Home Sales Decline for November

North State Building Industry Association News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - New home sales in the greater Sacramento region reflected normal levels in November as builder incentives continued to promote seasonal sales volumes, the North State Building Industry Association reported today.

November sales by reporting Building Industry Association members totaled 409, down 19 percent from October (a five-week month) and down 22 percent from November 2024 (a four-week month). However, sales were 8 percent higher than the 10-year monthly average.

North State Building Industry Association President and CEO Tim Murphy said the sales totals were in line with expectations.

"Because builders have a toolbox of incentives to offer prospective buyers, we're still seeing new homes taking a larger share of overall purchases than we typically experience, and that is likely to continue in the near future," Murphy said.

"Mortgage rates are expected to remain in the low 6 percent range into 2026, and affordability remains a challenge. Fortunately, however, many builders are able to provide incentives to increase affordability."

However, Murphy warned that in the long run the affordability problem is only going to be solved by increasing the supply of new housing to meet the continued demand for homes in our region.

"The Building Industry Association will continue working with local governments in the area to expedite the zoning and permitting processes and to reduce the staggeringly high level of fees they charge, which now averages $109,000 per home," he said.

Once again, the most sales in November were seen in Rancho Cordova, where 77 sales were reported. That was followed by Roseville with 67, Elk Grove with 54, Sacramento with 52 and Plumas Lake and Lincoln, which tied for fifth place with 35 each.

Building Industry Association statistics covered 195 new home communities in El Dorado, Nevada, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, Yolo and Yuba counties.

Small Business Leaders Comment on Jobs Report

National Federation of Independent Business News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - California state director John Katabeck for the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) said the Dec. 4 release of the monthly NFIB Jobs Report showed that 33 percent (seasonally adjusted) of small business owners reported job openings they could not fill in November.

That's up one point from October and the first increase since June. Unfilled job openings remain above the historical average of 24 percent:

"We will shortly release our small business legislative agenda for the 2026 half of the session and topping that list will be a call for state lawmakers to pay off, or significantly down, California's unemployment insurance (UI) loans it took out from the federal government during the pandemic," Katabeck said.

"It's worth reminding everyone that only business owners pay unemployment insurance taxes, so having to calculate this debt has a big impact on whether or not to hire more employees or cut back the hours of existing employees or, worst of all, to lay off workers," Katabeck said. "It can't be a badge of honor, especially going into an election year, that California is the only state that has not paid Uncle Sam back the money it took to keep its UI Trust Fund solvent and unemployment checks going to those in need of them."

National Federation of Independent Business' Jobs Report is a national survey of National Federation of Independent Business-member small-business owners, not broken down by state. The typical National Federation of Independent Business member employs between one and nine people and reports gross sales of about $500,000 a year.

"The economy has continued to grow steadily, despite the recent government shutdown. On Main Street, job growth continues to be constrained by a lack of qualified employees," said Bill Dunkelberg, chief economist at the National Federation of Independent Business.

Highlights from the Latest NFIB Jobs Report

A seasonally adjusted net 19

percent of owners plan to create new jobs in the next three months, up four points from October and the highest reading of the year. The last time that hiring plans reached this level was in December 2024.

In November, 21 percent of small business owners cited labor quality as their single most important problem, down six points, erasing most of October's sudden increase.

Labor costs, reported as the single most important problem by small business owners, remained at 8 percent.

Seasonally adjusted, a net 26 percent of small business owners reported raising compensation in November, unchanged from October. A net 24-percent (seasonally adjusted) plan to raise compensation in the next three months, up five points from October. The last time plans to raise compensation were at this level was in December 2024.

Research Aids River Fish

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - A year-round survey is keeping tabs on oxygen levels in the American River.

Operating with Sacramento Water Forum funding since 2022, the project measures dissolved oxygen from below the Folsom Dam to Nimbus Basin; surveys also extend to Fair Oaks and Watt Avenue reaches.

Although dissolved oxygen levels are critical to all river health, research is particularly supportive to Chinook salmon reproduction.

Teams of biologists engage in daily readings. This reporter accompanied them on a recent river outing.

A critical salmonid spawning habitat lies below Nimbus Dam. Here, shallow gravel beds challenge data-gathering.

Carefully avoiding teeming Chinook, Cramer Fish Sciences staffers drag an inflatable craft through channel riffles.

“We watch where we’re walking” said Biologist Mollie Ogaz. “The salmon redds (nests) are easy to see -- if you know what to look for.”

Oxygen sensors trail in the biologists’ wake. Ideally, dissolved oxygen should measure more than 7 milligrams per liter – or about 70 per cent of water content.

