CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - For seven years, Dutch Bros Coffee and Sunrise Christian Food Ministry in Citrus Heights have partnered in a coffee lovers' community fundraiser every Valentine's Day, otherwise known as Dutch Luv Day

This year, owners of the six Citrus Heights Dutch Bros stores donated $1 for every drink purchased throughout the day on Feb. 14. Over the last seven years, the owners of these local franchises have

Drain After Rain to Prevent Mosquitoes

Sacramento-Yolo Mosquito and Vector Control District News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The recent rain has left behind stagnant water. Since temperatures are expected to increase over the next few days, this can create the perfect combination for mosquitoes to breed, according to the Sacramento-Yolo Mosquito and Vector Control District on Feb. 20.

The Sacramento-Yolo Mosquito and Vector Control District reminds the public to "drain after the rain" to prevent mosquitoes from breeding.

"Mosquitoes complete their life cycle much faster in warm weather. We encourage all residents to do their part and help us drain standing water from common backyard sources such as buckets, flowerpots, bird baths, old tires and other small containers that may breed mosquitoes. Eliminating mosquito breeding grounds now will significantly reduce their population later in the season," said district manager Gary Goodman.

This is particularly important for preventing the spread of invasive mosquitoes Aedes aegypti and Aedes albopictus, which continue to expand across both counties. Invasive mosquitoes are a public health threat because they are capable of transmitting debilitating diseases such as Zika, dengue and chikungunya. Invasive mosquitoes were detected for the first time within district boundaries in 2019 and since then have been spreading quickly.

As spring begins next month and warm, dry weather sets in, mosquitoes are likely to keep thriving. Although it's still early in the year, it's crucial for the public to stay protected against mosquitoes and diseases such as West Nile virus.

"The best protection against mosquitoes is to wear an effective repellent when spending time outdoors" Goodman said.

Sac State Recognized for High Research Activity

By Cynthia Hubert, Sacramento State University

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- Sacramento State University has joined a prestigious group of universities across the country that boast a significant commitment to research and scholarly activities.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has, for the first time, recognized Sacramento State University for its "high research activity" and number of awarded research doctoral degrees by designating the university as an R2 institution.

The recognition is a point of pride for the university, one that signals its ongoing commitment to scholarly work and that will help it attract and retain top faculty, provide students with valuable research opportunities and impact the larger community.

Research is nothing new at Sac State, which annually is awarded millions of dollars in funding for such projects. But in recent years, the university has increased the number of doctoral degrees necessary to earn the coveted Carnegie designation.

"In many ways, the R2 designation is a natural progression for us," said Lisa Hammersley, interim associate vice president for Research, Innovation, and Economic Development. "This is recognition of the level of scholarship that our faculty has engaged in for quite some time," she said. "I'm very excited about the designation."

President Luke Wood

said the recognition marks a "pivotal moment" for the University.

"It's a testament to the exceptional work of our faculty, students and staff who have taken our research and creative activities to new heights," Wood said. "Their dedication to engaging in critical research focused on solving real-world problems and to creating new knowledge has transformed our campus into a hub of innovation and discovery."

Carnegie classifies academic institutions as either R1, R2, or "Research Colleges and Universities" to illuminate the depth of their research footprints and resources.

Sac State has been classified in the R2 category, putting it among institutions that spend at least $5 million on research and development and produce at least 20 research doctorates in a single year.

In fiscal year 2023, Sac State University received $28 million in research funding and awarded 26 research doctorates. The university joins 138 other institutions, including 16 in California, that have achieved R2 status.

R1 institutions are those that spend at least $50 million on research and development and produce at least 70 research doctorates each year. The third category, where Sac State previously resided, focuses solely on research activity.

Even as it celebrates the milestone, however, Sac State will continue to prioritize teaching.

"We already have been recognized as a high-quality teaching institution," Hammersley said. "Our graduation rates have increased. We have a diverse student body with great support programs. We are a caring institution that supports mental health and wellness. Now we are being recognized for our research, which we really have been doing all along."

"It's all part of the student success story."

Students play an active role in many research programs at the University, allowing them to build their resumes while working on meaningful projects that benefit the region and beyond.

Among many examples, Chemistry Professor Katherine McReynolds and her students study agents capable of slowing the spread of deadly viruses. In collaboration with University of California, Davis, graduate students in biology are studying stem cells and their potential to treat and cure devastating illnesses including cancer. Psychology students led by Professor Erin Rose Ellison are working with elementary school children to research ideas for improving a creek that runs behind their campus.

