RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- The Folsom Cordova Unified School District Special Education Local Plan Area (SELPA) and the Community Advisory Committee (CAC) on April 24 together hosted a momentous event: the Excellence in Special Education Awards.

This ceremony served as a heartfelt tribute to the outstanding contributions made by staff, families and students within the special education community. Held at the Cordova High School Performing Arts Center, located at 2239 Chase Drive in Rancho Cordova, the event celebrated 139 nominees, along with their students, coworkers, friends and Rosemont Community Park Sport Courts Complete!

By Shelby Golden, Cordova Recreation & Park District

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- On May 16, Cordova Recreation & Park District (CRPD) and the community celebrated the successful completion of Rosemont Community Park Sport Courts Project.

The community's input, feedback and unwavering support have been instrumental in shaping this project every step of the way. Leading up to submittal of grant applications for this project back in 2020, Cordova Recreation & Park District attended multiple meetings in the community including the Rosemont Community Association, the Rosemont Friday Night Food Truck Events in the summer and the Annual Rosemont Community Celebration where we solicited direct feedback through online surveys.

After this extensive outreach process, Cordova Recreation & Park District discovered that the neighbors of Rosemont were in support of renovating the existing tennis courts and providing more amenities for teens such as pickleball and basketball. From the initial planning stages to the final design, the community's vision has guided CRPD and made this project truly community-driven.

This project has been nothing short of transformative. What once stood as four tennis courts has now been reborn into a dynamic multi-sport court facility that includes one basketball court, two pickleball courts and two tennis courts.

The total project costs including design was approximately $615,000. The Federal Community Development Block Grant Funds (CDBG), administered by the Sacramento Housing and Redevelopment Agency (SHRA) contributed $165,630. The American Recovery Plan Act (ARPA) funds administered by Sacramento County contributed $250,000 and Cordova Recreation & Park District's MyParks Enhancement Fund (Measure J) contributed the remainder of around $200,000. It is through these vital sources of funding that Cordova Recreation & Park District has been able to turn the community's dreams into reality,

Lancers Grab 5th Straight GSL Championship

Story and photos by Rick Sloan

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The 2023-24 softball season ended with Cordova finishing league play undefeated and grabbing its 5th straight Greater Sacramento League championship. There will not be an opportunity to accomplish a sixth championship, as the Cordova Lancers will be moving to the Metro League next year. This move, although being a more challenging league, should be a better fit for Cordova's needs. The move gives the Lancers the ability to field a junior varsity team, which the GSL lacked. Having a JV team will be a major program building opportunity.

The Lancers finished with an overall record of 12-6 and had in the Metro League.

Players to watch next year besides Lee, Arana, and Brookins will be junior Emily Collins, junior Addison Bradybaugh, freshman Tiah Kennedy, sophomore Jazmine Glenn and freshman Izzv Nersisvan. In the pitching department Cordova will have returning players Lee, freshman Isabella Tarpley-Cruz, freshman Briana Corianna and Bradybaugh. As we all know, pitching is a major key to the success of any team and these players will need to put in extra work during the summer building their pitching skills.

Cordova traveled to Bella Vista high school in Fair Oaks to compete in the first round of the CIF Sac-Joaquin Section Softball Playoffs on May 14. Cordova, who competed all year

All five All-League players had some pretty nice numbers offensively. Perona finished the season with a .673 batting average, .679 on base percentage and a slugging percentage of .909. Sebastein finished with a .667 batting average, .786 on base

Brookins had a.552 batting average, a .614 on base percentage and a .776 slugging percentage. Lee finished with a .590 batting average, .638 on base percentage and a .787 slugging percentage. Brookins and Perona were tied for first place in league with 26 runs batted in apiece. Brookins also led the league in runs scored with 29. Also being honored by the league was coach Kim Little as she was chosen as Coach of the Year for the 2023-24 season. Little was also chosen as the Coach of the Year for the Cordova girl's 2023-24 basketball season. Coach Little is very thankful for this honor and is very proud of the accomplishment of her team. "We had a very young team this season, but will build off of the success we did have", said Little.

