GALT, CA (MPG) - Local law enforcement agencies are asking the Galt community to sign a petition in opposition to the early release of a woman convicted of hitting a Galt teenager with her car in 2022 and causing significant brain damage.

Devin Calderon was convicted and sentenced to eight years in prison in March 2023 for striking then-16-year-old Galt resident Angel Renteria with a truck while she was walking her dog, leaving the teenager with permanent brain damage and the need to be fed with a tube through her stomach. She also lost the ability to speak and now resides in a long-term rehabilitation center in San Francisco.

Calderon is being considered for an early release program after serving just 22 months out of the original eight-year sentence. She is scheduled for early release on Feb. 21 to the Community Transitional Reentry Program.

In a letter of opposition sent to the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, District Attorney Thien Ho shared a quote from Angel's father, Fernando Renteria: "Angel's got a life sentence, and this lady is serving less than two years."

Utility Critics Call Equity Profits Excessive

By Malena Carollo

Making sense of the alphabet soup of charges on a monthly power bill is challenge enough. But there's a surprising cost baked into customers' bills that doesn't have its own line item.

A portion of each payment goes directly in the pockets of shareholders. Called a "return on equity," the amount is meant to compensate investor-owned utilities for the risk of doing business. It pays back shareholders for their investment in the companies and helps utilities maintain a higher credit rating to attract better loan rates for future projects.

Each state's utility regulator, including the California Public Utilities Commission, is responsible for determining these often double digit rates of return, which is a key part of utilities' profits. Studies found that the shareholder rates regularly outpace a common economic benchmark, costing customers across the country as much as $7 billion annually. CalMatters examined these rates since 2020 and found they amount to hundreds of millions of dollars annually from California customers.

Approved rates of return in the state are hovering around 10%, more than double the rate for the benchmark, 10-year U.S. treasury bonds. Utilities can earn less than that if they do not meet performance targets, but California's three major investor-owned utilities still earned hundreds of millions of dollars from return on equity in 2023. Critics call that excessive and say utilities are exaggerating the risks they face.

"Across all the utilities, we seem to be providing some rather generous rates," said David Rode, a Carnegie Mellon University professor who studies decision making in finance and utilities. "It's easy to look at a single utility and go, 'well this rate makes sense for this utility' and miss the broader implications(but)... It's kind of like missing the forest for the trees."

Customers across the state are facing steep power bills from the state's three main investor-owned power companies. Californians pay among the highest electricity rates in the country, the largest

Judge Denies Placement of Sexual Predator Near Galt

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - A Sacramento Superior Court judge ruled against placing a sexually violent predator in the unincorporated region of Sacramento County, just over a half-mile outside of the Galt city limits, during a hearing on Jan. 31. Judge Kenneth Brody ruled against Christopher Dryden's placement at the home, citing concerns over families and children in the area, estimated 45-minute law enforcement response times and GPS accuracy.

Brody also recognized concerns over the future homes that are scheduled to go on sale near the residence, potentially in the next year.

"We are satisfied with the court's decision," Galt Police Chief Brian Kalinowski said after the 50-minute hearing. "It is the wrong placement in the wrong location. We recognize that the state struggles with adhering with state law about placement of these SVPs, but when and where those placements shock the conscious and affect the quality of life of those individuals, whether that is in Galt or immediately adjacent to Galt, that will affect the residents of Galt, we will stand with the residents and push back where we can."

City Council Votes to Send Delegates to D.C.

By Sean P. Thomas
City Editor

GALT, CA (MPG) - Move over, Mr. Smith; the Galt City Council is going to Washington.

The Galt City Council on Tuesday voted unanimously to send the entire council on a networking trip to Washington, D.C., from May 3-7, part of the 53rd annual Capitol-to-Capitol federal advocacy effort. The delegates will join over 400 other members on the trip.

The annual conference is organized by the Sacramento Metro Chamber of Commerce and provides an opportunity for local delegates to secure funding and resources for high-priority projects across California, and to rub shoulders with decision-makers in the nation's capital.

Council member Bonnie Rodriguez, whose daughter currently works for a congressman in Washington, said she was told that networking events like Capitol-to-Capitol give city officials, especially from small towns, an opportunity to advocate for local projects that might slip under the radar of federal officials.

"This is just one of those opportunities that gets us, with our regional partners, to help them to understand where we are sitting so they can help us to get the legislatures to make some decisions that will help us," Rodriguez said.

The agenda item approving the trip initially mentioned just three representatives, one of which was originally going to be interim City Manager Chris Erias, but at the meeting it was announced that Erias declined to go in lieu of members from his staff or other council members.

It was later decided that there was enough room in the city's travel budget to send all five of the council members, if they opted to go. All five of the council voiced interest in the trip, if their schedules aligned.

