GALT, CA (MPG) - Months of hard work for Galt's agriculture students paid off on May 26 as they sold hand-raised livestock at the Sacramento County Fair Junior Livestock Auction.

The auction buildings at Cal Expo were abuzz with activity on auction day, as exhibitors prepared their animals for their moment in the spotlight, spectators and bidders milled around for a good view of the auction ring, and auctioneers pattered through hundreds of entries from across the region.

Before the auction, judges evaluated the animals based on traits such as musculature, fat distribution and bone structure. At the fair, the best animal in an overall division is named the supreme champion, followed by the reserve supreme champion, and then grand champions and reserve grand champions in the FFA and 4-H divisions, as well as breed-specific awards.

Council OKs Chamber Promotions Funding

By Matthew Malone
News Editor

GALT, CA (MPG) - Galt City Council on May 21 approved the first part of an agreement with the Galt District Chamber of Commerce, which the parties say will promote and support local businesses. In a move related to the Measure Q sales tax, City Council also designated a portion of General Fund money for the Parks and Recreation Department.

The memorandum of understanding lays out $115,000 in programs to be funded by the city and operated by the chamber.

The overall price tag comprises $80,000 for a mural program in Old Town Galt; $15,000 for quarterly business-marketing workshops; and $20,000 for tourism-related publications, such as city maps and Galt-branded posters and stickers. Galt will pay the chamber in two installments of $57,500 on July 1 this year and July 1, 2025.

City Economic Development director Amie Mendes said the city and chamber will meet every other month to review actions under the contract and the chamber will give semiannual reports to City Council on its progress and spending.

The memorandum of understanding is one of several initiatives proposed by an ad hoc committee consisting of chamber and city representatives.

The proposals stem from a request by the chamber to receive $500,000 in COVID-19 relief money left over from a small-business grant program set up by the city, with the goal of creating a Galt tourism program. The committee developed the current set of initiatives as a starting point. Besides the memorandum of understanding, the city is also considering grant programs for local businesses; Mendes said these programs will be presented at future meetings.

"I think from where we started to where we landed, we've listened to our chamber members, the community, direction from Council and I think that we have come to a place where we've been able to address a lot of concerns that have been brought to us," said Kat Seabolt, the chamber's community relations director.

Donated Track Opens at Marengo Ranch

GALT, CA (MPG) - A running track donated by a local construction company officially opened to students on May 22 at Marengo Ranch Elementary School.

S+B James Construction installed the dirt track at no cost to the district. The construction cost was estimated at $250,000. After years of advocating for a track, the school's physical education teacher said the new amenity would boost his ability to keep students active.

Students assembled on the grass, with signs expressing their thanks, just a few yards away from the 200-meter track and long jump runway. They listened as Marengo Ranch Principal Jennifer Porter thanked the various groups who had made the track possible, including S+B James and the district administration.

She credited PE teacher Geoffrey Jumper as the "driving force" behind the construction.

Jumper said he brought up his request for a track at the school's Parent-Teacher-Kid-Club and word eventually reached S+B James

Weaver, Herburger Exemplify Honesty

By Matthew Malone
News Editor

GALT, CA (MPG) - Galt Community of Character Coalition on May 21 presented its 2024 Honesty Award to Rebecca Weaver and David Herburger.

Weaver has served as the teen center treasurer since it was established in 2019. Character coalition member Pam Carmichael presented the awards at Galt City Council's regular meeting, reading the nomination narrative by teen center President Sarah McFadyen.

"Rebecca is meticulous with numbers, which is vital to be a successful treasurer. Rebecca is always honest in everything she says and does," Carmichael read, noting that Weaver documents teen center finances "in full transparency," willingly learns new accounting software and ensures that another person is always present when she counts donations.

"She goes above and beyond her duties as financial recorder and also helps to plan events, make edits for important documents, and maintains our website. Our GTC team especially loves Rebecca's sense of humor, which lightens everyone's mood," the narrative concluded.