Next year looks very promising, as many of the returning players have shown great improvement this year. The key to a successful season next year will be work the returning players put in on the off-season. Coach Little said that most of the team will participate in travel ball this summer. Travel ball will help jump start the 2024-25 season and help build much needed confidence in Division IV, was the 15th seed after being elevated to Division II for the playoffs. They didn't bring their much needed "A" game and fell to the 2nd seeded Bronco's 10-0. Next year the Lancers will be competing all year in Division II and if by chance they make it to the playoffs, will be competing in Division II. I wish the team and the coaches all the best as they move on to their next challenge.

California's Lagging Economy Hinders Efforts to Close State Budget Deficit

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

As Gov. Gavin Newsom and state legislators spend the next few weeks fashioning a state budget that's plagued by a multibillion-dollar deficit, they can't count on a booming economy to make their task easier.

California's recovery from the devastating economic impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic has been sluggish at best, trailing what's happening in the nation as a whole and in the state's archrivals, such as Texas and Florida.

According to Employment Development Department data, there are 200,000 fewer Californians in the labor force - those employed or seeking employment – than there were in February 2020, just before the pandemic exploded. There are 500,000 fewer employed, and 200,000 more unemployed.

While California's unemployment rate of 5.3% in March was just a third of what it was at the height of the pandemic-induced recession, it was still the highest of any state, markedly higher than the national rate of 3.9% and nearly two percentage points higher than it was before the pandemic.

By the federal government's more nuanced measure of employment called U-6, which counts not only the unemployed, but workers who are "marginally attached" to the labor force and those who are involuntarily working part time, the state's 9.5% rate of underemployment is also the nation's highest.

Those numbers imply an economy that's not even operating at cruising speed, much less accelerating. Even the state's technology sector, centered in the San Francisco Bay Area, has cooled off as its once high-flying corporations announce layoffs virtually every day.

"California's civilian employment growth has been essentially flat since the second half of 2022 while the U.S. has remained relatively healthy, resulting in the state's unemployment rate rising faster than the nation," the revised budget Newsom unveiled last week acknowledges.

The pandemic erased about 3 million jobs in California as Newsom shut down large segments of the state's economy. Countless employers, particularly small businesses, never reopened after the health crisis eased and those that did survive have had to contend with inflationary costs, tighter loan conditions and changed consumer habits.

The budget blames stubborn inflation and the high interest rates imposed by the Federal Reserve System to tame inflation for California's slowdown, but economies of other states have experienced the same factors and prospered despite them.

However, they don't contend with factors unique to California, such as extremely high costs for housing, utilities and labor that make job creation more difficult here. Until recently, California has been losing population, thanks to outward migration to other states. The state has also seen employment shifts, particularly in technology.

Those conditions underscore the sluggish recovery that sets California apart from other states. For instance, Texas' unemployment rate, 3.9%, is identical to the national rate while Florida's 3.2% is even lower.

So, one might ask, where is California's once-booming economy headed?

Newsom's Department of Finance says it "has not modeled a recession scenario. However, if inflation takes longer to cool and interest rates remain high for longer than projected in the May Revision baseline forecast, continued tight credit conditions could further discourage economic activity."

A few days before he released his revised budget, Newsom stood at the top of a Golden Gate Bridge tower to record a video celebrating the tourism industry's recovery.

Visitors to California spent $150.4 billion last year, he said, surpassing the previous record of $144.9 billion in 2019.

That's good news, even though an adjustment for inflation would probably reduce the recovery's relative impact. But while it's a high-profile economic sector, tourism is scarcely 3% of the state's overall economy. It's the other 97% we should be nurturing.

The Lesser of Two Evils

Dear Dave.

