SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)
- Opening a new chapter in the University of California, Davis' role as a regional engine of innovation and economic growth, Chancellor Gary S. May joined city of Sacramento leaders, developer Wexford Science & Technology and community members on Friday, May 2 to inaugurate Aggie Square, the $1.1 billion innovation district that will bring together the university's cutting-edge research with private-sector companies and startups. The chancellor also announced new partnerships to accelerate life sciences ventures at Aggie Square.

LLC, business partners

The ribbon-cutting ceremony marks the culmination of eight years of planning and development of the 11-acre site on the UC Davis Sacramento campus, but it is only the beginning of the story of Aggie Square as a catalyst of collaboration and innovation in the life sciences and other fields, a hub of education and discovery at one of the nation's top research universities, and a community asset for Oak Park and surrounding neighborhoods. "Today's opening cel-

Plant More Trees, Cut Energy Costs, U.S. Bill Says

Office of Rep. Doris Matsui News Release

WASHINGTON, D.C. - On Arbor Day, April 25, Rep. Doris Matsui (D-CA) and Rep. Emanuel Cleaver (D-MO) and Brian Fitzpatrick (R-PA) reintroduced the TREES Act, a bill that will help homeowners lower energy costs, increase tree canopy in underserved communities and help mitigate the effects of climate change through residential tree planting.

The TREES Act would create a cost-share grant program at the Department of Energy to provide $50 million in funding to plant a minimum of 300,000 trees annually in residential neighborhoods through 2028. The program seeks to prioritize low wealth communities as well as areas with low tree canopy and heat islands.

"Urban forests are critical to addressing climate change and air pollution," said Rep. Matsui.

"Sacramento is the City of Trees, and through the proactive efforts of local organizations and partners we are working hard to build out a more equitable urban tree canopy across our city. The benefits at the local level are clear: we can lower energy costs, reduce temperatures on our streets, improve air quality, reduce stormwater runoff and beautify our neighborhoods, all leading to healthier and more climate resilient communities. The TREES Act incentivizes successful programs like ours and scales them to the national level. By creating a competitive federal tree-planting grant program, we can empower communities to improve access to green space and clean air, reduce consumer costs, and help fight climate change," said Matsui.

"Kansas Citians know all too well that extreme heat waves are becoming increasingly frequent, costly, and dangerous to communities in the urban core due to the heat island effect exacerbating the historic rise in temperatures we're seeing around the globe," said Rep. Emanuel Cleaver. "By providing states and municipalities the resources necessary to expand tree canopy in cities, we can not only boost the beautification and Continued on Page 7

Zoo Relocation Canceled Due to Financial Concerns

By Sean P. Thomas MPG Staff

ELK GROVE, CA (MPG) - A highly anticipated plan to relocate the Sacramento Zoo to Elk Grove has been shelved, prompting disappointment among city leaders and residents who had hoped the $300 million project would bring economic and cultural benefits to Elk Grove.

The Sacramento Zoological Society announced last week it would not move forward with the relocation, citing concerns over the financial viability of the project. The decision ends a multi-year partnership with the City of Elk Grove, which had already invested approximately $4.5 million into land acquisition and planning for the project, according to city officials.

"It was disappointing. There's no other way to say it," Councilmember Rod

Rendering courtesy of city of Elk Grove/Sacramento Zoological Society

Brewer said. "We enthusiastically supported the project and had been working to excite the public on bringing the zoo to Elk Grove. Even with some of the rumors and financial uncertainty, I didn't expect this outcome."

The proposed relocation was intended to address major challenges faced by the Sacramento Zoo at its current 14-acre site in William Land Park. The Elk Grove plan included a phased buildout on a 65-acre portion of a 100-acre parcel the city had purchased specifically for the project on Kammerer Road.

Phase one alone would have spanned 28 acres, about twice the size of the existing zoo, and featured large, open habitats including a savannah exhibit with multiple species such as

Sac State Celebrates Philanthropist Tschannen's 100th

By Jonathan Morales

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- The Sacramento State community gathered May 1 for a celebration as big as the generosity of its honoree.

Just outside the building that bears his name, Sacramento philanthropist and Sac State supporter Ernest E. Tschannen was feted and serenaded during a campus celebration of his 100th birthday.

Tschannen has donated more than $20 million to Sac State, including $9 million to help construct the Tschannen Science Complex, which opened in 2019.

"Ernest, we are so grateful for your support," said Michael Reza, Sac State's vice president for Advancement. "Happy 100th birthday. Thank you so much."

Since its opening, thousands of students have had the opportunity to research and learn in the science complex's state-of-the-art labs and classrooms. In addition, the adjoining Sac State Planetarium has been a popular venue not just for the campus community, but for local schoolchildren and others who have attended a show.

Addressing the crowd,

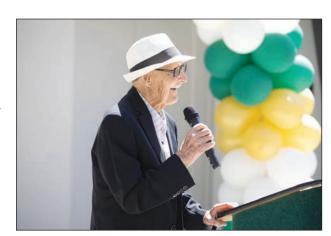

Tschannen highlighted his journey from a young boy in Switzerland to a successful real estate investor in the United States. In addition to his contributions to Sac State, Tschannen has donated to several other causes, organizations and education institutions.

"I am glad I live in America. I am very appreciative to be here," Tschannen said, citing the opportunities the country has afforded him and friendliness of its people. "I became successful because I live in a fantastic country."

Following Tschannen's

remarks, Sac State President Luke Wood led the crowd in the singing of "Happy Birthday" before the guest of honor blew out the candles on a cake featuring a miniature Herky and large numbers reading "100."

