CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - A four-legged friend has quadrupled happiness for a Mather veteran with PTSD syndrome. Former US Navy electrician Dennis Deutscher (55) recently took delivery of a service-puppy-in-training, golden retriever Lily.

"It's one of the brighter experiences of my life," says Deutscher. "For me and Lily, the sky is blue and the sky's the limit."

The adoption was made possible by a recent "Ride For Reason" fundraiser for the Carmichael-based Higher Purpose Foundation. Fronted by Tesla rock band singer Jeff Keith,

Although the event collided with a rainstorm, Keith and friends hung tough and raised $24,000. Proceeds will help youth in foster programs and have provided Deutscher with a golden-coated companion.

The veteran and pup introduction brought tears to many eyes. At All Stage Canine Development in Citrus Heights, the 12-week-old golden retriever jumped from a trainer's arms, bounced past a dozen onlookers and claimed her future master.

The Mercy San Juan Medical Center has implemented and is continuing to expand a range of programs across multiple departments, all aimed at enhancing patient experience and improving survival rates.

Guest speaker Dr. Michael Korpiel, president of Dignity Health Mercy San Juan Medical Center, discussed recent advancements in medical technologies and emphasized the hospital's commitment to excellence.

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - When it comes to evacuations, the public needs to remember the five "Ps" before they leave: People and Pets, Prescriptions, Papers, Personal Needs and Priceless Items.

In some cases, Pets (and livestock) can pose a unique challenge during evacuations. Sacramento County is addressing this issue.

In December, the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors adopted an Agricultural Pass program to facilitate the coordinated re-entry of commercial agricultural producers to care for their animals.

The Board of Supervisors has now introduced additional guidance for safeguarding evacuated animals. During its May 21 meeting, the supervisors approved the Sacramento County Animal Sheltering Annex, which outlines new protocols for protecting pets and livestock during evacuations.

The Annex's development was driven by the necessity that arose from previous disasters in Sacramento County and aligned with new legislation. During the 2023 flood event, area farms reported more than $38 million in losses, including losses of animals that could not be evacuated The Annex was a collaborative effort involving government officials and various agencies. It outlines the roles of entities such as the county agricultural commissioner, law enforcement, public health and the Office of Emergency Services in protecting or evacuating family pets and livestock.

With the support of partners such as the American Red Cross in coordinating shelter spaces that can accommodate animals and the appointment of an animal coordinator for the Emergency Operations Center (EOC), the plan aims to ensure that necessary measures are taken to address the needs of displaced animals.

Deutscher's military career ended in 1992. The aviation electrician serviced F 18 Fighters during Operation Desert Storm. At 19 years old, he was devastated by a 1989 explosion on board the supercarrier USS America.

"I was right by the explosion," he recalled. "Two of my friends died. My PTSD came mostly from then. I fought things I'd seen, also the stress of long wartime hours. In my generation, we hid our feelings. I didn't know I had PTSD 'til a couple of years ago. It cost me jobs and ruined relationships. Substance abuse was the only way I could calm my brain."

After his troubled years and a spell of homelessness, Deutscher is now drugfree and lives in Veterans Village, Mather, where he's at last being treated for his emotional injuries.

"Lily is a game-changer," he said of his new friend. "I had dogs growing up. I knew a service dog would brighten my days and be a huge support for me."

Lily has not disappointed.

"She's so good," Deutscher said. "She sleeps by me and doesn't move 'til I wake up. Then she puts her arms on my shoulders and kisses me to say good morning.

"From the moment I met her, it's been awesome," he said. "I feel my anxiety level has changed. She makes me calm.

We go on walks and if people talk to her, she'll give them a few seconds, then come right back to me. She never leaves my side. she's my best buddy."

A Tesla fan since high school in Lodi, Deutscher connected with the Higher Purpose Foundation, a cause his rockstar hero Keith supports, during the motorbike ride fundraiser.

Explained Foundation President Whitney Webb, a Carmichael resident: "We'd decided to use some of our funds for a dog for a veteran. When I met Dennis, we talked and both ended up in tears. I knew right away he was meant to receive this gift."

Bred by Crème Brulee Goldens, Sacramento, the dog's initial food, veterinary costs and training are covered by the gift. RRUFF Healing Heroes, a Lincolnbased agency that sponsors service dog training for disabled veterans, also contributed $5,000 to training costs.

