RIO LINDA, CA (MPG) - Every small town needs a star.

That's precisely what Sacramento native and acclaimed musician Shane Q is to Rio Linda. Shane Q, whose birth name is Shane Quidachay, rose to fame on Season 17 of the hit NBC competition singing show "The Voice" in 2019. There, he wowed celebrity judges and viewers with his powerhouse vocals and down-to-earth personality, capturing the hearts of many.

Messenger Publishing Group interviewed Quidachay prior to his performance at the Rio Pub on Aug. 10 about his music career.

Born and raised just outside of Rio Linda, Quidachay still lives in Sacramento and frequently performs all around the broader area, with upcoming shows in West Sacramento, Elk Grove, Auburn, and more. "I do about 200 to 250 shows a year," he said.

With his busy schedule, Quidachay can most often be found strumming his guitar at local venues, captivating audiences with his voice.

Quidachay discovered his gift of singing around five, but said shyness got the best of him for some years. "I became extremely shy and didn't sing again until I was about 16," he admitted.

Later, he began posting videos on YouTube of him covering songs, which garnered attention from industry professionals.

According to Quidachay, producers from both "American Idol" and "The Voice" reached out to him multiple times inviting him to audition until he finally decided to go for it at the age of 28.

On "The Voice," celebrity judges sit facing away from the person auditioning, only paying attention to their voice, hence the title of the show. If they like what they hear, they will turn their chair to face the performer, offering a spot on their team. Quidachay's voice impressed all four judges, and he was able to turn all their chairs, which is a rare feat. Quidachay then had to decide which superstar's team he wanted to be on.

Help Your Pets Beat the Heat

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Extreme heat waves continue to affect Sacramento County and it's crucial for pet owners to ensure their furry friends stay safe and comfortable. When temperatures rise, pets face increased risks of heat-related illnesses. Here are some essential tips to help your pets beat the heat:

Never leave pets in parked cars: Even on mild days, the temperature inside a parked car can rise rapidly, turning it into a deadly trap. Leaving pets unattended in cars is both dangerous and illegal in California.

Hydrate: Always provide fresh water for your pets to keep them hydrated. If your pet is experiencing a heat-related illness, never give them cold water to drink or soak in. This could shock their system.

Avoid peak heat hours: Schedule walks and outdoor activities during cooler parts of the day, such as early mornings or evenings. Hot asphalt and concrete can burn your pet's paw pads, so test the surface with your hand first.

Provide shade and cool environments: Ensure outdoor pets have access to shaded areas and fresh water. Indoors, keep them in air-conditioned rooms or use fans to improve air circulation.

Use sunscreen: Pets with light skin or fur are susceptible to sunburn. Apply pet-safe sunscreen to sensitive areas like their ears and nose.

Be cautious with swimming: Supervise pets when swimming in pools or natural bodies of water. Use life jackets and avoid swimming in strong currents or water that is too cold.

Recognize heatstroke symptoms: Watch for signs like excessive panting, drooling, glazed eyes, rapid pulse, lethargy, vomiting and collapse. If you suspect heatstroke, move your pet to a cool area and seek immediate veterinary attention. Gradual cooling helps stabilize their internal temperature without causing additional stress or shock to their system.

By Omella Rossi

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Non Commissioned Officers Association (NCOA), a military service organization established in 1960, plays a vital role in supporting members across all United States Armed Forces branches and their families from Rancho Cordova and the greater Sacramento area through programs and initiatives.

With a mission focused on enhancing quality of life and supporting the professional development of non-commissioned officers, the association operates under the motto "Strength in Unity." Throughout the year, the organization raises funds through various programs and allocates them to area veterans in need.

The Non Commissioned Officers Association also collaborates with the Rancho Cordova Area Chamber of Commerce to promote community recycling events, enhancing environmental sustainability efforts.

A cornerstone of the association's support is the partnership with Volunteers of America for the Sacramento Stand Down, a multi-day event providing critical services such as legal aid and medical and psychological treatments to homeless veterans. The Non Commissioned Officers Association contributed more than 500 towels for veterans in need at the event.

"It's an opportunity to help those veterans to be cared for," said Non Commissioned Officers Association International Auxiliary President Tammy Sullivan. "It happens all over Sacramento. Some of our most recent locations include Placer County and Elk Grove."