Next, Carmichael turned to David Herburger, who was nominated by Galt Sunrise Rotary.

Herburger's nomination narrative highlighted his long career working at and eventually owning Herburger Publications, the Herald's former parent company.

Referencing Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel, who said the opposite of love is not hate but indifference, the narrative added that the opposite of honesty is not lying but indifference.

When Herburger was a child, charged with delivering newspapers for the family business, he tried to get out of the work by dumping some of the papers in the bushes, but he was caught by his mother's best friend.

"This was a significant early lesson for David about lying and deceit that laid the foundation for both his work ethic and his commitment to honesty," Carmichael read.

Herburger's parents "embedded in him the responsibility of being the newspaper of record for a community," the narrative said, continuing that he had brought a commitment to honesty to each organization he has been a part of, including Rotary, Galt District Chamber of Commerce, Sunshine Food Pantry and Galt United Methodist Church.

Herburger's son Daniel was quoted as saying, "Dad never expects anyone to be someone other than who they are; he accepts who you present yourself as."

Galt Mayor Paul Sandhu thanked Herburger for his contributions in the community.

City Council Member Rich Lozano said, "It really shows that when you have people in the community see who you are and provide an award, it really means a lot."

Respect: A Character Trait We Embrace in Galt

Submitted by Galt Community of Character Coalition

GALT, CA (MPG) - Respect has been the Galt character trait of focus for May and June each year since 2007, when the Galt

Community of Character Coalition compiled results of a communitywide survey to determine the most important character values held by Galt residents.

Looking back, Galt community members surely chose respect to be one of six core values for our community because it so directly impacts our day-to-day interactions with people. Showing respect sets the tone for how we treat each other.

As we know, respect is a character trait that involves treating others with kindness, courtesy and dignity. Respect means acknowledging the value and worth of other people, even if we may not agree with their opinions. Respect also means accepting differences and diversity, and not judging or discriminating based on superficial factors.

When we follow the Golden Rule, treating others as we would like to be treated, we are embodying respect. Respect is not only something that we give to others, but also something that we expect and deserve from others. Respect is a component of healthy relationships, whether they are personal, professional or social. Respect brings about trust, cooperation and mutual understanding among people. Respect is something that we have to earn and maintain through our actions and words.

Respect is crucial in Galt to maintain that cherished small-town feeling. In our schools and throughout our community, respect is taught, modeled and practiced.

When we treat others with respect — our family members, our neighbors, and those with whom we interact — we maintain that friendly, small-town atmosphere that promotes dignity and trust.

Respect is such an endearing value to our community that we are eager to honor and tell the stories of those who demonstrate respect in their daily lives.

Since 2008, the Galt Community of Character Coalition has selected 59 individuals nominated by Galt community members to honor as role models of respect. These role models are of all ages and backgrounds.

Brandon Garcia and Marcus Helm were two young students at Valley Oaks Elementary School who demonstrated respect each day, when giving their time each morning and afternoon to raise and lower the flag at their school. They were nominated by their Principal, Annette Lane.

Robert Huarte was an outstanding girls' soccer coach at Liberty Ranch High School who modeled respect and taught life lessons that would last far beyond the soccer season. He was nominated by Liberty Ranch Principal Joe Saramago and teacher Mike Turpin.

Perhaps you know someone, an individual, group or organization in our community, who is a true role model of respect. The Galt Community of Character Coalition is looking for outstanding individuals, groups or organizations that are deserving of recognition for the great examples of respect that they set in their daily lives.

Please take the time to nominate an individual or group that is deserving of the Galt Character Award for Respect for 2024.

Please use the attached form, or email the information with details to Mari Martinez, a founding member of the Galt Community of Character Coalition, marimartinez2323@gmail.com.

Be sure to include the following information: name, address and phone number of your nominee.

Write a brief explanation of how this person, group or organization demonstrates respect. Give examples, if possible. Also, give us your name, address, phone number and email.

