Honoring the Sacrifices of Fallen Heroes

By Omella Rossi

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As Memorial Day draws near, communities prepare to honor and commemorate the sacrifices of fallen heroes. Several events will be held throughout the Sacramento area, providing community members with ample opportunities to participate in the celebrations.

Memorial Day, observed on the last Monday in May, honors service members who have died in military service to the nation, according to the Department of Defense. The holiday has roots dating back to the post-Civil War era, when citizens would informally place spring flower memorials on the graves of fallen soldiers.

All Sacramento-area residents are invited to join the upcoming observances at any of the following Memorial Day event at the Cordova High School Performing Arts Center, 2239 Chase Drive, Rancho Cordova at 10 a.m. May 27.

The theme of this year's event is "Their Sacrifice, Our Gratitude," encapsulating the essence of remembrance and appreciation for those who have given their lives in service to their country. At the heart of the ceremony lies a musical tribute, featuring patriotic music performed by the Rancho Cordova River City Concert Band.

This year holds a special significance as community members together honor the 21st-century heroes who witnessed the tragic events of 9/11 and selflessly rushed to aid those

$3 Million Approved for Neighborhood Improvement Projects

Sacramento County
News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - During the Fiscal Year 2022-2023 budget hearings, the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors approved $3,000,000 in funding, budgeted in the Neighborhood Revitalization Fund, for a Neighborhood Improvement Initiative.

The Neighborhood Improvement Initiative aims to target the elimination of blight and enhance public spaces through investments in projects improving safety and livability in underserved areas of the county, with a specific focus on Environmental Justice communities, commercial corridors and areas adjacent to vacant or blighted properties.

"I am extremely proud of this investment," said Third District Supervisor Rich Desmond. "The Neighborhood Improvement Initiative is funding projects that are really important to many of our communities and are crucial to their identity, pride and sense of place."

Said County Board of Supervisors Chair and Second District Supervisor Patrick Kennedy, "This initiative really reflects our support of the diverse needs in the county. We're not just revitalizing spaces; we're improving safety, connections and dignity in our communities."

The County Board of Supervisors directed the Office of Economic Development to conduct extensive outreach to develop a comprehensive list of potential projects for the Neighborhood Improvement Initiative. During summer and fall 2023, the Office of Economic Development, with the supervisory district offices and county Departments of Transportation and Community Development, met with community partners, residents and businesses through community meetings and online engagement to gather feedback and have the public suggest projects.

County staff evaluated project feasibility and community benefits within each supervisory district for recommendations to receive Neighborhood Improvement Initiative funding. On May 7, the Board of Supervisors approved the allocation of all $3,000,000 for 12

Lancers' 2024 Baseball Season Recap

Bro Ahlstrom eyes home plate against Foresthill.

Story and photos by Rick Sloan

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Cordova Lancers have come to the end of their final season in the Greater Sacramento League (GSL). Next year they will be playing in the more competitive Metro League. They ended the season with an overall record of 14-13-1 and a 10-1-1 record in league competition. The lone tie game against West Campus is what stood between the Lancers and the Florin Panthers when it came time to crown a league champion. Head Coach Scott Ahlstrom is very proud of his players and is anxious to get working in the off-season for next year. "To have a lineup of only one junior, 3 sophomores and 5 freshman on a consistent basis and still be successful is an indication of where this program is going," said Ahlstrom.

His young squad of mostly freshmen and sophomores put up some pretty nice numbers with three of his players being chosen with All-League honors. These three individuals are sophomore Levi Nyberg, freshman Gage Cordova and freshman Bro Ahlstrom.

Nyberg finished the season with very impressive league stats. He finished first in batting average with .676, first in doubles with 16, first in on base percentage with .715, first in stolen bases with 49, first in hits with 50, first in slugging percentage with .961 and second in RBIs with 34.

Ahlstrom also had a great season. He finished second in league in on base percentage with .586, third in the league with a .468 batting average, sixth place in slugging percentage with .571 and seventh in RBIs with 18.

Cordova had a very impressive year on the mound for the Lancers, finishing fourth in league with a 4-3 record, eighth in earned run average (ERA) with 2.90 and ninth in league with 39 strikeouts.

Remember Cordova and Ahlstrom are only freshmen, playing against many players three years older.

Nyberg was also very impressive on the mound as he finished first in league for ERA with 0.98, second in strikeouts with 86 and second in wins with a 4-2 record. Besides All-League honors, Nyberg was also honored with being selected to the Superior California 2024 All-Stars for large schools. Nyberg's accomplishments are bringing back memories of many Lancers before him that have gone to the next level and beyond.

I'm visioning great things to come in the next couple of years. A jump up to the Metro League will certainly be more of a challenge for these young Cordova players, but I think they have the will power and the proper coaching guidance to lift their game play to the highest level. They say that cream always rises to the top, and that's what we are certainly witnessing here. All it takes is a few good men to lead the rest of their teammates to a higher level. Other players that I see becoming a major contributor for the next couple of years are freshman Gabriel Bargas, sophomore Alfonso Maya, junior Logan Salazar and sophomore Evan Nelson.