The ability to engage in high-impact research at an institution that still prioritizes teaching can be attractive to prospective students who are considering where to attend college.

"The R2 designation beautifully complements Sacramento

State's longstanding reputation for teaching excellence," said Carlos Nevarez, interim provost and vice president of Academic Affairs.

"When our faculty engage in high-level research, it enriches the learning experience for our students, from undergraduates working alongside professors in laboratories to doctoral candidates developing groundbreaking research of their own. This synergy between teaching and scholarship creates a dynamic learning environment where students don't just learn about discoveries; they help make them."

The designation is a catalyst for advancing Sac State's fundamental commitments to student success; diversity, equity and inclusion; innovation and wellness, Nevarez said.

Practically speaking, Nevarez added, it opens doors to expanded funding opportunities, enhanced industry partnerships and deeper community engagement.

"This recognition will expand opportunities for our diverse student population to engage in meaningful research that addresses real community challenges," he said. "It strengthens our ability to support innovative research that promotes health equity, social justice and community well-being.

"Most importantly, it will help us create more inclusive pathways into research careers, ensuring that tomorrow's researchers and innovators will reflect the rich diversity of California," Nevarez said.

You'll feel like a pirate in no time.

DarkHeartOwners Rick and Cynthia Lee chose Valentine's Day, Feb. 14 to officially celebrate their official grand opening with a ribbon cutting ceremony, which was hosted by the Citrus Heights Chamber of Commerce.

An enthusiastic crowd of attendees and well-wishers included local police officers, city staff, and regional representatives from Sacramento County, the State Assembly and State Senate offices.

DarkHeart Brewery also had a soft opening just before Christmas, welcoming family and friends to the new brewery.

The Lees invite patrons to sample some of their 19 different beers on tap, all which are made in-house.

DarkHeart Brewing, which started serving pints in 2019, is well-known for its diverse range of brews.

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- A 45-pound (and growing fast) bundle of canine comfort has brought new confidence to Major Abri

Suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), the Air Force veteran ended a 10-year career in service last year.

During three Middle East deployments, Electronic Combat officer Green flew reconnaissance over enemy territory, often under missile attack. In an incident of engine failure, her team's E-3 jet plunged 10,000 feet in seconds. In a separate instance, onboard equipment caught fire and filled the plane with smoke.

"We were scrambling to get on oxygen with our eyes burning," Green recalled. "Luckily, airmen were able to put out the fire. But it was terrifying."

Aged 32, Major Green was honorably discharged last year. But PTSD stalled her hopes for a civilian

"I had anxiety and trouble sleeping," said the Natomas resident. "I'd sweat and fidget with my hands. I was paranoid and stressed. All I could do was find a dark spot and stay there."

Living with her Air Force Veteran mother provided emotional support. Thanks to mother Janet Green's intervention,

In December, Green met her newly-weaned chum at Crème Brulee Goldens (retriever breeders) in Roseville (Placer County).

"He just rolled over in my arms," Green grinned. "One cuddle and I was in love."

A week later, Green took him home.

"With all that white fur, the puppy looked like a ball of cookie dough," said his new boss. "We decided to call him Biscuit."

For now, Biscuit is a high-octane handful. Over coming months and years, he'll be trained by a service-dog specialist at All-Stage Canine Development. Operated by former Carmichael Honorary Mayor Miranda Viani, the Citrus Heights facility welcomes his weekly visits. Through a $5,000 donation, RRUFF sponsors the lessons.

"We've trained dogs to help with PTSD before,"

Biscuit will learn to recognize and interrupt

Green's anxiety attacks. "He'll respond with deep pressure," explained All Stage Canine trainer Unee Cardenas. "He's a living weighted blanket. He'll re-set Abri's nervous system and make sure her attacks don't escalate." Reported Green: "He's helping me live a better life and regain my independence. None of this would be possible without the help we've got from RRUFF."

The veteran has been accepted to study law at University of California, Davis this fall.

"Biscuit will go with me to school," Green said. "He'll love the library. He can sleep while I feel safe and secure to get on with my studies. We'll go hiking and take my kayak out on Lake Folsom. We'll have a great life together."

Drumming Up History

By Susan Maxwell Skinner

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Musician and community activist Martin Ross marked Black History Month (February) with a presentation detailing the evolution of Black percussion at Carmichael's Albert Schweitzer Elementary School.

