SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - For the 10th year in a row, the John A. Schafer, MD Multiple Sclerosis Achievement Center located at 7777 Greenback Lane, a program of the Dignity Health Neurological Institute, hosted its Annual Marathon on Dec. 2. The event brings together those with multiple sclerosis toward the goal of collectively reaching 26.2 miles, the length of a traditional marathon. But the primary aim of the event was not just about the miles but the opportunity to support each other and defy the physical barriers multiple sclerosis presents.

"The marathon started 10 years ago. It is a way for our members who can't necessarily go out and participate in the California International Marathon to participate as a team on our stationery gym equipment," said John A. Schafer, MD Multiple Continued on page 12

Sales of Intoxicating Hemp Products Prohibited

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - On Oct. 22, The Sacramento County Board of Supervisors unanimously adopted an ordinance that will prohibit sales of certain products containing intoxicating cannabinoids derived from hemp.

The ordinance applies to businesses in the unincorporated county and became effective Nov. 21.

"Our primary concern is the safety and well-being of our community, particularly our children and adolescents," said District 3 Supervisor Rich Desmond. "By prohibiting the sale of these intoxicating hemp products, we are taking a proactive step to eliminate the risks associated with unregulated substances that can lead to health emergencies."

"This ordinance reinforces our commitment to protecting public health and ensuring responsible business practices in Sacramento County," Supervisor Desmond added. Due to loopholes in the Farm Bill of 2018 and Assembly Bill 45, unregulated products containing intoxicating cannabinoids have been sold in locations such as smoke shops, gas stations and convenience stores. Because people of any age could purchase those unregulated products, there was a subsequent rise in emergency room visits and hospitalizations due to ingestion and adverse events, particularly in young children and adolescents. The amended ordinance of the code (Sacramento County Code Chapter 4.54 and adding sections 4.54.500 through 4.54.560) will prohibit sales of chemically or synthetically altered industrial hemp products with a concentration of higher than .3% of THC. The ordinance will institute administrative penalties for businesses conducting these sales and allow for suspension or revocation of the business license, should the retailer not comply with the ordinance. Administrative penalties include: $2,500 for the first violation; $5,000 for the second violation within one year of the first violation; and $10,000 for each Continued on page 8

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Fair Oaks Boulevard is one of many streets that will channel almost 10,000 California International Marathon athletes to Sacramento on Sunday, Dec. 8.

Cheered by thousands, runners will slog 26.2miles from Folsom through Citrus Heights, Fair Oaks, Carmichael, Arden Arcade and Sacramento before hitting the killer home stretch to Sacramento's Capitol. In a dry weather forecast, spectators witness a fall pageant of male and female physiques: honed to the maximum and clothed to the minimum.

Carmichael's "Great Wall" is the halfway mark. After leaving Folsom at 7 a.m. Dec. 8, a lithe bunch of professional and amateur runners will reach central Carmichael about 8 a.m. Within 30 minutes, Fair Oaks Boulevard will be pounded by the field's thunderous bulk.

lost on many runners. For many, the painful point where endurance is challenged to the max occurs at this landmark.

"I reached my own wall before I got there," said race survivor and Carmichael resident Susan Powers. "Seeing my husband and friends at the Landis Avenue intersection made up for the pain. I knew I could complete the course for them."

Although the race is historically won in under 2.25 hours, many resolute athletes still slog the weary path, in restored traffic, hours later. These stragglers are traditionally encouraged by motorists' horn-blasts.

"Support from strangers is what keeps you going," Powers said. "I remember a sign that said, 'Pain Now - Bragging Rights Forever,' that helped me finish."

Traffic in 17 streets will be impacted on Dec. 8. Parts of Fair Oaks Boulevard will close from approximately 7 a.m. to 12:30 pm. For full street closure details, visit runsra.org/california-international-marathon/ course-information/.

Santa Kicks Off Season of Giving with Charitable Vending Machines

By Gary Zavoral

GREATER SACRAMENTO REGION, CA

(MPG) - With a twinkle in his eye, Santa Claus cut the ceremonial red ribbon at the Light the World Giving Machines on Monday and then showed the world the joy of giving by selecting a few gifts for those in need in the Greater Sacramento Area.

This wasn't just any Santa. It was the global icon Santa J. Claus, who is a mega-influencer with 5-million followers around the world. He stopped by the Giving Machines in the Westfield Galleria at Roseville to kick off the season of giving and encourage all to give to the less fortunate.

"My mission is to light the world with giving and that's the same mission these charitable vending machines have," Santa said. "You, too, can play Santa for someone who really needs it by purchasing gifts in the Light the World Giving Machines."

Santa's visit highlighted a ribbon-cutting ceremony that also featured remarks from William Jessup University President John Jackson representing the interfaith community, mayors from cities throughout the region, and the local charities that will benefit from the Giving Machine purchases.

This is the third year that the Giving Machines are located in the Sacramento area, where they have been some of the most successful in the world. Area residents can make purchases now through New Year's Day.

Light the World Giving Machines, sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints, are part of a global effort to promote the true spirit of the holidays by giving gifts to those in need. This holiday season, the Light the World Giving Machines are located in 106 cities internationally.

In addition to the Westfield Galleria at Roseville, the machines are located in Modesto's Vintage Faire Mall. Together, they are the only ones this year in Northern California.

"These vending machines offer a unique and memorable way to light the world with love by serving and caring for others both locally and globally," said Bruce Anderson, director of the local effort. "For many parents, it offers an effective way to teach children about giving to good causes and the joy there is by helping others."

Each of the machines in Roseville contain 30 opportunities to give: 25 opportunities from local charities and five opportunities from global nonprofit organizations.

Among the many items that can be purchased are a winter coat for a homeless person in the region, a suicide prevention therapy session for a local youth and newborn essentials for a local young mother in need. Shoppers can even purchase two piglets for a family in an economically challenged country to help them start a business and become self-reliant.

The global Giving Machines initiative first launched in a few U.S. locations in 2017. Since then, more than $32- million worth of goods for those in need has been donated. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints covers all program operational expenses. This ensures that participating nonprofits receive 100% of the collected funds.

The local charities with items in the Westfield Galleria at Roseville Giving Machines are Al-Misbaah, Catholic Charities – Diocese of Sacramento, Rancho Cordova Food Locker, First Step Communities of Sacramento and Lighthouse Counseling & Family Resource Center in Placer County.

