West Sacramentan lines her neighborhood with American flags for the nation's birthday

By Monica Stark
editor@news-ledger.com

West Sacramento's Heather Moore decided to line Grande Vista Avenue and Claredon Street with nearly 300 American flags, bringing joy and patriotism to her neighborhood.

Neighbor Marie called the display "wholesome and prideful." Margaret, who also lives in that area, said happily, "They were beautiful."

Heather said she started to put some up on Friday and Saturday she got up and did the rest of them and took them down on Tuesday. "It was fun. I started with a few houses and decided I'd just do the whole street," she said.

Heather got the flags from a box inside the VFW. "I had to iron all of them. They had been wrapped in a box for so long. No one wanted them. And I thought, shoot they are here. Everyone loved it. There was not one person upset."

A proud West Sacramentan, Heather said the 4th of July to her means freedom and the ability to enjoy her neighbors. "I love my neighbors – the fact I can go ask a neighbor for an egg or they can ask me for something. We wave to all of our neighbors when they come up on our street. (Regarding the flags) I thought, 'Why not? It's America. It's our birthday. The VFW had them; it didn't kill me and I got a great response.

During Christmastime, Heather likes to decorate "Charlie Brown Christmas" style. "I have a full on dog house. Christmas is my favorite holiday. We go all out. I have to start decorating in middle of November. Once Thanksgiving dinner is over, I flip a switch and there you go."

2016 November Election Information

The following officers will be elected: Mayor (2-year term) and two city council members (4-year term). The filing period for individuals interested in running for these seats will be from July 18 to Aug. 12.

If any of the incumbents fail to file for re-election, the period will be extended until Aug. 17. Candidates may obtain nomination papers Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. from the city clerk's office located at 1110 West Capitol Ave., third floor. Appointments are not required, but are strongly encouraged. Interested individuals may contact the city clerk's office at 617-4500 for more information or visit the city clerk's office page at <www.cityofwestsacramento.org/city/depts/cmo/clerk/general_election/default.asp>.

Martha Guerrero announces candidacy for city council

Longtime community leader Martha Guerrero announced her candidacy for the West Sacramento City Council. Guerrero, a 13-year resident of West Sacramento, has nearly two decades of experience in public policy and government administration and has served on numerous boards and civic organizations in the city. She currently serves as chair on the city's planning commission.

Guerrero will seek to fill the vacancy by councilman Bill Kristoff who announced he plans retire from the City Council upon completion of his term.

Guerrero stated: "As a longtime resident of West Sacramento, I am excited to announce my campaign for City Council. I am fortunate to live in a community that promotes strong economic growth, stable government infrastructure and an enhanced quality of life for all residents. Throughout this campaign, I look forward to continue meeting with residents and business and civic leaders in our efforts to build a stronger West Sacramento together."

Martha Guerrero has worked as a legislative advocate for 19 years providing professional county staff support, strategic planning, public administration, and

Maria Grijalva threw in her name for city council in this November's general election

Born in Houston Texas, Maria hails from the southern most part of Texas, where she "was raised straddled" to both sides of the border in Harlingen Texas and with the border town of Matamoros Mexico. She attended a catholic school during her elementary years, and later public schools. At 18, Maria attended Texas Southmost College and earned honor studies one semester. She also attended six months of a 1-year program in the general construction program in Texas State Technical Institute.

At 25, Maria moved to Sacramento with her children to continue her education at Sacramento City College. She became a regular part of her children's elementary schools and preschool as a volunteer. She served the Sacramento Unified School district for more than five years as a parent volunteer. She attended Sacramento State where she finished her BA in Psychology. While at CSUS she was involved in Mecha, where she "became involved in pressuring the psychology department to hire people of color."

While at Sac State she had volunteered to work in Joe Serna's campaign for mayor and continued to work in other campaigns, including for Deborah Ortiz when she ran for city council and later assembly, as volunteer coordinator.

