finish you off too. It's no joke. No hoax.

On Friday the 13th Trump was asked by reporter Yamachie Alcindor if he took responsibility for the lag in the testing. "No I don't take responsibility," said the president of the United States. Alcindor went on. "But is it true that you disbanded the CDC pandemic response team, and gutted a lot of the personnel at the FDA, CDC and Health Department? Do you take responsibility for that?"

Trump replied, "I don't know anything about it. There is an Administration. Maybe they did it. But I didn't do that."

Are you gobsmacked? I was. I know it's odd to be continually amazed by the predictable but each new low is so low. So ground-breakingly low.

My Partner, under the danger zone, is a hand-washing survivor type who knows how to plan for isolated living. This is lucky for me. Also my youngest sister (by twelve years) lives five houses down and shelters us while our house is invaded, because, yes, we chose now to remodel. Pandemic or no, workers trundle in, deliveries arrive all day, foot traffic is constant, and I know some of those feet carry vectors. Of course when we started this project, the virus was a largely unknown, remote problem China and would never reach us. But...

Five other highly sociable, danger-zone siblings are now hunkered down in their houses. It'll be weird to not meet up for St. Patrick's Day. I'll miss the gossip, the irreverence, the family vibe. But at least we can Skype. Imagine if this happened before Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, etc. We'd have to email, like in the dark ages.

A friend calls. She's social distancing also. "I've done everything, all my chores. Now what?" Reading is recommended. "Tired of reading." Cleaning the garage is recommended. "Are you insane?" Finally she agrees to sew. I could advise her to settle in and watch the TV talk shows but they're suspending production, even Colbert. Even Ellen.

It's hard to live with the new rules. You have to stay seven to ten feet apart from others, no hugging, kissing, hand-shaking, touching, fist-bumping, elbow rubbing—nothing. And don't touch your own face. Don't rub those itchy allergy eyes. Don't stroke your chin. Hands off.

France closed all restaurants and cafes. Spain and Israel went into lock-down. Germany shut down public venues. It's believed that asymptomatic carriers are driving the contagion, here and everywhere. I still wonder about the status of the poor people on that Princess cruise ship who were sent to air bases for containment. One died. I read that.

This is our first week of traditional March temperature: the street is cold and rainy, the sidewalks wet. Nobody stirs. But I don't think it's the weather.

vagaries in the market the prior year: Specifically, October. When my parents died and left me some money – it was largely invested in blocks of stock. Dad made most of his money in the stock market, investing in companies he knew well from his decades in the auto parts business.

Since I knew nothing about those companies or investing, I figured I better educate myself about stocks and bonds. The following may interest those of you tempted to try the market in these uncertain times.

When I made that decision, I had enough money to buy stocks in quantities of no less than 100 shares. A stock broker helped me learn the ropes. I also signed up for a seminar on bonds. Went to a 3-day “Workshop for the Wealth Adjusted” where I met people who had last names like Kellogg and Honeywell. Read a small book titled “The ABZ’s (Z for Zero Coupon Bonds) of Money & Finance.” (It’s a good one if you need to learn the basics.) Subscribed to the Wall Street Journal. Barron’s.

Money Magazine. The Kiplinger Report (dad’s favorite). Standard and Poor’s “Outlook” (which I liked a lot, but it’s pretty pricey). Others.

I also immersed myself in investing-related cable TV shows. I listened to the show, but watched the stock ticker crawling across the bottom of my screen. By then, I had a portfolio of stocks, mutual funds, and so on. The ticker is symbols that are shorthand for assorted stocks. I memorized those of stocks I held, and also those I was watching.

For hours I’d watch the ticker for slight changes in a share price. Felt pretty comfortable buying Berkshire-Hathaway. Figured if legendary investor Warren Buffet (founder of Berkshire-Hathaway – a sort of mutual fund for rich people) was betting on a company, that was good enough for me. On the opposite end of the ‘risk’ spectrum, I liked Gilead Sciences – a California company that, today, is working on getting FDA approval for its Covid-19 vaccine. (Important to note: Other companies are, too.

