SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Almost 45 years after blast off, the Aerospace Museum of California last week celebrated 18 years as a self-supporting entity at the former McClellan Air Force Base.

Almost 80 supporters applauded $500,000 in fundraising and the appointment a new emeritus board member. Aviation company founder Clay Lacy will chair the museum's 2025 board of emeritus trustees. The 92-year-old flight pioneer was presented with a crystal airplane trophy by one of the museum's youngest supporters, Caden Mara, 9. A center of STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math education), Aerospace Museum of California also awarded scholarships for aspiring pilots. Three young men each received $12,500 toward acquiring private pilot licenses. The future

RIO LINDA, CA (MPG) - For residents of the Rio Linda area, a craving for sushi used to mean having to make a 15-to-20-minute drive to neighboring cities. Now, since Ginza Sushi and Grill opened two months ago, locals can enjoy fresh and quality Japanese food without having to go too far. The new sushi restaurant is located between Elkhorn and Rio Linda Boulevard, in the same shopping plaza as Food 4 Less. Walking inside, the modern décor with elements of Japanese designs gives the restaurant a classy, yet relaxing atmosphere. It is a great spot to grab a quick bite for lunch or for a nice dinner.

There are happy hour specials every day, starting when the restaurant opens at 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. Deals during this time include the sushi bar with $5 rolls such as the California Roll, Spicy

Tuna Roll, Ocean Crunch, Bomb Roll and Super-Hot Roll. Items such as chicken karage (Japanese fried chicken), gyozas, sesame chicken and teriyaki, katsu and tonkatsu (fried pork) are also $5 between those hours. If it is your birthday, Ginza Sushi and Grill offers a 15% discount on your meal (must show valid identification for verification). Cooks Efrain and Joel work alongside owner and chief Sean Mi. They said that so far, business has been doing good for the restaurant since it opened its doors. "It has been really good for us since we opened two months ago," Efrain said. Temporarily Out of Town? Your Vote Stays Home

Sacramento County
News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Did you know that while all voters must be registered where they live, some voters might also have out-of-state mailing addresses? We know this might sound a little confusing but it's actually quite simple, so let's break it down. What this means is that a voter who permanently resides in Sacramento County might choose to receive their election ballot, voter information guide and other materials at an address that is not their registered residence. There are many reasons that a voter might need to use an out-of-state mailing address to receive their election material. This includes students attending college, workers on an extended work assignment, retirees enjoying a seasonal trip and/or voters temporarily caring for an out-of-county family member. Voters who find themselves out of state unexpectedly or on short notice during an election could also request a one-time mailing address to receive their ballot at their temporary location. To maintain an accurate voter file, Voter Registration and Elections (VRE) reviews the voter file for out-of-state mailing addresses after each general election. This month, Voter Registration and Elections will send a letter to every voter with an out-of-state mailing address. This letter gives them the opportunity to let us know whether their out-of-state mailing address is correct, and they would like to maintain their Sacramento County voter registration; if they would like to update their voter registration (residential) address; or if they have registered or plan to register to vote in a different state and wish to cancel their Sacramento County voter registration. We use the information from the responses to these letters to ensure that our voter file is as accurate and up to date as possible. For more information on Voter File Maintenance, visit elections.sacounty.gov/ElectionInformation/Pages/Voter-File-Maintenance.aspx A voter can add or remove a mailing address by calling Voter

Disappointment Surrounds Elk Grove Zoo Project Cancelation

By Sean P. Thomas

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - A highly anticipated plan to relocate the Sacramento Zoo to Elk Grove has been shelved, prompting disappointment among city leaders and residents who had hoped the $300-million project would bring economic and cultural benefits to Elk Grove.

The Sacramento Zoological Society announced last week it would not move forward with the relocation citing concerns over the financial viability of the project. The decision ends a multi-year partnership with the City of Elk Grove, which had already invested approximately $4.5 million into land acquisition and planning for the project, according to city officials.