Hauling his steel drums to the class of teacher Suzanne Anderson, Ross (55) faced fourth- to sixth-graders. His tutorial demonstrated African polyrhythm and its eventual collision with European music.

"The kids and I were able to conclude that sometimes, out of difficult circumstances, beautiful things arise," Ross said. "They danced, they played instruments and we all had fun. We agreed that sharing love is the best way forward for everyone."

Ross, a former Salvation Army pastor who uses music and sports to reach children, was recently listed among the 20 "Top Black Changemakers" for Sacramento.

He first heard steel drums while studying at University of California, Berkeley.

"The musicians told me what their instruments were," Ross said. "I loved the joyous sound. Next semester, I joined them."

In the Salvation Army, Ross got 10,000 hours of steel drum practice while collecting outside stores at Christmas.

"Music's done so much good in my life and career," Ross said. "I've used it in tutoring, particularly with kids from underserved areas. The steel drum's festive sound crosses many cultures. When I'm playing, I feel I'm connecting with everyone.'

Ross is now an executive for the nonprofit Health Education Council. He sits on the Carmichael Park District board; chairs Sacramento County's Equal Employment Opportunity Advisory Committee and is a Sacramento Housing and Redevelopment Agency commissioner. The six-foot-plus taekwondo black belt teaches martial arts to youth and has coached basketball, track and race-walking.

His Schweitzer School workshop was presented by the Carmichael Kiwanis' K-Kids group and club Treasurer Wayne Lang, as part of Black History Month programs.

Ross also told students about his uncle, Warner Freeman, who helped the integration of high schools with the historic "Little Rock 9" effort during the 1950s.

"Uncle Warner is a proud part of my family and an inspiration," Ross said. "Like me, he was a musician. He played classical guitar and sometimes jammed with Bob Dylan and Joan Baez. He also taught martial arts. He knew all along that he wanted to teach."

"The arts and sports create a sense of belonging for some kids who don't do so well academically," Ross continued. "Both are additional motivations for kids to stay in school and graduate."

Shelf-Ready ADU Plans Welcomed

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - On a roughly one-acre property in rural northern Sacramento County, Rick Field is one of the first county residents to build an Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) using the county's shelf-ready plans.

Sacramento County's new shelf-ready Accessory Dwelling Unit plans have been met with enthusiasm from residents in the unincorporated areas, with the first units already in the construction phase. The program, which offers free, pre-approved detached Accessory Dwelling Unit plans, has made the process of adding secondary housing units more affordable and efficient for homeowners.

The plans, which adhere to the 2022 Residential Building Code and have received prior approval from the county's Building Permits and Inspection Division, speed up the permitting time frame and remove the added expense of having a full set of drawings prepared for a permit. By providing ready-to-use designs, Sacramento County is significantly reducing permitting times and saving homeowners thousands of dollars in architectural and engineering costs.

"We've recently set a goal to make Sacramento County the best place to build in the region, and these shelf-ready ADU plans are one way of the ways we are doing just that," said Troy Givans, Community Development director. "We are thrilled that these plans have been so well-received by our residents. So far, 15 residents have submitted site plans for their ADUs."

The available plans include two 460-square-foot studio/one-bedroom units, an 870-square-foot two-bedroom unit, a 1,000-square-foot two-bedroom unit and a 1,184-square-foot three-bedroom unit.

To use these plans, applicants must submit a site plan to indicate where on their property the Accessory Dwelling Unit will be placed. While modifications to the pre-approved designs are not permitted, their variety and thoughtful layouts cater to a wide range

These plans might not work on all parcels within the unincorporated county due to setback and firewall requirements but they should work with most.

Since the launch of the shelf-ready Accessory Dwelling Unit program, residents have responded positively, taking advantage of the cost savings and streamlined approval process. Many homeowners see these Accessory Dwelling Units as a practical solution to housing needs, whether for extended family members, rental income or downsizing while remaining on their property.

One of those residents is Rick Field, the second customer to use Sacramento County's shelf-ready Accessory Dwelling Unit plans.

"We decided to build an Accessory Dwelling Unit about a year ago," Field said. "We saw that some other counties had ADU plans available and were on the lookout for plans from Sacramento County."

