SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Recently, the Elk Grove City Council approved the move of the Sacramento Zoo to its city. It may be a surprise to some, but to those who have been around for some time, it isn't.

Expanding the zoo to support the needs of the animals has been a discussion for decades. The zoo opened in William Land Park in 1927. The only expansion was in the 1960s, making it the 14.2 acres it is today. Around the late '80s, the zoo was looking to expand again. That's when neighbors formed a group to protect the park, which later became the Land Park Community Association, or LPCA. Expansion would have impacted the baseball fields and picnic areas nearby. Even then, neighbors understood there were only two choices for the zoo: to remain at its current size or relocate to a larger space.

After years of searching, the zoo thoughts on what they want to see in the empty zoo space.

Firstly, it is essential to know the city has parameters for what can go into that space. For example, it cannot be used for housing or private business. It should be family friendly and affordable. It must be privately managed like Fairytale Town and Funderland (neither of those sites receives money from the city). There may be other restrictions that are currently unknown.

Newsom: Restrict Use of Cell Phones in Class

Office of Gov. Gavin Newsom News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - In a letter to California schools on Aug. 13, Gov. Gavin Newsom called on every school district to restrict smartphone use in classrooms as the new academic year begins. In his letter, the governor applauds districts that have already implemented cell phone restrictions, like Los Angeles Unified, and reminded education leaders of the mental health. scholastic and social risks of cell phone use in classrooms.

In 2019, Newsom signed has found a new home. Elk Grove is planning to open its zoo in 2029, leaving the space in Sacramento empty by 2028. A new generation of LPCA board members is once again participating in the conversation.

With the support of board member Jeff Coleman, the LPCA launched a community survey to collect people's

Building on that legislation, he is currently working with the California Legislature to further limit student smartphone use on campuses. In June, the governor announced efforts to restrict the use of smartphones during the school day. A copy of the letter can be found below: Dear School Leaders,

As we strive to create the best learning environment for all students this new academic year, I write today to raise an urgent issue that affects their well-being: the pervasive use of smartphones in schools.

Excessive smartphone use among youth is linked to increased anxiety, depression, and other mental health issues. A recent Pew Research Center survey found that 72% of high school and 33% of middle school teachers report cell phone distractions as a major problem. Common Sense Media found that 97% of students use their SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento continues to produce stars.

That's precisely what Sacramento native and acclaimed musician Shane Q is to the area. Shane Q, whose birth name is Shane Quidachay, rose to fame on Season 17 of the hit NBC competition singing show "The Voice" in 2019. There, he wowed celebrity judges and viewers with his powerhouse vocals and down-toearth personality, capturing the hearts of many.

Messenger Publishing Group recently interviewed Quidachay about his music career in light of all the shows he is doing in and around the area.

Born and raised just outside of Rio Linda, Quidachay still lives in Sacramento and frequently performs all around the broader area, with recent shows in West Sacramento, Elk Grove, Auburn, and more. "I do about 200 to 250 shows a year," he education offerings, while 75% wanted an animal sanctuary or wildlife rehab center. This could include a bat sanctuary, butterfly pavilion or bird sanctuary. Several respondents liked the idea of a Japanese garden with a tea house. It would also honor the historical Japanese culture in the community. 69 to 71% asked for a multi-use community center.

It could also be a space for weddings, open-air markets and concerts. 68% asked for sports facilities, mainly aquatic. Neighbors have commented that William Land Park has no public pool or community center. The new amenities would include neighbors and visitors to Land Park alike.

And although the arts were not listed in the survey, it's assumed an artistic component would benefit the space as well.

Survey respondents also shared concerns such as parking overflow onto neighborhood streets. Noise levels are a worry, too. Land Park residents are used to many visitors on holiday weekends in the park and some afterhours events at the zoo. This is possible for the new space, but to be kept to a minimum. During regular hours, the space should be available to children and adults.

Many were apprehensive about the site's future architectural character, but that may already be determined. In 2023, the front of the zoo was designated a historic landmark by the city council and cannot be torn down.

The entrance could be a blueprint for the rest of the area — an open, airy, mid-century-modern look with plenty of green spaces to calm the soul.

