Patriotic Flag Ceremony Held at St. Isidore

Nearly the entire student body was needed to accomplish the task, including 105 grade-school students and about 16 high-school students from Chesterton Academy of the Most Holy Eucharist. The flag's size required additional support from at least a dozen tables placed beneath it to keep the fabric elevated and prevent strain on the students.

"This is the biggest flag we've ever gotten. We have two of them," said Mark Carlson, commander of American Legion Post 705. "I didn't sleep for two nights worrying about how I was going to have these kids fold the flag without pulling too much weight. Thankfully, the engineer in me came out and I thought to use tables. Even in the Legion hall, we used tables so we didn't have to work from the ground."

To ensure the ceremony went smoothly, the American Legion hosted a practice run at the school on Friday, Jan. 23. Carlson said the flag had originally been turned in to be retired from Yuba City Camping World during its store closure, part of roughly 10,000 flags collected in 2025.

"They got turned in and my Boy Scouts folded them up in a triangle, and I had them in the recycling," Carlson said. "They showed me a picture of them before folding and I thought, 'Oh shoot,' so I went and pulled them back out."

New, a flag of that size can cost upward of $5,000. Its appearance at St. Isidore Catholic School marked

Yuba City Moves to Curb Illegal Food Vendors

By Susan Meeker

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - Yuba City is preparing to step up enforcement on illegal sidewalk and open air vending as unpermitted food pop ups continue to appear across the city.

On Jan. 20, the Yuba City Council directed Development Services Director Doug Libby to initiate an update to the city's 15-year-old vending ordinance, including strict enforcement tools, such as seizure of property, aimed at curbing illegal food operations that have been setting up on public and private property without permission.

Libby said the city has seen a "significant spike" in illegal food vendors who are operating with full restaurant style setups, tents, generators, lighting, tables, chairs and music, while ignoring basic health and safety laws. He described operations where raw meat hangs in the open air with no protection from insects, coolers sit without any indication that food is being kept at safe temperatures, and makeshift kitchens run without a single hand washing station.

"Just let that sink in for a second," Libby said. "Think about what the brick and mortars have to put in place. Think about what even a food truck operator is required to do."

He said many of the pop ups trespass on private property, violate ADA requirements, and create unfair competition for restaurants and licensed food trucks. Some vendors refuse to provide identification, making it nearly impossible to issue administrative citations or collect fines.

"We can issue all the administrative fines we want, but we will never collect them," Libby said. "That's been a frustrating part for code enforcement."

Code enforcement officers have reported shutting down the same illegal vendor more than once in a single evening.

Councilmember Toni Cole said the concerns extend beyond food safety and unfair competition. She cited reports of labor exploitation and human trafficking associated with illegal pop up operations in other communities.

"It's not just anecdotal to say there's sex and human trafficking going on," Cole said. "These people are being used for their labor, oftentimes to pay off coyotes. I don't think any government or civic

Queen of the Three

Harris Breaks National Record for Three's Made

By YSBC

YUBA CITY, CA (YSBC) - The Faith Christian community celebrated and witnessed history on Jan. 30 as Lions senior guard Lauren Harris added a new title to her legacy in high school athletics.

Harris nailed her 640th career three-point shot in high school and became the queen of the threes as she was mobbed by her teammates shortly after a big sigh of relief.

Harris is no stranger to holding records as she achieved two California state records in the 2024-25 season for the most three pointers made in a single season (191).

She also surpassed the old state record of 486 career three pointers in last year's Nor Cal playoffs.

Harris expressed to Yuba Sutter Butte Colusa Sports that it was a surreal feeling to hold a national record.

With two minutes and eight seconds left in the first half, Harris hit a corner three and the Lions Den shook Sutter county with cheers and excitement as she hit her fourth three of the night to break the national record.

Harris said she forced her shot selection early in the game, but after she was successful in making her third one to tie the record, she was able to play her game.

When Harris signed her national letter of intent to play for Long Beach State in November and spoke, she ended it with saying the younger

Harris said that little Lauren wouldn't believe it where things have

Sutter County Launches Drawing Contest

A winning entry from the Sutter County Board of Supervisors' 2023 art contest is shown. YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - The Sutter County Board of Supervisors is inviting residents of all ages to take part in a countywide drawing contest celebrating "Your Favorite Place in Sutter County," encouraging creativity while highlighting community pride and local landmarks. Entries are being accepted through 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 20.

