I Street Bridge Replacement Has 2026 Build Start

City of Sacramento
News Release

SACRAMENTO/WEST
SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -

The City of Sacramento is moving one step closer to breaking ground on the long-anticipated I Street Bridge Replacement Project, a transformative effort that will replace the existing 113-year-old bridge with a new multimodal crossing linking Sacramento and West Sacramento.

Sacramento city staff presented an update on the project's funding and financing strategy at the July 29 Sacramento City Council meeting.

The update outlined major progress toward construction in 2026, thanks to recent commitments of state and federal funding and ongoing efforts to finalize interagency financing agreements.

The project has benefited from strong and sustained leadership at the local, state and federal levels. U.S. Congresswoman Doris Matsui has championed the project from the beginning, even proposing the architectural design competition that helped shape the bridge's final look.

State Senators Angelique Ashby and Christopher Cabaldon have also played key roles, advocating for funding and interagency collaboration.

"This is not just a bridge; it's a once-in-a-generation investment in connectivity, safety and opportunity for both cities," said Assistant City Manager Ryan Moore. "We're deeply grateful to all of our local, regional, state and federal partners who continue to work alongside us to bring this vision to life."

The replacement bridge will feature 12-foot shared-use paths for pedestrians and cyclists, wider travel lanes to accommodate buses and emergency vehicles, and improved connectivity to trails and regional destinations.

The existing I Street Bridge, built in 1911, will remain in place but be converted into a bicycle and pedestrian-only crossing on its upper deck.

Construction of the new bridge is estimated to cost $300 million. Caltrans

Sapphires in the Mail, Arriving by the Day

Story and photos by Kimberly A. Edwards

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The highlight of my day is awaiting the mail truck, as I'm on the watch for flats, bundles and cardboard boxes.

This new pastime is an unexpected treat of buying books and articles written by early authors of the California Writers Club Sacramento. Our club is turning 100 years old this fall. The hunt has made me realize that not only were these authors talented but that they deserve honor. They are deceased now but the books, poems and articles they left behind endure.

Daily, I scour club records for references to work published. Then I tear through the internet, screen after screen, chasing available titles.

Books are searchable, although covers changed by publishers make first editions hard to identify.

Magazines can be fleeting. For example, so-and-so sold stories to Love Stories, Argosy, Secrets, Intimate Stories, Essence, Popular Mechanics, Weird Tales, Dude, Popular Science, Better Homes and Gardens, Teen and so on. But our records don't specify the exact date of publication. So last night, I foraged for an hour for "The Torso on the Rocks," sold to Trapped Detective Story Magazine. No luck.

Each day's mail brings surprises, as I rediscover the forgotten gems I've ordered. Our club, an affiliate of the California Writers Club in 1925, claimed members who published as early as 1914. Yesterday, I discovered early publisher Jo Anderson, "His Print Shop," at 416 J St., Sacramento. The illustrations done by a name described as "Sacramento Boy" went on to become an internationally famous article.

Enthusiasm can be dizzying. Four times I ordered duplicate copies of the same book but they were different editions with different covers. Twice I ordered "The Golfer's Bible" but one turned out to be a real Bible. Recently, the bank put my credit card on hold for charges thought to be suspicious.

On a dark night, I realized that I had accidentally disposed of something in the garbage bins. With a flashlight and a stool, I dug for a discarded photo of nationally-syndicated columnist "Helen Help Us" Helen Bottel.

It's exciting to find an early book, especially a scarce one. I'm not a professional book trader, so I obviously don't know what I'm doing. I'm just snatching what I can, convincing myself that the dazzle of yore belongs to us in Sacramento.

Having studied multi-cultural children's books in the '70s, I know that librarians in those days had little guidance when ordering books with diverse characters. I am, thankfully, finding in this growing trove of jewels respectable renditions.

What tested my mettle, however, were two early books with "Pickanny" in the title. One was dedicated to the students of These books are just a few of the works by Sacramento-area writers. Some of the authors were published as early as 1914. Go online to sacramentowriters.org for more information about the writers club and its 100th-year anniversary.

own our past and understand that perspective at the time differs from love on the page crafted laboriously by an author with good intentions.

Many of our early authors' books were made into movies. One inspired the TV series, "Grizzly Adams."

Edna Chandler and Lee Roddy published more than 50 books apiece.

Duane Newcomb sold 2,000 articles. Leo Rosenhouse sold dozens monthly.

Psychiatrist Walter Bromberg, author of "Crime of the Mind," served as an expert on famous criminal cases. Edna Mae Burnam Nauman wrote the "Dozen a Day," music instruction for piano students.

Attorney Ken Donelson and his wife, Irene, wrote "Married Today, Single Tomorrow: Marriage Breakup and the Law." Diane Davidson wrote "Feverisham" about a real-life murder in Tudor England.

