Yolo Farm to Fork: Gala to raise awareness for local edible garden learning projects

The first day of spring, March 21, will see a celebration of Yolo County's agricultural bounty at Park Winters in a Gala to benefit the programs of Yolo Farm to Fork. Foods from the farms, ranches and vineyards of Yolo County will be featured in the Gala dinner that begins with a wine and appetizers from 5:30 p.m., continuing with a gourmet dinner at 6:30 p.m. The elegant event is an opportunity to enjoy a gourmet dinner using fresh local and hyper-local food in an amazing setting, the simple country luxury of Park Winters.

The Gala will raise awareness and support for the 37 edible garden-learning projects supported by Yolo Farm to Fork throughout Yolo County through its three locally-based programs: Davis Farm to School, Kid Dig It!, and the West Sacramento School Garden Network. "Edible gardens are extremely cost-effective, hands-on learning environments where students experience the real world of biology, physics, math and literacy and link them to their classroom learning," according to Suzanne Falzone, a career educator and current president of Yolo Farm to Fork, "not to mention the links to better nutrition, recycling, sustainable growing practices, and the life-long satisfaction that comes from eating food fresh from one's own garden."

Yolo Farm to Fork, a private nonprofit organization, supports garden-centered and farm-based education for students. The organization is dedicated to bringing locally grown farm-fresh food to school meals and to reducing waste through recycling and composting. Its programs provide the real-life resources for kids to improve nutrition habits, fight obesity and integrate garden learning with classroom instruction while sustaining edible gardens.

The Inn at Park Winters is the ideal venue for this elegant event, for its luxurious country setting and its commitment to growing and serving only fresh local foods. Built in 1865, the Victorian farmhouse has been lovingly restored and landscaped to emphasize its roots in Yolo County's rich agricultural heritage. An organic farm on its land provides the freshest produce for its gourmet kitchen, and Chef Scott Ostrander is planning a Gala menu of the best Yolo County has to offer.

Only 100 tickets will be available for the Gala. Tickets at $125 per person include all food and beverages, and will be available online through Brown Paper Tickets (www.brownpapertickets.com). A portion of the cost of each ticket will be a tax-deductible donation to Yolo Farm to Fork. More information about the event and the programs it supports is available on the Yolo Farm to Fork website (www.yolofarmtofork.org) or on the Davis Farm to School website (www.davisfarmtoschool.org)

Neighborhood works homeownership program

The city council unanimously approved outside contractor, NeighborWorks Homeownership Center, to provide loans for first-time homebuyers. At its Feb. 17 meeting, the council agreed to authorize the city manager to execute a 12-month contract with the consultant for an amount not to exceed $58,284 for administration of homebuyer assistance programs; and authorize the city manager, or his designee, to extend the contract for up to two additional 12-month terms.

In his report to the council, Raul Huerta, Sr. Program Manager for the city of West Sacramento, wrote that housing staff has historically administered these housing assistance programs, with the First Time Home Buyer Program only being administered by a consultant from 2009 through 2011. The FTHB Program has been one of the most popular city homeownership programs and has provided more than 60 low-income buyers the opportunity to own their first home.

However, because of the housing market collapse that began in 2007, demand for homebuyer assistance loans had been non-existent, according to Huerta's report. With the resurgence of the housing market and continuing low interest rates, staff began to see an increased demand for homebuyer assistance loans. In response to the increased demand, housing staff applied for and received a $500,000 home grant award for homebuyer assistance in 2014. As a result of staffing changes and existing workload demands, staff has determined that administration of the FTHB program and possibly some components of other homeownership programs would be most effectively managed by a consultant. This approach would ensure efficient and timely processing of applications as well as timely expenditure of the 2014 home grant funds.

Criticizing the proposal, though ultimately voting in favor of the item, council member Bill Kristoff questioned why it didn't pass through the city's Economic Development Advisory Commission. "I think EDAC really deserves to hear this. One of the questions I have is --It looks like we have half-a-million-dollar-home-grant award, or we're going to shoot for that -- How many homes can be purchased with $500,000 for first-time homebuyers?"

