Battle Buddy Program Transforms Lives

Each participant received a custom wellness bag filled with items to support their journey—leashes, training treats, journals, essential oils, and stress-reduction tools tailored for veterans.

Stars and Stripes Dog Rescue News Release

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - "I didn't just train my dog; I found my peace," said one of the veterans, as her dog nestled beside her.

That sentiment echoed throughout the inaugural Battle Buddy Pilot Program, hosted by Stars and Stripes Dog Rescue, which wrapped this month with resounding success.

After months of planning, the program brought together veterans and their dogs in a powerful journey of healing, connection, and growth, leaving both ends of the leash stronger, calmer and more confident. The Healing through Battle Buddies initiative is a no-cost, community-centered pilot designed to help veterans bond with their own dogs in a supportive, therapeutic environment. Serving Citrus Heights, Fair Oaks and Orangevale, the program addresses invisible wounds, Post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), anxiety, depression and isolation; through the loyal companionship of dogs.

"Many veterans already have a dog at home that brings them comfort," said Susan Aimes, founder and executive director of Stars and Stripes Dog Rescue. "But they may not know how to channel that bond into something deeper and more therapeutic. That's where this program steps in."

Awareness and Accountability at Fentanyl Summit

Together, We Can Make a Difference

Story and photos by Seth Henderson

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Hundreds gathered from the Greater Sacramento Area for the annual Fentanyl Awareness and Action Summit at the Citrus Heights Event Center on Sept. 4, featuring resources and discussion panels regarding harm reduction, enforcement efforts, prevention and treatment.

According to the Sacramento County Coroner's Office, a 32% reduction in fentanyl-related deaths was recorded between 2023 and 2024, signaling a decline in fentanyl-related deaths for the second consecutive year, which is a critical milestone.

"Back in 2021, we saw an increase in fentanyl-related deaths here in Sacramento County," Lori Miller, the Sacramento County Department of Health division manager said during the event. "So the Department Health Services partnered with our district attorney's office locally to begin intervention, to combat the fentanyl and opioid crisis here and so forth as one area to focus on is to be able to provide education to raise awareness around fentanyl."

Doctors, county officials, law enforcement, advocates and survivors shared resources, their experiences, findings, solutions and sympathies in a large gathering hall at the event center. Tens of tables, seating about seven people each, filled the hall with information and resources, such as naloxone, commonly known as Narcan available on the tables.

Guest speakers and panelists advocated for the "lives of families who are still hurting," thanking law enforcement for their continued efforts in pursuing criminal

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Once a much-loved destination along Citrus Height's "restaurant row" on Sunrise Boulevard, the vacant 9,372-square-foot Marie Callender's restaurant, built in 1978 and opened in the early 1980s, was recently demolished by its new owner, Patterson Properties, to make way for a new, yet to be named quick-serve restaurant.

Demolition began early morning Aug. 28 and was generally finished by the afternoon of Aug. 29. Rows of chairs removed from inside the restaurant were placed outside by the demolition crew before the morning work began.

Many of those who stopped by for a last look at the restaurant before an excavator began tearing down its exterior walls said they will carry lasting memories of unforgettable pies, memorable meals and the restaurant staff's friendly service. The restaurant closed its doors in 2019.

Patterson Properties Inc., based in Roseville, recently closed escrow on the restaurant building at 5525 Sunrise Blvd., according to the Sacramento Business Journal. Asher Garden LLC, with an address in Beverly Hills, is listed as the seller in records.

Caroline Lafler and Brenda Miller of TRI Commercial Real Estate Services represented the seller in the deal. Torren Ragan, John Brecher and Dave White of Jones Lang LaSalle (JLL) in Sacramento represented the buyer, Patterson Properties, according to the Journal.

Signage was since been installed by the brokerage Jones Lang LaSalle of Sacramento in front of the former restaurant facing Sunrise Boulevard that describes the location as a "fully approved quick service restaurant (QSR) entitled site available for ground lease."

A current Loopnet listing describes the property at 5525 Sunrise Blvd. as the "only entitled QSR site that's ready to build in the Sunrise Marketplace corridor."

On June 10, the Citrus Heights Planning Commission members unanimously approved a design use permit in June to allow the construction of a new 5,000-square-foot quick serve, drive-thru restaurant that will feature two drive-through service lanes on 1.55 acres at the southwest corner of Sunrise Boulevard and Pebble Beach Drive.

Owner James Patterson, president of Patterson Properties, Inc. told the Citrus Heights Planning Commission that their unanimous decision could allow his investment and development firm to market the location to compatible users such as Chick-fil-A or In-N-Out Burger.

The civil engineering and land planning firm of Morton & Pitalo, Inc. in Folsom submitted project drawings on behalf of Patterson Properties.

Project drawings show a double lane drive-thru condensing down to a single lane around the final turn facing Pebble Beach Drive before the pick-up window. A 50-foot sloping landscape green belt will also face Sunrise Boulevard.

Pebble Beach Drive separates the planned quick service restaurant drive-thru from the Hibachi Buffet restaurant located next door.

The site plan also calls for the addition of 58 regular parking spaces, three Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliant parking spaces and 13 electric-vehicle-capable parking spaces.

