By Idaly Valencia

LAND PARK, CA (MPG) - As summer winds down, students are preparing for the start of a new school year by gathering school supplies, updating wardrobes and filling backpacks.

For Land Park schools, Sacramento City Unified School District classes for the 2025-26 academic year are set to begin on Aug. 18.

A series of back-to-school celebrations and resource fairs are scheduled in the area, offering free school supplies, food, services and entertainment.

Here a few events students and their families can attend to be ready for the first day of school.

William Land Elementary Scavenger Hunt & Orientation

For families with students starting at William Land Elementary School, there will be two orientations for Transitional Kindergarten (TK) and Kindergarten grades on Aug. 11.

Both will include a fun scavenger hunt on campus to help students become excited about their education while offering parents an opportunity to learn about school resources.

The TK (Transitional Kindergarten) orientation and scavenger hunt will start at 9 a.m. The kindergarten orientation and scavenger hunt starts at

I Street Bridge Replacement has 2026 Build Start

City of Sacramento
News Release

SACRAMENTO/WEST SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The City of Sacramento is moving one step closer to breaking ground on the long-anticipated I Street Bridge Replacement Project, a transformative effort that will replace the existing 113-year-old bridge with a new multimodal crossing linking Sacramento and West Sacramento.

Sacramento city staff presented an update on the project's funding and financing strategy at the July 29 Sacramento City Council meeting.

The update outlined major progress toward construction in 2026, thanks to recent commitments of state and federal funding and ongoing efforts to finalize interagency financing agreements.

The project has benefited from strong and sustained leadership at the local, state and federal levels. U.S. Congresswoman Doris Matsui has championed the project from the beginning, even proposing the architectural design competition that helped shape the bridge's final look.

State Senators Angelique Ashby and Christopher Cabaldon have also played key roles, advocating for funding and interagency collaboration.

"This is not just a bridge; it's a once-in-a-generation investment in connectivity, safety and opportunity for both cities," said Assistant City Manager Ryan Moore. "We're deeply grateful to all of our local, regional, state and federal partners who continue to work alongside us to bring this vision to life."

The replacement bridge will feature 12-foot

Apply Now for Calling All Dreamers Business Incubator

Downtown Sacramento Partnership News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Downtown Sacramento Foundation is encouraging entrepreneurs to submit their big ideas in the 13th annual Calling All Dreamers business incubator. This program provides a one-of-a-kind chance for aspiring business owners to receive resources and support to launch their dream business.

Applications can be submitted online at CallingAllDreamers.org through 11:59 p.m. Sept. 1.

Now entering its 13th year as a business incubation program, last year's Calling All Dreamers winner signed a lease in Old Sacramento Waterfront and plans to open in September.

Last year's runner-up is in lease negotiations and plans to sign a lease this summer.

"Calling All Dreamers is a great opportunity for entrepreneurs to connect with local experts to develop and elevate their business models," said Andrew LaFrance, business development manager at Downtown Sacramento Partnership and program manager for Calling All Dreamers.

"This free program has assisted nearly 40 retail, food-based and experience-based businesses with opening in Sacramento since 2013. I am eager to see which exciting business concepts participate in the 13th season of this impactful program that has brought so much value to the downtown community."

Selected applicants will participate in business development workshops that call for extensive planning, market research and proof of financial sustainability. After several months, the top five concepts are chosen to move forward and are eligible to receive a $5,000 to $20,000 cash infusion into their business provided they complete the program and sign a lease in Downtown Sacramento Partnership's district within one year.

Leading the cohort through the process is a special selection committee formed by the Downtown Sacramento Foundation, including prominent business leaders and SCORE volunteers who assist them in building out their business plan and financial projections. Ultimately, the committee will select the most viable candidate to receive the cash infusion to assist the successful launch of their downtown Sacramento storefront.

After being selected by a committee in early September, the cohort attend a variety of business workshops from September through November.