Deadline for nomination is June 30.

supreme champion were Galt FFA's Avery Sperling with a market goat and Herald 4-H's Paige Otto with a market lamb. Galt FFA's Giovanni Egger brought a rabbit that was named reserve supreme champion.

In Liberty Ranch FFA, Bella Dulinsky's market lamb was named FFA grand champion. Bringing FFA reserve grand champion animals were Galt FFA's Max Machado with a market goat, and Mackenzie Gordon Tiderencel with a market hog; and Liberty Ranch's Taylor Klein with a market lamb.

In the afternoon, Liberty Ranch FFA students Eduardo Estrada and Dylan Andrews were waiting at the chapter's pens for their turn to sell their market goats.

This was Estrada's first year raising an animal for the auction but he has previously raised cattle, goats and sheep on his own. Estrada said the experience has been mostly similar, except that he has needed special feed and nutrients to help his auction goat build muscle and fat.

In his third year raising goats for the fair, Andrews said that participants "learn a lot of responsibility because you have an animal that you have to care for for five months."

Asked what they looked forward to in the ring, Andrews spoke for both students: "I'm hoping for a big paycheck."

Among the bidders was Sacramento County Supervisor Pat Hume, who said he planned to bid on several lambs and goats. He selects students based on letters that some sent him before the auction, as well as by checking with local FFAs and 4-Hs to learn which students might need some financial help.

"I like to support these programs because it teaches kids responsibility and character and, hopefully, a little bit about agriculture so they see the value in putting food on our plates," Hume said.

Bella Dulinsky of Liberty Ranch FFA sells her grand champion market lamb, netting $3,600.

Giovanni Egger of Galt FFA shows his reserve supreme champion rabbit, which sold for $500.

Mackenzie Gordon Tiderencel of Galt FFA shows her reserve grand champion market hog.

Herald 4-H's Blake Boyd discussed the different personalities of her lambs, Ranny and Lizzo. One of her lambs was named 4-H champion in the speck division.

"Danny's very friendly. He likes to just come up to people and be around people, and she doesn't really like to be around people. She's kind of jumpy when people are around her," said Blake, who is the fourth generation in her family to show animals at the county fair.

Randy Barnes, one of the parents who assists with Herald 4-H, emphasized the resources that exhibitors put into raising their animals.

"This hopefully pays off for them because a lot of these kids have upwards of 200 hours of work in their lambs, their cattle, their projects before they get here. ... That doesn't count the cost of the feed, the cost of the animal," Barnes said. "A lot of people don't realize how many hours they actually put in getting ready for this."

He noted the emotional connection that many students develop with the animals they raise, which can lead to a bittersweet

Students "have to realize now they (animals) are sold for consumption," Barnes said, "and that's why we raise livestock, to keep humanity alive." ★

Evacuate Pets to Sheltering Annex

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - When it comes to evacuations, the public needs to remember the five “Ps” before they leave: People and Pets, Prescriptions, Papers, Personal Needs and Priceless Items.

In some cases, Pets (and livestock) can pose a unique challenge during evacuations. Sacramento County is addressing this issue.

In December, the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors adopted an Agricultural Pass program to facilitate the coordinated re-entry of commercial agricultural producers to care for their animals.

The Board of Supervisors has now introduced additional guidance for safeguarding evacuated animals.

During its May 21 meeting, the supervisors approved the Sacramento County Animal Sheltering Annex, which outlines new protocols for protecting pets and livestock during evacuations.

The Annex’s development was driven by the necessity that arose from previous disasters in Sacramento County and aligned with new legislation.

During the 2023 flood event, area farms reported more than $38 million in losses, including losses of animals that could not be evacuated.

The Annex was a collaborative effort involving government officials and various agencies.

It outlines the roles of entities such as the county agricultural commissioner, law enforcement, public health and the Office of Emergency Services in protecting or evacuating family pets and livestock.