Helena Madera-Silmi with Al-Misbaah said many families want to give to local charities that make a difference in the lives of those who are under-privileged but they don't know how to do it. The Giving Machines, she said, give them this opportunity while at the same time teaching children the importance of charity.

"A lot of youth love shopping at the mall and you're teaching them how to be empathetic, you're teaching them how to give back," Madera-Silmi said. "It's just an amazing way to give back."

Carrie Johnson, executive director of the Rancho Cordova Food Locker, is impressed with the Giving Machines concept and hopes they will help to stock the charity's pantries.

"This is the most incredible way to give people the opportunity to give back to their communities," Johnson said. "We're all familiar with vending machines. What a fun way to give a donation to someone in need."

Among the items that shoppers can purchase for Lighthouse Counseling and Family Resource Center of Placer County are gifts of counseling for those experiencing abuse, domestic violence and suicidal thoughts.

"The Giving Machines give an opportunity to take the greed out of Christmas and bring Christ back into the holiday," said Gary McDonald, Lighthouse's executive director. "It really is about service and giving to people in need. It's really touched my heart. It really gives people an opportunity to think about other people besides their own families during this holiday season."

To see the items that can be purchased and more information on the Giving Machines, visit the local Light the World Giving Machines website at www.givingmachinesgreatersacramento.org.★

Snow Much Joy Painting

By Thomas J. Sullivan

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Frosty the Snowman might be a "fairy tale" they say, but if you pick up an artist's brush and paint him onto an 11x14 blank canvas, he might magically come to life, just in time for you to take him home.

That's the idea behind "Snow Much Joy," a fun paint party hosted by local artist Tonya Gonzales from 10 a.m. to noon Tuesday, Dec. 10 at the Citrus Heights Café and Grill, 6215 Sunrise Blvd., Citrus Heights where first-time, watercolor artists can get into the holiday spirit.

Painted "with a corncob pipe and a button nose and two eyes made out of coal," you too might begin to dance around like Frosty once your own snowman is done.

This is the third painting party that Gonzales has hosted in the open banquet seating area of the Citrus Heights Café and Grill. Her first was in early October where painters created "Harvest Blue" pumpkins. She's hoping to continue to build on that success, attracting both new and returning registrants.

Seating for the December painting party is limited to 20. Participants are seated along both sides of a long table that is designed to encourage active conversation, Gonzales said.

Typically, the open banquet area of the Citrus Heights Café is set aside for community group meetings.

Small pots of colorful watercolor paints and a blank canvas are placed before the artists so they are quickly able to begin.

While the colorful design of the snowman is suggested in a sample painting, each artist is generally free to interpret the project in their own distinctive way, Gonzales said.

"I love to see what they create," Gonzales said. "There's plenty of conversation and collaboration taking place. Along

She provides easy to follow step-by-step instructions to each painter when they check in at a registration table. Individual sequenced steps describe how to paint a background, blend colors and add details.

"The party's theme, 'So Much

Joy,' provides an opportunity for people this holiday season to come together, be creative and just have fun," Gonzales said.

No previous artistic experience is necessary, "just bring your enthusiasm, creativity and imagination," she said.

Rotary Club Donates Hundreds of Shoes to Local Schools

Rotary Club of Citrus Heights News Release

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Prior to Thanksgiving, the Rotary Club of Citrus Heights completed delivery of a total of 677 pairs of new shoes to 11 San Juan Unified School District's elementary, middle and high schools and the Sayonara Center in Citrus Heights.

This marks the sixth year of the Rotary Club's signature project. During that time, the Rotary Club has donated 2,812 pairs of shoes to support students in need of new footwear. Staff of the schools are then responsible for identifying the student recipients. In the early years of this project, the club furnished each school with Brannock devices, enabling the staff to accurately measure the students' foot sizes.

The club's fundraising efforts in the community coupled with grant support from Rotary Foundation District Grants contribute to the year-to-year successes of this project with expenditures to date of $54,044. The schools were also provided with Citrus Heights Rotary Foundation's Mini-Grant Forms whereby the schools can apply for grants of up to $250 for other necessities such as socks, leggings, undergarments, clothing, additional shoes, and other items needed for student well-being and comfort.

In addition, the club has donated hardbound dictionaries to more than five hundred third-grade students in elementary schools in Citrus Heights. This literacy effort has been in place going on for 16 years.

The Rotary Club of Citrus Heights has been active for more than 60 years providing "Service above Self" throughout the community. The club typically meets at noon on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month at R Vida Cantina on Sunrise Boulevard. Visitors are always welcome. ★

Chicken Little said, "the sky is falling, the sky is falling," but was it? We know of course the answer was no but does this sound vaguely familiar.

Kings fans and supposed experts would have you believe that the current team is in need of an overhaul, as well as a group of new coaches.

I'm the first to say that I'm not pleased with coach Brown's performance thus far, but I'm not clamoring for his job. Coach Brown's rotations have been hard to understand all season, but that is no different than the prior season where continuity was in short supply.

It wasn't long ago the Kings were two games over 500, and suddenly went into a losing tailspin. Losers of five out of the last six games will get people talking, and everyone has an opinion.

On the plus side, no one was casting aspersions when last week the Kings announced the signing of small forward Jae Crowder. Crowder, a free agent, has a history of being on winning basketball teams, and his moniker is his hard-nosed style of play, something the Kings could use more of.

Without question, the current squad plays hard every night, but we are lacking in players that have the dog mentality that can set the bone crushing screens that the Kings seem to see nightly from other teams.

Crowder brings that element, so it remains to be seen in what capacity coach Brown will use his new addition.

Brown chose to put Crowder in the starting lineup without even a single practice, while talented Mr. everything, Malik Monk watched as always from the bench.

Imagine my surprise when not one but two former members of the Kentucky Wildcats were introduced into the starting lineup against the San Antonio Spurs on Sunday, Dec. 1 at Golden One Arena. The arena erupted when Malik Monk was introduced right in back of DeAaron Fox, and I couldn't have been happier for Malik.

Coach Brown and Sacramento Kings fans were treated to the best scoring first quarter of the young season, as the Kings put up a staggering 42 points. Malik was the spark plug he always seems to be, but despite the auspicious start, the Kings played poorly in the fourth quarter, and although they made it close, came away with a 2-point loss.

As is oft the case, the zebras did not help their cause, and the game was replete with calls that one would expect at a high school game, not in the highest court of basketball.