The selection committee will choose the five program finalists in December and the finalists will practice and deliver a final pitch in February. The final awardee and runner-up will be announced in February 2026. ★

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

Imagine having the confidence to forgo college basketball entirely and jump straight from high school to professional basketball. That's what Jonathan Kuminga did and so did Kobe Bryant and Lebron James. Things turned out pretty well for those two, and it may turn out well for Kuminga too. The only question is, will it be in a Sacramento Kings uniform?

Well, that's the question on the mind of every Kings fan, largely because that's the current talk of the town.

The Warriors, after surprising everyone and acquiring Jimmy Butler late last season, are apparently prepared to part ways with 22-year old Kuminga, and the Sacramento Kings are interested.

Should the two teams come to an agreement, the Kings would finally complete the missing piece they have long been looking for, front court help to compliment Keegan Murray.

The Kings have met with Kuminga and it's been reported that Kuminga is eager to join the beam team, and travel 90 miles north to unite with the Warriors closest rival.

Times in San Francisco have been tumultuous for young Kuminga, and he has fallen into disfavor with coach Steve Kerr. Stories vary as to the reason for his fall from grace, but reportedly Kerr is unhappy with Kuminga's desire to elevate his game and not play within the team style that Kerr desires.

Without question, Kuminga's beginning in the NBA could not have been any meteoric, as the Warriors captured the NBA title in Kuminga's rookie season.

Kuminga contributed nearly 10 points per game in his rookie campaign while logging just under 17 minutes per game.

Kuminga has steadily improved his game, but he has plateaued the past 2 season's averaging 15 points and just under 5 rebounds per game.

The age-old problem of minutes is the issue, and with stars Stephen Curry, Jimmy Butler, and Draymond Green, breaking into the starting lineup does not appear to be a realistic outcome for Kuminga.

The Kings are undoubtedly assuring a starting position in the negotiations, and Kuminga has expressed a real interest in joining the Sactown boys.

I can envision the first time the Warriors come to town, with Kuminga lighting things up and showing the Warriors what they passed up on. Maybe lighting the beam with a smile to match.

This is not a done deal Kings fans, but it is not pie in the sky either. If the Warriors don't move Kuminga this season, they will run the risk of him signing elsewhere and receiving no compensation. Suffice to say, the Warriors are smarter than that, so making a good deal for Kuminga now makes loads of sense, and I believe Scott Perry is trying to help the Warriors do just that.

If reports are accurate, that means the Kings will in all probability say goodbye to Malik Monk, while including a first-round draft choice in the deal. The sticking point has been whether the pick will be unrestricted, and it's my view that in all likelihood the Kings may have to acquiesce to get this trade consummated.

Without question the NBA has yet to see the best of Kuminga, and there is no question in my mind that this talented young player could be the missing ingredient the Kings have long been looking for.

Sadly, trades that are as public as this one rarely come to fruition, so say your prayers Kings fans, because I do not see a down side to welcoming Kuminga into the Sactown family!

Summertime can be tormenting for true basketball fans, and with the summer league concluding, trade rumors that can change the landscape of the hometown team in a positive way, are just what Kings fans need to while away the hours waiting for training camp to begin.

Not to be lost in the Kuminga hype, is current Kings power forward Trey Lyles who is currently a free agent. At 6'9" and 234 lbs., Lyles represents a big body and someone that the Kings can count on off the bench. Losing him would be a critical mistake and would remind me of the faux pas made just a season ago when Davion Mitchell slipped through their fingers and was unceremoniously traded to the Toronto Raptors.

Stay positive Kings fans, because Scott Perry brings with him much needed experience in the front office, at a time when a steady hand is very much required.

All the best!