With the support of partners such as the American Red Cross in coordinating shelter spaces that can accommodate animals and the appointment of an animal coordinator for the Emergency Operations Center (EOC), the plan aims to ensure that necessary measures are taken to address the needs of displaced animals. ★

California Groundwater Supply Up

Office of Gov. Gavin Newsom News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- For the first time since 2019, California’s groundwater storage has increased – a direct result of state and local actions to capture and store more water underground during last year’s historic wet season.

California achieved 4.1 million acre-feet of managed groundwater recharge in 2023, with an overall increase in groundwater storage of 8.7 million acre-feet – equivalent to 26.1 million households’ usage over an entire year.

Gov. Gavin Newsom and the state took action to help local communities during last year’s wet season, expanding groundwater recharge by 1.6 million acre-feet. Newsom signed executive orders to expand groundwater recharge by 400,000 acre-feet, as well as signing legislation to build more infrastructure.

The state streamlined groundwater recharge permits to allow for 1.2 million acre-feet of groundwater recharge, as well as investing in groundwater recharge projects.

It invested millions for 67 stormwater projects to take advantage of major storm events.

It also set the statewide goal to expand average annual groundwater recharge by at least 500,000 acre-feet as outlined in the Water Supply Strategy.

However, there is still a lot of work to do, as long-term groundwater storage remains in a deficit of nearly 40 million acre-feet over the past two decades.

Recharging groundwater is key to California’s strategy for expanding water supplies and defending against hotter and drier conditions.

More is needed to expand California’s water supplies.

During this year’s storms alone, the Delta Conveyance Project could’ve captured enough water to supply 9.6 million people; the streamlined Sites Reservoir Project could hold enough water for 32 million households’ yearly usage. ★ on the committee, said he appreciated that the chamber “listened to everybody,” including business owners, during negotiations, expressing his support for the agreement.

Councilmember Kevin Papineau agreed. Papineau, the other City Council representative on the committee, said discussions had started out “bumpy” but he praised the current proposal.

“I think this is great, and I look forward to it growing and moving on,” Papineau said.

Vice-Mayor Rich Lozano commended the cooperation between the city and chamber.

“It’s so good to see that now the city and the chamber can come together and have an understanding and provide the businesses in this community the opportunity to enhance their businesses, enhance Galt and the economic development of Galt,” Lozano said.

Mayor Paul Sandhu said the programs will benefit the city by helping businesses grow.

Councilmember Shawn Farmer asked that the chamber “be mindful” to prefer local businesses as it buys the promotional material. Seabolt said the chamber has a policy to seek services from members before looking elsewhere.

Farmer praised the combination of features in the chamber’s proposal.

Galt resident Chris Brossman, who voiced skepticism of earlier program versions, said during public comment that “this is the first version of the proposal that I could endorse. And, as a citizen, I think the partnership with the chamber makes good sense for the city, and when you look at the outlay of cash on this, it’s really chump change.”

Resident Bonnie Rodriguez said an Old Town mural project had been considered about 16 years ago but never came to fruition. Multiple community members would be “ecstatic” that the idea has been revived, Rodriguez said.

City Council authorized the memorandum of understanding by a 5-0 vote.

P&R Funding Formalized

To ensure that funds from the Measure Q sales tax add to the Parks and Recreation Department budget rather than replace it, council members passed a resolution saying a percentage of General Fund spending for parks and rec.

Finance director Matthew Boring said the contribution would be a percentage of the actual spending from the most-recently audited fiscal year, minus one-time line items and especially volatile expenditures.

Using fiscal 2022-23 numbers, a 5% contribution would be about $773,000 and a 6% contribution would be $928,000

City Council’s decision regularizes yearly General Fund contributions to the Parks and Recreation Department that made up the difference between that department’s revenue and spending.

Farmer supported the 6% contribution. He asked how the adjusted General Fund spending, called the “General Fund base,” has trended over time. Boring said it would probably increase as personnel costs go up.

Other council members agreed on a 6% contribution.

City Council will have discretion to modify the contribution by a majority vote. Council members said this would allow the city to respond to changing financial conditions. In public comment, Brossman supported the 6% figure but said he was “still going to be guarding those dollars.”

