Dr. Richard Pan discusses controversy and current legislation

Serving Senate District 6:

By Monica Stark

He wanted to go where the people were and he did.

Situating his office in South Sacramento across from Florin Road Bingo and the Rice Bowl restaurant, California State Senator Richard Pan (D-Sacramento) wanted his office located where people frequented.

From West Sacramento up to the Sacramento International Airport over to McClellan Air Force Base and southwest to the town of Sheldon down to Elk Grove, essentially all of Sacramento proper is included in Dr. Pan's district but 2251 Florin Road, Suite 156 is where he settled.

And people are coming off the streets to pop in and talk. "It's a good place to be. I want to be sure we serve all our neighborhoods. I am proud of the work of all of our neighborhoods," Pan said.

Having worked for several nonprofits over the years from churches to food banks and nonprofit health clinics nearby, Florin Road is "one of the communities in my area that could use extra help," he said.

Proud to be a convener bringing people together, Pan has held health fairs, kids' health classes, has worked with food banks and helped summer lunch programs. "We work with (Sacramento Food Bank & Family Services), Senior Gleaners to continue to get food to people who need help. We've done a variety of things on the ground to help out," he said.

First elected to the state Assembly in 2010, Pan has since authored legislation to bring more than $100 million in federal funds for fire departments, including $6 million for the Sacramento region. He partnered with law enforcement and local businesses to establish a statewide database to catch thieves attempting to sell stolen property to pawnshops, and he authored a law to allow campus police to use body cameras.

Time magazine called Dr. Pan a "hero" when he authored landmark legislation to abolish non-medical exemptions to legally required vaccines for school students.

Despite the recognition, activists attempted to recall Pan because of the vaccination law. In an article by Elk Grove Citizen's Lance Armstrong, Katherine Duran, an Elk Grove mother, and a team of volunteers responded to that bill with an effort to have Pan recalled. According to the article, Duran stated that she felt that the bill represented a loss of "liberty or right to decide what doesn't go into our bodies."

Apparently even after the effort to recall was unsuccessful, in a recent interview with this publication Pan relayed

Richard Pan (D-Sacramento) helped introduce the presumed Democratic presidential nominee, Hillary Clinton, at a rally on Sunday, June 5 at Sacramento City College. In a recent interview Pan said it was an honor to introduce her and share important statewide issues to the candidate.

further backlash that attacked an event where he brought together members of the Muslim and Japanese communities to talk about exclusionary rhetoric. "Anti-vaxxers came to protest outside, but they played a trick on the reporter. They claimed that I allowed hate speech (on my Facebook page). They showed the reporter these posts. There were three examples and each was less than an hour a part from another. One post was an anti-vaccine person who faked posting - 'kill the anti-vaxxers. See, they're threatening us too.' We proved that one of the posts was an anti-vaccine Facebook person who pretended they were

A grand opening was held Friday, June 17 with a ribbon cutting, bus tour and a parade of bikes. The new road, complete with marked bike lanes, replaces South River Road, which is being removed as part of the Southport Levee Improvement Project.

Grand Opening for Village Parkway South

A ribbon cutting ceremony marked the opening today of Village Parkway South. The new road, complete with marked bike lanes, replaces S. River Road, which is being removed as part of the Southport Levee Improvement Project. Village Parkway South provides access to property owners affected by the levee work. It's also an important north/south corridor through this rural section of West Sacramento, improving emergency response time and extending the City's bike lane network.

This roadway completes Phase 1 of the levee project, which when finished, will provide Southport with six miles of fortified flood protection.

Please, My Pet Needs Help

By Michele Townsend

Have you ever heard someone say, "it's just an animal" and think to yourself, "man, I hope they don't have any pets? They are clearly NOT animal people!"

I believe that most people are, in fact, animal people.

We have K-9 police dogs that are considered police officers, and carry the same penalties as human officers if they are hurt or killed. We have horses that patrol our State Capitol that are California Highway Patrol officers, making them State Police. We have drug and bomb sniffing dogs that are Federal Officers, as well as dogs we use to hunt for missing people.

We train dogs to be service animals to assist individuals with handicaps of all kinds, and there are therapy dogs that aid in the mental health of sick and dying individuals. And we have animals of many kinds that are used as rehabilitation animals for inmates in our jails and prisons.

These animals are just some of the "professional" animals that we recognize and honor. These animals are usually trained and cared for by professional agencies, therefore there is no challenge or struggle in affording whatever health-care they may need, as it is worked into a company, or agency, budget.