In response, Huerta said noted the city has already been awarded the funding and that they are anticipating assistance for 10 to 12 homebuyers, depending on the amount of funding each homebuyer receives. "Unfortunately, because of the timing trying to get the contract, it didn't jive with the current calendar for EDAC; so, we weren't able to take the contract to EDAC," he said.

Huerta said there is a waiting list of close to 80 people who are trying to apply for the first time home-buyer program. "We did open applications late last year and we'll put some on hold until we process. We have a couple of (potential home-owners) that are going through the process and have several on queue to get their applications processed," he said.

Pressing on, Kristoff reiterated with a limited amount of money from the home grant, it's imperative that EDAC is involved. "This is a first-time homebuyer program. We are only really talking about eight residences possibly, and I don't know of too many homes out there that are sitting at $25,000; $30,000; $40,000; $50,000. I don't know of too many of those that wouldn't require cash infusion to get that home up to par. So it's important for EDAC to look at these kinds of things so they can flush out and we get the biggest bang for our buck, and now we're contracting with some outside company, NeighborWorks, and we're going to pay them 50 grand. I assume this is coming out of the homebuyers assistance program and so that is even less money... I bring this up because I really don't want to see this kind of thing happen again."

The city administers a number of homeownership programs including the First Time Homebuyer Assistance Program, which provides low-interest loans for low-income buyers; an Inclusionary Housing Program, providing units affordable to low- and moderate-income persons; and a Shared Equity Housing Program for low-income buyers. By way of these programs, the city promotes homeownership among a wide range of income levels to retain the vitality of older neighborhoods and to make homeownership an affordable option for the workforce.

Elizabeth Burns
Written by granddaughter, Julie Davis

Elizabeth Burns was a generous sweet lady who served Jehovah for over 50 years. She was born July 25, 1920 and passed on January 31, 2016. She was 95 ½ years old. I am thankful for the time I had with her here on this earth as my darling grandmother. She leaves behind six grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, two sons and daughters. Her son, John, healed her holistically and she outlived four cancers. We were all fortunate to have her with us as long as we did. I will treasure the four years I was her caregiver. Grandma's father was a farmer working in grain, that's why grandma always liked wheat bread. Her mother took care of the home and children. Grandma's aunts Fannie and Minna paid for grandma's piano lessons as a child. They were so gracious to her, she showed the same loving nature to her family, her Kingdom Hall, and anyone who knew grandma loved to be near her. She lived in West Sacramento on Maple Street, the little house behind the big house with the white picket fence. I have many fond memories of the time spent at her house when I was little. She always brought brown paper lunch bags filled with gifts and rode her bike with the big wheels around West Sacramento to Old Sacramento.

Elizabeth Burns

She catered many dinners and served up delicious homemade vegetable soup. Grandma helped raise me, put me through tap dancing lessons, fed me, clothed me, and most of all, loved me. I know that white dove in the sky is you. Grandma had a stand at the Roseville auction for years. She loved collecting and selling antiques. She also was a massage therapist and for many years a CNA at Somerset Nursing Center in West Sacramento. She also worked the front desk at Vince's Ristorante many moons ago. She was an Elvis fan and loved playing his records. I loved her sense of humor. She always said "if all else fails you'll still have your sense of humor." I loved driving Miss Daisy and yes grandma, I agree Jehovah is extraordinary. I want to dedicate this song to you "Queen Elizabeth" I Will Always Love You by Whitney Houston. Madison and I adore you, you will be missed. Four generations strong -Elizabeth, Maryann, Julie and Madisun

Many young professionals gathered for United Way trivia night fundraiser at Yolo Brewing Company

On Wednesday, Feb. 17 at the Yolo Brewing Company, about 100 young professionals enjoyed trivia and beer while raising money to increase access to drinking water at local elementary schools. United Way's Young Leaders Society's Brews & Brains included rounds of trivia and beer, food truck fare, networking, music and more. The event raised $2,678 toward the $25,000 needed for United Way's Young Leaders Society's Hydration Station Initiative, which last year funded the purchase and installation of five hydration stations in target schools, providing every student at the school with a reusable water bottle, and educating students on the importance of choosing water over sugary beverages. This year's event will raise funds to install five more hydration stations.