Social Security Matters

Why Hasn't My SS Benefit Changed Because I Am Still Working?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am currently receiving Social Security benefits while continuing to work full time. There are no restrictions on my wage earnings because I waited until full retirement age before beginning benefits. However, I was also told that my benefit amount would be reviewed each year if my current earnings were higher than past earnings. That held true for the first two years but has yet to be adjusted for 2025. I thought it might be because of HR 82, which does not impact me directly, but I think it may be the reason my payment has not yet been changed. Has enough time passed so I should contact SSA now to see if this is the case? Signed: Waiting Anxiously .

Dear Waiting: If you are already collecting benefits, Social Security reviews your earnings each year to see if your more recent earnings are high enough to warrant an increase in your monthly benefit. They do this automatically, after they get your most recent earnings data from the IRS, and they typically do that review by the end of the 3rd quarter of each year. If a higher benefit is indicated, they will increase your monthly amount and pay you retroactively to the beginning of the year for any difference in your benefit.

SSA has, indeed, been vigorously working on changes resulting from HR82 (the Social Security Fairness Act), which may have affected the timeliness of their review of your recent earnings. However, I suspect that is not why your SS benefit has not yet changed. More likely, it has to do with the fact that your past earnings have been adjusted for inflation (which is a normal part of Social Security's process when calculating your benefit amount). Your earnings for each year in your lifetime (up to age 60) were adjusted for inflation when you originally claimed SS, and your recent earnings would need to be higher than the inflation-adjusted amounts used by SS when you claimed. They use the 35 highest earnings years (adjusted for inflation) over your lifetime to calculate your benefit, and inflation has a substantial effect. For example, $50,000 earned in 1990 would require over $100,000 in earnings today to cause an increase in your benefit. Thus, you cannot go by the actual dollars you earned in earlier years, because SS uses inflated amounts to calculate your benefit.

In any case, if you believe that the Social Security Administration neglected reviewing your earnings from last year, or in any year since you claimed, you can make an appointment to review that with them by calling 1.800.772.1213. SSA typically does such appointments over the phone, so you likely won't need to make a personal visit to your local SSA office to investigate this.

California Is Finally Adopting Phonics

Fulfilling A Grandmother's Dream

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Marion Joseph died in 2022 and therefore cannot celebrate what at long last is happening in California to improve children's abysmal levels of reading comprehension.

Joseph, a renowned expert on reading instruction, came out of retirement in the 1980s to wage a personal crusade for the adoption of phonics, doing battle with educators who stubbornly supported a rival system called "whole language" that was failing to raise reading scores.

Phonics stresses fundamental instruction in the letters and letter combinations that make up sounds, thus allowing children to "sound out" words and later whole sentences and passages. The whole language approach assumes that reading is a naturally learned skill, much like speaking, and that exposing children to reading material will allow it to emerge.

Having realized that her own grandson, then a first-grader, was having difficulty with reading, Joseph began pestering the state's politicians to adopt phonics, persuading then-Gov. Pete Wilson in the 1990s to appoint her to a commission on reading instruction and then the state Board of Education, platforms from which she could pursue her mission.

However, she achieved only modest success in what were dubbed "reading wars," and after she left the school board the whole language approach re-emerged as dominant.

Reading scores on state and national academic tests continued to languish, with fewer than half of fourth-graders reading at an acceptable level.

School districts that had voluntarily adopted phonics demonstrated remarkable gains. They recognized that the ability to read is fundamental to succeeding in other academic skills, such as mathematics.

Finally substantial numbers of legislators decided to intervene, and a pro-phonics contingent began pushing measures that would compel school districts to adopt what has been dubbed the "science of reading," backed by a phalanx of education reformers.

Gov. Gavin Newsom, who has struggled with dyslexia, a disorder affecting his ability to read, supported the efforts and included $200 million in the 2025-26 state budget to train teachers in phonics.

Meanwhile Assembly Bill 1454 is moving quickly through the legislative process. Sponsored by pro-phonics legislators including Assembly Speaker Robert Rivas, it would require the state Board of Education to adopt phonics-based instructional materials and include phonics in reading teacher credential programs.