My husband and I are following your plan, and we're on Baby Step 2. We just learned that the person who has done our taxes for the last three years made mistakes on all our returns. They were really nice and did our taxes for free, but now we owe back taxes in the amount of $18,000. Since we're still paying off debt, the only savings we have is the $1,000 in our beginner emergency fund. Should we take out a personal loan to take care of this, or set up payments with the IRS?

- Laura

Dear Laura,

Take out a personal loan. Period.

Let this sink in for a min-

Dave Ramsey Says

ute. How often does Dave Ramsey tell people to borrow money? Almost never. Why am I doing it now, in this situation? Because the IRS is the worst creditor on the planet. They have almost unlimited power, which they use and abuse, and they have ridiculously high penalties and interest rates. With a personal loan from a local bank or credit union, you'll at least have more input and flexibility in deciding the terms of the agreement.

Now, I don't know about you, but if the person doing my taxes screwed things up to the tune of $18,000, I'd find someone else in a heartbeat. I understand you want to work with someone nice, and free is usually a great price. But in this case, free was not so free after all.

Just go to your local bank or credit union, explain the situation and see what you can work out. I always recommend small banks or credit unions over any of the mega banks. Places like Bank of America and Fifth Third just have no soul or empathy whatsoever. And the customer service at a credit union or small bank is a hundred times better than what you'll find at a big bank. Sure, they're still bankers, but there's a human element in there. You're not just a number to them like you are to the mega banks.

I hate debt, Laura, and I'm sorry you guys are in this situation. But 100% of the time, I'd rather have personal loan debt than IRS debt. In my mind, it's the lesser of two evils.

Excellence Honored in Special Education

Parent/Community Member: Laura Wasco-Kenrow, Related Service Provider: Lisa Hall, Special Education Teacher: Sarah Behlen.

Throughout the night, families, students, Folsom Cordova Unified School District staff and community members expressed their appreciation for these remarkable individuals who wholeheartedly support students with disabilities. Their unwavering dedication and tireless efforts serve as a beacon of inspiration, enriching the lives of students and fostering an inclusive educational environment.

The Excellence in Special Education Awards Ceremony honored the achievements of these exceptional individuals and underscored the collective commitment of the Folsom Cordova Unified School District community to ensuring the success and well-being of every student, regardless of their abilities. As we reflect on this memorable occasion, let us continue to champion inclusivity, empathy and excellence in special education, laying the foundation for a brighter and more equitable future for all.

You are usually conscious of what vou say to others. The things you say are based on what you want to achieve. You know from experience that the words you chose have a big impact. When you use the wrong words, the reaction of others is not what you intended.

What you say to yourself is just as important as what you say to others. Yet, too many people are not fully aware of the impact their self-talk has on their own wellbeing. Your words to yourself program your mind.

Your mind follows whatever commands you provide. It doesn't question the directives it receives. It dutifully obeys whatever it is told to do. Your attitude, your actions, the way you feel, your perception, and your outlook, are all impacted by your words. You talk to yourself constantly. Too often you say negative things. You find fault with yourself. You put yourself down. You diminish your accomplishments. You focus on what you feel you can't do. You tell yourself how many things are impossible. You justify failures with a never-ending string of excuses. If there are areas of your life you want to improve, you must begin by changing what you tell yourself. Your self-talk changes your thoughts. Nothing in your life changes until your thoughts change. There are various flawed strategies which people employ instead of striving to say the right words to themselves. For example, waiting for conditions to improve leaves you waiting a long time. Rather than passively waiting for things to change, you have to make things change. Hoping for circumstances to change is also ineffective. Although there is nothing wrong with hope, it must be combined with action in order to have a positive impact.

Blaming others for your situation puts your fate in someone else's hands. You are responsible for your life. Although you can't control the actions of others,

you do control your thoughts, emotions, and responses.

Doing the same things over and over, while expecting a different result, is one definition of insanity. In order to alter your results, you must change what you are doing. Remember, there is always a cause-and-effect relationship between what you do, and the results you obtain.