The Lancers did see some action in the postseason as they traveled to Rocklin on May 7 to take on the No.1 seeded Whitney Wildcats in the first round of the CIF Sac-Joaquin Section playoffs. Unfortunately, the No.16 seeded Lancers were out-gunned, losing 11-0. Every year Cordova is bumped up to the Second Division for the playoffs after competing in the Fourth Division all year.

Next year Cordova will have the opportunity to field a junior varsity team which will make a big difference in building the program. Many younger players didn't get a lot of playing time this year because of not having a JV team. The reason Cordova didn't have a JV team was because most of the other schools in the Greater Sacramento League didn't have enough players to field a JV team, let alone a varsity team. That's why I think the jump up to the Metro League will make a big difference, not only in team morale but in experience. ★

Cordova Community Council News Release

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Rancho Cordova's vibrant iFest International Festival returned with an explosion of color and music Saturday, May 11, as thousands of happy attendees celebrated world cultures.

Sponsored by the Cordova Community Council in beautiful Village Green Park, iFest is intended to showcase and celebrate the rich cultural diversity of Rancho Cordova by encouraging cultural groups to display their heritage.

They did. Stage performances featured native dance and music from ten countries, including Ukraine, India, Lebanon, Egypt and Mexico. Cultural performances included a Rancho Cordova ukulele band, an energetic clogging team and spectacular fire dancers.

The ever-changing entertainment was hosted by Andy Gee, who guided the audience on a musical world tour around the globe.

Koreana Plaza International Market sponsored tastes from around the globe at "Wines of the World," while families posed for green screen photos from exotic global destinations. Visitors were adorned with Henna art, smiled for caricature artists and took deep dives with tarot card reading. Cultural hair braiding, kite-making and exotic reptiles from around the world were on display. Live camel rides entertained children in a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

"No other event showcases the warm and welcoming hearts of Rancho Cordova than does iFest," said Shelly Blanchard, executive director of the Cordova Community Council. "It's a day to embrace our different heritages, as well as what we have in common. It's fun, and it's beautiful, and always a great day for Rancho Cordova."

Rancho Cordova's rich cultural diversity was the inspiration for iFest. The city is considered to be the 29th most diverse city in the United States, with more than 90 languages spoken at local schools. It is the only local celebration which showcases the many cultural traditions which make Rancho Cordova the melting pot it is.

This was the 15th celebration of iFest, which has been part of the Cordova Community Council event line-up for more than a decade. Festooned with flags from around the world with many performers mingling in native dress make for a stunning scene.

Rancho Cordova iFest is supported by numerous sponsors and organizations, including a grant from the Sacramento County Transit Occupancy

Tax (TOT), Councilman David Sander, Councilmember Siri Pulipati, City of Rancho Cordova, SMUD, Cordova Recreation and Park District, Sacramento County, Rancho Cordova Fiber City, Rancho Cordova Arts, Rancho Cordova Food Locker, Republic Services, Smile Kingdom, Golden State Water, Belka & Hagan Families, River City Christian, Visit Rancho Cordova, California American Water, Rancho Cordova Rotary Club, Rancho Cordova Moose Lodge, Sunrise Orthodontics, Folsom Cordova Unified School District, Atlas Disposal, Sacramento County Supervisor Pat Hume and Sims Metal Management. ★

Politicians Keep Shifting Blame as California's Homelessness Crisis Worsens

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Over the last half-decade, state government has spent about $24 billion to ameliorate California's worst-in-the-nation homelessness crisis. Local governments and private charities have spent countless billions more.

Despite those immense expenditures, the number of unsheltered Californians has continued to increase to more than 181,000 in the latest federal census. It's not only the most of any state but the highest ratio vis-a-vis population, and 28% of the national total.

The data imply that whatever officials have been doing hasn't worked – or even more ominously that underlying factors, such as extremely high living costs, particularly for housing, and macro economic trends are so powerful that officialdom can only nibble at the margins no matter how much money they spend.

Recent political discourse on the issue indicates that Gov. Gavin Newsom, state legislators and local government officials recognize, if not publicly acknowledge, the virtual impossibility of significantly reducing homelessness, and therefore have evolved into self-protective blame-shifting.

When Newsom was running for governor six years ago, he promised to appoint a "czar" who would wage a frontal assault on homelessness. A year into his governorship, reporters pestered him about making good on the promise. Obviously irritated, Newsom pounded the podium at a budget news conference and snapped, "You want to know who's the homeless czar? I'm the homeless czar in the state of California."

As the number of homeless people continued to rise, Newsom began shifting from promises of effective action to blaming others for failure – local government officials in particular. Just last month, for instance, Newsom demanded more oversight of local performance and threatened to withhold additional funds for those deemed to be ineffective, saying, "I'm not interested in funding failure any longer."

Local officials, most of whom are Newsom's fellow Democrats, have responded with complaints that one-year budget appropriations prevent them from establishing permanent programs to move people off the streets and into housing.