The pro-phonics moves are drawing praise from EdVoice and dozens of other educational reform groups.

"When a child learns to read, they don't just decode letters on a page, they begin to dream bigger, think more critically, and imagine a future beyond what they can see. Today's committee approval brings us one step closer to all California children reading at grade level," said Marshall Tuck, CEO of Ed Voice, after the bill cleared the Senate Education Committee last week.

Assemblymember Blanca Rubio, a West Covina Democrat who has become the Legislature's top phonics advocate, said, "After months of hard work and collaboration, we are making steady progress toward delivering on our promise to teach all California children to read. The support we saw today in the Senate Education Committee moves us closer to ensuring that no child falls through the cracks because they weren't taught to read using scientifically proven reading methods. The continued bipartisan support on this bill tells us that California is ready and motivated to lead on literacy."

The actions fall a bit short of requiring local school districts to adopt phonics, but they go a long way toward achieving Marion Joseph's goal.

Dan Walters is one of the most decorated and widely syndicated columnists in California history, authoring a column four times a week that offers his view and analysis of the state's political, economic, social and demographic trends. ★

Hamas is to Blame for Gaza's Woes

Hamas started a war, rejected a ceasefire and stole and profited from humanitarian aid, and we are supposed to believe that it's all Israel's fault.

International attention is focused on food shortages in Gaza, with the blame and the pressure -- as always -- on Israel to do something about it.

It is always difficult to get to the ground truth in Gaza, which is shrouded in the fog of war, of Hamas propaganda and of slanted media coverage, but there appears indeed to be a brewing humanitarian crisis.

Israel stopped shipments of aid into Gaza in March after a temporary ceasefire expired, and then started them up again in May, using the so-called Israel- and U.S.-backed Gaza Humanitarian Foundation (GHF) as the conduit. The stoppage in aid, coupled with inadequate GHF operations, has led to the current situation.

It's necessary to understand the larger context, though. Israel halted food shipments as a means to deny Hamas revenue, not to target the general population.

The terror group had perfected the art of exploiting humanitarian aid (and commercial transactions) for its own purposes via theft and taxes, plowing the proceeds into its military operations.

Although there is now an effort by Israel's critics to portray the concern over Hamas profiteering as fabricated or exaggerated, there is no doubt that this business model was crucial to the terror group. Both The Wall Street Journal ("A Depleted Hamas Is So Low on Cash That It Can't Pay Its Fighters") and The Washington Post ("Hamas Facing Financial and Administrative Crisis as Revenue Dries Up") have run reports on the squeeze felt by Hamas.

The Journal article back in April noted that the cash crunch with the cut off in aid was "making it harder for Hamas to bring in new recruits and maintain cohesion." The Washington Post reported about a week ago: "With its coffers depleted, Hamas's military wing can no longer adequately pay the salaries of its fighters, though it is still able to recruit teenage boys for missions like keeping lookout or placing explosives along Israeli military routes."

Making it harder for your enemy to pay its fighters and secure new ones is an important and legitimate military goal. The problem is the potential cost to people in Gaza who aren't combatants.

The hostages are just another consequence of how deeply embedded Hamas is in Gaza society. This isn't a group of terrorists who moved into territory adjacent to Israel to launch the Oct. 7 attacks and could be quickly extricated by an intense military operation. Hamas has been the government of Gaza for a couple of decades, and has used every instrument of political and social influence at its disposal -- including the distribution of food -- to build its military capacity.

It's important to remember that Israel didn't start this war, that it'd much rather be fighting a conventional military force that abided by the rules of war, and that Hamas still holds Israeli hostages and has taken a rejectionist attitude to ceasefire talks.

Even Emperor Hirohito thought his people had suffered enough at the conclusion of World War II, but Hamas considers the agony of Gazans a useful weapon in the narrative war. From this perverted point of view, a famine would be welcome news, perhaps forcing Israel to stay its hand and leave Hamas to fight another day.