There were also questions about repurposing structures inside the zoo. For instance, the carousel is a favorite among local families.

Solid, brick buildings like the giraffe stable, reptile house and veterinarian clinic could be reused. In addition, there are plenty of mature trees, plants and flowers along pathways. It would be nice to keep some of that as well.

Finally, there are large pieces of artwork throughout the zoo that were donated in past years. What is their future?

This may seem like a tall order for a developer. It's inevitable that only some of the things on the wish list are possible. But building a space with the neighborhood in mind will help harmonize it with the rest of the area.

And creating something new with a nod to Land Park's history and natural beauty will certainly win the hearts of the community.

It's possible that the space is large enough to handle several different amenities, fulfilling many wishes.

In the end, 71% hoped the new attraction would bring in about the same number of visitors as the current zoo.

Now that the survey is ity closed, the LPCA is discussing next steps. One is to share the full survey results with its city councilmember Rick Jennings and his staff.

The next is to request to participate in the process of determining the next amenity in the space. \bigstar

Congratulations to Kings standout De'Aaron Fox and his wife Recee! Their young family has recently added a baby girl, and on behalf of all Kings fans I want to say a hearty congratulations to you both.

Many Kings fans have enjoyed watching Recee and baby Reign the past season, as they sit courtside and root on De'Aaron and the Kings nightly.

As an NBA veteran and former all-star, I fully expect De'Aaron to have another allstar season this year, and with the added presence of DeMar DeRozan, Fox could potentially have his best year yet.

Many believe with De'Aaron's improved three-point shooting, and his dynamic drives to the hoop, DeRozan's stellar midrange game may give Fox even better looks at the basket.

The same can be said for Keegan Murray, whose three-point shooting fell off a bit after having an eye-popping rookie season.

Teams tightened up the D on Keegan in his sophomore campaign, and the open looks he enjoyed in his rookie season were harder to find last year.

Look for DeRozan to help Keegan get back on track, and I believe every Kings fan is firmly convinced that Keegan's best basketball is still in front of him.

I have listened to NBA pundits that have downgraded the Kings to a 44-win prospect in the coming season, and this writer wonders what these supposed experts are looking at.

I see a 50-plus win team hitting the hardwood for Sacramento this year, and that is without Monte McNair making any further improvements to the roster. McNair has done a yeoman's job as a young GM, and is already developing a reputation as a GM not to be taken lightly.

Not since the Geoff Petrie days have we seen someone in the front office with the acumen that our own Monte McNair has demonstrated.

So, take heart Kings fans, because I believe McNair is here for the long haul, and his 13-year stint with the Houston Rockets has proven invaluable to the Kings, as he continues to make prudent moves that are consistently improving this team.

Many fans criticized choosing another guard in acquiring Devin Carter, but I firmly believe that utilizing the philosophy of choosing the best possible talent, regardless of position, was the correct prescription for the Kings, and just like choosing Keegan Murray two years ago, I believe that young Carter will prove his value in the 2nd half of the 2024/2025 season.

Many believe that the only reason he wasn't taken in the top 10 was due to impending shoulder surgery that has already taken place. Carter's availability looks to be sometime in late January, so his rookie campaign will consist of only half a season. I'm convinced that McNair chose wisely, so working him into the lineup in the all-important drive to the finish could make Devin Carter another fan favorite.

The continued talk is that the Kings still need a power forward to match up with stalwart big man Donatas Sabonis, and there still remains quality players that are on the open market.

One name I haven't heard mentioned is Indiana Pacers small forward Doug McDermott, who may yet be a sleeper that just needs more time on the hardwood.

A playoff team last year and a good one, the Pacers gave McDermott only 14 minutes per game while adding 5.5 points per game each night. McDermott was the 11th pick overall in the 2014 draft, and at 32 years of age could bring a veteran presence to a young Kings roster.

Tobias Harris is more of a household name, and while scoring 17.2 points per game for the 76ers last season, has scored 20 or more for the season twice in his 9-year career, and would also fit nicely into the Sacramento lineup.

Stay tuned Kings fans, because the roster for the upcoming season is not yet cast in stone, and just one more move could propel this playoff bound team to a place deep in the playoffs! ★

All the best, and please send your comments to vgharriskingsfan@gmail.com.