Walter T. Boyd, having worked in secret military operations, wrote about cryogenics.

Amparo Campeón wrote a column for Spanish-language newspaper, "El Hispano."

Bud Gardner became the most inspirational writing teacher in the U.S.

Eva Rutland wrote, "When We Were Colored."

So what will we do with this stockpile of early work of which we are so proud? We plan to display it at our "100 Years of Writing Excellence in Sacramento" event from noon to 3 p.m. Oct. 18 at North Ridge Country Club. Presenters will include award-winning featured speaker Jack Ohman, Rich Ehisen, poet Carol Lynn Stevenson Grellas, literary agent Sandra Proudman and Alison Linton of the local CBS affiliate. For tickets or more information, go to sacramentowriters.org.

The 102-year Kiyo Sato International award winner will be on hand. Attendees will learn about early magazines and trends in publishing.

We thank our partners, the Crocker Art Museum, the California State Library, the Sacramento Public Library and the Center for Sacramento History.

As a child whose hands leaked stories from the minute I awoke, I believe that everyone who wants to write should be encouraged and we need to applaud all who have.

Questions remain: will my credit card be deactivated due to flagged purchases around the globe? What am I going to do with these treasures after the event, since they are taking over my condo?

Sapphires shine and can last forever, as will these works, long past my condo and me.

Edwards, *first vice-president of the California Writers Club, is a long-time writer with credits in national magazines, international media, newsletter publishing, reporting, column writing, poetry and memoir. Apply Now for Calling All Dreamers Business Incubator

Downtown Sacramento Partnership News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Downtown Sacramento Foundation is encouraging entrepreneurs to submit their big ideas in the 13th annual Calling All Dreamers business incubator. This program provides a one-of-a-kind chance for aspiring business owners to receive resources and support to launch their dream business.

Applications can be submitted online at CallingAllDreamers.org through 11:59 p.m. Sept. 1.

Now entering its 13th year as a business incubation program, last year's Calling All Dreamers winner signed a lease in Old Sacramento Waterfront and plans to open in September.

Last year's runner-up is in lease negotiations and plans to sign a lease this summer.

"Calling All Dreamers is a great opportunity for entrepreneurs to connect with local experts to develop and elevate their business models," said Andrew LaFrance, business development manager at Downtown Sacramento Partnership and program manager for Calling All Dreamers.

"This free program has assisted nearly 40 retail, food-based and experience-based businesses with opening in Sacramento since 2013. I am eager to see which exciting business concepts participate in the 13th season of this impactful program that has brought so much value to the downtown community."

Selected applicants will participate in business development workshops that call for extensive planning, market research and proof of financial sustainability. After several months, the top five concepts are chosen to move forward and are eligible to receive a $5,000 to $20,000 cash infusion into their business provided they complete the program and sign a lease in Downtown Sacramento Partnership's district within one year.

Leading the cohort through the process is a special selection committee formed by the Downtown Sacramento Foundation, including prominent business leaders and SCORE volunteers who assist them in building out their business plan and financial projections. Ultimately, the committee will select the most viable candidate to receive the cash infusion to assist the successful launch of their downtown Sacramento storefront.

After being selected by a committee in early September, the cohort attend a variety of business workshops from September through November.

The selection committee will choose the five program finalists in December and the finalists will practice and deliver a final pitch in February.

The final awardee and runner-up will be announced in February 2026.

Former Calling All Dreamers finalists and runners-up currently operating in downtown Sacramento include Pittador Brews (coming soon), Haus of Comedy (coming soon), Ecojoyous (2024), Dipped N Color Splat Studio (2023), and NEO Escape Rooms (2018). ★

(California Department of Transportation) has committed $250 million in federal Highway Bridge Program funds toward construction and the California Transportation Commission awarded an additional $25 million in competitive state funding earlier this summer.

The City of Sacramento is continuing to work with its partners to finalize key financing arrangements that will support the project's construction phase. Key next steps include presenting the financing strategy to the Sacramento Transportation Authority this month and submitting a final finance plan to Caltrans.

The City of Sacramento is also working with the City of West Sacramento to finalize cost-sharing agreements, with each city expected to contribute between $13 million and $32 million, depending on the final financing structure.

These agreements will require further Sacramento City Council review and approval, expected in September.

Construction is expected to begin in spring 2026 and take approximately four years to complete. ★

Illegal Fireworks Citations Top $267,000

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The City of Sacramento has issued $267,000 in citations for illegal fireworks since the City Council approved higher penalties in June. The ordinance allows year-round enforcement and increased fines up to $10,000 for violations near parks, schools or critical infrastructure.