Clearly, Israel needs to find better ways to get aid into Gaza. The GHF hasn't gotten the support that it needed from the U.N. and other agencies (they are too invested in the corrupt status quo), while the distribution points for aid are chaotic and dangerous.

The best thing that could happen would be an end to the war with a decent political authority -- more invested in the general welfare than in tunnels and rockets-- finally in charge of Gaza. But Hamas would rather see the population starve than give up on the war, or its grip on power.

Trio of Hornets Taken on Day Two of Major League Baseball Draft

Sacramento State Athletics News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Three Sacramento State baseball players were selected on day two of the 2025 Major League Baseball Draft on Monday, as right-hander Carson Latimer (Cincinnati), infielder JP Smith (Minnesota), and right-hander Kade Brown (Athletics) were among the 615 players chosen overall during the league's two-day event.

This year's trio becomes the 30th, 31st, and 32nd Hornets either to be drafted or to sign a professional contract with a Major League club under Head Coach Reggie Christiansen since 2011 and marks the 19th consecutive season that a Sacramento State baseball player has been drafted or signed since 2007.

Taken with the 354th overall pick in the 12th round, Latimer became the highest drafted Hornet since Travis Adams (sixth round) and Scott Randall (seventh round) were top-10 round selections in 2021 and is the seventh Sacramento State player drafted by the Reds in program history, the first since infielder Ray Brown was selected in the 28th round in 1994.

In his first season with the Hornets, Latimer made 15 appearances on the mound and started seven games for Sacramento State, finishing 2-3 overall with 28 strikeouts in 36.2 innings of work. He struck out a season-high five in

The Hornets' three draftees this year mark the first time since 2019 that three Sacramento State players were selected in the same season when Austin Roberts was picked by Pittsburgh in the eighth round, Tanner Dalton was selected by the Chicago Cubs in the 17th round and Parker Brahm was drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 27th round. three innings against Abilene Christian on April 5 and had four more strikeouts in three innings against UT Arlington on March 22. Against California Baptist on April 18, he allowed just one hit over four shutout innings, striking out three Lancers.

Smith was selected with the 509th overall pick in the 17th round by Minnesota and became only the fourth Hornet to be drafted by the Twins in program history joining Tanner Mendonca (17th round in 2013), Tyler Beardsley (16th round in 2016), and the aforementioned Adams, who made his Major League debut earlier this month and picked up his first career victory on July 12.

A first-team All-Western Athletic Conference selection for the second time in his career in 2025, Smith finished the campaign hitting .291 while starting all 58 games, scoring 42 runs, collecting 18 doubles, and slugging 12 home runs to go along with a team-high 52 RBI. He ranked in the top 15 in the WAC in hits (t12th), RBI (t8th), doubles (6th), home runs (t9th), and total bases (10th).

Brown became the third Sacramento State player selected on Monday, taken by the Athletics in the 20th round (590th overall). It marked the second straight year that the Athletics drafted a Hornet after taking infielder Gunner Gouldsmith in the 19th round in 2024, while Brown became the ninth Sacramento State player to go from Hornet green and gold to Athletics green and gold.

A third-team All-America selection and finalist for the "Stopper of the Year" by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association, Brown was a first-team All-Western Athletic Conference selection in 2025, finishing 3-2 on the mound with a 2.93 ERA, posted 49 strikeouts over 43 innings of work, and held opponents to a .204 average. A three-time All-WAC selection during his career and the school's all-time leader in home runs with 48 over his three seasons, Smith ranked in the top 15 in the WAC in hits (t12th), RBI (t8th), doubles (6th), home runs (t9th), and total bases (10th) this past year.

The Hornets' three draftees this year mark the first time since 2019 that three Sacramento State players were selected in the same season when Austin Roberts was picked by Pittsburgh in the eighth round, Tanner Dalton was selected by the Chicago Cubs in the 17th round and Parker Brahm was drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 27th round.