Council voted 5-0 in favor of the resolution with the 6% contribution.

Other Business

In other business, City Council recognized Sunshine Food Pantry director Faye Gaines for her work providing food for families facing hunger. Gaines also received a 5 Over 50 Award from Sacramento County. Lozano named “servant leadership” as one of Gaines’ qualities, saying, “Her quiet and loving demeanor belies her fierce, tenacious advocacy for those in need.”

As part of the consent calendar, City Council established a formal rotation schedule for the seat that Galt shares with the city of Isleton on the Sacramento Transportation Authority board of directors.

The city of Galt has held the seat for the past 10 years. Under the new agreement, the cities will alternate in the seat every two years.

Isleton will appoint the representative for 2025 and 2026. ★

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF SHIRLEY C. ZIAN CASE NO. 24PR001346

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors of and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Shirley C. Zian. A Petition for Probate has been filed by David Zian, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, requesting David Zian be appointed as personal representative(s) to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows June 13, 2024, 1:30 p.m. in Dept 129; Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, William R. Ridgeway Family Relations Courthouse, 3341 Power Inn Road, Sacramento, CA 95826. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. The name, address and telephone number of the Attorney for Petitioner is: John R Quiroga, 14670 Cantova Way, Suite 233, Rancho Marieta, CA 95683; 916-794-6279

Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call Nationwide Posting & Publication at 916.939.0772 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Website www.nationwideposting.com for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA08000082-24-1. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 916-939-0772, or visit this internet website http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-23-966169-SH to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE OWNER-OCCUPANT: Any prospective owner-occupant as defined in Section 2924m of the California Civil Code who is the last and highest bidder at the trustee's sale shall provide the required affidavit or declaration of eligibility to the auctioneer at the trustee's sale or shall have it delivered to QUALITY LOAN SERVICE CORPORATION by 5 p.m. on the next business day following the trustee's sale at the address set forth in the below signature block. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. Another Milestone Awaits: Graduation

Oh, my goodness! Have you ever had something on your mind for days and then when it is time to do it, you don't remember? I missed wishing my Mother-in-law Happy Birthday last week! How could I do that? This woman is the salt of the earth, Wonder Woman, one of my favorite people and I forgot her birthday! It was May 28. HAPPY Birthday, Elsie. We love you.

According to the National Day Calendar each year on May 31, National Macaroon Day celebrates the small coconut cookie that is full of flavor and variety, too. Do not mistake these with the delicate sandwich cookies called macarons. No, these small, but substantial cookies hold their own despite the sometimes-mistaken identity. For coconut lovers, this day summons up a little bit of bliss.

The Italians receive credit for creating these sweet morsels sometime around the eighth or ninth century. The recipes later traveled to France. However, in other parts of the world, the once-flourless cookie served its purpose during religious observances. Eventually, the cookie made its way to the United States, where the coconut macaroon flourished because it takes only a few ingredients to make.

Shredded coconut serves as the main ingredient. Usually sweetened, the coconut may also be toasted. Other ingredients include flour, sugar or sweetened condensed milk, egg whites and flavoring. Once the ingredients are combined, the mixture is dropped by spoonful onto baking sheets and baked. Most varieties of coconut macaroons are dipped in milk chocolate, dark chocolate or white chocolate. Almonds, pecans, cashews, or other nuts are sometimes added to the cookie.

Coconut is one of those love it or hate it ingredients. I love it. The taste, the texture, the crunchiness of it. Raw, cooked, toasted, chunked, shredded, any way it is prepared is tasty to me. But coconut macaroons are my favorite. With a cup of hot tea, a couple of macaroons hit the spot of taste and texture. It is a good day to celebrate.

It is the last day of the month, last Friday of the month; it is the beginning of the weekend. Next week our seniors will graduate: Liberty Ranch on June 3, Estrellita on June 4 and Galt High on June 5. All on their own campuses, reliving memories of years past. As freshmen, stepping on campus for the first time, attending first athletic event, first high school rally and dance. Then sophomore and junior years are so full of classes, events, sometimes it seems like high school will never end.