Field applied for his Accessory Dwelling Unit in October 2024 and is currently in the construction phase. Although he had hoped for completion in March, some delays have pushed the timeline to April. Despite this, he remains enthusiastic about the program and its

"The hardest part was getting the site plan drafted. Once that was done, I had the permit within about a week or two," Field said. "I'm all for these plans. Nothing's perfect in its first draft but these plans are good."

Field also praised the responsiveness of the permit department and the continuity of inspections, noting that having the same inspector throughout the process was a huge benefit.

"The Building Permit division has been very responsive. I've had an inspector come out and issue a correction ticket and the same guy came out to re-inspect," Field said. "The continuity was great! Overall, I've been very happy with the process and department."

Living on just under an acre of land, Field saw the Accessory Dwelling Unit as a great way to utilize previously unused space. He plans to rent out the unit, once it's completed, adding valuable housing to the community.

With interest growing and the first projects moving toward completion, Sacramento County's initiative is proving to be an effective strategy for expanding housing options in

Kings Korner By V.G. Harris

The stretch drive has begun in earnest and the new version of the Sacramento Kings is front and center. Take a long look, because what you see assembled is largely what you'll see for the remainder of the season.

The question on the minds of every fan is whether we are better or worse after the consummation of the DeAaron

Many fans and pundits have focused on DeAaron's attributes as a scorer and distributor, but many never gave him credit for being the defender that he is. Already the Kings are having difficulty replacing Fox on the offensive end, and turnovers are markedly up since his departure.

This is partly due to players taking on new roles, and Malik Monk has struggled to some degree moving from his natural position as a 2-guard to running the point. Part of the problem is the increased energy it takes to be the primary ball handler and distributor on offense. Malik is capable of running the point, but with the addition of Markelle Fultz, and rookie Devin Carter coming off the bench, it may be possible for Malik to assume his natural place as the 2-guard.

Without question Fultz is a mystery, but a fully healthy Markelle Fultz may surprise Kings fans, and perhaps make people remember that he was the overall No.1 pick in the 2017 draft. Yes, the very same draft in which the Sacramento Kings drafted DeAaron Fox in the fifth spot.

No one wants to hear that this new assembly needs time to gel, but in reality, it will take several games before coach Christie will have a better understanding of his new talent.

So, with less than 30 games to go, and every game becoming more and more meaningful, what are the keys to Kings making the playoffs this year.

No. 1, know the talent on your team. Sounds simple, but are the right players coming off the bench every game?

Newcomer Jake LaRavia has been eating up minutes but has had little to show. In the game against the Warriors LaRavia clocked 16 minutes and scored 0 points and 0 assists. That simply can't happen. At 6'7" Jake is another tweener, and what the Kings need is someone to compliment Domantas Sabonis with post defense and rebounding help.

Sitting idly on the bench is 6'9" Isaac Jones, who at 245 pounds has a wing span of 7'3". Just in his rookie season, the Kings have yet to fully see what Jones can bring to the table. When sent to G-league he played like a man among boys, but coach Christie has been reluctant to give this big man any meaningful

This writer would much rather see an athletic Isaac Jones logging minutes than Jake LaRavia, who is largely just taking

It's time to stop experimenting and stick with a rotation that can produce on both ends of the floor.

Although it's early, I believe newcomer Markelle Fultz can run the point and allow Malik to fill the 2-guard spot where he's more comfortable.

The 2nd key to making the playoffs is that individual players need to step up and play the way they can play. We have yet to see the best of Zach LaVine, and not to be left out, Keegan Murray simply needs to shoot the ball better. We know he's capable, but his lack of consistent offense leaves us wondering what's wrong. Murray needs to look for his shot and not fear shooting it.

Monday night's game against the Charlotte Hornets will give fans a better barometer as to where the Kings are, but without a doubt, LaVine and Murray are key players that can make an appreciable difference, and I want to see both of these players step up and make

Keep your eye on bench rotations, and especially who is bringing the ball downcourt. I'm a huge fan of Malik Monk, but I want to see him used where he benefits the team the most.

Stay tuned Kings fans. A lot can happen in a ten-game stretch, so let's see where we are after the next 10 games.

All the best!