Kristina Ricci, program officer, United Way California Capital Region, said all five schools in the Robla Elementary School District will receive additional hydration stations this summer, and this recent event is helping to cover part of the costs.

Robla superintendent Ruben Reyes described how beneficial the hydration stations will be to his schools. "Our kids are fascinated by technology, so we know these hydration stations will be a far bigger draw for the kids than traditional drinking fountains... And because the kids are excited about the hydration stations and have been receiving important education about the dangers of sugary drinks, we know we will see more kids drinking water and making healthy choices."

While schools do not have soda machines, some kids arrive at school with sodas in their lunches, despite sodas being discouraged.

Asked what the difference between hydration stations and the typical water fountains, Ricci said the stainless steel hydration stations are mounted on walls and include a cooler and bottle filling station in an ADA-compliant design. Each station holds up to 3,000 gallons of filtered water, and an LED light shows students when their bottles are full.

"The hydration stations are better than drinking fountains because they make it easy to quickly fill up a water bottle so students can bring water with them throughout the day. They also provide more appealing drinking water – the schools were meeting the state standards for access to water with portable buckets and cups, but kids are much more excited to drink water from a hydration station and will therefore consume more," Ricci said.

The first round of hydration stations were installed in the schools' cafeterias, and the second round will be installed outside.

Summing up the importance of having hydration stations, Lindsey Smith, chair of United Way's Young Leaders Society, said, "The hydration stations play an important part in educating children to make healthier choices every day. Being able to be a part of this initiative from start to finish and to see how excited the students are has been extremely gratifying. The fact that we are able to make a difference in these students' lives and create a partnership with the Robla School District helps us realize the potential of our future Young Leaders Society projects."

Due to the success of last year's event, United Way's Young Leaders Society members and supporters decided trivia night was the right format again this year and something different from a typical happy hour mixer. Guests were able to come with friends or meet new people, share their knowledge, enjoy good food and drinks, and learn about United Way's Young Leaders Society and the Hydration Station Initiative.

Touched with Fire

The MPAA has rated this R

Roadside Attractions offers “Touched With Fire”, a love story of self-discovery by director Paul Dalio that is complex and beautiful at the same time. The picture opens as we are introduced to a non-successful poet, Carla (Katie Holmes), at a reading for her book of prose entitled “Faded” at a bookstore. She reads from her tome with little response from those gathered who only offer polite applause. Across town, we are also introduced to a man, Marco (Luke Kirby). In addition to writing lyrics to rap songs, Marco has a vivid creative streak which is fueled in part by his manic behavior, as he is bipolar. Marco’s dad, George (Griffin Dunne), arrives for a visit and is concerned by his condition. He asks if Marco has been taking his medications as he looks at the disarray of his apartment, where the power has been shut off and Marco’s books are spilled all over the floor. Marco is concerned that the medications will not allow him to feel full emotions, and so he has stopped taking them, much to the concern of his father.

We also see concern in a relationship between Carla and her mother, Sara (Christine Lahti). Sara is a no-nonsense, cold, rigid and concerned mother. Carla also suffers from manic behavior and before long, Marco and Carla find each other in the same mental institution and fall in love. They understand each other completely, but this does not bode well with the doctors and staff who try to separate them. Their parents try similar tactics when they are eventually released.

The movie is told in seasons, with on-screen text describing summer, fall, winter, spring and so on. The story is compelling and the performances great. The photography, by Kristina Nikolova and Alexander Stanishev is beautifully composed. The use of color, light and dark sequences in the movie are suburb, with the two principals at their happiest with brighter colors and lighting. At their most oppressed, in darker colors and lighting. This is a first outing for Paul Dalio as a filmmaker; he himself has suffered from the bipolar disorder and was inspired to stay medicated and creative by Dr. Kay Jamison who wrote a book in 1996 entitled “Touched with Fire: Manic Depressive Illness and The Artistic Temperament”. The movie’s title comes from the book, but the narrative is entirely Dalio’s. He also composed the music, and edited the film.