This marks the second time the Board of Supervisors has hosted an art contest. A similar contest held in 2023 featured a coloring competition with comparable guidelines, county officials said.

"We're always looking for meaningful ways to connect with our community, and this contest is a fun way to highlight the creativity of our local youth," said Board of Supervisors Chairman Mike Ziegenmeyer. "It's an opportunity to recognize the pride our residents have in Sutter County and the places that are special to them."

The contest includes four age categories: 5 and under, 6-10, 11-15 and 16 and older. One winner will be selected from each group. Each winner will receive an art set, funded by the board members themselves, and will be given the opportunity to be recognized at a future Board of Supervisors meeting.

Contest guidelines require all artwork to be original, with one entry allowed per participant. Drawings must be completed on 8½-by-11-inch paper. Participants are asked to clearly write their name, age and contact phone number on the back of their artwork. Completed entries must be submitted to the Clerk of the Board by the deadline at 1160 Civic Center Blvd., Suite A, Yuba City.

Following the contest, submitted artwork will be displayed for a period of time in the lobby at 1160 Civic Center Blvd., allowing the public to view the community's creative interpretations of Sutter County.

Drawing contest guidelines are available for pickup at the Sutter County Library, the Sutter County Museum, the County Administrator's Office and the Clerk-Recorder's Office. Guidelines can also be downloaded from the county's website. Additional information about the Sutter County Board of Supervisors Drawing Contest is available at <http://www.sutter-county.org>. ★

Marysville at 175, Shaped by Water and Time

MARYSVILLE, CA (MPG) - Marysville is celebrating its 175th anniversary this year, marking a milestone dating back to its incorporation on Feb. 5, 1851. Long before it became Yuba County's seat and a Gold Rush supply hub, the site began as a ranch and trading post in the 1840s. Its location near the confluence of the Yuba and Feather rivers soon made it a strategic gateway for miners heading into the northern Sierra foothills.

The town was named in 1850 in honor of Mary Murphy Covillaud, whose life story stands among the most remarkable in early California history. Murphy was a survivor of the ill-fated Donner Party, enduring the brutal winter of 1846-47 in the Sierra Nevada as a teenager before being rescued. After arriving in California, she married Charles Covillaud, one of Marysville's founders. She died at age 35, but her name remains permanently tied to the city's identity.

By the early 1850s, Marysville was booming. Riverboats carried goods and people upriver, brick buildings replaced tents after fires and floods, and the city grew into one of California's largest communities. In its early years, Marysville was viewed by some boosters as a potential rival to Sacramento and was even briefly imagined as a possible contender for the state capital.

Those ambitions collided with environmental reality. Marysville's rivers brought prosperity, but they also brought risk, a danger dramatically intensified by hydraulic mining upstream. Beginning in the 1850s, powerful water cannons were used to blast gold-bearing hillsides in the Sierra Nevada. The resulting debris poured into river systems, raising riverbeds, clogging channels and worsening flooding throughout the Sacramento Valley.

As floods became more frequent and destructive, Marysville invested early in a complex levee system to protect its downtown and neighborhoods. While the levees helped shield the city, they also constrained expansion and reshaped development patterns. Sacramento, which also faced flooding challenges but benefited from political momentum, was designated California's permanent capital in 1854. Marysville instead evolved into a smaller city, later earning the nickname "California's Oldest Little City."

As mining declined and flood control efforts stabilized the landscape, agriculture became a defining force in Marysville's long-term survival. The fertile soils of the Yuba and Feather river basins supported orchards, rice fields, livestock and row crops, anchoring the local economy beyond the Gold Rush era. In the early 20th century, Punjabi Sikh immigrants became an important part of that agricultural story. Arriving primarily between the 1890s and 1920s, Sikh farmers found opportunity in California's farming regions, including the Yuba-Sutter area, where many worked as laborers before leasing or acquiring land of their own. Over time, they helped shape the region's agricultural output while establishing lasting community institutions, contributing to a multicultural legacy that remains visible today.

Another chapter of Marysville's cultural history is found in its Chinatown district. The city became home to one of California's earliest and most enduring Chinese American communities, anchored by the Bok Kai Temple, dedicated in 1880 and still the centerpiece of the annual Bok Kai Festival, which hosts the longest continually held parade in California.