Don't justify negative self-talk as being realistic. This is another excuse. While you are figuring out reasons for not succeeding, others are doing exactly what you claim is unrealistic.

You can make self-talk a powerful, positive tool which propels you towards your goals. Here are some steps to guide you through this process. Begin with a constant awareness of the words you use when speaking to yourself. Each negative word must be replaced with a positive one. You want a zero-tolerance policy for negative self-talk. There is no room for any discouraging words. Each negative word, or phrase, has a corresponding positive one. You must fill your mind with positive instructions.

Use the same approach which works when taking a vacation. Start by selecting a destination. Next, figure out how to get there. The way you accomplish any goal is to start with positive selftalk. You tell yourself all of the reasons you can, should, and will succeed. You tell yourself all of the benefits of reaching your goal. You tell yourself how you will feel once you have arrived at your destination. Clearly, the words used when speaking to yourself matter. They are the difference between success and failure. They lead to happiness or produce frustration. Since you have total control over which words you use, choose only words which lead to positive outcomes..

Social Security Matters Older Husband and Working Wife Seek Guidance

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am 74 years old, retired and receiving Social Security. My wife will be 65 in January of 2025. Our hope was to start paying off some credit card expense by her receiving SS when she turns 65, however it appears there would be a substantial reduction to her benefits. Her work income is $37,500 a year, and she wasn't planning on retiring from work at age 65. Because I am 11 years older, we felt it makes sense to use her Social Security as a means to lower our debt. We have $27,000 in credit card debt, and I don't really want to use my 401(k) funds due to taxes. We pretty much live on my Social Security and pension. Signed: Seeking Suggestions

Dear Seeking: Your wife's full retirement age (FRA) for Social Security purposes is age 67. Because she will not yet have reached her FRA in January 2025 (when she is 65), if she claims SS to start at that time, not only will her monthly amount be reduced, but she will be subject to Social Security's annual earnings test. The earnings test sets a limit for how much can is $22,320. The limit for next year is not yet published (it's based on changes to the national wage index) but will be a bit higher – likely about $23,500. Thus, I can't provide the exact impact, but if your wife's 2025 earnings exceed next year's limit, Social Security will take back $1 in benefits for every $2 over the limit (half of the amount over the limit). So, if your wife earns $37,500 per year, that will likely be about $14,000 over the limit and Social Security will take back half of that ($7,000). They "take back" by withholding future benefits, or you can repay them in a lump sum. So, you will have a choice – repay Social Security from your other assets, or they will withhold your wife's SS benefits for the number of months needed to offset her penalty for exceeding the earnings limit. The number of months they will withhold depends on how much is owed and what your wife's monthly SS benefit is. For example, if your wife's age-65 SS benefit is about average ($1,900) and her penalty for exceeding the limit is $7,000, Social Security would withhold your wife's benefit for 4 months to recover the penalty, but she would receive her full benefit for the remaining 8 months of the year.

Unless your wife tells them in advance that she will exceed the limit, Social Security will find out the following year (after you file your income taxes). But, in any case, your wife cannot avoid the annual earnings test for working before reaching her full retirement age. The earnings test goes away when your wife reaches her FRA of 67. Until that time, if she continues working she will have a choice to have her benefits withheld for a portion of the year, or simply repay Social Security in a lump sum (in which case her benefits would continue uninterrupted).

FYI, there is a silver lining in this, because if your wife has benefits withheld because she exceeds the earnings limit before her FRA, after she reaches her full retirement age Social Security will give her time credit for the months when benefits were withheld, which will result in her monthly Social Security payment amount increasing somewhat at her full retirement age. Thus, over time, your wife may recover the benefits which were withheld for exceeding the annual earnings limit. But to get 100% of the benefit she's earned from a lifetime of working, and be exempt from Social Security's earnings limit, she would need to wait until she reaches her FRA to claim. Memorial Day

By Bob McGarvey

Memorial Day. I hope that many of you will be able to come to the ceremony on Monday, May 27, 2024. I really appreciate the information in the Grapevine about some of the history of Memorial Day. That holiday has roots backing to the post Civil-War era. The people would place flowers on the graves of fallen soldiers, and it was originally called decoration day.