The importance of this movie is that it serves as ray of hope for those with artistic temperament that suffer from manic depression. Not only was I touched, I was very moved by this and could see the essential value of a movie like this reducing the stigma of this illness in popular culture. It is told as a dramatic entertainment but remains a powerful insight into a world that clouds so many lives. Great for those that have manic depression, and even better for those who do not, in order to understand it. In no way is this a documentary, it is an excellent dramatic movie. I suggest you see it.

Race

The MPAA has rated this PG-13

Focus Features offers the story of Olympian Jesse Owens, who was the world sensation of the 1936 Olympics held in Berlin, winning four medals that year. Owens is played in the movie by a very likable Stephan James and his coach, Larry Snyder, is played by Jason Sudeikis. The movie begins in the early 1930s where we see the young Owens preparing to go to college for the first time. His mother, Emma, played by Michèle Lonsdale Smith, has fixed up an old blazer for him to wear. His strong and silent father, Henry, played by Andrew Moody, sees him off stoically. He sees his sweetheart and after handing her a few dollars, heads on a bus to Columbus, Ohio to try out for the Ohio State team.

Lynn St. John, Ohio State’s athletic director (Vlasta Vrana) and coach Snyder greet the athlete and are stunned by his speed. Snyder thinks him a worthy Olympian. St. John wonders if there will even be 1936 Olympic games as the Olympic committee was seriously considering not participating in the games due to the rise of national socialism in Germany.

In Washington, Avery Brundage (Jeremy Irons), a builder and member of the Olympic committee, is trying to convince Jeremy Mahoney (William Hurt) to work things out. Mahoney is for boycott. The two actors add much depth to the narrative. Given the era and place, Jesse encounters bullying from the other players, who insist on showering before he, intolerant of the color of Jesse’s skin. The coach is sure that Jesse could be an Olympic hopeful and encourages him positively. The coach wants to be sure Owens does not mind that neither the Germans nor the Ohio State students may look at him unfavorably. He wants Jesse only to think to win.

The rest of the of the picture fairly represents the actual historical events and makes an interesting parallel between the two historically conflicting African American and Jewish cultures. With the ‘36 Olympics, the two groups had a greater advisory, the Negrophobia and hatred of Jews by the Nazis.

The relationships between Jewish and African American athletes at the games is one of this movie’s best points and is engagingly told. Owens says it best; “On the track, there is no color, there is only fast and slow.”

The movie is entertaining with solid, likable performances. The sequences shot at the actual Olypiastadion in Berlin are fantastic, adding much realism to the picture. The movie does have historical flaws, however. Many of the buses seen in the early part of the film at the Ohio State sequences were too new for the era depicted. The music throughout the movie was not correct in style and arrangement for the mid 1930s, especially in Germany, where Reich Minister of Public Enlightenment and Propaganda, Joseph Goebbels, had outlawed jazz and blues music the year before in 1935.

The oddest historical error occurs with the famous airship Hindenburg, which was most certainly present at the actual event. The Olympic rings had been painted on the side of the airship for the occasion, and its immense size was a symbol the Nazis wanted the world to see. The actual rigid airship had been Zepelin LZ 129, and was named for past German President Paul von Hindenburg and his name was printed in large, old German typesetting on the front two sides of the Zeppelin. In this movie, as the zep passes over Jesse’s head, impressively blocking the sunlight, the name “Hindenburg” is on the wrong spot of the Zepelin’s outer skin, at the back and underneath, rather than the front and on the sides. A remarkable oversight since they went to the detail to include it in the first place.

On the other side of the coin, the depiction of film director and documentarian Leni Riefenstahl is spot on. She is seen in the movie and did, in real life, make a film about the Olympics in two parts, “Olympia”. That movie has images so beautiful and haunting that they remain timeless today. She cared more about her work than politics and insisted to her death in 2003 that her films documented what was, and that her participation was as an artist and not political. A remarkable and strong woman, she is played in the movie by actress Carise van Houten.

Aside from the historical errors and incorrect music, this may be one of the best movies to ever open in February, likely chosen to highlight Black History Month. I encourage you to see it; the performances are likable. It honors the truly great real life story of one of the USA’s greatest heroes, Jesse Owens.

