Traffic Safety Grant Approved

By Angela Underwood

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - Law enforcement is literally stepping up traffic safety with the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) Grant.

Sgt. Dave Krause, with the Traffic Enforcement & Education Unit, detailed that in August, the California Office of Traffic Safety awarded Yuba City a $115,000 Selective Traffic Enforcement Program grant for the Fiscal Year 2024-2025. The grant will run from October 2024 to September 2025.

“The STEP grant offered by the California Office of Traffic provides funding for law enforcement officers to officers to work overtime details to conduct targeted traffic enforcement within the city to try to make our streets safer,” Krause said, adding,

“No matching funds are required from the city.”

The grant caveat is the specific use of funds. Krause detailed that the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program grant will fund the following operation, training and equipment, including Driving Under the Influence (DUI) penalties.

Along with DUI checkpoints, stationary posts and roaming law enforcement checks comes collaborative DUI enforcement.

“That’s where we bring in outside agencies to assist in patrolling Yuba City for DUIs,” Krause said, adding general traffic enforcement is part of the grant, followed by cell phone use. “Distracted driving, which is actually one of the leading causes of collision in the state of California,” Krause said.

The last element, pedestrian and bicycle safety operations, is critical by percentage.

How much?
“As much as 80% of the major injury and fatal collisions we experience in Yuba City are vehicles versus a pedestrian,” Krause said, adding it is most often the fault of pedestrians in the roadway.

The sergeant said those incidences are “dear to his heart” as the major injury factor here. Additional Selective Traffic Enforcement Program grant components include motorcycle, street racing, sideshow enforcement operations and collaborative traffic enforcement operations.

“Again, that is when we bring in agencies to assist us and that has been very effective with the street racing, sideshow and enforcement we have done in the city.

Consent Agenda Items Tally $22,000

By Angela Underwood

MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - It was business as usual at the Sept. 17 regularly scheduled Marysville City Council meeting.

City Council met for less than 30 minutes with little business to conduct, except for the new City Clerk Nadine Sims’ swearing-in. Mayor Chris Branscum asked the new employee to stay at the podium after she took her vow to the city.

After telling Sims’ husband and children in the crowd, “You will always be welcome here,” Mayor Branscum pointed out Nicole Moe, who Sims is replacing.

“You let us know when your last meeting is because you are special,” Branscum said.

“I am very excited to be here,” Sims said of her recent start getting to know her peers. “I am excited to start work and in helping Marysville get to a really, really good future.”

Returning to the business, elected officials approved consent agenda items, all of which are considered routine, according to the mayor, calling one motion to approve all.

Item one approved the participation in the Feather River Air Quality Management District (FRAQMD) program to trade older gasoline/diesel equipment with electric or lower-emitting fuel equipment.

Before the program, surplus riding lawnmowers were auctioned and smaller, obsolete tools were discarded.

“Public Works applied for this program to replace two chainsaws, one trimmer and one edger,” according to the staff report, noting the Feather River Air Quality Management District offers vouchers up to $15,000 for riding lawnmower trade-ins.

This time, the Public Works Department asked to trade in approved surplus equipment for new electric riding lawnmowers and small tools.

Consent Agenda item two entails a “not to exceed” $14,000 clause for purchasing a flail mower for the Parks Division of Public Works with remaining American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding.

“Currently, mowing Riverfront Park requires the use of two mowers, two Publics Works staff, and a minimum of two days to finish,” the staff report reads. “Our existing flail mower has been ‘Lyvia’s House’ Goes to Streaming, What Are They Up to Now?

YUBA-SUTTER REGION, CA (MPG) - “This is the longest I’ve worked on any project, ever,” said Patricia Davis, a local author and film producer.

writing the script to getting it to streaming. I’m giving ‘Lyvia’ my last best effort, getting the word out on what platforms she can be found on if people have a desire to screen the film and then I’m bidding her a fond farewell.”

Davis first embarked on the making of “Lyvia’s House” during the pandemic-related shutdowns of 2020. Enthralled by the beauty of her agricultural community, paired with the dark infamy of its past, Davis pondered how she could showcase her visions on film.

“The romantic and the profane came together in my mind, and inspired me to write the screenplay,” Davis previously reported. “The story is fiction but it is seasoned with many truths.”

It took about two years for Davis and her team to complete the film, a project that was shot nearly exclusively throughout the Yuba-Sutter community. Landmarks such as the Silver Dollar Saloon, the Nicolaus Post Office, Vernon School House, Dukes Diner and Grumpy’s Tavern were all prominently featured, alongside local talent such as Tara Nichol Caldwell, Jared Albano, Jeff Graham, Camille Benner, Cody Martin and Joshua Malekos.

For many, this was the first time they had seen a film being shot with a focus on their hometown.

The film’s marketing caused quite a stir as residents started to gain a sense of pride from the project.

“It was such an amazing opportunity to be a part of,” said Albano, who played a small humorous role.

“Lyvia’s House” had its theatrical premier at the Sutter Theater Center for the Arts in Yuba City on Feb. 10, 2023. From there, it went to the festival circuit where it earned multiple nominations and awards such as the 2022 Best Female Scriptwriter from Toronto International Women Film Festival, the 2022 Honorary Distinction from Athens International Digital Film Festival and the 2023 Best Film Edition from the Macoproject Film Festival.

Now, after its long-awaited return, “Lyvia’s House” will be available for streaming on Oct. 1 on Vudu, Dish and other local cable and satellite providers with additional platforms, including iTunes/Apple TV, Amazon Prime Video and Google Play.

“Stonecutter Media is proud to partner with bestselling author Patricia V. Davis to bring her first feature film to North American audiences,” said Stonecutter CEO Steve Karel. ““Lyvia’s House” showcases her talent to pen compelling, nuanced characters caught up in a thrilling mystery. The film is a welcome addition to our expansive library of genre titles.”

Described as a romantic psychological thriller, “Lyvia’s House” follows the journey of a young up-and-coming journalist named Tarra Manning. All is well until Tara relocates to the fictional town of River Oaks to be with her boyfriend and aspiring architect, Johnny Beers. There, she begins to experience strange encounters and apparent delusions related to her new home, a house that once belonged to an Italian artist named Lyvia. Slowly, Tara begins to suspect the artist’s disappearance has something to do with an old string of serial murders. However, her sense of sanity soon comes into question.

“The film might look a bit different from its original premiere and some elements have been changed,” added Davis.

The role of both Tara and Lyvia is played by Tara Nichol Caldwell, who hails from Sutter. Caldwell is currently attending art school, producing music videos and honing her skills at day trading.

Caldwell’s co-star, Joshua Malekos (Johnny Beers), is based in Sacramento and has accepted a role in “Gravity Falls,” a horror film which will soon begin filming in New York.