Then their senior year arrives, and you think wait, what? This can't be happening! But it does: senior sunrise, the last Homecoming, last volleyball game, the last holiday formal, the last basketball and soccer games, the last wrestling match, the last rally, the last cafeteria lunch, the last Prom, the last County Fair, etc.

Before you know it, senior photos are posted in the newspaper and you wait to go into the stadium for graduation and the last Senior Sunset.

Congratulations to all the seniors; it is time to step out and make your mark in the world. May you keep these memories close and your loved ones closer. Remember who you are and where you come from. Freshmen, sophomores and juniors: Take note. You can't go back and relive your high school years. Do all you can, when you can. Make all the memories you can, because there are no "do-overs" once you leave high school.

Fathers' Day is in a little over two weeks. It is time to start planning to treat the men in your life to a day of food and relaxation. ★

Congratulations to all the seniors; it is time to step out and make your mark in the world.

BY NORRIS BURKLES

Readers: I'm on vacation this week, so I'm retelling a Memorial Day story I wrote five years ago.

Today, I'm on the Zuiderdam, a Holland America cruise ship, sailing the Baltic Sea enjoying some amazing food and fun entertainment.

But sailing in such luxury over Memorial Day gives me a pang of guilt. I can't help but wonder how sparse it was for the men and women of our armed forces who boarded troop ships bound for war.

I can't help but wonder what it was like for the "Four Chaplains" of World War II.

Their story begins in 1943 on board the USS Dorchester, a 5,649-ton luxury liner converted into a U.S. Army troopship. Heavy with more than 900 men, the ship fell behind its escort off the Greenland coast.

Gale-force winds made for a nauseating voyage, according to later reports. Fortunately, among those doing their best to alleviate the discomfort were four chaplains: Father John Washington, the Rev. Clark Poling, Rabbi Alexander Goode and the Rev. George Fox.

Like a lot of chaplains on ships, they pulled double duty as activity directors. They organized sing-alongs and talent shows, but mostly they took confessions and held worship services, no matter what their faith.

On the evening of Feb. 2, 1943, the ship's captain, concerned over the sightings of three enemy submarines, instructed passengers to wear life jackets to bed. Deep in the ship, the engine heat and overwhelming claustrophobia made it too uncomfortable for those sleeping in the lower decks to follow the order.

On Feb. 3 at 12:55 a.m., as the Dorchester approached Greenland, a German periscope sliced through the icy Atlantic waters. An officer aboard the submarine U-223 gave orders to fire a fan of three torpedoes. One decisive hit on the Dorchester's starboard side below the water line killed scores in a searing flash of flames.

Troops, some dressed only in their underwear, clambered on deck. Among them were the four chaplains: two Protestant pastors, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi. Survivors would later recall these men of faith seeking to calm the passengers and organize them into lifeboats.

When the chaplains saw many were without life vests, they dug around and found extras to give to the men. They instructed the soldiers to pray as they abandoned their ship and imbued them with courage to remain steadfast in their purpose.

Eventually, the chaplains discovered that there just weren't enough life jackets. With the supply depleted, each chaplain removed his own vest and gave it to another man.

The following information comes from the vantage point of those who made it into the lifeboats.

"I could hear men crying, pleading, praying," a soldier named William B. Bednar recalled. "I could also hear the chaplains preaching courage. Their voices were the only thing that kept me going."

It is said that in the light of the fiery oil, the chaplains were seen standing arm in arm on the ship's deck, leading an inter-faith service.

Eighteen minutes after the torpedo hit, the Dorchester rolled into the Labrador Sea on its starboard side.

In the most published quote of the tragedy, survivor John Ladd called the chaplains' steadfastness as "the finest thing I have seen or hope to see this side of heaven."

It would be the third largest U.S. maritime loss during World War II: 672 men died on the Dorchester, most from hypothermia. Only 230 men saw the sun rise in Greenland.