Downtown entertainment thrived through much of the 20th century, with venues such as the Hotel Marysville and the State Theater, which opened in 1927 and served generations of residents before closing in the 1990s. Flooding continued to shape Marysville's trajectory well into the century. Major disasters, including the catastrophic floods of 1955, led to the creation of the Yuba Water Agency in 1959. The agency later oversaw large-scale flood control and water supply projects, including New Bullards Bar Reservoir, transforming how the region manages its rivers and reducing risks that once threatened the city's survival.

The transformed landscape helped shape local traditions, fostering a long-standing culture of duck hunting and outdoor recreation in the wetlands and dredge ponds of the Yuba Goldfields. Marysville later drew national attention through Western Days celebrations, including events tied to rodeo promoter Cotton Rosser and the Marysville Stampede, which brought crowds and occasional Western film stars to the small river city.

Today, Marysville's history is written not just in archives, but in its streets, levees, temples and theaters. At 175, the city stands as a testament to early ambition, environmental consequence and a community's ability to endure. ★

CHRISTINE K. SEIDEL WILLIAMS • 10/01/1951 – 12/22/2025

Chris, whose father was in the US Army, was born in Nuremberg, Germany, on October 1, 1951. She was a steadfast and joyous Christian who lived the last two decades in Browns Valley, CA, with her devoted husband of 40 years, Ron Williams. After having a heart attack on October 20 2025, Chris succumbed to pneumonia at Sutter Santa Rosa Regional Hospital in Santa Rosa, Ca, on December 22, 2025, three days before the celebrated birth of her Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Chris grew up on the Monterey Peninsula with her six siblings. She graduated from Monterey High School in 1970. After opening and operating her beloved daycare business in her beautiful homes in Ft. Ord, Germany, and Salinas, she and Ron retired and moved to Yuba County. Chris loved being surrounded by the calm and quiet of nature. She devoted her time to her big garden and yard. She held a special place in her heart for God's creatures. She took loving care of her goats, chickens, ducks, doves, finches and hummingbirds. She adored her three little dogs, Spencer, Bella and Mia with whom she would snuggle daily while watching her favorite TV shows and movies. Chris read her Bible every day. She was filled with God's bright light. You could depend on Chris to bring joy, goofiness and laughter to your day and to the many family gatherings she attended.

Chris is survived by her husband, Ron Williams, who was a totally dedicated, loving and dependable dad and mentor to her two sons, Rick and Rey, from her first marriage, and to his son, Eddie. Chris was a caring mom to Eddie, whom she considered a son. Chris is also survived by those three sons, Rick Ramirez of St. Louis, MO, Reynold Ramirez of Prunedale, CA, and Eddie Williams of Idaho Falls, ID; and her six siblings: Linda Brown of Williamsburg, VA; Robert Seidel of Monterey, CA; Theresa Houseman of Pacific Grove, CA; Jinny Meyers of Carmel Valley, CA; Andrea Weaghtington of Salinas, CA; and Sam Seidel of Charleroi, PA. She was a much-loved grandmother to Noah, Paige, Reyden, Mason, Emma, and Tyler.

Chris's friends and family are invited to her Memorial Service at 2pm on Thursday, February 19, at the California Central Coast Veterans Cemetery, 2900 Parker Flats Rd, Seaside, CA; and to her Celebration of Life Reception at 3pm at Compass Church, 830 Padre Dr. in Salinas, CA. In lieu of flowers, please consider making a donation to Northwest SPCA in Oroville, CA, Hitchcock Animal Shelter in Salinas, CA, or to the Peace of Mind Dog Rescue in Pacific Grove, CA.

Patriotic Flag Ceremony Held at St. Isidore

the Legion's first public use of the massive flag, an event Carlson said they hope to replicate during future community ceremonies, including planned celebrations tied to the nation's upcoming 250th anniversary.

"Every year during Catholic Schools Week, we do some sort of patriotic event," said Susan Burky, principal of St. Isidore Catholic School and head of school for Chesterton Academy of the Most Holy Eucharist. "The reason we're doing this is because patriotism is a virtue, and that's kind of the heart of what we teach here."

Catholic Schools Week is observed nationwide in late January and is designed to celebrate the value of Catholic education, highlighting faith, service, community and academic excellence. At St. Isidore Catholic School, the week included a tribute to local Right to Life groups on Monday, a day honoring nations on Tuesday, volunteer appreciation on Wednesday, vocations on Thursday and a celebration of students and the broader school community on Friday.