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

The NBA summer league is over, but changes to the Kings ultimate roster for the upcoming season are not nearly over.

GM Monte McNair has earned his stripes by consistently making solid moves that will give Sacramento Kings fans potentially the best NBA team they've seen since the Webber/Bibby era, in which the Kings won a gaudy 61 games in 2021/22.

At this juncture, making predictions that would rival that season seems ludicrous, but make no mistake about it, McNair has his sights on a 60-win season, and he's scouring the NBA and beyond to find components that will get this franchise to that end.

The power forward position continues to be a point of focus, and although the Kings recently acquired Orlando Robinson, the search continues for a true rim protector that can play defense and add even a modicum of scoring while he's on the hardwood.

Potentially, that player could be a bench player for the Portland Trailblazers by the name of Robert Williams III. At 26 years of age, Williams' best playing days are still in front of him, and his seven points and six rebounds a year ago for the Trailblazers doesn't tell the full story. At 6'9" and 250 lbs., Williams is a true shot blocker, and the thinking here is given more playing time, this young man could become a true double-double threat.

The Kings are all too familiar with a double-double threat, as big man Domantas Sabonis has led the NBA in double-doubles the past two seasons, while leading the entire NBA in rebounding at the same time. Imagine if the Kings could surround this stevedore with just a little more support around the rim!

The only Sacramento King currently playing basketball in the Paris Olympics is none other than Trey Lyles, and although he's had a less than stellar performance so far for his home country of Canada, I remain convinced that if used correctly for the Kings, Lyles not only could give the Kings a boost in the upcoming season, he could actually break into the starting lineup.

Most pundits think I'm crazy, but I have always seen a higher ceiling in Trey, and the only way we will ever know if I'm right, is to increase his playing time.

Trey is a consistent three-point shooter and solid rebounder behind Domantas, and I believe as the Kings continue to search for power-forward solutions, they should look no further than their own bench.

I have to believe that Monte McNair shares some of my zeal for this talented big man, or we would have already seen him in either a trade or trade rumors.

The real question is not McNair, but coach Brown. During last season's campaign, there was no consistent rotation for Lyles coming off the bench, and he went through stretches in which his minutes were sparing to say the least.

For any player, and particularly a big man, there must be that vote of confidence, that is demonstrated by his consistent time on the court, and that includes hardwood time during the last five minutes of a game. Show him that you trust his game when it means the most, and watch his confidence grow.

I give Mike Brown high marks for understanding how to bring along Keon Ellis, but his reluctance to use Trey Lyles when the Kings are starving for front-court players, remains a mystery to me.

The summer league did reveal that the Kings have a burgeoning star in your Boogie Ellis, who did pretty much what he wanted to against opposing summer league players. Boogie has been invited to training camp, and although the Kings remain guard heavy, Boogie's instant offense and frenetic defense means he deserves a closer look. At only 23 years of age, the Kings want to make sure they don't pass on a guard that may very well portend happy times for their future.

The big man/power forward rumors are ubiquitous, but I'm convinced that Monte McNair has at least one more notable move to make, and it's my educated guess it will come in the form of a power forward.

Stay tuned this off-season as its roster moves aren't over yet!

All the best, Kings fans! ★

Social Security Matters

Does Congress Pay Into Social Security?

By Russell Gloor,
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I've been told that members of Congress do not have Social Security deducted from their pay; Additionally, that their retirement dollars come from the Social Security Administration purse even if they only serve as a member of Congress for a short number of terms. Also, if this is true, are there other individuals that enjoy these advantages?

Thank you in advance for your service as a Social Security Advisor. Signed: Concerned Senior

Dear Concerned Senior: I'm afraid this is one of those "urban legend" kind of rumors that just seems to keep popping up, especially when the issues surrounding Social Security's financial problems come up. In addition to being untrue, it often is used to display the public's animosity toward elected officials and the feeling that Congress—and other elected officials—are above the fray, so to speak, and therefore not affected by the implications of Social Security's looming insolvency problem.