The trip will cost about $5,000 per council member that chooses to go. No one from Galt has opted to go on the trip for about seven years.

"I think that the city of Galt needs to start getting involved regionally," Rodriguez said. "This is a great networking opportunity not just there in D.C., but with our regional people."

Rodriguez noted plans to widen Highway 99 and an interchange at Walnut Avenue as potential projects that could be discussed for funding.

During public comment, Galt resident Chris Brosman said he believed that the money would better be served at the local level and questioned if the delegation's voice would be drowned out.

"I'm not a huge fan of Cap-to-Cap as you can probably see," Brosman said. "I'd like to see how the trip would benefit us. I can network on a local level. You guys can network on a local level."

Mayor Shawn Farmer said he appreciates any resident's desire to save taxpayer dollars but felt the connections and potential money that could come from the trip was worth it. He highlighted larger issues that are facing Galt, most notably homelessness, that neither Galt, nor state officials, can solve without federal intervention.

"Maybe nothing will become of this trip, but maybe something does come from it and it brings a $10 million windfall for a construction project," Farmer said. "Who's to say? I do think it's important that someone goes."

Interim Economic Development Director Amie Mendes highlighted a $41.3 million grant from the federal Department of Transportation that was announced in January for work on Interstate 580 in Tracy.

The project was part of a proposal made by Tracy city officials when they joined other government officials from San Joaquin Council of Government's One Voice trip to Washington, D.C., last year.

"It may take some time, but I obviously think it would be worth it," Mendes said.

Galt Commission on Aging Commissioner Joan Werblun, who also serves as vice chair for the California Health Collaborative, implored the council to send delegates.

"These opportunities do not come up all the time," Werblun said. "With people cutting budgets, I think that the fact that you may be able to pull this together, I can tell you, I would love to see all five of you go." ★ served is an affront to justice and a betrayal of the trust placed in our judicial system by victims and their families," Ho wrote.

The Sacramento County District Attorney's Office created a petition called "Justice for Angel" in preparation for Calderon's potential release.

The Galt Police Department also shared the petition on its Facebook page, requesting community members to support the petition.

According to the District Attorney's Office, Calderon had a blood alcohol content level of .22% when she drove her Dodge Ram truck into Angel Renteria. Renteria was taken to a hospital with a brain bleed and brain swelling and placed in a medically induced coma.

Calderon fled the scene after the collision, the District Attorney's Office said, before returning to the area and colliding with a Galt police patrol vehicle as officers were investigating the scene.

The investigation revealed that Calderon was drinking with her husband earlier in the day after she attended an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting, the District Attorney's Office said.

Calderon was convicted in March 2023 of felony DUI with injury, felony DUI with .08% or higher, felony hit and run causing serious and permanent injury.

Rhonda Campbell, a representative for Mothers Against Drunk Driving, called for "legislative action."

"Maybe the public comes together and we work on making changes so that these things won't happen to another victim family who has gone through literal hell," Campbell said.

The California

Department of Corrections issued a statement that Calderon would not be "paroled," but transferred from prison to a supervised facility to continue serving prison time.

"This conditional placement is not a reward, and it does not minimize the participant crime nor the harm it caused," the CDCR said in a statement to KCRA 3. "CDCR's community reentry programs were developed to increase public safety by preparing participants to safely transition back into their communities once paroled. Studies have found these programs decrease recidivism, which increases public safety."

According to the Corrections Department,

Calderon has served at the Puerta La Cruz Conservation Camp, a prison in San Diego, since Oct. 27, 2023, as support staff. Camp volunteers who work as support staff, but not a fire crew, received "day-for-day" credits, meaning they receive one day off their sentence for every one day they serve.

Ho, in his letter, said the release program needed to be reexamined, calling it a "deeply flawed policy."

"CDCR claims that this program is not a reward, yet the reality is that Calderon's release sends a clear message to victims like Angel and their families: The system values offender reintegration over victim justice," Ho wrote. ★

Galt PD Posts Statement on Immigration Enforcement

By Sean P. Thomas
City Editor

GALT, CA (MPG) - Amid a cloud of national conversation regarding the interplay between local law enforcement and federal immigration policies, the Galt Police Department issued a statement on its Facebook account on Monday, Feb. 3, reiterating its stance regarding immigration enforcement.

The post stated in part that the department would not participate in immigration enforcement, ask immigration status during contacts with the police nor hold individuals solely based on federal immigration detainers.

The statement added that Senate Bill 54, California's "sanctuary state" law, prohibits state and local law enforcement agencies from using funds to enforce federal civil immigration laws in lieu of the federal government.

"Our focus remains on building trust, preventing crime, and ensuring everyone feels safe reporting emergencies or seeking help from law enforcement," the post read. "If you need assistance, know that we are here for you 24/7."

