Largest long-term care union nationwide opened headquarters in West Sac

Dozens of elected officials joined hundreds of caregivers for the elderly and disabled who are members of the Service Employees International Union (SEIU) Local 2015 as they celebrated the opening of their new West Sacramento headquarters on Wednesday, May 11. SEIU Local 2015 is the largest union of long term care workers in the nation with representational responsibility for over 325,000 long term care workers – nursing home and home care workers – throughout California, 20,000 in Sacramento County alone.

The Sacramento office, located at 681 W. Capitol Ave, Suite 100, will serve as the home base for efforts to advocate for improvements to California's long term care services, economic justice for all Californians in low-wage jobs, among other policy priority issues impacting care workers. With a dozen worker leaders and organizers, the new headquarters also gives the nation's largest union of long-term care workers a significant footprint in the Sacramento region as represented workers begin contract bargaining with local counties in the coming months.

Some current legislative priorities for Local 2015 include:

-Caregivers Count Bill (AB 2079): Bill which would increase direct care staffing levels at skilled nursing facilities to improve the quality of care for seniors, the infirm, and the disabled.

-Secure Choice Board Retirement Bill (SB 1234): Bill which would require employers to afford California workers a retirement benefit.

-Under the "Dignity Can't Wait" slogan, Local 2015 will continue to work closely with SEIU State -Council to ensure the 7 percent restoration of hours cut to the In-Home Supportive Services program.

Black Stone

By Jack Chandler

Somewhere around the year 2,000 B. C. (or possibly 500 A. D.; there are conflicting reports as to the timeline), the Patwin (Pat-ween) Indians were the first inhabitants of the area we now know as West Sacramento. The Patwin were connected by language with the Nomlaki and Wintu people, to the North. The Patwins lived between what is now Susan, Vacaville, and Putah Creek.

The Patwins were a peaceful lot, operating as hunter-gatherers. This was in contrast to the more nomadic and temperamental warrior tribes in Southern California and the Plains states. Apparently, the abundance of flora and fauna in the territory put the Patwin at ease. They had a banquet of ducks, geese, deer, elk, salmon, sturgeon, mussels, pine nuts, blackberries, wild grapes, and other menu items at their disposal. Acorns were fashioned into a mush which was baked in below-ground pit ovens and re-appeared as bread.

Small groups of Patwin men would venture out, looking for deer. One man would wear a deer head, in order to get closer to a deer without alarming it.

This raises questions. Was the wearing of deer's head an honor, or the result of someone in the group drawing a short straw? The head had to have been cumbersome, no doubt. And, wouldn't the deer notice that the "deer" walked upright on two legs and had several accomplices waiting expectantly behind the nearby trees? Perhaps not.

Patwin life was dictated by three things: the Seasons, the Weather, and the Creator. Each day was a brand new beginning and significant. Each day brought new messages.

It was on such a morning, a little over four thousand years ago

(or 1, 516 years ago), that Dark Hawk, the headman of his village, assembled his tribelet around a campfire at sunrise. It was mid-July. He stood in a noble pose, his back ram-rod straight, and squinted at the sun burning through the oak tree leaves, and thought to himself, "Gonna be HOT today..."

On cooler days, he would be wearing a cape made from rabbit skins and a headdress sprouting raven or woodpecker feathers.

As the group chose their positions around the fire, and dug into their fresh chunks of acorn bread, Dark Hawk recalled something that his own father and previous tribelet headman had told him:

"I know it gets hot out here, but...remember to hydrate."

He sat down and motioned to Singing Bird, his squaw, to bring a gourd of water.

One by one, Dark Hawk went around the circle and asked each one directly, "What did you dream of last night?"

This was a customary way of orchestrating the day's events. Dark Hawk would methodically take into account, on some level, the details of each dream and plan accordingly. For each day was singularly important. Nothing was to be taken for granted.

Great Elk, who was considered a seer of sorts since a number of his dreams had predicted the weather and crop factors, was always first to speak.

"Dark Hawk, my brothers and sisters. I dreamed of a man stepping on the moon.

He stepped out of a silver house, and wore the skins of a bear. But, they were white skins."

Murmurs rose from the circle. There was much nodding of heads and stroking of chins.

"I had another dream. I saw a man walking on a road. He was looking at a thin, black stone in his hand. Looking hard. He was very serious. He tapped the stone with his finger, and spoke as he held it up to his ear."

There was a snicker from one of the young boys in the group. A sharp glance from Dark Hawk silenced him.

"He continued to look hard at the stone, as he was walking across a second road. But, he didn't notice a large silver, noisy wagon that ran over him."