The last week began on a high note, as the Sactown boys went into Minnesota, and after losing the prior two games to the Wolves this season, the Kings put on a fourth quarter show that was a pure pleasure to watch. Surprisingly, while only connecting on 32% of their 3-point efforts, and scoring only 12 3-point field goals all night, the Kings sent the Timberwolves home with a 115-104 spanking.

For Kings fans, this type of overall efficiency, which included solid team defense all night, is what gives everyone hope that this team can turn things around.

Sadly, after breaking a 4-game losing streak by besting the Wolves, Sacramento could not back it up, losing to both Portland and San Antonio back-to-back.

The bright spot for me this past week was the emergence of small forward Isaac Jones. Nearly forgotten at the end of the bench, the rookie out of Washington State brought energy, spirited defense, and added 12 points that were sorely needed against the young and talented Timberwolves.

Why it's taken this long to give Isaac a look is a hard question to answer but look for coach Brown to move this young forward closer to the top of the bench.

Another bright note is hearing Malik Monk in the post-game interview say it's taken him three years in Sacramento to get a single start, and he likes being a starter where he's spent the majority of his career.

Hang on Kings fans. It's not time to pull your hair just yet. Christmas is right around the corner, and something tells me the Sac Town ballers may have some presents in store for basketball hungry Sacramento fans in the month of December.

All the best Kings fans!

Sacramento Region Gained People but Flubbed Economic Opportunities Over 50 Years

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Fifty years ago this month I moved to Sacramento and a few months later, just after Jerry Brown became governor, began covering politics for the long-defunct Sacramento Union newspaper.

I have lived in five different homes — soon to be six — and my workplaces have always been in downtown Sacramento, near the Capitol.

That experience, plus research for my 1985 book on California megatrends, forms the background of some observations about the Sacramento region's evolution. So here goes:

In 1974 the six-county region (Sacramento, Yolo, Yuba, Placer, Sutter and El Dorado) was home to barely a million people. However it was on the cusp of explosive growth, as was the entire state, thanks to a wave of migration and a baby boom. Today the region has about 2.5 million residents, making it the nation's 28th largest metropolitan region, equal to the Las Vegas and Austin, Texas areas.

Much of the growth has been in Sacramento's suburbs, so the city now contains just a fifth of the region's population and has ceased to be its economic center, while jobs and businesses have flourished in the suburbs.

As the local economy evolved from state and federal government employment including four large military bases — into technology and other fields, voters had two opportunities to merge the city with what were mostly unincorporated communities in Sacramento County.

Merger would have made Sacramento the nation's seventh or eighth largest city, with the economic and cultural clout that comes with size. But voters rejected both proposals, one in 1974, the other in 1990, and several suburbs incorporated into cities.

The consolidation failures reflected historic economic and political conflicts between the city and its suburbs which today still undermine cooperative policymaking and are visible in chaotic responses to the ever-growing homelessness crisis and the perpetual wrangling over transportation issues.

Glen Sparrow, who headed the 1974 consolidation effort, later blamed Sacramento's "civic gentry" — its long-dominant families — for torpedoing its passage because they didn't want Sacramento to grow.

The 1990 effort died because suburban voters saw city officials as incompetent ideologues, while Sacramento's dominant Democrats feared that suburban Republicans would take control.

The failures blocked the citv from controlling development outside its borders, and its downtown commercial district, once full of department stores, withered. It regained some momentum after the Sacramento Kings downtown basketball arena opened in 2016. But the proliferation of homeless encampments, a fatal gang shootout, a violent demonstration and the pandemic, which emptied state offices, erased much of that progress.

Meanwhile city government has become a model of dysfunction, with officials squabbling over mundane issues, chronic budget deficits and ceaseless conflicts with the county government, particularly over homelessness.

The lack of cohesion means that Sacramento has flubbed opportunities to gain status among metro regions.

Two examples involve its unique positioning at the juncture of two major rivers, the Sacramento and the American.

Local officials blocked a canal that would have connected the Sacramento River to the channel that carries ocean-going ships to a Yolo County port and its lake, thereby missing an opportunity for spectacular waterfront development a la Southern California's Marina del Rey.

While the city is redeveloping an old railyard adjacent to downtown, it could have done something truly special by redirecting some American River water through canals, emulating San Antonio's famous Riverwalk.

A third is a failure to fully capitalize on the closure of McClellan Air Force Base in the 1990s. While the base has undergone a workable conversion to civilian use, its unique facilities also could have become another campus of the California Polytechnic State University, fueling off-campus technology businesses.

Regions prosper when they have united and visionary leadership — such as North Carolina's Research Triangle. Sacramento lacks that vision.

Dan Walters is one of most decorated and widely syndicated columnists in California history, authoring a column four times a week that offers his view and analysis of the state's political, economic, social and demographic trends.

First Property Taxes Installment Due Dec. 10

Dave Ramsey Says

My Best Piece of Advice? The Unexpected is Alwavs Lurking

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The deadline for paying the first installment of your 2024-2025 Sacramento County property taxes is coming up shortly. Payments are due no later than Dec. 10. Late payments will incur a 10-percent penalty for each tax bill and partial payments are not accepted.

Payment must be received in the Tax Collector's Office by 5 p.m. Dec. 10 or either be postmarked or paid through the county website at eproptax.saccounty. gov by Dec. 10. The Tax Collector also reminds property owners to include the appropriate installment payment stub from the tax bill or website, or write the parcel number of the property on the check being submitted to make sure that you receive proper credit for the payment.

Payment can be mailed to P.O. Box 508, Sacramento, CA 95812-0508. Be sure to mail your payment early enough to ensure a timely postmark and avoid penalties.

Making Payments

Property taxes can be paid by online e-check or credit card through Sacramento County's Property Tax Bill Information System or over the telephone at 1-844-430-2823, using the 14-digit parcel number. Credit card payments are processed by a contractor and a 2.29% convenience fee will be applied if you elect to pay the annual property tax bill using this method. This convenience fee is not revenue to the county. There is no fee to make a payment via e-check.

To avoid penalties, transactions made either on the internet or over the telephone must be completed before midnight on the payment pay by date. Plan ahead and do not wait until the last minute to make your payment. If you are unable to get through on the internet or telephone, causing you to miss the payment deadline, penalties will not be waived.

Verify your data entry very carefully when making online payments. If your payment is rejected by your financial institution for any reason, you will be charged a return payment fee as well as penalties if your payment is rejected after the due date.