Before and after the ceremony, several of Sac State's science departments and student organizations tabled nearby, offering interactive activities for visitors. The chemistry club demonstrated how lava lamps work and the Department of Geography explained how to interpret satellite images. Herky also held out a pair of weights

Aggie Square Innovation District Opens

Continued from Page 1 UC Davis, industry leaders and startups will come together and spark collaboration and innovation that will benefit our region and the world for generations to come," May said.

"Aggie Square is a reality thanks to the dedicated efforts of thousands of people from the university, the city of Sacramento, our neighboring communities, Wexford Science & Technology and the hardworking builders and contractors, all of whom have helped bring this vision to life. This is a moment we can all be proud of, and it truly showcases the power of our private-public partnership."

Technology and FLANN Inc. — a South Korean firm that supports Korean biotech and pharmaceutical companies expanding into the United States — announced a new partnership.

Together, they will launch a soft landing program at Aggie Square within Connect Labs by Wexford, designed to support cohorts of up to 10 early-stage South Korean life science companies as they establish a foothold in the U.S. market. This initiative strengthens Aggie Square's position as a global gateway for innovation and international collaboration in the life sciences.

"UC Davis, the city of Sacramento and Wexford Science & Technology have long shared a vision for creating a premier innovation district that attracts cutting-edge research, sparks ground-breaking discoveries, and serves as vibrant community and innovation hub that enriches the entire Sacramento region," said Ted Russell, president and CEO of Wexford Science & Technology. "Today, that vision comes to life with the opening of this intentionally designed first phase: a place purpose-built to foster connection, creativity and community. We're excited to see these spaces activated through vibrant programming, dynamic events and ongoing collaboration between UC Davis researchers, industry partners and the broader Sacramento community."

"Aggie Square is more

"Aggie Square is more than a collection of new buildings; it's a place where research, business and community come together," said Sacramento Mayor Kevin McCarty. "Today's event marks the start of Sacramento's next chapter in life sciences, technology and opportunity."

Development Includes Labs, Classrooms, Apartments

The first phase of Aggie Square, unveiled on May 2, delivers 767,000 square feet of transformative development that anchors the district's bold vision. This milestone includes three state-of-the-art buildings featuring wet and dry laboratories, modern classrooms, collaborative community spaces and a variety of flexible-use areas.

Included in this phase is Connect Labs by Wexford, a flexible, scale-in-place lab and innovation infrastructure that will include pre-built and furnished lab, support and office spaces with a curated set of amenities, services and shared equipment for emerging and growth companies, particularly in life sciences, biomedical engineering, technology and data sciences.

Also opening is ANOVA Aggie Square, a thoughtfully designed residential building offering 190 apartments and 252 beds to support the innovation community. The phase is rounded out by a 1,550-stall parking garage, providing essential infrastructure to support this dynamic new hub of research, learning and engagement.

Life-Saving Device Installed at Parks

Arden Arcade Rotarians and friends provide an external defibrillator at Howe Park.

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Thanks to three Rotary clubs, 18 automated external defibrillator (AED) units have recently been installed at public facilities in Sacramento, Carmichael, Elk Grove and Marysville.

The devices can revive heart function in case of cardiac arrest. In compliance with state legislation, similar units must be provided for all youth sport locations in California by 2027. Proven effective in saving lives, an automated external defibrillator costs between $900 and $4,000.

One such device was installed last week near Howe Park's tennis courts. The donor, Arden Arcade Rotarians, gathered to view demonstrations of its use by a representative of an organization dedicated to preventing cardiac deaths in young people.

"Every minute that passes without oxygen being pumped to the brain diminishes a patient's chance of recovery," said Project Adam coordinator Rebecca McCormac. "Surveys show one in 300 American children has a heart condition. These often go undiagnosed and can pose risks, especially during athletic activity. That's why it's important to have automated external defibrillators where young people gather."

Designed to be employed without medical training, automated external defibrillators apply electric shock stimulation to the heart after cardiac arrest.

"When available for bystanders to use, these AEDs save lives," said McCormac. "Days after training in the use of the defibrillator and CPR, Davis High School staff revived a teacher who'd collapsed. They managed to get his heart beating before an ambulance reached the school."

Club of Arden Arcade, Fulton-El Camino and Mission Oaks Park districts have mounted defibrillators at park sports facilities.

California Leaders Introduce 'Safe Homes Act' for Wildfire, Insurance Solutions

Office of Assemblymember Lisa Calderon News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - On April 30, state and community leaders supported a bold new initiative to confront California's worsening wildfire and insurance crises: the California Safe Homes Act (Assembly Bill 888). Driven by years of extensive community outreach and unprecedented stakeholder engagement, the act represents a transformative step toward wildfire resilience and insurance affordability. The California Safe Homes Act passed the Assembly Insurance Committee on a 16 to 0 vote. "Investing in mitigation is crucial to overcoming this insurance crisis. We are not powerless in this fight. We need to equip consumers with the resources to undertake necessary work," stated Insurance Commissioner Ricardo Lara, the sponsor of the California Safe Homes Act. "We have traveled across every region of the state, listened to thousands of Californians, collaborated with local communities and firefighters, and consulted with insurance leaders from other states and countries. One thing is clear: wildfire safety works, and we must scale it like never before."

"Investing in proven safety measures to make California safer from wildfires is essential to protecting lives, homes, and access to insurance," said Assemblymember Lisa Calderon, author of the California Safe Homes Act. "Assembly Bill 888 is a step in the right direction to assist California residents and create more resilient communities throughout our state."

The California Safe Homes Act is designed to make homes safer from wildfires while increasing access to insurance. The act will fund critical mitigation efforts, including fire-safe roofing, defensible space within the first five feet of a home, also known as "zone zero," and community-level wildfire protection strategies.