Something else which many of our citizens of the great generation will remember is D*Day. It will be the 80th anniversary of D*DAY on June 6, 2024. For younger citizens who aren't aware of that historic day, it was when the Normandy landings and the airborne operations of the Allied invasion of Normandy took place. It was called Operation Overlord and let us and our Allies eventually end Adolph Hitler's dominance of Europe.

Here is something I commented about in the past. Could you say Happy Memorial Day? It is difficult for some people to stay happy on that day. Many people I have talked to seem to think that Memorial Day is only for somber thoughts or somber ceremonies. Actually, you can get more than that because that day can be a time in which we are thankful for the life we live today, which was provided by the sacrifices of generations of Veterans.

We can take time to reflect on the men and women who gave all for us. It can see you next time.

be a way to memorialize this for yourself and your family as you thank the Veterans of the present and think about our American Veterans of the past. I appreciate what I read about Veterans, and I don't know who the author is, but it says, "...and the truth is that all Veterans pay with their lives. Some pay all at once, while others pay very slowly. Their families pay too.'

We are very fortunate to have the Rancho Cordova River City Concert Band as part of our city. The musicians of that band are extremely talented and enjoy sharing the music with the audience. I asked some people about the band, and there are quite a few people who aren't aware of it's existence. We have been able to enjoy their music for years on Memorial Day, Veterans Day, and they are heard at many other locations during the year.

We are very fortunate to have Rick Swinford, a Veteran on the US Navy, as our Master of Ceremonies for the Memorial Day program. He was able to work with former Master of Ceremonies Bob Burns until Bob died last year. I really appreciated the work that Bob Burns did for us. He was a Veteran who served during WWII, Korean War, and the Vietnam War. There are fewer and fewer WWII Veterans every day, so thank those Veterans if you have an opportunity and thank other Veterans you may meet.

But First, Answer Me This

"First, I'm curious as to what kind of church you are running up there?" asked a caller to my church office.

His was the kind of question I get lately since returning to the pastor role.

Most often, callers are like the young mother of three who told me, "I have three churches I'm considering attending, but first I'm asking the pastors to answer some questions."

She squashed that ordinal number "FIRST," as if drawing a line in the theological sand.

"FIRST, does your church teach tithing?"

I assumed she knew most churches encourage donations, but not wanting to scare her off, I was slow to answer. Was she looking for a discount? Or was she searching for a rich church?

Some people call the church directly and others find me through my local column. Readers usually leave a voicemail, graciously giving me time to formulate

I played back a message from a man last week wanting to know how he could donate to Chispa Project. I returned the call, excited to tell him about my upcoming trip to Honduras, but he too began with a question. FIRST, "I want to know if angels are able to speak to us."

His challenging question made me want to ask, "Can I call a friend? Or ask the audience?" Maybe I should have said, "Yes. The angels are telling you to donate to Chispa Project at Chispaproject.org/chaplain.' Another man saw that I had a woman scheduled to preach while I was away. "FIRST of all, should women really be allowed to preach in church?"

I knew he was referring to 1 Timothy 2:12: "I do not permit a woman to teach or to assume authority over a man; she must be quiet" (NIV).

Since I assumed he knew I invited the guest pastor, his question seemed more challenging than inquisitory, intoned much like the political questions I get.

"You must FIRST believe that abortion is wrong," suggested a Pro-life advocate.