Jared Albano, a third regional talent, has been quite busy since his brief performance as “Dale the WiFi guy,” a character that added some much-appreciated humor to the dark tale of “Lyvia’s House.” He is currently embarking on his own film-making endeavors and was recently cast in the Lincoln Theatre Company’s production of “Titanic the Musical.”

Jeff Graham of Yuba City frightened viewers with his portrayal of Fairy-Tale Ed McKay in “Lyvia’s House.” When he’s not acting in local theater groups, Graham can be found teaching and directing students.

Other “Lyvia’s House” actors have moved on to even larger projects from spooky thrillers on Peacock to leather competitions and collaborative immersive experiences.

“Lyvia’s House” director Niko Volonakis will once again collaborate with Nicholas Levis, an executive producer of “Lyvia’s House,” alongside Brands Cinema for “TAMAWO,” a Pinoy folk horror film also written by Davis.

“TAMAWO” will primarily be filmed in the Philippines, and the team’s beloved Northern California is also expected to be featured.

Measure D and Providing Police Service to City Residents

Commentary by Yuba City Police Chief Brian Baker and Sutter County Sheriff Brandon Barnes

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - Both Sheriff Barnes and I have dedicated our entire adult lives to protecting this community. I joined the Yuba City Police Department (YCPD) as a cadet in 1994, and worked my way up to Detective, Lieutenant, Commander, and since September of 2021, serving as your Yuba City Police Chief.

Sheriff Barnes began his law enforcement career with the Yuba County Sheriff’s Office in 1995. He served in a wide variety of assignments, including SWAT Commander, Chief of Investigations, and Jail Commander, before becoming our Sutter County Sheriff in January of 2019.

The Yuba City Council has placed Measure D on the Nov. 5 ballot so voters in Yuba City can consider enacting a local sales tax of 1%. If voters approve Measure D, it is expected to generate approximately $17.5 million each year in dedicated, locally controlled funds that benefit Yuba City residents and businesses.

The Council has clearly stated its budget priorities for roads and public safety. If Measure D passes, the funding may be used for roads and public safety. In respect to police and sheriff -- and for this article’s focus -- a priority is to create a new YCPD Beat 6 to transition the city residents in the southwest area of Yuba City from being served by the Sheriff’s Department to being serviced by the Yuba City Police Department. What area of town are we talking about? It’s the area south of Franklin Road, west of Highway 99, to the westerly City Limit.

We are not implying that either the Sheriff’s Office or the Police Department provide better or worse service, they are just fundamentally different. The Sheriff’s Office covers the entire County, with priorities, response times, and personnel that align with rural area needs; and the responsibility of running the jail, providing court security, serving civil process, and much more. The Police Department focuses on urban coverage, with priorities and personnel for dense population needs, the prevention of crime in the city limits, traffic enforcement, and has a team of non-sworn Community Service Officers at their disposal to assist officers in investigation and response.

So how did we get to a place where city residents are not serviced by City Police? In 2000, a Master Tax Exchange Agreement was entered into between Sutter County and the City of Yuba City outlining a transition from Sutter County Sheriff service to Yuba City Police service for land in the City’s sphere of influence as it is annexed to the city. In 2007, that threshold for change in service from Sheriff to Police was triggered for land in the northwest of Yuba City (the Tierra Buena Area). While a significant number of city residents now reside in the southwest area of Yuba City, known as the Walton/Happy Park Service Area, that threshold for change in service has not been met and those City residents continue to be serviced by the Sheriff’s Office.

There is a strong desire by those City residents and City staff to bring the incorporated residents in the Walton/Happy Park Service Area under the umbrella of the Yuba City Police Department. The current funds generated through the tax exchange agreement are not enough to cover the current service provided, and the Sheriff’s Office runs at a deficit for providing service to this area. In 2023, that deficit to the Sheriff’s Office was over $800,000. If service were to be transitioned to Yuba City Police, it would be an additional cost to the city to cover the deficit; potentially require the creation of a new police beat for the additional officers and dispatchers; and require purchasing the additional safety equipment and vehicles needed. Should Measure D pass, it could fund this priority.

As a resident and voter in Yuba City, I encourage every voter to learn more about Measure D. Yuba City is one of only eight large cities in California that are still at the state minimum 7.25% sales tax rate. Of that, Yuba City only receives 1% of that 7.25%. If Yuba City goes to 8.25%, 100% of that additional income stays local, essentially doubling our sales tax revenue and allowing the City Council to tackle these public safety projects and other services.

To learn more about Yuba City’s Measure D, and to review those key priority areas of roads and public safety in depth, visit www.yubacity.net/measured. There is a specific link to more information on the Walton/Happy Park Area, with my presentation to the Yuba City Council addressing the new beat, maps of the service area, links to the Sutter County/Yuba City Master Tax Exchange Agreement, and more. ★

Marysville Police Officers Come Out Strong for Measure G

City of Marysville Police Officers Association News Release

MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - On Sept. 13, the City of Marysville Police Officers Association voted to strongly support Measure G on the Nov. 5 ballot.

Measure G will renew the current, voter-approved local sales tax without raising the tax rate.

“Voting YES on Measure G will protect Marysville’s Police and Fire Departments from drastic cuts - without raising your tax rate,” said Officer Ryan Dial, President of the Marysville Police Officers Association.

“Measure G is a testament to our unwavering commitment to keeping public safety as Marysville’s top priority,” said Dial.

Before voters overwhelming passed the local sales tax in 2016, Marysville’s Police Department was understaffed and short-handed, and crime was on the rise.

Crime has been down over 20% in Marysville since 2016 and over 40% in the past few years.

With the investments that Measure G will continue, Marysville will continue to maintain police officers staffing, protect neighborhood patrols and reduce 911 response times.

It’s important to note that Measure G funds are strictly allocated for local use. By law, Sacramento politicians are prohibited from diverting any of these funds. This means that every penny of Measure G stays right here in Marysville, directly benefiting our community.

Measure G will have an Oversight Committee to conduct annual audits to ensure that Measure G funds are used as promised.

A broad coalition of Marysville business owners, long-term residents, senior citizens, teachers, ranchers, nurses, parents and retirees supports Measure G. Your support is crucial in protecting Marysville’s Police and Fire Departments from drastic cuts without raising our tax rate. ★

Parade Permit Rejected

By Angela Underwood

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - Elected officials deny the Nagar Kirtan Sikh Parade special event permit for 16 reasons.

On Sept. 5, the Yuba City Council called Police Chief Brian Baker and Fire Chief Jesse Alexander to give parade details for the annual Sikh festival, drawing thousands here.

At the beginning of September, Baker said he met with temple officials for traffic patrol, specifically for Hooper Road west to Madison and north of Butte House Road.

Baker said the temple officials assured him they would have a plan in two weeks. They did not keep the agreement, according to Baker.

On Sept. 17, City Manager Diana Langley discussed the parade planning progress or lack thereof.