Here's the reality. Since January 1, 1984, all members of Congress, the President and Vice President, Federal judges, and most political appointees, are covered under the Social Security program. The rumor that these elected officials do not pay Social Security tax most likely is attributable to the fact that from 1920 to 1983, they were participants in the Civil Service Retirement System – CSRS – the federal retirement plan federal workers used even before the Social Security Act was passed. CSRS provided a pension for federal employees, so they were exempted from contributing to or collecting from the new Social Security program.

In 1987, then, the federal government officially changed over to FERS – the Federal Employee Retirement System – and all employees hired from that point forward are now covered under FERS. There are multiple parts to FERS, and one of them is mandatory FICA contributions. So, all federal employees—including members of Congress—are subject to the 6.2% FICA tax, are eligible for Social Security retirement benefits, and are governed by the multitude of rules and regulations associated with Social Security. But other than standard SS benefits which they may normally be entitled, no Social Security funds are used to supplement Congressional retirement.

In other words, the rumor that Congress didn't pay into Social Security was actually true prior to 1984, but today it is a misstatement of fact. And the federal employee retirement plans (both the prior CSRS plan and the current FERS plan) are totally independent of Social Security and do not negatively affect program solvency.

California Has Seen Many Towns Created, But as Population Drops a Big Project Has Stalled

By Dan Walters,
CALMatters.org

When California emerged from its colonial beginnings nearly two centuries ago and began coalescing into a distinct society, its towns and villages tended to be located either on navigable rivers, such as Sacramento, or around the 21 missions that Spanish explorer priests had established, such as San Diego.

In the late 19th century, with California having experienced a massive population boom during the Gold Rush and become a state, entirely new communities sprung up. These settlements were often carved out of farm and ranch land by developers and railroads, the small San Joaquin Valley city of Hanford being one of the latter.

For example, the small villages south of San Francisco, such as Hillsborough, were designed as refuges for the wealthy from the noise, pollution and violence of San Francisco — and eventually led to the formation of San Mateo County as a protective bulwark.

The creation of new towns continued for most of the 20th century. In Orange County, the descendants of 19th century ranchers converted chunks of their vast holdings into new towns to absorb the region's massive post-World War II population growth.

The most spectacular example was — and still is — the City of Irvine, named for a ranching family, and home to a quarter-million people and a major University of California campus. Dick O'Neill, heir to a huge Orange County cattle ranch, created two cities — Mission Viejo and Rancho Santa Margarita.

On the outskirts of Sacramento, along the Cosumnes River, another ranching family successfully created a stand-alone community called Rancho Murieta.

Creating new towns can be a risky endeavor. Developers can spend millions to plan their new communities and install infrastructure but may wait decades to see a profit.

California City, in the Antelope Valley 100 miles north of Los Angeles, was founded in 1958, but its remote location and somewhat inhospitable terrain and climate made attracting residents difficult. It's still there and has about 15,000 residents, but that's way short of the original ambition.

Mountain House, created three decades ago in a corner of San Joaquin County to attract commuters to Bay Area jobs, also struggled, particularly during the collapse of the housing market during the Great Recession. However, it survived: Today it has about 25,000 residents and on July 1 became an incorporated city.

The Tejon Ranch, an immense cattle ranch in the Tehachapi Mountains, has been trying for decades to create a new residential community, but it has faced massive opposition from environmental groups. It is finally beginning construction on an apartment complex.

That brings us to California's latest effort to carve out a new community, this one in a rural portion of Solano County.

California Forever, a company backed by Silicon Valley billionaires, quietly — even sneakily — bought more than 50,000 acres of ranchland, after which it finally revealed plans for a new community that would eventually have 400,000 residents.

The secrecy and scope of the project generated immediate opposition, particularly after the company said it would seek approval via a November election ballot measure, bypassing hurdles such as the California Environmental Quality Act.

With approval by Solano County voters in doubt, California Forever has shelved its ballot measure. Company officials say they now will strive to gain popular support before proceeding.

The explosive growth that California experienced in the first 170 years of its existence as a state has now abated, probably for good. California has been losing population in recent years and at best it will probably see population stagnation in the future.

That said, California still has a housing shortage, and state policy is to encourage infill projects in or near cities rather than developing open spaces, which California Forever would do.

The chances for California Forever to join the ranks of new town developers are slim at best.

My Limitless Limitations

outlines are akin to karaoke and were popularized by the now-retired evangelical pastor Rick Warren.