If you use your bank's Online Bill Pay service, a paper check will be printed and mailed to the Tax Collector. Because the check is sent without a payment stub, enter the parcel number, current year's bill number and installment being paid in the online account number field for payment identification. Be sure you are familiar with your bank's online bill pay processing timelines. The Tax Collector uses the date appearing on the check from your bank's Payment Processing Center as the payment date. Online bill pay checks dated after the due date will be returned for penalty without exception. Be aware that because bank online bill pay checks are delivered in large batches without stubs, they will need to be individually handled and the posting of your payment might be delayed.

How to Obtain Information About Your Tax Bill

If you have not received a tax bill, you can obtain your tax bill information and payment stubs at the Tax Collector's website, over the automated telephone system or by contacting the Tax Collector's Office at 916-874-6622.

Sacramento County offers an online email subscription service for property tax information. To receive e-mail notifications when the annual secured property tax bills are available each year and reminders before the first and second installments delinquent dates, visit the Sacramento County Homepage and enter your email address or mobile number under the "Connect with us" header, located at the bottom right-hand of the page. This service is provided at no cost to subscribers.

For additional information about property taxes, the Sacramento County Tax Collector's website provides answers to common questions from taxpayers regarding property taxes and links to tax bill information and online payments.

Failure to receive a tax bill does not relieve the property owner of their liability to pay taxes in a timely manner or give the Tax Collector reason to cancel penalties imposed for late payment. *

Dave Ramsey

Dear Dave,

One of my credit card bills was turned over to a collection agency, because I was late making payments several times. The agency has offered me two or three different payment options I can afford. If I agree to one of these, does the original creditor get paid, as well?

– Bethany

Dear Bethany,

You're facing one of two possibilities. The collection agency is either directly representing the credit card company, or it owns the debt outright. Neither way of handling it is unusual when someone has defaulted on a loan.

Here's the deal. You've already got a mark against you on your credit report for the bill being turned over to collections. So, at this point settling on a credit card you've defaulted on is really no big deal. Unless you have the cash on hand right now to make good on the debt outright, I'd accept whichever deal makes the most sense for you financially at the moment.

But if you want my very best piece of advice for ine enexpected is initially zarking you, and anyone else finding themselves in this kind of situation, Bethany, it goes something like this. Stop using credit cards!

– Dave

Dear Dave,

When I leave my job in two or three years, I'll still have a good income of around $80,000 thanks to my pension. I talked with my wife recently about us not needing an emergency fund with a continuing steady income like this, but she thinks we should still have money set aside strictly for emergencies. I think we would be fine with my pension and our other investments, but she says a fund set aside strictly for the unexpected would make her feel safer. What are your thoughts?

– Barrett

Dear Barrett,

I always recommend folks have an emergency fund of three to six months of expenses. Put it in a good money market account with check writing privileges and a decent interest rate. That way, your money will work for you a little bit until it's needed.

I know a good pension can feel really solid. But there's always the possibility of lost income or very large, unexpected expenses. Life can take a big financial chunk out of you at any time. What if one, or both of you, have a major medical event? Even with the other investments you mentioned, you should have an emergency fund. Period.

In your case, you could probably lean toward three months of expenses in your emergency fund. If it were me, I'd go ahead and make it a full six months of expenses. Trust me, a fully funded emergency fund will make both of you feel better. It can turn a disaster into nothing more than an inconvenience.

Social Security Matters Fishy Story Suggests Catastrophic Ending Am I entitled to more Social Security from my Ex-husbands?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am 76 years old and a retired high school counselor/teacher. I was married to my first husband from 1968 until 1981. He is still living, and he remarried two more times and, I believe, he is currently divorced. He is 77 years old. His income was always much higher than mine. I was married to my second husband from May 1989 until we divorced in April 2017. My second husband died in June 2023. What I wonder is if I am entitled to receive Social Security benefits based upon the income of either of my ex-husbands? Signed: Twice Divorced Spouse.

Dear Twice Divorced: Divorced spouses are entitled to the same benefits as a current spouse if their marriage lasted at least 10 years which, in both cases, yours did. The other caveat is whether your own SS retirement benefit is less than you are entitled to from either of your ex-husbands. If your own SS retirement benefit is less, then you will get an incremental amount on top of your own SS retirement to bring your total monthly benefit up to your spousal (or surviving spouse) entitlement.

Since yourfirst husband is still living, it is likely that your best financial option is to claim a surviving ex-spouse benefit from your deceased 2nd husband. The reason is that survivor benefits from husband #2 are based on his actual benefit at his death, whereas benefits from a living ex-spouse (husband #1) are based upon his full retirement amount. In other words, it is likely that 100% of deceased husband #2's benefit at his death is more than 50% of living husband #1's current benefit at his full retirement age (FRA).

It is, of course, possible that 50% of your first husband's FRA entitlement is more than 100% of your second husband's benefit at death, in which case your ex-spouse benefit from your first husband could be more. The only way to sort this out is to contact Social Security (1.800-772-1213) to make an appointment to apply for surviving ex-spouse benefits from your deceased second husband. Explain that your first ex-husband is still living, and that you are unsure of what your benefits are as your first husband's ex-spouse. Social Security will be able to determine from their records which one provides you with a higher benefit amount (provide each husband's Social Security number when you call). As I said, your best financial option will likely be to take your survivor benefit from your deceased second ex-husband (note, however, if your first ex-husband also dies before you, you can subsequently file for a survivor benefit from him, if that is more than you are getting from your second husband's record).

If you've been watching the news, then you know that the world is going to end soon.

No, I'm not talking about the recent election. I'm referring to the elusive deep-water oarfish.

Superstitious sailors have long considered the spotting of this rare fish a harbinger of bad news. And this past week, on the shores of Encinitas, California, it's been spotted again. This makes three times this year in California and only 22 times in the past century.

Japanese mythology recounts the doom fish as a precursor to earthquakes and tsunamis. More than a dozen were found on Japan's coastline just before Japan's 2011 Tōhoku earthquake and tsunami, their largest recorded earthquake.

These kind of scarry indicators aren't new. Televangelists have been capitalizing on them for years as they expounded on their version of catastrophic and world-ending predictions.

If you were born before 1960, you'll likely remember that Hal Lindsey co-authored a 1970 best seller with Carole C. Carlson titled "The Late, Great Planet Earth."

Some of us just laughed at him, while others tried to ignore him.