"I don't see how Lily could be better than she already is," Deutscher said. "But we'll learn skills together. If it makes her a better dog, it'll make me a better person.

"I'd wanted a service dog for some time. Because of the cost, it just wasn't possible. Everyone involved in this gift has shown me love and compassion," Deutscher said. "It's truly a God thing that they found me and gave me this fantastic companion."

Four-Legged Seasonal Help Brought in To Fight Flooding

Sacramento County Department of Water Resources News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento County Department of Water Resources (DWR) is continuing its annual eco-friendly program to combat overgrowth in detention basins to prevent the potential for flooding in the unincorporated parts of the County. Starting on May 21, Billy Goat Gruff and hundreds of his hungriest friends will converge on five separate locations over the next five weeks to help reduce the flood threat from overgrown grass and weeds.

Most of the County's flood prevention efforts occur during the spring and summer months before the rains fall again. Left unattended overgrowth could block water flow from heavy rains, resulting in street flooding. This is the twelfth year these contractors have been utilized as an effective force to ensure the creeks and detention basins are clear for the upcoming storm season. This year, 300 goats and sheep will be casually dining as they rotate through five different locations.

The areas chosen for the contractor's dining experience will include Arcade Creek at Evergreen Estates: Winding Way at Auburn Blvd – 4.4 Acres, Arcade Creek at Kenneth Avenue: N/O Burl Way – 3.4 Acres, Arcade Creek at White Fir Way: E/O Garfield Ave – 2 Acres, Ottoman Hills Detention Basin: Main Avenue at Wiltshire Way – .7 Acres, and Strawberry Creek at Calvine Road: East & West of Auberry Drive – 7.7 Acres.

Residents near the projects received postcards letting them know about the cost-effective approach to flood prevention work. An onsite herder and trained dogs accompany the dining party 24-hours a day to ensure they are cared for, kept on task, don't wander off, and offer Thousand Island or Blue Cheese, if requested.

John Ford Coley Performs June 7

By Annie Kerr

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Any fan of '70s music will probably recognize the name John Ford Coley. Most commonly known as half of the Grammynominated duo England Dan & John Ford Coley, Coley has seen major success in the music industry, written and recorded many notable hits, shared the stage with musical legends and even had an acting career in the '80s.

In the '70s, England Dan & John Ford Coley released 11 albums and nine singles. Their most famous song, 1976's "I'd Really Love to See You Tonight," was a No. 2 pop hit and a No. 1 adult contemporary hit. In the span from 1976 to 1979, the duo had six Top 40 singles. Among their classic well-known hits are "Love Is the Answer," "Nights Are Forever Without You," "It's Sad to Belong," and "We'll Never Have to Say Goodbye Again."

In advance of Coley's June 7 performance at the Hard Rock Live Sacramento, Messenger Publishing Group interviewed Coley prior to his show. Coley is 75 years old but has a youthful presence that is palpable when he speaks and performs. Currently living in Nashville, Coley is still writing music and maintaining a busy touring schedule.

A Dallas, Texas native, Coley grew up surrounded by opera and classical music and referenced Bach and Beethoven as musical influences. At age six, Coley started playing music and later participated in classical music competitions. Other musical influences include Buffalo Springfield, Joni Mitchell, and early Elton John, whom he would later perform with.

When Coley was 15, he and longtime friend Danny Wayland "England Dan" Seals joined a band called Theze Few. That band scored a hit, "The Smell of Incense" in 1969, which put Coley and Seals on the

It wasn't long until Coley and Seals broke away as a duo in the late '60s and the rest is history.

After being signed by A&M Records, they had their first breakout hit in 1971 with "Simone" and soon after were launched into stardom.

Throughout the '70s, England Dan & John Ford Coley took advantage of their whirlwind success, touring with music superstar Elton John in 1971 and going on to share the stage with acts such as Joni Mitchell, Carole King and Led Zeppelin.

After the duo disbanded in 1980, Coley said an acting opportunity "fell in his lap" and he starred in multiple films throughout the '80s. He also proceeded to write a memoir, "Backstage Pass", in 2010 detailing his experiences in the music industry.