During the floods of 1997, Maria applied for state service.

Statement from the Mayor on Dallas Shootings

West Sacramento Mayor Christopher Cabaldon released the following statement in response to the tragedy in Dallas:

The City of West Sacramento stands with the people, the city, and the police department of Dallas. We offer our support to the families of the officers slain last (week).

As Dallas Mayor Rawlings said, "In the end three things remain: faith, hope and love. We need all three today." He has called on each of us to face the challenges of race, policing, community, and safety head-on, with both steely resolve and humility. He's right.

The officers and staff of our own West Sacramento Police Department put themselves on the line every minute of each day. The city they serve is no less committed to protecting their own safety.

I want citizens of every race, every sexual orientation, every religion, and every neighborhood in West Sacramento to know that the horrors they have seen in videos and pictures in other parts of the nation are not our reality. Independent agencies that track police-involved fatalities report that West Sacramento is one of the only cities in the region to have had none during this century. That isn't an accident, as the men and women of the department strive to meet ever-higher standards of ethics, performance, and transparency, and as they lead the way in implementing 21st Century community policing practices that build genuine trust. Our city doesn't use policing as a way to grow our fine revenues, and we don't hire white supremacists.

We are human beings and imperfect, and we will make mistakes. So your involvement, activism, scrutiny, and protest must make us continuously better as a department, as a city, and as a community. So, too, do your smiles, encouragement, and, on days like today, your sympathy.

legislative and budget analysis. She has worked on local and state policy issues that increased employment opportunities for the disadvantaged; protected vulnerable children, and the elderly, blind and disabled; enhanced access to health insurance; promoted self-sufficiency for those that have experienced long-term unemployment and homelessness; and improved the early education system. She has also worked with the Turning Point Community Program providing mental health services to children and families in the Sacramento region.

In addition, Martha currently serves as Chair of the West Sacramento Planning Commission, a member of Yolo County's Citizen's Advisory Transportation Committee, and the Yolo County Local Mental Health Board. Her prior commission and council appointments include: Universal Pre-School for West Sacramento (UP4WS) Advisory Council, Aging Commission, and the Economic Development Advisory Commission.

Martha Guerrero, a Licensed Clinical Social Worker, earned her Bachelor's Degree in Social Work from the California State University, Los Angeles, and a Master's Degree in Social Work from the University of Southern California.

She got picked up at office of emergency services in the Individual Assistance Program.

In 1999, she applied at DMV, ending up in the Legal Affairs Division writing regulations (administrative law) for 10 years.

Her nonprofit Latino Information and Resource Center created an audio book of the driver license manual in Spanish because of the high illiteracy rate. Her nonprofit was also the lead organization that responded to DMV proposed regulations that would require applicants to have a birth certificate that was no more than six months old from issue date.

After Maria retired she went back to working campaigns, including with Kevin McCarty for assembly, Norma Alcalá for supervisor, Hundal for Mayor, and then Alcalá for school board. The school board had a vacancy, which Maria applied for but didn't get.

When the mothers of "Broderick Boys" came to her asking for help, Maria became aware that she lived in "the safety zone" as opposed to the gang injunction zone. She started attending city council meetings and due to dissatisfaction with meeting procedures regarding public participation, she formed the nonprofit and has been teaching the mothers how to organize.

Maria sat on the board of directors of Festival De La Familia from 2007 to 2009, was on the board of directors Washington Neighborhood Center in 2009. Currently, she's the administrative coordinator for the Chicano Latino Caucus of the California Democratic Party, with the goal of putting Latinos in public office. Additionally, she founded Google Community, Spiritual Awakening with over 8,000 members.

Correction

Regarding some information printed in the July 6th News-Ledger edition there were some inaccuracies in the Joey Lopes Park story. Lopes fought for the championship of the world twice (not three times), once for the lightweight championship of the world in 1957 and another time for the super featherweight championship of the world in 1961. Also regarding the last sentence about the family farming the land where the park is located, that is false. They owned and farmed the land parallel to the Joey Lopes Park two lots over to the west.