However, when the Yom Kippur War of 1973 sent gas prices soaring, we wondered if the Lindsey scenario was creeping into the nonfiction section. Many began taking Lindsey so seriously that they ran scared into the baptismal waters.

Had we been a little smarter, I'm wondering if we might have seen how religious history was on a repeating track with Lindsey's approach. He was using the scare-the-hell-out-of-you technique used by centuries of religious thought.

It's a thought expressed on the old bumper sticker: "The good news is, Jesus is coming back. The bad news is, He's ticked." (OK, the sticker doesn't say "ticked" but this is a family newspaper.)

The real problem with Lindsey and people like him is that they characterize the Christian faith as a war between good and evil. Indeed, they demand that the faithful make a choice between spending eternity in a bottomless pit of eternal fire or going to church three times a week.

The fault in this thinking is that it forces faith into an all-or-nothing proposition. Faith isn't that way at all. Real faith is relationship-based, not fear-based.

Faith is more like this: When I met my wife at a Southern Baptist Conference Center, I didn't introduce myself by saying, "Marry me or you'll burn." If I had, she might have hit me with a flame thrower.

God doesn't use that approach either. He doesn't need to scare us into loving him. That's because God is not trying to save us from this world. After all, he created this world for us.

Jesus made the same point quite well, saying, "God didn't go to all the trouble of sending his son merely to point an accusing finger, telling the world how bad it was. He came to help" (John 3:17, The Message Paraphrase).

God is all about helping us make it through our times of hurt and pain. He's not about inventing painful situations just so he can play the superhero.

I suppose there'll always be fortunes to be made by capitalizing on demise, death and destruction, but I will continue to place my faith in my relationship with our creator.

The Lindsey star eventually faded. The counterculture of the 1960s never became the main culture, and Lindsey's predictions crumbled with the Berlin Wall.

These days, Lindsey is 94 years old, living in Tulsa, Oklahoma. He's still doing video, but now he's predicting the final jihad that will come any day now. Same scared-as-hell program, just a different station.

Did I Really Say That?

I was working on my computer when The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage walked in and said, "Are you ready to go?" She caught me by surprise. I looked up from my computer and, staring at her, said, "What are you talking about?" "You remember what you said this morning? That we can go to to get our blood drawn for the doctor?" I looked at her, not knowing what she was talking about, and said, "What doctor are you talking about?" "Don't tell me you don't remember me telling you about our appointment this afternoon?' Not knowing what else to do, I got up, followed her out to the car, and we went to have our blood drawn. When I'm doing some work on my computer, I can hear what's going on around me, but I don't understand, and I'm not really listening to it. I'm afraid I say "yes," not knowing what I am "yessing" to. That can get me into a lot of trouble. Believe me it has. The Gracious Mistress shopping and put the bags of the Parsonage recently approached me while I was working and said, "I'll take that $50 you promised me to get groceries."

"I don't know what you're on the table, so I went to the kitchen. looked at her. and said, "Can I have the Apple Fritter that you promised me now?" I was laughing on the inside I looked at her and said, and trying to keep it from coming to the outside. There was no way she was going to get out of this one.

talking about."

"You know, I ask you this morning if you could give me $50 to get groceries this afternoon. You said you would."

I pulled out my wallet; all I had was $50. I handed it to her, and then I thought about it. Is it a coincidence that she asked for $50, and all I had in my wallet was $50? Did she really ask me that morning for $50?

If I only paid attention, maybe I could figure some of these things out. I don't remember telling her that I would give her $50 for groceries, but after all, I am not going to infer to her that she is lying to me.

While she was going to get the groceries. I pondered this subject for a while. Then, I had a wonderful thought that maybe I could get even with her. I thought about it, put it together very nicely, and was ready to put it together when she walked in.

She came home from

Looking at me seriously, she said, "Oh, my dear. I got that Apple Fritter, and it smelled so good that I'm afraid I ate it on the way home."

Thinking about this I was reminded of a special verse of scripture. My spiritual life is based on my hearing the "word of God."

"So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God," Romans 10:17.

I can read the Bible but not really hear what God is saying to me. If I don't hear what God is saying how can I live a life that is pleasing unto the Lord. Daily I need to so surrender to God's word that I understand what He really wants of me.

SacRT's Holiday Bus Returns

Sacramento Regional Transit News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento Regional Transit District (SacRT) Holiday Bus has returned. The Holiday Bus is a festive tradition offering free rides to passengers while spreading holiday cheer throughout the region.

The 2024 Holiday Bus, featuring seasonal decorations, hit the streets on Dec. 1 and will roll through Jan. 2, traveling on a different route each day.

This year, SacRT partnered with the Health Education Council, a local nonprofit organization dedicated to improving health equity in historically under-served communities. Together, they're raising awareness about the importance of access to health resources while celebrating the season of giving.

"The SacRT Holiday Bus is one of our favorite traditions and we are thrilled to offer free rides to our riders while highlighting the incredible work of the Health Education Council," said Henry Li, SacRT general manager/CEO. "This partnership exemplifies our commitment to supporting community well-being and ensuring that everyone has equitable access to vital resources for a healthier life."

Said Debra Oto-Kent, executive director of the Health Education Council, "We are honored to partner with SacRT to spread awareness of the Health Education Council's mission to support families and individuals in achieving healthier lifestyles. The Holidav Bus is a wonderful way to bring the community together and inspire positive change during the holiday season."

The SacRT Holiday Bus will operate on regular SacRT bus routes, offering passengers free rides while highlighting the region's commitment to community health and connection. It is free to ride but passengers have the option to donate to the Health Education Council by dropping money into the bus fare box or using a QR code to donate online.

Each day, the Holiday Bus will serve a new route, ensuring riders throughout the area have the chance to experience it. The SacRT Holiday Bus will also participate in the Sacramento Santa Parade in downtown Sacramento on Saturday, Dec. 14.

Visit sacrt.com/holidavbus for the full schedule and route details.

By riding the Holiday Bus, passengers can learn more about the Health Education Council's impactful work in areas such as nutrition education, chronic disease prevention, and improving access to care. Together, SacRT and the Health Education Council aim to make Sacramento a healthier and more connected community.

Don't Let Fats, Oils and Grease Ruin Holiday Cheer

Sacramento Area Sewer District News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As the holiday season approaches, the Sacramento Area Sewer District (SacSewer) is urging residents to help prevent sewer backups, a common yet costly and disruptive issue that peaks during this time of year.