I'm too rhythmically challenged to clap to the beat of contemporary church music. I have to make a choice: sing or clap. And since people tend to get hurt when I clap, I stick to singing.

Three Situations Where my Faith is Stronger Because it's Limited

On a more serious note, I'm a man who acknowledges his faith limitations.

I cannot, will not, tell you that your faith and beliefs are wrong and mine are right. Some Christians are fond of quoting John 14:6 concerning Jesus being the only way to God. But if you are reciting the verse to other faiths, you are not sharing your faith, you're shouting your condemnation.

I won't impose my faith on you in a public situation by giving a public prayer when I know that the audience may not be of my faith. Because, if I only pray what doesn't offend me and -- you can only hear what doesn't offend you -- then we dilute both of our faiths.

I won't debate you. I'm not going to argue religion with you. Neither will I engage in disputes over abortion, the death penalty, theology, politics, evolution or the existence of God. I will, however, engage in a thoughtful examination of the issues. Maybe it's the INFP personality, but my dad taught me that it can take more courage to walk away from an argument.

That's enough of the negative limitations. Before I finish, let me tell you where I tend to be limit-less.

I try to be an example of struggling faith. "What is that?" you ask. Struggling faith recognizes that no one has faith completely figured out. God is too big to be contained in one religion. We can learn things about faith from people of other faiths, and even from people who profess no faith at all.

I want to follow the direction of I Peter 3:15: "Be ready to speak up and tell anyone who asks why you're living the way you are and always with the utmost courtesy."

Finally, if you ask me, I will pray with you without limits. My prayers are voiced in plain English without the "thee" and "thou" from King James's Old English. However, given my touch of ADD, the prayers won't be a grande or a venti size prayer, just a small one.

Just don't ask me to do one of those huggy prayers. After all, a pastor really should know his/her limitations. ★

Dave Ramsey Says Wait ... What?

Dave Ramsey

Dear Dave,

We've been following your Baby Steps plan, and we paid off two car loans a few months ago. That freed up almost $800 a month. We have two kids, and we love to go on family camping trips. We've been trying to decide on a destination for the next one, but to do this we would need a vehicle with more room. Luckily, we found a used van at a reasonable price, and we think we could have it paid off in no more than 12 months. Would this be okay, since we would still have more money left than before?

– Sara

Dear Sara

Okay, you're telling me you just got out from under $800 worth of car payments each month, and you want to dive right back in by financing another one? I think you've missed the point of my plan. The point is to get out of debt, not just move it around or try to juggle smaller portions.

What you're actually saying is you're thinking about putting your family's financial future in jeopardy, because you want to go on camping trips in a roomier car. That's a bad plan! For you guys, something like this right now would be a luxury item. Did you know I went without a vacation for four years trying to get my life back together after I went broke? Four years! I'm not suggesting you live with this attitude for the rest of your life, but I'm pretty sure there are other ways to make family camping trips happen.

Long story short, you don't need a different vehicle to go camping. And you definitely don't need to go back into car debt to go camping. Buy a couple of tents, throw them in the back of the car and head for the woods. If your cars are really just too small to handle everything, then rent a bigger car for the weekend. I'd rather you spend a few bucks doing something like that once in a while than picking up another car payment.

Your mindset on this worries me, Sara. The reason for getting out of debt is to live a better life. Living debt-free is smart, less stressful and it makes everything else feel lighter and easier to manage. Live like no one else, so that later, you can live like no one else. Remember?

Please, don't do it.