Langley said that on Sept. 9, a denial letter was sent to the local temple regarding the unique permit process for the event, which mandates specific requirements still needing to be met.

Designated as a Tier 1 event, Langley said that city officials are required to respond within 60 days of application as to whether they have complied with the permit application requirements.

“As of this date, they have not,” Langley said. “There are still 16 events that are outstanding to be completed in order for the city to issue a special event permit.”

However, the temple can still gather the items and submit them to comply with the special event permit process, Langley said, noting police and fire services will continue to monitor resident safety regardless.

Councilman Marc Boomgaarden stresses the importance of safety at the Nagar Kirtan Sikh Parade, which draws nearly 100,000 visitors to the local area over three days. Courtesy photo

That comes with a cost.

“I also want to note without compliance in the permit process, that would shift a lot of the liability onto the temple for the specific items we are requesting,” Langley said.

Mayor Shon Harris, who addressed concerns on Sept. 5, said on Sept. 17 that officials are “following” the denial letter.

“I have been in communication briefly with him today and was told that one of the items was prepared,” Harris said, adding that the temple president said a copy of confirmation would follow that afternoon.

It never did, according to Harris.

“That is the only update I can add to what you just said,” Harris said.

Being denied a permit does not necessarily mean the event will not happen.

“I have heard a lot of chatter about the city shutting down the parade or we are going to close roads so that the parade can’t happen in the city,” Langley said. “That is not the discussion that is taking place.”

According to the city manager, it is more a matter of business than barricades.

“We require other events attain a permit and we strive very hard to work with those organizations that are trying to do large events to comply with our permit process, so this is really an administrative function of trying to get compliance,” Langley said.

Harris confirmed denying the parade permit “is not something we want to do but we have a timeline and we have requirements we have to do.”

Councilman Marc Boomgaarden said, “When you have upwards of 100,000 people come in for a beautiful cultural event which adds a lot to the quality of life in Yuba City, it does come with some safety concerns.”

Rather than a “revenue” item, Boomgaarden said that the permit process provides safety for parade holders and attendees and for all businesses and the public that day.

“None of the asks we identify in the permit process are outrageous, given the potential size of the three-day event and the risk it brings to our community,” Boomgaarden said, adding he remains hopeful that temple leadership will continue to comply with the mandated requirements. ★

Yuba City Man ‘AI Innovator of the Year’

By Shamaya Sutton

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - In 2011, the computing world entered the “era of AI” or so it has been coined.

This AI, short for Artificial Intelligence, has worked to automate and streamline many clerical functions bringing in a revolutionary wave of efficiency to the workforce. More recently, consumers have seen AI used in the rise of ChatGBT, logo generators, photography and video animations. Now it can be seen in Google searches, Facebook comments and Amazon reviews summarizing the pros and cons of user data.

For the everyday worker, AI can do more than write an essay or narrow down their next best TV purchase.

“My goal is always what can we do to get you as a business owner out of the weeds and actually doing the bigger things that are gonna make your business grow,” said Aaron Watkins, owner and president at Can It Be Automated.

Through AI generative tools and automation, Watkins is targeting small businesses and contractors to help them with their everyday workflows. The goal is to consolidate their various apps and systems into one program that works together to help eliminate time consuming and repetitive tasks like recording customer data or qualifying new leads.

“I see it over and over, business owners who say they never have the time to do things that I need to do, that’s what we can help them with,” said Watkins.

Watkins, a Yuba City resident of seven years, graduated with a degree in physiology and neuroscience and a minor in psychology from the University of California, San Diego. After realizing lab-life wasn’t going to be suited to him, Watkins accidentally found himself thrust into the world of marketing in San Francisco.

“I ended up couch surfing with a friend who happened to work for this little marketing agency; it was actually one of the first SMS marketing agencies,” said Watkins. “I came on and within three years, we had been acquired by Omnicom, one of the largest advertising hulk companies in the world.”

Watkins’ experience with this set him on an entrepreneurial journey and the start of a company called Appency in Sacramento. Appency, similar to his previous job, again focused on phones and promoting people who made mobile apps. Around 2008, as the economy and business interests began to shift, Watkins headed north to Sutter County where he and his wife, Shannon, purchased her grandparents’ old home. Here, Watkins rooted himself as director of marketing for Valley Truck & Tractor and then senior manager of service operations for Upland Software, yet his creative mind still had time to toil. Can It Be Automated launched just a few years ago as Watkins “side hustle” and has already caught the eye of Zapier, one of the world’s largest automation companies.

“Zapier basically is a tool that helps connect different digital tools together online,” Watkins said.

In light of the upcoming holiday season, Can It Be Automated recently developed an AI tool for Visitrealsanta.com that works to generate letters from Santa to children. Parents who use it are asked to fill out a form with a series of questions about their children, this information is then forwarded to ChatGBT which automates a letter that gets sent to an actual robotic arm. Even the handwriting style can be customized.

“Our goal for this was to make personalized letters to Santa in a way that could be done to scale,” said Watkins. “The robotic arm and ChatGBT enable that.”

This particular solution caught the eye of Zapier which is currently utilized by more than 2.2 million companies worldwide including Canva, Lyft, and Hellofresh. In an effort to build awareness on AI software and automation tools, Zapier started a new series of annual awards via its online conference called ZapConnect. At this conference, Watkins will be awarded the inaugural title of “AI Innovator of the Year,” which he will receive on Sept. 26.

In addition to his Santa letter program, Watkins has also helped streamline a personalized Santa script writer for Santa videos. He also helped build a platform for singing telegram performers to find work. Watkins hopes to re-utilize his letter writing tool to help people generate letters to Congress on issues that concern them.

In the meantime, individuals can explore the solutions Can It Be Automated has to offer at canitbeautomated.com. ★

Yuba City Student Awarded $5,000 PG&E Better Together STEM Scholarship

PG&E News Release

MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - The PG&E Corporation Foundation announced that 60 students from hometowns across Pacific Gas and Electric Company’s (PG&E) Northern and Central California service area were awarded 2024 Better Together STEM Scholarships.

Among the awardees is Alexis Schoel of Yuba City, who received a $5,000 scholarship and is majoring in mechanical engineering at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

“I am a first-generation college student. Coming from a high school of less than 50 kids, only offered 3 AP classes, no high school counselor, and students who had to be a part of everything to keep everything running,” said Schoel. “This scholarship will allow me to go on to further education in an area I am passionate about. It will give me the opportunity to take more advanced courses and go on to be the first person in my family with a bachelors. This accomplishment is not just for me, but also for my family. This scholarship will help me achieve all my future goals of becoming an engineer and maybe even one day leading my own team of engineers.”

The PG&E Corporation Foundation (PG&E Foundation) funds the Better Together STEM Scholarship program, an amount that totaled $350,000 this year. Through the program, the PG&E Foundation is sponsoring 20 scholarships of $10,000, 20 scholarships of $5,000, and 20 scholarships of $2,500 each. These charitable donations come from PG&E shareholders, not PG&E customers.

