Holliston Welcomes Public Safety Drone

BY THERESA KNAPP

The Holliston Police Department recently welcomed a new addition to the department: a "public safety drone."

The drone made its debut at the Holliston 300th parade in May, says Chief of Police Matthew Stone.

"We recently used the drone for the 300th parade, Holliston High School graduation, and a missing persons search in Sherborn," says Stone, adding "drones can be used for a number of other public safety functions including, but not limited to, missing persons, search and rescue, motor vehicle crashes, large scale events, fire incidents to assist with detection of hotspots, crime scene documentation, disaster response, and hostage situations."

Chief Stone said the department plans to use the drone in conjunction with its social media presence and for aerial photography around town. Currently, the HPD has one FAA certified drone operator (Ryan Parent) and is in the process of getting a second officer certified by the FAA so they can deploy the drone on a more regular basis.

Funding for the drone was approved at the October 2023 Town Meeting. The drone system was funded as a capital request of $27,500 which covered the system and all necessary equipment to successfully run the program, said Stone. It was ordered over the winter and arrived in town early spring.

There will be tables from community partners to learn about the resources available to families throughout the year.

JUST ADDED: The day will kick off with our COLOR RUN for our incoming PK-Grade 5

What is THE COLOR RUN? Well... it's more of a color party! It is a 1/2 mile path where you "run" or hop, skip, jump, crawl or belly laugh from color station to color station. Just the right size for our littlest runner to complete and our oldest runners to take a few laps. That being said, registered runners can loop as many times as they want and have excess color powder blown off at the end.

Registrants will receive a Kona Ice Icy.

Holliston resident takes the stage in Weston Drama Workshop's We Will Rock You

Weston Drama Workshop, a nonprofit youth theater organization in its 62nd anniversary season, staged six productions this summer at Regis College, featuring participants entering Grade 5 through age 23. Participants have been rehearsing for these productions since early June, and performed at the Regis College Fine Arts Center between July 13 and July 27.

With over 30 performances in the span of a jam-packed three weeks, Weston Drama Workshop continues its longstanding tradition of providing the MetroWest community and beyond with quality youth theater.

WDW's younger ensemble—participants in the Morning Program and the Afternoon Program—performed two productions: Alice By Heart, the touching musical based on Alice's Adventures in Wonderland and set in the rubble of the London Blitz of World War II, directed by Aidan O'Hara; and Old Jake's Skirts, a one-act Theater for Young Audiences play about a lonely pumpkin farmer who finds an old trunk of calico skirts, directed by Calie Llewellyn.

The program's older ensemble, ages 14-23, performed three main stage musicals and one black box play. Audiences will explore the lives of Henry VIII's six wives in Six: Teen Edition, directed by Julia Deter; experience Andrew Lloyd Webber's enthralling score in The Phantom of the Opera, directed by Chris Brindley; follow two revolutionaries as they try to save rock 'n' roll against the backdrop of music by Queen in We Will Rock You, directed by Skylar Grossman; and witness Sarah Ruhl's reimagining of the Orpheus myth in Eurydice, directed by Tristan Burke. Among the performers starring in these four productions is Holliston resident Caroline Monteith, who appears as a Yuppie in We Will Rock You.

Fall Town Meeting set for Oct. 21, expected to be a "two-nighter"

Warrant opens Aug. 5, closes Sept. 16

By THERESA KNAPP

Holliston's Fall Town Meeting will take place on Oct. 21. The warrant will open on Aug. 5 and close on Sept. 16.

As of press time, the warrant had not been posted but is expected to include MBTA zoning; other zoning bylaw changes; road acceptances; reserve funds; capital requests/free cash demands; dams; and more.

At a meeting of the Select Board on July 1, Town Manager Travis Ahern said the discussion regarding MBTA zoning alone is expected to be "a minimum of an hour discussion" and added, "Really, when we look at the rest of this list of items for Town Meeting, we have to probably assume we're going to have a two-nighter in October."

The warrant could also include Community Preservation Committee requests related to affordable housing and/or funding for Parks & Recreation projects, though these items could be pushed to May 2025.

The warrant will be posted at www.townofholliston.us.

Your Money, Your Independence

Teaching Kids Financial Responsibility: Summer Jobs and Roth IRAs

Have a teenager working this summer?

Did they earn money babysitting or mowing lawns?

How about a W-2 from selling ice cream or as a camp counselor?

You can open a Roth IRA for your child to evolve their financial knowledge while helping invest for retirement, a first house and/or qualified educational expenses.

Kids establishing Roth IRAs.

There is no age minimum, as long as they earn income. It's up to the parent to document to IRS that their kids had income earned from work, either W-2 or self-employment taxable wages.

If under 18, an adult opens and maintains control of a Custodial Roth IRA with the child as beneficiary. Once an adult, usually 18 in most states, the account is transferred to a Roth IRA in their ownership.