Improper disposal of fats, oils and grease (F.O.G.) often leads to blockages, which can result in unpleasant sewer backups that disrupt holiday gatherings. To help keep festivities running smoothly, SacSewer reminds the community to follow two simple steps, can it and scrape it, for safe fats, oils and grease disposal.

Can it. Once cooled, put hardened fats, oils and grease into a sturdy container such as a leftover soup can. Then put the container in the garbage.

Scrape it. Scrape all food scraps, including fatty and greasy leftovers, into the organics cart, not down the drain.

When fats, oils and grease containing items from holiday cooking, such as food scraps, gravies and oils, go down kitchen sink drains and garbage disposals, they can cause blockages in sewer pipes that lead to overflows. Fats, oils and grease cools and solidifies, sticking to the sewer pipes. Over time, fats, oils and grease restrict sewage flow and can cause a sewer backup into customers' homes and businesses.

For large amounts of cooking oil, such as what's needed for deep-fried turkeys, pour the cooled liquid oil back into gallon jugs and make sure the lid is screwed on or taped shut. Check with your local waste service provider to determine the proper disposal method or visit SacSewer.com/sactown-clog-squad for a listing of local fats, oils and grease recycling sites.

Are you experiencing a sewer problem, such as a slow drain or backup? Call SacSewer 24 hours a day, seven days a week, even on holidays, at 916-875-6730.

The Sacramento Area Sewer District (SacSewer) is the Sacramento region's largest sewage collection, treatment and resource recovery utility, providing service to more than 1.6-million residents. The second largest sewage collection utility in California, the Sacramento Area Sewer District owns and operates the second largest water resource recovery facility of its kind in the nation, the EchoWater Resource Recovery Facility near Elk Grove. Learn more at sacsewer.com.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF ROBERT GENE MINER, AKA ROBERT G. MINER AND BOB MINER

CASE NO. 24PR003286

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors of and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Robert Gene Miner, aka Robert G. Miner and Bob Miner.

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Lindsay Tachella, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, requesting Lindsay Tachella be appointed as personal representative(s) to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as fol-lows December 12, 2024, 9:00 a.m. in Dept 129; Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, William R. Ridgeway Family Relations Courthouse, 3341 Power Inn Road, Sacramento, CA 95826.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. Ex-POW Remembers a Century

By Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG)

- Memories accumulate for an old-timer turning 100. Some delightful, some frightful.

Delightful for Carmichael's Bill Hureaux are recollections of a rural Citrus Heights childhood. Later, the blessings of two happy marriages and five generations of offspring.

Darker insights recall wartime capture and starvation in German prison camps. Then the savage irony of being deafened by an American bomb, days before freedom.

One of few among surviving World War II veterans, Hureaux is profoundly deaf. He understands conversations through cochlear implants, aided by translations from his 93-year-old second bride, Barbara.

"She is my ears," he said.

In 1943, drafted straight out of Seventh Day Adventist School in Citrus Heights, his expectations were shiny as his U.S. Army tunic buttons.

"After uneventful years at school, it seemed something new was happening for me," Hureaux recalled. "We trained for a year. We were sent to England and I fought in Patton's Army, all across France."

Hauling a machine gun over a French field, the 20-year-old sergeant was catapulted backward by an enemy shell. Eighty years later, he marvels at fortune.

"If I'd been a second earlier, it would have killed me," he said. "When I stood up, without a scratch, buddies said my guardian angel was on guard duty."

"On Dec. 12, 1944, we were at the River Blies (on the German border)," Hureaux said. "Our crossing didn't go well and the U.S. Army retreated. I was in the front with many injured men. We didn't hear about the retreat. I was watching oncoming German lines. I turned my head and looked up a German rifle barrel. The soldier told me: 'Comrade, stand.' If I'd argued, I'd be dead. I raised my hands and did as I was told."

With scores more prisoners, the sergeant was moved across Germany by road and rail. The Prisoners of Wars (POWs) reached a Limburg prison camp five days after their capture.

"It was after the Battle of the Bulge; there were thousands of captives there," Hureaux said. "We were all freezing. They fed us a soup, just vegetable water, really. We were hungry and cold all the time. Many of us had diarrhea. There were no facilities and little water. We slept on the floor. I was better off. I had on two shirts and a sweater under my jacket, plus two pairs of socks and two sets of underwear."

"On Christmas Eve, we were bombed by the British. Windows were breaking and bricks were falling from our walls. Christmas Day came and went. We didn't sing carols. We thought we were all going to die," Hureaux added.

"The guards were not unkind," Hureaux said. "They were just old men, following orders. They encouraged me to volunteer for a work camp near Berlin. With fewer prisoners there, I was treated better. They gave us overcoats. The food wasn't good but it was better. When you're that hungry, an extra breadcrumb matters. I ran a machine that chopped wood."

"The guards often fell asleep. We'd sneak out and dig in the dirt for a couple of potatoes. We chewed them, raw," Hureaux recalled.

Five months into his captivity, Hureaux saw Americans planes bombing the nearby city.

"We prisoners were cheering," he said. "But the final three B-17s diverted toward our buildings. Some of us ran to a fence for safety but a bomb landed 30 feet from me. The explosion blew my ears out. I couldn't hear for weeks."

In the war's final days, news of Russian Army advances swept camp.

"No one wanted to be around when they got there," Hureaux

Guards marched hundreds of POWs west. They reached a camp near American lines on April 25.

"British, Americans, French, Russians; there were thousands of us there. Our mood was somber. We knew we were diminishing Germany's resources. There were rumors that Hitler would have us all shot," Hureaux said.

Instead, the Nazi leader killed himself on April 30. Overnight, camp guards vanished.

"On May 3rd, hundreds of American trucks and ambulances came, draped with white flags of truce," Hureaux said. "I've never heard anything like our cheers, louder than for a home run at Yankee Stadium."

Across friendly lines, baths and new uniforms awaited.

"First, they fed us," noted the survivor. "Steak, potatoes, vegetables. My first decent meal in five months."

That liberation remains one of Hureaux's best memories. Soon after his return to California, VJ Day marked Japan's surrender.

"You couldn't move for people in downtown Sacramento," Hureaux recalled. "Both wars were over at last. Everybody was so happy."

Discharged at 21, Hureaux married his 18-year-old sweetheart, Carol. As work opportunities improved, he moved Carol and their three children all over the United States. In 1990, Hureaux retired from managing a warehouse on the Alaskan pipeline project.