These are some of the most impactful and costly measures, and homeowners have consistently told the Department of Insurance they want to do this work but simply cannot afford it. California Safe Homes puts money back in people's hands to pay for these essential projects.

The initiative builds on Safer from Wildfires, developed by the Department of Insurance, which lays out ten proven, achievable wildfire safety actions. It is the first plan of its kind in the nation, created proactively to reduce wildfire risk before disaster strikes.

"Protecting homes before a hurricane ever happens has helped bring affordable insurance back to Alabama. Natural disasters like windstorms, earthquakes, or wildfires will come no matter what we do. That means you must find ways to build stronger before the event so you will have less damage after the event," said Alabama Insurance Commissioner Mark Fowler, who told the committee about the success of the Strengthen Alabama Homes grant program. "It's actually a pretty simple concept. Assembly Bill 888 will help you pave that way."

"I have sought clear, workable examples from beyond our borders," said Commissioner Lara. "Through my leadership in the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and visits to other states, I have observed successful strategies in action. Disaster mitigation programs are the cornerstone of our National Climate Resilience Strategy, effectively protecting homes against perils, stabilizing markets, and providing consumers with more options. I'm honored to welcome Commissioner Mark Fowler, a leader and visionary in this field."

Leaders from across sectors are supporting the bill. including nonprofits like United Policyholders and community officials.

"Creating defensible space and hardening our homes against wildfire is a shared responsibility, but for many homeowners, the cost is simply too high," said Tanya Harlow, fire safe coordinator, El Dorado County Office of Wildfire Preparedness and Resilience. "California Safe Homes will provide much-needed support to help make our communities more resilient to

Flying on a Wing and a Prayer

Amidst the Cinco de Mayo celebrations last Monday, I couldn't avoid thinking of May 6, 2009, the day I returned from deployment in Iraq on a chartered World Airways DC-10.

After spending four months serving the wounded at the Air Force Field Hospital in Balad Iraq, my only thoughts on final approach into Baltimore/Washington International Airport, were of home.

Our landing attempt was anything but welcoming as our plane bounced like a porpoise on the waves. Security cameras recorded a large puff of smoke from our wheels. Eyewitnesses would later tell FAA investigators that they thought the plane was going to flip.

A second bounce delivered at an estimated 3.2 Gs and plastic ceiling molding fell on us as oxygen generators swung like piñatas. Several seat backs snapped backward while passengers along the left windows watched the vellow centerline, and I watched our wing drift over the grass.

We sailed back into the air as the cockpit voice recorder captured pilot Craig Gatch asserting: "8535 heavy declaring an emergency go-around."

When we regained some altitude, my fellow passengers spoke in muffled voices. No one wanted to be the first to cry, but clearly no one wanted to die without protest. Some were praying or holding hands or just staring at their feet.

I rested my forehead on my seatback to pray, even as I wondered if I heard a judgmental voice in it all. My shortcomings felt as though they were being weighed on the scale of a spiritual assayer. Was there a deity somewhere with a one-piece eyeglass assessing my life with a doubtful squint?

Had I been a good husband and dad? Or had I been too absent, physically and spiritually? Was it OK to feel scared? Or should I gather my wits and start a rousing chorus of

I kept praying, spending the next few minutes asking God, "What about all these passengers?" A soldier was about to meet his new son for the first time. An airman was trying to make a marriage work again. They all wanted another chance. Would they get that chance?

In a center aisle seat, catty-corner from me, a young officer was wiping her tears. I stretched across the aisle to offer my hand as a reminder she wasn't alone. I wanted to hold it until we landed, but the awkwardly angled reach caused me to break loose and rejoin her hand with the chaplain assistant sitting beside her.

As we reapproached the airport, the flight attendants told us to grab our ankles and lower our heads. Then the pilot added his instruction to "brace for impact!" But instead of impact, we landed as calmly as if we were sailing across a mountain lake.

Slowly we looked up from our crash/prayer position and started clapping like we had never expected another tomorrow.

stairways, five people were removed for medical care, including the first officer with a broken back. Behind us, debris littered an unusable runway. Few of us could make much sense of the

Before we deplaned down portable incident. Many would say to me things like, "Chaplain, we expected to die in Iraq, but never in Baltimore."

FAA investigators declared the plane a total loss because the main spar was broken, (the structural member that supports the wings.)

This meant our pilot literally risked losing our wings during his 10-minute go-around. But I suppose that's what airmen mean when they describe a harrowing flight as "flying on a wing and a prayer."

Even today, my airplane remains at the airport where its continentally stippled for parts. For those curious, I posted links to the security footage and the accident report on my website

Outstanding Citizen Awards Ceremony Honors 13 Citizens

Sacramento County District Attorney's Office Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -Sacramento County District Attorney Thien Ho presented the Outstanding Citizen Award to 13 victims and witnesses who have shown uncommon courage by participating in the criminal justice process under extraordinarily challenging circumstances.

The awards were given out April 25 at the Board of Supervisors' Chambers on H Street in Sacramento.

A Beacon of Hope Award was also presented to an individual or organization showing compassion and dedication, thus enhancing victim advocacy and public safety.

Citizens Harrell Fischer, John Stubbe and Damaria were recognized and awarded for their assistance in the People versus Mandiko Kwadzo case (case number 20FE011791).