Fridays are for Senior Citizens at the California State Fair

By Jan Dalske

Anyone over the age of 62, is invited to celebrate their seniority on "Seniors Savings Fridays" at the California State Fair. A discounted admission of $8 is offered on Fridays July 8, 15, and 22, 2016. The gates open at 10 a.m. and close at 10 p.m. All senior citizens ride free on the grand carousel and the giant wheel.

It is best to get to the fairgrounds, located on Cal Expo Boulevard, early to secure a parking place near the entrance gate. By arriving when the gates open, you can make your way around the State Fair when it is cooler, finish up your day early and get home before dark.

Before you leave home, make sure you have packed any medications that you might need during the day. Do you have your contact information with you in case there is an emergency? Once you are inside the fair, don't forget to pick up a map of the State Fair, and the daily schedule of events. Note any emergency help locations, just in case you may need them. Do you know where the restrooms are located?

By looking over the schedule you can plan your day, see where the activities are that you are interested in seeing, and note the times that they start. You should be wearing comfortable walking shoes and have a summer hat with you for shade. Cool clothing is great on those hot July days at the State Fair.

As far as amenities go, seniors and others are offered wheelchair and scooter rentals, which can be reserved ahead of time. If you need to stay out of the July heat, the Expo Buildings are air conditioned. California Buildings A, B, C and D offer great exhibits and entertainment. There are also animal shows and competitions, live music from big-name bands and tons of delicious fair food. The State Fair is also the only time of year when people can ride the monorail, one of only two working monorails in California.

There is a covered picnic area complete with misters at the Coca-Cola Promenade. This location has a great view of the SMUD Promenade Stage and is just steps away from a variety of food options. You might want to start by enjoying the live horse racing at the Miller Lite Racetrack Grandstand and simulcast betting at the Satellite Wagering Facility.

Here are a few of the exhibits, demonstrations, and events that are taking place on Friday, July 8. The Wildlife Exhibit is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Forest Center. You can walk the nature path to learn about the many animals that are native to our California forests. You will see rescued animals and learn their stories, and by doing so, increase your appreciation of wildlife and their forest habitats.

From 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., there will be "Homemade Fruit and Berry Jam Judging" at the Save Mart Supermarkets California's Kitchen - Cooking Theatre. From 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., the River City Quilters Guild will be presenting quilting demonstrations along with hands on quilt block designing for the public at the California Crafts Exhibit in the Expo Building No. 8.

At the Do It Yourself Center, Save Mart Supermarkets California's Kitchen – you can learn from "The Best" at the Food Preservation Demonstrations by the Master Food Preservers of Sacramento, from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. They will also be sponsoring a Cheese Shoppe, which is open until 8 p.m. The Orland Farmstead Creamery was awarded five medals in The California State Fair's Commercial Cheese Competition. Find out what winning cheese tastes like!

Watch Ballroom Dance Performances by Arthur Murray Carmichael from noon to 12:30 p.m. at the PG&E Center Stage B. And come back later in the evening from 8 to 8:30 p.m. to see the Acrobats of Hebei China.

The California State Fair, which is held at the Cal Expo in Sacramento each July, is a multi-week event that has been taking place for over 150 years. It's a non-stop exhibition of fun and entertainment for the whole family to enjoy, with activities ranging from thoroughbred racing to corn dog and pie eating contests and athletic events like soccer and motocross as well as engaging educational events for kids.