Social Security Matters

Can I Get Extra Social Security for my Military Service?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: Please help. I served from 1964 to 1966 in the US Army. I have been trying to contact Social Security in order to request extra benefits for veterans. The telephone is a recording, and you never get to speak to anyone. The web site at www.ssa.gov is useless to me. I went to the SS office and there was a huge line outdoors in the freezing cold. I am disabled and cannot stand on a line in this cold. Please advise me about my options. Financially, is it worth the trouble? Signed: Disabled American Veteran

Dear Disabled Veteran: My profound thanks for your service to our country. FYI, the "special extra credit for military service" you refer to does not provide an incremental Social Security benefit amount for military veterans. Rather, it adds an additional amount to your recording earnings for the years you served, which may - or may not - affect your Social Security benefit. FYI, I've written numerous articles on this topic, one of which you can read at this link: www.socialsecurityreport.org/ ask-rusty-older-veteran-asks-about-special-social-security-credit-for-military-service/.

In your case (serving between 1964 and 1966), if you told Social Security of your military service when you applied for benefits (or gave them a copy of your DD-214), they would have added up to $1,200 per year to your recorded military pay record (FYI, those who served after 1967 were automatically given earnings credit for their military service years). However, whether those special extra credits would affect your SS benefit depends on what your lifetime earnings record was when you later claimed SS. When you applied for benefits, Social Security reviewed your lifetime earnings record and used the highest earning 35 years of earnings over your lifetime (adjusted for inflation) to calculate your "Primary Insurance Amount" (or "PIA," which is what you get if you claim benefits to start at your SS full retirement age. If, after your military service, you had 35 or more years of earnings which were higher than what you earned while serving, Social Security would have used those later higher earnings to calculate your benefit, and your military earnings wouldn't affect your benefit. If, however, any of your military earnings (including the "special extra credits") were among the highest over your lifetime, then those higher military earnings would be included when calculating your benefit. So, whether you will benefit from these "special extra credits for military service" depends largely on your post-service earnings history. If your military earnings were among the highest earning years over your lifetime, and you provided SSA with a copy of your DD-214 when you applied for Social Security, then your current SS benefit already includes consideration of your military service. Social Security should have asked about your military service when you applied. If you didn't advise SS of your military service when you applied for Social Security, or if you aren't sure, you should contact the SSA at 1.800.772.1213 and ask if you were given those "special extra credits for military service" when you applied. However, if you had at least 35 years of higher earnings after you left military service, your current SS benefit is already based on those later higher earning years, and you will not get anything additional from those "special extra credits" for your military service years. FYI, we know it is often difficult to contact the Social Security Administration by phone, as well as trying to visit SSA offices without an appointment (which is why our AMAC Foundation provides this free service). SSA is now allowing in-person visits "by appointment only" and you can call the above number to schedule an in-person appointment at your local SSA office. But before you do, please consider what I've said above. And remember that your SS benefit is based on the highest earning 35 years over your entire lifetime and each year represents only 1/35th of your benefit amount. So, is it worth the trouble? That depends on whether your military earnings, including the "special extra credits for military service," are among the highest over your entire lifetime. If the answer is "yes" then it is likely worth it; if

"no" then perhaps not. This article is intended for information purposes only and does not represent legal or financial guidance.

Los Angeles Wildfires Intensify Political Jousting Over Home Insurance Premiums

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

The timing could not have been better — or worse.

The horrendously destructive and deadly Los Angeles wildfires erupted in January just as Insurance Commissioner Ricardo Lara's historic and very controversial overhaul of how insurers calculate premiums was taking

On one hand, the disaster drove home the insurance industry's contention that California's propensity for such catastrophes creates immense potential losses that cannot be profitably insured without changes in the rate-making system.

However as fire victims inundated insurers with claims, Lara faced pressure to crack down on companies that minimized or delayed settlement payments. Meanwhile, his critics accuse him of being too cozy with the industry he regulates, as a Los Angeles Times article detailed this

It is, to put it mildly, a yeasty situation.

Lara, a former state legislator who was elected as insurance commissioner in 2018, began drafting his new regulatory plan in response to decisions by major insurers to cut back on policies in California — or even leave the state altogether — because of seemingly endless waves of destructive wildfires.

They contended that arising from the disaster California's long-standing system for calculating premiums, basing them on past experiences, was inadequate. They wanted to include estimates of future exposure, and the costs of obtaining reinsurance to ease their losses, in the Lara incorporated those changes in his plan, but only if insurers were more willing to write policies in fire-prone regions.

"Giving people more choices to protect themselves is how we will solve California's insurance crisis," Lara said as he released details of the plan. "For the first time in history we are requiring insurance companies to expand where people need help the most. With our changing climate we can no longer look to the past. We are being innovative and forward-looking to protect Californians' access to insurance."