“If oxygen falls below that level, salmon can become stressed,” said Water Forum Program Manager Erica Bishop. “We don’t want these Chinook adults to die before they spawn. Egg and fry development also suffers if water conditions are not sustained.”

Year-long monitoring influences Nimbus Dam spillage; data also assists Nimbus Hatchery operators.

“The Cramer team reports impact decisions affecting the fish,” said Bishop.

Biologist Mollie Ogaz steadies an inflatable craft as partner Mitch Gladding takes oxygen readings below Nimbus Dam.

As mighty as migrating Chinook seem, the giants reach Nimbus Basin in a degraded state. They have not eaten since leaving the Pacific Ocean. Every ounce of remaining strength must battle currents, carve gravel nests and achieve spawning. With flesh breaking down, reproduction is a race against time. Low water oxygen can exhaust – even kill – Chinook before their natural life cycle ends.

“Their reproduction is a process that’s been happening for millennia,” explained Bishop. “We can help sustain it by gathering critical data. Among Water Forum objectives is protecting river health. Every species benefits from a healthy river.”

Various conditions contribute to low river oxygen. Fertilizer run-off creates algal blooms gas. Cloudy weather stalls plant that gobbles the life-sustaining photosynthesis and oxygen production. After storms, vegetation washes to rivers; its decay eats more oxygen. On windless days, oxygen diffusion is slowed. From giant fish to microscopic organisms, all river life suffers when oxygen content in the artery diminishes.

As in an aquarium, an influx of bubbles is a tonic. When Nimbus Dam gates open, crashing water quickly aerates fish habitats.

“We’re fortunate that (Nimbus Dam operator) the Bureau of Reclamation is a cooperative partner,” said Erica Bishop. “We can all unite around solid data. The fish don’t know it, but good science leads to good outcomes.”

SacRT Awarded Grants to Advance Transit, Housing, Climate Goals

Sacramento Regional Transit (SacRT) News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento Regional Transit District (SacRT) is proud to announce it has been awarded three grants totaling $25.8 million through the Affordable Housing and Sustainable Communities (AHSC) Round 9 program.

In total, SacRT in partnership with the cities of Sacramento and West Sacramento and private development partners including AMCAL MultiHousing, Community Housing Works and E. Smith & Company, has secured more than $126 million from this round of awards.

This marks a significant milestone for SacRT, which received $1.5 million in the previous round, and reflects the agency’s growing leadership in advancing sustainable, equitable and transit-oriented development across the Sacramento region.

The funding will support a range of transformative transportation projects such as the purchase of four new low-floor light rail vehicles, increasing SacRT’s new fleet from 59 to 63, including two vehicles dedicated to the future Downtown Riverfront Streetcar project.

The funding also supports Florin Station improvements that serve the Blue Line to accommodate the height requirements of the new low-floor vehicles, enhancing safe and accessible boarding for all passengers.

In addition, there will be Transit Signal Priority upgrades at 33 intersections along the Meadowview corridor and J and L streets in downtown Sacramento to improve service reliability and rider experience, as well as support for construction at the Sacramento Valley Station (SVS) Transit Center, building on $30 million already secured for this multimodal hub.

Additionally, these investments will directly support 546 new affordable housing units across three developments, expanding on more than 1,000 units of transit-oriented housing already underway along SacRT’s Blue and Gold lines.

The projects are expected to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by an estimated 311,883 metric tons of carbon dioxide equivalent: a reduction comparable to removing 67,000 cars from the road annually.

region,” said SacRT General Manager/CEO Henry Li. “It allows us to close critical funding gaps, expand our clean transit fleet and support the kind of walkable, affordable communities that make Sacramento a more sustainable and inclusive place to live.”

“The Affordable Housing and Sustainable Communities grants are meaningful investments for Sacramento families,” said State Senator Angelique Ashby.

Sen. Angelique Ashby said, “Combining affordable housing with dependable transit opens doors to jobs, education, healthcare, economic development, and, importantly, individual independence. These critical housing projects reflect our region’s ongoing commitment to strengthening neighborhoods and making life easier for everyone who chooses to call Sacramento home.”

Project highlights include the development of I Street Apartments in Downtown Sacramento, an 84-unit affordable housing project which will include Class IV bikeways, sidewalk repairs and transit signal priority upgrade.

The Clover Apartments in South Sacramento, a 348-unit transit-oriented development near Meadowview Light Rail Station, will include sidewalk upgrades, bikeways and transit signal priority infrastructure. SacRT will add two zero-emission low-floor light rail vehicles to the Blue Line to support increased service demand.