Both Newsom and local officials complain about a federal appellate court ruling that homeless encampments cannot be cleared unless their occupants have access to housing. That issue is now awaiting a U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

Meanwhile, the state auditor's office last month issued a highly critical report on the Newsom administration's Interagency Council on Homelessness, or Cal ICH, saying it has failed to accurately report on homelessness efforts and coordinate state efforts.

"Until Cal ICH takes these critical steps, the state will lack up to date information that it can use to make data driven policy decisions on how to effectively reduce homelessness," the report declared.

State legislators of both parties joined the finger-pointing game this week during an "oversight" hearing in an Assembly budget subcommittee.

They took turns roasting Meghan Marshall, the Cal ICH executive officer, for a lack of data on which programs have been effective.

"You come to a budget committee, and there's no numbers," Assemblyman Phil Ting, a San Francisco Democrat, told Marshall. "How many people have we helped? How many people are off the street? ... Because that's what the public wants to know. What's the money been spent on?"

She replied that "data quality issues" have delayed the collection of data Ting wanted. "That sounds like an excuse," Ting snapped back.

"The long and short of it is we have to stop measuring success by how many dollars we're spending," Assemblymember Josh Hoover, a Republican from Folsom, chimed in. "I am frustrated by the lack of urgency that I see today and the lack of data."

The finger-pointing will probably become even more intense as the homelessness crisis worsens, as voters become more frustrated, and as politicians, including a governor with national ambitions, try to avoid the fallout.

The Walking Debt

Dear Dave,

A few years ago, I had a real problem with credit card debt. Since then, I've gotten much better at handling my money, and I'm making about $80,000 a year. Two weeks ago, I received a letter about a credit card I had in 2020. The amount owed is $7,688. The letter doesn't say I'm being sued, but it says I have to appear before a judge in two months for a pretrial conference. I live in Florida, and I've never heard of anything like this. I only have $1,000 in savings.

– Damari

Dear Damari,

I'm glad to hear you're handling your finances better now than you did in the past. But at this point, you're learning that old debts don't necessarily die, aren't you? Ignoring debts isn't a good plan, because many times they come back to life like a zombie and come looking for you.

I'm not an expert on Florida law, but a pretrial conference in a case like this—over a $7,688 credit card bill—is highly unusual. I've been helping people with money problems for 30 years, and I've never heard of anything like this. It could be some kind of new tactic the collections attorney is using to try to intimidate you.

If I were in your shoes, I'd call the attorney who's suing you and try to negotiate a payment plan or settlement. Do you have anything you can sell? Because I've got a feeling if you can come up with $3,000 or so and offer it as payment in full, they'll take it. I don't mean to be unkind, but these guys figure you're a deadbeat because you've got a 5-year-old debt hanging over your head and haven't tried to pay it. They'll take almost anything they can get at this point.

In general, when you go to court over a situation like this, you're going to lose. You have a legal debt, and you haven't paid it. It's that simple. So, if you don't have anything to sell to make some money that way, you need to get busy working an extra job or two. I'm talking about doing Door Dash or something—in the morning before work or in the evening after work. Kiss those weekends goodbye too. Just go nuts for a few weeks, and make a bunch of extra money fast.

It won't be easy, and you're going to be dog-tired for a while. But you can scrape together $3,000–4,000 before June easily if you'll just put your head down and make it happen. Then, offer it up to the attorney. Demand a written release, with the debt declared settled and paid in full, and chances are, this thing will be off your back!

Social Security Matters

Future Retiree Worried About Social Security's Future

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I keep reading that the SSA will only be able to pay out 75% of benefits come 2033. If congress were to do nothing and this reduction in benefits occurred, would seniors already collecting benefits in 2033 have their benefits reduced or would it only be those who have not begun to collect have their future benefits reduced? I will be collecting my benefits no later than 2027 but my wife will not reach full retirement age until 2033 and we are looking for information on whether we need to adjust savings now to account for mine or my wife's possible reduction in benefits. Signed: Worried Senior

Dear Worried Senior: If Congress does nothing to prevent Social Security's reserves from depletion, Social Security – by law – will only be able to pay out benefits equal to income, which is estimated to be about 23% to 25% short of what will be needed to pay full benefits starting in 2033. That would mean everyone who is already receiving monthly Social Security benefits would get a payment 23% to 25% less than they were previously receiving. And without reform, new beneficiaries would get benefits similarly reduced.

The action needed to prevent those cuts from happening resides with Congress, and any program reform they enact would likely only affect those who are not yet collecting. Whether or how that would affect you and your wife as future SS beneficiaries depends on the scope of reform Congress will enact which, of course, is not yet known. That uncertainty, itself, is reason enough to bolster your savings for your future retirement.

The probability of Congress allowing the Trust Funds to be depleted, thus necessitating an across the board cut in everyone's benefit is, in my opinion, slim (it would be political suicide). Congress already knows how to fix Social Security's financial woes – they just currently lack the bipartisanship and political fortitude to do so. And it's doubtful any Social Security reform will happen this election year – rather, the opposing sides will likely just sling accusations at each other in 2024. But rest assured that both sides of Congress are acutely aware that reform of the Social Security program is needed soon, and we are already seeing signs that progress on reform may be forthcoming (but not until after the 2024 elections).