Methuselah Dances to the Music

By Stephen B. Clazie

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) The sunny summer Saturday mornings of August make the GreenHaven Pocket Farmers Market (GHP) patrons wish for longterm relief from scorching summer temperatures. They linger in the morning-sun glow and listen to the hot, upbeat tempos of Gary Allen every Saturday morning at the farmers market in the Elks 6 parking lot, singing along or just resting on the lawn in the shade of the trees.

For Fangalua Methuselah, who is originally from Tonga, the music inspired him to do an impromptu dance. Methuselah was overwhelmed that the Elks 6 Lodge had such a wonderful and fun event for the community.

Nicole Holton Alvarado, the GHP chair, said, "Gary Allen's music is very catchy and puts a smile on everyone's face. People

Than $120 Million in Illegal Cannabis Since January

Office of Gov. Gavin Newsom News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - In strong support of California's legal cannabis market, Governor Gavin Newsom announced that since January, California's Unified Cannabis Enforcement Task Force (UCETF) has seized more than $120 million worth of illegal cannabis, destroyed nearly 37 tons of unlicensed cannabis, including 122,914 illegal plants. As part of these operations, state law enforcement officials have also seized 22 firearms.

"The legal cannabis market brings billions of dollars to our state's economy, helping to sustain California's position as the fifth largest economy in the world. We will not tolerate illegal operations that threaten our economy and the health and well-being of California communities," Gov. Gavin Newsom said.

In recent months, the task force conducted operations in 11 California counties, including Mendocino, Tuolumne, Shasta, Orange, Kern, Alameda, Yuba, Trinity, Los Angeles, Butte and Humboldt.

"UCETF's efforts are continuing to break new ground in unlicensed cannabis enforcement by leveraging the expertise and knowledge of its diverse group of partners to disrupt the unlicensed market," said Bill Jones, Chief of the Law Enforcement Division with the Department of Cannabis Control.

Taking Down Illicit Cannabis

Governor Newsom has directed state agencies to aggressively target the organized criminal enterprises involved in the illicit cannabis market. These illegal schemes not only threaten California's legal cannabis market but the use of illegal pesticides and unregulated practices harm California's environment and water quality. California is also focused on ending the exploitation of vulnerable workers at these sites, who are often victims of labor violations and human trafficking.

"The continued success of UCETF is a testament to the collaboration between its partner agencies. Due to the high level of engagement from each of the agencies involved, we are able to move swiftly against those who choose to continue to grow cannabis illegally," said Nathaniel Arnold, Chief of the Law Enforcement Division with the California Department of Fish and Wildlife and co-lead of the Unified Cannabis Enforcement Task Force.

"We will continue to rely on the individual and combined strengths of these agencies to support those who are cultivating legally in a manner that is safe for the consumer, the general public and the environment."

A Unified Strategy Across California

In 2022, Governor Newsom created the Unified Cannabis Enforcement Task Force to further align state efforts and increase cannabis enforcement coordination between state, local and federal partners. The enforcement actions protect consumer and public safety, safeguard the environment and deprive illegal cannabis operators and transnational criminal organizations of illicit revenue that harms consumers and undercuts the regulated cannabis market in California.

Since its inception, the Unified Cannabis Enforcement Task Force has seized over $465 million in unlicensed cannabis by serving 309 search warrants.

The taskforce has also eradicated 470,435 illegal cannabis plants, seized 150 illegal firearms and arrested 38 individuals.

Grieving Isn't a Secret

I was 28 years old when the U.S. Air Force sent me to Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., to complete Chaplain Basic Training.

For three weeks, I sat elbow-to-elbow with other young chaplain wannabes.

On my left side sat the first of many chaplain priests I'd befriend.

Yet, almost from the beginning, Father Frank found me deeply disturbing on two levels.

First, he couldn't believe I didn't drink.

For the second problem, he suggested that "A good drink could fix your akathisia."

"What's that?" I asked.

"Akathisia describes a complete inability to sit still."

Fortunately, within a few days, I was able to win Frank over without alcohol.