It also represents the first time that three Sacramento State players were drafted in the top 20 rounds since 2003 when right-hander Chris Kinsey was selected by Arizona in the fourth round, Jesse Schmidt was taken in the 10th round by San Francisco and Mikela Olsen was taken in the 15th round by Florida (now Miami).

In all, 10 former Hornets have appeared in a Major League game in the history of the program with five of them currently active on MLB rosters (as of July 14): Rhys Hoskins (Milwaukee), Nathan Lukes (Toronto), Sam Long (Kansas City), James Outman (Los Angeles Dodgers), and Adams (Minnesota). ★

Five Aggies Named FCS Football Central Preseason All-Americans

UC Davis Athletics News Release

DAVIS, CA (MPG) - Rex Connors and Hunter Ridley took home first team honors to lead the way for UC Davis football's five members on the FCS Football Central Preseason All-American list, with Winston Williams, Jacob Psyk and Porter Connors earning the honors.

Williams and Psyk were named to the second team while Porter Connors earned a third team nod. The Aggies were tied for the third-most members on the team joining fellow Big Sky Conference member Montana State, North Dakota State and South Dakota.

Rex Connors adds to a quickly filling trophy case with this being his second Preseason All-American honor this season having earned the nod from STATS Perform. The Aggie defensive back was also named the Big Sky Preseason Defensive Player of the Year (the first Aggie to earn that honor) and earned Preseason Big Sky All-Conference honors.

His 2024 All-American season was record-breaking finishing with a program record 74 solo tackles, finishing with a total tally of 115 on the season.

Ridley has had a busy summer of accolades, earning STATS Perform Second Team Preseason All-American honors along with being named Big Sky Preseason All-Conference. The Aggie primary kicker was also nominated for the 2025 Allstate AFCA Good Works Team. He was named a 2024 Fred Mitchell Award finalist after going 16-for-18 in field goals and hitting 56 PATs during the 2024 campaign.

Williams, who has already earned STATS Perform Second Team Preseason All-American and Big Sky Preseason All-Conference honors was also named the second-best returning tight end in the nation by HERO Sports.

He ended the 2024 season leading all Big Sky tight ends in touchdown receptions and he finished second in the nation for most receiving touchdowns by a tight end. When the year came to an end, Williams had racked up career numbers finishing with 265 receiving yards on 34 receptions, snagging six touchdowns while averaging 19.0 yards per game.

Psyk joined the Aggies during the offseason as a transfer after four seasons at Harvard. During his senior season Psyk was named All-Ivy League first team following a year where he ranked 29th in the nation in sacks, finishing with 26 tackles, 6.5 sacks, one forced fumbled and one recovery.

Porter gained STATS Perform Third Team Preseason All-American honors to go along with a Preseason Big Sky All-Conference nod. During the 2024 season he finished with 86 total tackles, made three interceptions and scored a defensive touchdown on a scoop and score in the season opener at California. His game at Cal earned him national defensive player of the week honors as the Aggie linebacker would go on to start 13 games over the remainder of the season.

Synchronizing Our Heart With Our Actions

BY NORRIS BURKES

Have you ever done the right thing in a difficult situation, but your heart said, "I'm just not feeling it"? If so, then you know how hard it is to sync your feelings with your actions.

I remember such a moment in 1995 in Mountain View, California where I was stationed at Onizuka Air Station. It was memorable because it was the very first time I shared a chaplain's assignment with a Catholic priest.

His name was Richard Regan.

Father Regan was a winsome and gregarious guy who was adored by his parishioners. We became fast friends, and he encouraged me to call him Richard, but around his parishioners, I had to call him "Father."

One weekday morning, Richard and I arrived in uniform for a meeting in our chapel office. As we walked toward the entryway, we met two contractors hired to refurbish the steps.

The two men scrambled to their feet. They looked past me and greeted Richard in a deep Irish brogue.