Congress is notorious for waiting until the last possible moment to act, and I don't suggest you alter your Social Security claiming strategy based on the unknown. But building a bigger nest egg for retirement is always a prudent goal. Also, calling your Congressional Representative to endorse needed Social Security reform which ensures your future benefits will not be cut would be a good move.

Dare to Live Without Limits

Opportunity

"Opportunity is missed by most people because it is dressed in overalls and looks like work."

-- Thomas A. Edison

"Don't wait for extraordinary opportunities. Seize common occasions and make them great. Weak men wait for opportunities; strong men make them."

-- Orison Swett Marden

Opportunity is sought by virtually everyone. People flock to the United States from all over the world in search of abundant opportunity. In our great country, there is more opportunity than anywhere else. Yet many of those who are born here don't fully appreciate all of the opportunities that surround them each and every day.

There are a couple of misconceptions about opportunity that are unfortunately embraced by too many. One fallacy is "opportunity only knocks once." Another is that you have to wait for your ship to come in.

The reality is, opportunity exists everywhere. There are new opportunities daily. Waiting for your ship to come in is comparable to playing the lottery; a miniscule percentage of people have a ship that comes in, whereas the vast majority sits in an empty port.

The key to finding opportunity is swimming out and locating your ship. The two essential elements are searching while being proactive. You will never find opportunity if you don't look for it. You will never benefit from opportunity unless you work at it.

The essence of opportunity exists within you. It begins with the control you have over your destiny. You decide what you think about. Your thoughts shape your reality. What you believe to be possible is doable. Whatever you think is impossible will never happen.

After your thoughts, what happens to you is influenced by your behavior. You can have the greatest mindset, but without appropriate action, nothing will materialize. Thoughts without action are fruitless.

Since you have the opportunity to control your thoughts and action, you have the opportunity to make changes to your life. At any time, you can decide to make a change, and then take the necessary steps to do so.

You have the opportunity to make decisions. You can say yes or no. If you make a bad decision, you have the opportunity to make another one. You always have the opportunity to improve your circumstances.

You have the opportunity to control your emotions. You don't have to give others the power to push your buttons. It's not necessary to get upset or angry. You are not obligated to fight or argue. You control how you react to your environment.

You have the opportunity to select the occupation that best suits you. If you don't like a particular job, you can get another. If you need more money, you can secure a better paying job. If you don't like being an employee, you can start your own business.

You have the opportunity to get an education. At any age, at any time, you can acquire whatever information you desire. From learning a new skill, to earning a degree, you just have to make the effort, and the knowledge is yours.

You have unlimited opportunity. You can accomplish anything you want to. Realizing opportunity takes effort. If you chose the path of least resistance, which is often the path of least work, opportunity will constantly elude you.

Don't wait for opportunity. Time goes by all too rapidly. Search for, find, and seize opportunity. Do what it takes to turn opportunity into reality. You have the opportunity to fail and the opportunity to succeed. The choice is yours.

And Another Thing

“The Board of Education is thrilled to welcome Erik Swanson as the next Superintendent”

By Bob McGarvey

We are close to ending the FCUSD school year, and there has been a new Superintendent just hired by the Board. The new Superintendent is Erik Swanson for the Folsom Cordova Unified School District. Board President Tim Hooey states that “The Board of Education is thrilled to welcome Erik Swanson as the next Superintendent.” The Board unanimously selected him as the finalist and the best for our District. I am delighted that our school Board was able to select him, and I hope he will come to all of our schools and introduce himself.

I received a call from the Robert J. McGarvey Elementary School and was asked if I could come to the promotions of the four classes who are the first full classes who started in 2017 when the school opened. My wife is going to come to the promotions, too, because she was a teacher in Elk Grove for 27 years, and was with me as we watch the school being built in 2016. It is such an honor to have such a wonderful school carry my name. The Elk Grove Committee that decides the name of new schools chose to use my name. Our City Council Member, Donald Terry, was on that committee, and when he suggested my name it was unanimous. We are looking forward to seeing the students.

As I work on this column today, it was great to talk to all of the mothers in our family and tell them Happy Mothers Day. We all know how much love mothers give to their children every day. It is hard to see how fast children grow up and appreciate what their mothers have given to them in their lives. So today, on Mothers Day, mothers are given a hug, or are a phone call when there are many miles away from their children, given a beautiful card in the mail, and I guess there are many other ways to say thank you mom. We love you.

We are very fortunate to have one of our sons and his family live about a mile from us here in Rancho Cordova. Today he and his family came to our house to have dinner with us, and give hugs and gifts to their mother and grandmother. A couple of our children live in Florida, but we were able to talk to them. Our daughter, Amy, who lives with us helped enjoy the day and was full of hugs too. Again, we talk to them and keep in touch with them. We talked to some friends in church and learned how they are keeping in touch with their family members. Everyone does the best they can.

This year will be important because it is a Presidential election. It is also a very important election to our city because there will be three Rancho Cordova City Council seats to be filled. When there are three to be voted on, make sure you take time to study and read about all of the candidates so you can vote for all three. In 2020, there were 41,700 votes that were not cast. That was the worst year for Covid in our city and our country, but this year look at the candidates.

From Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

Let's Play a Trivia Game

I have a great trivia question to start your weekend.

Do you remember who made famous the catchphrase, “Let’s be careful out there”?

If you guessed Michael Conrad playing Sergeant Phil Esterhaus in the TV show “Hill Street Blues” (1981-1987), you’d be half right. Esterhaus, the desk sergeant, sent his officers onto the street with a heartfelt, “Let’s be careful out there.”

But a little-known fact about that quote is that TV writers got that phrase from my mom.

That’s right. At least twice a week during my adolescence, Mom sent me out into the world telling me, “Be careful out there.”

Your mom probably said the same thing too, but I’m sure you didn’t reply with the sarcasm I did.

“Be careful of what, Mom?” I’d ask. “Be specific. Are you telling me I can’t walk the freeway to school anymore?”

“Why do I have to be careful? I promised my buddies I’d drive them to the beach so we can swim with the sharks.”

I’m sure she got my point. Her admonition was short of specific tips so it wasn’t going to significantly change my plans to do stupid things.

Nevertheless, she’d send me out with a smile, rebuffing my sarcasm, saying, “Just be careful!, OK?”

Still, I loved her concern. She spoke as a person of faith and her warning to “be careful” carried the sentiment of the Apostle Paul.

Whether you consider yourself to be religious or not, I think there’s good motherly advice in Paul’s letter to the church at Ephesus, asking congregants to “Be very careful, then, how you live—not as unwise but as wise.”

The passage continues with astonishing specificity, naming four goals to living wisely. (Ephesians 5:15-20)

First, from verse 18, “Don’t drink too much wine. That cheapens your life.”

My mom, a Baptist preacher’s wife was definitely a teetotaler. Still, I think she’d like the alternative as it’s suggested in The Message – “Drink the Spirit of God, huge drafts of him.”

The latter half of the verse names a second goal: “Become filled with the Spirit of God.”

I’m not sure what kind of spirit my mom saw in her youngest child. But I do know she encouraged me to let God reflect the divine image He placed in me. Even today, I know she sees in me “fightings within and fears without,” much like the hymn “Just As I Am.”

The third goal Paul mentions is “speak to one another with psalms, hymns, and songs from the Spirit” (v.19).

That’s a bit confusing. Are we supposed to sing to one another as if we are characters in a musical?

No. I think Paul is saying, “Speak to each other as if God was speaking his love through you.”

My mom’s translation of this – and probably your mom’s too -- was, “If you can’t say anything nice, don’t say anything at all. But by all means, say nice things!”

Finally, verse 20 tells us to be careful that we are “always giving thanks to God for everything.”

Thank God for everything. REALLY?

No. Paul’s writings, here and elsewhere, emphasize that we take care to maintain the spirit of thanksgiving for all situations, both visible and invisible.

Even now I’m thankful that, at age 91, my mom is still around to tell me to be careful with my grammar, my speech and my posture.

Which proves my last catchphrase for the day: “There’s no place like home.” -The Wizard of Oz, 1939 ★

in need, many of whom did not return.

An event highlight will be the presentation by the Non Commissioned Officers Association, showcasing the “Missing Man Table.” This symbolic gesture, led by retired Air Force veteran Jim Sullivan, features a dinner table set with an empty chair, representing those who are missing or fallen.

“This is a dignified and beautiful service,” said Cordova Community Council executive director Shelly Blanchard. “All gave some and some gave all, and we are honoring that here in Rancho Cordova.”

On that same date, May 27, community members will also gather at the East Lawn ceremony at 10 a.m., where attendees can gather to honor the fallen heroes of the United States Armed Forces.

The event is being hosted at multiple locations including East Lawn Sierra Hills at 5757 Greenback Lane, Sacramento; 4300 Folsom Blvd., East Sacramento; and 9189 East Stockton Blvd., Elk Grove.

The Memorial Day ceremony promises to be a moving tribute where distinguished military speakers such as Bob Hilton and Gilbert Morales will take the stage, along with musician and bagpiper Liz Tubbs. Part of the program will also include the Armed Forces Medley and the POW/MIA (Prisoner of War/Missing in Action) ceremony. Complimentary refreshments will be provided.

Other events include the Memorial Day tribute at Mount Vernon Memorial Park at 11 a.m. May 27 at 8201 Greenback Lane.

Starting at 5:30 a.m. May 27, Boy and Girl Scout troops will raise donated American flags around the park, followed by the fire department hoisting a 50-foot flag at the entrance at 10 a.m.

“On Memorial Day, it is important to stop and reflect on the American patriots who have paid the ultimate sacrifice to keep us free,” said Mount Vernon Memorial Park’s general manager Carol Rybolt. “I am grateful for the brave men and women who serve in the military, standing guard to protect our country and our rights. Let us honor and remember them on this Memorial Day and every day.”

The event will feature a military band, a keynote speech by a Colonel from the California National Guard, and a Color Guard from the UC Davis ROTC program. A possible flyover, a popular attraction in previous years, is pending confirmation, adding to the day’s magic.