On July 27, 2020, West Sacramento Police officers responded to a report of shots fired inside a residence. Moments later, a witness reported seeing the victim, Carliena Clayton, and the defendant having an argument on the driveway of that residence. The victim was then seen getting into a car with her four small children and the defendant getting into the passenger seat as she pulled out of the driveway. When officers arrived on scene, they found evidence of a shooting inside the residence. That night, Harrell Fischer was at Cliff's Marina in Sacramento County when he heard a gunshot followed by a car crashing into the Sacramento River. He called a friend, John Stubbe, and the two went to the crash scene to help. They found the victim's car partially submerged in the river, with the defendant standing nearby, not doing anything to help. When they looked into the car, they found the victim unresponsive in the driver's seat and her four children in the backseat. The oldest child, Damaria, 6, had already unbuckled all their seatbelts but the youngest child, 2, was still in her car seat. Fischer and Stubbe got the children out of the car to safety. Responding California Highway Patrol officers found the victim did not have a pulse, with severe bleeding from her head. At that time, officers believed it was a car accident until Damaria told officers that the defendant shot his mother. It was later determined that the victim suffered two gunshot wounds to her head. Damaria, Harrell Fischer and John Stubbe all testified at trial and were instrumental in obtaining guilty verdicts in this case.

The defendant was convicted of first-degree murder with a firearm allegation and felon in possession of a firearm. He was sentenced to 53 years to life in prison.

Citizen Gigi Barrios was recognized for her help in the People versus Dominick Roberson case (case number 22FE019182). On Nov. 18, 2022, Gigi Barrios was working at the Medical Safe Haven. A pregnant patient named Precious came into the clinic for an appointment. Gigi knew Precious well and immediately recognized something was wrong.

Precious avoided eye contact; she was vague and hesitant when Barrios asked her questions and seemed distressed when she received text messages. Precious said that her baby's father was the cause for her agitation. Barrios finally got Precious to reveal that her unborn child's father was in the clinic parking lot and was threatening to kill her. He had a gun and he had been trafficking Precious since she met him months earlier.

Barrios jumped into action, making sure that clinic staff called 911 and personally reached out to Sacramento Police Department human trafficking detectives that Barrios knew from her collaborative work throughout the county. Sacramento officers and detectives quickly arrived to the clinic, detained the defendant and found a gun in his car. Precious was terrified of her trafficker, but with

Barrios by her side, was able to explain that the defendant groomed her, portraying himself as a boyfriend before taking her to the "blade" to engage in prostitution. He made Precious give him all the money she made.

He regularly beat and threatened Precious, he threatened her family and controlled her life. Precious gave detectives access to her phone, where they found messages that corroborated what Precious told them. The defendant was arrested that day and Sacramento police detectives ensured that Precious got to a safe house, where she stayed through the birth of her child and through the trial.

The defendant was convicted of a variety of human trafficking charges and sentenced to 71 years to life in prison.

Residents North Peredina and Scott Kingston were recognized for their support in the People versus Tycho Roney case (case number 24FE003928). North Peredina is the general manager of Paco's Bike Shop in Midtown Sacramento. The bike shop was burglarized with a loss of more than $28,000 in high-end bikes and $13,000 in property damage. Peredina reviewed their interior surveillance cameras and saw the defendant drop into the business from a breached roof skylight. The profile of the defendant's face was momentarily caught on the surveillance video.

After reporting the crime, Peredina set out to find the stolen bikes. When he saw a man with one of the bikes, Peredina immediately reported it to the Sacramento Police Department. Detectives responded to the area and spotted a similar-looking bike outside a tent. After confirming it was one of the stolen bikes, they found the defendant inside the tent along with the clothes from the burglary, a loaded.9-millimeter semi-automatic handgun and methamphetamine. Peredina positively identified the defendant as the person in the surveillance video and with the stolen bike. Scott Kingston is in commercial real estate. Kingston rallied attention to this case, including writing passionate pleas to Citizens Joseph Bayless, Brandon Gross, Devonte Rainey, Michael Armendariz, Brian Saldivar and Jose Garcia were awarded for their help in the People versus Kryn Spear case (case number 22FE008691).

On May 26, 2022, Veronica Vargas was driving through the intersection of Power Inn Road and Elsie Avenue with her 4-yearold daughter, Samantha, in the back seat. At that same time and intersection, the defendant ran a red light at 89 miles per hour and broadsided them with his dually truck. The collision's force flipped the victim's car onto its roof.

Brian Casado was the first person who stopped at the scene after the crash occurred. He rushed over to the victim's vehicle and saw and heard the little girl in the back seat. He tried to help other bystanders get the victims out of their car. Joseph Bayless and Brandon Gross also stopped at the scene and tried to help Veronica and Samantha. The three men stayed with Samantha, reassuring her she would be OK until the first responders arrived.

After the crash, the defendant got out of his truck and began walking away from the crash scene. Devonte Rainey stopped at the scene to help the victims and followed the defendant as he recorded and took pictures of him. Michael Armendariz saw the crash scene and came across Rainey, who told him that the driver who caused the crash was trying to get away. Armendariz stopped his car and went hands-on with the defendant to detain him.

Brian Saldivar and Jose Garcia also saw the crash scene and helped Armendariz detain the defendant until California Highway Patrol arrived. The defendant had a blood alcohol content of 0.251% and was on probation for a prior Driving Under the Influence conviction at the time of this crash.

The defendant was convicted of gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated and a number of additional felonies driving under the influence-related charges, hit-and-run causing death and or permanent injury and a great bodily injury allegation. He was sentenced to 13 years and eight months in prison.

Victim advocate Lisa Corral works tirelessly in the Domestic Violence Unit, where she has helped thousands of domestic violence victims and supports the unit attorneys. The Domestic Violence Unit is unlike any other unit in that the victim advocate is involved immediately at the beginning of the case, at filing and sometimes when a case is not filed. The Domestic Violence Unit is also a unique assignment because not all victims want our help and can be resistant to us. Corral is patient and works through these challenges, with the mission to keep the victims of domestic violence safe.