The scholarships are awarded to students pursuing degrees in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) disciplines. STEM education fosters ingenuity, creativity, and experimentation, leading to new ideas, innovations, and technological advancements that can have global impact.

Scholarships are awarded based on academic achievement, demonstrated participation and leadership in school and community activities, and financial need. A full list of this year’s scholarship recipients can be seen at <https://www.pgecurrents.com/articles/4028-introducing-2024-better-stem-scholarship-recipients>.

“We are grateful that we can do our part to lessen the financial burden of college tuition to help students and their families in the communities where we live and work,” said Joe Wilson, vice president of PG&E’s North Valley & Sierra Region. “We are also thrilled that these deserving and exceptional students will be able to pursue their STEM-based, higher education goals — we can’t wait to see what their futures hold and how they will each make their mark in this world and our communities. Congratulations to all of our scholars.”

Scholarship recipients must plan to enroll in full-time undergraduate study for the entire 2024-2025 academic year and be seeking their first undergraduate degree at an accredited four-year institution in California, or an Historically Black College and University (HBCU) anywhere in the United States. HBCU eligibility was added two years ago in response to a trend in applications from students admitted to HBCUs, none of which are in California.

Supporting Local Scholars Since 2012, the Better Together STEM Scholarship Program has awarded nearly $7.5 million to accomplished students — all charitable donations from PG&E shareholders, not customers.

In addition to the Better Together STEM Scholarship Program, PG&E’s 11 employee resource groups (ERGs) and two engineering networking groups (ENGs) award scholarships to help offset the cost of higher education. The funds are raised entirely through employee donations, employee fundraising events and Campaign for the Community, the company’s employee giving program. Since 1989, more than $6 million ERG/ENG Scholarships have been received by thousands of recipients. ★

by Jordonna Lobese

BUTTE COUNTY, CA (MPG) - In a Prop 36 town hall meeting on Sept. 16 with a panel of area officials, benefits of Proposition 36 were discussed.

Prop 36 permits felony charges and increases sentences for specific drug and theft crimes. It would undo Prop 47, which made some drug and theft crimes into misdemeanors. Opponents claim that Prop 36 risks progress on criminal justice reform and argue that jails will fill up and rehabilitation funding will be slashed.

During the event, speakers touched on a recent incident that occurred in Marysville when officials were visiting the Hotel Marysville fire site. Marysville Mayor Chris Branscum was punched without warning by a passerby.

“The guy was a repeat offender and stayed in his addiction without any consequences to his actions. There is just blatant crime happening in our state. He pleaded guilty and will be receiving sentencing later in the month,” said Marysville Councilmember Dominique Belza. “We have gone past the point of sympathizing. Tough love has to be implemented and there has to be some consequences. Once someone gets their head clear, then they can make the right decision to become a productive person in society. That is my hope to get out of 36.”

Said Oroville Councilman Shawn Webber, “The soul of this great state is worth fighting for. Enough is enough. So many have left California. Ten years of erosion in the quality of life due to fentanyl, which is man-made. Prop 47 passed to make neighborhoods safer but it has issues. We want our quality of life back. This county, city, and state are worth fighting for.”

Webber collected about 800 signatures in Oroville for Prop 36 to be on the ballot. Oroville Mayor David Pittman spoke next.

“Currently, with Prop 47, our public safety officers’ hands are tied. The people will give the tools that are needed to get the job done,” Pittman said.

Butte County Supervisor Bill Connelly added, “The shoplifting is atrocious and we all pay for it. These laws need to be tightened up.”

State Assemblyman James Gallagher quoted U.S. Representative Kevin Kiley: “With Prop 36, let’s make crime illegal again in California.”

“Prop 36 does this: first, if you are a repeat offender, you will get a felony. Second, it brings accountability to fentanyl dealers. And third, it brings back the drug court and sentence to put them into treatment,” Gallagher added.

Butte County District Attorney Mike Ramsey explained how ineffective realignment AB109 was. The basic idea behind AB109 and Prop 47 is to discipline low-degree offenders with local jail or out-of-custody ‘mandatory supervision’ instead of prison.

“Our local prisons changed. People were staying in local prisons for years. Opponents of Prop 36 call this a war on drugs. It is not. It is a war on addiction. We need to make a change and protect our community to protect those who cannot protect themselves,” Ramsey said.

Ramsey further explained that opponents of Prop 36 don’t want it because of perceived costs and rising prison numbers and how that data cannot be produced to support those claims. The costs, Ramsey said, will be a minimal portion of the state budget.

“This is mass treatment versus mass incarceration,” Ramsey said.

Butte County Sheriff Kory Honea, with 30 years’ experience, spoke.

“I’ve seen the continuous erosion for the rule of law and this progressive march for making our communities less safe brought about by bad policy made in Sacramento,” Honea said.

“Voters have been duped. Prop 47 was ushered in. Organized retail theft has wreaked havoc. We have seen this explosion and intersection of addiction and mental health issues. California is shutting prisons down, because they have a large number of vacancies,” Honea said. “Drug court worked, because it provided a number of options short of going to prison to address addiction issues. It held them to be accountable. I’m passionate; because I am damn tired of seeing what we are seeing on the streets.”

Oroville Police Chief Bill LaGrone noted that the impact Prop 47 has had on his officers has been detrimental.

“Our officers are being taunted. Prop 47 was far-reaching. My officers give Narcan on a daily basis and have saved close to one thousand lives. Addiction is something that has to be treated on many different levels. You have to meet people where they are at. Incarceration does not deal with the other things that exist,” LaGrone said.

Former Sacramento County Sheriff and radio personality John McGinness explained that under Prop 47, there are no consequences for offenders and that most don’t show when given a Notice to Appear.

“The system has deteriorated so badly that people have been called to action,” McGinness said.

The governor’s bills do not address drug addiction, which is driving retail theft, according to McGinness.

All on the panel agreed that addiction is the root cause of theft and crime and that Prop 36 will directly address this issue and make our communities safe.

“Prop 36 is neither a red or blue proposition,” Ramsey added. ★

Assembly Republicans Announce Legislation to Bring Down Gas Prices

Assembly Republicans
News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As Californians continue to struggle with the highest gas prices in the nation and Gov. Newsom jams Legislative Democrats with a dangerous scheme that will drive costs even higher, Assembly Republicans have introduced a series of bills aimed at providing immediate and long-term relief for drivers across the state.

This package, which includes measures to suspend the gas tax without impacting transportation projects, increase transparency on price-setting, and curb overregulation, stands in stark contrast to Governor Gavin Newsom’s politically motivated and incomplete proposals.