The tribute concludes at noon with the symbolic raising of the American Flag honoring the sacrifices and expressing gratitude to those who have given their lives.

The 25th annual Memorial Day Ceremony at the Fair Oaks Cemetery District will take place from 10 a.m. to noon on May 25 giving special recognition to the women in time of war between the American Revolutionary War and World War II. The cemetery is at 7780 Olive St., Fair Oaks. ★

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DOLORES ANITA JONES PYNE CASE NO. 23PR001113

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors of and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Dolores Anita Jones Pyne.

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Charlotte Jones, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, requesting Charlotte Jones be appointed as personal representative(s) to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows June 23, 2024, 1:30 p.m. in Dept 129; Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, William R. Ridgeway Family Relations Courthouse, 3341 Power Inn Road, Sacramento, CA 95826.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF JORGE ARMANDO BARRAZA CASE NO. 24PR001265

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors of and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Jorge Armando Barraza.

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Maria Del Socorro Perez Huerta, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, requesting Maria Del Socorro Perez Huerta be appointed as personal representative(s) to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows June 11, 2024, 9:00 a.m. in Dept 129; Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, William R. Ridgeway Family Relations Courthouse, 3341 Power Inn Road, Sacramento, CA 95826.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The name, address and telephone number of the Petitioner is: Tabitha E. Thompson, 8662 Farewell Court, Elk Grove, CA 95624; 916-730-3947

The court may decide against you without your being heard unless you respond within 30 days. Read the information below. You have 30 CALENDAR

DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court.

There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Website (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association. NOTE: The court has a statutory lien for waived fees and costs on any settlement or arbitration award of $10,000 or more in a civil case. The court's lien must be paid before the court will dismiss the case. AVISO! Lo han demandado. Si no responde dentro de 30 dias, la corte puede decidir en su contra sin escuchar su version. Rancho Cordova Residents Spend $2,604 Per Month

Doxo News Release

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Doxo recently released a report, "2024 Report: Cities in California where Household Expenses are Highest and Lowest."

The report found that the average California household pays $3,010 a month for the 10 most common household bills, California's household expenses, on average, are 41.6% higher than the national average of $2,126, California ranks Number 2 out of 50 states in terms of average monthly spending, and California households spend 36% of their income on household bills. Annually, California residents pay $521 billion in household bills.

Doxo also has bill pay data for Rancho Cordova, including the average Rancho Cordova household pays $2,604 a month, or $31,248 a year for the 10 most common household bills compared to the state average of $3,010 and the national average of $2,126, Rancho Cordova is the 332th most expensive city in California for household expenses and the household expenses in Rancho Cordova, on average, are 22.5% higher than the national average of $2,126, and 13.5% lower than the state average of $3,010.

Rancho Cordova households spend 32% of their income on household bills. ★

Concerns Loom Over Garage and Backyard Sizes for Rancho Cordova Developments

By Sharon Pearce

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Rancho Cordova Planning Commission approved adding two designs to its Ranch Villages project known as Silverbrook located within The Ranch SPA, south of Chrysanthy Boulevard. The two new floor plans are 1,850 square feet and 2,077 square feet, the same style as the rest of the Villages.

The reason for the additional floor plans was buyers' demand and the two additional plans give the builders more flexibility. The Planning Commission was told these designs are not pre-plotted so it isn't known where they will go within the Silverbrook area. The color pallets are complimentary, each elevation having a choice of three-color pallets.

Planning Commission Vice-Chair Lee Frechette said a trend in recent development projects has the setback for garages about 16 feet and the garages are trending at about 18 feet. Frechette said normal garages are 19 feet. "Maybe a lot of cars will not fit in this size garage," Frechette said.

"It is not a deviation from a current plan. It is beginning to be consistent and 20 years down the road, how will these neighborhoods look, if cars and vans don't fit and there is no parking on the street?" he said. "I see a garage discussion coming up."

A city staff spokesman responded, "A lot of our developments do go between 16 1/2 and 18 square feet. We do see that trend and it is something that we will pursue in subsequent plans in the city."

Commissioner Frechette responded, "I just want to put this on the radar because I am noticing something similar in the development near Raley's. There's no parking on the street. So where do we expect people to park their cars?"

Commissioner Leroy Tripette mentioned the trend in the size of backyards and Chairperson Cynthia Stauss added to the list of concerns by asking when a single-story residence would be in future developments.

The motion to approve Silverbrook and implement the two designs passed 5:0.

All consent items passed unanimously, including the exemption of Anatolia III Village 27 small lot tentative subdivision map (CEQA Exempt) located at the northwest corner of Kiefer Boulevard and Rancho Cordova Parkway.

Planning Director Darcy Goulart proposed to cancel the regular Planning Commission meeting on June 12 because the National League of Cities Summer Board Meeting will be hosted in Rancho Cordova then, with many events scheduled, including its closing dinner on that date. No objections to moving the meeting forward were voiced. The May 22 regularly scheduled meeting was affirmed. Goulart indicated that "a very important work session discussion item" will be brought at that meeting.