Risen

The MPAA has rated this PG-13

Sony Pictures offers a new biblical story, not quite an epic, as it is a much more intimate story. “Risen” tells of a Roman Tribune, Clavius (Joseph Fiennes) who must serve his master, the Roman Prefect Pontius Pilate (Peter Firth) in performing an inquiry of what has become of the body of Jesus Christ after his entombment. The disciples of Jesus insist that he has risen from the dead. How is that possible?

The centurion thus begins a journey over land and self-discovery that will contradict his entire life as a fierce warlord. From the crucifixion, he will see Jesus after Christ’s death, meet the disciples and spare Mary Magdalene. The story follows the many Bible accounts accurately, with the added personal view of a non-believer slowly being convinced.

The movie has a slightly-better-than-TV special feel to it, much could have been computer graphics in a movie of this type, but most shots are in the medium range and in intimate settings and thus are not in need of much trickery of electronics. Fiennes is good, but not great in his stoic performance of the almost expressionless tribune with a perpetual case of one day beard growth that we never see him shave. The other disciples are presented mostly as simpletons, and if the movie has a design flaw in costuming and make-up it could be said that the disciples have nearly all perfect modern looking teeth.

To add young acting flesh, and a sense of Roman ambition for some color in the otherwise docile story, actor Tom Felton plays Lucius, a young aide to Clavius in discovering what happened to the corpse of the Christ. This film is directly reverently Kevin Reynolds who also co-wrote the screenplay based on co writer Paul Aiello’s story. Reynolds’ other films you may have seen include “Red Dawn”, “The Count of Monte Christo” (2002) and “Rapa Nui”. Overall well done, but not remarkable.

Did You Know Dogs Must Be Licensed in the City of West Sacramento?

Yep. It's the law, falling under Yolo County Ordinance 6-1.406.

The reason is two-fold. First, licensing increases the likelihood that your pet will be reunited with you if he or she becomes lost. Second, licensing your dog also helps prevent against rabies outbreaks by requiring all dogs to be vaccinated for rabies.

It's easy to get a new license or renew an existing one. Call Yolo County Animal Control at 916-375-6492 with questions.

Also please remember to keep your dog on a leash. West Sacramento's leash law (Municipal Code Section 6.16.020, Dogs on leashes) states, "No owner shall permit his or her dog to be in any residential, commercial or industrial area, other than on private property where the dog is maintained by or on behalf of its owner, unless the dog is restrained by a leash not exceeding eight feet in length. The only exceptions are Police K-9s, dogs assisting those engaged in hunting with a license, and dog training or exhibitions conducted with the permission of the property owner."

Further, dog owners are required by law to clean up after their pets (Municipal Code Section 6.16.220). Please be a responsible dog owner!

The Game

By Jack Chandler

This is the big one. Forget your World Series, World Cup, Stanley Cup, any cup. This event carries the most clout.

A popular West Sacramento sports bar is incandescent with activity. A dozen wide screens broadcast The Game. The volume is up to a deafening level, mixed with the revelry of the party-goers. The air is adrift with the mingled fragrances of buffalo wings, chili dogs, french fries, and anything else that can be deep-fried.

Here and there a bar patron sports the jersey of a favorite player. One man resembling Santa Claus on vacation wears a T-shirt with the slogan, "Three can keep a secret, if two are dead." Shots of Jack and pitchers of beer materialize from a bottomless well of spirits. This is the good life. Responsible citizens enjoying The Game.

Lady Gaga appears onscreen and stuns everyone with her jaw-dropping version of The Star-Spangled Banner (she even hits the high note)...followed by a roaring Blue Angels jet cadenza, no less.

Minutes into The Game, Jackson of the Broncos recovers a Panther fumble for a touchdown. The Game surges on. A face-mask call. A sixty-one yard punt return by the Broncos. An interception by the Panthers, deep in Broncos territory. Minutes later, an acrobatic catch by a Panther with less than fifty seconds to go in the second half. And so it goes. By half-time, the score is not lop-sided, but fate will decide that Peyton Manning and the Broncos dominate the Panthers (thanks to the Broncos' vigorous defense and the Panthers' lack thereof) by the end of play.