But, what about our pets that we have at home? These animals are just as important as the previously listed animals.

In fact, some people may say that they are more important. These animals are members of our families. There are, of course, those poor babies that are mistreated, abandoned, and abused. This article is not about those animals. (Although, I encourage you to report or rescue any of those animals if you know of any!) This article is about our friends that greet us when we come home, that chew up our favorite pair of shoes when they are learning the rules, and that are there for us rain or shine, happy times or sad.

What do you do when something happens to one of your furry family members? Hats off to those of you that have the finances to just run your pet to the vet, and are able to cover any costs that are incurred. However, there are many of us that are not in that kind of financial situation. That doesn't mean that we love our pets any less than those people that are more financially secure, nor does it mean that we are any less deserving of having furry or feathered members of our family. Some people say "that is part of being a pet owner, and you should be able to afford it."

Well, in a perfect world, that would be great! However, with more and more people living paycheck to paycheck, or struggling even more than that, emergency bills are suddenly another challenge in life! In California, if our kids get hurt, we are able to turn to Medi-cal if we are in this kind of situation. But, there is no Pet-ical. I am NOT saying that the state should be responsible.

I'm just saying that in a society where we clearly don't look at our pets as "just an animal", where do we turn? What do we do when we find ourselves looking

Outdoor summer learning: Career tech teachers continue their learning over the break

The Career Technical Education Department started off their summer with eight teachers along with the director, assistant principal and a Sacramento County Office of Education consultant participating in a five-day boot camp from June 3-9. The boot camp included updating all of the CTE Pathway course outlines. This work was essential to ensure that all courses include Industry Standards, CTE Anchor Standards as well as Common Core Academic Standards. There were also presentations from industry partners that occurred during the week. The staff said that the best part of the boot camp was working together as a team to prepare their own lunches. Mrs. McAllister participated in a week long externship this summer learning about the agriculture industry. The first three days she spent working with the folks at Farm Fresh to You. Her experiences included; learning about fertilizers, irrigation techniques and organic pest management. She even had the chance to ride on a harvester that was harvesting zucchini at the Capay Organic Farm.

She finished up her week working at Dave Vierra Farms. One day she was spent distributing over $1000 of fresh food to students at Natomas Park Elementary. She said that “this was the most meaningful 2 hours of my life. It felt really good helping that many people have fresh healthy food.” Her last day was spent on the farm harvesting cucumbers and zucchinis. She said after her week was over, “It is amazing all the work, logistics and technology that it takes to get food from the farm to the customer safely and with high quality.”

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

Note: Because the Beneficiary reserves the right to bid less than the total debt owed, it is possible that at the time of the sale the opening bid may be less than the total debt

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site http://www.altisource.com/MortgageServices/DefaultManagement/TrusteeServices.aspx.

Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

Steve Marschke journalism scholarship awarded to Daniela Delgado

River City High School graduating senior Daniela Delgado received the Steve Marschke Journalism Scholarship.

Planning to enroll at Sac State in the fall, Daniela will be studying sociology. “It’s always been something I have been passionate about. My mom majored in it when she graduated from UCSD. I am so much like her in so many ways, and it was her support that definitely helped me excel in school.” Daniela says her mom was the first in her family to go to college so naturally, Daniela is continuing the trend.

“Education is very important in my family and most likely I’ll be going into an education-related field with my sociology degree. I am an advocate for cultural diversity, mostly because I come from an extremely mixed Latin background, and I love exploring and understanding the ideology behind topics like racism and sexism and seeing the impact it has on society. More importantly, what we can do to eradicate these beliefs and create a more progressive and accepting society.”

Surprised to have been awarded the Steve Marschke scholarship, writing has “always been a side hobby.”

“I was very thrilled to hear my name when the scholarship was announced. It’s somehow reassuring to know that my writing is validated in some way. My writing was never anything major, just a few short chapters and stories, but it still means so much to be awarded a scholarship associated with Journalism and writing.” Asked to reflect on her high school experience at RCHS, Daniela acknowledges her peer’s opinions. “I know most people tend to fall into two categories: they loved high school or hated it,” she said. Fortunately for her, Daniela had a positive experience in high school. “I’ve just graduated and reflecting back on my years there, I can say that my life there changed me for the better. I’ve always been an academically driven person and the teachers definitely helped me stay on track.”