The post was the latest in a string of posts made across the state by local police departments clarifying their approach to immigration enforcement, including the Sacramento Police Department, which said it would not engage in any immigration enforcement, "as that is a direct violation of our policy and state law (SB54)." ★

Ballot Measure Proposes Secession by California that Dryden be placed in a home at 12655 Hauschildt Road, just a little over a half mile outside of Galt's city limits.

Dryden is classified as a sexually violent predator, a designation for those who have committed a sexually violent offense against one or more victims and who has been diagnosed with a mental disorder that makes them a danger to others, according to the Department of State Hospitals.

Dryden was prosecuted and convicted in 1998 by the Sacramento County District Attorney's Office for two counts of lewd and lascivious conduct with a child under 14 years of age and sentenced to six years in state prison.

The news of the potential placement quickly spread across social media, causing concern among residents and various city boards and officials, especially considering the residents' proximity to schools including Liberty Ranch High School, Marengo Ranch Elementary School and Lake Canyon Elementary School and adjacent homes with young children.

The hearing comes just a few days after a jam-packed Galt City Council meeting in which more than a dozen residents voiced opposition to Dryden's placement.

According to Judge Brody, more than 200 pages of correspondence was sent in opposition to the placement.

the proponent and the secretary of state, officially enabling the measure to proceed.

Announcing these approvals is standard practice designed to promote transparency and encourage public awareness.

"It has come to my attention that misinformation is being circulated, falsely claiming that I am 'organizing an effort for California to secede from the United States,'" stated Weber. "This is absolutely false. Such misinformation, whether intentional or not, is unacceptable, as it erodes trust in our democratic institutions. I urge everyone to turn to trusted sources like my office or their local elections office to verify information about ballot measures or any election-related matters."

Weber emphasized that announcements of approved ballot measures are not endorsements but a legal requirement that supports transparency and civic engagement. "I encourage all Californians to educate themselves about the initiative process and to explore the measures currently in circulation." Weber added.

You Never Even Call Me By My Name

During my adolescent years, I rarely introduced myself with verbal clarity. My soft introductions were hard to hear and communicated more doubt than any kind of confident identity.

I'd try to tell people that my name was Norris, but they'd often respond with a one-word question. "What?"

If I repeated my introduction, my inquisitors only became more frustrated. "What? Did you say Morris?"

Even if they heard "Norris," they might say, "Yes, but what's your first name?" The assumption was that Norris could only be a surname.

So, by the time I graduated from high school in 1975, I'd had enough of the confusion. I anticipated an opportunity to end it when I accepted a summer job at a church conference center outside Santa Fe, New Mexico.

A few weeks later, I entered the grounds ready for a change. The first person I met introduced himself and I responded with the first syllable of my middle name, "Ed." I was not only using my middle name, but I'd adopted the abbreviated version.

I still remember his reply - "What? Did you say Fred?"

It was quickly apparent that my lack of confidence was still causing me to mumble my name. "Ed" rolled off my tongue with no more clarity than did "Norris."

By the end of the summer, I'd already received a lot of grief from my mother who constantly reminded me that she wouldn't have named me Norris if she had intended for me to go by Ed. I returned to Norris.

Out in Northern New Mexico, the name experiment seemed harmless enough. After all, it was only a summer job. Since I was headed for Baylor University in Texas, I resolved to leave my AKA-Ed life in New Mexico's high desert.

Not so fast. I wouldn't be the only staff member from the camp headed for Baylor.

Imagine the surprise on the face of the freshman girl I escorted to the homecoming bonfire when we were greeted by two of my former New Mexico coworkers who called me "Ed."

In the weeks that followed, my old camp friends continually called me Ed, compounding the confusion among my new Baylor friends. My roommates were further puzzled when they brought in mail addressed to "Ed Burkes."

During my sophomore year, David Allen Coe's, "You Never Even Call Me by My Name," became a favorite song. By my senior year, I'd persuaded all of my friends to call me Norris once again - with only one exception.

That exception was the especially spirited blonde I'd met in that New Mexico camp named Becky. Through four years of college, my roommates teased me at every mail call. "Yoo-hoo, Ed!" they'd croon in a falsetto voice. "She wrote you another letter."

It took a lot of persuasion to get this girl to call me Norris. She preferred the name Ed and it seemed as though she'd never concede. However, at our wedding in 1980, she finally made a pledge to forever call me Norris.

"Norris," she said, "I take thee to be my wedded husband. To have and to hold, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health, till death do us part."

Happy 45th anniversary, sweetheart. You've always known who I am, even though I often lack a clue. Your love changes me because it honors the best in me.

It is a love for the person God created me to be, not what I should, could or would have been. And in that love, I find the most cherished reminder of the love of God.

And that is something Ed and Norris will cherish forever.