But, for now, let us direct our attention to the much-vaunted Super Bowl Commercials. Besides the alarming Skittles commercial featuring Steven Tyler of Aerosmith, an unexpected and surreal ad for a foot fungus remedy, a spectacular ad for Coca-Cola starring The Incredible Hulk, and a quick plug for Scientology, the 2016 batch of commercials is decidedly monopolized by car commercials and trailers for motion pictures featuring a plethora of explosives. Great fun, nevertheless. The point being, it's all about the spectacle and let's enjoy it.

Much discussion surrounds the inevitable half-time show: Who should and shouldn't perform. Who performed in the past. Who may perform in the future. This is all here nor there. Again, where else are you going to witness this many fireworks go off in this compacted length of time, short of Dubai?

The show starts. A lead singer crouches in the middle of the field, wielding a microphone. One of the bar patrons says to no one in particular, without irony, "Who IS that guy?"

It turns out to be the lead singer from Coldplay, who is joined onstage by his bandmates and a marching band, complete with marching violinists. Is he lip-synching? Would it matter, even if we could make out the lyrics? No, it doesn't matter.

As if this wasn't enough, Bruno Mars and his crew, dressed as intergalactic monks, appear seemingly from nowhere. Last but most definitely not least, Beyonce' marches through the pandemonium with two-thousand-dollars'-worth of weaves and a battalion of back-up dancers. The climactic moment features the three main players, Chris Martin of Coldplay, Bruno Mars, and Beyonce', beaming directly into the camera. One question: Where was Ozzy and was he even considered?

Throughout the afternoon, a boisterous raffle is held in the bar, and warm smiles and claps on the back are in abundance. Returning from one commercial break, the message: 'Football is Family.' flashes up on the dozen screens. Indeed.

Police Log

Compiled by:
Monica Stark
The news items below are collected from police dispatchers' notes and arrest reports. The information in them has often not been verified beyond the initial reports. All suspects are presumed innocent until proven guilty.

Feb. 16 at 11 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
A female was given a notice to appear in court for possession of cocaine. The location of incident was 5th Street at C Street.

Feb. 16 at 12:08 a.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
A transient was contacted regarding suspicious activity in an apartment complex parking lot on the 700 block of 5th Street. This area has been affected by recent thefts, burglaries and auto theft. One subject was concealing herself behind a parked vehicle. The suspect provided the officer with the name "Jady Wells". When the officer checked video booking for the photo of this name, it did not match the suspect detained. After researching other names, the officer discovered the suspect's true name of John Degen. A records check through dispatch revealed two warrants for his arrest. John was arrested on the warrants and for providing a false name.

Feb. 16 at 12:08 a.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
A suspect was contacted regarding suspicious activity in an apartment complex parking lot on the 700 block of 5th Street. This area has been affected by recent thefts, burglaries and auto theft. This suspect was on searchable probation for drug sales. A search of his person revealed NIK test positive meth in his left pants pocket. He was arrested for the VOP and meth possession.

Feb. 16 at 6:36 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
The reporting officer responded to a call for service at the 1300 block of West Capitol Avenue. A store manager called to report a male swinging a bag around towards the customer. The suspect was described as a white male, white tank top with a coffee stain, black pants. Officer Barrantes arrived on scene and observed Carver, matching the suspect description, swinging a bat in the parking lot. The suspect was detained in handcuffs and a warrants and record check revealed him to be on searchable probation in Placer County and mandatory supervision in Placer County . During a search of the suspect, in his front left pants pocket, a clear plastic bag tied in a knot was located. Inside the bag, the officer located an additional small clear bag tied into a knot. Inside the bag, the officer located a crystal-like substance, which the officer recognized from his training and experience as what he believed to be meth. The officer later tested the crystal-like substance which NIK tested presumptively positive for meth with a total weight of about 5.3 grams. The manager confirmed the suspect was the subject she had called police regarding. The suspect was identified verbally and confirmed with a coplink photograph of the suspect. The suspect showed to be under the influence of alcohol with red/watery eyes, slurred speech, and horizontal gaze nystagmus. The suspect was unable to care for himself and in violation of the terms of his probation.