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. Local favorite Chando's Tacos to be offered at weekly Sunday West Sac riverfront event

editor@news-ledger.com

Back in February Lisandro “Chando” Madrigal announced the purchase of a large West Sac facility that will be used for tortilla production as well as a restaurant. While they’re moving slower than previously thought, Chando says they want to do it right and will be adding about 20-25 people to staff that location. Many food industry businesses get their start with food trucks and pop ups, but Chando actually recently purchased a food truck, an old Krush Burger truck, to accompany their brick and mortar locations. That said, he’s bringing his truck to the Off the Grid festival. Honored to be a part of the event, Chando said as a businessman he’s very careful with who he partners with. “So when they reached out to us it was pretty straight forward that it would be a great partnership ... They pioneered the food truck movement in the Bay Area. I appreciate work that they’ve done in the food truck movement. By associating ourselves with them, it’s a great partnership. We’re excited to be a part of it. Chando’s Tacos will add value to the relationship. We’re growing really fast.” That said the more exposure of Chando’s Tacos means the more opportunity to get their food into other people’s hands.”We are jazzed to be working with Off the Grid. They have a great reputation in the Bay Area. They put on fantastic events. When they reached out to us, we were excited and honored to be a partner with them. We’re ready to rock and roll.” Chando said a deli used to be in place where the big facility currently is. Besides being used for Off the Grid, the old Krush Burger truck will be used for other catering events, a big part of his business. Actually having started the business catering in people’s backyards, catering is near and dear to his heart. The nickname “Chando” stemmed from peers who couldn’t pronounce his legal name “Lisandro.” Growing up in Olivehurst, then Tijuana, Chando’s father opened a tortilla factory. Then life happened and he fell in love and moved to Northern California in 2000. Speaking on the growth of his company he says it’s definitely been fast when compared to other companies. “We’ve had tremendous support from community, fans, customers and we couldn’t do it without love and support. It’s been a lot of work for family and myself. We risked a lot and fortunately it’s been paying off and it’s rewarding. We’ve been able to generate a ton of jobs. One thing that baffles me is that several families are supported by an idea I had in my backyard. That’s what motivates me to continue.” The entire business really is a tribute to his father who passed away in 2007. At the time, Chando had been working for Apple, but took time off work. “It was a major blow. I was his right hand man,” he said. They had a great relationship but the passing gave Chando a different perspective of life. “You were born into this world and you don’t know how long you have to be here to leave a mark. Looking back at my father’s legacy, I asked myself, ‘Did he pass away happy?’ I just wanted to do something that I had more control of, not leave it up to my boss. I wanted to be able to control my destiny. I loved Apple. It taught me a lot, but I kinda like what I am doing right now a little bit more.” Before he even started catering he did potlucks and of course his food would be the first to disappear. “I’ve toyed around with different recipes. I have a lot of years of investment,” he said. “Tijuana is probably the best place for Mexican street food. In terms of tacos, carne asada, there’s nothing like Tijuana, but when I came to Olivehurst, didn’t do things with passion. I don’t know if they are burnt out. I never once was satisfied.” Later up here in Northern California, he bought a motorcycle, developed an idea and began his catering. But, after about nearly five years of driving around delivering food by motorcycle, he said he realized something important. “The people I was going after not the ones I wanted to make tacos for. After 4 and a half years of catering, I came up with an identity. I knew who Chandos was. I found the Arden Way location and I was able to open that. Then I bought the food truck ... the rest is history.” Giving credit where credit is due, Chando said his biggest assets are his employees and his customers. “Without any of them, I wouldn’t go anywhere.” Speaking for his goals in the future, Chando said he hopes to build an infrastructure that can support scalability and growth. When the 10,000-foot West Sacramento facility opens up fresh tortillas will be made and food prep will be done on a huge scale. “We will have more control of our product and will support all the stores. By February 2017, Chando expects to have West Sacramento and two other locations. “once we have the facility and the foundation laid out then stuff’s about to get real. Now it’s about really seeing how far we can take this business. We want to be able to have a lot of people enjoy Chandos tacos around Sacramento and eventually get into the Bay Area, Davis, Vacaville. Right now our mind is set on Sacramento and neighboring cities: Folsom, Elk Grove, Citrus Heights.