“Through six years in office, Gavin Newsom has completely failed to bring down the cost of gas and California drivers have paid the price. This special session is just one more attempt by Newsom to distract from his role in driving up gas prices,” said Assembly Republican Leader James Gallagher (Yuba City). “While Democrats fall in line behind a scheme that Newsom’s own administration says could increase gas prices, Assembly Republicans have a common-sense plan to give drivers relief.”

The Republican bill package includes:
Exempt Gas from Cap-and-Trade (ABX2-3 – James Gallagher): California’s Cap-and-Trade program adds roughly 30 cents to the cost of a gallon of gas. This bill would exempt gas from the program, allow out-of-state gas imports, and permit an earlier switch to winter-blend fuel to help reduce seasonal price spikes.

Suspend the Gas Tax (ABX2-2 – Lackey): Despite having some of the worst roads in the country, Californians pay the highest gas tax. This bill would suspend the gas tax for one year, lowering gas prices by over 60 cents per gallon. It provides immediate relief for working families, with no transportation projects being cut or delayed—all will continue to be funded by existing state revenue.

Increase Transparency on Gasoline Prices (ABX2-7 – Dixon): While Gov. Newsom blames “price gouging” for high gas prices without evidence, this bill requires the California Energy Commission to regularly update a public dashboard. The dashboard will compare California’s gas prices to national averages and show the impact of state taxes and regulations. This measure gives Californians the transparency they need to understand what’s really driving up fuel costs.

Stop Newsom’s Stealth Gas Tax Increase (ABX2-4 – Joe Patterson): California’s Low Carbon Fuel Standard is already adding 11 cents per gallon to our gas prices, and a planned update by an unelected board could add another 52 cents. This bill would block this increase and protect family budgets from skyrocketing fuel costs.

$100 Rebate for Drivers to Offset Rising Fuel Costs (ABX2-5 – Lackey): California’s Cap-and-Trade program raises costs, with much of the revenue diverted to wasteful projects like High-Speed Rail. This bill would return a portion of those funds to drivers through a $100 rebate to help offset rising fuel costs.

Boost Energy Independence and Lower Fuel Costs for Californians (Lackey): Gavin Newsom’s war on California energy production is adding tens of millions of dollars to our fuel prices. This bill would fast-track drilling approvals, boosting California’s energy independence and reducing reliance on oil from countries with poor environmental and human rights practices.

Cut Red Tape to Expand California’s Storage Projects (ABX2-6 – Lackey): While Newsom is pushing refiners to store more gasoline, his scheme does nothing to actually increase California’s fuel storage capacity. This bill would remove obstacles and reduce the costs associated with building new gas storage projects needed to accommodate Newsom’s proposed mandate.

During Gov. Newsom’s six years in office, gas prices have risen nearly $1.50 per gallon, have repeatedly broken records and are substantially higher than in neighboring states. A bipartisan coalition throughout the Western U.S. is opposed to Newsom’s fuel storage mandate, with the Governors of Arizona and Nevada urging Newsom to reconsider his plan.

An analysis of Newsom’s proposal by the California Energy Commission found it has the potential to “artificially create shortages in downstream markets” and “increase average prices.” ★

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

For the true basketball fan this time of year is challenging. There are only so many reruns or NBA classics you can watch, and other sports can be a sober replacement if you’re anticipating the upcoming Kings season.

With the acquisition of DeMar DeRozan, many fans are already drawing comparisons of this year’s team from those of the past.

The 2001/2002 Sacramento Kings will never be forgotten, and many believe it was the best overall in Sacramento Kings history.

Names like Mike Bibby, Chris Webber and Vlade Divac come to mind and were the cornerstone players from a team that won a franchise record 61 games. Great players for sure, but how do the big three from that storied team compare with those from our current roster. Let’s see if the stats can shed some light.

In the post, Vlade Divac, albeit a shade past his prime at age 32, turned in 30 minutes per game, scored 11.1 points, grabbed 8.3 rebounds and added 2.9 assists.

Our current big man is none other than Domantas Sabonis, in his prime at age 28. Domantas was on the hardwood for an average of 35 minutes per game, scored 19.4 points, led the NBA in rebounding with 13.7 boards per game, and added a team high 8.2 assists. All this is in addition to leading the league in double-double and triple-doubles for the season.

No comparison here. Sabonis wins in a landslide.

Chris Webber becomes the most difficult matchup for the current Kings as he represents the missing piece that the current team has been looking for, a true power forward.

Chris’ stats are largely why the 2001/2002 team garnished 61 wins.

Chris was on the court each game for just over 38 minutes, scored 24.5 points, secured 10.1 rebounds, and added 4.8 assists. Seasons like this and gaudy stats like these would go on to put Chris Webber in the NBA hall of fame.

Without a true power forward, the current team would have to pose Keegan Murray as the comparison player.

In his second season Keegan logged just under 34 minutes per game. He averaged 15.2 points per game, 5.5 rebounds and 1.7 assists.

No contest here, Chris Webber wins going away.

So, let’s examine the point guards. From the past the 2001/2002 team was led by fan favorite Mike Bibby.

Mike turned in 33 minutes per game, scored 13.7 points on average each contest, secured 2.8 rebounds, and added five assists.

The current Sacramento Kings are led by De’Aaron Fox. Last season De’Aaron led the team in scoring with 26.6 points per game, pulled down a career high 4.6 rebounds, and dished out 5.6 assists per contest.

Not even close, and as much as I loved Mike Bibby, De’Aaron wins this comparison hands down.

It can be argued that the 2001/2002 team had one of the most potent benches of all-time, and few would argue that Bobby Jackson, Doug Christie and Scot Pollard represented a bench any coach would be proud of.

Their combined bench stats were 29.5 point per game, 14.8 rebounds, and 6.9 assists.

The current team would counter with Malik Monk, Trey Lyles, and Davion Mitchell.

The 2023/2024 team produced 27.9 points per game, 8.6 rebounds, and 8.2 assists per contest.

The edge goes to the 2001/2002 Kings team, but the stats were closer than I expected.

Last season Kevin Huerter was a starter, but with the addition of De’Mar De’Rozan, it is likely that Kevin will be relegated to the bench where I expect to see him add some scoring power that will undoubtedly strengthen the bench overall.

I hope you enjoyed this walk down memory lane and comparing stats.

As much as I thoroughly enjoyed the team from yesteryear, I am excited beyond measure for what the Kings are about to present this season. Just a few short weeks from pre-season games and then the real fun begins.

As with every season, health will be a key component, but as you consider what the 2001/2002 team did in winning 61 games, we should all be imagining what the win total will look like this year!

All the best Kings fans!

Dave Ramsey Says You’ve Already Paid for It

Dear Dave,

We’ve been following your plan for a while. We’re debt-free, except for our home, and we have six months of expenses set aside in our emergency fund. Recently, I lost my job. I’m luckier than some, because received a generous severance package from my previous employer, plus my wife still has a good job. My parents always raised me to take care of things myself and not rely on others. I suppose it’s because of this I feel a little guilty about filing for unemployment compensation. Do you think there’s anything morally wrong with accepting unemployment benefits?