Goulart indicated the City Council appointed two new planning commissioners to fill the two at-large terms, Dave Huhn and T. Nifton. Those terms will run through December 2026.

"Dave is going on vacation, so he won't be sworn in on May 22nd," Goulart said. "I am not sure we have any items scheduled for the second meeting in June," suggesting there might not be any planning meetings that month. ★

Californians Will See Lower Electricity Rates and a New Fee That Won't Vary with Power Use

State utility regulators decided May 9 to let California's largest power providers stick their customers with a new monthly flat fee in exchange for a reduction in the overall price of electricity, a controversial change to the way that millions of households pay their utility bills with weighty implications for state climate change policy.

Under the new policy, utilities will be required to reduce the price households pay for the electricity they use every time they charge a phone or run an air conditioner. That rate cut will vary from between 8% and 18%, depending on the utility, season and time of day, according to the commission's analysis.

To make up for the lost revenue, regulators have introduced the concept of a "fixed charge," a break from California electric billing tradition. For decades electric bills from Pacific Gas & Electric, Southern California Edison and San Diego Gas & Electric have been the "pay as you go" variety, with households only paying for the electricity they use.

Starting in late 2025 for SCE and SDG&E customers and in early 2026 for those with PG&E, the state's investor-owned utilities will be able to charge customers a monthly fee regardless of how much power the customer draws from the grid. So-called fixed charges are a mainstay of electric billing across most of the country, with an average fee of roughly $11.

The new California charge will be $24 for most customers, but lower income households, who already qualify for discounted electric rates, will see fees of either $6 or $12.

WINNERS AND LOSERS FROM A FIXED CHARGE

For households that do not benefit from discounts, lower energy users will pay more every month.

The unanimous vote by the California Public Utilities Commission comes after months of heated debate that pitted Assembly and Senate Democrats and Republicans against legislative leadership and the governor's office, advocates of rooftop solar against labor unions representing utility workers and environmental advocates against one another.

Backers of the billing change say it's a necessary step to bring down electricity rates in California, which are among the highest in the country. California regulators want all new cars sold to be electric by 2035 and are taking steps to discourage gas-powered indoor appliances. Those goals are hard to square with sky-high electric prices.

The state's planned "transition to all electric homes, cars and trucks is truly transformative," said CPUC President Alice Reynolds at today's hearing. Under the proposed change all customers "will be better off financially if they electrify — whether that's purchasing an electric vehicle or switching out a gas appliance with an electric one."

Opponents argue that the change in billing policy won't move the needle for most households considering dumping their gas-powered cars and appliances, which can cost tens of thousands of dollars, but will instead needlessly discourage energy conservation efforts while punishing rooftop solar customers.

The policy is a departure from 50 years of regulatory precedent in California, which is "if you use more you pay more and that encourages conservation," said Loretta Lynch, a former CPUC president and critic of what she sees as a "pro-utility" bias on the current body. Reducing the penalty on high energy use will also have "huge cost consequences down the road" for a grid that already struggles to keep up with summer-time demand, she said.

The ultimate impact of the policy change may be more muted than either side wants to admit, said Merideth Fowlie, a UC Berkeley economist and one of a handful of researchers to initially float the idea in 2021 of an income-graduated fixed charge as one way to pay for reduced electricity rates.

The three-tiered CPUC-approved change doesn't vary much by income and its promised rate reductions are relatively modest, said Fowlie.

"Clearly, I'm disappointed, because I don't think it comes close to where I think we should be in terms of reductions," she said. "If this forces another conversation — which is, 'Why are we paying for wildfire risk mitigation, which is essentially climate change adaptation, or some of these major investments in decarbonisation, on bills?' — I think that's an important conversation to have."

WINNER AND LOSERS IN NEW CALIFORNIA UTILITY FEE

Though utilities won't earn any more revenue or profit as a direct result of the change, there will be winners and losers under the new billing program.

The reduced price of electricity will likely save money for people who use a lot of electricity, such as a large household in an AC-dependent part of the state or the owner of an electric SUV, a heat pump and an induction stove. That reduction will be more than enough to offset the cost of the new fee. Many, if not most, low-income households who qualify for the discounted fixed charge will also emerge as financial winners.

But there are sure to be plenty of losers, too. Smaller households, Californians living along the temperate coast, energy-conscious customers and people with solar panels on their rooftops are all more likely to see their total utility bills rise.

That group makes for a powerful political bloc that has fiercely rallied against the regulatory change for months. Many showed up or called in at the commission hearing.

"The big utility tax will increase monthly utility bills on four million households while doing nothing to encourage electrification," said Yvette DeCarlo, speaking on behalf of a coalition of environmental nonprofits, tenant rights groups, liberal advocacy organizations and anti-tax activists.

Severin Borenstein, another Berkeley economist who co-authored the 2021 study with Fowlie, said modeling suggests that the lower electricity rates under the policy will only increase electric vehicle purchases by roughly 5% above what they would otherwise be.

"It's in the right direction, though, and I think that we can't get to where we need to go unless we start," he said.