Vehicular entrance points are from Birdcage Street, Pebble Beach Drive and through the parking lot shared by soon-to-be-opened Must Be Cow Korean BBQ restaurant, as well as the commercial office space facing Birdcage Drive. ★ guided sessions taught basic obedience, emotional support techniques and wellness practices that benefit both the human and the dog. The curriculum focused on mutual trust, positive reinforcement and mental wellness strategies designed to extend beyond the training field.

Unlike traditional service dog models, this veteran-driven approach empowers participants to be their own trainers, building self-reliance, emotional awareness and a deeper understanding of their dog's cues.

Veterans engaged in obstacle training, calming techniques and structured exercises. By the end, both handlers and dogs showed remarkable progress through reduced anxiety, improved responsiveness and a renewed sense of confidence.

Each participant received a custom wellness bag filled with items to support their journey:

leashes, training treats, journals, essential oils and stress-reduction tools tailored for veterans.

A heartfelt moment came when Orangevale residents Nancy and Judy donated handmade dog blankets to every team. Their gift added a personal touch, reminding veterans that their community stands behind them.

"It wasn't just about training; it was about learning to breathe, to connect and to grow together," shared one veteran.

Another added, "The wellness piece really hit home. I left feeling like I had tools to manage stress and a stronger bond with my dog."

With overwhelmingly positive feedback, Stars and Stripes Dog Rescue plans to expand the Battle Buddy Program in the coming year. They're actively seeking support from local businesses, veteran groups and donors to sustain and grow the mission.

"We believe that healing is strongest when it happens together, veteran and dog, side by side," said Aimes. "The pilot confirmed what we've always known: when we invest in the wellness of both, the results are life-changing."

Awareness and Accountability at Fentanyl Summit

charges for fentanyl dealers and other substances that have led to deaths.

Posters of individuals who lost their lives to fentanyl poisoning lined the perimeter of the event hall, resource rooms and hallways of the event center.

Stop Drug Homicide, a non-profit organization raising awareness about the criminality of drug-related deaths, was represented by Mareka Cole and Ricky Brazil, two parents who each lost a child to fentanyl poisoning.

“We’re having new parents that are joining our club that nobody wants to belong to: they’ve lost a child,” Cole said. “And it touches hearts and makes people aware that eventually, everybody will know somebody that has died of an illegal drug of fentanyl.”

It is critical to come together as one voice, Cole said, growing louder and finding larger venues to inform the community or anyone who is affected by fentanyl and other substances. With new designer drugs emerging, Cole said, she applauds law enforcement for holding convicted drug dealers accountable for homicide if their sale directly leads to an overdose.

Alexandra’s Law, Prop 36, mandates a formal court advisory of such actions by law enforcement so that convicted dealers are made aware of their right to be held accountable.

“My son died of carfentanil, which is 100 times more potent than fentanyl, and we’re working on an arrest and the person is still selling fentanyl,” Cole said. “So it’s real important that people will be held accountable.”

James Tur, M.D., spoke at the event and mentioned medicated assisted treatment for individuals experiencing overdose. Tur works with Sacramento Street Medicine, an organization created to provide high-quality healthcare to people experiencing homelessness, according to

“Something to think about with people that are overdosed and people that we’re trying to help is the idea of precipitated withdrawals,” Tur said. “But when you give someone the antidote for an overdose, you’re taking away the thing that’s making them feel good.”

Withdrawals can take place instantly, Tur said, and described a scenario where law enforcement could be administering an antidote and the patient is suddenly more agitated and sometimes aggressive.

“They didn’t know they were dying and now they’re feeling absolutely awful,” Tur said. “The worst feeling in their lives. So that could be very, very difficult.”

Tur said understanding the reasoning behind an overdose is not always clear, questioning intention or happenstance, and shared an experience where he lost a friend to an overdose, with Tur asking those same questions.

Said Pamela Hawkins, the health program manager with Behavioral Health Services Sacramento County Substance Use Prevention, “It’s been wonderful to be able to partner with everybody. We have folks who were all touched in some way. We have a lot of parents and loved ones who have lost their lives to fentanyl poisonings. And so it’s really important that the work that we’re doing to continue raising awareness, continue community efforts around this, and really focusing on further prevention, as well as expansion of treatment, making sure that people are aware of harm reduction strategies.”

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Constitution Discussion Groups (CDGs) of Sacramento, Placer and El Dorado counties are proud to announce their upcoming Constitution Day Celebration on Sunday, Sept. 21.

The free celebration presented by the Sacramento County Constitution Discussion Group includes family-fun activities, live music, educational activities and food trucks.

For the third year, this event will mark a significant occasion as we honor and reflect on the enduring principles of our nation's foundational document, which belongs to all of us, according to Kaye Lynn Peterson, the Sacramento Constitution Discussion Groups organizer.

The Constitution Day Celebration promises an engaging program designed to foster understanding and appreciation for the United States Constitution. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in thoughtful discussions, explore key constitutional topics and celebrate the legacy of this historic document, according to Peterson.

Travel Well

Have you been thinking of doing some out-of-country travel? Well, I spoke to a mother-daughter travel team on POPPTALK who told me travel can boost well-being. I countered with, if all goes well, right? So mom Dr. Evelyn Kelly and Natalie Kelly, world travelers, shared some great tips on how to make it a great time. When I say world travelers I am not kidding. They have been to 7 continents, 88 countries and all 50 USA states finding wellness in each adventure. They want to get all of us motivated in "Have A Love Affair With Travel" Your ticket to an exhilarating life.