Feb. 16 at 4:03 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
The reporting officer responded to the 2100 block of Town Center Plaza for the report of a subject trying to pass fake checks. Upon the officer's arrival, he contacted two subjects who were involved with trying to pass a check for $140 that belonged to the victim for his Safe Credit Union account. The bank manager contacted the victim and the victim confirmed that neither subject had permission to have the check or access the account. The suspect then attempted to cash a $600 check that belonged to the victim for his Safe Credit Union Account, and the suspect also attempted to use the victim's ATM card for his Safe Credit Union account to withdraw $600 out of an ATM prior to attempting to cash the checks. The officer contacted the victim via phone and he informed the officer that the suspect is his son. He stated that the subject had stolen checks for the victim's Safe Credit Union account, a check for the victim's Golden One Cred Union account and the victim's ATM Visa card for Safe Credit Union. He stated the suspect did not have permission to have any of those items, and that none of the checks from the victim's account had been written to the suspect. He stated he wanted to press charges against the suspect for attempting to cash the checks and use his ATM card without permission. The suspect was placed under arrest, and he was searched incident to arrest and the suspect was found to be in possession of an additional check for the victim's Golden One Credit Union account that the suspect had written out for $500. The total of the fraudulent checks the suspected altered/possessed/passed was $1,240 and the total that the suspect attempted to use the ATM card for during this incident was $600. The suspect was booked into Yolo County Jail.

Feb. 16 at 2:26 a.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
The officer was dispatched to a possible brandishing at the 900 block of West Capitol Avenue. Upon arrival, the officer located the suspect walking without his shoes eastbound on West Capitol Avenue. Upon contact with the suspect, he was in possession of a hammer. While talking to the suspect, he exhibited signs of intoxication: slurred speech, bloodshot eyes and unsteady gait. The suspect also stated that he drank a six pack of beer. The suspect was placed under arrest and secured in the back of a patrol vehicle. After the suspect was secured, the officer contacted the RP, who stated that he didn't want to press charges and he wanted to advise the suspect not to come back on the motel's property. While at pre-booking, the suspect became uncooperative. The suspect was placed in a wrap and a spit mask over his head.

Feb. 17 at 11:58 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
A suspect was served with a notice to appear in court for shoplifting at the 700 block of Riverpoint Court.

Feb. 17 at 2:40 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
The officer was dispatched to the 3000 block of West Capitol Avenue for a male resisting detainment by store employees. Upon contact, store employees stated that the suspect had stolen an iPhone the day prior worth roughly $600. While being detained, the suspect resisted store employees by hitting them and leaving red marks on their arms. The front window of the business was also kicked by the suspect, which store employees estimate to be under $950 at this time.

Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
A female suspect was seen in video surveillance prowling neighborhood and stealing documents from a vehicle located on the 100 block of Morse Court. The suspect also made the entry to the occupied home. Possible ID on suspect.

Feb. 17 at 1 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
An unknown suspect stole a tablet from the victim's stroller while checking out at a business, located at the 700 block of Ikea Court.

Feb. 17 at 12:30 a.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
The program manager for the West Sacramento Urban Farm reported that one of her produce stands was stolen and located at an address in West Sacramento. The item was returned to the original location and the report was taken for information only.

Feb. 18 at 5:21 p.m. -- Reporting Date and Time
The officer was dispatched to the 1200 block of West Capitol Avenue regarding a male on scene who the manager of the business had been having prior problems with regarding theft. Per the call, this male had been in the business on numerous occasions taking property without paying. The description of the male was wearing blue jeans, black shirt with orange tennis shoes. A male matching this description was located walking across the street near the business. He was later found to be a parolee at large.

River Cats announce 2016 promotions schedule

The Sacramento River Cats are excited to announce the promotions schedule for the 2016 season, with the team's home opener Friday, April 15. The 2016 promotions schedule is packed full with premium giveaways, six specialty jerseys, the addition of Orange Fridays and more.