“It was disappointing. There’s no other way to say it,” Elk Grove Councilmember Rod Brewer said. “We enthusiastically supported the project and had been working to excite the public on bringing the zoo to Elk Grove. Even with some of the rumors and financial uncertainty, I didn’t expect this outcome.”

The proposed relocation was intended to address major challenges faced by the Sacramento Zoo at its current 14-acre site in William Land Park. The Elk Grove plan included a phased buildout on a 65-acre portion of a 100-acre parcel the city had purchased specifically for the project on Kammerer Road.

Phase one alone would have spanned 28 acres, about already twice the size of the existing zoo, and featured large, open habitats including a savannah exhibit with multiple species such as giraffes, ostriches, antelopes, and a full pride of lions.

“The current zoo only has one rhinoceros. The new zoo would have had as many as six, all in a shared environment,” Brewer said. “This was going to be an entirely different level of experience.”

The new facility would have also expanded conservation efforts and created more immersive visitor experiences. It was expected to draw as many as one million in annual visitors and $249 million in economic impact in its first five years of operation, according to Elk Grove officials.

In a news release, Mayor Bobbie Singh-Allen called the decision to shutter the zoo move as “disappointing.”

“This is a deeply disappointing outcome for all of us who believed in the vision for the zoo and what it could have meant for our community and the region,” Singh-Allen said.

Despite Elk Grove fulfilling its obligations under the cost-sharing agreement and drawing up preliminary designs, the zoo ultimately chose to recommit to its Sacramento location. Officials from the Sacramento Zoological Society cited slow fundraising progress and financial instability as primary factors in pulling out of the deal.

The Zoological Society had raised $17.5 million in pledges, only $1.9 million of which was actual cash on hand. The Zoological Society was supposed to raise $50 million in actual cash donations before the shovels went into the ground in 2027. The $1.9 million in cash that was received by the city already will be returned to the Zoological society who will then return it to the donors.

“When both of those things didn’t mesh, I definitely understand why they walked away,” Brewer said.

Elk Grove leaders made clear that the decision was not theirs and emphasized their readiness to continue the partnership if the situation changed.

“They decided to pull back. We didn’t say, ‘Don’t ever come back,’” Councilmember Darren Suen said. “If they wanted to talk about it again, or if someone else wanted to re-engage, we wouldn’t turn them away.”

Though disappointed, both Brewer and Suen remained optimistic. The land acquired for the project remains untouched, and its value has increased, Brewer said, and could yield returns if the land is sold or repurposed.

Both viewed the zoo’s departure as a potential opportunity to pursue other developments or revisit the zoo project in the future if leadership changes. Zoo Director Jason Jacobs, a key figure in the partnership, left the post in October. Interim CEO, Robert Churchill has been in the seat since.

“We weren’t just taking a calculated risk on a civic amenity. We were trying to sustain something iconic for the region,” Suen said. “Sometimes things don’t work out, but the plans are still there. If the climate changes, we can dust them off.”

Many Elk Grove residents had looked forward to the zoo as a positive addition to the community. The city’s desire for more regional attractions made the zoo plan particularly appealing.

Outside of Safeway at the corner of Laguna and Franklin Boulevard, several residents voiced disappointment with the projects demise.

Bruce Wallace, another resident, echoed the sentiment: “It would have been a lot of jobs for Elk Grove. It’s a shame it fell apart.”

Others were more measured in their reaction.

“I know a lot of people were looking forward to it moving here, but yeah, it’s not the worst thing that it’s not,” said Mark Cramer, also of Elk Grove. “The cost was always a problem for me and I’ve talked to a few people that were unsure of the traffic it might add.”

Still, Elk Grove city officials stressed that they’ve learned from the experience and will remain focused on bringing a similar project to Elk Grove.

“We weren’t trying to swing for the fences or grab the spotlight,” Suen said. “We analyzed the zoo opportunity like we do every other project, with our residents in mind. That will always be our focus.”