- 1. PACKING HACKS. Travel light! Wear old underwear and toss it after use. Roll clothes in packing cubes to save space, and bring a wrap for planes, pillows, or modesty at religious sites. Skip expensive jewelry, carry tissues, and stash small drinks in zip-lock bags. Don't forget an empty water bottle to refill after security.
- 2. LUGGAGE HACKS. Snap a photo of your bag before checking it. Use TSA-approved locks, bright luggage bands, and Air Tags for tracking. Place your following lodging address inside your bag in case it goes astray.
- 3. SAFETY HACKS. Add a portable door stopper to hotel rooms. Use a two-wallet system: a "decoy" wallet for small cash, and a safe spot for cards and bigger amounts. Photograph your parking spot and hotel card, and always grab the hotel's business card.
- 4. DIGITAL AND POWER HACKS. Email yourself photos of key documents and keep a paper copy hidden in your shoe. Carry a mini power strip to charge multiple devices, use a data scrambler for public USB ports, and if needed, charge via the hotel TV.

5. CURRENCY HACKS. Bring crisp bills, especially $1s for tipping. Use an on-line currency converter app, exchange only small amounts at banks, and divide cash into multiple safe spots.

6. CLEAN CLOTHES HACKS. Wash essentials in the sink with detergent sheets and dry with the towel roll-and-ring method. Bring a washcloth because many hotels don't provide them.

7. LANGUAGE HACKS. Learn key local phrases or use a translator app for smooth communication.

8. AIRPORT AND JET LAG HACKS. Use TSA PreCheck or Global Entry, print a backup boarding pass, and follow the S.A.M. approach...Socks, Agua (water), Move. Reset your watch to destination time to fight jet lag.

9. CELL HACKS. Check your mobile plan. Consider an international package or local SIM, and use Wi-Fi apps to avoid roaming fees.

10. BUDGET HACKS. Maximize loyalty programs and travel rewards cards... points can mean free flights, upgrades, or hotel nights.

And don't give me that I'm too old thing. Mom, Evelyn, is 90 years old and wants to visit 100 countries by the time she's 100. Hope the good Lord helps her make it. Check out their website for more ideas www.travelers\(a\)theart.comtheart.com). So, get ready for your travels with "Have A Love Affair With Travel." Social Security Matters

Can I Claim My Own SS Benefit Now and Get Half of My Husband's Benefit Later?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I would like to get an answer concerning taking my Social Security benefit soon and switching to my spouse's benefit when he begins to take his. I am 64 years, 9 months old and my husband is 65 years, 7 months. My benefit is low due to the fact that I did not work for about 25 years while raising our children. My benefit would be $573 at age 65. My husband's benefit at age 67 will be $3,326. My first question is: can I receive half of my husband's benefit once he begins drawing his? Secondly, if I draw my benefit now will that reduce the amount I can draw from his benefit later? Signed: Ready to Collect

Dear Uncertain: As you may know, the full retirement age (FRA) for both you and your husband is 67. If either of you claim before your FRA your monthly SS retirement amount will be permanently reduced and, if you are currently working, you will be subject to Social Security's Annual Earnings Test (AET) which limits how much you can earn while collecting early benefits. The earnings limit for early filers is $23,400 for 2025 (changes yearly) and, if that is exceeded, SS will take away some of your benefits ($1 for every $2 over the limit). They "take away" by withholding future payments until the penalty is satisfied.

That said, if you claim your personal SS "soon" (e.g., at age 65), you will get about 87% of the amount you would get by waiting until your FRA to claim. You would, indeed, get a "spousal boost" when your husband claims, but you would not get 50% of his age 67 amount. That's because of the way spouse benefits are calculated. When your husband claims, you will get a "spousal boost" added to your early benefit amount ($573?). The amount of that spousal boost will be computed as 1/2 of your husband's FRA amount (e.g., $1663), minus your FRA entitlement (likely about $661) for a spousal boost of about $1002. But since you won't have yet reached your FRA when your husband claims, the amount of the spousal boost will also be reduced (to about $926), which will be added to your age 65 amount of $573 for a total monthly spousal benefit of about $1499.

So, the answers to your two questions are:

1. Because you claimed your Social Security retirement benefit early and won't yet be your full retirement age when your husband claims, you will not get half of your husband's benefit when he claims. You would likely get about 45% of his benefit.

2. If you take your own SS retirement benefit now, you will get a higher benefit when your husband claims, but the amount you get will be less than half of his FRA entitlement.

The only way you can get the full 50% of your husband's FRA benefit entitlement is to wait until your own full retirement age to claim Social Security.

team in Germany.

By 2013 Schroder had gained the attention of the NBA and was drafted 17th overall by the Atlanta Hawks, where he would carve out his young career for the next 5 years. In his last season with the Hawks Schroder scored a career-high 19.4 points per game while contributing 6.3 assists.

Over the next 7 seasons Dennis would go on the play for the Thunder, Lakers, Celtics, Raptors, Nets, Warriors, and Pistons, finally arriving in Sacramento to start the 2025/2026 campaign.

This much movement begs the question, is there something wrong, or is he just an immensely intriguing player with a wealth of experience?

I don't have the definitive answer, but I would say to those who ask, buy a ticket and come see this guy. For me he represents a complete ball player, expert at handling the basketball, able to score when needed, and an excellent passer with an unselfish spirit.