By: Clerk of Court N. Arellano, Deputy STANDARD FAMILY LAW RESTRAINING ORDERS
Starting immediately, you and your spouse or domestic partner are restrained from:
1. removing the minor children of the parties from the state or applying for a new or replacement passport for those minor children without the prior written consent of the other party or an order of the court;
2. cashing, borrowing against, canceling, transferring, disposing of, or changing the beneficiaries of any insurance or other coverage, including life, health automobile, and disability, held for the benefit of the parties and their minor children;
3. transferring, encumbering, hypothecating, concealing, or in any way disposing of any property, real or personal, whether community, quasi-community, or separate, without the written consent of the other party or an order of the court, except in the usual course of business or for the necessities of life; and
4. creating a nonprobate transfer or modifying a nonprobate transfer in a manner that affects the disposition of property subject to the transfer, without the written consent of the other party or an order of the court. Before revocation of a nonprobate transfer can take effect or a right of survivorship to property can be eliminated, notice of the change must be filed and served on the other party.
You must notify each other of any proposed extraordinary expenditures at least five business days prior to incurring these extraordinary expenditures and account to the court for all extraordinary expenditures made after these restraining orders are effective. However, you may use community property, quasi-community property, or your own separate property to pay an attorney to help you or pay court costs.
NOTICE: ACCESS TO AFFORDABLE HEALTH INSURANCE:
Do you or someone in your household need affordable health insurance? If so, you should apply for Covered California. Covered California can help reduce the cost you pay towards high quality affordable health care. For more information, visit www.coveredca.com. Or call Covered California at 1-800-300-1506
WARNING: IMPORANT INFORMATION
California law provides that, for purposes of division of property upon dissolution of a marriage or domestic partnership or upon legal separation, property acquired by the parties during marriage or domestic partnership in joint form is presumed to be community property. If either party to this action should die before the jointly held community property is divided, the language in the deed that characterizes how title is held (i.e., joint tenancy, tenants in common, or community property) will be controlling, and not the community property presumption. You should consult your attorney if you want the community property presumption to be written into the recorded title to the property.

Another significant program involves the association's partnership with the Veterans Administration (VA), where representatives actively assist in securing homes and furniture for homeless veterans. The association operates four warehouses in Rancho Cordova for storing donated items. Members meticulously maintain a list of veterans' needs and available resources, ensuring efficient matching and furnishing of homes with appliances and furniture. Additionally, they facilitate direct delivery of these essentials to veterans' residences, further enhancing their support efforts.

Association members also plan to increase outreach efforts to connect with the Veterans Village residents in Sacramento.

The Non Commissioned Officers Association members had an informational booth June 20 at the annual Rancho Cordova Business Expo & Job Fair.

"As a result of the business expo, we were able to start a partnership with JumpKing to acquire used, yet functional beds and mattresses for donation," Sullivan said. "We see a huge demand for these items when it comes to this program."

The Non Commissioned Officers Association also collaborates with Move America Forward, a non-profit military charity based in Sacramento, to assemble and send care packages for troops overseas, showcasing the organization's commitment through practical, community-driven initiatives.

"I'm proud of our collaboration with the Veterans of Foreign Wars where we raise money to buy appliances such as grills and commercial toasters," said Scott Rodowick, the auxiliary chapter treasurer, reflecting on some of the association's initiatives. "These items are integral to our participation in barbecues, which serve as outreach programs aimed at keeping everybody connected."

Sullivan highlighted unique challenges faced by veterans in the region, including the need for stronger peer-to-peer connections due to the absence of active military bases nearby. To address this, the Non Commissioned Officers Association organizes events such as the Irreverent Warrior Silkie Hike, an annual veteran-only hiking event in Rancho Cordova, fostering camaraderie and support among veterans. Additionally, members emphasize support for post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) treatment and aim to improve coordination among veterans' organizations for more effective outreach.

Area residents, businesses and volunteers interested in supporting the Non Commissioned Officers Association's mission can engage through volunteering opportunities listed on the association's website at ncoausa.org or by following its social media presence. Sullivan emphasized the importance of community awareness and involvement in bolstering their efforts to assist veterans effectively.

"There are so many ways and varying levels of degrees to get involved," Rodowick said. "It's a great group of wonderful people and the greatest gift is when you are helping others. Especially those that put their lives on the line to give us the freedoms we enjoy today."

The Noncommissioned Officers Association meets regularly in Rancho Cordova and other locations throughout Sacramento, with monthly gatherings aimed at fostering community and support among members. Two local chapters include the Central Valley and the Spirit of Sacramento Auxiliary Chapters comprising about 90 members in the Sacramento area.

When asked why residents should join the Non Commissioned Officers Association, Sullivan emphasized the organization's responsibility to veterans and the community.

"We enjoy the freedoms of today because of those veterans and sometimes this gets lost," Sullivan said. "We all have someone or know someone that has put that uniform on and that uniform represents this country and everything this country stands for. We should honor that."

Rodowick said that members do not have to be connected to the military to join. Anyone can be a part of the organization.