"It's a big week, and we're a big family," said

Jim Orlando, a teacher at St. Isidore Catholic School. "This is just one of the ways we build that sense of community."

The flag ceremony began with an opening prayer, followed by the careful unfurling of the flag under Orlando's direction as students moved slowly, one stripe and color at a time, ensuring the fabric remained straight and taut. Once fully unfurled, a bugle player performed taps while students held the flag aloft, and the youngest classes led the group in patriotic songs.

The flag was then methodically re-rolled and placed into a cart by members of the American Legion, who ensured it never touched the ground, bringing the ceremony to a close with the same care and respect with which it began. ★

New Colusa Meat Facility Showcased Through Tours

Community members and project partners gather for an overview presentation ahead of a guided tour of the new USDA and CDFA certified meat processing facility at the Colusa Industrial Park.

COLUSA, CA (MPG) - Tours of the new United States Department Agriculture (USDA) and California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) certified meat processing facility at the Colusa Industrial Park will be offered through March as construction nears completion and organizers seek continued community input on operations and future expansion.

Colusa Industrial Properties, in partnership with Community Development Services, is offering guided tours of the facility on Feb. 27 and March 30 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The tours provide producers, community leaders and residents an opportunity to view the developing facility and learn about its role in addressing regional meat processing capacity shortages.

The facility, located at Colusa Industrial Properties, is designed to serve cattle, swine, sheep and goats. Phase one of the project is approximately 80 percent complete, with construction expected to conclude in February. The first phase includes a 3,600 square foot slaughter facility and 1,000 square feet of cold storage.

"The demand for this type of facility is real, and it has been growing for years," said Jacob Kley, project manager with Colusa Industrial Properties. "We have seen older USDA facilities close across the state, and there is a clear bottleneck for small and mid-sized producers trying to access inspected processing."

Kley said the project expanded beyond its original scope as partners worked to meet regulatory requirements and plan for future demand. The facility will initially operate as a slaughter-only site, with carcasses transported to existing USDA-certified cut and wrap facilities in the region. Value-added processing is planned for a future phase.

Community Development Services is coordinating outreach and engagement for the project, focusing on producers and consumers who have historically faced barriers to accessing meat processing infrastructure.

"The goal is not just to build a facility, but to make sure it serves the people who need it most," said Andy Lucas of Community Development Services. "That includes small producers and communities that have not always been part of traditional economic development efforts."

Lucas said the tours allow organizers to gather feedback directly from potential users as construction continues.

"We want to hear from producers about scheduling, species handling and operational needs," Lucas said. "That feedback helps guide how the facility operates and how it grows."

The project is supported in part by grant funding through the California Jobs First program and the We Prosper Together collaborative, which represents Colusa, El Dorado, Nevada, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, Yolo and Yuba counties. The funding supports both facility construction and community engagement.

attended by producers, Yuba-Sutter fair representatives and agricultural professionals, organizers outlined plans for inspections and operations. Initial processing is expected to begin under CDFA inspection, with USDA inspection to follow once federal approvals are finalized.

Kley said the location of Colusa Industrial Park played a key role in the project's feasibility. The site supports agricultural processing uses and holds a state-licensed water discharge permit, allowing wastewater to be managed in compliance with environmental regulations.

"This location gives us the infrastructure we need to operate responsibly and plan for expansion," Kley said.

Once operational, the facility is expected to employ approximately 14 full-time workers during phase one, with additional jobs anticipated as future phases move forward. Workforce partners, including Colusa County One-Stop, are involved in training and employment planning.

Organizers emphasized that the facility is designed for efficient processing rather than long-term animal holding, with animals moving through the system within a short timeframe. Tours are open to interested parties, and advance registration is required. To RSVP, visit <https://tinyurl.com/schedule-tour-meat-facility>. She added that she was so happy she got to share the record at home in front of the support that her and her teammates have had forever in the Den.

"I've been a member and raised by this school since I was in pre-school," Harris told YSBC. "It's the best feeling ever because I learned to love basketball here."

As there were multiple events going on in the Den Friday night, including homecoming festivities, Harris told YSBC that as a team they still have goals to accomplish in 2026.

Harris finished with seven three's and has the record currently at 643 in her career.

Residents Asked to Report Road Hazards

By Shamaya Sutton

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - The city of Yuba City is encouraging residents to report road hazards and other infrastructure concerns through its YC311 service request system, saying public input helps crews respond more efficiently and prioritize repairs.