While the zoo won’t be coming to Elk Grove, councilmembers highlighted ongoing efforts to develop other projects and amenities in the city.

“The desire to bring attractions and amenities that families and individuals can enjoy hasn’t changed,” Brewer said. “We’re going to keep our options open. We’re not in a hurry and we’re certainly not desperate.” ★

“These scholarships are life-changing,” said Aerospace Museum of California advancement Vice-President Karen Jones. “We award them to young people who demonstrate outstanding passion for aviation.”
Funds raised by the gala will boost Aerospace Museum of California’s continuing STEM education programs. Donations also sponsor traveling displays. The upcoming ‘Snoopy and the Red Baron’ exhibit, on loan from the Charles M Schulz Museum in Santa Rosa, does not cost peanuts. Acquisition of rare aviation artifacts is also enabled by supporter gifts.

Gala sponsors included McClellan Park, Safe Credit Union, Sacramento County Department of Airports, Sacramento County Board of Supervisors, Ellsworth Hovey Gretchell Foundation and many private donors. ★

cuisine, with a focus on sushi...We have a great variety of plates such as ramen, entrees like chicken teriyaki, chief’s special plates of sashimi, raw fish, nigiri.”
Chief Mi got started in the sushi industry ten years ago and had accumulated a lot of experience managing a restaurant having previously ran two. His business partner and head of the kitchen, Jhonny, has more than ten years of catering entrepreneurship experience.

“When we investigated the Rio Linda community, we were surprised to find that although there were many fast-food restaurants here, there was a lack of a formal Japanese restaurant. This discovery made us very excited,” said Mi. “We want to bring the most authentic and delicious sushi experience to the residents of Rio Linda at the most affordable price.”

Mi also explained how the opening of this restaurant is not just a business venture, but a “special gift we want to bring to this community, so that everyone can enjoy the exquisite taste of high-end Japanese food at an affordable price.”

The restaurant was featured by the Rio Linda Chamber of Commerce’s monthly newsletter for April, stating that it is “a perfect blend of great food, great prices and comfort.”

Residents that have stopped by for a meal enjoyed the service and ambiance of Ginza Sushi and Grill.

“We enjoyed a nice dinner with perfect service and delicious food”

The new sushi restaurant, Ginza Sushi and Grill, is located between Elkhorn and Rio Linda Boulevard in the same shopping plaza as Food 4 Less.

said Sacramento resident Adriana De la Cruz. “We had the stuffed mushrooms, Jackpot Roll, Mini Diamond Roll and White Dragon. All were amazing! Prices are affordable, and I love the dining room.”

De la Cruz shared that she has dined at and ordered take out from Ginza Sushi and Grill at least eight or nine times already. The restaurant is only a five-minute drive from her residence in the Robla neighborhood, located just outside of Rio Linda.

Chief Mi emphasized that whether you are new to Japanese food or a seasoned sushi lover, their menu has a wide range of options for beginner and advanced tastes.
“Whether it’s the dishes produced at the sushi bar or in the kitchen, we strive to make every customer leave satisfied,” said Mi. “After all, our philosophy is ‘Easy for beginners to get started, so that experts can enjoy it!’” ★

Tariffs Prompt Farmers to Shore Up Trade Relationships

The imposition of tariffs by the United States on its closest trading partners—and retaliatory tariffs that have targeted some agricultural exports from the U.S.—have prompted California farmers to do what they can to preserve their relationships with foreign buyers. “Our sales team is planning to go to Canada next month to meet with some of our buyers,” said Ryan Elliot, operational manager at Stillwater Orchards in Sacramento County, which sells about 10% of its fresh-market pears to Canada. “It might not seem huge, but it’s been a favorable market for us for years.” Elliot added that should tariffs halt

Experts Cut Through Confusion About Ultraprocessed Foods

With debate about ultraprocessed foods frequently making headlines, the University of California, Davis, Department of Food Science and Technology highlighted work its researchers have published to bring clarity to the subject. For researchers, part of the challenge is the speed at which processed foods and ingredients are now created. “We’re creating ingredients so rapidly, we don’t have time to study them,” said Alyson Mitchell, a professor and food chemist at UC Davis. “The food technology has moved faster than the health studies have.” ★

'Golf with Us' to Offer Youth Affordable Rounds

Bank of America News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Bank of America recently announced the launch of Golf with Us, a new initiative designed to grow the next generation of golfers.