Very involved in activities, Daniela was a member of the school marching band and the president of two clubs. “I love school and education, perhaps that’s why I want to pursue something of that nature when I earn my degree. All I can really draw from my high school experience is that it helped shape me into the ambitious and social person I am today. I developed my people skills, my academic habits and was able to build on my work ethic. The teachers were extremely supportive of me, some I would trust with anything, others have helped me by writing my college recommendation letters. I loved high school and the wonderful experience that it was, and it definitely has prepared me for whatever follows, even beyond college.”

“The reality is we have to keep our kids safe at school. We eliminated measles in 2000 and having all these cases pop up and being spread primarily around unvaccinated kids. Ten babies died of whooping cough and hundreds got sick.”

Now hiring: After recession, state government looking for workers

During the recession, the state essentially had a hiring freeze, but now that recovery has been underway, they’re hiring again. The need for employees also stems from those retiring.

Working with the state Department of Human Resources’ Civil Rights Commission, Pan reached out to minority groups to diversify the workplace and to fill the open positions. “A lot of people who live in less served communities don’t know the process,” he said.

Offering workshops on how to get a state job with such nonprofits as La Familia, and Asian Resources, a lot work needs to be done to get the attendees to come to exam. “We’re still in the middle of this. We want to be sure more people have opportunities to apply for these jobs ... We need to be getting them to the exam.”

While there are companies that do this for a fee, reaching out to the underserved communities, Pan has been instrumental in making sure these workshops are free of charge.

Working with Elk Grove youth to create legislation affecting them

In February, Pan joined the 8th grade class at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Elementary School in Elk Grove in introducing Senate Bill 977, which would ban tobacco products within 250 feet from a youth sporting event.

“Youth sports is all about developing good and healthy habits,” he said. “Everyone on the field, bleachers and sidelines should be encouraging our young athletes to pick up life-long habits that will keep them healthy and strong. I am proud of the 8th grade class at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Elementary School for recognizing the importance of good health and working to make SB 977 state law.”

SB 977 would prohibit cigarettes, chewing tobacco, e-cigarettes and other tobacco products within 250 feet of any youth sports practice, game or other activity, where athletes under the age of 18 are present.

Data tracking system on violent deaths

Pan also announced that his bill SB 877, which will require California to establish and maintain a data-tracking system on violent deaths in the state, including gun deaths, passed the state senate.

“Researchers cannot fully confront the crisis and save lives because we lack research and tracking,” he explained.

“Databases are really important to figure ways to reduce injury and death. It also tells when things don’t work,” he added at the time of the interview. He said California used to participate and stopped for budget issues about 10 years ago. “Being someone in public health, I need to understand and (know) if solutions are making a difference.”

Prior to 2008, California participated in the National Violent Death Reporting System, a federal program to collect data on violent deaths. California was unable to obtain federal funding to continue the program because the state did not obtain law enforcement records required by NVDRS. SB 877 would require the California Department of Public Health to collect such data.

In addition to providing the data to the NVDRS, the data could be used to assist state policymakers and communities as they determine appropriate prevention and education efforts.

Researchers point to the difference in how guns and vehicle fatalities are tracked. In 1975, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration started a national database called the Fatality Analysis Reporting System. State, local and federal entities work together to update the database with detailed data sets for every car death in the nation. By contrast, a unified and complete database for gun deaths is virtually non-existent, explained Pan in a press release on the topic.

Researchers and policymakers have used the information to create safety mechanisms that have drastically reduced vehicle fatalities through the years. Meanwhile, gun deaths persist and in 21 states and the District of Columbia, gun deaths now outnumber vehicle deaths, Pan continued.

Also, in regard to Dr. Pan’s bill requiring California collect data on gun deaths, Pan reported that the following 32 states collect and participate in the National Violent Death Reporting System: Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

at our “babies” as they lie there, with their eyes big from fear, profusely panting, or trying to walk to you, and obviously asking for help? Who do we call? When do we call? If it’s not your animal, and you come upon one that is sick or injured, will you be responsible for the bill if you try to get him help? And how will you pay for it!? Are there vets that offer low cost or free mercy euthanizations? These, along with many more questions, are the things that those of us to be considered animal people, worry about. The following information are answers to some of these questions in case this happens to you. The information gathered is from Yolo County, with SOME information regarding a few Sacramento facilities. In addition, these are just guidelines and general information. I am not quoting individual business policies, or assessing any illness or injury to any pet.