Of the total citation amount, $192,000 came from the Sacramento Fire Department, with the remaining $75,000 issued by the City's Code Enforcement Division.

This enforcement period spanned July 2 through July 5. During that time, 44 citations were issued compared to 55 in 2024. However, the dollar amount more than doubled compared to last year, when citations totaled approximately $100,000.

The ordinance also designates each firework as a separate violation, increasing the financial consequences for individuals caught using multiple illegal fireworks.

Residents reporting illegal fireworks should call the non-emergency fire number, 916-808-3473.

They also can use the free Sacramento Fire Department Community App, which is monitored by the Sacramento Fire Department. The app is available for Android and Apple. ★

Synchronizing Our Heart With Our Actions

BY NORRIS BURKES

Have you ever done the right thing in a difficult situation, but your heart said, "I'm just not feeling it"? If so, then you know how hard it is to sync your feelings with your actions.

I remember such a moment in 1995 in Mountain View, California where I was stationed at Onizuka Air Station. It was memorable because it was the very first time I shared a chaplain's assignment with a Catholic priest.

His name was Richard Regan.

Father Regan was a winsome and gregarious guy who was adored by his parishioners. We became fast friends, and he encouraged me to call him Richard, but around his parishioners, I had to call him "Father."

One weekday morning, Richard and I arrived in uniform for a meeting in our chapel office. As we walked toward the entryway, we met two contractors hired to refurbish the steps.

The two men scrambled to their feet. They looked past me and greeted Richard in a deep Irish brogue.

"Top o' the morning to ya', Father."

Richard returned a polished smile as we walked past them to enter our office suite.

Inside, I noted how the men barely glanced at me. Richard explained.

"I met them a few days ago and they asked about the Christian cross we both wear on our uniforms. I told them that I was a Catholic priest and you are a Protestant minister."

Richard described how the men looked down at their work in an awkward pause. "Is that so?" they asked.

"I hope that won't stop you from greeting him each morning too," Richard said.

"We'll greet him if you insist," one admitted, "but I'm afraid we'll be giving him a rather frosty 'top-o'-the-morning.'"

Richard laughed. The men didn't.

I had much in common with those men. We both were having trouble syncing our feelings with doing what we knew was right.

It was a stretch for me to call my friend "Father" because I was raised with the literal interpretation of Jesus' words in Mathew 23:9: "Do not call anyone on earth 'father,' for you have one Father, and he is in heaven." Yet I learned to do it because it was a professional courtesy of clerical protocol.

The catholic men, likely raised in the Northern Ireland conflict, probably found it difficult not to spit on Protestants, but the good Father's insistence encouraged them to do what was right.

Today, in the current political climate, I'm aware that there are many issues that work to separate us, such as gun control, immigration and abortion. These topics are difficult to decide, but we choose our views for various reasons based on our upbringing, personalities and experiences.

Yet as people of faith, we do know what is right between each other. Our faith demands we do unto others, as we would have them do unto us. We know for certain that we must love God with all our heart and our neighbor as our self.

So, even during these days of political madness and uncertainty, I hope we will pledge to ourselves and to our faith, to do the right thing between each other. We will remain civil and kind and will synchronize our faith with our actions.

As for the Irishmen, I told Richard that they'd warmed a bit, but still hadn't wished me, "Top-o'-the-morning."

"Sounds like progress," he said.

"How so?"

"If they really didn't like you, they'd insult you with something like, 'May the cat eat you, and may the devil eat the cat.'"

I grinned. I suppose sometimes you take what you can get.

Discounted versions of all my books can be found on Amazon by searching for "Norris Burkes." Autographed copies can be obtained on my website www.thechaplain.net by sending a check for $20 for each book to 10566 Combie Rd. Suite 6643 Auburn, CA 95602.

Three Tips to Protect Rivers When Boating

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- With summer in full swing, City of Sacramento Department of Utilities staff are reminding boaters how they can help keep local waterways clean.

“Our rivers are great places to recreate but boats are a surprising source of waterway pollution,” said Emma Burke, an outreach specialist that manages the City’s Keep Our Waters Clean program, which helps educate boaters.

“Waste, fuel and oil from boats can harm local wildlife and affect drinking water supplies.” According to Burke, there are three simple ways boaters can help protect rivers:

 Use public restrooms and dispose of pet waste properly
 Waste carries bacteria, viruses and parasites that can threaten the health of humans and wildlife.
 Use pumpout stations to remove wastewater from your boat’s holding tank Improperly dumped wastewater often contains excess nutrients that contribute to harmful algal blooms and can harm fish and wildlife. Boaters can find a list of pumpout station locations on the California State Parks website.

Recycle used oil and dirty bilge water at designated facilities.