Gov. Meets with Small Business Owners Impacted by Firestorm

Office of Governor Gavin Newsom News Release

LOS ANGELES, CA (MPG) - Continuing to have an eye toward recovery and rebuilding, Governor Gavin Newsom on Jan. 21 met with workers and small business owners impacted by the devastating Los Angeles firestorm to hear their stories and highlight the state's work to help communities rebuild.

The Governor visited NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) in La Canada Flintridge for a conversation with employees impacted by the Eaton Fire. Hundreds of Jet Propulsion Laboratory employees lost their homes, with over 100 more likely to be displaced due to damage to their homes. Joined by Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors Chair Kathryn Barger, Governor Newsom talked with the employees about rebuilding efforts, as well as concerns about home insurance.

As the largest employer of those impacted by the Eaton Fire, Jet Propulsion Laboratory started a disaster relief fund to help employees, which has already raised over $2 million. Jet Propulsion Laboratory manages the Deep Space Network, a global web of antennas that communicate with spacecraft. The NASA facility has partnered with CAL FIRE to use soil moisture sensors to support the state's fire management and prevention efforts. JPL also helped California launch pollution-tracking satellites last year and partners with the state on drought monitoring.

Governor Newsom also visited with small business owners Kevin Hockin and Rosanna Kvermmo. They started Side Pie as a pizza pop-up during the middle of the pandemic. After it went viral, they expanded into a brick-and-mortar shop in Altadena in 2021. They received news while at Disneyland with their daughter that they had lost their restaurant and that their home suffered extensive smoke damage. Kevin and Rosanna plan on rebuilding when safe to do so.

"Thousands of hard-working Californians lost their homes, their businesses and their livelihoods to this firestorm. From the hundreds of workers at NASA's iconic Jet Propulsion Laboratory who lost their homes to folks like Kevin and Rosanna who lost their Altadena pizza shop – the numbers will never capture just how life-changing these fires were for Californians. It will take years to rebuild and fully recover but California will be there every step of the way," said Governor Gavin Newsom.

Also on Jan. 21, Governor Newsom stopped by CAL FIRE and CDCR conservation camp crews filling sandbags that will be placed in firestorm-affected areas to help protect against potential flooding and mudslides. Yesterday, the Governor issued an executive order to help mitigate this risk and protect communities by hastening efforts to remove debris, bolster flood defenses, and stabilize hillsides in affected areas.

Helping Small Businesses Recover

Since the firestorm, California has worked with federal and local providers to help businesses with the resources and support they need to recover and rebuild.

200+ business advisors from Small Business Support Centers funded through the California Office of the Small Business Advocate's (CalOSBA) Technical Assistance Program are staffed across the region.

This includes business advisors from the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) and Women's Business Center (WBC) who can answer loan application, insurance, employee support and business recovery questions. They are co-located at the Disaster Recovery Center at Pasadena City College and the Disaster Loan Outreach Center in Camarillo (Ventura County).

Small Business Development Center and Women's Business Center advisors are also present at the various Business Recovery Centers organized by the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA).

California Office of the Small Business Advocates has launched a Resource Guide for small businesses impacted by the wildfires through its Outsmart Disaster website, and is conducting a series of online trainings in both English and Spanish.

The California Infrastructure and Economic Development Bank (IBank) is offering loan programs for businesses from one to 750 employees affected by the LA wildfires.

Disaster Relief Loan Guarantee Program (DRLGP) issues loan guarantees up to 95% of the loan through IBank's partner Financial Development Corporations to help small business borrowers impacted by disaster who need term loans or lines of credit for working capital.

Additionally, Governor Newsom has issued a number of executive orders in response to the Los Angeles fire storms to help aid in rebuilding and recovery, create more temporary housing, and protect survivors from exploitation and price gouging.

State Water Project Increases 2025 Allocation Forecast

California Department of Water Resources News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - On Jan. 28, the Department of Water Resources (DWR) announced an update to the State Water Project allocation forecast for 2025. The allocation has increased to 20 percent of requested supplies, up from 15 percent in December. The State Water Project provides water to 29 public water agencies that serve 27 million Californians.

While January has been incredibly dry across California, storm runoff into the state's reservoirs came in higher than forecasted at the end of December allowing for a modest allocation increase. Storms in late November and early December had a positive impact by saturating the ground, allowing for storms through December to more efficiently runoff into reservoirs.

More storms are needed, and the long-range forecast does hint at a return to wet conditions in early February that could bring much-needed rain and snow.

"We are in the middle of our biggest months for precipitation for California, and unfortunately January has been very dry, putting a significant dent in our season," said DWR Director Karla Nemeth. "A return to wet weather is critical for our season's success and it will take many more storms to make up the deficit and further boost water supply deliveries."