Do I think he can fit in with the Kings and provide the leadership needed to be the starting point guard. I absolutely do, and I think where other teams moved on, the Kings struck gold!

There remain many question marks as the upcoming season nears, but for me Dennis Schroder is not one of them. I believe in short order he will win over the naysayers in the cheap seats and may very well find a destination spot in Sacramento.

Defense has long been a thorn in the side of Sacramento, and Schroder has a reputation for playing tough defense. Not known for being a lock-down defender, Dennis has quick lateral ability, and his long wingspan helps make him a deflection specialist.

Keegan Murray made noticeable improvements in his defense last season, and Keon Ellis has developed into a tenacious defender. Adding a point guard that can complement these two will undoubtedly make a positive impact.

The preseason is almost upon us Kings fans, and I can't wait to see what this point guard in the prime of his career can give the Sacramento Kings.

Stay positive, because I feel that more moves are coming soon!

Your thoughts are always welcome at vgharriskingsfan@gmail.com. ★

How important is it to have a capable if not notable point guard on an NBA team?

Ask Magic Johnson, John Stockton, Steve Nash, Jason Kidd, Stephen Curry, Oscar Robertson or Isiah Thomas and you will get an overwhelming consensus.

Even though hall of famers, John Stockton and Steve Nash have never won a championship, having a top caliber point guard does not come with any guarantees.

Nonetheless, having a court general that can distribute the basketball, all the while controlling the tempo and avoiding needless turnovers, is a recipe for winning a lot of NBA games, and that is what every one of these stalwarts were good at.

The Sacramento Kings find themselves in an uneasy position as the regular season looms just weeks away, as for the past 7 years the point guard position was the one area that provided great optimism and not concern.

Drafting DeAaron Fox will be remembered as one of the more erudite maneuvers that the organization has ever made, and as the 2025/2026 season approaches, fans and pundits alike are watching to see how the next floor general will compete and lead the Sacramento Kings.

By reaching into the trade market and acquiring journeyman Dennis Schroder, the Kings are providing the team with a proven point guard that can not only be counted on night in, and night out but also provides young players like Devin Carter and Nique Clifford, a player that can mentor their young careers.

Dennis Schroder deserves no criticism, and it's my hope that not only will he find a team that can provide him with a long-term home, but that he will flourish in his new city.

It has been difficult for fans to let go of DeAaron Fox, and I completely understand. The situation was badly handled last season, and it left a bad taste. But as the new season begins, it's critical that the fan base gives the new floor leader a vote of confidence, and I believe that is just what we can expect to see from the Sacramento base.

So, just who is Dennis Schroder? Born in Braunschweig Germany, Dennis Schroder found basketball at the age of 11, and by the age of 19 was playing professionally in Germany. Showing an entrepreneurial spirit at an early age, Schroder became the owner of the Loewen Braunschweig, a professional

Lisa Cook is Wrong

Uncharacteristically for him, Donald Trump is being too modest in asserting his power over the Federal Reserve.

He's fired Lisa Cook "for cause," citing a clearly pretextual alleged mortgage infraction, when, as a constitutional matter, he should be able to fire her, or Chairman Jerome Powell, for any reason he deems appropriate.

The independence of the Federal Reserve largely rests on its status as a constitutional anomaly, exercising executive authority without being subject to the same rules as the rest of the executive branch. There are good policy reasons for this -- an independent central bank promotes monetary stability -- but the Fed has been granted, in effect, an exemption from our constitutional order for prudential reasons.

The Fed itself isn't in on the joke. Lisa Cook thinks she can't be fired and is suing to keep her job, while Jerome Powell has laughably maintained that he can't be removed from the chairmanship.

Cook can only be given a pink slip for "cause," according to the statute. "Cause" is a broad term, though. If it is interpreted the usual way, it would include a refusal to carry out a presidential directive or policy disagreements. As for Powell, there isn't even any statutory restriction on dismissing him as chairman.

The head of the Consumer Finance Protection Bureau was also supposed to be insulated from removal thanks to a provision saying that it had to be "for cause." How did that turn out? In 2020, the Supreme Court held that such a constraint was unconstitutional.

This decision was in keeping with the Court's recent drive to vindicate the president's power to fire at will officials whose agencies carry out executive functions.

Article II of the Constitution doesn't explicitly say the president can fire executive-branch officials, but it is implied in the president's power to run the executive branch, as such Founding-era luminaries as James Madison, Alexander Hamilton, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson recognized.

In a 1922 Supreme Court case, Chief Justice Taft wrote for the majority that as the president's "selection of administrative officers is essential to the execution of the laws by him, so must be his power of removing those for whom he cannot continue to be responsible."

The rise of independent agencies with the New Deal and a Supreme Court decision called Humphrey's Executor, saying FDR couldn't fire at will the commissioner of the Federal Trade Commission, sent the removal power into retreat.

But the decision in the CFPB case undercut the logic of Humphrey's Executor, as have other recent decisions. In a concurrence in the CFPB case, Clarence Thomas said it wasn't clear what was left of the reasoning of Humphrey's. Whatever remained, he wrote, wasn't enough "to justify the numerous, unaccountable independent agencies that currently exercise vast executive power outside the bounds of our constitutional structure." That should have gotten the Fed's attention.