Dirty bilge water can contain pollutants, such as oil, fuel and debris, which should never be dumped in waterways. Boaters can find facilities to recycle used oil and dirty bilge water on CalRecycle’s website.

“While these are some of the simplest ways boaters can help keep our waterways clean, they also happen to be some of the most effective,” Burke said. ★

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- The City of Sacramento has released its weekly progress report for the City’s Incident Management Team (IMT) responding to homelessness.

From July 7 to 13, the city received 801 calls to 311 customer service related to unsheltered individuals.

Through the work of the IMT, 1,065 calls were closed, meaning that either the issue was remedied, compliance was achieved or the issue no longer existed when city staff inspected the site.

Department of Community Response staff enrolled 108 people into shared local databases that match them with shelters and other resources.

In addition, 27 people were placed into the City’s Roseville Road campus or the Outreach and Engagement Center (OEC).

As of July 15, there were zero Pallet homes and one trailer available at the Roseville Road campus as well as five spaces available at the Outreach and Engagement Center. There was an average of 16 openings at city-funded shelters (excluding the Roseville Road campus and the Outreach and Engagement Center).

Regarding waste removal, the city cleaned up 100,880 pounds of trash. ★

Vision Zero Tracks Crash Causes

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento is beginning the process to update its Vision Zero Action Plan, renewing its commitment to eliminating traffic-related deaths and serious injuries through data-driven strategies and community input.

Originally adopted in 2018, the Vision Zero Action Plan serves as the city’s road-map to reduce severe and fatal crashes.

The updated plan will align with federal guidance from the Safe System Approach and the Safe Streets and Roads for All program, as well as California’s Safety Corridor guidance. The new plan is expected to be completed in spring 2026.

“The Vision Zero update is more than a document; it’s a strategy for investment of policies, programs and infrastructure across all departments at the city,” said Jennifer Donlon Wyant, Mobility and Sustainability Division manager with the Department of Public Works. “We want Sacramento’s streets to be safe for everyone, all ages and abilities, all ways of traveling, whether you’re walking, biking, taking transit or driving. This is the beginning of a collaborative process to get us there.”

To support the update, the city has launched a Vision Zero Crash Data

Dashboard, providing data from 2013 to 2023. The 2024 dataset will be added soon.

The dashboard highlights the top contributing factors in severe and fatal crashes, including:

- Driving at an unsafe speed (15%)
- Impaired driving (13%)
- Failure to obey signs and signals (12%)
- Failure to yield (11%)

This analysis will help identify state-designated safety corridors, prioritize investments in traffic safety and monitor progress toward the city’s safety goals.

This summer and fall, city staff will attend local events, host engagement meetings and provide online tools to collect public input. Residents can stay informed by visiting VisionZeroSac.org and signing up for updates. ★

UC Davis Among Nation's Best

UC Davis Medical Center Ranked as Top Hospital in the Sacramento Region

UC Davis Health News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - UC Davis Medical Center has been ranked the No. 1 hospital in the Sacramento region, according to the 2025-2026 U.S. News & World Report prestigious Best Hospitals ranking.

This marks the 14th consecutive year that UC Davis Medical Center has earned the top spot locally. The medical center was also named the No. 7 hospital in California, continuing an 11-year streak of being ranked in the state's Top 10.

"This year's rankings are a testament to our unwavering commitment to delivering the highest quality care across California, transforming lives and strengthening communities," said Michael Condrin, interim chief executive officer for UC Davis Health. "Our success is driven by the exceptional dedication of the entire UC Davis Health team, who consistently go above and beyond to provide patient-centered care without parallel."

UC Davis Medical Center is at 4301 X St, Sacramento.

UC Davis Medical Center ranked among the Top 50 hospitals nationwide in six specialties: Ear, Nose and Throat (number 27), Geriatrics (number 27), Neurology and Neurosurgery (number 27), Pulmonology and Lung Surgery (number 27), Cardiology, Heart and Vascular Surgery (number 46)

and Diabetes and Endocrinology (number 48).

U.S. News also rated the medical center's services in Cancer, Gastroenterology and GI Surgery, Orthopedics and Urology as "high performing." That means the hospital scored in the Top 10 percent of all hospitals rated for those specialty areas.

UC Davis Medical Center was rated as "high performing," the highest rating possible, for its quality of care in 16 common adult procedures and conditions: acute kidney failure; aortic valve surgery; back surgery (spinal fusion); chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD); colon cancer surgery; diabetes;

Last year, U.S. News & World Report introduced a "Community Access" badge to recognize hospitals that serve vulnerable and historically underserved populations, particularly those facing socioeconomic challenges.

This year, UC Davis Medical Center was one of only 76 hospitals nationwide to receive recognition as a best regional hospital for community access.