After a Custodial Roth IRA is opened for 5 years, the advantages of tax-free earnings and withdrawals are same as Roth IRA. Recall a Roth IRA's tax treatment is most valuable when time horizons are long and current tax rates are low, both true for kids.

Glenn Brown, CFP

What if your teen spent all their earnings? After a talk about budgeting (i.e. 3 Jars - Spend, Save, Gift), a parent or grandparent could fund a Roth IRA up to the amount of the child's reported earned income on tax returns.

Some parents will make 'match' contributions based on money earned in a summer job. If a teen earned $3,800 for 2024, a parent will fund $3,800.

Remember, these contributions count against the $18,000 tax-free gifts per individual for 2024. So, if you've funded $18,000 for child's 529 Plan, find another individual (i.e. spouse, relative) who can make the Roth IRA contribution.

Introduction to personal investing. Have fun by letting your teen research an ETF or company to invest in, have them explain reasoning behind their choice and teach how they can follow. The next year, have them choose a different investment with the new contribution. Over time, they have a mix of investments, outcomes and lessons learned. This hands-on experience lays a foundation for making informed financial decisions of greater magnitude later in life.

Taxation of withdrawals before age 59 ½. A Roth IRA allows for 100% of contributions to be taken out for any reason, with no taxes or penalties. Furthermore, if a Roth IRA withdrawal is for qualified education expenses, you avoid the 10% penalty on earnings but still pay income tax on the earnings at the kid's tax rate. Thus, Roth IRA could supplement educational savings. Later, they could also withdraw up to a $10,000 to pay for a first-time home purchase.

Impact to financial aid? Yes, in a good way. The "expected family contribution" or "EFC" formula has student owned assets assessed at 20% with two notable exceptions. First is 529's owned by parent's is 5.6% and retirement accounts owned by parent or child counts as 0%. However, if a child takes money from a Roth IRA, even to pay for college, up to 50% of the withdrawal may be assessed.

In conclusion, opening a Roth IRA for kids is a proactive way for parents to teach financial responsibility and secure their children's financial future. It's not just about saving money; it's about cultivating a mindset of financial discipline and planning that will benefit them throughout their lives. By harnessing the power of investing, compounding and leveraging tax advantages, parents can give their children a head start towards financial independence and security.

Not all institutions offer Custodial Roth IRAs, but many do with no minimums and low fees. Consult your Certified Financial Planner to learn more.

Dexter is 'playful, friendly, and a bit of a goofball'

The Baypath Humane Society introduces Dexter, an 11-year-old fellow who has lots to say:

"Hey there, I'm Dexter! I'm a senior, but don't let that fool you. I've got the energy of a puppy, and a heart full of love.

"I'm playful, friendly, and a bit of a goofball. I love to make everyone laugh with my funny antics and I'm always up for a good cuddle. I'm on a special mission to find a forever home where I can be the only dog. While I enjoy play dates and walks with my canine buddies, I prefer to be the center of attention at home. All I need is a comfy bed, some toys, and people to spend my days with!"

Are you afraid of outliving your money?

Mark Freeman

FINANCIAL FOCUS®

Provided by Edward Jones

Do you worry about running out of money during your retirement years? If so, how can you help prevent this from happening?

In the first place, if you have this type of fear, you're far from alone. Consider this:

58% of retirement savers from all age groups, including current retirees, say that outliving their assets is their greatest retirement fear, according to a study by Cerulli Associates, a financial services research organization.

This type of fear can certainly affect your quality of life when you retire. Still, there's no need to panic – because you can take steps to help prevent the running-out-of-money scenario.

Here are a few to consider:

- Know how much you'll need during retirement. You need to get a clear picture, or at least as good an estimate as possible, of how much money you'll need to support your retirement lifestyle. Once you do retire, some costs, such as transportation or other work-related expenses, might go down, while others – medical expenses, in particular – will likely go up. The fear of running out of money, like many fears, is caused largely by what you don't know, so having a good sense of how much you'll need in retirement can help reduce your anxieties.

- Build financial resources before retirement. You're probably at your peak earning capacity in the years close to your retirement, so consider contributing as much as you can afford to your IRA and 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan.
- Maximize your Social Security payments. You can start collecting Social Security as early as 62, but your monthly benefits will be larger if you can afford to wait until your full retirement age, between 66 and 67. (Payments will "max out" at age 70.)
- Re-enter the workforce. Going back to work in some capacity is one way to possibly help build retirement resources and delay taking Social Security. If you have a particular area of expertise, and you enjoyed the work you did, you might be able to go back to it on a part-time basis or do some consulting. You could boost your cash flow, and potentially extend your contributions to an IRA and to an employer's retirement plan.