Golf with Us offers youth, ages 6 to 18, a free one-year membership to Youth on Course, courtesy of Bank of America. Enrollment in the program is open until May 24 and includes access to thousands of courses in 97 markets for $5 or less per round. The courses are in the Youth on Course network.

“When kids get involved in sports, they learn first-hand about achieving their goals and develop lifelong skills that help them thrive,” said David Tyrie, president of marketing, digital and specialized consumer client solutions. “By working with Youth on Course to help make golf more accessible, we’re helping grow the sport while also making a positive impact in our communities.”

Through Golf with Us, Bank of America will also bring unique instructional opportunities to youth in select markets throughout the spring, summer and fall by hosting a series of free clinics featuring professional golfers, athletes and celebrities with a passion for golf.

Program membership also includes a registered handicap index in the United States Golf Association’s Golf Handicap Information Network (GHIN) system, continued development as well as learning opportunities. Interested families can enroll in Youth on Course and learn more about the Golf with Us offer at BofA.com/GolfwithUs.

“Golf has the power to shape young lives in incredible ways - not just through the sport itself, but through the friendships, confidence and opportunities it creates,” said Youth on Course Chief Executive Officer Adam Heieck. “Through this partnership with Bank of America, we’re making it possible for more kids across the country to step onto the course and discover what’s possible. This partnership is about more than just golf; it’s about opening doors and changing futures.”

Youth on Course and Bank of America recently announced a multi-year, strategic partnership to expand golf access across the country for young players who are challenged to find an affordable place to play. As part of the agreement, Bank of America is helping fund widespread expansion of municipal course locations participating in the program. To date, more than 2,000 courses are Youth on Course partners nationwide.

The bank will promote Golf with Us through a series of commercials beginning during the Masters Tournament. Bank of America serves as Champion Partner of the Masters Tournament and has partnered with the Augusta National Women’s Amateur since 2019, hosting annual golf clinics for youth in the Augusta, GA area. In 2025, Bank of America became the presenting partner of the More Than Golf Invitational for female amateur golfers in partnership with the ANNIKA Foundation founded by golfing legend Annika Sorenstam. In addition, Bank of America has partnered since 2002 with the Latin America Amateur Championship and Asia-Pacific Amateur Championships.

Beyond its growing golf partnership portfolio, Bank of America also partners with iconic brands in sports that share a vision for excellence and achievement to deepen client relationships, inspire and showcase teammates, create lasting economic impact in communities, and drive growth, globally and locally, through the power of sport. To learn more, visit about.bankofamerica.com/en/making-an-impact/sports.

Youth on Course, a nonprofit organization headquartered in Monterey, provides youth 18 and under access to life-changing opportunities through golf. Since its inception in 2006, Youth on Course members have played more than 4-million subsidized rounds of golf for $5 or less at thousands of partner courses throughout the United States, Canada and Australia. ★

University of California, Davis Athletics News Release

IRVING, TEXAS (MPG) - On April 30, the Big 12 released its lacrosse all-conference teams, with three Aggies making the cut.

Graduate student Alex Agnew and senior Ally Richardson-Pepper made their way onto the All-Big 12 Team while freshman Jane Fox was tabbed as a unanimous selection on the All-Newcomer Team.