At the Arden location, people from all over the world and country come to experience Chando’s Tacos.”I like seeing people traveling from different locations. I don’t know if it’s from Yelp or Trip Advisor, but they visit us from all over. I could be having a conversation with someone else. They’ll pull in and you could tell people are traveling with loaded cars. Sometimes they have bikes with them. They’re not Sacramentans. It’s really cool. I get a kick out of observing people in line. I get people of all walks of life. That’s satisfying. It’s more satisfying then getting the paycheck. I don’t know if it’s that or if it’s watching the first bite.”

Matías Bombal’s Hollywood

The Secret Life of Pets The MPAA has rated this PG

Universal Pictures brings us “The Secret Life of Pets”, an animated movie in 3-D allegedly for children, but likely a picture more appreciated by adults. In it, we see the adventure of a beagle-like Max, voiced by Louis C.K., whose master has brought home another giant and furry dog, Buddy, voiced by Hannibal Buress that will upset Max’s perfect world.

Max confides his woes to a neighbor cat, voiced by Lake Bell. This cat is quite cat-like and one of the movie’s fun creations. Max’s day goes from bad to worse when a rivalry between the two dogs sends them out of the house together to duke it out. After a few exchanges, they are forced into a world of seemingly cute pets that are the unloved pets of the world, operating a secret underground in the sewers of the metropolis. To save themselves, Max and Buddy play tough animals that have done-in their masters, all as a ploy to escape. The head man of the underworld is a wolf in sheep’s clothing known as “Snowball”, voiced by Kevin Hart. Well, he’s not really a wolf, but a fluffy bunny.

Sadly, although rated PG, I find that the 3-D and underworld elements in the sewer to be much to frightening for children. A moment with several snakes looming right into your lap in 3-D scared me and I was fully aware it was “only a movie.” The various animal personalities and behavioral types were well executed and entertaining, but much of the humor was of a crude and low nature, again, not so great for the smallest kids.

“The Secret Life of Pets” is directed by Chris Renaud, and features an effective music score by Alexander Desplat. Some lovely voice talent is featured, including Albert Brooks, Jenny Slate and Dana Carvey. Adults will laugh and enjoy the movie and there are indeed many funny moments. Fun for pet lovers, but again, might be too scary for small children.

Public Input Sought on Clerk-Recorder/Assessor/Registrar of Voters
With the retirement of Yolo County Clerk-Recorder/Assessor/Registrar of Voters Freddie Oakley, the Yolo County Board of Supervisors has embarked on a process to appoint a successor to complete the remainder of the term ending Jan. 8, 2019. While statute does not allow the board to call for a mid-term election, they have an interest in obtaining public input on the skills and qualities necessary to carry out the duties of the office. Yolo County residents can provide feedback by either: 1) attending the Jan. 12 Board of Supervisors meeting, held at 9 a.m. in Board Chambers, Room 206 of the Erwin Meier Administration Building at 625 Court St. in Woodland; or 2) by completing the survey found on www.yolocounty.org by Jan. 22.

Trees for Tomorrow – Free Shade Trees! The city of West Sacramento in partnership with Tree Davis has been awarded a large Cap and Trade Grant designed to reduce Greenhouse gas by planting trees. The target area for the grant is north of the deep-water channel. If you would like some FREE shade trees to plant around your home, please come to one of three workshops being offered Feb. 3 and March 2 at the Community Center at 1075 West Capitol Ave. from 6 to 7:30 pm. Trees are delivered to your home. The trees are free however, you must plant them yourself. Call 617-4620 to sign up. The Trees for Tomorrow Program will plant and maintain a total of 1,000 new trees in communities throughout West Sacramento to sequester carbon and reduce greenhouse gas emissions in an effort to lessen the impacts of climate change throughout California. Funding for the Trees for Tomorrow Program has been provided through a grant awarded by the California Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund and administered by the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection (CAL FIRE), Urban and Community Forestry Program. This grant will span three years; host nearly 80 planting and tree care events, provide multiple internships and em-