There are many obvious signs and symptoms that indicate that our pets are having immediate health issues, such as trauma resulting in an injury, excessive bleeding or large wounds, inability to stand or walk, burns or seizures. However, there are a few other basic and standard guidelines that may indicate a life threatening issue, and possible need of emergency medical assistance (obtained by a local veterinarian).

For Cats – Are your cat’s claws missing? (sign it was hit by a car), Is your cat straining to urinate, or “howling” when urinating? Is your cat breathing with it’s mouth open? Has your cat been pregnant for longer than 59 – 60 days, or are there

Cats:

For Dogs – Many breed have common breed specific issues. (Check with your breeder or vet to learn about these) Is your dog's belly bloated with extreme restlessness and excessive salivation or thick, rope like saliva? (Common in large breed dogs) Do they exhibit signs of pain from their bloated belly? Is your dog choking? (It is common for a dog to get a super ball, golf ball, tennis ball, bone or stick lodged in it's throat) Has your dog been pregnant for longer than 63 days, or any problems birthing? Both dogs and cats should be attended to if they are showing any reluctance to attempt standing or walking, or if the animal is staggering.

In addition, with both dogs and cats, if your animal's gums are pale or blue instead of bright pink, this could be an indication of a cardiac emergency. Although dogs have a much higher chance of being poisoned, both intentionally and accidentally, cats get poisoned too. If you know that your animal has been poisoned, seek immediate help and bring the container to the vet with you. Do not induce vomiting unless instructed by the veterinarian. Here are some common household substances that are toxic to our pets;

Poisonous to Dogs and/or Cats -
Plants & Foods
Chocolate, mistletoe, azalea, rhododendron, onions, oleander, rhubarb, poinsettia, foxglove, tomato vine, philodendron, lily of the valley

Drugs & Pills -
Tylenol – especially to cats
Aspirin – in high doses
Aleve – in very low doses (only 1-2 tablets)
Fleet Enema – in cats
Many Human Prescriptions
Chemicals -
Rat poison, snail bait, antifreeze (ethylene glycol), pesticides, fertilizers, flea dips and sprays, gasoline, Walnut Husks, many household detergents/disinfectants (For example, Tide soap often gives skin rash. Ingesting is worse)
And lastly (for the purposes of this article), summer is upon us! Heat stroke is a very real and dangerous problem. It doesn't just happen when an animal is locked in a hot car. In many cases it happens quickly and accidentally. If it's too hot for you, it's too hot for them! Many times people leave their dog outside, when they go to run errands, etc. and it takes longer than expected. In addition to having water available, having shade is a must. Especially if there is no lawn. Signs of heat stroke in your pet are loud panting, bright red gums, and frightened expression. If you suspect possible heat stroke, you need to cool your pet down immediately! Soak them with cold water, or cold, wet towels (preferably before you take them to the vet). If your pet's temperature is 104 degrees, you need to seek immediate assistance. 106 degrees is frequently fatal.

So, How do we pay for this!? There are several options available, but you may have to put a little effort into it. There are many car insurance companies that now offer pet insurance for surprisingly low rates. You can ask your insurance company for the specifics. However, for those of us who haven't gotten there yet, there are quite a few organizations that offer grants for vet bills. Some are breed specific, and others are reason specific (only for spay/neuter, or vaccines are the most common), however the grants that are reason specific are for many reasons. Don't assume that because of the name of the organization, grant or website, that you don't qualify or that it's not what you need. Read the guidelines, and ask your vet what their rules are for accepting payment from outside sources. (Some vets may be willing to exchange volunteer time for payment of the costs incurred) These groups are all there for the purpose of helping your furry and feathered babies. I am listing basic contact information for important "need to know" numbers, as well as information that may be of assistance. Your local County Animal Control office or vet may/should have additional information regarding these and other questions or needs regarding your pets.

In addition to medical, housing or feeding costs, pet owners are responsible for knowing the laws regarding the responsibilities of pet ownership. Some of the laws to know, regarding animals in YOLO COUNTY are as follows (obtained at Yolo Co. Sherrif's Office, Animal Section- 2016 pamphlet The Rules Of Responsible Pet Ownership.) ..... (These are summarized and should be verified if needed for any changes in the law.)
1. All dogs, 4 months and older are required to be licensed. Cost is about $10.

(This is a misdemeanor, NOT a fix-it-ticket, and you will have to appear for trial in traffic court)

2. All dog's off the owners property must be on a leash.

3. Rabies Vaccine is required for dogs 4 months and older.

(They won't licence your dog without proof in hand. There are many lists for low cost vaccine clinics in our area.)