Finally, the MOSA Apartment Homes at Gateway development in West Sacramento will benefit from two new electric low-floor light rail vehicles and station improvements on SacRT’s light rail extension into West Sacramento. The project also includes new bikeways, walkways and bus shelters, along with workforce and housing stability programs through the city’s Home Run initiative.

Affordable Housing and Sustainable Communities (AHSC) is administered by Strategic Growth Council and implemented by the California Department of Housing and Community Development. Affordable Housing and Sustainable Communities is part of Cap-and-Trade (formerly Cap-and-Trade) dollars to work reducing greenhouse gas emissions, strengthening the economy and improving public health and the environment, particularly in disadvantaged and low-income communities

California Climate Investments projects include affordable housing, renewable energy, public transportation, zero emission vehicles, environmental restoration, more sustainable agriculture, recycling and more. Learn more at <https://sgc.ca.gov/grant-programs/ahsc/> ★

Navigating Family Dynamics and Grief During the Holidays

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The holiday season is most often described as joyful, warm and full of celebration, but many people experience something more complex, like dreading gatherings knowing they can stir up stress, old patterns or emotional triggers and even intensify the grief of missing a loved one that's passed.

If this time of year feels complicated, that's perfectly normal. The holidays come with expectations, routines and memories that can heighten emotions.

Let's unpack why emotions run high in December and look at tools to deal with complex situations during the holidays.

Some factors that may contribute to complex emotions in December and getting triggered include: stepping into old family roles, feeling pressure to keep the peace, encountering conversations that feel sensitive or overwhelming, missing someone deeply during gatherings, being reminded of past losses or difficult years, old tensions, feeling judged or misunderstood, unresolved conflicts and changes in relationships

Any of these factors might lead to a triggering event where someone feels signs of irritability and withdrawing feelings. These reactions are normal. It's the body responding to a situation that feels intense.

Here are some tools to stay grounded in these moments.

Take pauses: A short walk, a moment outside, or even a trip for a water refill can give space for the body and mind to reset.

Set boundaries gently: Boundaries are an act of self-care, not conflict. It is okay to say, "I'd rather not talk about that right now," or "I need a moment," or "I'm going to step outside for a bit."

Reach out to someone supportive: A quick text or call can make a person feel less alone.

Practice grounding: Noticing five things, place feet firmly on the ground and take slow breaths to regulate the nervous system.

Permission to feel: You don't have to force cheerfulness. It's okay to feel sad, tired, hopeful or anything in between.

Reflecting after the gathering: When things quiet down, take a moment to reflect and check in. What felt comforting? What felt difficult? What do I need moving forward?

Grief doesn't follow a schedule, and the holidays can magnify feelings of loss. Reminders appear everywhere – traditions, music, foods, photos and empty chairs that used to be filled.

Some ways to honor a loved one might include lighting a candle in their memory, cooking their favorite dish, sharing stories with friends or family, writing them a letter or creating a small ritual that brings comfort.

There is no right or wrong way to grieve. Your journey is yours.

Family dynamics can be complicated and grief can feel heavy, especially during the holiday season. If this time of year brings emotional overwhelm, talking with someone can make a real difference, whether that's a friend, community member, support group or a behavioral health professional.

Rise In Local Salmonella Case Data Linked to Statewide Outbreak

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Salmonella cases rose above normal levels in Sacramento County this fall due to an outbreak linked to contaminated eggs from Vega Farms, Inc., a Dixon, CA based company. Case counts are anticipated to decrease following the voluntary recall by Vega Farms, Inc.

"We urge residents and businesses to check for recalled eggs and follow recall guidance to protect themselves and help prevent additional illnesses," said Dr. Olivia Kasirye, Sacramento County public health officer.

Sacramento County Public Health (SCPH) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) are warning residents and local businesses not to eat, sell or serve recalled in-shell eggs distributed by Vega Farms, Inc. Consumers should throw recalled eggs away or return them to the place of purchase for a refund, and businesses must not sell or serve recalled eggs.

Sacramento County Public Health is providing data to the California Department of Public Health and the California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) to support the ongoing investigation of a Salmonella Enteritidis outbreak linked to contaminated eggs and to ensure recalled products are removed from local stores and restaurants.

California Department of Public Health has confirmed 66 cases linked to the outbreak statewide, 49 of which are reported cases from Sacramento County. There have been 13 hospitalizations and no deaths. The high number of outbreak cases in Sacramento County aligns with the distribution area of Vega Farms eggs (Davis and Sacramento).

Sacramento County recorded 39 total Salmonella cases in September, 48 total cases in October and 36 total cases in November. These case counts were all above the three-year average for each month, with the increase directly tied to the outbreak.