City officials highlighted recent roadway repairs completed by the Public Works Streets team on Butte House Road, noting that resident reports submitted through YC311 helped identify conditions and guide maintenance efforts.

The city uses the online reporting system to track issues such as potholes, damaged pavement and other street-related concerns across Yuba City.

Teen-Led Magazine Reaches Fourth Edition

By Shamaya Sutton

SUTTER COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Sutter County Library recently released the fourth edition of its Creative Youth Magazine, a publication born from a teen's idea and sustained by young creators across Sutter County.

The magazine, established in 2023, provides local students with a platform to share their art, writing and creative expression. Chalese Eggleston, the library's children's services coordinator, credited the publication's origins to Harkirat Batth, a former Teen Advisory Board member.

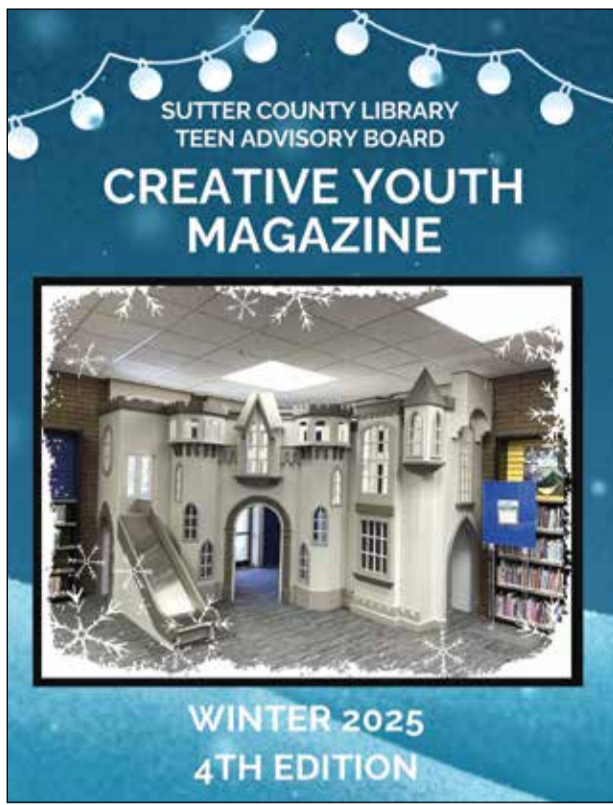

"She was really passionate about this project," Eggleston said. "When she brought the idea to the board, the group immediately embraced it, and it's been inspiring to help them turn that vision into something tangible."

Batth began volunteering at the library in middle school prior to the COVID-19 shutdowns. She returned in high school as part of the library's inaugural Teen Advisory Board, which initially included three local youths.

"I really missed the library during the pandemic. It was always a very special place for me growing up," Batth said. "I felt like our area was lacking opportunities that could motivate younger children to express themselves creatively without feeling like they have to be perfect, and I think that helps with so many things in life."

Batth took the lead on designing the magazine's first edition, primarily using Canva, while also helping spread the word throughout the county to encourage student submissions. Other board members assisted with outreach and distribution, while Eggleston supported the teens through grant writing and technical guidance.

While the magazine

began as a small youth-led project, Eggleston said its longevity has become one of its greatest successes.

"Funding was the biggest initial obstacle and navigating that process taught the teens valuable lessons about perseverance, grant writing and advocacy," Eggleston said. "Another discovery was how sustainable the project could be. The original Teen Advisory Board members who launched the magazine have since graduated and moved on to college, but current members have stepped up to keep the project alive. That continuity has been one of the most exciting outcomes. It shows the magazine is not a one-time project but a lasting platform for young creatives in our community."

Batth is in her second year studying molecular and cell biology at the University of California, Berkeley. While her academic focus has shifted toward science, she continues to pursue creative projects through volunteer work, including time spent with the university's student newspaper. Though no longer a Teen Advisory Board member, Batth still follows the program closely and collects copies of each new edition.

"I have multiple copies because I was so thrilled that it came together," Batth said. "I had my mom pick up the fourth edition for me because I love seeing it and keeping up with what they're doing."

Current funding for Creative Youth Magazine comes from private donors with additional support from the Friends of the Library. Copies are free and available at the Sutter County Library during regular business hours.