A barely-subdued gasp broke from the circle. This sounded like something closer to the bone, more immediate than a fantastic image of a man on the moon. Dark Hawk and the tribelet pondered this dream of the thin, black stone and the silver wagon. What could it mean? It sounded like heavy stuff, and could not be taken lightly.

After all, each day was singularly important, and nothing was taken for granted.

Yolo County CASA raises a glass to thank the community for big support on the Big Day of Giving

The Big Day of Giving was no doubt a giant day for Yolo County CASA. Despite widespread technical failures with the Big Day of Giving portal, CASA supporters rallied around the cause, some even driving checks to the Yolo County CASA office. "It was humanity at its finest," states Tracy Fauver, Executive Director of Yolo County CASA, "In the face of adversity, our supporters just worked harder."

And the hard work paid off. An initial goal of $16,000 was set by Yolo County CASA in February, with the King-White Family Foundation generously offering to match all donations up to that amount. The final tally came in at 22,197.40, with the match bringing it to $38,197.40. "The magnitude of what we can do with this is huge," states Fauver, "We are nearly three hundred CASAs away from providing every foster child in Yolo County with a CASA. This allows us to screen and train dozens more. The lasting impact this has on foster children is immeasurable."

To celebrate this success and continue the momentum, Turkovich Winery is hosting a "Raise a Glass for Yolo County CASA" event from 1-4 p.m. on Sunday, June 5. Luciana and Chris Turkovich will host the event and speak about their wine-making process while guests taste. Adding to the local flair will be appetizers prepared Chef Toby Barajas and his partner, Juan Barajas, of the Savory Café, Woodland's well-kept farm-to-table secret. Tickets are $25 and can be purchased at the Yolo County CASA website (www.yolocasa.org). "This is a casual and fun event to celebrate our Yolo County spirit of togetherness. We hope to have a very large toast to celebrate being one step closer to our goal of providing every foster child with a CASA by 2020 and create momentum for next steps," states Georgia Corbett, board member of Yolo County CASA.

Momentum is key for Yolo County CASA. "We aren't missing a beat," states Fauver, "There is a lot of important work to be done and we will keep working hard until we reach our goal. It's ambitious, but our community of supporters has shown us that anything is possible for children who need it most."

Yolo County CASA is a 501c3 organization that provides support to local foster children in the form of highly trained CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) volunteers. Yolo County CASA has been serving this mission since 1995.

Obituary

Betty Ellen Schmit
June 7, 1920-March 8, 2016

Mom left us on a glorious March morning in her adopted home, Anchorage, Alaska with her family by her side. Mom was born in Berkeley, California in 1920. Even as she was proud to be a Californian, she came to love her Alaskan home and when it snowed, she thought it was just for her. She was one of the first persons to walk across the Golden Gate Bridge the day that it opened. As a Californian, her favorite sports teams were the 49ers and the Giants. She also enjoyed NASCAR. She was a long-time resident of Broderick, California, where she worked for the school district as a school secretary at several different elementary schools. Mom was preceded in death by her husband, Daniel Schmit. Her oldest son, Bill Ward, and her youngest child, Jim Field. She is survived by her daughter, Sharon Aue of Alaska, her granddaughter, Michelle Maxwell of Texas, great grandson, Alex Maxwell of Texas, niece, Kim Panke of California, stepson, Timothy Schmit of California, stepson, Greg Schmit of California and stepson, Darren Schmit of Utah. Mom will be missed by many with fond memories. There will be a private memorial at a later date.

West Sacramento Library Receives ScholarShare Prize

Yolo County's Arthur F. Turner Community Library, located at 1212 Merkley Avenue in West Sacramento, has received a $500 matching prize from ScholarShare, California's 529 College Savings Plan.

Last year, ScholarShare partnered with California public libraries to conduct drawings that gave participants, ages 18 and under, a chance to win $500 in the statewide Summer Reading Program. More than 790,000 Californians of all ages signed up at their local library for the summer reading program. Earlier this month, ScholarShare announced the 40 winners; one from each of California's senatorial districts. ScholarShare also gave a matching $500 prize to each winner's local library, which in the 6th Senatorial District, benefitted the Arthur F. Turner Community Library.

"Congratulations to our local winner!" said Yolo County Librarian Patty Wong. "Reading over the summer is a great way to maintain the reading skills of students, as well as increase their fluency, vocabulary and comprehension."

"It's an honor for the Arthur F. Turner Community Library to receive this prize," said Programming and Outreach Librarian Touger Vang. "The $500 will be reinvested into prizes and programs for this year's Summer Reading Program at the Yolo County Library."