Consumers should not eat recalled eggs and should throw them away or return them to the place of purchase for a refund.

Businesses should not sell or serve any of the recalled eggs.

Consumers and businesses should wash and sanitize items and surfaces that may have come into contact with the recalled eggs using hot soapy water or a dishwasher.

Anyone finding these products for sale should call the California Department of Public Health Complaint Hotline at (800) 495-3232 or submit an electronic report to California Department of Public Health's Food and Drug Branch.

Consumers who become sick after eating the recalled eggs should call their health care provider. Salmonella infection symptoms usually begin six hours to six days after exposure and include diarrhea, fever and stomach cramps.

Illness typically lasts four to seven days, and most people recover without medical treatment. But for some people, the symptoms may be so severe that treatment or hospitalization is needed. Children younger than 5 years of age, adults 65 and older and people with weakened immune systems are more likely than others to get very sick. ★

San Juan Unified School District News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Excitement filled the classrooms at Starr King K-8 School as students eagerly received their bright red book bags, marking the launch of the Raising A Reader Red Book Bag Program in the San Juan Unified School District.

On Nov. 6, Starr King students received their first Red Book Bags, complete with books, bookmarks and pencils. These bags will rotate weekly, allowing students to explore new stories and share them with their families, building strong reading habits together.

Starr King K-8 is proud to be the district's largest participating site in this new K-2 (kindergarten through second grade) literacy initiative, which includes 14 schools across San Juan Unified School District. The program aims to strengthen early literacy skills and foster a lifelong love of reading by helping families establish meaningful, shared reading routines at home.

"The model is simple: each student receives a high-quality tote bag containing three to four books that rotate weekly," explained Natalia Aguirre-Mazzi, coordinator of family engagement. "Over the course of the school year, families will have read nearly 100 new titles together."

Aguirre also shared her enthusiasm for how the initiative aligns with district priorities.

"I'm excited about the ways in which this partnership aligns with so many site, department and district goals," Aguirre said. "This program supports K-2 literacy, is rooted in family engagement and demonstrates the power of partnerships."

She added that supporting literacy holds personal meaning for her.

"Making sure kids have resources and tools to excel in literacy is near and dear to my heart," Aguirre said. "Literacy affects so much of our educational experience and even everyday life. Being a fluent reader opens so many doors to learning, curiosity and imagination."

The program is made possible through the generosity of the Masons of California, whose support fully funded the initiative.

A districtwide celebration event is planned for January, bringing together partners, educators and families to highlight the impact of this meaningful literacy initiative.

"I'm looking forward to welcoming both the Raising A Reader and Masons of California teams onto a San Juan Unified campus," said Aguirre. "It will be wonderful to hear directly from the children about their experiences and celebrate two months of book bag rotations."

The Raising A Reader Red Book Bag Program exemplifies the San Juan Unified District's commitment to family engagement and community partnerships, helping students discover the joy of reading, one red bag at a time. ★

CalKIDS News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As the year comes to a close and families begin setting goals for the year ahead, California is reaffirming its commitment to young people through CalKIDS, the California Kids Investment and Development Savings Program. Backed by a $2 billion statewide investment for more than 5 million children, CalKIDS is the largest education-focused asset-building effort in the nation, providing automatic scholarship accounts to millions of California children and students to help pay for college or career training after high school.

As families think about meaningful gifts this holiday season and prepare for the opportunities a new year brings, claiming a CalKIDS Scholarship Account is a simple step with a lasting impact. Eligible children and students can receive between $175 and $1,500 in free scholarship funds, with no application, no essays and no income verification required. These funds are already set aside for children and students and can be used for qualified higher education expenses, making CalKIDS one of the most accessible scholarships available to California families.

"CalKIDS has been an amazing success, with nearly 1 million scholarship accounts already claimed by California families," said State Treasurer Fiona Ma, CPA, Chair of the ScholarShare Investment Board, which administers CalKIDS. "As we look ahead to the new year, families across the state still have a tremendous opportunity to claim scholarship dollars already set aside for their children and students, funds that can help lower the cost of college or career training and expand what's possible for their future."

More than 60% of public-school students in grades 2 through 12 are eligible for a CalKIDS Scholarship Account worth up to $1,500. When CalKIDS launched in 2022, the program awarded scholarship accounts to students from elementary school to high school, meaning current college students may also be able to claim and use their CalKIDS Scholarship funds today. Awardees can use their funds until age 26.

Additionally, 100% of newborns born on or after July 1, 2022 in California automatically receive a CalKIDS Scholarship Account worth up to $175. This includes an initial scholarship awarded at birth, with additional incentives available when families claim the account and link it to a ScholarShare 529 College Savings Plan where they can continue saving on their own.