The fixed charge policy was included in a budget proposal by Gov. Gavin Newsom's administration in 2022, but it wasn't until last year that many state legislators woke up to it. Twenty-one coastal Democrats, led by Thousand Oaks Assemblymember Jacqui Irwin, introduced a bill ordering the CPUC to reverse course. So too did Senate Republican leader Brian Jones. Both efforts were quietly put on ice at the behest of legislative leadership.

In a letter Jones and the rest of the Senate GOP caucus sent to CPUC president Reynolds earlier this week, the San Diego Republican expressed some skepticism that the state regulatory body could be trusted to keep the fixed charge at its current level.

"We are particularly concerned that this will only be the beginning," the letter said. "The CPUC has been granted unchecked power to increase this new charge at any time. If the $24.15 plan is approved, the next proposal may see the fixed charge hiked to $50, $100, or even higher!"

More over directed at the rooftop solar industry

For California's residential solar industry, the vote is just the latest regulatory broadside.

Over the last two years, the CPUC has slashed the payments that utilities are required to give to single family homeowners, apartment buildings, schools and businesses that install solar panels.

That's based on the argument, advanced by the commission, the regulated utilities and many energy economists, that relatively well-to-do solar customers have been overcompensated in California since the early 2000s, which has had the effect of off-loading the costs of running the grid onto non-solar households.

Advocates for the fixed charge say assigning solar customers an unavoidable monthly charge is yet another way to balance out who pays for major utility line items like wildfire prevention, subsidies for low income households, EV charging networks and distribution system upkeep.

"What the fixed charge does is ensure that we're no longer going to have freeloaders," Scott Wetch, a lobbyist who represents many unionized workers employed by California's for-profit utility companies, told CalMatters earlier this month.

Outraged homeowners with solar panels were well represented among those who called in to give public comment.

"I have solar panels on the home, which we got right away to cooperate with California's move to have 100% renewable energy. But yet we're getting hit with this unfair tax," Joy Frew, a self-described senior citizen from San Diego County, told the commission over the phone.

"People that really invested in solar trying to do the right thing for the planet — all of a sudden we're being slapped in the face for doing it," said a caller named Steve Randall from San Clemente.

Not that every Californian with a solar panel above their head is opposed to the fixed charge. Fowlie, one of architects behind the idea, said her family hopped on the solar bandwagon as a way to bring down their monthly utility bill.

"I'm gonna be the biggest loser under this proposal," she said, prior to today's vote. "I would be in that higher income bracket and I have solar, so my bills would go up. But I think it's a win for California, so I'm a big supporter." ★

American River Trail Guide Released

By MPG Staff

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Outdoor enthusiast Ashley Shult Langdon is on a mission to help residents find new ways to discover and enjoy Sacramento's wild and scenic river with her upcoming trail guide, "Mildly Scenic: A Trail Guide to Sacramento's Lower American River." The first-of-its kind book will be released on May 14.

"What began during the pandemic as a way to keep my preschool-aged boys from climbing out the windows soon turned into delightful daily discoveries along the Lower American River," said Langdon. "It's the guide I wished I'd had at my disposal in 2020."

Langdon wanted to provide closer, easier doorways to nature for more residents.

"There's no need to drive far or wait for the weekend - there's a little slice of wild, natural beauty running right through Sacramento County," said Langdon. "Spotting river otters on a run between work calls or finding wildflowers during an after-school outing is entirely possible."

In researching her book, Langdon became Sacramento's local expert for the vast network of trails, many of which have never been published in a trail guide or on a county map. So Langdon reached out to Sacramento State's Geography Department to set "Mildly Scenic" at the center of the upper division coursework last fall. In just a few short months, the students and their professor, Dr. Anna Klimaszewski-Patterson, churned out 18 original maps prominently featured throughout the trail guide.

"We were thrilled to have our undergraduates engage as a part of this story via their expertise in GIS and mapping to help put this valuable resource in the hands of explorers of all ages," said Dr. Klimaszewski-Patterson.

Looking to elevate "Mildly Scenic: A Trail Guide to Sacramento's Lower American River" beyond a basic trail guide, Langdon collaborated with Greg Traverso, graphic designer and pop artist, who is the mastermind behind the book's cover design.

"From the beginning, Greg looked beyond what I was doing with the book and saw 'Mildly Scenic' as a lifestyle," Langdon said. "And from there, he helped me build this super fun, engaging and beautiful book."

The result is a 136-page full-color trail guide with photos, easy-to-read maps, at-a-glance trail tips and more than 70 options for trails from downtown Sacramento to Lake Natoma that families, runners, walkers and sun-bathers can all enjoy. Put simply, if you're looking for an easy out-and-back loop in the sunshine or an affordable activity for out-of-town guests, "Mildly Scenic" has got you covered.

"I'm excited for people to be able to use this guide just in time for summer. How lucky are we to have the mildly scenic American River right in our backyard? It's wild and scenic," Langdon said.

"Mildly Scenic" will be available in print ($24.99) at bookstores and in eBook ($9.99). For more information, visit mildlyscenic.com. ★