Yolo County Library's Summer Reading Program runs June 1 through August 15 and all eight branches will host an array of special programs and reading incentives for children, teens and adults, such as Olympic art and games, animal exhibits, puppet theatre and more. Additionally, all participants who sign up for the program in person at their local library branch, or online, will receive a ticket for prize drawings and a free gift.

For more information or to sign up for the Summer Reading Program, visit your local Yolo County Library branch or visit: www.yolocountylibrary.org. Connect with the Yolo County Library on Facebook at: www.facebook.com/yolocountylibrary.org.

City college’s West Sacramento campus hosted second “Kinders Go To College”

Approximately 90 kindergarten students from the Washington Unified School District in West Sacramento attended a special “Kinders Go To College” event last Friday at Sacramento City College’s (SCC) West Sacramento Center. The students were treated to a number of special college “classes” (15 minute workshops) in fields such as dental assisting and hygiene, nursing, art, personal finance, and robotics.

“We need to increase the college-going rate in West Sacramento and Yolo County,” said Art Pimentel, Dean of SCC’s West Sacramento Center. “The earlier we start the process of getting students to know about college, the better we do at getting them here when the time is right.”

Sacramento City College partnered with the Yolo County Office of Education and WUSD on this program. “We want to engage students and their families early on,” said YCOE Counselor Lori Perez. “We cannot wait to begin preparing students for college and careers.”

In addition to the classes, students received a special T-shirt honoring them as the high school Class of 2027, a backpack and other goodies from SCC and the Yolo County education office.

“Kinders go to College is a perfect example of the commitment and investment we need to make in our children’s futures,” said Linda C. Luna, WUSD Superintendent. “The best way to help our kids be successful is to communicate to them early in their educational journey, giving them some sense that their education has purpose.”

Early Childhood Education Needs Permanent Funding Sources

By Jan Dalske

The City of West Sacramento (CWS), as well as every other city in the State of California, has been struggling with funding their programs for preschool children for many years. The American Institutes for Research found that across California more than 33,000 four year olds and four times as many three year olds from low-income families are still unserved by any publicly funded school readiness program.

At last week’s State of the City Address, Mayor Cabaldon called for a sales tax hike of ¼ cent on the dollar for the November ballot. His plan included “quality preschool for every child”. The CWS was selected by First 5 CA to be one of nine Power of Preschool (PoP) sites in California.

The CWS program, the Universal Preschool for West Sacramento (UP4WS) began serving children in 2006. First 5 Yolo was the initial operator of the program, and in 2009 the CWS took over the operation. The CWS has remained a PoP site. The basic premise of the program was to provide free high quality preschool to 4 year olds in a variety of settings, regardless of family income levels.

First 5 Yolo Children and Families Commission of Yolo County helped 5,000 children in 2015. The county invested $3.1 million in local programs and services and served 5,400 children during the fiscal year 2014-2015. This was accomplished by using the First 5 Yolo grants.

UP4WS receives First 5 Yolo funding for childcare providers and preschool teachers to raise the quality of its programs. Grants from First 5 CA have been the primary source of funding. Measure K provided $100,000 and First 5 Yolo, matched that amount. This year, however, the amount was $50,000.

First 5 CA is changing their program model in July of 2016. A new program, IMPACT (Improve and Maximize Programs and All Children Thrive) will take its place. Not only will the funding be reduced but it will affect the quality of the programs. First 5 IMPACT will work to form partnerships with First 5 CA and the counties to provide families with the support they need to optimize their children’s development and learning.

Since California established the State Preschool Program in 1965, modeled after Head Start, elected officials have been looking for permanent resources to provide low-income children a pre-kindergarten experience. AB 1331 (Unruh) created the Governor’s Advisory Committee on Preschool and Educational programs, which was funded until 2003.

On May 4th, Assembly Bill (AB) 2660 (McCarty) was introduced. Early Edge California sponsored this bill to ensure that the State of California develops a comprehensive plan to provide a high-quality, pre-kindergarten programs for California’s disadvantaged children.

AB 47 (McCarty) of 2015 would have established the Preschool for All Act of 2015 to require, on or before June 30, 2018, all eligible children who are not enrolled in transitional kindergarten to have access to the California State Preschool Program the year before they enter kindergarten. Governor Brown vetoed this bill stating that the discussion on expanding state preschool should be considered in the budget process

It is time that Early Childhood Education has a permanent funding source. It has been more than fifty years since the State of California established the State Preschool Program. Our elected officials should make it a priority to find the necessary permanent funding resources to underwrite this program. Our childrens’ futures demand it.