"We believe the ability to live a healthy life should be a right enjoyed by every person. That's why we're committed to inspiring better health for all," said Condrin. "Research shows that health is shaped by more than medical care; it's influenced by access to jobs, housing, healthy food and clean air. We're working to address these factors and move our community closer to true health equity."

California Sees 13% Reduction in Stolen Vehicles Statewide

From the Office of Governor Gavin Newsom

SACRAMENTO - California continues to lead the way out of the COVID-induced crime surge, as the number of vehicles stolen statewide has dropped by 13% from 2023 to 2024 – the first year-over-year decrease since 2019.

Of those vehicles stolen, nearly 92% of cars, trucks and SUVs successfully recovered.

"We continue to put the safety of California communities first. Through strategic funding and partnerships with local and state law enforcement partners, we are putting a brake on lawlessness and criminals disrupting our way of life."

Governor Gavin Newsom said.

Of the stolen vehicles in California, nearly 94% cars and 90% personal trucks and SUVs were recovered.

Through expanded regional efforts with the California Highway Patrol and local law enforcement agencies, Governor Newsom sought to strengthen efforts to fight vehicle theft through crime suppression operations in key areas, including Oakland, Bakersfield and San Bernardino.

These ongoing regional operations have shown positive results throughout the broader communities in Alameda, Kern and San Bernardino counties. Working closely with local law enforcement agencies, auto thieves, repeat offenders and organized crime groups have been disrupted, and their activities have been thwarted.

As a result of these public safety collaborations, each of these counties saw a significant drop in vehicle thefts in 2024. Alameda:

the number of vehicles stolen statewide has dropped by 13% from 2023 to 2024 – the first year-over-year decrease since 2019. Image by Dayron Villaverde from Pixabay down 18% from 2023, Kern: down 28% from 2023 and San Bernardino: down 11% from 2023.

Other notable drops by county in stolen vehicles from 2023 include Imperial: down 13%, Orange: down 16%, Riverside: down 24%, Sacramento: down 23%, San Diego: down 11%, San Francisco: down 17%, Santa Barbara: down 29%, Tulare: down 22% and Yolo: down 24%.

"We are proud to see fewer vehicles being stolen across the state," said CHP Commissioner Sean Duryee. "The CHP and our law enforcement partners are working hard every day to stop these crimes, protect California's communities and hold criminals responsible."

Automobiles are a vital part of daily life for work, school and family. When a vehicle is stolen, it impacts more than just property—it can take away a person's freedom and sense of security. View the 2024 report on stolen vehicles and their recoveries at <https://www.chp.ca.gov/siteassets/forms/recruiting/2024-ca-vehicle-theft-facts.pdf>.

Stronger enforcement. Serious penalties. Real consequences.

California has invested $1.6 billion since 2019 to fight crime, help local governments hire more police, and improve public safety. In 2023, as part of California's Public Safety Plan, the governor announced the largest-ever investment to combat organized retail crime in state history, an annual 310% increase in proactive operations targeting organized retail crime, and special operations across the state to fight crime and improve public safety.

Last August, Newsom signed into law the most significant bipartisan legislation to crack down on property crime in modern California history. Building on the state's robust laws and record public safety funding, these bipartisan bills offer new tools to bolster ongoing efforts to hold criminals accountable for smash-and-grab robberies, property crime, retail theft, and auto burglaries. While California's crime rate remains near historic lows, these laws help California adapt to evolving criminal tactics to ensure perpetrators are effectively held accountable. ★

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

Imagine having the confidence to forgo college basketball entirely and jump straight from high school to professional basketball. That's what Jonathan Kuminga did and so did Kobe Bryant and LeBron James. Things turned out pretty well for those two, and it may turn out well for Kuminga too. The only question is, will it be in a Sacramento Kings uniform?

Well, that's the question on the mind of every Kings fan, largely because that's the current talk of the town.

The Warriors, after surprising everyone and acquiring Jimmy Butler late last season, are apparently prepared to part ways with 22-year old Kuminga, and the Sacramento Kings are interested.

Should the two teams come to an agreement, the Kings would finally complete the missing piece they have long been looking for, front court help to compliment Keegan Murray.

The Kings have met with Kuminga and it's been reported that Kuminga is eager to join the beam team, and travel 90 miles north to unite with the Warriors closest rival.

Times in San Francisco have been tumultuous for young Kuminga, and he has fallen into disfavor with coach Steve Kerr. Stories vary as to the reason for his fall from grace, but reportedly Kerr is unhappy with Kuminga's desire to elevate his game and not play within the team style that Kerr desires.

Without question, Kuminga's beginning in the NBA could not have been any meteoric, as the Warriors captured the NBA title in Kuminga's rookie season.

Kuminga contributed nearly 10 points per game in his rookie campaign while logging just under 17 minutes per game.