Despite the dry conditions, California has effectively managed its reservoirs to keep storage above average for this time of year. Lake Oroville, the State Water Project's largest reservoir, is currently at 127 percent of average for this time of year. San Luis Reservoir, which is jointly operated by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, is at 102 percent of average for this time of year.

Reservoirs in Southern California are also near or above their historical averages.

Each year, the department provides State Water Project allocation forecasts based on available water storage, projected water supply, and water demands. Allocations are updated monthly as snowpack, rainfall, and runoff information is assessed, with a final allocation typically determined in May or June.

As the winter progresses, if California sees an increase in rain and snowfall, the allocation forecast may increase. Learn more about how the State Water Project allocation process works at <https://water.ca.gov/News/Blog/2025/Jan-25/Get-the-Facts-About-the-State-Water-Project-Allocation>.

portions of which come from new hikes for wildfire mitigation and rooftop solar programs. PG&E bills in particular have risen several times in the last year alone, and ratepayers will see another increase after regulators voted to keep the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant open to address concerns over energy reliability during the shift to renewable sources.

Gov. Gavin Newsom announced an executive order last fall to address high energy bills by asking the utilities commission to scrutinize wildfire mitigation costs and underperforming energy programs. The state Legislative Analyst's Office released a report this month examining the state's climate policies and residential electricity rates, which it found were increased by efforts to curb wildfires and global warming, among other factors.

Southern California Edison's 2024 approved shareholder return rate was the highest among its Golden State peers at 10.75%, followed by PG&E at 10.7%, and San Diego Gas & Electric at 10.65%.

The utility commission's preliminary decisions for return on equity rates this year, which have not been finalized, are all just above 10%. That's comparable to the industry average, also about 10%.

Each company's financial performance throughout the year determines whether they will achieve their full shareholder rate of return or even above it. But even a fraction of their approved shareholder rates represents millions of dollars from ratepayers. In 2023, for example, Southern California Edison collected $91 million out of a possible $198 million for shareholders (approved for 10.05%), PG&E collected more than $111 million out of a potential $125 million (approved for 10%), and San Diego Gas & Electric collected $41.9 million out of a possible $42 million (approved for 9.95%).

"A competitive return on equity is important to ensure that PG&E can continue to attract the level of investment needed to meet the energy needs of our hometowns," PG&E spokesperson Mike Gazda said. "The state regulator determines that return on equity through an open, transparent and public process."

Gazda said the "vast majority" of PG&E's profits, to which the return on equity contributes, is reinvested into the utility. The company, he said, has cut expenses to customers through federal loans and grants, as well as "new technologies, improved processes, and renegotiated contracts." He did not directly answer a question about whether lower shareholder returns would be part of the company's future plans but said PG&E will work on bill affordability with regulators and policymakers.

The shareholder rates as approved by the utility commission have outpaced those for the 10-year treasury bonds, which are often used as a benchmark and are considered riskless. Riskier businesses tend to earn returns above this, experts said. But Rode's study and others found that utilities' shareholder return rates are going up nationally, while the risk the industry faces doesn't match that increase.

Treasury bond yields are part of the model the California Public Utilities Commission uses when setting these shareholder rates.

"Without capital market funding, necessary grid work would have to be funded immediately in part through the rates customers pay, and this would significantly raise those rates," Jeff Monford, spokesperson for Southern California Edison, said. "Providing our investors with a competitive (return on equity) is crucial to the success of this model."

CalMatters looked at California's three main investor-owned utilities' shareholder return rates and the average 10-year treasury bond yields from 2006 through November, including the utilities' actual returns during that period through 2023, the most recent data available.

The average rates for such treasury bonds didn't break 5% from 2006 through November. Only within the last year have any of California's three major investor-owned utilities dipped below double digits. California's gap between the shareholder and treasury rates has closed slightly since 2006, with shareholder rates for the three companies declining between less than 2 percentage points each. Treasury bond rates largely held steady during that period, with 10-year notes going from a yield of 4.53 percent to 4.18 percent.

Despite this dip, the dollar amount the state's power companies are authorized to collect for shareholders has increased nearly every year as their customer bases grow and utilities add more costs that can be charged to customers.

One contributing factor nationwide, studies found, is that regulators often hesitate to approve shareholder rates below 10% and rarely take into consideration the gap between what utility shareholders earn and the treasury bond rates. Psychology comes into play here – 10 can feel like a substantial round number, and moving below that may feel like a large move.

And the companies regularly ask for more. Had regulators landed at PG&E's request for 2023 – one percentage point above what was approved – the company would have been allowed to collect $12.5 million more. Southern California Edison requested the equivalent of about $9.4 million above what was later approved, and San Diego Gas & Electric requested the equivalent of $2.5 million more than what was later approved.

Cal Advocates, the body responsible for advocating for ratepayers before the commission, often pushes back against these, requesting lower shareholder rates.