It drew sharp criticism from Consumer Watchdog, the Southern California organization that wrote the 1988 ballot measure making the insurance commissioner's position elective and increasing regulatory powers. The group had been sniping at Lara ever since his election, accusing him of taking campaign money from insurers and not aggressively overseeing their operations.

The group had benefited handsomely from "intervenor fees" in rate-making cases awarded by previous commissioners. Lara has been less generous, although the organization got $643,530 in 2024, 100% of the year's awards.

The Los Angeles fires have forced Lara to juggle his longterm efforts to stabilize the insurance market with immediate responses to issues

Lara authorized insurers to impose assessments on their policyholders to shore up the shaky finances of California's FAIR plan, a last-ditch system that covers property owners unable to get coverage from the regular market that has seen a huge increase in applications. However, he refused to immediately approve a request by State Farm, California's largest insurer, for a 22% emergency rate hike, saying the company had to prove a need. If nothing else, the Los Angeles fires underscored the absolutely vital role of a healthy insurance market – not only in protecting the investments that Californians have in their homes and businesses, but as a key component in buying and selling of real estate. Lenders simply will not issue mortgages for property that is uninsured.

The insurance commissioner must, of course, protect the interests of consumers, but one of those interests is a healthy insurance market, and a parallel duty is making insurance profitable enough to keep insurers willing to do business in California.

Whether Lara's rate-making overhaul will fulfill both of those imperatives remains uncertain. He at least deserves credit for trying to fix a dysfunctional system after the Legislature and Gov. Gavin Newsom bowed out and gave him the task.

New Regulations for Sidewalk Vendors

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) -

The Sacramento County Board of Supervisors voted on Feb. 4 to approve new ordinances to better regulate sidewalk vending in the unincorporated parts of the county, aiming to enhance public health, safety and compliance. These rules will take effect in March.

These ordinances were introduced in response to the significant rise in sidewalk vending following the enactment of Senate Bill 946 in 2019 and Senate Bill 972 in 2023. While these state laws decriminalized sidewalk vending and eased compliance requirements for mobile food vendors, Sacramento County has faced increasing challenges related to vendor compliance and enforcement.

The newly-adopted ordinances introduce specific permitting and operational guidelines. The Department of Finance will oversee the issuance of sidewalk vending business licenses in the county's unincorporated areas and will work with other county departments to ensure that vendors adhere to business licensing requirements, and avoid restricted locations such as school zones, bike paths and emergency facilities. Vendors must also comply with federal Americans with Disabilities Act regulations and local health codes. A one-year sidewalk vending license will cost $61.

Additionally, Environmental Management Department has set new standards for compact mobile food operations, including permitting, sanitation, temperature control and approved commissary use. These regulations will apply countywide, including in the incorporated cities. It's important to note that these rules apply to compact mobile food operations, not mobile food trucks.

These new regulations do not apply to vending on private property. However, the county is looking into ordinances that address this issue.

In Sacramento County Regional Parks, sidewalk vending will be restricted to designated areas and times to preserve public access to natural and recreational resources. A Request for Proposal process is being developed for concession agreements for stationary vending. Stationary vending will be limited in parks where exclusive concession agreements exist. Park Rangers will be authorized to enforce these regulations, ensuring vendors operate in compliance with county codes. To ease the transition, the county will initially focus on education, partnering with the Office of Economic Development, Code Enforcement, Park Rangers and the Sheriff's Office to inform vendors about the new rules. Two public information sessions were held in January to educate vendors and stakeholders on the upcoming changes. As these new regulations take effect in March, Sacramento County aims to create a balanced approach that supports small businesses while maintaining public safety and order.

Dutch Luv Day Fundraiser a Success

Continued from page 1 across the country. Giving back to the communities being served is part of what Dutch Bros has always been, according to a team of volunteers from the Citrus Heights stores.

The Dutch Bros. volunteers arrived early at Sunrise Christian Food Ministry on Feb. 11 to work alongside Sunrise Christian Food Ministry volunteers, unpacking, sorting and loading groceries into guest's vehicles. The Dutch Bros. volunteers also arrived on the following Tuesday, Feb. 18, ready to work.

The Dutch Bros. volunteers worked at the food ministry for a special project in 2023. They created a 20-by-25 concrete slab for a much-needed outdoor-covered nonperishable food and supply storage area and spent hours moving massive storage containers, removing large amounts of dirt and gravel, and leveling the area for the new cement.