Kuminga has steadily improved his game, but he has plateaued the past 2 season's averaging 15 points and just under 5 rebounds per game.

The age-old problem of minutes is the issue, and with stars Stephen Curry, Jimmy Butler, and Draymond Green, breaking into the starting lineup does not appear to be a realistic outcome for Kuminga.

The Kings are undoubtedly assuring a starting position in the negotiations, and Kuminga has expressed a real interest in joining the Sactown boys.

I can envision the first time the Warriors come to town, with Kuminga lighting things up and showing the Warriors what they passed up on. Maybe lighting the beam with a smile to match.

This is not a done deal Kings fans, but it is not pie in the sky either. If the Warriors don't move Kuminga this season, they will run the risk of him signing elsewhere and receiving no compensation. Suffice to say, the Warriors are smarter than that, so making a good deal for Kuminga now makes loads of sense, and I believe Scott Perry is trying to help the Warriors do just that.

If reports are accurate, that means the Kings will in all probability say goodbye to Malik Monk, while including a first-round draft choice in the deal. The sticking point has been whether the pick will be unrestricted, and it's my view that in all likelihood the Kings may have to acquiesce to get this trade consummated.

Without question the NBA has yet to see the best of Kuminga, and there is no question in my mind that this talented young player could be the missing ingredient the Kings have long been looking for.

Sadly, trades that are as public as this one rarely come to fruition, so say your prayers Kings fans, because I do not see a down side to welcoming Kuminga into the Sactown family!

Summertime can be tormenting for true basketball fans, and with the summer league concluding, trade rumors that can change the landscape of the hometown team in a positive way, are just what Kings fans need to while away the hours waiting for training camp to begin.

Not to be lost in the Kuminga hype, is current Kings power forward Trey Lyles who is currently a free agent. At 6'9" and 234 lbs., Lyles represents a big body and someone that the Kings can count on off the bench. Losing him would be a critical mistake and would remind me of the faux pas made just a season ago when Davion Mitchell slipped through their fingers and was unceremoniously traded to the Toronto Raptors.

Stay positive Kings fans, because Scott Perry brings with him much needed experience in the front office, at a time when a steady hand is very much required.

All the best!

Social Security Matters

Why Hasn't My SS Benefit Changed Because I Am Still Working?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am currently receiving Social Security benefits while continuing to work full time. There are no restrictions on my wage earnings because I waited until full retirement age before beginning benefits. However, I was also told that my benefit amount would be reviewed each year if my current earnings were higher than past earnings. That held true for the first two years but has yet to be adjusted for 2025. I thought it might be because of HR 82, which does not impact me directly, but I think it may be the reason my payment has not yet been changed. Has enough time passed so I should contact SSA now to see if this is the case? Signed: Waiting Anxiously.

Dear Waiting: If you are already collecting benefits, Social Security reviews your earnings each year to see if your more recent earnings are high enough to warrant an increase in your monthly benefit. They do this automatically, after they get your most recent earnings data from the IRS, and they typically do that review by the end of the 3rd quarter of each year. If a higher benefit is indicated, they will increase your monthly amount and pay you retroactively to the beginning of the year for any difference in your benefit.

SSA has, indeed, been vigorously working on changes resulting from HR82 (the Social Security Fairness Act), which may have affected the timeliness of their review of your recent earnings. However, I suspect that is not why your SS benefit has not yet changed. More likely, it has to do with the fact that your past earnings have been adjusted for inflation (which is a normal part of Social Security's process when calculating your benefit amount). Your earnings for each year in your lifetime (up to age 60) were adjusted for inflation when you originally claimed SS, and your recent earnings would need to be higher than the inflation-adjusted amounts used by SS when you claimed. They use the 35 highest earnings years (adjusted for inflation) over your lifetime to calculate your benefit, and inflation has a substantial effect. For example, $50,000 earned in 1990 would require over $100,000 in earnings today to cause an increase in your benefit. Thus, you cannot go by the actual dollars you earned in earlier years, because SS uses inflated amounts to calculate your benefit.

In any case, if you believe that the Social Security Administration neglected reviewing your earnings from last year, or in any year since you claimed, you can make an appointment to review that with them by calling 1.800.772.1213. SSA typically does such appointments over the phone, so you likely won't need to make a personal visit to your local SSA office to investigate this.

California Is Finally Adopting Phonics

Fulfilling A Grandmother's Dream

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Marion Joseph died in 2022 and therefore cannot celebrate what at long last is happening in California to improve children's abysmal levels of reading comprehension.

Joseph, a renowned expert on reading instruction, came out of retirement in the 1980s to wage a personal crusade for the adoption of phonics, doing battle with educators who stubbornly supported a rival system called "whole language" that was failing to raise reading scores.