The Court has sidestepped the status of the Federal Reserve in its removal-power jurisprudence. But there's no legal reason that it should be considered an oasis standing apart from the Court's ruling that there is no "de facto fourth branch of government" lacking "accountability to either the president or the people."

The Fed clearly exercises executive power in its vast regulatory functions, just as the CFPB does. It promulgates rules, polices banks, and issues fines. The Court has held that if an agency exercises executive power only in a fraction of its functions, it is subject to the president's removal power.

The cleanest solution would be to pass a constitutional amendment authorizing an independent Fed or a similar entity. Short of that, the Federal Reserve's regulatory functions could be handed over to another executive agency (although core monetary functions of the Fed also may be executive in nature).

The Supreme Court will surely be reluctant to grasp the nettle on the Fed. Yet, there's little doubt that, on the legal merits, Lisa Cook should be sending out her resume.

New California Law to Make Housing Projects Easier, Cost More

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Two months ago, Gov. Gavin Newsom and legislators from both parties celebrated enacting landmark legislation to remove the California Environmental Quality Act as an impediment to new housing construction.

Lopsided votes in the Legislature for Assembly Bill 130 and Newsom's immediate signature seemingly ended decades of debate over how the environmental law, signed by then-Gov. Ronald Reagan more than 50 years ago, was being used to delay or kill residential developments.

"Saying 'no' to housing in my community will no longer be state sanctioned," said Assemblymember Buffy Wicks, an Oakland Democrat who has long advocated for CEQA reform. "This isn't going to solve all of our housing problems in the state, but it is going to remove the single biggest impediment to building environmentally friendly housing."

Newsom took obvious pleasure in achieving what had eluded other governors, including predecessor Jerry Brown, who once described overhauling CEQA as "the lord's work."

As Newsom signed the measure into law he thanked legislators and housing, labor and environmental leaders "who heeded my call and came together around a common goal — to build more housing faster and create strong, affordable pathways for every Californian.

"Today's bill is a game changer which will be felt for generations to come," he said.

While AB130 does remove CEQA as a weapon for labor unions and opponents of high-density projects to stall construction, there's a provision buried in the lengthy bill that could create a new impediment.

Two sections, 137 pages in, declare that if a residential project has "significant transportation impact," local governments or regional agencies can impose fees to "mitigate the transportation impact to a less than significant level by helping to fund or otherwise facilitating vehicle miles traveled-efficient affordable housing or related infrastructure projects..."

The so-called vehicle miles traveled, or VMT, fees are "a new housing tax families simply cannot afford," the California Building Industry Association publicly complained, adding that impact fees are already major factors in housing costs.

Local traffic impact fees are not new. In fact, a dispute over a $23,420 traffic mitigation fee imposed nine years ago for a factory-built house in El Dorado County is still pending after going all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

However, AB 130 appears to broaden the potential use of these fees not only for roadway improvements, but also to pay for low-income housing projects throughout the state by contributing to the state's Transit-Oriented Development

Implementation Fund.

Drafting AB 130's CEQA language was a complex process involving multiple stakeholders, not only housing advocates but environmental groups that often employ CEQA to slow or kill major public and private developments and labor unions, which have used the threat of CEQA lawsuits to compel developers to use union workers. The latter issue was a major hang-up that required last-minute amendments to the measure.

The language about traffic fees was never mentioned in analyses of the bill nor in the debates that preceded legislative passage. It's another example of how such budget trailer bills are used by governors and legislators to enact major legislation on the sly, with little or no public airing of the issues.

Trailer bills often contain language that has little or nothing to do with the budget and are often fleshed out just hours before enactment. Under the guise of being budget-related, the bills can be passed with simple majority floor votes, take effect immediately upon being signed by the governor and cannot be taken to voters via referendum.

Those factors make trailer bills convenient vehicles for legislation that might not survive close scrutiny. Newsom has been especially willing to utilize them for his legislative priorities.

Having Sense of Purpose Helps Reduce Dementia Risk

University of California, Davis Health News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Research into Blue Zones, regions of the world where people tend to live longer, shows that having a sense of purpose in life could help people live longer.

Now, new research from University of California, Davis shows that having a sense of purpose in life could have another benefit as people age: reducing the risk of dementia.

The new study, published in The American Journal of Geriatric Psychiatry, followed more than 13,000 adults aged 45 and older for up to 15 years.

Researchers found that people who reported a higher sense of purpose in life were about 28% less likely to develop cognitive impairment, including mild cognitive impairment and dementia.

The protective effect of having a purpose was seen across racial and ethnic groups. It also remained significant even after accounting for education, depression and the APOE4 gene, which is a known risk factor for Alzheimer's disease.

"Our findings show that having a sense of purpose helps the brain stay resilient with age," said Aliza Wingo, senior author and professor in the UC Davis Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences. "Even for people with a genetic risk for Alzheimer's disease, sense of purpose was linked to a later onset and lower likelihood of developing dementia."

Participants were not specifically asked about the activities that gave their life purpose. Previous studies on aging, though, have found a wide range of activities give older adults a sense of life purpose, sometimes referred to as "ikigai." These include relationships caring for family, spending time with grandchildren or supporting a spouse or friend; and working, mentoring or contributing/volunteering to community causes. Also included are religious beliefs, spiritual practices or involvement in faith-based communities; pursuing hobbies, learning new skills or setting and achieving personal milestones; and helping others through acts of kindness, philanthropy, caregiving or advocacy work.