It is not common knowledge that reaching Sunrise Christian Food Ministry's annual budget of $250,000 is dependent on grants and donations, according to Jacek.

"Dutch Bros' annual fundraiser and support couldn't come at a more perfect time," Jacek said. "February sits in between two grant cycles and what would normally be a time where we would have to cut back on spending, thanks to Dutch Luv Day, we can continue caring for our community without skipping a beat. What a blessing."

According to Dutch Bros. team managers Ryan Rafferty and Naum Josan, Dutch Bros. pushes employees to give back and have fundraisers.

"Our owners are very present and influential, teaching us qualities we are open to, to learn how to do this work," Rafferty and Josan said. "We're very aware of the impact we make in the community through philanthropy and volunteer work. We want to give back and contribute and leave a legacy without self-recognition. It's about the product, giving food and some simplicities of life that make living every day a little easier."

Stephanie Cotton, also a team manager, agreed with

"It's fun to work with the community and give back," Cotton said. "Normally, we're just serving coffee but now we get to serve food and smiles to people who need them."

For more information on volunteering and making donations to help with food insecurity in the area, visit online www.sunrisechristianfoodministry.org.

Sunrise Christian Food Ministry's distribution hours are Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays starting at 11 a.m. for guests 60 and older, disabled and homeless, and at noon for those under 60. Distribution ends at 1:30 p.m. Food distribution is from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday nights.

My Tok Doesn't Always Tik

Dr. James L. Snyder

Throughout my life, I have always lived on a schedule. Every day is devoted to certain tasks, and it has worked for me

I know what day it is by what I am doing that day.

I am often impressed by my wife's ability to multitask. She can do a dozen things at once and get them accomplished the way they are supposed to be, but I have a hard time knowing what she is doing at any given time.

I plan my week in a very precise routine. I can only do one thing at a time, which must be on my schedule.

Unfortunately, my schedule has been interrupted. I spent five days in the hospital and then over two weeks in bed recuperating from my health problem.

Being in the hospital is a very boring time. There is not much I can do because I have medical personnel coming in and out poking me with needles and all sorts of things. Just when I think I'm asleep someone comes.

Some even came in around 3 a.m., and unfortunately, I was not sleeping because how in the world can you sleep in a hospital with such a routine?

I never knew what day it was and was so very confused. One day was just like the other, and I was not getting anything done.

Now, I'm trying to get back on schedule. Boy, is this difficult. I guess it's because of my age I can't begin to pull everything back together again as quickly as I need to.

I remember asking The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage one day, "What day is it today?"

Looking at me with one of her grimaces, she said, "What day would you like it to be?" Then she laughed and walked away.

I spent one whole day going through four years of journals to figure out what I was doing each day. I carefully made notes and began understanding what I was doing Monday through Friday.

One morning, I got up and walked out to the kitchen, where The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage was preparing breakfast. She looked at me and said, "So, what day is it for you?"

Looking at her I said, "Today is National Apple Fritter Day.'

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage brought my breakfast and a nice hot cup of coffee. Before walking away, she said, "Today is Wednesday, and it's the day you do your radio work." Then she went back into the kitchen. Aha. That will solve my problem for today. I'll spend the morning doing my radio programs for the week. I was kind of happy to hear that. Now I know how I will spend the day.

Often, I think about what it would be like to multitask and juggle hundreds of tasks at the same time. I wonder how much I could get done if I could do that. My Tok needs to Tik on time everyday.

Getting back to my regular schedule is a very relaxing thing for me.

I thought of a verse of scripture along this line. Ephesians 5:15-16, "See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, Redeeming the time, because the days are evil."

Although the days are evil, each day I need to walk exactly in a way that honors God.

River Cats Announce 2025 Coaching Staff

Sacramento River Cats News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento River Cats, proud Triple-A affiliate of the San Francisco Giants, have announced their full coaching staff for the 2025 campaign.