Seals unfortunately died from lymphoma in 2009. Coley kept his legacy alive by playing their hits to audiences and continuing to write music of his own. "It keeps me excited," he said about writing music and performing.

When asked what fans can expect from his shows, Coley said the shows can provide escapism and joy for his audiences.

"I hope that when they come, they have an enjoyable time and get away from divisive things like politics and religion, that they can go down memory lane. All these songs bring something up...good times, bad times, they make you remember people," Coley said. "I hope when they leave, they can say that they laughed."

Coley's June 7 performance will include "laughs and jokes" but will also feature other artists such as Ambrosia, Al Stewart and Peter Beckett. And of course, the hits from England Dan & John Ford Coley.

The show will be at 8 p.m. on June 7 at the Hard Rock Live Sacramento, located at 3317 Forty Mile Rd. Wheatland, CA. Snag your tickets to Coley's show before they run out at https://johnfordcoley.com/shows.

Mercy San Juan Medical Center's Programs Expanded

Notably, Mercy San Medical caters to about 80% of all strokes within the Dignity System in Sacramento. The hospital is expanding its capabilities with a new endovascular suite to accommodate an increased caseload expected to open over the next year. In addition, the hospital's telemedicine collaboration allows 27 hospitals throughout California to contact San Juan physicians to provide care.

In the realm of critical care, Korpiel emphasized the hospital's innovative programs aimed at improving patient outcomes, including the Awake and Walking program designed to get patients in the ICU (Intensive Care Unit) walking sooner to enhance healing. The core principle revolves around providing patients with the lowest effective dose of sedation while emphasizing mobility, ranging from simple actions such as sitting up to full-fledged walking. The program boasts remarkable success, Korpiel said, evidenced by reduced mortality rates, fewer instances of delirium and shortened ICU durations. This is the second program in Sacramento and the first within Dignity Care.

The hospital's investment in technology to combat lung cancer was also highlighted, with the introduction of cutting-edge tools such as the Lung Cancer Orchestrator (LCO) and Illumisite. The Lung Cancer Orchestrator can detect miniscule nodules in the lungs beyond the reach of traditional X-rays, and Illumistite is a specialized scope to navigate deeper into the lung allow for precise visualization and biopsy of these nodules. Introduced in March last year, these technologies enhance accuracy in biopsy procedures, reducing the guesswork associated with traditional methods and revolutionizing the diagnosis and treatment of the disease.

"This is AI at its finest," Korpiel said. "We are able to detect small nodules within the lung where we never have been able to before and so with that technology, we recognize that we have an opportunity to really save patients."

Korpiel announced plans to launch a residency training program in July 2025, starting with internal medicine and followed by family practice to bring more physicians into the community, ensuring the highest quality of care for future generations. In a fiveyear timeframe, the hospital administration aims to have between 200 and 300 resident physicians trained to provide patient care.

In addition to celebrating medical advancements, the Citrus Heights Chamber recognized the contributions of special guests, board members and ambassadors, while also giving back to the community by making a $2,000 donation to Citrus Heights Homeless Assistance Resource Team (HART), a volunteer-run effort aimed to end homelessness in Citrus Heights. SMUD matched this donation, amplifying the impact of their contribution.

Approximately 50 attendees also had the opportunity to mingle, network, and forge connections with fellow businesses and community leaders, strengthening the bonds that make Citrus Heights a vibrant and supportive place to live and work.

"Click It or Ticket" Campaign Reminds to Always Buckle Up

Citrus Heights Police Department News Release

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - For upcoming summer travel, the Citrus Heights Police Department reminds travelers to always buckle up and secure children in the right car seats when visiting friends and family.

This year's Click It or Ticket campaign runs from May 20 to June 2, 2024. During this time, the Citrus Heights Police Department will have additional officers on patrol actively looking for drivers and passengers who are not wearing a seat belt. This includes vehicles where children are not secured in child safety seats or the right safety seats for their age.

"Wearing a seat belt should be automatic for all drivers and passengers every trip," Sergeant Kane Kissam said.

"Seat belts save lives, and everyone — front seat and back, child and adult — need to remember always to buckle up."

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), nearly 12,000 people killed in crashes throughout the country in 2021 were not wearing seat belts. In California, 878 people killed in crashes in 2021 were not wearing seat belts, an increase of 12.3 percent from 2020.