As the magazine continues under new teen leadership, Batth said she hopes other young people take advantage of similar opportunities.

"It was an amazing opportunity for me to be a part of it," Batth said. "The biggest takeaway was realizing how small things like this can bring out enthusiasm and make an impact in people's lives. I learned how important outlets like this are, especially for young people who are still trying to find their place and how valued it can make them feel." ★

By Shamaya Sutton

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - The Yuba City Moose Lodge will once again turn up the heat later this winter with its annual Chili Cook-Off, and organizers say enthusiasm is already running high, with all available team slots filling ahead of the event. The popular fundraiser brings together local teams, sponsors and community members in support of the Marysville Cancer Center.

The event is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 28, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Yuba City Moose Lodge, located at 205 S. Walton Ave. The cook-off is open to the public and will feature live music, raffles, door prizes, chili tasting and friendly competition, with proceeds supporting cancer-related services in the local community.

Organizers opened 12 team slots for this year's competition, all of which have now been claimed. Teams were required to submit an entry form along with a $25 registration fee by Feb. 21. Each team is encouraged to bring at least five to six gallons of prepared chili and receives two complimentary entry tickets, while additional team members and guests may purchase tickets for $5 each. Ticket purchases also allow attendees to vote in the competition. Children 8 and under will be admitted free.

"We hope you would like to participate in this annual event benefiting the community," wrote Chili Cook-Off Chairperson Tara Croghan in a letter to potential participants. "Registration is on a first-come basis, so be sure to register early."

The cook-off will feature two main competition categories: Best Chili — Judges' Favorite and Best Chili — Crowd Favorite. Cash prizes will be awarded in both categories, with $75 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third place. An additional $75 prize will be awarded for best decorated booth, encouraging teams to get creative with their setup.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the American Cancer Society and the Marysville Cancer Center. According to organizers, last year's Chili Cook-Off raised more than $2,000 in support of the Marysville Cancer Center.

Those interested in becoming a sponsor or purchasing tickets can contact Croghan at 530-632-1460 or Peggy Ballasch at 530-671-1204 for more information. ★

organization can sit idly by and watch this going on. We have to get it out of here because it's bigger than the legalities. It's human rights violations."

Questions also arose about protections available to property owners.

"We know what's going on in our city," Councilmember Dave Shaw said. "These operations are just popping up. They're not getting permission. They're showing up in parking lots or in front of businesses."

The city attorney said the answer depends on the circumstances. He explained that some vendors operate with an owner's consent, while others trespass and set up without permission. In cases where a food truck or trailer remains on a private lot day after day, he said the city can treat it as an unpermitted permanent operation under the zoning code. Vendors who fail to move the required 600 feet between locations or who operate without permits could have their equipment removed. He added that property owners could also post "no vending" signs to help code enforcement determine whether permission was granted.

Under the draft ordinance, code enforcement officers would have the authority to seize and dispose of unsafe perishable food and impound equipment used in illegal vending operations. Equipment could be held for 30 days and released only if the owner provides proof of ownership. The city could recover storage, disposal or salvage costs from responsible parties. An appeal process would be available.

The update also incorporates state sidewalk vending laws, including SB 946, which limit how cities may regulate sidewalk vendors. Local rules must be tied to objective health, safety or welfare concerns, and violations are subject only to administrative fines. Yuba City's draft ordinance would set hours of operation, require ADA compliance, restrict vending in residential zones and parks with concessions, and establish distance requirements from special events.

The ordinance also formalizes long standing exceptions for youth lemonade stands and similar low impact activities. Minors under 18 would be allowed to operate occasional stands without a business license for up to 25 days per year, provided the activity occurs on property they occupy or with permission from a commercial property owner. Sales would be limited to nonalcoholic items and could not block sidewalks or create safety hazards.

The proposal will move through the Planning Commission before returning to the City Council for formal adoption sometime this spring.

City Manager Robert Bendorf told the council the timeline cannot be accelerated, but enforcement will continue in the meantime.

"We are going to continue to partner with Sutter County because today they have that authority under environmental health to confiscate," Bendorf said. "Don't think of it as being put on hold until April. We're going to continue to work forward. In fact, we're trying to plan an enforcement evening in the first part of February where we could potentially do our first confiscation with County Environmental Health." ★

Dispatcher Earns Commander's Commendation

By MPG Staff

SUTTER COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Sutter County Sheriff's Office recognized Dispatcher Brandy Curt with a Commander's Commendation for her actions during a life-threatening emergency on Dec. 24, 2025.