CalKIDS Scholarships can be used for tuition and fees, required books and supplies, computer equipment and other qualified education expenses at accredited institutions nationwide making CalKIDS one of the simplest and most flexible scholarships students can claim this holiday season and in the year ahead.

To date, CalKIDS scholarship funds have been used by nearly 150,000 students towards their academic success at a college or career training program. For one awardee, Bryan a student at California State University, Fullerton, CalKIDS was described as: "A financial ease into pursuing a degree."

Claiming a CalKIDS Scholarship takes only a few minutes at CalKIDS.org.

For public school students, including those who are now college-aged, families will need the Statewide Student Identifier (SSID), a 10-digit number found on school portals, report cards or by contacting the public school the student attended during the 2021-22, 2022-23, or 2023-24 academic years.

For children born in California on or after July 1, 2022, families will need the child's date of birth and the Local Registration Number, a 13-digit number found on the birth certificate.

Once an account is claimed, families can log in at any time to view their scholarship balance, link it to a ScholarShare 529 account, learn how the funds can be used and request a disbursement once the student is enrolled in higher education or career training.

CalKIDS reflects California's long-term commitment to expanding opportunity, reducing education costs and investing early in the success of its young people.

Families are encouraged to check if they have a CalKIDS Scholarship Account available to claim this holiday season by visiting CalKIDS.org.

Eligible public school students can receive CalKIDS Scholarships worth up to $1,500 and every child born in California on or after July 1, 2022, is awarded a CalKIDS Scholarship worth up to $175, ensuring more families have the resources needed to support their children's education. # Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

As the vaunted Houston Rockets entered Golden One Arena Sunday night with a gaudy 17-8 record was there anyone that could have conceived the Sacramento Kings would outrebound the Rockets 55-47? You would be hard pressed to find someone, but that's exactly what the Kings did, resulting in a hard fought 125-124 win!

Sitting just behind the Kings bench I was saddened by the number of empty seats that I gazed upon, and I found myself wondering why so many fans made the decision to stay home just days before Christmas.

Why not take the family out and celebrate the great careers of players like Russell Westbrook and DeMar DeRozan, leading the team to a holiday victory? That's exactly what they did, and coming back from a double deficit hole in the fourth quarter the Kings ended regulation on a torrid 17-2 frenetic scoring stretch that sent the game into overtime.

Future hall of famer Russell Westbrook hit a 3-pointer with just seconds left in regulation to put a hard-fought contest into overtime, much to the delight of Golden One holiday crowd.

DeMar DeRozan led the Kings with 27 big points while teammate Russell Westbrook added 21 points of his own to go with 13 monster rebounds. Yes, Kings fans, the veterans came to play and, on this night, they came to win!

All knotted at 112 apiece the Kings would end their losing streak after suffering back-to-back losses to the Portland Trailblazers, and it was an unlikely 3-pointer from Dennis Schroder with 2.2 seconds left on the clock that would propel the Kings to victory.

Kevin Durant's 20-footer with one second remaining would miss the mark sending home a jubilant Sacramento Kings crowd. No one seemed to mind the rain as fans made their way to their cars, because on this night, the hometown ballers put on a show.

Doug Christie's decision to finally focus on the young players is starting to pay dividends, but his reluctance to play Devin Carter and Keon Ellis is a mystery to me.

Rather than give minutes to Devin Carter, the organization sent this 1st round draft choice to the G-league where he will get all the minutes he wants. While I agree that court time is what Carter needs, I believe real NBA talent is what he needs to be up against.

If the Kings want to see what the team's youth have to offer let's put them all out there. Both Carter and Ellis represent the defensive presence that coach Christie has been barking about, so why not let them show what they can do. Finally, put together a real plan of attack and get the message out there. Let the veterans do what they do, while giving substantial minutes to the young players at the same time.

Most of all, find a rotation that makes sense and not something new every game. Putting Malik Monk of the bench for two and three games at a time makes absolutely no sense, and it belittles a talent that took considerably less money to stay in Sacramento. Malik showed where his heart is, now show Malik that you value his skills.

Once again, the inability to access talent accurately rises to the top, and this coaching staff needs to get it together.

Games like this victory over the Thunder do not have to be an aberration if this coaching staff will find rotations that make sense. It's not rocket science, so do it!

Without question this team misses Domantas Sabonis and apparently, he is not returning anytime soon, so use your veterans wisely and play the legs off the youngsters.

Fans have their favorite players, and if the messaging coming from Kings is correct, some of your favorite players may soon be taking up residence elsewhere. I for one, hope Domantas Sabonis remains a foundation piece and Sacramento fans can witness his high intensity style of play for years to come.