Active Non-commissioned Officers Association members are throughout the greater Sacramento region, according to Sullivan, including in Rancho Cordova, Citrus Heights, Placerville, Lincoln, Plumas Lake and Elverta.

The Noncommissioned Officers Association Central Valley Chapter Number 1551 and Spirit of Sacramento Auxiliary Chapter Number 270 host meetings at 7 p.m. the first Wednesday of every month at Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4647, 3300 U St. in Antelope. All are welcome to attend.

Rio Linda's Shane Q Shines

"I was torn between Blake Shelton and Kelly Clarkson," he admitted. "But I went with Team Kelly."

Quidachay made it to the Top 10 of "The Voice" before elimination and calls the experience the "time of my life."

What was his favorite part about being on the show?

"It was so fun meeting a bunch of people and just singing together, dressing up and meeting celebrities," he said. "The contestants all lived together in the hotel, so you build friendships and relationships with these people for months. They become your new family, your new best friends from all over the country."

Since then, Quidachay has not stopped performing and sharing his voice. Additionally, he has released two co-written songs, titled "Bad Girl" and "Off My Mind" with the hopes of more to come.

"I am slowly working on new stuff," he said.

As for where he gets his musical inspiration from, Quidachay cited Michael Jackson, Stevie Wonder, Celine Dion, John Mayer and his father as musical influences.

"My dad is a musician and a singer," he said. "I get it from him."

Quidachay and his full band, which includes Grammy-winning drummer/producer Jesse Kasset Hanes, and a bass guitarist and an electric guitarist, will perform at 7 p.m. Aug. 10 at the Rio Pub, 6750 Front St., Rio Linda.

Why should the community come to his shows?

"We are bringing some good tunes to Rio Linda. I engage a lot with my audience and I'm from Rio Linda, so come on!" he laughed. "The pub has good drinks, good food, good staff, good people. We're going to rock out and have a good time."

Quidachay's performances involve mostly covers from a wide range of genres, including country, classic rock, reggae and R&B.

"The best part about live music is the energy I get from the crowd," Quidachay said. "I've played at places where there's maybe five people in the audience, and even then, if you can get a reaction out of them, that's pretty wild."

Can't make the show? Luckily, Shane Q performs across the Sacramento area very frequently and a list of his shows can be found on his Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/TheShaneqqq> or his Instagram page @shaneqofficial. Ballot Initiatives Become Pawns in Democrat Schemes

Commentary by Ted Gaines

The shocking national political events have rightfully dominated the news of the past few weeks. But in relative obscurity, governments everywhere are still working, and the California political establishment has been busy waging a war of deception and disempowerment against our citizens. This time, they're targeting the ballot initiative process, an important form of direct democracy.

First is the death of the Taxpayer Protection and Government Accountability Act (TPGAA), a voter-rights initiative aimed at putting the brakes on runaway taxes and fees plaguing our famously expensive state.

The Taxpayer Protection and Government Accountability Act would have put the tax- and fee-increase reins in voter hands, as summarized by the Wall Street Journal: "The initiative would require a majority of voters to approve taxes adopted by the Legislature. Both the Legislature and voters would have to approve regulatory action that increases state revenue. Charges for specific government services or products like fishing licenses would have to reflect the actual cost of providing the service or product. The initiative would also raise the threshold for localities to pass all special taxes to two-thirds."

When the initiative qualified to be placed on the ballot this November, what did Governor Newsom, the man who supposedly represents all 40 million Californians, do? He sued to get it removed from the ballot, and a hyper-partisan California court sided with the Governor and removed the measure. The Governor and Legislature can't let anything disrupt their endless taxing and spending. The people won't even have a chance to tighten the reins on government growth. So much for democracy.

Next up are two cynical, pro-crime smokescreens floated by the Legislature and Governor Newsom to cloud the result of an actual tough-on-crime initiative on the November ballot.

The initiative, Prop. 36, would undo some of the infamous Prop. 47, which essentially legalized shoplifting under $950 and gave blessing to open-air drug markets, turning California into a criminals' paradise and pushing retailers to the brink.

Prop. 36 will put some teeth back into the criminal justice system, protect businesses and families, punish criminals for a change, and mend the social fabric weakened by rampant crime and drug-den takeovers of our public spaces.