Researchers also found that people with higher purpose tended to experience cognitive decline later than those with lower purpose. On average, the delay in onset was very modest, about 1.4 months over an eight-year period, after considering the effects of age, education, depressive symptoms and genetic risk. However, it is meaningful when compared to current treatments.

"While medications like lecanemab and donanemab can modestly delay symptoms of cognitive impairment in Alzheimer's disease, they come with risks and costs," said Nicholas C. Howard, first author and public health researcher at UC Davis. "Purpose in life is free, safe and accessible. It's something people can build through relationships, goals and meaningful activities."

Participants in the study were part of the Health and Retirement Study, a nationally representative survey funded by the National Institute on Aging. All had normal cognitive health at the beginning of the study.

Researchers used a seven-item survey from the Ryff Measures of Psychological Well-being. Participants had six possible responses (from "strongly agree" to "strongly disagree") for statements such as: "I am an active person in carrying out the plans I set for myself" and "I have a sense of direction and purpose in my life." Their answers were scored and averaged to obtain a well-being number between 1 and 6, with higher values indicating a strong sense of purpose in life.

Their cognitive health was tracked using a telephone-based test every two years.

The researchers noted the study has many strengths, including the size of the population studied. However, a key limitation is that the study did not prove higher levels of purpose caused the lowered rates of dementia, although there was an association.

Still, the findings support the idea that psychological well-being plays a key role in healthy aging, according to Thomas Wingo, a co-author of the study and a professor and neurologist at UC Davis Health. Wingo hopes that future studies will explore whether purpose-building interventions can help prevent dementia.

"What's exciting about this study is that people may be able to 'think' themselves into better health. Purpose in life is something we can nurture," Wingo said. "It's never too early or too late to start thinking about what gives your life meaning." ★

Annual Fundraising Event to Support Life-Changing Healthcare

Asha USA News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Friends of Asha USA, Sacramento's annual fundraising event on Sept. 28 is dedicated to raising critical funds for healthcare and community programs in the slums of Delhi, India.

This annual event, a key date in the Asha calendar, brings together supporters throughout the United States to make a tangible difference in the lives of thousands of underprivileged families.

Funds raised will go directly to Asha Society's healthcare work in communities in Lal Bagh, one of Delhi's largest slum clusters. Home to more than 6,000 people, Lal Bagh faces severe challenges: overcrowding, poor sanitation, inadequate housing and minimal access to medical care. Residents often suffer from chronic illnesses such as asthma, tuberculosis, diabetes, skin infections, anemia and hypertension.

Asha Society, founded in 1988 by Dr. Kiran Martin, works to break the cycle of poverty in Delhi's slums through health, education, empowerment and financial inclusion.

Over the past 37 years, the nonprofit Asha organization has transformed the lives of more than one million people. Women especially will receive dedicated attention through antenatal and postnatal care programs, while children's health will be addressed through nutritional and medical support.

Asha also places a special focus on the elderly, who are often the most neglected and isolated in slum communities, many living alone or depending on struggling caregivers while battling chronic conditions such as arthritis, diabetes and respiratory issues.

Martin's tireless work has been internationally recognized, including receiving one of India's highest civilian honors, the Padma Shri Award, for her outstanding service to society.

Friends of Asha USA is inviting the public to join this mission of hope and change. The event promises inspiring stories from the communities, updates on healthcare programs, and opportunities for guests to contribute toward a healthier, brighter future for Delhi's slum residents.

The event is from 5:30 to 9 p.m. Sept. 28 and is free to attend with dinner included at the Maidu Community Center, located at 1550 Maidu Drive, Roseville.

To RSVP and for more information, call Sunita Kapoor at 916-335-8407 or email kapoor264@gmail.com.

Women's and Children's Center Celebrates Decade of Care

More than 61,605 Babies Delivered There So Far

Sutter Health News Release

Editor's Note: The Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center's patients are from throughout Northern California and beyond, including from Sacramento, Yuba/Sutter, Yolo, Placer, El Dorado and Stanislaus counties. The center held a 10th-anniversary celebration on Aug. 21.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - When Sutter Medical Center, Sacramento's new Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center opened in Midtown on Aug. 8, 2015, expectant mothers and new families were welcomed with the highest standard of maternity and pediatric care in Sacramento.

From beginning to end of the birth plan, parents received care in spacious suites with their newborn on the top patient floor of midtown Sacramento's tallest building with great views. Then, as their child grew up, parents knew that they could continue to receive exceptional care in the same facility.

In the past 10 years, Sutter Medical Center, Sacramento has welcomed more newborns than in any decade of its 100-year history: 61,605 babies, to be exact.

But the Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center is far more than a place to welcome new life. It houses Northern California's largest and most advanced neonatal intensive care unit and a high-risk maternity ward where mothers receive round-the-clock care to give their babies a healthy start. It also includes a comprehensive pediatric hospital within its walls, treating children facing complex, cardiac, oncological, neurological and other serious conditions.

"We're proud to provide not just advanced medical treatments but a healing environment where mothers and children feel supported, safe and truly cared for every step of their journey," said Rachael McKinney, president of Sutter Health's Greater Sacramento Division and interim CEO of Sutter Medical Center, Sacramento.