"We generally think they've been set a bit too high," Michael Campbell, assistant deputy director of energy at Cal Advocates, said. "The utilities' arguments of just how risky it is to be a utility in California and their ability to recover their costs from ratepayers is overstated."

Rising costs are of particular concern for Californians, whose bills, especially under PG&E, have risen steadily because of wildfire response. A law passed in 2019 attempted to cushion some of that blow on ratepayers, prohibiting utilities from collecting for shareholders a return on the first $5 billion they collectively spend on wildfire safety measures.

"The business is not meant to be risk free," said Janice Beecher, political science professor at Michigan State University who specializes in utility economics. "If it's risk free, give them treasury returns and go home early." ★

By Association for the Study of African American Life and History, asalh.org

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Black History Month is an annually observed month-long celebration of African American life, history and culture.

Founded by Dr. Carter G. Woodson in February 1926, what was formerly known as Negro History Week became a month-long celebration as a way to promote, research, preserve, interpret, and disseminate information about Black life, History, and culture to the global community.

The relevance of February goes back to 1926, when Dr. Woodson first established "Negro History Week" during the second week of February. And why that week?

Because it encompasses the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass, both men being great American symbols of freedom.

More importantly, Dr. Woodson chose them for reasons of tradition. Since Lincoln's assassination in 1865, the black community, along with other Republicans, had been celebrating the fallen President's birthday. And since the late 1890s, black communities across the country had been celebrating Douglass'. Well aware of the pre-existing celebrations, Woodson built Negro History Week around traditional days of commemorating the black past.

The 2025 Black History Month theme, "African Americans and Labor," focuses on the various and profound ways that work and working of all kinds, free and unfree, skilled and unskilled, vocational and voluntary, intersect with the collective experiences of Black people.

Indeed, work is at the very center of much of Black history and culture. Be it the traditional agricultural labor of enslaved Africans that fed Low Country colonies, debates among Black educators on the importance of vocational training, self-help strategies and entrepreneurship in Black communities, or organized labor's role in fighting both economic and social injustice, Black people's work has been transformational throughout the U.S., Africa, and the Diaspora.

The 2025 Black History Month theme, "African Americans and Labor," sets out to highlight and celebrate the potent impact of this work. ★

Chew On Some Bubble Gum History

According to nationaldaycalendar.com, celebrating Bubble Gum Day on the first Friday of February every year doesn't burst many people's bubbles. However, for those who are inclined, it's a fun way to chew your favorite flavor of bubble gum and blow some spectacular bubbles.

Long before any substantial chewing gum formed bubbles, ancient human beings chewed bits of resin from trees. All around the world, people collected substances from the available trees and used them for dental care and general enjoyments.

It wasn't until 1928, after decades of failures by those before him, and several of his own, that Walter Diemer created the first bubble producing gum.

His employer, the Fleer Chewing Gum Company, marketed it as Dubble Bubble. Some interesting trivia: The largest bubble gum bubble ever blown was 50.8 centimeters (20 inches) in diameter. Chad Fell of Haleyville, Ala., blew the bubble with three pieces of Dubble Bubble on April 24, 2004, at Double Springs High School in Winston County, Ala.; One piece of bubble gum contains 29 calories; people all over the world chew what amounts to about 100,000 tons of bubble gum a year; and the record for the longest continuous stretch of 135 sticks of gum chewed successively for eight hours straight is held by Richard Walker.

One last thing, or maybe two: Little comic strips used to be included with the piece of gum and flat, square-shaped gum was included in baseball cards; I wonder if that happens anymore.

Guess I will go buy some Dubble Bubble and find out.

The furry ball of rodent from Pennsylvania saw his shadow. Ugh! Looks like six more weeks of winter.

Hopefully, rain will continue on a regular basis to keep our ponds and reservoirs full and help the grass grow.

St. Valentine's Day is next Friday. Are you ready? I am hoping for a seafood dinner. That's it. Well maybe a couple of pieces of See's candy. And a card. I love greeting cards, almost as much as a seafood dinner. It means the card giver took the time to go to the card section of a store, look through the cards and find the one meant especially for me. And then I have something to remind me of that person on that special day.

I like flowers, too. Alstroemeria and tulips are my favorite. The blooms last a long time, although I received a pre-planted Amaryllis bulb before Christmas, followed the directions as in do not over-water and it is still blooming. Very little effort and very pretty flowers.

Do you give your children valentines? I do. I love them and Don too, of course. He is my Honey Bunny. I will give them all cards and a little something to enjoy. And this year, I joined the Secret Sister group at my church, and my new Secret

Sister will definitely receive a valentine. And since I have already heard from the Secret Sister who randomly received my name, I will say, "Thank you for sending your first correspondence." You are a blessing and have inspired me.

The Galt High School District schools will be closed all next week, including President's Day, Monday, Feb. 17. I will call it President's Week since it includes Lincoln's birthday (Feb. 12) and President's Day.