Just after midnight, Curt received a 911 call from a motorist who had been swept off a bridge by fast-moving floodwaters near Highway 113 and Kirksville Road. The caller was trapped inside his vehicle approximately 50 feet from land, with no nearby structures for safety.

Remaining calm under extreme pressure, Curt gathered critical information and provided clear, life-saving instructions while coordinating a rapid response from deputies, fire personnel and the Swift Water Rescue Team.

Dispatcher supervisor Taemi Weathers assisted by dispatching fire personnel, managing incoming calls and keeping responding units updated throughout the incident. This teamwork allowed Curt to remain focused on calming the caller and relaying key details to responders. ★

A Cheap 8th Wonder

I kept seeing videos about the erupting volcano in Hawaii from Mount Kilauea on the big island.

Seeing as its kind of a rare event in the global scope of things, I decided to visit and had high hopes I would be able to view an erupting event.

I thought it would be a cluster of crowds and lines complete with humongous expenses to get and stay close enough to see it but, to my surprise, it was way less than I thought.

The flight to the closest airport is the Kailua-Kona International Airport and they fly direct from Sacramento. The Kona flight used to stop in Oahu, but the direct flights have existed for some time. It's a 5.5-hour flight and the round-trip costs around $300-400. We had an uneventful flight on a Boeing Max 8 aircraft so that was a relief. (Don't get me started on Boeing as I have covered that before in a few articles and, needless to say, I would rather fly on an Airbus).

But having arrived dry and in one piece, we rented a car and headed out. We stayed at a friend's house for the first three days. Having erupted the day before we left (☹), the mountain unfortunately stayed quiet during our entire 11-day trip.

I booked the Volcano House 3 months earlier and to my surprise, there were plenty of rooms available back then and I selected a "crater view" for a few dollars more. Compared to the resorts on the Kona coast which started north of $500 a night with luxury resorts pushing $1,000/night, the $399/night Volcano House price was what I thought a bargain. The Volcano House is right at the rim of the crater and a mile or two from the active vents. You can walk out of your room and see the crater and when we got there all we saw was steam coming from two vents from afar.

A 5-minute drive around the right side of the rim road brought you to an easy to park viewpoint which had but a few onlookers and offered a decent better view than the hotel.

Journey left from the Volcano House and in about 15 minutes you came to another viewpoint where you had to walk about a mile from where you parked, which got you closer with an even a better view.

We stayed two nights and the hotel only got crowded during the day as daytime visitors and tour buses stopped in. Even though the eruptions come every few weeks, the crowds were surprisingly light and maneuvering around was easy.

Keep in mind, the Volcano House is the only lodging on the crater and is 30 something miles from Hilo and a good 2.5-hour drive from the Kona side. The little town of Volcano is less than a mile from the Volcano House and somewhat unknown. Or at least it was to me and I have been up there twice before this visit. The town of Volcano was virtually empty and had a few restaurants and even some lodging. We had a lovely breakfast there and thought next time perhaps we would hang out there if we got really determined to wait for an actual eruption, which of course is unpredictable.

What we learned from talking to our friends in Kona and visitors at the volcano was that volcano watching was much like witnessing a rocket blast off on Cape Canaveral. Its hit or miss and case in point, although a stunning place to visit, all we saw was steam. We were told by park employees and our friends who did travel up when it was erupting that because the location is pretty far in, the crowds stay light until an eruption begins. Then some make the trip to see it and the lucky ones that just happen to be there, but for the most part, it's not like you think.

We left to continue our trip and to our chagrin, after we left the vents started glowing red. Two days later lava started pouring out and soon the illustrious fountains are expected to begin again.

When they do, the lines might get a little longer and forget getting a room up there then as they do sell out weeks in advance but it ain't Disneyland.

Being an 8th wonder of the world and something, I am told, is one of the most incredible things to see on this great planet, it's not as difficult as you may think to witness. But you have to have either a little bit of luck, or just a lot of persistence and time to wait it out.

Road Trip

By Kathy Craig Harteis

I'm heading out this week on a road trip with pal Carolan.

It's a yearly event although for the past few years we've gone to South Dakota.

This year we'll stay in California. Regardless, it's more about time together than it is about where we go.

Back in the day we usually went on an annual adventure.