– Brandt

Dear Brandt,

I really appreciate your self-sufficient attitude. I don’t know what happened at your last job, but I’ve got a feeling you’re a hard worker and a decent guy. I’m sorry you and your wife are having to deal with this kind of situation.

The Social Security system in this country is a mathematical failure. But that doesn’t mean I’m not going to take my money when I deserve it. The government took it from me in the first place, so I don’t have a problem with accepting something I’ve already paid into.

Now, I’ll throw out a warning here. Sometimes when people start receiving unemployment benefits, it causes them to take their foot off the gas. The idea that “free” money is coming in can help them rationalize sitting at home on the couch, instead of working hard to find another job and being extra careful with their finances. I’m not hearing that kind of mentality from you, though. And it’s obvious you and your wife have been pretty smart with your finances.

One more thing I’d suggest is making sure you look at your severance package as survival money only. Make a strict budget and stick to it. Cut out all excess spending. That means no eating out, vacations or anything like that until you’re working again and everything’s back on solid ground. Right now, focus on covering your Four Walls. By that, I mean food, utilities, shelter and transportation. Feed your family, keep the electricity on, pay the mortgage and put enough gas in the car to get where you need to go.

Everyone hits a rough stretch of road in life from time to time, Brandt. But you two are in a position to handle it better than most. Just remember what got you to such a good place with your finances in the first place. The discipline muscle is already there, and it’s strong. Just flex it, and it’ll help get you through this and back on your feet again!

State Date Farmers Eye Better Year After Losses From Tropical Storm

Fresh California dates are hitting shelves again this month after some suppliers ran short following a crop disaster last year. Farms in the Coachella Valley, where most U.S.-produced dates are grown, began harvesting Medjool dates within the past couple weeks, with other varieties harvested from July through November. Last August, Tropical Storm Hilary devastated the Riverside County crop, causing some producers to deplete their supply months ago. This year, growers in the region are hoping to rebound with a strong harvest.

Kings County Judge Blocks State Enforcement as Groundwater Lawsuit Continues

A Kings County judge has ruled that the California State Water Resources Control Board violated rulemaking laws and exceeded its authority by making unachievable demands of water managers in the Tulare Lake Subbasin when it placed the subbasin on probation in April. On Sept. 13, Kings County Superior Court Judge Kathy Ciuffini issued a preliminary injunction in the case, which stems from a lawsuit brought by the Kings County Farm Bureau against the water board. The ruling extends a pause on probation requirements, which were put on hold in July.

Dairy Farmer Advances Proposal to Reform State Quota Implementation Plan

In a virtual hearing held by the California Department of Food and Agriculture last week, dairy farmers were asked to consider a proposal to modify certain aspects of the state quota implementation plan, or QIP. The controversial program has divided the industry for years, with some saying it creates frictions between the haves and the have-nots, or dairy farmers who own quota and those who don’t. San Diego County dairy farmer Frank Konyn, said his proposal provides a compromise and would bring quota “back in line with how it was historically designed.”

Avian Flu Cases Increase at California Dairies

Highly pathogenic avian influenza has been confirmed in five new Central Valley dairies, with two more presumptive positive cases pending, the California Department of Food and Agriculture reported last week. If the presumptive positive cases are confirmed, it moves the total tally from eight to 10 dairies that have tested positive for the disease, also referred to as HPAI. Another 15 dairies tested negative. California confirmed its first three cases of HPAI in dairy cows on Aug. 30. All the cases so far have been in the Central Valley. ★

Whole New World

The weather is calm but extremely humid. It’s bearable though. The food is great but they do tend to fry a lot of things here. We have indulged in beignets. They are a fried doughnut dredged in mass quantities of powdered sugar.

We are learning a lot of Louisiana history. Some of it is lovely and some of it is a bit scary.

We did attend mass at St. Louis Cathedral. I totally enjoyed it. Beautiful church, music and message.

A highlight was a tour of the Oak Alley Plantation. The best part was our driver sounded just like Bobby Boucher in the movie the Waterboy. I loved it.

We explored the city via a trolly. We saw mansions and cemeteries. We got caught in a rainstorm. Most of the graves are above ground crypts. Apparently with underground burials the coffins are likely to float to the surface because of flooding here.

We cruised the Mississippi on a steamboat paddle wheel jazz cruise. A southern lunch was served. Tasty.

I’m feeling blessed to have this time with Velvet. Life is for sure good today.

The Artificial Intelligence (AI) Trade may have Hit the Rocks

The Artificial Intelligence (AI) trade may have hit the rocks. As detailed here in Money Matters a few weeks back, AI was all the rage the last few months when it came to trading stocks. I mentioned in my previous article the AI trade looked, felt and smelled like a mania. Like so many manias before it and throughout time, manias are times when everybody and their grandmother pile into the hottest stock sector like there’s no tomorrow.

But there always is a tomorrow, and that tomorrow began last month.

Stocks like NVIDIA, AMD, and a handful of stocks that had anything to do with or even mentioned AI shot to the moon and appeared headed for Mars. Up and away many of these high flyers went, led by the stratospheric rise of NVIDIA.

There is no doubt investors in stocks like these made money. And some, a lot of money. Such is always the case with stock manias. The age old game of “pile on” was played by many, and soon, common sense and historical precedent was tossed out the proverbial window. Investors and analysts alike knew it would end at some point, but like the CEO of Citibank Chuck Prince said in 2007 as it related to the real estate mania and the investments that fueled it, , “As long as the music is playing, you’ve got to get up and dance. (But) when the music stops, in terms of liquidity, things will be complicated”.

Complicated Mr. Prince?

How about catastrophic.

We all know what happened then. With the financial systems of the world in free fall, the central banks of the world embarked on one of the biggest bailouts in history. Well, that was until CoVid hit.

The mania in AI was obviously nothing like the 2008/09 fiasco, but only in degrees. This recent AI mania didn’t threaten to bring the world to an end, but AI stocks have suffered some setback in recent months. We can only guess if the fall out is over.

What is hitting the AI enthusiasm is stocks like NVIDIA saw some stellar increases in revenue, and those increases were reflected in their stock prices. But the other side of the equation is will these

Traffic Safety Grant Approved

The sergeant said the city has “managed to waylay those events” and drivers know “we have a strong enforcement presence for that.”

Lastly, Sgt. Krause said the grant covers all travel expenses for traffic-related training and DUI checkpoints, some of the “most expensive” programs requiring additional personnel and equipment, including fuel generators, lights and cones.

“It will also fund the purchase of two in-vehicle radar devices to outfit patrol vehicles to control speed enforcement,” Krause said.