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagor, the Mortgagee, or the Mortgagee’s Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right’s against the real property only. NOTICE OF PETITION TO

CASE NUMBER
PB15-0194

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Eloise L. Fletcher.
A Petition for Probate has been filed by Jacqueline Fletcher in the Superior Court of California, County of YOLO.
The Petition for Probate requests that Jacqueline Fletcher be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows:

Date: 06/20/2016 Time: 9 a.m. Dept: 11
Address of court: Superior Court of California, County of Yolo 1000 Main Street, Woodland, California 95695.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to your of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The Nice Guys

The MPAA has rated this R

Warner Bros. takes us to Los Angeles of 1977 in “The Nice Guys”, a private investigator murder mystery where bodies are piling up as an unlikely duo follow the winding and hilly path to get to the bottom of it all. This could be a 1970’s style exploitation festival of violence, but when you have Ryan Gosling channeling Lou Costello and Russell Crowe as a strong-arm for hire, the director/writer Shane Black goes for comedy with his violence for a tongue-in-cheek bit of entertainment that is a sure crowd pleaser.

It begins with the investigation of the death of Misty Mountains, a stag film actress, by Holland March. March is the somewhat inept private eye played by Ryan Gosling. His snooping leads him to elusive Amelia, played by Margaret Qualley. She’s the key for more information, but Amelia has hired a strong man, Jackson Healy, to keep March from finding her. Healy’s played by Russell Crowe, and after he roughs-up March, he feels bad about it and the two team up to find out what had really happened to Misty.

Amelia disappears and everyone seems to be after her. The investigation leads them through the underbelly of the Los Angeles pornography world of that era, filled with goons and wiseguys with possible high-level government connections. Suddenly, the dynamic duo are summoned to meet Judith Kuttner played by Kim Basinger, who is wonderful to see on screen again. She reveals her connection to Amelia and insists that the two find her fast.

Naturally, the plot thickens.

This has to be one of the most interesting mixtures of crime world grit and comedy that I have seen. Unlike the cynical and pessimistic comedy one sees when this type of thing has been done in the past, here the comedy is, in fact, funny when juxtaposed over the at times violent settings. Director Shane Black co-wrote this script with Anthony Bagarozzi and it may be one of the best bits of movie writing up to this point of the year. Clever, witty and most of all fun. It is as if amid this setting your two principals are Abbott and Costello. There is even one scene where Gosling, after falling down the hillside at a producer’s multilevel Hollywood hills home, finds that he has landed next to a murder victim, and is unable to talk from fear, gasping and wheezing exactly the way Lou Costello did in countless movies.

Nick and Nora Charles had Asta, and these two have the smart assistance of March’s daughter Holly, (Angourie Rice), who moves in to help out her pop as this case becomes more complex. This movie does have some continuity flaws, such as the Mercedes-Benz driven by Gosling which has the famous three-pointed star on the radiator in some shots, but not all of them. Depending on the shot, alternating visible wear of the car’s paint job leads one to believe three identical model Mercedes cabriolets were used for the picture.

There’s an important plot element; that of finding a movie film print that has evidence to help the case, yet in one scene a 16mm film projector is shown as having run the film in a private residence, and later on it will be shown on a 35mm Christie platter projection system at an auto show. That would be impossible. The projector film gauge sizes are different.

The era of the story (1977) is not as in-your-face as many other movies that take place in this time period, making it much more realistic and enjoyable. Nice to have a clever action comedy for summer! Despite the violence, I recommend this picture for your entertainment. Smart and stylish.

Angry Birds

The MPAA has rated this PG

Columbia Pictures and Sony bring us “Angry Birds” a story conjured from the popular electronic game by writer Jon Vitti. In the game, birds are flung from a slingshot. Here, the writer has invented a story about Red, a red bird voiced by Jason Sudeikis, who always has a chip on his shoulder and is constantly disgruntled. He lives on an island of happy birds that cannot fly.

As the picture opens, we are introduced to many of them: Chuck, a yellow non-stop talking bird voiced by Josh Gad, Bomb, a large explosive (literally) black bird voiced by Danny McBride, a gigantic big red bird called Terrance, given growling life by Sean Penn and Matilda, a group leader in an anger management class voiced by Maya Rudolph.

Anger issues resolved or not, a new presence makes its way to Bird Island, a large boat that drops anchor on Red’s nest home and reduces it to rubble. Who are these new visitors? Why, pigs of course! Leave it to actor Bill Hader to voice the principal nautical pig in a way that raises red flags for Red.