Phonics stresses fundamental instruction in the letters and letter combinations that make up sounds, thus allowing children to "sound out" words and later whole sentences and passages. The whole language approach assumes that reading is a naturally learned skill, much like speaking, and that exposing children to reading material will allow it to emerge.

Having realized that her own grandson, then a first-grader, was having difficulty with reading, Joseph began pestering the state's politicians to adopt phonics, persuading then-Gov. Pete Wilson in the 1990s to appoint her to a commission on reading instruction and then the state Board of Education, platforms from which she could pursue her mission.

However, she achieved only modest success in what were dubbed "reading wars," and after she left the school board the whole language approach re-emerged as dominant.

Reading scores on state and national academic tests continued to languish, with fewer than half of fourth-graders reading at an acceptable level.

School districts that had voluntarily adopted phonics demonstrated remarkable gains. They recognized that the ability to read is fundamental to succeeding in other academic skills, such as mathematics.

Finally substantial numbers of legislators decided to intervene, and a pro-phonics contingent began pushing measures that would compel school districts to adopt what has been dubbed the "science of reading," backed by a phalanx of education reformers.

Gov. Gavin Newsom, who has struggled with dyslexia, a disorder affecting his ability to read, supported the efforts and included $200 million in the 2025-26 state budget to train teachers in phonics.

Meanwhile Assembly Bill 1454 is moving quickly through the legislative process. Sponsored by pro-phonics legislators including Assembly Speaker Robert Rivas, it would require the state Board of Education to adopt phonics-based instructional materials and include phonics in reading teacher credential programs.

The pro-phonics moves are drawing praise from EdVoice and dozens of other educational reform groups.

"When a child learns to read, they don't just decode letters on a page, they begin to dream bigger, think more critically, and imagine a future beyond what they can see. Today's committee approval brings us one step closer to all California children reading at grade level," said Marshall Tuck, CEO of Ed Voice, after the bill cleared the Senate Education Committee last week.

Assemblymember Blanca Rubio, a West Covina Democrat who has become the Legislature's top phonics advocate, said, "After months of hard work and collaboration, we are making steady progress toward delivering on our promise to teach all California children to read. The support we saw today in the Senate Education Committee moves us closer to ensuring that no child falls through the cracks because they weren't taught to read using scientifically proven reading methods. The continued bipartisan support on this bill tells us that California is ready and motivated to lead on literacy."

The actions fall a bit short of requiring local school districts to adopt phonics, but they go a long way toward achieving Marion Joseph's goal.

Dan Walters is one of the most decorated and widely syndicated columnists in California history, authoring a column four times a week that offers his view and analysis of the state's political, economic, social and demographic trends. ★

Hamas is to Blame for Gaza's Woes

Hamas started a war, rejected a ceasefire and stole and profited from humanitarian aid, and we are supposed to believe that it's all Israel's fault.

International attention is focused on food shortages in Gaza, with the blame and the pressure -- as always -- on Israel to do something about it.

It is always difficult to get to the ground truth in Gaza, which is shrouded in the fog of war, of Hamas propaganda and of slanted media coverage, but there appears indeed to be a brewing humanitarian crisis.

Israel stopped shipments of aid into Gaza in March after a temporary ceasefire expired, and then started them up again in May, using the so-called Israel- and U.S.-backed Gaza Humanitarian Foundation (GHF) as the conduit. The stoppage in aid, coupled with inadequate GHF operations, has led to the current situation.

It's necessary to understand the larger context, though. Israel halted food shipments as a means to deny Hamas revenue, not to target the general population.

The terror group had perfected the art of exploiting humanitarian aid (and commercial transactions) for its own purposes via theft and taxes, plowing the proceeds into its military operations.

Although there is now an effort by Israel's critics to portray the concern over Hamas profiteering as fabricated or exaggerated, there is no doubt that this business model was crucial to the terror group. Both The Wall Street Journal ("A Depleted Hamas Is So Low on Cash That It Can't Pay Its Fighters") and The Washington Post ("Hamas Facing Financial and Administrative Crisis as Revenue Dries Up") have run reports on the squeeze felt by Hamas.

The Journal article back in April noted that the cash crunch with the cut off in aid was "making it harder for Hamas to bring in new recruits and maintain cohesion." The Washington Post reported about a week ago: "With its coffers depleted, Hamas's military wing can no longer adequately pay the salaries of its fighters, though it is still able to recruit teenage boys for missions like keeping lookout or placing explosives along Israeli military routes."

Making it harder for your enemy to pay its fighters and secure new ones is an important and legitimate military goal. The problem is the potential cost to people in Gaza who aren't combatants.