"Top o' the morning to ya', Father."

Richard returned a polished smile as we walked past them to enter our office suite.

Inside, I noted how the men barely glanced at me. Richard explained.

"I met them a few days ago and they asked about the Christian cross we both wear on our uniforms. I told them that I was a Catholic priest and you are a Protestant minister."

Richard described how the men looked down at their work in an awkward pause. "Is that so?" they asked.

"I hope that won't stop you from greeting him each morning too," Richard said.

"We'll greet him if you insist," one admitted, "but I'm afraid we'll be giving him a rather frosty 'top-o'-the-morning.'"

Richard laughed. The men didn't.

I had much in common with those men. We both were having trouble syncing our feelings with doing what we knew was right.

It was a stretch for me to call my friend "Father" because I was raised with the literal interpretation of Jesus' words in Mathew 23:9: "Do not call anyone on earth 'father,' for you have one Father, and he is in heaven." Yet I learned to do it because it was a professional courtesy of clerical protocol.

The catholic men, likely raised in the Northern Ireland conflict, probably found it difficult not to spit on Protestants, but the good Father's insistence encouraged them to do what was right.

Today, in the current political climate, I'm aware that there are many issues that work to separate us, such as gun control, immigration and abortion. These topics are difficult to decide, but we choose our views for various reasons based on our upbringing, personalities and experiences.

Yet as people of faith, we do know what is right between each other. Our faith demands we do unto others, as we would have them do unto us. We know for certain that we must love God with all our heart and our neighbor as our self.

So, even during these days of political madness and uncertainty, I hope we will pledge to ourselves and to our faith, to do the right thing between each other. We will remain civil and kind and will synchronize our faith with our actions.

As for the Irishmen, I told Richard that they'd warned a bit, but still hadn't wished me, "Top-o'-the-morning."

"Sounds like progress," he said.

"How so?"

"If they really didn't like you, they'd insult you with something like, 'May the cat eat you, and may the devil eat the cat.'"

I grinned. I suppose sometimes you take what you can get.

Discounted versions of all my books can be found on Amazon by searching for "Norris Burkes." Autographed copies can be obtained on my website www.thechaplain.net by sending a check for $20 for each book to 10566 Combie Rd. Suite 6643 Auburn, CA 95602.

Free City Service Can Help Save Water

Sacramento residents who need help cutting back on how much water they use this summer can schedule a free house call with the city's water conservation team. Image courtesy of Sacramento Regional Water Authority

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento residents who need help cutting back on how much water they use this summer can schedule a free house call with the city's water conservation team.

"This is a great opportunity for families that are using more than 500 gallons of water per day during the summer," said the city's water conservation coordinator, William Granger.

During a house call, a water conservation specialist will walk with a customer through their home or property to help find ways to save water, set sprinkler timers and bring free water-saving tools, including high-efficiency showerheads and faucet aerators.

"Customers can also get prequalified for one of the many water-saving rebates we offer," said Granger.

Customers can see how much water they use each day on their utility bills.

To schedule a free house call, email the water conservation team at waterconservation@cityofsacramento.org or call 916-808-5605. ★

Illegal Fireworks Citations Top $267,000

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The City of Sacramento has issued $267,000 in citations for illegal fireworks since the City Council approved higher penalties in June. The ordinance allows year-round enforcement and increased fines up to $10,000 for violations near parks, schools or critical infrastructure.

Of the total citation amount, $192,000 came from the Sacramento Fire Department, with the remaining $75,000 issued by the City's Code Enforcement Division.

This enforcement period spanned July 2 through July 5. During that time, 44 citations were issued compared to 55 in 2024. However, the dollar amount more than doubled compared to last year, when citations totaled approximately $100,000.

The ordinance also designates each firework as a separate violation, increasing the financial consequences for individuals caught using multiple illegal fireworks.

Residents reporting illegal fireworks should call the non-emergency fire number, 916-808-3473.