In the meantime, remember this: The Sacramento Kings have proven on any given night this team can defeat any NBA team in America. The talent is here, and now is the time to come and see future hall-of-famers in action. Get out and support this team because they are playing hard!

Keep the faith Kings fans and have a very Merry Christmas!

Newsom's $18 Billion Budget Gap Has Roots in Pandemic Aid Ending

By Dan Walters,
CALMatters.org

When Gov. Gavin Newsom unveils his first draft of the state's 2026-27 budget next month, he'll reveal whether he intends to deal squarely with its chronic, multi-billion-dollar deficit or punt the shortfall to his successor.

Legislative Analyst Gabe Petek, the Legislature's independent fiscal advisor, estimates the state faces an $18 billion gap between projected spending and likely revenues next year and, if left unaddressed, the deficit will grow to $35 billion a year.

Meanwhile, Petek says, the state has rung up $21.6 billion in off-the-books debt to cover deficits in recent fiscal years.

Petek and others have warned about the possibility of a serious recession afflicting the national economy which would exacerbate the budget's imbalance and strain California's emergency reserves, which have already been tapped to cover shortfalls.

Even without a recession, California's economy is, in Petek's words, "sluggish." Jobs are shrinking, and at 5.6% of the labor force, California's unemployment rate remains the highest of any state.

The recent history of papering over deficits with gimmicks and borrowed money is not an encouraging signal of a forthright approach. However, perhaps Newsom will opt to balance California's books before embarking on a near-certain presidential campaign.

Unfortunately, the state is not alone in being plagued by yawning gaps between income and outgo. Throughout California, school districts, cities, counties and other units of local government are facing deficits rooted in the same dynamics that led to red ink in state finances – immense injections of federal relief funds during the COVID-19 pandemic.

It's been estimated that the feds pumped as much as $600 billion into California through state and local governments to counteract the pandemic's economic impacts, not counting many other billions that businesses and individuals received directly.

The federal aid gave officials cash to spend with few safeguards and fueled a short-lived jolt of taxes, particularly income taxes.

The Newsom administration interpreted the windfall as a permanent increase in revenue that led the governor to declare, in 2022, a $97.5 billion surplus. He and the Legislature immediately ramped up spending. But the surplus never materialized, and eventually the administration acknowledged that it had over-estimated revenues by $165 billion four years.

By then, however, the additional spending, especially for an expansion of medical care, was lodged in state law, and the state was left with what is termed a "structural deficit" in the $20 billion range.

Meanwhile, local governments and school districts were using their pandemic aid to satisfy the demands by employee unions for salary increases, which often could not be covered once the federal aid vanished. Inflation in living costs ratcheted up union salary demands even further.

A new report by the Fiscal Crisis & Management Assistance Team, which monitors California school district finances, examined the chronically troubled Sacramento City Unified School District and described how federal aid led to its financial quicksand.

The report catalogued the district's history of overspending revenues and said, "This (federal) funding masked the district's existing structural deficit, delaying the necessary actions to be taken to address it."

Even after the federal aid stopped, the district continued to sign union contracts calling for raises that it could not afford. And it failed to implement the cost-saving steps it had pledged to balance its budget, the analysis found.

The budget problems in other school districts – Oakland Unified is a notorious example – and in local governments such as the City of Los Angeles have a similar ring. School trustees and city council members, elected with union support, squandered federal aid. Then they approved unsustainable contracts and blamed the resulting deficits on insufficient revenue.

Dan Walters is one of the most decorated and widely syndicated columnists in California history, authoring a column four times a week that offers his view and analysis of the state's political, economic, social and demographic trends. ★

Social Security Matters

Why Won't Social Security Give Me My Benefits?

By Russell Gloor,
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I called the Social Security office, as well as went with my husband when he went to collect his Social Security. Because I work full-time (at about $800/week), they said I could not file for my Social Security. Yet I seem to read articles all the time about people doing so.

My husband just filed for his benefits and is now collecting them. Out of the two of us, his Social Security will be larger. Please advise me. Signed: Wanting my Benefits

Dear Wanting my Benefits: If you have not yet reached your SS full retirement age (FRA) and you are working full time, you are likely being affected by Social Security's Annual Earnings Test, which limits how much you can earn while collecting Social Security prior to your FRA. Your FRA is somewhere between 66 and 67, depending on when you were born.