The shortages are just another consequence of how deeply embedded Hamas is in Gaza society. This isn't a group of terrorists who moved into territory adjacent to Israel to launch the Oct. 7 attacks and could be quickly extricated by an intense military operation. Hamas has been the government of Gaza for a couple of decades, and has used every instrument of political and social influence at its disposal -- including the distribution of food -- to build its military capacity.

It's important to remember that Israel didn't start this war, that it'd much rather be fighting a conventional military force that abided by the rules of war, and that Hamas still holds Israeli hostages and has taken a rejectionist attitude to ceasefire talks.

Even Emperor Hirohito thought his people had suffered enough at the conclusion of World War II, but Hamas considers the agony of Gazans a useful weapon in the narrative war. From this perverted point of view, a famine would be welcome news, perhaps forcing Israel to stay its hand and leave Hamas to fight another day.

Clearly, Israel needs to find better ways to get aid into Gaza. The GHF hasn't gotten the support that it needed from the U.N. and other agencies (they are too invested in the corrupt status quo), while the distribution points for aid are chaotic and dangerous.

The best thing that could happen would be an end to the war with a decent political authority -- more invested in the general welfare than in tunnels and rockets-- finally in charge of Gaza. But Hamas would rather see the population starve than give up on the war, or its grip on power.

Girl Scouts Experience Civic Engagement at State Capitol

Girl Scouts Heart of Central California News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Girl Scouts Heart of Central California (GSHCC) was proud to welcome Girl Scouts from across the state for a two-day educational experience centered on civic engagement and advocacy.

This immersive event, which took place on June 19 and 20, was open to Girl Scouts in grades four through 12 and designed to inspire the next generation of changemakers by connecting them directly with government and public service.

Participants engaged in hands-on workshops, toured the historic State Capitol, met with legislators and took part in panel discussions, featuring elected officials and leaders in civic life. The experience empowers girls to explore how the government works, understand their role in a democracy and develop their voices as

Free City Service Can Help Save Water

Sacramento residents who need help cutting back on how much water they use this summer can schedule a free house call with the city's water conservation team. Image courtesy of Sacramento Regional Water Authority

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento residents who need help cutting back on how much water they use this summer can schedule a free house call with the city's water conservation team.

"This is a great opportunity for families that are using more than 500 gallons of water per day during the summer," said the city's water conservation coordinator, William Granger.

During a house call, a water conservation specialist will walk with a customer through their home or property to help find ways to save water, set sprinkler timers and bring free water-saving tools, including high-efficiency showerheads and faucet aerators.

"Customers can also get prequalified for one of the many water-saving rebates we offer," said Granger.

Customers can see how much water they use each day on their utility bills.

To schedule a free house call, email the water conservation team at waterconservation@cityofsacramento.org or call 916-808-5605. ★

Limited Entertainment Permit Provides Options for More Businesses

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The City of Sacramento has officially launched its new Limited Entertainment Permit, offering a more accessible option for businesses where entertainment is a secondary use.

The permit is tailored for venues with a maximum occupancy of 299 and is intended for businesses not traditionally considered entertainment venues, such as restaurants, coffee shops and wine bars.

Approved by the City Council earlier this year, the permit was developed as a collaboration between the Office of Nighttime Economy and the newly-formed Entertainment Services Division.

"The new Limited Entertainment Permit is a significant step in supporting Sacramento's creative economy," said Melissa Romero, Entertainment Services manager. "By simplifying the permitting process, we're making it easier for businesses to host live entertainment while ensuring compliance with the city's noise and occupancy standards. This initiative creates more opportunities for local artists and enhances the city's social vibrancy."

The new permit aims to expand entertainment opportunities across a broader range of business types and neighborhoods, while bolstering the city's creative economy. It is part of a broader effort to support Sacramento's vibrant nightlife, live music scene and social economy while removing traditional barriers for smaller establishments.

Under the permit, entertainment can be offered until 10 p.m. on weekdays and 11 p.m. on weekends. Unlike the city's general entertainment permit, which costs over $2,000, the LEP has a lower fee of $750 for a two-year term, with renewals costing $650.

The LEP also supports equity by encouraging entertainment offerings in neighborhoods beyond downtown and midtown.

"I'm excited about the new limited entertainment permits and what they mean for our corridor," said Candace Brooks, executive director of the Del Paso Boulevard Partnership. "This is a long-awaited opportunity for our restaurants, coffee shops, cafes and lounges to legally activate their spaces with live entertainment. It's a major step forward in supporting our local businesses, enhancing the cultural vibrancy of our district and creating more reasons for people to explore and enjoy all that Old North Sacramento has to offer."

The creation of the permit stems from recommendations in the Sociable City Assessment and the Sacramento Music Census, both of which emphasized the need for more flexible and scalable entertainment permitting to nurture the region's growing music and nightlife culture. ★