4. All animal bites must be reported to Animal Services 530-668-5287

(This includes by any medical professional. Most first offendeneders, your dog will be quarantined for 10 days, often at home, and a $50 fine.)

5. Any uncontrolled, aggressive, animal (determined by Animal Control) is subject to immediate impound.

(It is expensive to bail your dog out of jail!!!)

6. No animal, except a domestic cat (yes, it says that!) is pemitter to make habitually loud noise, or act as a public nuisance.

7. Dogs found worrying, injuring, or killing livestock may be shot by the livestock's owner.

If you have any issues regarding Yolo Co. animal laws, or need assistance with stray animals, animal bites, or animals that are a threat or in need of rescue, contact Animal Services at the Yolo County Sheriff. Please only do this through 911, if it in fact an emergency!

8. The Good Samartian Law

This is when you find an animal (not owned by you) that is sick or injured. Will you be responsible for the bill if you take the animal to the vet (rescue) for help? Unfortunately, inYolo County that is decided by each individual vet.

I truly hope that nobody needs any of the information that I have provided here, but the reality is that life happens, and we should do our best to take care of the ones we love. This is true for animals as well as people. For that reason, I hope that this information is helpful. Remember, if you already have an established relationship with a vet, they can often answer questions, and possibly help you over the phone. If not, it's better safe than sorry!

Widowed Persons Association of California Sunday support

Any and all widows, widowers or surviving registered domestic partners in California are invited every Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the meeting room of the WPAC office. Enter from the back parking lot at 2628 El Camino Ave., Ste D-18. Realizing how difficult it is to go into new social situations when one is first widowed, the Widowed Persons Association of California encourages widowed men, women and surviving domestic partners to come to Sunday Support each Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. with some going to dinner as a group following the session. The

Widowed Persons Association is designed to be of help to recently widowed men and women, but any and all widows, widowers and surviving registered domestic partners in the State of California are welcome as a community service by WPAC. # Letter to the editor

While sent as a "Letter to the Editor", this is also actually an open letter to Chief McDonald.

Chief McDonald,
I would like to first apologize for interrupting you at the opening of the Joey Lopes Memorial Park. Having said that, I would like to also thank you for your assistance in getting me in touch with the right department and your personal touch in facilitating with this problem. The problem being the intersection of West Capitol and Sycamore. Although it is marked with a crosswalk and there is a device in place to alert traffic to pedestrian use, it is hooked up to nothing (no lights) as I have been advised they were stolen. It has been my personal experience to be both a witness and one who has personally been involved with very near misses in that crosswalk. Someone lost their life in a very similar situation just yards from that location, hit by a vehicle not yielding to pedestrian traffic. As I am now past 67 years old and live in a nearby senior facility (ESKATON), I shop locally and use the local streets and sidewalks both as a pedestrian and with the help of my scooter. With the exception of the front of City Hall, the new college and library, the sidewalks are in sad shape to say the least. I know that private property is responsible for a major part of this problem, but some of those areas are owned by the cit and the state of California, DMV on Evergreen Avenue and the sidewalks on West Capitol in front of properties taken by eminent domain. In my opinion, the city should lead by example and address their responsibility for health and safety, as well as the beautification of the whole downtown district, not just in front of City Hall. Your involvement and that of Chris Dougherty, Public Works, Traffic and Transportation Department, was a breath of fresh air, as I had written several emails to city officials, from the mayor on down, with no response. Your immediate action has facilitated a promise form Mr. Dougherty that there would be a fix within two weeks (for the crosswalk only). Again I thank you and him and would like it known by the people you serve, That You Do Listen.

THANK YOU.
Jimmie L. Manerchia
Resident since 1953

NAMI-Yolo is offering a free six-session education class, NAMI Basics, designed for parents and other caregivers of children and adolescents with emotional and behavioral difficulties. The course is taught by a trained team with lived experience - they know what parents are going through because they've been there. The program provides critical strategies for taking care of children with mental illness and helps participants learn the ropes of recovery Basics provides participants current information about attention deficit disorder, major depression, bipolar disorder, conduct disorder, opposition defiant disorder, anxiety disorders, obsessive compulsive disorder, childhood schizophrenia, disordered eating, self-mutilation (cutting) and substance abuse disorders. Participants learn about current treatments, including evidence-based therapies, medications and side effects. They are given an overview of the public mental health care, school and juvenile justice systems and learn how to manage crises, solve problems and communicate effectively.