"Isn't God against homosexuality?" was the message left in a weathered tone. "God FIRST made man and then made woman." "We need to FIRST return prayer to the schools," said one visitor who dared attend without first checking my political pedigree. "God is on the side of Israel!,

Shouldn't we all be calling for the destruction of Hamas?" asked one local

I know that many books have been written about all of these issues by good Christians on both sides. I know sincere believers can disagree about things.

But I try to discourage those seeking a binary faith of yes-and-no answers by sharing first, the words from The Message in Matthew 22:36-40.

"When asked what was the FIRST and most important of all of God's laws, Jesus said, 'Love the Lord your God with all your passion and prayer and intelligence.' This is the most important, the first on any list.

"But there is a second to set alongside it: 'Love others as well as you love yourself.' These two commands are pegs; everything in God's Law and the Prophets hangs from them."

I know I didn't answer most of my callers as they would have hoped. But perhaps once I've mastered Jesus' list, I'll have better responses to their

Finally, my best call began last week. with "FIRST, I think your new picture makes you look like Jean-Luc Picard."

Of course, as a Trek fan, I knew he was referring to Patrick Stewart, the fictional captain of the USS Enterprise-D in Star Trek: The Next Generation. I felt a bit affronted as Stewart is totally bald. I'm not – yet.

Should I allow this caller to make the final cut for our church membership? Stay tuned.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Michael Faust, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, requesting Michael Faust be appointed personal representative(s) to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows June 4, 2024, 1:30 p.m. in Dept 129; Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, William R. Ridgeway Family Relations Courthouse, 3341 Power Inn Road, Sacramento, CA 95826.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor.

stuck in tunnels, or off high elevated platforms. We have a Type I Hazmat Team. If you bring a cake mix, we can tell you if it's Betty Crocker or Pillsbury. We have our own on-board lab, something we thought we'd never see in the fire service."

House introduced Battalion Chief Scott Perryman: "He's been recognized this year as Innovator of the Year for the unique challenges that we face in today's fire service. We're looking outside the box."

House turned the microphone over to Perryman who presented a Power Point report concerning Mobile Integrated Health or MIH. Perryman described some of the emergency-medical services history. Emergency medicine became official in 1975; before then, there was no recognized emergency physician when going to the hospital for an emergency

"In Sacramento County over the last

20 years, we've seen a 67% increase Matthew Tamayo, who attended the in 9-1-1 calls over that time and only a 9% increase in population size," Perryman said. "So the supply and demand is just not meeting House has been in public service for 36 years, including four years plus in the United States Army. In his fire department service, most of it with Metro Fire, House ascended the ranks from firefighter to captain, battalion chief and assistant chief. House was instrumental in establishing the Metro Fire Special Operations Division Type 1 Hazardous Materials Program and was the initial program manager.

Rancho Cordova Police Chief

luncheon, said that the Police and Fire departments are obviously public safety partners first and foremost.

> "We work together many times a day," Tamayo said. "There have probably been 10 calls today where we've been somewhere together. So it's a great partnership, invaluable partnership I would say."

House concluded his remarks at Rancho Cordova City Hall saying, "I think that everybody would recognize this isn't a typical fire service . . . We're all looking at how we can always be better, strive to be better."

Early in his career, House met Colin

Powell who served the U.S. as National Security Advisor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Secretary of State. Powell's message was that to be an effective leader, you have to take two steps.

House quoted Powell as saying: "The first is, you have to show up. What I really mean is, you have to be present. The second was that you have to care and that is shown by taking care of people's needs."

"So I ask today in this room," House said, "when we find ourselves out in our community, is it showing up or being present? I think what I see in Rancho Cordova is, people show up and they are present . . . and looking at the room today, you're here because you care."

Editor's note: Watch for a future story presenting details of the challenges Metro Fire is facing and why the district is considered to be leading the nation in many ways.

In Memory Of...