The River City Waterway Alliance is made up of a volunteer team of 30 to 40 experienced waterway stewards who work tirelessly to keep the river waterways clean and safe for people and endangered salmon species. The alliance reported volunteers pulled 2.8 million pounds of trash or 1,400 tons of trash, to date.

It's not just litter and trash. They recover large hazardous waste items, including propane tanks, household appliances, electronics, clothes and other personal items. Unhoused encampments all along the river levees are the primary source of the items found in the waterways. The amount and type of waste being tossed into our waters are a significant environmental and wildlife hazard. Alliance volunteers are continually cleaning these waters even as more garbage, junk and hazardous items are thrown right back into those same waters. It is a never-ending struggle for them; however, they remain devoted to keeping the waters and the environment clean and safe for people and wildlife. ★ restoration of places like Kansas City, but we can also lower energy costs and temperatures to the benefit of local residents. That's precisely what the TREES Act will do, and why I'm proud to introduce this bipartisan legislation with Congresswoman Matsui."

"The TREES Act brings together environmental stewardship and economic relief, lowering energy costs while making our communities cleaner, healthier, and more vibrant," said Rep. Brian Fitzpatrick.

"This is about investing in where we live, expanding green spaces, improving air quality, and creating lasting value for families in Bucks County, Montgomery County, and beyond. It's a smart, bipartisan solution that delivers where it matters most: at the roots of our neighborhoods."

"We support the TREES Act and all it does to benefit communities across the country," said SMUD Chief Executive Officer and General Manager Paul Lau.

"Today we celebrate our trees and our continued partnership with the Sacramento

Tree Foundation which has planted more than 630,000 trees in our local neighborhoods.

"This urban canopy helps to cool our cities and homes and clean our air through carbon sequestration. The value they add is immeasurable. The TREEs Act will continue to foster our ability to create cleaner, healthier and more sustainable communities for everyone. Thank you for this continued effort," said Lau.

"Trees help to create livable and loveable communities," said executive director of the Sacramento Tree Foundation Jessica Sanders. "We applaud the TREES Act for recognizing that we need action now to create a collaborative community focused on making our communities healthier and more resilient. The TREES Act will allow our children to grow up in tree lined communities with healthy air and healthy neighborhoods."

"This bill isn't just about planting trees, it's about improving lives," said Joel Pannell, American Forests vice president of Urban Forests Policy.

"The bipartisan TREES Act delivers local benefits that communities will feel for generations, from cleaner air to lower utility bills, proving that smart, shared solutions can still bring people together."

"The current zoo only has one rhinoceros. The new zoo would have had as many as six, all in a shared environment," Brewer said. "This was going to be an entirely different level of experience."

The new facility also would have expanded conservation efforts and created more immersive visitor experiences. It was expected to draw as many as 1 million in annual visitors and $249 million in economic impact in its first five years of operation, according to Elk Grove officials.

In a news release, Mayor Bobbie Singh-Allen called the decision to shutter the zoo move "disappointing."

"This is a deeply disappointing outcome for all of us who believed in the vision for the zoo and what it could have meant for our community and the region," Singh-Allen said.

Despite Elk Grove fulfilling its obligations under the cost-sharing agreement and drawing up preliminary designs, the zoo ultimately chose to recommit to its Sacramento location.

Officials from the Sacramento Zoological Society cited slow fundraising progress and financial instability as primary factors in pulling out of the deal.

The Zoological Society had raised $17.5 million in pledges, only $1.9 million of which was actual cash on hand. The Zoological Society was supposed to raise $50 million in actual cash donations before the shovels went into the ground in 2027.

The $1.9 million in cash that had been received by the city will be returned to the Zoological Society, which will return it to the donors.

"When both of those things didn't mesh, I definitely understand why they walked away," Brewer said. City leaders made clear that the decision was not partnership if the situation changed. "They decided to pull back. We didn't say, theirs and emphasized their readiness to continue the

'Don't ever come back,"" Councilmember Darren Suen said. "If they wanted to talk about it again, or if someone else wanted to re-engage, we wouldn't turn them away."

Though disappointed, both Brewer and Suen remained optimistic. The land acquired for the project remains untouched and its value has increased, Brewer said, and it could yield returns if the land is sold or repurposed.

Both viewed the zoo's departure as a potential opportunity to pursue other developments or revisit the zoo project in the future if leadership changes. Zoo Director Jason Jacobs, a key figure in the partnership, left the post in October. Interim CEO Robert Churchill has been in the seat since.

"We weren't just taking a calculated risk on a civic amenity. We were trying to sustain something iconic for the region," Suen said. "Sometimes things don't work out, but the plans are still there. If the climate changes, we can dust them

Many Elk Grove residents had looked forward to the zoo as a positive addition to the community. The city's desire for more regional attractions made the zoo plan particularly appealing.

Outside of Safeway at the corner of Laguna and Franklin Boulevard, several residents voiced disappointment with the project's demise. "It's disappointing; I would have liked it to move here," said Elk Grove resident Aaron Wells. Bruce Wallace, another resident, echoed the sentiment: "It would have been a lot of jobs for Elk Grove; it's a shame it fell apart."

Others were more measured in their reaction.

"I know a lot of people were looking forward to it moving here, but yeah, it's not the worst thing that it's not," said Mark Cramer, also of Elk Grove. "The cost was always a problem for me, and I've talked to a few people that were unsure of the traffic it might add."

Still, city officials stressed that they've learned from the experience and will remain focused on bringing a simi-

"We weren't trying to swing for the fences or grab the spotlight," Suen said. "We analyzed the zoo opportunity like we do every other project, with our residents in mind. That will always be our focus."