In 2005, the Anderson and Lucchetti families generously committed $18 million to Sutter Health to support the Women's and Children's Center's construction. A decade later, in August 2015, the Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center opened as a 395,241-square-foot, 242-bed acute-care hospital where patients and their families could obtain the highest level of neonatal and pediatric intensive care services, pediatric cardiac, neurological and cancer services, and high-risk and conventional maternity

The Bradley family of Manteca and their 10-year-old triplets help celebrate the 10th anniversary of Sutter Health's Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center in midtown Sacramento on Aug. 21. The triplets were born premature at Sutter Memorial Hospital in East Sacramento and were transferred on Aug. 8, 2015 to the NICU (Neonatal Intensive Care Unit) at the new Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center. In front are the triplets, from left, Carly, Ally and Sydney; holding photos of the day they were born. services, as well as other services. Construction costs totaled $821 million.

In its 100-year history, from the original Sutter Hospital to Sutter Memorial Hospital to the Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center, the number of babies born total 417,428, more than the city of Sacramento's population circa the year 2000.

In Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center's first 10 years, there have been 1,152 sets of twins, 35 sets of triplets and one set of quadruplets. The smallest baby weighed 13.6 ounces and the biggest baby weighed 15 pounds, 7.3 ounces.

"Every baby born here represents a unique story of hope, resilience and the extraordinary care that our team is dedicated to providing," said Whitney Clark, women's and children's services executive for Sutter Medical Center, Sacramento. "From the tiniest preemies to the biggest bundles of joy, we are honored to support families through every miracle and milestone."

For 50 years, Sutter Medical Center, Sacramento has been on the forefront of care for women with high-risk pregnancies and their babies, who often need the advanced care of a NICU (Neonatal Intensive Care Unit). To help ensure these babies are delivered as healthy as possible, the high-risk maternity physicians (known as perinatologists) help mothers carry their pregnancies as long as medically safe. Extended hospital stays are common for these mothers, sometimes lasting many weeks or even months, making the hospital their home away from home.

The Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center was built with a special unit designed especially for them. The 21 all-private, spacious rooms allow mothers to relax comfortably, welcome visits from family and even personalize the space to feel like home.

"Our goal is to support both mother and baby through every step of their high-risk pregnancy, giving them the best chance for a healthy delivery," said Dr. William Gilbert, Sutter Health's longtime perinatologist and women's service line medical director. "The private, comfortable rooms at Anderson Lucchetti provide a nurturing environment that helps reduce stress and promote healing, making a challenging time a little easier for families."

When planning the new hospital, leadership was adamant that a helistop for medical emergency helicopters be included. The Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center helistop has been a lifesaver for hundreds of families. To date, more than 1,500 babies and expectant mothers with complicated pregnancies have been transported by medical helicopter to the facility.

"Having the helistop right on the roof means we can get critically-ill babies and moms the care they need faster than ever before," said Dr. Gustavo Sosa, neonatologist and medical director of the NICU. "It's made a huge impact on how quickly we can respond in emergencies and that speed can be life-changing. For families facing high-risk situations, this facility offers hope and reassurance when every second matters."

The Sutter NICU began 51 years ago to provide high-quality care to fragile infants. But as more babies needed the advanced services offered at Sutter Memorial Hospital, the NICU outgrew its location. The Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center's NICU has 61 beds, each in an area that provides privacy for families.

Even after 10 years, Wendy and Todd Bradley of Manteca, who had triplets, talk glowingly about the center's NICU.

"We were really impressed by the cutting-edge technology and the family-friendly atmosphere at the Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center," Wendy Bradley said. "The new NICU's modern design and spacious rooms gave our family so much more comfort and privacy, which made a world of difference during a stressful time. It truly felt like a place built with families like ours in mind."

The new NICU was the first in Northern California to be outfitted with Angel Eye, a camera system that allows parents to check in on their little ones remotely via smartphone or computer and was a game changer during the COVID-19 pandemic. The system was made possible through donations to a nonprofit organization started by a Sutter NICU family.

The facility made national headlines when its pediatric heart program successfully performed the first minimally-invasive surgeries on little patients. Instead of opening the chest and cracking the sternum, heart surgeons use a pioneering technique that accesses the heart through a small port underneath the armpit. This method helps children grow up without a long chest scar and recover much faster.

It is one of the many innovative approaches that pediatric interventional cardiologists and heart surgeons have been using at the new Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center.

Kristal Imbric's daughter, Ariel, who has Down syndrome and has appeared in several advertisements, was the first in the nation to undergo the minimally-invasive surgery.

"That approach avoided so many complications during recovery: no need to stay still as long, no ribs being cut," Imbric said. "Especially for a child with special needs, it meant she could bounce back faster. It was like she was on espresso."

The pediatric intensive care unit is equipped to handle a wide range of complex medical conditions, including respiratory failure, sepsis, trauma and complications from chronic illnesses. This specialized unit ensures that children receive the highest level of care during critical times, which includes 20 beds and an additional 10 beds dedicated to pediatric cardiovascular care.

The pediatric ICU also collaborates closely with other specialized departments within Sutter Children's Center, such as pediatric neurology and oncology.

"At our pediatric ICU, we focus on giving each child the care and attention they need when it matters most," said Pediatric Critical Care Director Dr. Daniel Falco. "From breathing problems to complex conditions like cancer or neurological issues, our team works closely together to make sure every child gets the right treatment. By teaming up across specialties, we're able to provide seamless care that supports the whole child and their family through tough times."