It's time for celebration on Memorial Day weekend and that's okay. But do we really know what Memorial Day is all about? We sometimes confuse it with Veteran's Day. Both are significant, but they are different. Memorial Day is specifically dedicated to honoring and remembering those who died while serving in the U.S. Military. It is a solemn day of remembrance. Veteran's Day, on the other hand, celebrates all veterans...both living and deceased...who have served in the armed Memorial Day is observed on the last day of May each year. It originated during the American Civil War when citizens began decorating the graves of fallen soldiers with flowers. It was officially proclaimed in 1868. Originally, it was known as Decoration Day. Memorial Day honors those who made the ultimate sacrifice by giving their lives in service to their country. Traditionally Memorial Day is marked by ceremonies, parades, and the decoration of graves with flags and flowers. The civil War ended in the spring of 1865 and claimed more lives than any conflict in U.S. history, and required the establishment of the country's first national cemeteries. By the late 1860s, Americans in various towns and cities had begun holding springtime tributes to those countless fallen soldiers, decorating their graves with flowers and reciting prayers. It's not clear where exactly this tradition originated and numerous different communities may have independently initiated the memorial gatherings. Some records show that one of the earliest Memorial Day celebrations was begun by a group of formerly enslaved people in Charleston, South Carolina less than a month after the Civil War ended in 1865.

On May 5, 1868, General John Logan, leader of an organization for Northern Civil War veterans, called for a nationwide day of remembrance later that month. For decades Memorial Day was observed on May 30, but in 1968, Congress passed the Uniform Monday Holiday Act, which established Memorial Day as the last Monday in May in order to create a three-day weekend for federal employees. The change went into effect in 1971. It's the same law that declared Memorial Day a federal holiday.

Let's all remember what this day stands for in the midst of the fun with a moment of silence which takes place at 3:00 PM local time. I found the following and truly believe what veterans have given us with their sacrifice.

It is THE VETERAN, not the preacher, who has given us freedom of religion. It is THE VETERAN, not the reporter, who has given us freedom of the press.

It is THE VETERAN, not the poet, who has given us freedom of speech.

It is THE VETERAN, not the campus organizer, who has given us the freedom to assemble.

It is THE VETERAN, not the lawyer, who has given us the right to a fair trial. It is THE VETERAN, not the politician, who has given us the right to vote.

It is THE VETERAN who salutes the flag. It is THE VETERAN who eternally serves under the flag.

MAY THEY REST IN PEACE!

Alice Astafan Shares Her Story

Retired Major General Highlights Achievements (and Challenges) in New Memoir

By Annie Kerr

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Being the first female two-star general in the Air Force Reserves is only one of 85-year-old trailblazer Alice Astafan's many accomplishments. She was also a CEO, worked at the Pentagon, was personally appointed by former Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger and is now a published author.

But that's merely scratching the surface. Astafan's memoir, "Lady Leader Leaves Lasting Legacy," takes the reader through a detailed journey of her extraordinary life, leaving inspiration and courage along the way.

Messenger Publishing Group had a recent conversation with Astafan at her Carmichael home. Tucked away in a peaceful neighborhood, the Astafan house is warm and inviting. Astafan is quick-witted, energetic and wildly interesting.

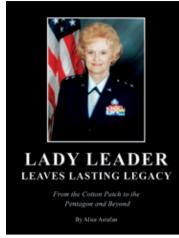

would become very successful. Little did she know that she would go on to make history as the first female two-star general in the Air Force Reserves. To clarify, a two-hard-fought battle in 1994 at age 20, which turned Astafan's world upside down.

"He was a jewel, he really was," Astafan said. Patrick's legacy has

"Why do newspaper people care so much about my age?" she laughed when asked.

A longtime Carmichael resident, Astafan hails from a farm in rural Alabama, which is obvious when her honey-sweet Southern accent comes out. Born Nora Alice Davidson, she spent her childhood among eight other siblings (seven also served in the military), helping with farmwork and living off the land.

Dreaming of a bigger life, she later put herself through the University of Alabama by working various jobs on campus. There she studied biology and chemistry. "Roll Tide!" she said at one point of the newspaper interview, alluding to the Alabama slang.