We shared a lot of laughs, giggling during lectures, passing notes and kicking each other under the table to keep quiet. I began to feel that Catholic priests would likely go to heaven, and he learned that even Baptist teetotalers could be fun.

However, my classmate to my right wasn't as sociable. Bobby kept to himself, looking straight ahead, volunteering little more than his name and religious denomination.

Finally, a few days from the course completion during a lecture on grief, Bobby dropped a bomb.

"I know you probably think I've seemed detached these past several days." An a cappella chorus of "No-duh" rippled through our student body.

"My mother died the day after we arrived."

Suddenly, it became quite enough to hear a chaplain cuss, but I just said, "Ah, shoot."

Our class stopped to say a prayer for Bobby. The course director offered him emergency leave, but Bobby refused, holding tight his military bearing.

After class, a few of us invited Bobby to a nearby bar. He declined, so we went without him.

Inside the bar, we commiserated on Bobby's behalf, noting how tragic it was to lose a family member while so far away from home.

After a few drinks, Frank slammed his hand on the table.

"Bobby didn't trust us," he said. "We sat shoulder-to-shoulder with him all month and he was locked up too tight to share with his clergy brothers."

"Perhaps we could have helped him," said one chaplain. "How could we?" asked Frank. "He didn't trust us ar a to help him." just "We could have carried his class assignments," suggested one lieutenant. "I would have given him my phone card to call his family," I said.

To each idea, Frank pushed back, "If only he had trusted us."

The bar debate eventually found some resolve to reach out to Bobby again the next day.

"Try again," Frank said. A few years later, I saw Frank at a chaplain's conference, just outside a Denver hotel. "How you doing, Baptist?" he asked. The word "fine" came to mind, but thinking of Bobby, I didn't lie. I trusted Frank more than that. "Not good." I said as my tears splatted the conference-room carpet. Many readers know the story I told Frank next. A few months prior,

I'd rushed to give solace at a mass shooting scene at Cleveland Elementary school in Stockton, Calif. I was the chaplain who told six parents that their child had been killed.

I fell into the arms Frank extended. He held me and wouldn't let go.

That night, he invited me A to join him and two other priests at a local bar – the ing same opportunity he'd offered Bobby. you

As we talked in that dark, private space, I sipped at my Pepsi, feeling a restoration budding in my soul.

During the next few hours, my priestly friends also told their stories of grief. They taught me that grief can't stay in the dark. It must come out or it will never heal.

Why did I choose this week to tell you this story? Because my 90-year-old mother died a few weeks ago and I won't keep that a secret.

She was the most wonderful mother who taught me faith, laughter and love. I want you to know that I feel grief and so should you.

By the way, I finally did take Frank's advice by accepting his offer of a Colorado Bulldog. (It's a White Russian cocktail, with added Pepsi.)

It was so delicious that I ordered two more that evening.

About midnight, when we stood to leave, the ceiling seemed a bit active.

"Don't worry. We got you, Baptist." Frank promised. And they did. They all walked me back to my room, arm in arm, like the brothers they'd become.

Labor Unions, Cities Unite Against Cardroom Bill

Elevate Public Affairs News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The California Gaming Association, California Cardroom Alliance and Communities for California Cardrooms announce growing opposition with many labor unions joining in opposition to Senate Bill 549 by Senator Josh Newman as it could have a "devastating impact on public sector jobs."

Joining in opposition to SB 549 includes the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), California Professional Firefighters, Teamsters Local 630 as well as a growing number of locals such as AFSCME District Council 36, AFSCME District Council 57, AFSCME Local 101, International Union of Painters and Allied Trades DC 36, Los Angeles County Firefighters Local 1014 and the Los Angeles County Professional Peace Officers Association.

and SEIU California and

They join a growing number of cities that have filed letters in opposition including California Contract Cities Association, California Cities for Self-Reliance Joint Powers Authority, California Cities Gaming Authority, City of Bell Gardens, Town of Colma, City of Chula Vista, City of Citrus Heights, City of Commerce, City of Compton, City of Emeryville, City of Gardena, City of Hawaiian Gardens, City of Inglewood, City of Oceanside, City of San Jose and City of Tracy.