- Cut costs during retirement. Possibly the biggest cost-cutting measure is downsizing – are you willing and able to move to a less expensive area or scale down your current living space? Of course, this is an emotional decision, as well as a financial one, and downsizing isn't for everyone, but it might be something to at least consider. As for the lesser ways of reducing expenses, take advantage of senior discounts, which are offered in many areas, including entertainment, public transportation, restaurants and retail establishments. And look for other opportunities, such as cutting out streaming services you don't use.
- Look for more income from your investments. As you get closer to retirement, and even when you do retire, you might want to adjust your investment portfolio to provide you with more income-producing opportunities. However, even as a retiree, you'll want some growth potential in your investments to help keep you ahead of inflation.

Ultimately, the more you can bolster your financial security before and during retirement, the less fear you may have of outliving your money.

Holliston Junior Police Academy graduates 'Radar Rookies'

By THERESA KNAPP

In July, the Holliston Police Department held the first of two Junior Police Academies it will offer this summer.

The five-day program for kids entering grades 6, 7 and 8 - the July class named themselves the "Radar Rookies" - included demonstrations (drones, handcuffs, self-defense); guest speakers (Massachusetts State Police air wing and several area K9 units); games and team building exercises (relay races and a ropes course); and much more.

Plus popsicles, lots and lots of popsicles, on very hot days.

The class also visited Holliston Youth and Family Services where they talked about peer pressure and coping strategies; and took a tour of the police station and police cruisers.

The week concluded with a pizza party and a graduation ceremony in front of the police station.

A second Junior Police Academy will take place in August.

Confidence the Key To Success

By CHRISTOPHER TREMBLAY,
STAFF SPORTS WRITER

Much like many a young kids, Holliston's Kaylee MacDonald started her softball career in the town program playing tee-ball alongside many of her friends.

In addition to softball, the Holliston native also competed on the soccer field as well as the basketball court. But it wasn't until her freshman year in high school that she realized that softball had a special meaning in her life.

With the Panthers putting together a successful season, winning the Tri-Valley League and for the first time in 15 years defeating Hopkinton, MacDonald realized that although she still loved the other sports, softball was now number one.

"My confidence really grew that year," she said. "I was always the kid in the back, scared to talk because of what others may think of me, but (former Panther head coach) Quindley told me that I had a lot of potential and could be a great player. It didn't hurt that I hit my first homerun that year too."

The then-freshman had one of her best seasons at the plate in a long time and she found that she was starting to get some big (extra base) hits instead of just her normal singles. Her confidence grew. Although she was hitting the ball much better, she also realized that she was not even close to her potential.

Following her freshman campaign she began to utilize her club teams, the Frozen Ropes out of Natick, practices to improve upon her game. Enjoying the game immensely, she stayed later each practice to improve and get better. When she returned to the Panthers the following season, not only was she the starting catcher she also led the league in steals and once again had the highest on base slugging percentage (OPS) on the Holliston team.

According to Quindley, MacDonald was a very talented individual and could play just about anywhere on the field; was one of the team's best hitters if not the best and possessed a rare combination of power and speed at the plate.

As a freshman and halfway through her sophomore season, MacDonald found herself behind the plate for the Panthers, but was moved to shortstop, a position she normally plays for the Frozen Ropes. It was here that she started to develop into a solid defensive player, despite not really enjoying the position.

"I'll play it (shortstop), but I really don't like it as much as some of the other positions," MacDonald said. "I've been playing the outfield on occasion for my club team and I really enjoy the position as it has given me even more confidence in my game as I can use my speed to my advantage."

During the first few years on the varsity program MacDonald found that she struggled playing the shortstop position as it got into her head. When she was slated to play the position, she let it bother her at first, but as soon as the game started, adrenaline took over and there was no effect.

This past season, as a junior, the Holliston team had a down season. Having lost Coach Quindley and a team that was very young the Panthers were only able to win a handful of games. Despite the team not being very successful, MacDonald continued to improve. Not only was she the team's MVP, but she was also named to the TVL All-Star team for the first time in her career.

"Earning TVL honors was an amazing moment and showed that all my hard work paid off," she said. "But I can not accept this honor as my own, as it has a lot to do with my teammates."

While this past season is now in the books, MacDonald is looking forward to her senior season, where she will be one of the captains. Not only does she want to get the Panther softball team back on the right track improving on their wins, but she also wants to share her knowledge with the younger players to help them improve their game.

"We definitely want to improve upon last years win to lose ratio," MacDonald said. "But I also wasn't to concentrate on helping the younger girls get stronger and more confident. I slowly learned that more confidence leads to a better you and how you play the game."

While MacDonald is hoping to help the team improve their confidence, she will be doing so by leading by example. During the high school off-season, she will continue to work hard with her club team this summer to improve her confidence to the next level. In doing so she hopes that she can commit to play softball on the collegiate level somewhere in the future.

"I am still very iffy on the process as I don't like talking, but I am going to go out and start reaching out to coaches," she said. "I want to continue to play softball after high school and hopefully I'll get that chance at school close to home."

In college MacDonald is hoping to play more in the outfield, but as she has in the past she will play anywhere that she is needed to help out the team. With college in the near future, MacDonald will put that on the back burner for now as she focuses on her club team and her senior season with Holliston.