After presenting grant mandates, Krause recommended approving the grant and “immediately begin deploying officers to deter unsafe behaviors that threaten our community.”

Before approving the grant, Councilmember Michael Pasquale wanted to know if law enforcement could “step up” window tinting enforcement.

“Personally, I am a motorcycle rider and not being able to see eye to eye with somebody when you are going 65 miles down the highway and they are going to come across you is terrifying,” Pasquale said.

Krause confirmed Pasquale’s concern, calling eye-to-eye contact “paramount in safety.”

“Yes, we can absolutely push that enforcement out to the officers who are on these details,” Krause said.

PG&E Corporation Foundation Donates to North State Food Banks

PG&E News Release

BUTTE COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The PG&E Corporation Foundation (PG&E Foundation) is providing $1.3 million to local food banks, tribal food banks and senior meal programs to help feed individuals and families struggling with food insecurity, including $150,300 in the inland North State.

The total contribution is the equivalent of approximately 2.67 million meals for individuals and families in need. The funding will support 52 food distribution organizations representing 45 counties in Pacific Gas and Electric Company's (PG&E) service area, including eight food banks and senior meal programs in the North State.

North State Food Bank, serving Butte, Colusa, Glenn, Plumas and Sierra counties, $63,700.

Trinity County Food Bank, $5,800
CalFoods Logistics/Food Bank of Northern Nevada (serving Lassen, Modoc counties), $11,700

Mercy Foundation North (Shasta County), $17,500

Tehama County Gleaners, $13,000
Chico Area Council on Aging (Meals on Wheels), $10,000

Yuba Sutter Gleaners Food Bank, Inc., $18,600

Area Agency on Aging (Yuba-Sutter Meals on Wheels), $10,000.

The contribution comes during Hunger Action Month, a nationwide effort to raise awareness about hunger in America and inspire action to combat it. According to the California Association of Food Banks, while California produces nearly half of the nation's fruits and vegetables, on average, one in five residents do not know where their next meal will come from. Communities of color face even higher levels of hunger.

"PG&E has been a consistent major supporter of Community Action's North State Food Bank for the last half decade," said Timothy Hawkins, CEO of the Community Action Agency of Butte County. "Through their generous support, the North State Food Bank has increased its cold storage capacity and supply of fresh and shelf stable foods that are distributed throughout our 8,000 square mile service region. Their support has been great towards increasing the food bank's purchasing power and for the hundreds of families that receive food creating a greater collaborative impact for our communities."

"We're grateful for our ongoing partnership with food banks and meal distribution organizations that provide a critical safety net to families struggling to make ends meet. These local food support organizations fulfill a critical role in ensuring individuals and families are fed, can lead a healthy life and reach their full potential," Hawkins added.

Grant amounts consider county poverty and unemployment levels, using the California Department of Social Services' formula, to promote equity among counties with higher need.

Supporting Emergency Preparedness

In addition to the support for local food banks throughout PG&E's service area, the company has agreements with 25 local food banks in high fire-risk areas to provide food replacement during and up to three days after a Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS). These Public Safety Power Shutoff events may be called when dry, windy weather is forecast, and PG&E may need to turn off power in certain areas to prevent wildfires and keep customers safe.

You can find a local food bank in your county here. Check with your local food bank to learn if they have income restrictions. Food is available why supplies last.

Meals on Wheels delivers meals to seniors enrolled in the program. Seniors who are enrolled and experience a Public Safety Power Shutoff will receive an extra meal for each day of a Public Safety Power Shutoff outage. You can enroll in a Meals on Wheels in your area.

PG&E also opens Community Resource Centers during PSPS events to provide basic supplies, charging stations and information to customers. Transportation support and hotel accommodations and discounts may also be available. ★ red tagged, deemed unsafe and is beyond repair."

The staff report notes the lowest bid for the mower is $13,964 for a six- to 10-year life span.

The third consent agenda item also came with a not-to-exceed $8,500 clause for an emergency air conditioner for the Marysville Police Department 911 equipment and radio room, which failed multiple times this past year, especially in high temperatures.

"During a recent failure of the system, 911 calls had to be transferred to Yuba City Police Department," according to a staff report. "Temporary cooling units were installed to help reduced the system from overheating but is still not optimal." ★

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist

The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located and more than three months have elapsed since such recordation. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present

The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. IF THE SUBJECT PROPERTY CONTAINS FROM ONE TO FOUR SINGLE FAMILY RESIDENCES, THE FOLLOWING WILL APPLY: NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (916) 939-0772, or visit this internet website www.nationwideposting.com, using the file number assigned to this case 132622-5 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. This Month In Your Garden

BALD MOUNTAIN NURSERY

6195 BALD MOUNTAIN ROAD • BROWNS VALLEY, CA • 530-743-4856

The weather in October begins consistently cooling for fall, rather than the more up and down weather in September. Colder nights help the leaves change to fall colors. Days become noticeably shorter, nights are nice and cool.

October is the very best time of the year to plant trees and large shrubs, plus other things. There is a very good, common sense reason for this. We have long, hot summers that warm the soil enough for it to stay warm into early winter. The weather is beginning to cool down so you are not planting into more hot weather, making it easier for the newly planted item to adapt. It is going into its dormant season making the demands on the developing root system for survival much fewer. The deciduous plants take even more strain off the root system by dropping all of their leaves. Roots will continue to grow fairly quickly in the warm soil, slowing down only when the soil becomes cold, and even then will expand slowly. The rain will come to help keep the plant watered, and it can rest all winter and be ready to leaf out (and bloom if it is a flowering tree or plant) in the spring. It will be about a year ahead of any tree or shrub planted in the spring that is trying to establish itself at the same time it is putting on new leaves and possibly flowering plus facing much hotter weather soon. If the summer sun let you know just where a shade (or just decorative) tree is needed in your yard, this is the time to plant it. It also is a good time to choose trees for fall color. If we do not have a cold fall season the fall colors will be less intense, which can be disappointing, but not a reason for not shopping for the right tree. The next year you'll have a much bigger tree and maybe, with cooperative weather, a much prettier show.

October is also a good time for planting other things. If you plan to do a winter vegetable garden, but haven't completed it – do it as soon as you can. Winter veggies include cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, kale, Swiss chard, and spinach. Beets, carrots, radishes and turnips can be grown from seeds, as well. Winter annuals can still be planted, as well, but again, try to do it soon. They really need some warm soil to become established before cold weather arrives. Otherwise they may sit there doing little all winter, when you are hoping to enjoy their color, and then perk up and look beautiful as the weather warms up with the coming of spring. You may as well enjoy them winter and spring, so try to get them into the ground soon.

Here are some coming attractions to keep in mind:

... The three times for dormant spraying of fruit trees will soon be here – Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Valentine's Day. It is a busy time, be sure you have your dormant spray when the time comes.

... Cane berries become available in November.

... Another favorite, Blueberries, usually start arriving in November.