While the zoo won't be coming to Elk Grove, councilmembers highlighted ongoing efforts to develop other projects and

"The desire to bring attractions and amenities that families and individuals can enjoy hasn't changed," Brewer said. "We're going to keep our options open. We're not in a hurry, and we're certainly not desperate." ★

'Golf with Us' to Offer Youth Affordable Rounds

Bank of America News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Bank of America recently announced the launch of Golf with Us, a new initiative designed to grow the next generation of golfers.

Golf with Us offers youth, ages 6 to 18, a free one-year membership to Youth on Course, courtesy of Bank of America. Enrollment in the program is open until May 24 and includes access to thousands of courses in 97 markets for $5 or less per round. The courses are in the Youth on Course network.

"When kids get involved in sports, they learn first-hand about achieving their goals and develop lifelong skills that help them thrive," said David Tyrie, president of marketing, digital and specialized consumer client solutions. "By working with Youth on Course to help make golf more accessible, we're helping grow the sport while also making a positive impact in our communities."

Through Golf with Us, Bank of America will also bring unique instructional opportunities to youth in select markets throughout the spring, summer and fall by hosting a series of free clinics featuring professional golfers, athletes and celebrities with a passion for golf.

Program membership also includes a registered handicap index in the United States Golf Association's Golf Handicap Information Network (GHIN) system, continued development as well as learning opportunities. Interested families can enroll in Youth on Course and learn more about the Golf with Us offer at BofA.com/GolfwithUs.

"Golf has the power to shape young lives in incredible ways not just through the sport itself, but through the friendships, confidence and opportunities it creates," said Youth on Course Chief Executive Officer Adam Heieck. "Through this partnership with Bank of America, we're making it possible for more kids across the country to step onto the course and discover what's possible. This partnership is about more than just golf; it's about opening doors and changing futures."

Youth on Course and Bank of America recently announced a multi-year, strategic partnership to expand golf access across the country for young players who are challenged to find an affordable place to play. As part of the agreement, Bank of America is helping fund widespread expansion of municipal course locations participating in the program. To date, more than 2,000 courses are Youth on Course partners nationwide.

The bank will promote Golf with Us through a series of commercials beginning during the Masters Tournament. Bank of America serves as Champion Partner of the Masters Tournament and has partnered with the Augusta National Women's Amateur since 2019, hosting annual golf clinics for youth in the Augusta, GA area. In 2025, Bank of America became the presenting partner of the More Than Golf Invitational for female amateur golfers in partnership with the ANNIKA Foundation founded by golfing legend Annika Sorenstam. In addition, Bank of America has partnered since 2002 with the Latin America Amateur Championship and Asia-Pacific Amateur Championships.

Beyond its growing golf partnership portfolio, Bank of America also partners with iconic brands in sports that share a vision for excellence and achievement to deepen client relationships, inspire and showcase teammates, create lasting economic impact in communities, and drive growth, globally and locally, through the power of sport. To learn more, visit about.bankofamerica.com/en/ making-an-impact/sports.

Youth on Course, a nonprofit organization headquartered in Monterey, provides youth 18 and under access to life-changing opportunities through golf. Since its inception in 2006, Youth on Course members have played more than 4-million subsidized rounds of golf for $5 or less at thousands of partner courses throughout the United States, Canada and Australia. ★

Agnew, Fox and Richardson-Pepper Named to Lacrosse All-Big 12 Conference Teams

University of California, Davis Athletics News Release

IRVING, TEXAS (MPG) - On April 30, the Big 12 released its lacrosse all-conference teams, with three Aggies making the cut.

Graduate student Alex Agnew and senior Ally Richardson-Pepper made their way onto the All-Big 12 Team while freshman Jane Fox was tabbed as a unanimous selection on the All-Newcomer Team.

Agnew lands on an all-conference team for the second time in her career, previously earning All-Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) honors in the Aggies final season in the conference back in 2021. After missing all last season to an anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) injury. Agnew has been an offensive force for the team, leading the Aggies in both assists (32) and points (58). She also ranks third on the team in goals with 26.

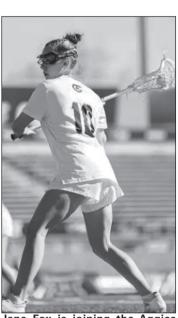

This year has also been a year of many personal milestones for Agnew, including playing alongside her sister, Tory, for the first time and topping the program's alltime assist list in a matchup against

Sac State Women's Tennis Claims Second Straight Big Sky Tournament Crown

Sacramento State Athletics News Release

PHOENIX, ARIZONA (MPG) - For the second consecutive season and the 13th time in school history, the Sacramento State women's tennis team claimed the Big Sky Conference Tournament championship, shutting out regular season champ and top-seeded Northern Arizona, 4-0, on the morning of April 26 at the Phoenix Tennis Center in Phoenix, Arizona.

The Hornets improved to 21-3 overall on the season, the most wins in a single season since the 2008 squad finished 21-7 overall and seized the league's automatic berth into the NCAA Tournament with the victory while the 13th tournament championships are the most of any school in the conference. Sacramento State will be making its 15th all-time appearance in the NCAA Tournament field, which will be announced on April 28 at 2 p.m. pacific standard time (PT) on NCAA.com.

With the loss, the Lumberjacks fell to 15-4 overall. Sophomore Reese Walker was named the tournament's

Most Valuable Player (MVP), following in the footsteps of former teammate Marya Gorbunova, who won the first tournament MVP honor following last year's championship run.

Patrycja Niewiadomska.