SB 549 will create a PAGA-like law for gaming tribes to be able to sue their competitors – the cardrooms. This would usurp state regulators and the Attorney General which oversee the legality and permissibility of cardroom games. It would also permit for the first time ever a one-sided injustice as cardrooms would not be allowed to sue tribal casinos. The joint letter opposing SB 549 by these labor unions state: "SB 549 Could Have a Devastating Impact on Public Sector Jobs: SB 549 is an attack on local cardrooms, which are a significant source of revenue for general funds in many cities across California... Many have revenue sharing agreements with municipalities providing a significant amount of funding for essential public services like police, fire, parks and recreation, etc. The measure could easily force cardrooms out of business and result in a loss of $500 million in tax revenue statewide — meaning less revenue for public safety, public health, homelessness services and infrastructure.

The loss of local tax revenue could spell devastation for many cities across California. For example, approximately 78% of the City of Hawaiian Gardens' general fund comes from cardroom revenues. Similarly, 50% of the City of Commerce's general fund comes from cardroom revenues. Larger cities like San Jose and Fresno would also be seriously impacted. This bill will destabilize essential services.

If signed into law, cities who depend on this revenue stream could be forced into municipal bankruptcy or even disincorporation. This could have potentially devastating impacts that puts jobs, pensions and the financial wellbeing of working families at risk. We have seen this happen before: the Orange County Bankruptcy."

"SB 549 Puts Workers in the Middle: The mere cost of litigation alone could lead to lower wages, loss of jobs or cardroom closures. And cardroom closures could devastate some cities who may have to file for municipal bankruptcy or disincorporate."

For more information about why SB 549 is bad for California, go to BadBetforCA.com.

Airport Breaks Ground on Pedestrian Walkway

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento International Airport (SMF) has broken ground for its new Pedestrian Walkway, a key project in the SMForward program.

The Pedestrian Walkway will connect Terminal B to Concourse B via a skybridge with moving sidewalks, escalators and elevators along a panoramic corridor. The walkway project is vital to supporting passenger growth well into the future.

"This is the first project of our $1.3 billion SMForward program and the culmination of years of planning and creativity," said Cindy Nichol, director of Sacramento County Department of Airports. Said District 1 Supervisor Phil Serna, "This walkway, with two sky bridges and a hub, is built with the future in mind. They will provide SMF's passengers a flexible portal that can connect to a future concourse to meet our growing region's need for air travel for decades to come."

Following a competitive selection process, Balfour Beatty was chosen to serve as the project's Construction Manager at Risk (CMAR), a first construction manager, leading to better project design and cost control. The project will be delivered through multiple progressive guaranteed maximum price (PGMP), which reduces financial risk for the department.

The Construction Manager at Risk delivery method enhances project quality and efficiency through integrated project design and delivery and proactive risk management.

As Scammers Target PG&E Customers, Here's What to Know to Not Fall Victim

PG&E News Release

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA, CA (MPG) - Utility scams have continued at an alarming rate during 2024, with Pacific Gas and Electric (PG&E) customers reporting over $334,000 in losses to scammers. To stop this trend, PG&E is committed to helping customers recognize the signs of a scam and avoid falling victim.

A typical sign of a scam targeting a utility customer includes a caller claiming to be from PG&E and threatening disconnection if immediate payment is not made via a pre-paid debit card, digital payment mobile application, or other methods of money transfer. As a reminder, PG&E will never send a single notification to a customer within one hour of a service interruption and will never ask customers to make payments with a prepaid debit card, gift card, any form of cryptocurrency, or instant mobile payment applications, like Zelle® or Venmo.

"Scammers seek to create a sense of panic, threatening disconnection of utility services if immediate payment is not made," said Matt Foley, lead customer scam investigator for PG&E. "If a phone call, visit to your home or email doesn't feel right, don't fall for it. Hang up, shut the door or delete it. Remember, PG&E will never ask for your financial information over the phone or via email, nor will we request payment via pre-paid debit cards or other methods of money transfer, including mobile applications."