Sure the pig is funny, but not trustworthy. Through his anger Red sees that these pigs, with their bombastic forced friendliness, gifts of trampolines and big rally presentations to win the confidence of the birds, must really be up to something else.

In “Wizard of Oz” like style, Red gathers two of his classmates from anger management, Bomb and Chuck and set off on a long trek to find the mythical Mighty Eagle, whose statue has adorned the center of Bird Island since time immemorial. Mighty Eagle will surely know what to do about the porcine invasion. As they travel they wonder among themselves what “Mighty Eagle” will be like. The voice of Mighty Eagle is provided by the most famous little person actor of today, Peter Dinklage.

Will they find Mighty Eagle to save them from the pigs? Will they figure it out themselves? Normally at this juncture I’d tell you to go find out for yourself at the theatre, but this picture, cleverly made though it may be, is not going to get any better than it is, and it is not very good. This is because I found an inordinate amount of mean spiritedness in Red, the protagonist bird. He’s just not angry; he’s not at all likable. The scenario of an anger management class, and the flip nature of Red himself is not suitable for children.

This movie is made for the sensibilities of a cynical adult and with the mean spirit you find in stand-up comedy, veiled as children’s entertainment in animated form. I absolutely do not recommend this for children on that basis alone. Kudos to the writer for making a story from where there was none, a video game with birds flying from a sling shot, but it would appear that it frustrated him so much to create it he took it out on the story-line. This movie is a real stinkeroo! Mostly FOWL, but for a few laughs.

Now in Sacramento at the Tower Theatre!

West Sacramento Murderer Denied Parole

Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig announced today that a Board of Parole Hearings Commission denied convicted murderer Kenneth Ray Buffer's request for release from state prison at a parole hearing at Folsom State Prison in Sacramento on May 11, according to a press release from Reisig's office.
 In March of 1995, Buffer and Michael Andre Todd attacked the victim, James Williams, at a home in West Sacramento. Buffer, now 54 years of age, lived in Sacramento at the time. During the trial, witnesses testified that Williams owed Buffer and Todd thousands of dollars as a result of drug deal. Buffer severely beat Williams and Todd burned him with a knife that had been heated on a stove. They also poured a caustic liquid on Williams' body which caused severe burns. Buffer later drove Williams, who was nearly dead, to a parking lot where he was abandoned in the back seat of his own car. Williams died days later after being taken to the hospital. After the jury convicted both Buffer and Todd, the trial judge sentenced Buffer to 25-years-to-life in prison for the murder.
 Yolo County Supervising Deputy District Attorney Garrett Hamilton appeared at Buffer's Parole Hearing, arguing against his release. This was Buffer's first parole hearing. In denying his release for three years, the commissioners found that Buffer was still a potential threat to public safety and was minimizing his own role in the murder. They also found that he was not expressing full remorse and empathy for the victim. He will be eligible for parole again in three years.

The Woodland Community College Foster and Kinship Care Education Program will present "Building Blocks of Attachment" from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Thursdays, May 12, 19 and 26. These classes are free and open to the public, and coincide with National Foster Care Month. The attachment series will feature local marriage and family therapist Debra Wiegel, who will discuss ways foster and adoptive parents and relative caregivers can facilitate a child's secure attachment — the foundation for positive human interaction and building safety and trust in the world. Wiegel, who has more than two decades experience working with abused and traumatized children and their foster, birth and adoptive families, will give an overview of attachment parenting, discuss how vital a parent's role is to the trust cycle, and look at "emergent resiliency". Some of the topics to be discussed include: Defining attachment, how attachment can become compromised, behaviors associated with insecure or anxious attachment, how grief and loss play into the equation, effective parenting techniques that work with hurt children who don't trust and are striving to control their world. Classes will be conducted at Woodland Community College, 2300 E. Gibson Road in Woodland, in Building 100, Room 109. The office manages the estates and/or affairs of persons who cannot care for themselves due to serious physical illness, mental illness or other disability. Public Administrator services include managing the indigent burial/cremation program and the estates of those who die in Yolo County without a will, or without a relative in the state willing or able to act as administrator. The county memorial service is an annual celebration of the lives of residents who die alone, without any recognition of their passing. Decedents being honored have either been clients served by the office of the Public Guardian-Public Administrator, or those whose death and final affairs were handled by the office. Generally, those served through the indigent burial and cremation program are very low income and often disenfranchised from their families. There will be a short ceremony with music and time for those who wish to share memories of their loved one. All are welcome.