But the California Legislature is sadly and shockingly pro-crime. To them, "the system" is always the problem, never the people who are filling up shopping carts and walking out of stores in broad daylight, with no fear of punishment.

So, they sprang into action by drafting a package of bills that sounded tough-on-crime but included "poison pills," meaning the bills would be voided if Prop. 36 passed. Voters reading the ballot summary for Prop. 36 could have been confused, thinking they were weakening law enforcement by voting for the measure.

Thankfully, this shameful deceit eventually collapsed under a massive outcry by law enforcement and a public weary of crime.

After the bills failed, Governor Newsom floated another initiative to compete with Prop. 36, again to soften and undermine the commonsense changes found in the people's initiative. That last-minute effort cratered as well because even legislative Democrats refused to support a competing proposition to Prop. 36, leaving the people with an honest chance to change the course of the state this coming November.

Sacramento Democrats also understand that having Prop. 36 on the ballot hurts their chances in November. Their efforts to thwart the reforms in the initiative are as much political as they are philosophical.

Instead of obsessive politicking, the Democrats should look at their own policies and try to understand why a measure that punishes criminals, creates safe neighborhoods and businesses, and closes drug markets is considered an electoral threat to them.

The capitol is the people's building, not a walled fortress to protect incumbents and special interests, and voters are not an inconvenience to be shooed away by the courts or by trickery.

Despite the worst efforts of Sacramento Democrats, the people still have a chance to support Prop. 36 in November and build a brighter future for our state.

Senator Ted Gaines (Ret.) was elected to represent the Board of Equalization's First District. He is a leading taxpayer advocate, defender of Prop. 13, and is committed to providing trustworthy and transparent representation for nearly ten million constituents in 34 counties of northern, eastern, and southern California. Governor Newsom's Executive Order Leads to FAIR Plan Reforms

Office of Governor Gavin Newsom News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - California Insurance Commissioner Ricardo Lara announced a modernization of the state's FAIR Plan, also known as the "insurer of last resort," to strengthen the program for those who depend on this system for affordable and reliable coverage.

This follows Governor Newsom's call for swift regulatory action to build a stronger FAIR Plan, strengthen and stabilize California's marketplace with a focus on creating a better rate approval process, and accelerating the implementation of regulations.

"California's all-of-the-above strategy is addressing this decades-old crisis to get people the reliable and affordable insurance they need. Strengthening the state's FAIR Plan has been a key priority, and these upgrades will help stabilize the entire market while providing more stability for those who already depend on it," said Governor Newsom.

Modernizing the FAIR Plan

The FAIR Plan has agreed in a binding legal stipulation to issue a new Plan of Operation within 30 days that will implement Commissioner Lara's plan to offer homeowners, consumers, and business owners:

Expanded Coverage: Establishing a new "high-value" commercial coverage option with limits up to $20 million per building, along with past increases for residential policies.

Financial Stability: Creating a sound financial formula to protect the market in extreme loss scenarios.

Improved Transparency: Requiring increased public reporting on FAIR Plan activity and customer service metrics.

This is part of the Commissioner's Sustainable Insurance Strategy, a package of reforms to strengthen California's marketplace and maintain strong consumer protections.

The California FAIR Plan Association was established in statute in 1968 to meet the needs of California homeowners unable to find insurance in the traditional marketplace. The FAIR Plan is not a state agency, nor is it a public entity. There is no public or taxpayer funding. The FAIR Plan is a syndicated fire insurance pool comprised of all insurers licensed to conduct property/casualty business in California.

How we got here
In September of last year, Governor Newsom signed an executive order urging Insurance Commissioner Lara to take swift action to address issues with the insurance market and expand coverage options for consumers, while maintaining strong consumer protections and keeping plans affordable.

In May, the Newsom Administration released a proposal to increase the transparency and speed of rate change application approval timelines, while remaining consistent with Proposition 103's consumer protections from excessive, inadequate, and unfairly discriminatory insurance rates.

Insurance rates nationwide have been on the rise due to the impacts of the climate crisis. California rates have been below the national average and significantly less than some other states, with the average yearly cost for $300,000 homes at:

California - $1,405
National - $2,601
Texas - $3,851
Florida - $4,419 ★