Astafan was first inspired to serve her country when she attended a movie theater at age 19. She saw a cutout of a woman dressed in an Air Force uniform, advertising women's enrollment in Officer Training School. This piqued her interest, so she joined the Air Force in 1960, where she

Being one of the only women among thousands of men in the Air Force, it would be safe to assume there was some disadvantage due to the time period. However, Astafan was sure to point out, she didn't face much sexism or prejudice in the military, and if anything, the men she worked with were protective and supportive of her. Astafan reminisced that they recognized her work ethic and loyalty and gave her the promotions she deserved.

"Throughout my career, I had 42 male supervisors and they all treated me with great respect," Astafan's military career lasted 38 years, taking her throughout the world. Her duties included developing and finalizing logistics plans, inventorying war readiness material, coordinating and planning support for aircraft and hundreds of personnel, and much more.

From Thailand to Austria to England to Africa, she traveled "He was perfect," Astafan said.

"He didn't have a jealous bone in his body."

When Peter was assigned to Fort McClellan in 1973, he and Astafan moved to Carmichael. Shortly after their move, the Astafans welcomed a baby boy named Patrick. He would be their only child. To juggle motherhood and her booming career, Astafan stepped down from her 13-year stint of active duty and joined the Air Force Reserves. This gave her more ability to care for Patrick and still do the job she loved. Impressing all her supervisors, it was only a few years later in 1988 when she was named a general and received her first star.

What made Astafan so successful? She said it was all about following the Air Force mission, being a team player and working to the best of her ability. Her grit and determination were recognized and she proved herself capable every single time she was promoted. While continuing her successful career, the unimaginable happened when Patrick was diagnosed with leukemia in 1992. While Patrick was fighting leukemia, Astafan somehow kept rising up the military ladder, traveling and working in logistics at the Pentagon, officially receiving her second star in 1993, while also supporting arship fund in his name at both Oklahoma Christian University and California State University, Sacramento (CSUS), which has helped fund nearly 200 students' education.

Then in 2021, Peter died from retrograde amnesia, which was another unimaginable loss.

"We had been married for 53 years, four months, and nine days. My life will never be the same," Astafan wrote in her memoir.

When asked how she kept going after losing both her husband and son, Astafan points to sky, referring to God. She honors both Patrick and Peter in her memoir's Chapter 15, "My Soulmate and My Angel Love is the Greatest Blessing of

After retiring from the Air Force in 1998, Astafan immediately dove into a new role as the CEO of the Federal Technology Center, which works with state, federal, and local government contracts. She stayed in that role for 10 years. In addition, she was appointed by former Gov. Schwarzenegger to serve as the chairperson on the California Veterans Board. She served on 20 boards of directors with no compensation, wrote and gave 100 speeches across the country, was the grand marshal of the Sacramento and Elk Grove Veteran's Day parades, and even got her master's in both early women to serve," Astafan said. "We need good honest people to serve our nation so our way of life can forever be safe and in place. Why do so many people want to come to America? Think about it."

She provides words of wisdom to young people: "You do not have to be born with a silver spoon in your mouth. You can dream big, set goals, work honestly and diligently, and become most anything in America. Also, it is not what happens to you along the way, it is how you handle those things. Life is short; it is like a drop of dew on a blade of grass; in the morning it is there but it is soon over. Make your time on this Earth count for something!"

There is so much more to her story. Astafan has lived what can only be described as a remarkable life and has changed the lives of others, as well. Devoted to every role she has had, whether picking cotton on her childhood farm. being a wife and mother, a mentor, a CEO or a two-star general, Astafan has lived a life full of hard work, selflessness, patriotism and integrity.

Leaving no stone unturned, Astafan's book is filled to the brim with her past speeches, every article written about her and a vast array of photos. It is now available to purchase on her website (aliceastafan.com) or on Amazon.