During 2024, PG&E has received nearly 15,000 reports of scams targeting residential and business customers with customers reporting losses of over $334,000. The average scam victim lost over $600, and over 500 customers have reported falling victim. This number is likely just the tip of the iceberg however, as many scams go unreported.

Business customers also are not immune from scam attempts. In fact, PG&E has received 528 reports of scams targeting small and medium-sized businesses this year, and these attempts frequently occur during busy business hours when scammers hope to catch unsuspecting victims while they are distracted or stressed.

Another recent scam trend involves scammers creating fake websites which provide a fraudulent phone number when you search services related to PG&E such as "bill pay" or "start/stop" service. These sites and phone numbers often appear when a handheld device is used to search for and contact PG&E. As a reminder, customers looking to contact PG&E should either call our customer service number, 800-743-5000 or by logging into your account at www.pge.com.

Scammers can be convincing and often target those who are most vulnerable, including senior citizens and low-income communities. They also aim their scams at small business owners during busy customer service hours. However, with the right information, customers can learn to detect and report these predatory scams by visiting www.pge.com/scams or by calling 1-833-500-SCAM.

Signs of a potential scam

Threat to disconnect: Scammers may aggressively demand immediate payment for an alleged past due bill.

Request for immediate payment: Scammers may instruct the customer to purchase a prepaid card, then call them back supposedly to make a bill payment.

Request for prepaid card: When the customer calls back, the caller asks the customer for the prepaid card's number, which grants the scammer instant access to the card's funds.

Refund or rebate offers: Scammers may say that your utility company overbilled you and owes you a refund, or that you are entitled to a rebate, and ask you for your personal financial information.

Scammers Impersonating Trusted Phone Numbers: Scammers are now able to create authentic looking 800 numbers which appear on your phone display. The numbers don't lead back to PG&E if called back, however, so if you have doubts, hang up and either log into your account at pge.com to confirm your bill details or call PG&E at 1-833-500-SCAM. If customers ever feel that they are in physical danger, they should call 9-1-1.

How customers can protect themselves

Customers should never purchase a prepaid card to avoid service disconnection or shutoff. PG&E does not specify how customers should make a bill payment and offers a variety of ways to pay a bill, including accepting payments online, by phone, automatic bank draft, mail or in person.

If a scammer threatens immediate disconnection or shutoff of service without prior notification, customers should hang up the phone, delete the email, or shut the door.

Customers with delinquent accounts receive an advance disconnection notification, typically by mail and included with their regular monthly bill.

Signing up for an online account at pge. com is another safeguard. Not only can customers log in to check their balance and payment history, but they can also sign up for recurring payments, paperless billing and helpful alerts.

Customers who suspect that they have been victims of fraud, or who feel threatened during contact with one of these scammers, should contact local law enforcement. The Federal Trade Commission's website is also a good source of information about how to protect personal information.

Continued from Page 1 phones during the school day for a median of 43 minutes. Combined with the U.S. Surgeon General's warning about the risks of social media, it is urgent to provide reasonable guardrails for smartphone use in schools.

As I work with the Legislature to further limit student smartphone use on campus, there is no reason for schools to wait. In 2019, I signed AB 272 (Muratsuchi) into law, which grants school districts the authority to regulate the use of smartphones during school hours.

This legislation was a crucial step in our efforts to minimize distractions and foster a more conducive environment for our students to learn. It is imperative that school districts take full advantage of this law to address the growing concerns surrounding student well-being and academic performance.

Leveraging the tools of this law, I urge every school district to act now to restrict smartphone use on campus as we begin the new academic year. The evidence is clear: reducing phone use in class leads to improved concentration, better academic outcomes, and enhanced social interactions. Schools and districts. including Santa Barbara Unified and Bullard High in Fresno, have seen positive impacts of limiting smartphones on campus, with some reporting higher test scores, grades, and student engagement, and less bullying and damage to school facilities. I applaud these districts, and others like L.A. Unified, for their leadership.

Every classroom should be a place of focus, learning, and growth. Working together, educators, administrators, and parents can create an environment where students are fully engaged in their education, free from the distractions on the phones and pressures of social media.

Thank you for your continued dedication to our students and support in making our schools the best they can be.