So, my suggestion is this: as long as you are working full time

SS benefits prior to FRA in 2025 is $23,400 (changes yearly) and, if that is exceeded, Social Security will take away benefits equal to $1 for every $2 you are over the limit. If you applied for your benefits and are still working, and were denied, it's likely because Social Security determined that your current annual earnings considerably exceed the earnings limit and, thus, you cannot collect benefits. That's because the penalty for exceeding the limit would be more than your benefit amount. FYI, the earnings limit will go away when you reach your full retirement age so, after FRA, you can claim your benefits even if you are still working. Or if you stop working before your FRA you can collect your SS benefits at that time.

None of this means you are losing money, because your monthly SS payment will continue to grow until you later claim (e.g., after you stop working, or only work part-time), or until you reach 70 years of age. When you later claim, your monthly benefit will be higher and, depending on your longevity, you may recover what you didn't get now because you are working. And that includes both your own SS retirement benefit and any spousal boost you may be entitled to from your husband.

So, my suggestion is this: as long as you are working full time and exceeding Social Security's annual earnings limit, continue to wait to claim your Social Security. Then, when you reach your full retirement age (again, between 66 and 67, depending on the year you were born), or if you stop working before that, go ahead and apply for Social Security again. At that time, your application will be approved, and you will be awarded your own earned SS retirement amount plus any additional amount you may be due as your husband's spouse. To be entitled to a spousal boost from your husband, your own FRA entitlement must be less than 50% of your husband's FRA entitlement. But the amount you get will be reduced if you claim before your full retirement age.

President Trump likes putting his name on things, so maybe it was inevitable he'd get his own corollary to the Monroe Doctrine. Truth be told, what the president's just-released national security strategy sets out as a new proposition is really a restatement of the Lodge Corollary, named after Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in 1912. That proviso prohibited any foreign power or interest -- not just European governments -- from gaining "practical power of control" in the Western Hemisphere.

Naming rights aside, the treatment of our hemisphere is a strong element of the strategy. The so-called Trump corollary aims to assert U.S. preeminence in the hemisphere and keep non-hemispheric actors from creating threats or controlling strategically vital assets here. It is, in the words of the strategy, "a common-sense and potent restoration of American power and priorities, consistent with American security interests."

We should, by all means, breathe new life into a Monroe Doctrine that in recent decades has become a museum curiosity. The precipitating crisis for the making of the doctrine was an 1821 declaration by the Russians that they'd prohibit foreign shipping within 115 miles of their holdings on the Pacific coast. Secretary of State John Quincy Adams rebuffed the edict in terms anticipating the doctrine.

The bigger issue was that the Spanish empire was disintegrating. The end of its grip in the Western Hemisphere catalyzed the birth of Latin American republics and presented the risk of interventions by ambitious, illiberal continental Europeans states.

What to do? The British, who didn't want to get locked out of Latin American markets by other European countries and viewed the U.S. as a potential partner, suggested a joint declaration that continental powers should steer clear. We strung the Brits along and then President Monroe issued, on his own, what would become his eponymous doctrine in an annual message to Congress in 1823.

He asserted that "the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

New European footholds in the Western Hemisphere were thought to represent not just security, but territorial, demographic and ideological threats. Metternich, the Austrian statesman, took great umbrage. He called it an "act of revolt," and pronounced it "fully as audacious" and "no less dangerous" than the Latin American Revolution. Tsar Alexander said that "it merits only the most profound contempt." But Russia backed off its 1821 power play.

Initially, we weren't close to being militarily capable of contesting European encroachments and we relied on the British, in effect, to enforce our declaration. Still, the Monroe Doctrine became a predicate of American geopolitical power by avoiding major challenges to our hegemony in our own hemisphere. When we had the means, we enforced it ourselves. Once we were no longer distracted by the Civil War, we pressured France to end its intervention in Mexico in the 1860s. We got Germany to stand down during the Venezuela crisis of 1902 (this event led to the Roosevelt Corollary, named after President Teddy Roosevelt, stipulating the U.S. could deploy "an international police power" when Latin American countries were failing).

Since the 1990s, though, we've let down our guard. China is now Latin America's second-largest trading partner after the United States, and has expanded its influence in the region on all fronts. Russia has relationships with Venezuela, Nicaragua and Cuba, and has increased its covert operations in Mexico. Hezbollah has a notable presence in Latin America.

Trump's focus on countering these malign actors could be seen in his successful effort earlier this year to get Panama to pull out of China's Belt and Road Initiative, and is evident now in his pressure campaign against a Maduro regime in Venezuela that is aligned with China, Russia and Iran.

Trump's actions often feel new and different, but here, his strategic departure is returning to a traditional American approach to our side of the Atlantic.