Agnew lands on an all-conference team for the second time in her career, previously earning All-Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) honors in the Aggies final season in the conference back in 2021. After missing all last season to an anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) injury, Agnew has been an offensive force for the team, leading the Aggies in both assists (32) and points (58). She also ranks third on the team in goals with 26.

This year has also been a year of many personal milestones for Agnew, including playing alongside her sister, Tory, for the first time and topping the program’s all-time assist list in a matchup against Richardson-Pepper is emerging as the team’s primary starter this season, Richardson-Pepper has been sturdy in net all year, starting and playing every minute for the Aggies while ranking first in the Big 12 in saves per game with 11.20.

Throughout the season, Richardson-Pepper has etched herself into the program’s record book, putting up 20 saves against Colorado and 18 against Florida for the second and third most, respectively, all-time in a single game.

In addition to her goalkeeping responsibilities, Richardson-Pepper has been a key contributor to the defensive unit, picking up 14 ground balls and causing two turnovers throughout the season. These performances have led to a number of personal accolades for Richardson-Pepper, including being named the conference’s Goalkeeper of the Week following week nine and the Defensive Player of the Week in week 11.

Fox joined the Aggies from Baltimore last fall, Fox lands on the Big 12 All-Newcomer Team as a unanimous selection after a 13-goal, five-assist freshman campaign.

In the team’s season-opener against Cal Berkeley on Feb. 8, Fox had a strong debut for the Aggies, scoring the team’s first goal while putting together a three-goal, one-assist hat trick. Currently, Fox is tied for fifth on the team in both goals and total points. ★

Sac State Women’s Tennis Claims Second Straight Big Sky Tournament Crown

Sacramento State Athletics News Release

PHOENIX, ARIZONA (MPG) - For the second consecutive season and the 13th time in school history, the Sacramento State women’s tennis team claimed the Big Sky Conference Tournament championship, shutting out regular season champ and top-seeded Northern Arizona, 4-0, on the morning of April 26 at the Phoenix Tennis Center in Phoenix, Arizona.

The Hornets improved to 21-3 overall on the season, the most wins in a single season since the 2008 squad finished 21-7 overall and seized the league’s automatic berth into the NCAA Tournament with the victory while the 13th tournament championships are the most of any school in the conference. Sacramento State will be making its 15th all-time appearance in the NCAA Tournament field, which will be announced on April 28 at 2 p.m. pacific standard time (PT) on NCAA.com.

With the loss, the Lumberjacks fell to 15-4 overall.

Sophomore Reese Walker was named the tournament’s Most Valuable Player (MVP), following in the footsteps of former teammate Marya Gorbunova, who won the first tournament MVP honor following last year’s championship run.

Walker finished 2-0 in singles and won her doubles match by a 6-0 score alongside Palina Saulevich on April 26, defeated Annabel Davis of Idaho, 6-0, 6-3, in the April 25 semifinal victory and providing the championship-clinching point on April 26 with a 6-3, 6-4, victory over Northern Arizona University’s (NAU) Patrycja Niewiadomska.

The Hornets, who fell to the Lumberjacks by a 5-2 score in Flagstaff, Arizona., back on April 5 in what turned out to be their only Big Sky loss of the year, opened the championship on a high note, taking the doubles point for a 1-0 lead.

Saulevich and Walker were the first off with their shut-out at No. 3, while the tandem of Maddy Ferreros and Irene Riva clinched the doubles point with a 6-4 win at No. 1.

Sacramento State then rolled to a trio of straight-set victories in singles with sophomore Lou Baudouin defeating Laura Duhl, 6-3, 6-2, at No. 3, followed by sophomore Elena Mercioiu’s 6-3, 6-1, victory over Leotina Stojanovic at No. 6.

That set the stage for Walker, who defeated

Niewiadomska to set off the celebration. It was Walker’s third match-clinching point of the season as the Hornets won their sixth-straight dual, five of those via a shutout.

With her win, Mercioiu won her team-best 17th match of the year, while Walker improved to 16-4 and Baudouin won for the 14th time this season.