So, give these things some thought. You might want to do some pre-planning if they are of interest.

Bare Root fruit trees will be available in late December. Complete lists are available so you can plan it out now.

Remember, fall is the best time for planting trees and shrubs. If you plan to do any fall planting, October is ideal for it.

Disorganization, City-County Feuds Impede California's Efforts to Reduce Homelessness

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Over the last five years, the state government has spent some $24 billion to ameliorate homelessness, which, according to polls, is California's most troublesome issue.

Despite that immense financial commitment—and billions more in spending by local governments and philanthropic organizations—the number of homeless people continues to grow.

The latest federal homelessness count found 186,000 Californians living on the streets or in shelters, up 5,000 from the previous year and 36,000 since 2019, the year Gavin Newsom became governor. California has the highest homelessness rate of any state and more than a quarter of the nation's homeless population.

Despite the crisis, we have no hard data telling us how the money was spent, much less which programs, if any, have been successful. Not surprisingly, given the evident lack of results, official and private agencies that administer the programs are reluctant to disclose such information.

In fact, Calmatters.org and other groups have resorted to lawsuits to compel homelessness agencies to release information on what they have done with the funds.

Despite the shameful secrecy, it's apparent that one factor in the expanding crisis is a lack of coordination and cooperation among the public and private agencies.

Earlier this year, State Auditor Grant Parks issued a sharply worded critique of the California Interagency Council on Homelessness, the Newsom administration's tool for coordinating homelessness programs.

"The state lacks current information on the ongoing costs and outcomes of its homelessness programs, because (the council) has not consistently tracked and evaluated the state's efforts to prevent and end homelessness," Parks wrote.

State-level disorganization is compounded by a structural choke point at the local level. Overwhelmingly, unsightly encampments of homeless people are located within cities, but the social and medical services central to closing those camps are administered by counties, and in highly politicized urban areas, city and county officials tend to be rivals rather than partners.

While Newsom periodically issues demands that local officials do a better job of eliminating the camps—notwithstanding disorganization in his own administration—the lack of local cooperation and coordination is a major impediment.

A situation in Sacramento, within earshot of the state Capitol and detailed by Sacramento Bee columnists Tom Philp and Robin Epley, illustrates the conflict.

Sacramento's city and county officials have feuded for years over homelessness, not only for the usual reasons but because the American River Parkway, which runs through the city and has been a favorite camping site for homeless people, is managed by the county.

Two years ago, faced with a business-backed ballot measure to crack down on encampments, the city fashioned a less harsh alternative that anticipated an agreement with county officials to provide services for people losing their camping sites.

However, instead of joining the city, county officials banned camps in the parkway and ordered law enforcement to clear them.

City officials complained that people removed from the parkway simply set up new camps inside the city limits. When a local legislator, Assemblyman Kevin McCarty, obtained a $25 million state grant to the county for homeless programs, county supervisors decided how to spend it, mostly on a few dozen shelter beds or housing slots, without agreement from city officials.

City Councilwoman Karina Talamantes showed up at a meeting of county supervisors to complain about their unilateral actions.

"All the people living on the American River Parkway moved across the street into our neighborhoods north of the river," Talamantes told the board. "I've been asking about these funds for the last two years."

Supervisors fired back in a press release accusing Talamantes of shading the facts about the situation. McCarty, now a candidate for mayor, is caught in the middle of the feud.

Huskies Dominate in Their Homecoming Game

Story and photos by Dillon Longmire

SUTTER, CA (MPG) - The Sutter Huskies ruled their homecoming and first league game against the Woodland Wolves on Friday, Sept. 20.

On a night when homecoming king and queen were crowned, the Sutter Huskies started the game about as strong as a team can with a 48-yard touchdown pass from senior quarterback Braden Scritchfield on their first offensive play of the game. The Huskies then ran a trick play for a two-point conversion and within two minutes of the game starting, the score was 8-0.

That proved to be a trend of the game as the Huskies forced a quick three and out on defense and only took three plays to score another touchdown with another trick play to make the score 16-0. The Woodland Wolves came back on offense and had life for the one and only time, starting the drive off with a huge run down the right sideline. They then pounded the ball with senior running back Diego Bautista and eventually scored a touchdown completely quieting the Sutter crowd and making the score 16-6 at the end of the first quarter.

The silence from the Sutter crowd was short-lived and quickly rose back to a roar as the Huskies once again moved down the field and scored. The Huskie defense then proved the long scoring drive from the Wolves was just a one-time thing as they forced a punt or turnover on the rest of the Wolves drives.

The Huskies bounced back from suffering their first loss of the season and showed out for their homecoming crowd with a crushing 60-6 win over the Wolves. They will look to continue their winning ways against the Rams at Dixon High School while the Woodland Wolves will look to get their first win of the season at home against the Casa Roble Rams. Both games are scheduled for Friday, Sept. 27 after press time..

Blue Zones Project Seeks to Improve Community Health

Story and photos by Jordonna Lobese

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - Behind the clear glass doors of downtown Yuba City’s Blue Zones Project is a group discussing business strategies around a large table.

Blue Zones Project Executive Director Marni Sanders took time away from the meetings to talk about the group’s work.

Blue Zones Project is based on research by Dan Buettner, author, explorer and longevity researcher, along with a National Geographic team that set out to find places where people were living longer lives. The researchers found five locations where there were many centenarians who lived a better quality of life by following nine principles, which contributed to their long life spans.

“The Danish Twin Study established that only about 20 percent of how long the average person lives is dictated by genes, while about 80 percent is influenced by lifestyle and environment,” said Buettner, founder of the Blue Zones concept.

In 2009, Buettner took his findings to the city of Albert Lea, Minnesota to start a Blue Zone community and improve life longevity by implementing Power 9 principles. Buettner partnered with community leaders to help residents feel younger, lose weight and maximize mental sharpness. Albert Lea’s Blue Zones Project saved $8.6 million in healthcare costs, added 2.9 years to participants’ lifespans, reduced smoking and revitalized the downtown areas by adding walkways, according to representatives.

Today, there are more than 70 communities incorporating the work of Blue Zones Project.

In 2020, Adventist Health acquired Blue Zones, a pioneer in focusing on implementing a comprehensive and environmental approach to improving community health. Now, Yuba Sutter Blue Zones Project on Plumas Street is an arm of Adventist Health. Blue Zones partners with local work sites, restaurants, grocery stores, schools and other approved organizations by taking a community-wide approach. Blue Zones works with these organizations to promote healthier eating habits, create tobacco-free policies and provide easier access to healthy foods. They also work with cities and counties to add and provide walkways, community gardens and create healthy worksites so employees feel better, which can lower healthcare costs.

Are the Yuba Sutter Blue Zones Project participants showing progress?

“While we have some successes that we could share anecdotally, it is a little early to show any marked changes in the data,” Sanders said.