California law requires a child to be secured in a safety or booster seat until they are at least 8 years old or at least 4 feet, 9 inches tall. Children under the age of 2 must ride in a rear-facing seat unless the child weighs 40 or more pounds or is 40 or more inches tall.

Funding for this program was provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety through the National Safety Administration. ★

Compassion and Reasonable Boundaries

Dear Dave,

The fact that you're conflicted about shows you have a good heart. Team members are individuals, not units of production. We all have unique hopes and dreams, and you should recognize and respect that. But it sounds like this particular employee also has a habit of making dumb mistakes where her time off is concerned.

I've experienced this kind of behavior from time to time as my company's grown. And as time's gone by, I've started listening to my gut to differentiate actual needs from stupidity. I try to treat other people the way I'd like to be treated, instead of just through the lens of what I want or what's good for Ramsey Solutions.

If a team member is going to make a series of bad choices, I'm going to assume at some point they don't really want to work here. You can be the nicest, sweetest person in the world and still do dumb things that make you unemployable. But holding someone accountable for their actions doesn't mean you lack compassion.

We've had situations at my company where someone runs through their PTO, then something comes up. We evaluate the situation, and we might extend some grace and give them extra paid time off. Sometimes we might give time off, but it's unpaid. Other times, it might be out of the question to give the time off (or for the person to keep their job at that point). Every situation's different, and we decide things like that on a case-by-case basis.

Now, there's absolutely nothing wrong with this lady's desire to have a family. I think that's a great thing. But she knew these treatments were in her future when she took the other PTO. You're showing great concern and compassion for your employee, Kate, but it's almost like you want her to win more than she wants to win.

God forbid, but let's pretend this lady's husband was in a bad car wreck. She's going to need time off to help take care of him. Of course, she gets extra PTO. No question, that deserves some grace. And if any of your other employees don't understand that or like it, they can hit the road. But that's not the case, is it? This lady had a planned life event, and she messed up her time off situation all by herself.

I think in this situation, you probably let your compassion go a little too far, and now you're having a hard time with the consequences. If it were me, I'd give this lady a little extra PTO for the treatments, but I'd also have a gentle but firm talk with her about managing time off more wisely.

There's absolutely nothing wrong with putting reasonable boundaries on compassion.

Four Chaplains, One Faith

Today, I'm on the Zuiderdam, a Holland America cruise ship, sailing the Baltic Sea enjoying some amazing food and fun entertainment.

But sailing in such luxury over Memorial Day gives me a pang of guilt. I can't help but wonder how sparse it was for the men and women of our armed forces who boarded troop ships bound for war.

I can't help but wonder what it was like for the "Four Chaplains" of World War II.

Their story begins in 1943 on board the USS Dorchester, a 5,649-ton luxury liner converted into a U.S. Army troopship. Heavy with more than 900 men, the ship fell behind its escort off the Greenland coast.

Gale-force winds made for a nauseating voyage, according to later reports. Fortunately, among those doing their best to alleviate the discomfort were four chaplains: Father John Washington, the Rev. Clark Poling, Rabbi Alexander Goode and the Rev. George Fox.

Like a lot of chaplains on ships, they pulled double duty as activity directors. They organized sing-alongs and talent shows, but mostly they took confessions and held worship services, no matter what their faith.

On the evening of Feb. 2, 1943, the ship's captain, concerned over the sightings of three enemy submarines, instructed passengers to wear life jackets to bed. Deep in the ship, the engine heat and overwhelming claustrophobia made it too uncomfortable for those sleeping in the lower decks to follow the order.

On Feb. 3 at 12:55 a.m., as the Dorchester approached Greenland, a German periscope sliced through the icy Atlantic waters. An officer aboard the submarine U-223 gave orders to fire a fan of three torpedoes. One decisive hit on the Dorchester's starboard side below the water line killed scores in a searing flash of flames.

Troops, some dressed only in their underwear, clambered on deck. Among them were the four chaplains: two Protestant pastors, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi. Survivors would later recall these men of faith seeking to calm the passengers and organize them into lifeboats.

When the chaplains saw many were without life vests, they dug around and found extras to give to the men. They instructed the soldiers to pray as they abandoned their ship and imbued them with courage to remain steadfast in their purpose.