Sincerely, Gov. Gavin Newsom ★

Pitbull Attack a Lesson for Dog-Walkers

By Mitch Barber

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -Cynthia Gonzales lives in a Midtown apartment with her 16-month-old baby, Elias.

On July 13, they took a walk with Gonzales' small dog, Jackie, finding themselves in front of Orbit Wash, a self-service car wash, at Ninth and T streets in Sacramento.

Gonzales told Messenger Publishing Group, "From what I remember, I was walking across the street. When I got to the other side, a homeless person's dog (a pitbull) poked its head up from a pile of stuff. I thought the dog was restrained. I didn't pay any mind to him."

As Gonzales tried to move faster her dog and the pitbull saw each other.

"It was a very big dog going for my dog,' Gonzales said.

The larger dog lunged, trying to grab Jackie by the neck. Gonzales said she picked Jackie up and did her best to protect her dog and baby from the pitbull, which was on a leash but not being restrained adequately.

The unhoused person's dog was a pitbull. Photo by Urs Tudor-Alexandru from Pixabay

The pitbull bit Gonzales' elbow, according to Gonzales.

The World Health Organization's website indicates that approximately 4.5 million people are bitten by dogs every year in the United States.

Ryan Hinderman, communications and customer service manager with Sacramento's Front Street Animal Shelter, said that the city's animal control team received 808 reports of dog bites in 2023.

At Sacramento County's website, animalcare.

saccounty.gov, it recommends, "If you sense a dog attack is imminent, NEVER pick up your dog as a means to protect it. An aggressive dog will not be able to differentiate your body from that of the dog."

Gonzales said that the pitbull was trying to kill her chihuahua-terrier mix.

"I was just in shock; I noticed there was blood on my baby," she said.

The homeless man's large dog had jumped up on Elias' stroller, clawing him in the head and producing a small wound that broke the skin.

Gonzales called 911, and dispatch asked if there was an emergency. Gonzales said yes, but after more discussion, was referred to animal control.

She dropped the call but soon decided to call 911 again and ask for an ambulance.

Three firefighters arrived a few minutes later, and one of them attended to Elias' wound.

Mother, first responders and small dog were at ease as Elias calmed down, ceasing to cry. Gonzales gave her residence's key to a firefighter so that he could deposit Jackie at her apartment while she accompanied Elias to the Sutter Medical Center Emergency Department.

In a moment of comic relief, as Gonzales handed her dog's pink leash and Jackie to the firefighter, he asked, "Do you have another leash?"

Elias ended up being fine, having only a wound that was largely invisible two weeks later.

How has the incident changed Gonzales?

"I'm actually scared right now of dogs, and I've been rescuing dogs and cats for years," she said. "This incident changed things."

Gonzales has rescued dogs since 2013.

Her takeaways from the experience with the pitbull are to be hyper-vigilant when outside in the city. She recommended investing in pepper spray.

"There's a Taser stick for dogs if they are attacking you," she said.

This reporter, who saw the pitbull shortly after the dog had drawn blood from the baby, spoke to the homeless man that day as he walked away from Gonzales, her baby and her dog; he was unresponsive to calls for acknowledgment in regard to what his animal had done.

Hinderman from the Front Street Animal Shelter had some advice for staying safe around loose dogs in the community.

"People should stay vigilant when walking in neighborhoods, especially when walking dogs of their own," Hinderman said. "Many dog bites we hear about occur when an unfamiliar dog attacks or fights with a dog someone is walking and get bitten in the process of trying to break up the fight. Similarly, not everyone walks their dog on a leash. If you see an unleashed dog being walked, the owner may be confident that the dog isn't reactive to other people or pets. However, it is still safest for you to create distance, especially if you're walking your own dog who may not react well to an unfamiliar dog approaching."

Hinderman added that extra care should be taken when walking near encampments, especially if walking your own dog. ★

Commissioner Faces Criticism as He Tackles Crisis in Insurance Cost

By Dan Waters CALMatters.org

"Father Knows Best" was a popular radio show in the post-World War era

Politicians tend to play on that resentment by promising, if elected, to protect voters from rapacious insurers.

In California, that attitude took the form of a 1998 ballot measure sponsored by a self-designated consumer protection group, that made the state insurance commissioner an elected official with new authority to regulate insurers.