Sutter Medical Center, Sacramento, which consists of the Ose Adams Medical Pavilion and Anderson Lucchetti Women's and Children's Center, is Sutter Health's flagship hospital and includes nationally-renowned institutes for cardiac, neurosciences and oncology care. Sign Up for School Pesticide Notifications

California Safe Schools News Release

CALIFORNIA STATE (MPG) - California Safe Schools, a nonprofit organization dedicated to children's environmental health and safety, reminds parents, guardians, teachers and school staff at all California K-12 public schools and childcare centers to file the Right to Know Pesticide Use Notification form at the start of the school year.

This form is mandated under California legislation, the Healthy Schools Act.

Filing this form with your school office ensures that you receive advance notification of any pesticide applications in or around the school site. It is a critical safeguard and part of each school's commitment to maintaining a safe and healthy learning environment.

Under the Healthy Schools Act, a "school site" is defined as any facility used for public day care, kindergarten, elementary or secondary school purposes. The term includes the buildings or structures, playgrounds, athletic fields, school vehicles or any other area of school property visited or used by pupils. "School site" does not include postsecondary educational facilities attended by secondary pupils or private day care or school facilities.

The Right to Know Notification requires schools to provide at least 72 hours' advance notice before any pesticide application on a campus.

In rare cases when pesticides must be used immediately to address a health or safety emergency, schools can apply them without the standard 72-hour advance notice.

However, the Healthy Schools Act requires that the school district designee make every effort to provide the required notification, even under emergency conditions.

Filing the Right to Know Pesticide Use Notification with your school's Main Office ensures that you will receive alerts before applications occur. This allows parents, guardians or teachers to make informed decisions on application days. Notification can be requested for any reason, not solely for known health concerns.

The Right to Know Pesticide Use Notification program began with the Los Angeles Unified School District's groundbreaking Integrated Pest Management (IPM) Policy in 1999. This policy embraces the precautionary principle, the idea that if an action or policy has a suspected risk of causing harm to the public or environment, precautionary measures should be taken, even without conclusive scientific evidence. As part of this approach, Los Angeles Unified School District has not used Roundup for more than 20 years, setting an important precedent in protecting children's health. The success of the Los Angeles Unified School District's Integrated Pest Management policy led directly to the passage of the California Healthy Schools Act of 2000.

The "Right to Know" notifications are a critical tool that ensure parents, guardians, teachers and staff remain informed, connected and empowered within their school community.

"For more information about pesticide application policies at your school, visit your school's website or contact the school or school district directly," said Robina Suwol, founder and executive director of California Safe Schools.

California Safe Schools is dedicated to protecting the health and safety of students, teachers, and school staff through education, advocacy, and policy initiatives that promote safe learning environments across California. California Safe Schools spearheaded the effort to create the Los Angeles Unified School District's celebrated Integrated Pest Management Policy in 1999 that led to California legislation such as the Healthy Schools Act. ★

Cal Expo Kicks Off Football Partnership

California Expo News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Cal Expo, in partnership with California State University, Sacramento (Sacramento State) is kicking off the exploration of a new chapter for Hornet football.

In a unanimous vote, the California Exposition & State Fair (Cal Expo) Board of Directors approved an agreement with California State University, Sacramento to study the feasibility of transforming the Cal Expo Grandstand into a potential new home for the university's football program.

"In addition to being two state agencies, Sac State is our neighbor, just over two miles down the road," said Tom Martinez, California Exposition & State Fair CEO. "We are excited to collaborate on a project that benefits the broader Sacramento community by bringing Hornet football to Cal Expo."

The project calls for transforming approximately 9.25 acres of the grandstand and racetrack area into a modern football venue with seating for 25,000 and expandable to 40,000 in the future.

"Cal Expo provides an opportunity for us to go much bigger," said Dr. Luke Wood, California State University, Sacramento president. "It's a much larger vision for what we want to do with athletics."

Plans also include installing a new field with lighting, adding modular locker rooms with showers and restrooms, expanding bleacher seating, and making cosmetic upgrades such as fresh paint and Sacramento State Hornets branding. The goal is to bring six to eight Hornet home games to the venue, beginning in the fall 2026 football season.

"There's no reason that we can't have big-time college football here in Sacramento," said California State University, Sacramento athletics director Mark Orr. "What we need is a facility that can support the aspirations we have for football. The students and community deserve it."

With on-site parking for more than 15,000 vehicles, Cal Expo is well-positioned to host large-scale game-day events.

"Cal Expo has a long history of hosting major community events and this potential partnership reflects our mission to serve the region by providing facilities that bring people together," said Martinez. This collaboration aims to transform the Cal Expo Grandstand into a state-of-the-art venue that brings together Sacramento State athletics and Cal Expo's long tradition of serving as a premier community gathering place.

Cal Expo is home to the California State Fair and plays host to hundreds of other signature events each year. Featuring 350 beautifully landscaped acres, Cal Expo was initiated by Governor Pat Brown and opened by Governor Ronald Reagan in 1968. The current Cal Expo facilities were dedicated as a place to celebrate California's achievements, agriculture, diversity of its people, traditions and trends that will shape the Golden State's future. The California Exposition & State Fair mission is to create a state fair experience reflecting California, including its industries, agriculture, and diversity of its people, traditions and trends shaping its future supported by year-round events. ★