Eventually, the chaplains discovered that there just weren't enough life jackets. With the supply depleted, each chaplain removed his own vest and gave it to another man.

The following information comes from the vantage point of those who made it into the lifeboats.

"I could hear men crying, pleading, praying," a soldier named William B. Bednar recalled. "I could also hear the chaplains preaching courage. Their voices were the only thing that kept me going."

CITRUS HEIGHTS MESSENGER • 5

It is said that in the light of the fiery oil, the chaplains were seen standing arm in arm on the ship's deck, leading an interfaith service. Eighteen minutes after the torpedo hit, the Dorchester rolled into the Labrador Sea on its starboard side.

In the most published quote of the tragedy, survivor John Ladd called the chaplains' steadfastness as "the finest thing I have seen or hope to see this side of heaven."

It would be the third largest U.S. maritime loss during World War II: 672 men died on the Dorchester, most from hypothermia. Only 230 men saw the sun rise in Greenland.

A Memorial Day eulogy 60 years later repeated the sentiment when it recalled the chaplains' act as "Despair caught in hope's grasp. Four chaplains. Two faiths. One God."

The nephew of Chaplain Fox, David Fox-Benton, urges us to "Remember, this was 1943. Protestants didn't talk to Catholics back then, let alone either of them talk to a Jew."

The chaplains were never eligible for the Medal of Honor since they were never under "direct fire." Therefore, Congress created a special medal in 1960 that praised the chaplains for their "selfless acts of courage, compassion and faith." The award was called the "Chaplain's Medal for Heroism," and it can never be awarded again.

I expect to come home next month on a commercial airline. But to those who never made it home from war, let us pledge to never forget.

Decades Long Delta Tunnel Water Project May Finally Be Nearing a Historic Decision

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

It's been almost a half-century since I first heard the term "peripheral canal" uttered by William Gianelli, who was then-Gov. Ronald Reagan's top water official. The project, in one form or another, had already been kicking around for decades.

The California Water Project became operative in the 1960s and was the most prominent legacy project of Pat Brown, whom Reagan had defeated in 1966.

The project dams the Feather River near Oroville and releases impounded water to flow down the Feather into the Sacramento River and eventually into the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta. Pumps at the southern edge of the Delta suck the water into the California Aqueduct, which carries it down the San Joaquin Valley to more pumps over the Tehachapi Mountains into Southern California.

Pumping water out of the Delta changes the massive estuary's natural flows and, as widely recognized, damages habitat for fish and other wildlife. The envisioned 44-mile-long peripheral canal would have carried water around the Delta to the head of the aqueduct thereby, it was said, improving water supply reliance and protecting fish.

widespread opposition, mostly from environmentalists who doubted the canal would have a beneficial impact. The project stalled until Pat Brown's son, Jerry, became governor in 1975 and attempted to complete the last remaining link in his father's landmark water plan.

Brown relentlessly pressed the Legislature to authorize the canal and finally succeeded, but the compromise version failed to mollify environmentalists and alienated San Joaquin Valley farmers. The two disparate groups formed an odd-bedfellows alliance that defeated the project in a 1982 referendum, the same year Brown's bid for a U.S. Senate seat failed.

Voter rejection put the project in political limbo for two-plus decades, until Arnold Schwarzenegger became governor and proposed twin tunnels, instead of a canal, to bypass the Delta. Jerry Brown returned to the governorship in 2011 and once again sought to get it done.

It was still just an idea when Gavin Newsom succeeded Brown in 2019. Almost immediately he downgraded it to one tunnel and ordered the Department of Water Resources to get it going. The much-revised project barely survived a 2016 ballot measure that probably would have killed it, and with Newsom's governorship down to its last couple of years, it is nearing the decisive moment.

The project has undergone several name changes over the decades but is now dubbed the Delta Conveyance Project. Recently, the water agency released an updated report on the tunnel, raising its cost to $20 billion but insisting that it still pencils out in a cost-benefit analysis.

"For every $1 spent, $2.20 in benefits would be generated," Department of Water Resources officials declared. "The report also shows the very real cost of doing nothing, posing significant future challenges to supplying water to California communities."

Cost-benefit claims of big public works projects are notoriously subjective because they rely on notoriously unreliable cost estimates and equally squishy definitions of benefits.