Taking the week off balances the school days in second semester to be even with the first semester. So, our students start a new semester instead of returning from Christmas vacation and taking first semester finals.

It's a bit confusing but it is a week off for our students and their families to take a winter vacation without missing school, or to stay home and get in some yard-work, spring cleaning, etc.

Until next week - be strong, be courageous, make a memory. ★

Mark your calendars for March 7 in the friendly confines of Golden One Arena, as it should be a night to remember. Yes, on that night when the San Antonio Spurs arrive, you'll have the opportunity to once again witness the fastest man in the NBA, and you guessed it, none other than former King DeAaron Fox.

Emotions are running high right now as arguably the best overall player in Sacramento Kings history leaves the Sactown family to join the San Antonio Spurs.

What do I think of that? Sad simply doesn't get it. There's a hole in my heart, but a gratitude for a player that turned back the clock when it comes to professionalism and fan involvement.

DeAaron has comported himself with a degree of elegance and grace seldom seen in professional athletes. I feel that Sacramento is not only losing an amazing athlete, but an amazing family as well. Make no mistake about it, the Foxes are a package, and they will steal your heart.

I fondly recall a moment earlier this season in which DeAaron took a hard fall at the edge of court where the baseline meets the sideline. He went head over heels, and as he rolled over to get up, who was there to assist but none other than his wife who was sitting on the front row with his son. It made me smile as DeAaron was helped to his feet by Recee, and then it was on with the game.

I will miss watching his young son clapping gleefully, and DeAaron streaking to the hoop and scoring baskets that would be beyond the capability of most NBA players.

I won't forget his record setting 60-point performance against the Minnesota Timberwolves, albeit in an overtime loss, but it took nothing away from the highest scoring single game total in franchise history.

I can't help but smile and nod my head when I remember DeAaron taking several minutes to talk with my grandson and sign his treasured DeAaron Fox rookie card prior to a game last season. The photos of that moment along with the card itself will be something my grandson will never forget, and it simply is who DeAaron Fox really is. Sunday Feb. 2 will be a day that most Kings fans will never forget, and as big a trade as the Luka Doncic for Anthony Davis was over the weekend, for those of us that love the Kings, it pales in comparison.

The nuts and bolts are that DeAaron Fox is going the San Antonio Spurs in a 3-team trade that also sends Jordan McLaughlin to the Spurs, and Keven Huerter to the Chicago Bulls.

What the Kings receive in return is 2-time all-star Zach Lavine who at age 29 is right in the heart of his prime. Zach was the longest tenured player on the Bulls squad, so like most Kings fans, Chicago is likely shedding tears. Lavine is scoring 24 points per game this season, which is just a hair below the scoring output of Fox.

Not to be ignored by any means in this blockbuster trade, are the 6 draft choices that come with the trade. The Kings receive 3 #1's and 3 #2's and it will be years before the Sacramento Kings and their fans are able to see the full completion of this trade.

Zach Lavine does not solve the missing component at the power forward position, but many believe that another move is coming prior to the trade deadline this week. Auspicious in all of this, is the remarkable 3-point shooting that Lavine brings with him. Currently shooting just over 44% ranks among the league leaders, and as Keven Huerter departs, leaving Sacramento as somewhat of a disappointment from beyond the arc, a 44% 3-point shooter is just what the doctor ordered. That combined with a field goal percentage of over 50% is notable for a guard in the NBA, so let's all take a deep breath, and a collective wait and see approach.

Will I miss DeAaron Fox? Do I believe he is the #1 overall best first round pick in the history of the Sacramento Kings? I say heartily, YES!

Godspeed DeAaron Fox and may you and your family thrive in San Antonio! You will be missed!

GALT, CA (MPG) - Liberty Ranch High School's junior basketball sensation, Haley Smith, has been making headlines since her freshman year, and this season is proving to be her most remarkable yet. Known for her tenacity on the court and impressive skill, Smith has shattered long-standing school records and continues to elevate her game, capturing the attention of fans and scouts alike.

Last year, as only a sophomore, Smith broke the career rebound record of 507 set by Ashley Kirbyson, concluding her season with an impressive 538 rebounds. More than halfway through the current season, Smith has already amassed an additional 129 rebounds, bringing her career total to a staggering 667.

In the recent game against rival Galt High, Smith added to her growing list of accolades by breaking the Liberty Ranch career scoring record. The previous record, held by Selina Moore for a decade, stood at 1,339 points. Smith surpassed that milestone with ease, ending the Galt High game with 1,341 points and subsequently increasing her record to 1,367.

Her scoring prowess is evident in her average of 20.1 points per game this season, making her the go-to scorer for the Hawks and a key player in their 20-2 record this season.