Who gets there first is the gamble.)

The key to ‘reading’ the market, I decided, was paying close attention to the news – such as rumbles that the fed would change the interest rate. And, at that time, NAFTA (the North American Free Trade Agreement).

By the time Mexico Fund was trading on the Nasdaq (American Stock Exchange: www.nasdaq.com), I was an on the ‘fast desk’ at Charles Schwab. ‘Fast desk’ traders made (or lost) money by moving quickly on changes in a share’s price. Mexico Fund was invested in companies like Telefonos de Mexico. When I sold my shares in a ‘block’ (all of it at once), I made $30,000, after fees and taxes. Thank you, NAFTA! With the money, I funded an investment account for my minor son. And used money in it to pay for ADHD specialists, physical therapy and other activities to improve his fine motor skills; camps, preschool, and technology such as computer games. Whatever experts told me would help him compensate for deficits related to being nearly stillborn. An investment in his future.

When Mike was 13 or so, I went back to work in journalism and hired an investment adviser, because I knew day trading would take more attention than I could give it with a full time job.

The investment adviser insisted I couldn’t afford to hold a pricey stock like Berkshire Hathaway. I’d paid about $8,000 per share for four shares. I reluctantly let him gut and reinvest much of my carefully constructed portfolio. (I stopped following Berkshire-Hathaway when it was selling for $55,000 a share. Doing the math made me too depressed.). The investment adviser said he could feel my ‘antipathy’. We parted company.

Not all my money was in the market, though. Some was wrapped up in real estate. I bought properties outright. Remodeled, updated and then we lived in them. Mortgage free. Made money when I sold them.

The last property I purchased was the farm. A neighboring farmer paid me per acre to farm my fields. Still was making money in the market. And then 9-11 knocked the stuffing out of my portfolio. (I’d cashed out Gilead to try to save the farm. Made money. But, if I’d held onto it, would have made a whole lot more.) Finally, with animals to feed and a teenager playing travel hockey, I took out two home equity lines of credit (contrary to my Depression-era dad’s advice: “If you can’t pay cash, you don’t need it.”)

In 2003, I faced facts. Liquidate the farm, or lose it to foreclosure. Surveyed and subdivided it. Did OK. A family bought each of two creek-front parcels. I like knowing a new crop of kids grew up making forts in the woods.

It’s been nearly 20 years since I was a day trader. I’ve learned, that which goes up definitely will come down. Today, I’m in low income senior housing. I know my pension’s taking a hit May first. and I’ll have to ‘pay back’ – all at once – the amount I’ve been ‘overpaid’ since January 1. Am I worried? Oh, you bet.

Savvy investors I’ve known say this:

The casino’s always open.

“I got out too soon.” So, about this virus. The WHO (World Health Organization) has declared it a pandemic. (Its rapid spread now spans the globe.) Do the resulting wild swings in the stock market seem like a chance to make a fortune? Not unless you can afford to lose it. If in doubt, don’t. Before you roll the dice, might wait for the world economy to stabilize.

Residents are encouraged to learn more about the recommendations issued by Yolo County Public Health regarding social gatherings. The best ways to reduce risk of getting sick, as with seasonal colds or the flu, still applies to prevent COVID-19:

- Wash hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds.
- Cover your cough or sneeze.
- Stay home if you are sick.
- Avoid touching your face.
- Try alternatives to shaking hands, like an elbow bump or wave.

If you have recently returned from a country, state or region with ongoing COVID-19 infections, monitor your health and follow the instructions of public health officials.

Vulnerable individuals, which is defined as older than 65 years old or who have health conditions such as heart disease, lung disease, diabetes, kidney disease and weakened immune systems, are recommended to limit outings, avoid large gatherings, telecommute if possible, stay home if they are sick and avoid people who are sick.

There is no recommendation to wear masks at this time to prevent from getting sick.