The tunnel's $20 billion cost is already many billions of dollars over earlier estimates. As costs climb, the willingness of downstream water agencies to cover construction bonds is still uncertain, and environmental groups are still as opposed as they were in 1982.

By its nature, a bypass tunnel would reduce water flows through the Delta. As Newsom's administration tries to clear financial and environmental issues, it is also trying to get San Joaquin Valley farmers to take less water from its rivers so that more can flow through the Delta.

The interplay between those two somewhat contradictory efforts is one of the project's most intriguing aspects.

Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis Club Hosts 66th Art Fiesta

Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis Club News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis Club is proud to host the 66th Kiwanis Art Fiesta at the Scottish Rite Masonic Center, located at 6151 H St. in Sacramento, on Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2. Show hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. that Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. that Sunday.

After decades of being an outdoor show at Town & Country Village and then Pavilions Shopping Center, this is the second Art Fiesta year at the Scottish Rite location. The air-conditioned comfort, spacious facility and ample parking lot provide an ideal location for this iconic event.

Meet the artists, browse the fine art pieces and purchase quality art for yourself, family, and friends. Most art media, including painting, pottery, photography, glass, woodwork, fine textile, and jewelry will be for sale. There is no charge for admission.

Food and beverages with a fiesta theme, catered by "Taste for the Senses," will be sold. Enjoy breakfast, snacks, lunch and dessert items while meeting the artisans. While at the show on Saturday, take time to vote for your personal favorite fiesta artist.

The Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis Club, chartered in 1952, is a community service organization dedicated to serving the Arden-Arcade community in Sacramento. The club has sponsored the Art Fiesta since the show's inception. As Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis' largest fundraising event of the year, the Art Fiesta is a juried art show ensuring unique, original creations.

"Come out and share this wonderful variety of quality art with the whole family while both meeting and supporting local artists and helping Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis fund its many community and youth-assistance programs," said Art Fiesta chairperson and longtime Kiwanian Tom Fleischmann. "Suburban Kiwanis Club sponsors four high school Key Clubs (Mira Loma, El Camino Fundamental, Rio Americano and Rosemont) as well as a Builders Club at Cowan Fundamental School. These youth programs teach leadership, communication, and community service skills. Additionally, the club sponsors Boy Scout Troop 53."

Other programs that the club sponsors include Kiwanis Family House, River City Food Bank, Sierra Arden Food Closet, Boys and Girls State, Wellspring Women's Center, Sacramento Crisis Nursery and Just for Kids, a program for children who have an immediate family member diagnosed with cancer.

Sacramento Suburban Kiwanis Club is part of Kiwanis International, a global organization of volunteers dedicated to improving the world, one child and one community at a time. Kiwanis and its family of clubs, nearly 600.000 members strong, help raise more than $100 million annually and dedicate more than 18 million volunteer hours to strengthen communities and serve children!

Sacramento Suburban Kiwanians meets on the first and third Wednesday of the month from 12:10 to 1:10 p.m. at Seasons 52 at Arden Fair Mall. For more information about the club or Kiwanis in general, call Tom at 916-834-1870 or visit online at www. sacramentosuburbankiwanis.org.

The Single Largest Cut in Gavin Newsom's New Budget Hits California Health Care Providers

Gov. Gavin Newsom's plan to close the state deficit includes a significant cut to Medi-Cal and a repurposing of money from the so-called MCO tax that had been intended to increase payments to California health care providers. The single largest cut in Gov. Gavin Newsom's latest budget proposal threatens to undo a multibillion-dollar deal he made with health care industry leaders last year to shore up the state's expansive public insurance program with a new tax.

Newsom wants to take $6.7 billion that had been earmarked for increased Medi-Cal payments to health care providers and instead use it to help plug the ballooning state deficit. Providers last year agreed to be taxed to generate that money with the stipulation that it be invested in Medi-Cal, the state's insurance program for lower-income households.

Newsom said his budget proposal preserves core services for programs like Medi-Cal and emphasized that his administration has expanded services "like no other state in U.S. history has ever expanded."

"We are maintaining that," Newsom said during a recent budget presentation.