Liberty Ranch Athletic Director, Samantha Vitoria, a former Division I basketball recruit herself, spoke highly of Smith's achievements and potential.

"Haley Smith, for the past three seasons, has become one of the best players in Liberty Ranch history," said Vitoria. "Her stats show it all. With 1,341 points just in her junior season, it is a phenomenal accomplishment. I cannot wait to see what records and triumphs she brings to Liberty Ranch girls' basketball going forward."

Smith's dedication extends beyond her individual accomplishments; she's deeply committed to her team and driven by their shared goals.

"We have had a great season so far with lots of solid wins," Smith said. "We are looking forward to hopefully earning another league championship and making it far in the playoffs. We have put in lots of work to achieve this success together with second-year coach Josh Williams. Each of us plays a very important role on this team. When we all work our hardest and do our jobs, we achieve greatness together."

As the Hawks continue their impressive run toward league champions and the playoffs, Haley Smith stands as a beacon of the future for Liberty Ranch basketball, poised to set more records and lead her team to further success. ★

GALT, CA (MPG) - The Lady Hawk basketball team continues to assert their dominance in the league, securing their 19th consecutive victory in a hard-fought game against Amador with a final score of 46-37. This remarkable winning streak has solidified the team's reputation as a powerhouse this season, marked by never scoring less than 40 points in any game.

While Amador's team displayed tenacity, staying close on the scoreboard throughout the game, the Lady Hawks' relentless offensive and defensive strategies ultimately paved the way to victory.

Leading the charge was Haley Smith, who delivered an impressive 19 points, supported by Madisyn Robbins with 12 points and Kamrynn Blevins who added another seven.

The Lady Hawks demonstrated versatility and teamwork not only in scoring but also in rebounds, which played a crucial role in maintaining their edge. Kamrynn Blevins led the effort on the boards with seven rebounds, followed by Summer McCoy and Haley Smith, each with six rebounds. Madison Robbins added five, Cruz Gregorio four, Kendall Duryee two, and Ella Garcia with one critical rebound.

As the regular season draws to a close with their final game against Galt High on Feb. 13, the Lady Hawks are setting their sights on the upcoming playoffs. Their consistent performance has not only led the way to league victory but also set the stage for a promising postseason run. ★

GALT, CA (MPG) - The Liberty Ranch men's soccer team marked a memorable senior night with an emphatic 16-0 victory over Argonaut, extending their remarkable winning streak to eight games. In a match that not only celebrated the contributions of their graduating seniors but also potentially set a new high score record, the Hawks dominated from start to finish in front of a jubilant home crowd.

Argonaut, facing challenges with a limited squad, brought only one substitute to the match. Despite the odds, they displayed commendable perseverance and played valiantly until the final whistle. Next year, they are set to merge with Amador, hoping for stronger seasons ahead.

Liberty Ranch's head coach, Garrett Arechiga, ensured that his team maintained a respectful approach throughout the lopsided contest. Demonstrating true sportsmanship, almost every Liberty Ranch player seized the opportunity to score, including standout performances across the roster and even two goals from goalie Raj Pillay, who thrilled the Hawks by scoring despite his usual defensive role.

"We are standing where we wanted to be at this time in the season," Arechiga proudly noted. "It was a great game and all five of our graduating seniors had the opportunity to score, with senior EZ Duarte topping it off with a 'hat trick'. We have a huge last game against Galt High and we are staying focused on that."

Indeed, the Hawks' seniors made their final regular season home game one to remember. EZ Duarte shone brightly with three goals, while Ivan Gonzalez, James Briggs, Raj Pillay, and Kyle Oltmanns each added two to the impressive tally. Contributions from Christian Maciel, Isaac Flores, Alan Montelongo, Beto Dominguez, and Luis Ortiz completed the scoring feast.

With this victory, Liberty importance of nurturing these programs to engage more young athletes.

Galt's new head coach, Edward Smith, emphasized a back-to-basics approach this season, focusing on fundamentals.

"Our goal this season was to build a solid foundation of fundamentals," Smith said. "Most importantly, my focus was on developing these young men and women to be the best versions of themselves every day, on and off the mat. Our season ended with a near loss to Liberty Ranch, 39-36. Had we not given up several forfeits, we could have pulled out an upset victory over a very strong, talented team."

As the Hawks and the Warriors prepare for the upcoming league match and individual competitions at sections, there is a shared aspiration to refine their skills and achieve their personal and team goals. The efforts displayed by both squads highlight the commitment and dedication of the wrestlers and coaches, promising an exciting future for wrestling in the region.

With wrestling gaining a stronger foothold among female athletes, both schools are eager to keep building their programs, enhancing opportunities for young women to excel in the sport. As the season progresses, it will be exciting to watch these wrestling programs grow and thrive, fostering talent and sportsmanship in the local community. ★