By then, deafness from that errant 1945 explosion had returned and was deemed incurable. His 67-year partner, Carol, died a few years later.

The guardian angel protecting him in wartime returned in the form of Carmichael's Barbara Metzinger. The 85-yearold widow found her 91-year-old boyfriend online. Their first date was at Marie Callender's Citrus Heights.

"On Valentine's Day, he asked me to be his valentine," Barbara said. "When I said yes, he went on his knees and asked if I'd marry him. Before I agreed, I asked if he could get up from the floor."

Octogenarian and nonagenarian wed at Fair Oaks Presbyterian Church in 2015. They share seven children, plus mobs of grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great grandchildren. Most gathered at Northridge Country Club last weekend for Grandpa Bill's big day.

"I'd say, I have a happy life," summarized the survivor. Angel Barbara attributes Bill's longevity and their happy marriage to his "unshakable confidence in a bright future."

"I guess I'm easy to get along with," Hureaux said. "Maybe that's the secret."

said.

Holiday Survival

It's fun, family and friends. That's what the holidays bring, but they also bring celebrations, shopping and stress. And, it takes a toll on the body. But Dr. Susan Smith-Jones gave me nine surefire tips to look and feel your best and emphasize the FUN factor. Dr. Jones has traveled the world and helped many celebs in Hollywood hold their own, and she's authored some 25 books on health. Soooooo:

1. NUTRIFY YOUR SHOPPING. Malls tempt wallets and taste buds, so bring healthy snacks like nuts, cut up veggies or fruit when shopping. Keeping your body fueled will help with long stressful checkout lines too.

2. GET HANDS ON. Give yourself a mini massage or ask your partner to give you one. Restore vitality even more with this Mediterranean secret. Combine extra-virgin olive oil with three to four drips of Olbas Oil and rub It all over your body or simply do a foot massage. You can take a clue from Chinese medicine and apply pressure to the fleshy place between your thumb and index finger for 30 seconds. It's been shown to reduce upper body stress.

3. SLOW DOWN. When you constantly direct your attention and energies outward, it's easy to lose your sense of inner wonder, calmness and happiness. Your body will relax and you will feel less bogged down.

4. SET A POSITIVE TONE FOR THE DAY. The first 40 minutes of each day sets the tone for your entire day. Choose to make the first few moments as peaceful, positive and uplifting as possible. Spend a few minutes in quiet meditation and prayer time. 5. SLEEP LIKE A BABY. Avoid nighttime calls and turn off your cell phone before going to bed. A study at University of Zurich found that exposing people to electromagnetic fields from cell phones altered their brain waves during sleep, which resulted in sleep disturbances.

6. KEEP HYDRATED. Our bodies are 70% water. Our cells and planet are 70% water. Drink eight glasses of purified water or more to maintain good health.

7. BATHE IN LAVENDER. The flowers of lavender are an age-old remedy for stress. Bathing by itself is calming, but a bath infused with lavender oil significantly reduced anger, frustration and negativity.

8. REFRESH WITH HONEY. Honey has been used for centuries to keep skin looking youthful. Apply raw, unfiltered honey on your face like a mask for 20 minutes and rinse with warm water afterwards. It moisturizes the skin and helps it to look taut and supple.

9. BOOST YOUR MOOD WITH DARK CHOCOLATE. Chocolate is a wonderful mood booster because it stimulates the production of endorphins, which are the chemicals in the brain that promote pleasure. Dark chocolate contains serotonin, which is a natural mood booster. Keep a small square with you at all times for emergencies.

ARC Coach Named NorCal Coach of the Year

American River College Athletics News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The American River College Men's Water Polo program has achieved a lot of great things throughout the 2024 season. As the program prepares to open up the 3C2A State Championships, the Beavers can add another achievement: NorCal Coach of the Year.

The Beavers men's water polo head coach, Zac Koerner, was named the 3C2A NorCal Coach of the Year after leading the Beavers to back-toback Big 8 Conference Championships, a 2nd place finishing in the NorCal Championships, and an opportunity to compete for the 3C2A State Championship.

This is Coach Koerner's first NorCal Coach of the Year award. Congratulations Coach! ★ standings and will be the No. 3 seed at the Big Sky Tournament at the Nest.

Smith was named to the first team for the fourth straight year, becoming the first player in program history to be named first team on four occasions. Counting her pandemic season of 2020 when she was named to the second team, Smith is also the first player in school history to receive all-conference accolades on five occasions.

Volkmann was named to the first team for the first time in her career, and Tisko received second team honors for the second consecutive season.

Sacramento State Women's Basketball Finishes Third

Sacramento State University Athletics News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Senior Katie Peneueta finished with a career-high tying 20 points to go with nine rebounds while three other Hornets finished in double figures on Sunday Dec. 1, helping push the Sacramento State women's basketball team past Wagner, 73-34, to finish third at the FIU Thanksgiving Classic in Miami.

The Hornets snapped their threegame skid, improving to 5-3 overall on the year, while the Seahawks fell to 1-6 overall with the result. The 39-point victory was the largest of the year and the largest against a Division I opponent since a 48-point triumph over Portland State on Jan. 23, 2016.

Sunday's 34 points allowed are the fewest in the program's Division I history and the fewest since defeating Concordia College, 78-29, on Nov. 22, 1990. Sacramento State limited Wagner to just 15 first-half points — the lowest scoring first half by a Hornet opponent since Northern Colorado trailed, 24-15, at the break on Jan. 6, 2007.

Overall, from the field, the Hornets stifled the Seahawks to the tune of a .245 (12-for-49) field goal percentage for the game, which is the lowest by an opponent since Pacific Union shot the same percentage on Dec. 19, 2019.

In only her second game back after missing the first six games of the season due to injury, Peneueta came off the bench to finish 7-of-10 from the field and 5-of-7 from long distance in 29 minutes, matching her career high set at Northern Arizona on Feb. 3, 2022, and tied against Montana State just over a year later on Feb. 23, 2023.

Her nine rebounds were also two shy of her career high of 11 set against Idaho on Jan. 5, 2023.

She was followed closely by sophomore Lina Falk, who finished with 15 points on 6-of-13 from the field and added six rebounds, three assists, and three steals. Senior Jaydia Martin chipped in 12 points on 5-of-11 from the field, adding four rebounds and six assists, while freshman Sofia Alonso finished with 11 points, five rebounds, and six assists.