A Memorial Day eulogy 60 years later repeated the sentiment when it recalled the chaplains' act as "Despair caught in hope's grasp. Four chaplains. Two faiths. One God."

The nephew of Chaplain Fox, David Fox-Benton, urges us to "Remember, this was 1943. Protestants didn't talk to Catholics back then, let alone either of them talk to a Jew."

The chaplains were never eligible for the Medal of Honor since they were never under "direct fire." Therefore, Congress created a special medal in 1960 that praised the chaplains for their "selfless acts of courage, compassion and faith." The award was called the "Chaplain's Medal for Heroism," and it can never be awarded again.

I expect to come home next month on a commercial airline. But to those who never made it home from war, let us pledge to never forget.

Readers: I return to Honduras next month to help establish the 86th library for Chispa Project. Honestly, we'll need some big last-minute donations to fully fund this library.

Give online today at Chispaproject.org/chaplain or make check to "Chispa Project." Send to 10556 Combie Rd. Suite 6643 Auburn, CA 95602. ★

Liberty Ranch Athletes Featured in Driving Safety Campaign

CHP Office of Media Relations News Release

GALT, CA (MPG) - California Highway Patrol Commissioner Sean Duryee, a former Liberty Ranch High School basketball coach, made his return to the hardwood this past week to help launch a new teen driving initiative that will feature local students in the curriculum.

Students at Liberty Ranch suited up for a photo shoot in the school's gym on Monday, May 20. Images of the student athletes will be included in Impact Teen Drivers' national "Stay in the Game" campaign.

than a decade with the goal of saving teen lives through education.

Commissioner Duryee, a Galt resident, currently serves as the leader of the CHP, one of the largest law enforcement agencies in the nation.

"As a former coach, I know how critical it is for an athlete to stay focused on the game," Duryee said. "Every shot, every pass, every pitch has the potential to change the outcome of the game. The same holds true for every decision a driver makes behind the wheel."

Impact Teen Drivers' sports-themed curriculum recognizes the fundamental importance of skill and commitment in sports, where every athlete dedicates 100% effort and focus.

This traffic safety course extends the same principle to driving, emphasizing that operating a vehicle demands the same level of attention and skill. Tailored for athletes and teams, "Stay in the Game" provides a sports-focused guide for discussing safe driving and riding, featuring sport-specific drills and accountability pledges to reinforce the parallels between athletic commitment and responsible driving and riding habits. "I am incredibly proud to see our local students represented on a national level, showcasing their commitment to making our roads safer and saving lives," Duryee added.

These photos will be featured in posters, social media and other campaigns all over the nation. ★

Donated Track Opens at Marengo Ranch

President Silas Nigam, whose son attends the school. About a year later, Jumper's longtime wish became reality.
Speaking to the students, Jumper recalled how his daughter found her passion for track and field when other sports didn't appeal to her.
"You're all athletes. You don't have to play a sport like baseball or soccer to be an athlete," Jumper said. "So we can finally run, not on the blacktop, not during recess where we're bumping into people. ... We can run on a great surface now, and you can get more fit than you already are."

S+B James has contracted with the school district on multiple projects, including a renovation at Marengo Ranch five years ago. Galt Joint Union Elementary School District Superintendent Lois Yount praised the company's fairness, honesty and safety.
After all the speeches, Jumper did a ribbon cutting and invited the students onto the track.
Jumper told the Herald that it is "amazing" to have a running track at Marengo Ranch. Even before his recent transition from teaching first grade to physical education, he worked with the after-school fitness program Runnin' for Rhett.

"Our grass is pitted, so I wouldn't even take kids out here to run, and running on the blacktop is just so bad for joints, and so I've been begging to get a track," Jumper said.
Jumper said students would run the mile on the track, as well as 200- and 400-meter runs.
He also planned to teach them various relay formats.
Physical activity helps children concentrate on their studies and improve their behavior.
"So the more active they are in actual movement, not just sitting on a tablet or on a phone, they do better academically," Jumper said. ★