They also can use the free Sacramento Fire Department Community App, which is monitored by the Sacramento Fire Department. The app is available for Android and Apple. ★

William Land Elementary School is located at 2120 12th St.

Back-to-School Block Party: Community Love

Roberts Family Development Center, in partnership with Crown Connection, will host the Back-to-School Block Party: Community Love from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11.

This fourth annual event will be held at the center's campus located at 770 Darina Ave.

Focused on community support and unity, the event will provide free backpacks and school supplies, children's haircuts, food and drinks, games, music and face painting.

A variety of family-focused community resources will also be available to attendees.

YFC Block 2 School Bash

On Saturday, Aug. 16, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., the Greater Sacramento Urban League's Youth & Families Center and the Black Child Legacy Campaign will present the YFC Block 2 School Bash at Fourth Avenue Park.

The free event offers backpacks (while supplies last), food, music, games and vendor booths.

Families are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and enjoy a day filled with fun and connection.

Fourth Avenue Park is located at 4040 Fourth Ave.

Back 2 School Block Party

One of the largest events, the Back 2 School Block Party, will take place from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, Aug. 23, at McClatchy Park (3500 Fifth Ave.).

Hosted by the Hope Community Church, the event is entering its third year and aims to connect families with resources and provide a fun experience for youth in the community to become excited about the new school year.

Event highlights include a kids' zone with inflatable attractions, face painting and sensory-friendly activities. Children can also take photos with superhero characters.

"Back-to-school events are vital for our social fabric and cultivating healthy communities, especially in underserved areas," said

Hope Community Pastor Caleb Crenshaw. "It's a place to get necessities, connect to free community resources, enjoy a free hot-dog lunch while making memories with the family."

In addition to entertainment, the event provides a range of free services.

Haircuts will be offered on a first-come, first-served basis, ensuring that students can head into the classroom with confidence.

A free hot dog lunch will be served to all attendees and thousands of grocery bags and food packages will be available to take home.

More than 20 community resource vendors will share information and services ranging from nutritional support to free garden seeds.

Those who register in advance at thehope.cc/blockparty will be entered into a drawing for a chance to win a $100 gift card. For questions or vendor participation, community members can contact online info@thehope.cc. ★ shared-use paths for pedestrians and cyclists, wider travel lanes to accommodate buses and emergency vehicles, and improved connectivity to trails and (California Department of Transportation) has committed $250 million in federal Highway Bridge Program funds toward construction and the California Transportation Commission awarded an additional $25 million in competitive state funding earlier this summer.

I Street Bridge Replacement Has 2026 Build Start

The City of Sacramento is continuing to work with its partners to finalize key financing arrangements that will support the project's construction phase. Key next steps include presenting the financing strategy to the Sacramento Transportation Authority this month and submitting a final finance plan to Caltrans.

The City of Sacramento is also working with the City of West Sacramento to finalize cost-sharing agreements, with each city expected to contribute between $13 million and $32 million, depending on the final financing structure.

These agreements will require further Sacramento City Council review and approval, expected in September.

Construction is expected to begin in spring 2026 and take approximately four years to complete. ★

'Urban Dreams Art' Covers Midtown

display through Second Saturday on Sept. 13.

"Nearly a year in development and made possible by support from the office of Mayor Kevin McCarty, Supervisor Phil Serna, Sutter Health and Visit Sacramento, the all-new 'Urban Dreams Art Experience' is a truly ambitious and incredibly exciting project all at once," said Executive Director of the Midtown Association Emily Baime Michaels.

"We expect that this art experience will be a real tourism draw for the city. Each piece is unique and stunning in its own way. The art ranges in size, scope, subject matter and artist intent, which makes the initiative so intriguing.

"We look forward to uplifting our local arts community thoughtfully and intentionally and highly encourage the community to immerse themselves in exploring every facet of the pieces that are part of the Urban Dreams Art Experience."