Freshman Brooklyn Taylor also blocked four shots on the day, the most since Summah Hanson had four against Eastern Washington on Dec. 30, 2023.

The Hornets surrendered the first basket of the game, but it was all Sacramento State from that point on, outscoring Wagner by a 21-2 count the rest of the quarter — including a 14-0 run to close the period. The run grew to 17-0 with the first three points of the second quarter as the Hornets led by as many as 27 points in the first half en route to the 41-15 halftime advantage.

Sacramento State limited the Seahawks to four points in both the first and third quarters — tied for the fewest in a single quarter this season along with the four-point fourth quarter at Cal State Fullerton back on Nov. 14 — and tallied the fourth and fifth single-digit quarters defensively this year.

Meanwhile, the offense was clicking, finishing the day shooting 49 percent from the field overall (26-of-53) — its second-highest single-game shooting performance of the year behind only the 55 percent against Lincoln University on Nov. 10. The Hornets were also 11-of-25 (.440) from behind the arc as a team, setting season highs for both makes and percentages and the best in both categories since hitting 13-of-24 from three-point range against Idaho State at last year's Big Sky Conference Tournament. Sacramento State opened the second half on a 9-0 run, holding Wagner to without a point for the first six minutes of the period and to without a field goal until the final 30 seconds of the period. The Hornets led by as many as 46 points with two minutes to play in the fourth quarter and led nearly the entire game save for the 15 seconds that the Seahawks went in front to start the day and the 3:55 during which the contest was tied.

Following three straight games away from home, Sacramento State returns to The Nest this coming week, hosting Kansas City to open the second-annual Big Sky-Summit Challenge on Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 6:30 p.m. The Hornets then travel to Nebraska to take on Omaha on Saturday, Dec. 7, at Noon PT prior to the start of final exams. Both games are scheduled after press time.

Bloodmobile Helps Save Lives

By Elise Spleiss

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG)

- "Patients don't take a holiday from needing blood," according to the Vitalant website. Vitalant provides blood and special services to patients in about 900 hospitals across the U.S.

To help fill this need throughout the region, 98 Rock station deejay Joe Brazil; Kristin Conner, Vitalant's communications manager; and Audacy, Inc, a broadcasting company, have something in common. They planned for the recent 33rd annual threeday 98 Rock 'N Roll Up Your Sleeve Blood Drive for months.

Since 1992, Vitalant Blood has partnered with Sacramento's largest rock station, 98 Rock, to help ensure that patients have the blood they need throughout the holiday season.

"We are the voice for the blood drives, broadcasting actively before and during the events with a lot of giveaways to blood donors," Brazil said.

From Nov. 29 to Dec. 1, 152 individuals came out to save lives through blood donations during the blood drive at the Marketplace at Birdcage Center in Citrus Heights. Blood donations are delivered to hospitals as quickly as they are collected.

Donors arrived from throughout the Sacramento area and beyond. They waited in line on chairs next to the three bloodmobiles on Nov. 29, one bloodmobile on Nov. 30 and two bloodmobiles on Dec. 1. Vitalant volunteers greeted donors at tables in front of the bloodmobile. Russell Muir of Carmichael, previously with Blood Source for 20 years, and Erin Baker, with Vitalant for 13 years, registered donors who had appointments as they arrived and put walk-ups on a waiting list. No one was turned away.

Donors again walked away with this year's 98 Rock Blood Drive T-shirt. As shirts are accumulated over the years, donors often turn them into a colorful quilt.

This is Brazil's second year with 98 Rock and Audacy, and he is "enthusiastic about their work in the community not only during the holiday blood drives but year-round."

Brazil said he does outreach in communities that the station reaches on the air, "all the way from close to the Bay Area, past Grass Valley and into Sacramento."

"I look forward to doing this all year. My favorite is always the community initiatives," Brazil said. "When 98 Rock and Audacy Sacramento can get behind something that positively benefits the community, that's what really stands with me and with the community. It's always a blessing and a pleasure."

According to Brazil, "the music is a great way to gain exposure" for Vitalant.

Sclerosis Achievement Center Director Tiffany Malone.

The MS Achievement Center is an outpatient services hub that offers physical rehabilitation, social connection, emotional support, and health education. The center's mission is to improve health and wellness for people with multiple sclerosis, empowering them to optimize their quality of life.

Multiple sclerosis is a neurological condition that is often classified as an autoimmune disease, where the immune system mistakenly attacks the body, explained Malone.

"We have a structure schedule that includes exercise, cognitive stimulation activities, emotional support and probably the biggest piece is socialization," Malone said.

Founded in 2014 the center originally launched with only 10 members, it now serves up to 75 participants each week. Malone shared hopes of expanding to 100 members soon, citing the immense need for such services in the community.

"In 2013, a person I knew through the National MS Society suggested that I apply for a grant to the Conrad Hilton Foundation to start the center. We got a onetime only grant for a large amount of money, opened in February 2014 and it rapidly grew to its current size. It's been a wonderful program," said Dr. John A. Schafer, founder of John A. Schafer, MD Multiple Sclerosis Achievement Center

Schafer noted the importance of connecting those with multiple sclerosis to a network of support.

"Multiple sclerosis is often an isolating condition," Dr. Schafer said. "This center provides a safe space where people can come together, share experiences and not feel alone in their journey."

The annual marathon, now a highly anticipated tradition, also serves as a fundraiser. As a nonprofit, the MS Achievement Center relies on sponsorships to continue its operations and expand its programs.

Members of the center echoed Malone's sentiments. Joanne, a participant, shared her experience of attending the center since its opening.

"The center is primarily about socializing; it makes you get out of your bed and down here once a week. I started coming in October of the first year they opened and I'm still coming back. The staff and the skill that is here to take care of us is everything," said racer Joanne.

Schafer added that learning about MS and starting treatment early is crucial for managing the condition.

"When a diagnosis is new, it's important to gather as much information as possible and seek out the best treatments," he said.

The John A. Schafer, MD Multiple Sclerosis Achievement Center remains the only one of its kind in Northern California.

To join the Achievement Center, individuals can simply give the center a call to begin the self-referral process, as no prescription is required. The application process is straightforward, with three key requirements: a confirmed diagnosis of multiple sclerosis (MS), the ability to independently manage toiletry needs and the understanding that the center does not provide transportation to and from the facility.