The sponsoring group, wildfires that have swept through California in the last half-decade prompted many insurers to curtail their exposure, some to the point of abandoning the state altogether.

California's insurance regulatory system, they said, made it impossible to accurately project potential losses and adjust their premiums accordingly.

As tens of thousands of policies were canceled or not renewed, property owners scrambled to find new coverage, and many turned to the state's insurer of last resort, the FAIR program, that offers only limited reimbursement for losses at high cost. Furthermore, because mortgage lenders require borrowers to maintain insurance coverage on their property, the insurance crisis has contributed to California's housing crisis. Lara, backed by Gov. Gavin Newsom, has proposed systemic changes in how insurance is priced. He agreed with insurers that their rate proposals should be processed more rapidly, that they should be allowed to include

If nothing else, Lara deserves credit for actu-that morphed into an even more popular television series starring actor Robert Young.

Young's character, Jim Anderson, was an insurance company executive — probably the only time American mass media have positively portrayed such a figure. Young later played a much more sympathetic role, a doctor who made house calls, in "Marcus Welby, MD."

Insurance to indemnify us for liabilities and damages to our homes, cars and businesses is a modern necessity, but consciously or subconsciously we often resent paying for coverage that is seldom invoked.

Consumer Watchdog, has since been paid millions of dollars in "intervenor fees" for inserting itself into insurance rate cases pending in the Department of Insurance, but it claims to have saved Californians $6 billion.

Ever since he launched his 2018 campaign for insurance commissioner, former state Sen. Ricardo Lara has faced sharp criticism from Consumer Watchdog, which denounced him as a tool of the insurance industry.

However, Lara has had to contend with an unprecedented crisis in California's insurance market. The disastrous in their rates, and that the costs of reinsurance - to spread the financial burden of losses — should be folded into premiums.

"We do not have the luxury of time," Lara said in a press release last week as he announced the adoption of new rules to speed up rate cases.

Consumer Watchdog is still nipping at Lara's heels, saying "we remain concerned that the new procedures announced by the commissioner will short-circuit public participation and rates will be rubber-stamped."

"Consumer Watchdog will analyze this action to determine if it is an Proposition 103 by shutting consumers out of the process," it added.

Anticipating the criticism, Lara's announcement last week said, "Any intervenor groups engaged on certain rate filings must provide a 'substantial contribution' to the rate review process and not duplicate the work of the department's rate review experts to be eligible for compensation."

Would Lara's proposed regulatory changes likely make insurance coverage more expensive in fireprone regions? Yes, but there are no free lunches and it's better to have costlier coverage than none.

ally doing something about a severe crisis, rather than passing the buck – a contrast with how California officials are dealing with another crisis, homelessness.

Since then, Quidachay has not stopped performing and sharing his voice. Additionally, he has released two co-written songs, titled "Bad Girl" and "Off My Mind" with the hopes of more to come.

"I am slowly working on new stuff," he said.

As for where he gets his musical inspiration from, Quidachay cited Michael Jackson, Stevie Wonder, Celine Dion, John Mayer and his father as musical influences.

"My dad is a musician and a singer," he said. "I get it from him."

"I engage a lot with my audience," he said. "We rock out and have a good time."

Quidachay's performances involve mostly covers from a wide range of genres, including country, classic rock, reggae and R&B.

"The best part about live music is the energy I get from the crowd," Quidachay said. "I've played at places where there's maybe five people in the audience, and even then, if you can get a reaction out of them, that's pretty wild."

The Panda Cares Center of Hope will promote healing by providing specially curated programs that address each child's entire well-being, including their mental, emotional, physical and spiritual needs. This will include therapeutic play, art therapy, music therapy and academic enrichment, all designed to give children courage and strength through their hospitalization.

The Panda Cares Center of Hope will provide a dedicated space for:

School: Children can engage in group science or math activities, complete assigned schoolwork or take virtual field trips to local museums. These opportunities will help to educate pediatric patients and normalize their time in the hospital.

Special events: The center will provide a large space for children and families to gather for performances.

Support groups: A private meeting space for patients and their families will be available.