Over the course of the team's 72-home game schedule, the River Cats have eight exciting giveaways planned for fans, including a Hunter Pence River Cats bobblehead (April 22) and a Madison Bumgar-ner bobblehead (August 12). Also on the calendar for the 2016 season is a Susacramento shirt giveaway (May 6), a Beat LA flag (May 27), a Barry Zito dual jersey (June 17), a Mike Piazza Hall of Fame t-shirt (July 1), a vintage grey San Francisco Giants cap (July 8) and a Gaylord Perry statue (September 2).

Brand new for the 2016 season is the addition of Orange Fridays at Raley Field. Every Friday home game, the River Cats will take the field in orange Sactown jerseys. Fans will be encouraged to break out their River Cats – or San Francisco Giants – orange for all Friday River Cats games and attend a pregame happy hour.

Also new is Wellness Wednesdays, a weekly promotion in which fans can participate in healthy-living activities before games at the park. Events like yoga on the field, a Tour de Cat bike ride to the game, and more are a part of this promotion. Other daily, value-oriented promotions will return, including Cache Creek Bingo Monday, Toyota Family Value Tuesdays, Miller Lite Thirsty Thursdays, Sutter Health Saturday Fireworks and K-LOVE Sunday Funday.

As they were last season, the River Cats will again be at home on five major holidays: Mother's Day (May 8), Memorial Day (May 30), Father's Day (June 19), Independence Eve (July 3) and Labor Day (September 5), the final game of the season. Each holiday game offers a ticket and picnic option for those fans who wish to celebrate at the ballpark. Similarly, the River Cats will celebrate local military personnel and first responders with a Salute to Armed Forces (May 28) and a Salute to First Responders (July 23).

Salute to Armed Forces night also features one of the team's six specialty jerseys: a Top Gun flight suit-themed jersey. The team's other specialty jerseys include a stunning Dia de los Muertos jersey for Halfway to Dia de los Muertos and Hispanic Heritage Night (May 7), a patriotic jersey commemorating the 1776 "Don't Tread on Me" flag for Independence Eve (July 3), a San Francisco Giants throwback jersey (July 30) and a tiger jersey for Sacramento Zoo Night (September 3). Given last year's popular Legends of the Hidden Temple jerseys, the River Cats will again be teaming up with Nickelodeon for a Good Burger specialty jersey on August 13.

Some highlighted ballpark promotions include Princess & Pirate Night (April 16), Bark in the Ballpark (May 29), STAR WARS® Night (July 9), Dinger's Birthday Celebration (July 10), Frank 'N Stein Oktoberfest (September 1), and Fan Appreciation Night (September 4) among many others.

Single-game tickets go on sale at 12 noon on Sunday, March 6 at the Ticket Office at Raley Field with an 11 a.m. advance opening for River Cats Season Ticket Members. An online pre-sale will be available on Saturday, March 5 beginning at 10 a.m. For an updated list of promotions, please visit rivercats.com/promotions or stop by the River Cats' front office. Nurturing Seeds of Love, Hope and Courage
Celebrating 25 years

Providing a safe emergency school for Sacramento's homeless children.

Mustard Seed is a free, private school for homeless children 3-15 years old which provides a safe, nurturing and structured environment, a positive learning experience, happy memories, survival resources of food, clothing and shelter referrals, medical and dental screenings, immunization updates, counseling for children and their parents, and assistance entering or reentering public schools.

Mustard Seed School was established in 1989 to help meet the needs of homeless children. Many school age children do not attend school because of their homelessness; some lack immunizations, birth certificates, or other documents, some are in transit, and almost all lack a support system. In spite of their situations these children are eager to learn and to be accepted.

Many homeless children are not enrolled in school because the places their families find to sleep are often not near a child's school and the family only plans to be there a short time. Sometimes the school needs an address or updated immunizations which homeless families cannot provide.

From fifteen to thirty-five children may not attend our school each day, and an average stay is just three to four weeks. Some children have been out of school for a long time and need help to go back. A major goal of the Program is to prepare and enroll homeless children into public schools, and preschool for younger children, when families have found housing stability. Since the school began, over 4500 individual children have participated in Mustard Seed.

www.sacloaves.org

For each closed sale, I will donate $250 to the Mustard Seed Foundation in the sellers' name.