Alonzo Carter Named as Head Football Coach

Will be the 14th Coach in Sacramento State Program History

Sacramento State News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento State Director of Athletics Mark Orr announced Alonzo Carter as the program's 14th head football coach.

"We are thrilled to welcome Alonzo Carter as our next head football coach," Orr said.

"Coach Carter is a proven leader who has demonstrated an unwavering commitment to developing student-athletes on and off the field. His history of success in recruiting, constructing teams and producing results at all levels of football makes him an ideal fit for Sacramento State. We look forward to welcoming him and his family back to his native Northern California and having him as part of the Sacramento community for years to come."

Known for his recruiting ability and deep roots in Northern California, Carter is coming home and most recently served as the assistant head coach and running backs coach at the University of Arizona. Additionally, he has experience as a head coach at the high school and junior college levels.

"Being named the head football coach at Sacramento State is truly an honor and a dream fulfilled," Carter said.

"I want to thank President Luke Wood and Athletics Director Mark Orr for giving me the opportunity to return to Northern California and lead this program. Every stop in my career has prepared me for this moment. Sacramento State deserves a program built on discipline, effort and pride. We're here to raise the standard and represent this University the right way."

Carter has spent the past nine seasons working under Brett Brennan at San Jose State and at the University of Arizona. He joined the Spartans football coaching staff in January 2017 as the running backs coach and added the duties of assistant head coach in 2021. After a successful run at SJSU which included three bowl appearances, he joined the Arizona staff prior to the 2024 season.

This season, the Wildcats went 9-3 in the regular season and will play in the Trust & Will Holiday Bowl on Jan. 2. The team rushed for 2,143 yards and 20 touchdowns and was led by Ismail Mahdi who had 826 yards and four scores. That effort helped Mahdi earn all-Big 12 Conference honors.

In his role as assistant head coach, he aided in the administration of the program, led practices and meetings in the head coach's absence and represented the team at campus and community events.

During Carter's final season at San Jose State (2023), running back Kairee Robinson finished second in the Mountain West Conference with a career-high 1,194 rushing yards and led the conference with a career-high 18 rushing touchdowns.

Carter's running backs played a large role in helping the Spartans go 7-1 overall in 2020, win the Mountain West title and end the season ranked 24th in the AP Poll. The San Jose State backs averaged 4.5 yards per rush and became one of the first two teams in NCAA Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) history to complete a season without losing a fumble by a ball handler on offense, defense, and special teams.

As a head coach at Contra Costa JC from 2010-16, Carter led the team to four conference titles and a pair of bowl victories. In 2012, his team won the Bay Valley Conference, he was named the league coach of the year as well as the CCCFA Region II Coach of the Year. He added a second BVC title the following season and then won Pacific 7 Conference titles in 2014 and 2015. The team advanced to win the Living Breath Foundation Bowl in 2012 and 2014.

Prior to that position, Carter was the head coach at McClymonds High School in Oakland, Calif., for seven years (1999-06) where he won three CIF Oakland Section titles. He was also the head coach at Berkeley HS for three seasons (2007-09) and the head track and field coach at McClymonds High School for 13 years. Overall, he owns a 129-69-3 record as a head coach.

During the early stages of the COVID-19 pandemic and up to the start of the delayed season, Carter became a national figure through his West Coast Zoom clinics — weekly sessions involving hundreds of football coaches. Rooted in listening, learning and networking, he relied on his professional connections and hosted engaging ZOOM calls lasting up to seven hours, either once or twice a week. For his use of the Zoom technology platform, he received a 2020 Zoomtopia award for innovation — emphasis on diversity: bridging the divide.

In August 2020, he was named to the National Coalition of Minority Football Coaches (NCMFC) executive committee. The organization's goal is to identify and groom coaches of color and create a list of coaching candidates for upward mobility. The NCMFC recognized his organizational commitment through his recruitment of more than 100 new members, providing mentoring, and mock interview sessions with its MVP Advocate Award for 2020. Since August 2020, he assisted 26 NCMFC members that advanced to coaching positions of greater responsibility or visibility.

Carter was inducted into the African American Ethnic Sports Hall of Fame in 2001, and the Contra Costa JC Hall of Fame in 2025. He holds coaching certifications from the American Football Coaches Association, the California Interscholastic Federation and the California Community College Athletic Association. Carter was selected to participate in the Bill Walsh NFL Diversity Coaching Fellowship program in 2017 with the San Francisco 49ers.

Carter graduated from Cal State East Bay with a degree in African American studies in 2016. He was a member of the Pioneers' football and track and field teams while the school was known as Cal State Hayward. Carter is the father of four children: Alonzo Carter II, Alona Carter, Anthony Carter, and Kennedie Carter. ★