Walker finished 2-0 in singles and won her doubles match by a 6-0 score alongside Palina Saulevich on April 26, defeated Annabel Davis of Idaho, 6-0, 6-3, in the April 25 semifinal victory and providing the championship-clinching point on April 26 with a 6-3, 6-4, victory over Northen Arizona University's (NAU)

The Hornets, who fell to the Lumberjacks by a 5-2 score in Flagstaff, Arizona., back on April 5 in what turned out to be their only Big Sky loss of the year, opened the championship on a high note, taking the doubles point for a 1-0 lead.

Saulevich and Walker were the first off with their shutout at No. 3, while the tandem of Maddy Ferreros and Irene Riva clinched the doubles point with a 6-4 win at

Sacramento State then rolled to a trio of straightset victories in singles with sophomore Lou Baudouin defeating Laura Duhl, 6-3, 6-2, at No. 3, followed by sophomore Elena Mercioiu's 6-3, 6-1, victory over Leotina Stojanovic at No. 6. That set the stage for Walker, who defeated Niewiadomska to set off the celebration. It was Walker's third match-clinching point of the season as the Hornets won their sixth-straight dual, five of those via a shutout. With her win, Mercioiu won her team-best 17th match of the year, while Walker improved to 16-4 and Baudouin won for the 14th time this season.

Why Do Bees Make Honey?

- Gabby, 9, Kansas

Dear Gabby,

As a science cat, I don't stir honey into my tea or drizzle it on my biscuits. I don't have taste receptors for sweet things. Honey doesn't have a taste to me.

But my human friends gobble up the honey made by the Washington State University bees.

I asked my friend Rae Olsson why bees make that sticky stuff in the first place. Olsson is an insect scientist.

It turns out honey is the way honey bees store food for the winter.

"Just like we store food in our refrigerators and pantries, bees turn nectar from flowers into honey, so it doesn't spoil," Olsson said.

Worker bees collect all that nectar from flowers in the spring and summer. It's a sugary liquid flowers make to entice bees and other pollinators to visit the flowers. While they slurp up the nectar from different flowers, they also pick up some of the flower pollen and spread it to other flowers. That's how flowering plants

Bees take some of the pollen home to make a protein-rich food called bee bread. But it's the nectar that's super important for grown up bees.

"It's the main source of food for adult bees," Olsson said. "However, nectar can spoil if it isn't preserved correctly. It's sort of like how fruit juice might get moldy if you leave it out too long."

So, honey bees use a tongue-like organ called a proboscis to suck up nectar like a straw. They swallow it, but only a little bit goes to their actual stomach. Most of it goes to a special pouch called a honey stomach.

Inside the honey stomach, the nectar mixes with bee saliva. Proteins in the saliva start changing the nectar into honey.

While that's happening, the bee flies back to the colony. Then it barfs the partially-processed nectar from its honey stomach into another mouth. Moving nectar or other food from one bee's mouth to another bee's mouth is called trophallaxis.

The nectar passes from bee to bee in the colony, mixing with more and more bee saliva. Eventually, when it's almost honey, a bee spits the thick liquid into a beeswax cell. Then the bees turn around and flap their wings super-fast. That evaporates all the extra water from the honey. Once it's perfect, the bees seal the cell with a little cap of wax. When it gets cold, and there aren't flowers around to make nectar, bees can pop open a beeswax cell and slurp up the honey.

Bees make way more honey than they need. That's why people can keep bees and harvest their extra honey. Because of how it's made, honey is one of the only foods that pretty much never spoils. Scientists have even found honey that's thousands of years old and still yummy.

Even I can tell that's a sweet find.

Sincerely,

Dr. Universe

Applying for Social Security at 62; When should I enroll in Medicare?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am writing to ask for your advice on when I should sign up or enroll in a Medicare Plan. I have submitted an early retirement application to request benefits to begin 30 days after my 62nd birthday, in April 2025. I am a single lady with no dependents and currently rent my residence. Please advise. Signed: Approaching Senior Citizenship

Dear Approaching: I assume that when you say you have submitted "an early retirement application to request benefits to begin 30 days after my 62nd birthday" you mean you have applied for your Social Security retirement benefits to start in April 2025, and that you will be 62 in March. To be sure you are clear, you must be 62 for an entire month to start your Social Security retirement benefits.

Even though you are starting your Social Security retirement benefits at age 62, you will not be eligible to enroll in Medicare until you are 65 years old. Since you will be already receiving Social Security when you turn 65, you will be automatically enrolled in Medicare Part A (inpatient hospitalization coverage) and Medicare Part B (coverage for outpatient services), effective with the month you turn 65, and you will get a "Welcome to Medicare" packet about 3 months before your 65th birthday. Your Medicare Part A (inpatient hospitalization coverage) will be free, but there will be a monthly premium ($185 for 2025) associated with your Medicare Part B (coverage for outpatient services), which will be deducted from your Social Security payment.

Note that Medicare does not cover all healthcare expenses so, when the time comes, you may wish to explore other private healthcare coverage (either a Medicare Supplement plan, or a Medicare Advantage plan). Also, Medicare Part A or Part B do not include coverage for prescription drugs, so you may wish to obtain such coverage separately. One way to explore all of this is by, shortly before you are 65, contacting AMAC's Medicare department at 1.800.334.9330 or www amac.us/medicare. And until you are eligible to enroll in Medicare at 65 you may wish to seek regular healthcare insurance for those under 65 years of age.

Please understand that we are here to answer all your questions about Social Security and Medicare enrollment However, at the AMAC Foundation, we are no insurance specialists which is why I suggest contacting an insurance specialist as described above.

I hope this is helpful, but please don' hesitate to contact us again a any time.

WE SUPPORT IRST RESPONDERS

Trump Shifts His Own Vibe

The vibe around President Trump's second term has shifted, and it's all his doing.