Returning in 2025 are four of Sacramento's five on-field coaches from last season, Manager Dave Brundage, Pitching Coach Alain Quijano, Fundamentals Coach Jolbert Cabrera and Assistant Hitting Coach

Robert Riggins. They will be joined by P.J. Pilittere, who will serve as Sacramento's new hitting coach. Other returning names include Brian Reinker (trainer), Chris Walsh (trainer), and Emmanuel Gaspard (home clubhouse manager), while new to the staff this year is Chris Harms (strength & conditioning coach) and Nick Solitario (player development associate). Brundage returns for his ninth year at the helm of the River Cats, first assuming the role prior to the 2017 campaign. In his seven seasons (no season in 2020), Brundage has amassed a 460-535 (.462) record, including a magical 2019 season in which Sacramento won 73 contests and were both Pacific Coast League and Triple-A champions.

In 2024 Brundage guided the River Cats to an overall record of 80-70, his most wins in a single year with Sacramento. Currently, Brundage has totaled the second-most managerial wins in Sacramento franchise history, trailing only the 578 of Tony DeFrancesco (2003-07, 2009-10).

Cabrera prepares for his ninth season in the Giants' organization, the sixth as fundamentals coach of the River Cats after assuming the role in time for Sacramento's championship 2019 season. Twice Cabrera has helped the team set franchise records, tying the mark for fewest errors committed in 2021 (103) before rewriting it in 2024 (98).

Ouijano returns to Sacramento for his second season, his fifth total in the San Francisco organization after spending his first three as pitching coach with the Eugene Emeralds. Under his tutelage, the River Cats recorded 80 wins for the first time since 2012 and pitched their most innings in Sacramento franchise history

(1,326.0). Additionally, the 1,460 strikeouts totaled were the second most in franchise history, while the .258 opponent batting average tion after also serving as the hitting coach/strategist for the DSL Giants Black from 2022-23. Alongside former River Cats hitting coach Damon Minor, Riggins helped mentor the team to their best batting average (.265) since 2021 with the most at-bats as a team in Sacramento franchise history. The 837 runs scored last year by the River Cats were the fourthmost in franchise history, as were the 689

Pilittere joins the San Francisco organization and the River Cats for his first season, most recently spending time as the assistant hitting coach for the Colorado Rockies for the 2022-2024 seasons. For all three seasons under Pilittere, the Rockies finished top five in the National League for doubles, and last season finished seventh in the N.L. in triples. Prior to his stop with Colorado, Pilittere worked the 2018-21 seasons with the New York Yankees, making the playoffs in all four seasons while twice coaching in the ALCS.

The season begins on March 23 when the River Cats battle their parent affiliate in The 2025 Exhibition Game presented by Sky River Casino. A full season schedule is available online at www.rivercats. com, with game dates and times subject to change. Tickets and ticket memberships are currently available by calling a Sutter Health Park ticket representative at (916) 371-HITS (4487), or by visiting www.rivercats.com/tickets.

Sac State Mourns Longtime Coach

Sacramento State University News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) -

Sacramento State University is saddened to announce the passing of former Hornet gymnastics coach Randy Solorio following a lengthy battle with cancer. He was 63 vears old.

A fixture on the Sacramento State campus for nearly 40 years, Solorio served as an assistant coach, head coach and kinesiology instructor since 1986.

"The man loved Sac State, this was his home, and his family," current head coach Melissa Genovese said. "Randy's impact goes far beyond the gymnastics floor. Some could argue his ballroom dance class was the most popular class on campus. You couldn't go anywhere on campus without someone knowing Randy. His personality and love of life was contagious, and he always looked at the positive side of everything. That outlook and his years of dedication had a profound impact on Sac State gymnastics and every person he met."

Solorio was the head coach of the Hornets from 2016-23. His first season at the helm saw Sacramento State win the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation championship and saw four Hornet gymnasts advance to the NCAA West Regional. That season, the team posted three top 10 overall scores, including the two best scores in school history. His teams went on to add three more top 10 marks and account for over half of the top totals in program history.

Following his retirement, Solorio remained close to the program, frequently stopping by practice and serving as an analyst for the team's video streams of home meets. One of his largest contributions to Sacramento State gymnastics came to fruition this past summer when the team moved into its new training facility. Solorio was instrumental in the creation and design of the facility and worked closely with University Enterprises Inc., from a dream to completion.

"This is a sad day for Sacramento State and we are mourning with his family and loved ones," Director of Athletics Mark Orr said. "Randy was a beloved member of the campus and left a positive impact on countless people. He dedicated a large portion of his life to the University and his legacy will carry on through the hundreds of student-athletes he coached and the staff that

Outside of gymnastics, Solorio taught ballroom dancing and weightlifting classes for the kinesiology department and was also a member of the UEI board.