Groups representing doctors, hospitals and patients warn the cut would weaken an already overburdened health care system that serves one-third of the state's population. Industry groups have gathered signatures to place a measure on the November ballot that would overrule any cuts made in the state budget and to prevent Newsom and future governors from repurposing Medi-Cal funds.

"We are deeply disappointed that the governor's proposal jeopardizes access to health care for millions of Californians," the Coalition to Protect Access to Care, the group supporting the ballot measure, said in a statement.

The coalition is the same group that brokered last year's deal — known as the Managed Care Organization, or MCO, tax and is primarily supported by the California

Medical Association, California Hospital Association, ambulance operators, Planned Parenthood Affiliates of California and health insurers.

Under the original deal, the health insurance plans serving Medi-Cal patients would get taxed in order for the state to claim a dollar-for-dollar matching amount of money from the federal government. The promise was that the money generated upwards of $35 billion for the state over four years — would be invested in the Medi-Cal system to increase reimbursement rates and attract doctors and other providers who otherwise say they don't get paid enough.

Instead, Newsom's new proposal increases the tax on health plans, uses the new money to alleviate the deficit, and cancels planned Medi-Cal rate increases for emergency room doctors, specialists and certain other providers.

Increased payments that started in January for primary care, obstetrics and mental health would not be

"This is mind-boggling for the public, but really the story is about equality," said John Baackes, chief executive of L.A. Care Health Plan, the largest publicly operated health plan in the country.

For the past decade, California lawmakers have steadily restored Medi-Cal services cut during the Great Recession, added new ones, and expanded eligibility to include all low-income Californians regardless of citizenship. Today Medi-Cal covers things like dental exams, hearing aids, doula services and acupuncture. It is one of the most comprehensive public insurance plans in the country.

Expanding Medi-Cal

L.A. Care serves more than 3 million Medi-Cal members in Southern California. Between

January and March, more than 164,000 new members were enrolled when California granted Medi-Cal to working-age, undocumented immigrants. But increasing enrollment and benefits without providing more incentives to providers has strained the health system to a breaking point, Baackes said.

"Nobody is saying that the state doesn't have a (budget) problem. We know they have a problem, to accept," Baackes said.

but the cost that's going to be paid by the people who benefit from the Medi-Cal program is very difficult for the providers In recent budget hearings, representatives from the Newsom administration said they were trying to protect Medi-Cal's core services while balancing a $27.6 billion deficit.

not put forward lightly,"

said Michelle Baass, director of the Department of

"These decisions and proposals are difficult and

Health Care Services, which oversees Medi-Cal, during a recent Assembly budget hearing.

At that hearing, lawmakers who approved the tax deal last year accused the administration of not being honest about how the money would be used.

"I'm just wondering if any of the discussions we've had about the shortages, the closures, the issues that we have on the ground, the workforce shortages, if any of those things came into thought as you were trying to preserve core services, which is important, but if you don't have providers to go to, what have we done?" said Assemblymember Akilah Weber, a Democrat and obstetrician from La Mesa, in the hearing.

Looking to California's

November election Jarrod DePriest, president of Maxim Healthcare Services, said he was shocked to learn the

"dollars meant to protect Medi-Cal" could be diverted. DePriest's company provides home health services, such as nurses for people who would otherwise be confined in a hospital. A majority of its clients are children with complex health needs like cerebral palsy or severe respiratory problems, DePriest said. Between 2018 and 2024, the number of nurses his company employs dropped by half because Medi-Cal reimbursement rates haven't kept up with salaries and inflation, DePriest said. Consequently his company serves nearly 10,000 fewer patients.

"Down the road things will get worse and worse," DePriest said.

His group and others, like air ambulance operators, were not included in the original Medi-Cal rate deal and are fighting for some of the tax revenue but it's unlikely with the current deficit. The proposed cuts signal to them that the state is unwilling to invest in Medi-Cal, which is exactly what ballot measure proponents hoped to avoid.

Dustin Corcoran, president of the California Medical Association and leader of the ballot coalition, said providers will only accept more Medi-Cal patients if they are confident the state will fund the program permanently. "Medi-Cal has been underfunded for so long, one of the things we were trying to accomplish was the predictability and stability of rates," Corcoran said. "You can't have providers in situations where they don't believe in consistency in the rates, and they have to choose between bankruptcy and patient abandonment. That shouldn't be a choice that a provider ever has to make."