The president entered office with a bit of a wind at his back. His polling was better than the first time around, protestors weren't in the streets, and federal investigators weren't after him. The GOP was more united than in 2016, and business leaders wanted to work with him, while the culture was generally heading in an anti-woke direction.

Now, though, his polling is in a marked decline. His job approval rating is sliding. Depending on what poll you believe, it's down to 44% (Fox News), 40% (Pew Research) or 42% (Reuters). According to RealClearPolitics, his average approval rating was about 50% when he took office and is 46% now.

It's not hard to discern the root of the discontent. In the Fox News poll, just 38% approve of Trump on the economy. On tariffs and inflation, the numbers are almost 2-1 against him; 33 approve and 59% disapprove on inflation, while it's 33-58 on tariffs.

Pew Research found that 45% were confident in his ability to handle the economy, down from 59% after his election, and lower than in his first term in 2019 and 2020.

Via his snap imposition of sweeping tariffs, Trump in short order took a traditional strength that could see him through any controversy, or counterbalance notion that the sunny upany vulnerability, and at least vitiated it and perhaps made it a weakness.

It's hard to think of another example of a president changing the momentum of his administration from positive to negative so quickly and decisively. Trump did it literally in a matter of days.

Usually, presidencies are rocked by events -- a hostage crisis, a war gone wrong, uncontrolled inflation. Here, nothing was done to Trump; he did it to himself. He was the event.

This wasn't him getting denied, either by more cautious advisers or a recalcitrant Congress. He hasn't been sabotaged by the Deep State. No, he got exactly what he wanted, with a couple of strokes of his pen.

The problem is that Trump didn't run in 2024 on economic dislocation, business uncertainty, higher prices or pain for manufacturers. People didn't want any of these things and, understandably, don't

It's true that he promised tariffs, although all the potential downsides were ignored or minimized. No one could be certain whether he was truly talking of tariffs on the scale of those he imposed on Liberation Day -shocking and unsustainable -- or those of his first term, which were much smaller and less disruptive.

Listening to him during the campaign and his Inaugural Address, you'd have thought he promised a Golden Age starting on Day One. Instead, his message has shifted to the lands are off somewhere in the future, after we work through all the gut-wrenching turmoil. In other words, the Golden Age is coming, but, in the meantime, stock up on toilet paper.

Trump's other numbers aren't looking so great, either. The Fox News poll has him at 40% approve and 54% disapprove on foreign policy. Here, too, he's been the master of his own fate. Canada, Mexico and Denmark didn't pick fights with him; he created them out of nothing. The overpromising on a Ukraine peace deal -- and retaking the Panama Canal -- can't be helping, either.

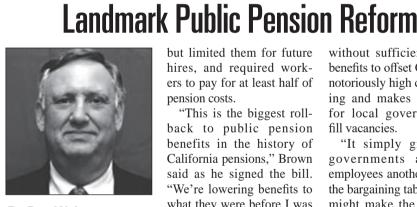

Defenders of Trump's unorthodox way of doing business will often say that he's a "disrupter," meaning it as a compliment. But what he's been disrupting lately is his own presidency. His splashy tariff announcements, rapid reversals and sense of mystery where he's headed next all have real-world consequences on businesses, consumers and allied nations, and none of it is redounding to his political benefit. The good news is that having created this situation of his own volition, he can undo most of it if he reverses field on the tariffs. In the meantime, the vibe has definitely changed.

Lawmakers Might Undermine California's

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Thirteen years ago, a minor political miracle occurred in California's Capitol.

A Democrat-dominated Legislature passed and a Democratic governor, Jerry Brown, signed a significant overhaul of state and local public employee pension systems.

It was a miracle because the reform was universally opposed by public employee unions, which were and still are the Capitol's most potent political interests with long-standing ties to Democrats.

The overhaul, championed by Brown, made it into law because the state was then recovering from a very severe recession that had devastated government finances, and pension obligations, which had expanded sharply during the prior Gray Davis governorship, had become unsustainable burdens.

Mandatory pension payments into the California Public Employee Retirement tens of billions of dollars.

hires, and required workers to pay for at least half of pension costs.

"This is the biggest rollback to public pension benefits in the history of California pensions," Brown said as he signed the bill. "We're lowering benefits to what they were before I was governor the first time and reducing costs by up to $55 billion in Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) and billions more in other local pension systems. Under the new rules, employers and employees alike are going to contribute their fair share of the costs, resulting in a more sustainable system.' Not surprisingly, some unions challenged aspects of the reform, particularly those outlawing pension-spiking maneuvers, but Brown fought back and won in the state Supreme Court. However the court refused to take a further step Brown sought, eliminating the "California rule" that prohibits reducing benefits for workers once they are enrolled in the system.

This bit of political history forms the background of new legislation that would, if passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Gavin Newsom, begin to undo what the 2012 reform wrought.

Assemblymember Catherine Stefani, a San Francisco Democrat, is carrying the legislation, Assembly Bill 569 (AB 569), which would repeal one of the major their workers.

"It simply gives local governments and their employees another option at the bargaining table, one that might make the difference between losing or keeping a talented worker," Stefani told the Assembly Public Employment and Retirement Committee last week.

The bill whipped through the committee on a seven to zero vote, including the committee's two Republicans. Tom Lackey and Juan Alanis, both of whom are former police officers.

While the bill's advocates say that it would merely be permissive, giving local governments the option to increase benefits, its practical effect would be to gut one of the reform's most important safeguards. It would restore the ability of local government unions to put political pressure on city councils. county boards of supervisors and other local officials to expand benefits for the workers who have been hired since the reform was enacted, long a sore point for unions.