We've visited San Diego as well as trips to Vegas for gaming, food and shows.

We once saw my favorite: 'Phantom of the Opera' in a theater created by the shows creator Andrew Lloyd Weber. Be still my heart! It was magical indeed.

Mainly I appreciate that she still makes an effort for time with me.

As I've gotten older I've learned to appreciate more the people and opportunities put in my path.

Being here in Colusa County again for a time has opened a flood of memories.

It was my home for my childhood, teen years and as a young adult.

The remaining years found me in more California cities, Washington, Oregon and North Dakota. It's full circle now being back in Colusa County as a snowbird visitor.

The lessons I have learned is to enjoy each chapter of my life.

Over the years I have lost people from every chapter.

Now back in this place

I remember those I have lost. The Grimes cemetery is the resting place for most of my family members.

I have visited, but it is not the same as getting to sit and visit as we once did.

I have friends that I loved as family who have gone on before me as well.

Good memories of all, pain of the lost of all of them.

Time moves on. If you have opportunity to spend time with people you love, don't waste it. Tomorrow is not promised. Today counts.

Life is good today.

Farms Find Success in Vertical Integration

Trends in the food supply chain and changes in consumer behavior could incentivize farmers to vertically integrate their businesses, according to experts. For decades, farmers selling raw commodities have seen a declining share of the money consumers spend on food. Since 1950, that figure declined from around 40 cents of every food dollar to around 9 cents, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, with the value of farm products increasingly captured by processors, retailers and food service. "Everyone essentially puts their hand in the cookie jar," said Kristin Kiesel, an agricultural and resource economics professor at the University of California, Davis, who added that consolidation in the processing and retail sectors in recent years has further disadvantaged farmers. "The increased concentration further downstream is an incentive for farms to vertically integrate-to capture some of that added value," Kiesel said.

Spread of Invasive Mussels Threatens Irrigation Systems

Since the non-native golden mussel was first discovered in October 2024 in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, the potentially pipe-clogging mollusk has spread as far south as Riverside County. Invasive pest management experts acknowledge eradication is likely impossible. They say the goal now should be to protect noninfested water bodies from mussel introductions. But it won't be easy. "Preventing spread to areas that receive delta water via the California Aqueduct is a large challenge," said Tanya Veldhuizen, program lead for the State Water Project Aquatic Nuisance Species Program. "Currently available technology to prevent the transfer of mussels is very limited and applicable to only very small volumes of water." Already, the golden mussel has disrupted maintenance activities at the Port of Stockton and a handful of water providers, and its impact is only expected to grow.

Del Monte Cannery Closure Devastates California Fruit Growers

California farmers who grow fruit for canned products suffered a major setback this month as Del Monte Foods announced plans to close its only remaining cannery in the state. The cannery's closure will reportedly affect roughly 600 employees and 1,200 seasonal workers in Modesto. The closure ends Del Monte's more than 100-year history as a processor of California-grown fruits and vegetables, potentially leaving scores of farmers without a buyer for their produce. "It's difficult," said Ranjit Davit, who grows cling peaches in Sutter County and chairs the California Canning Peach Association's board of directors. "Growers are very upset about the situation." In recent years, Del Monte contracted about 35% of California's cling peaches. Farmers who planted fruit orchards under long-term contracts with Del Monte said they were weighing their options and bracing for steep losses. ★

Sutter County Warns of Deed Fraud

By MPG Staff

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - The Sutter County Clerk-Recorder's Office is urging property owners to remain vigilant after an increase in questionable documents submitted for recording over the past year, including deeds that may indicate attempted fraud.

According to the department, fraudulent deeds can result in unauthorized transfers of ownership, loans taken out against a property without the owner's knowledge or attempts to resell a home. Officials say these cases can become costly and time-consuming if they are not identified early.

"The Clerk-Recorder's Office is trained to identify red flags and escalate suspected fraud cases to the appropriate authorities for investigation and potential action," the Sutter County Clerk-Recorder's Office said.

The office is also preparing to launch a Deed Fraud Notification Program later this year as part of Senate Bill 255. Once implemented, the program will notify property owners within 30 days whenever a deed, quitclaim deed or deed of trust is recorded against their property.

In the meantime, the Clerk-Recorder's Office encourages residents to take proactive steps to protect themselves. Property owners can regularly search the county recorder's index using their name or property address to confirm that no unauthorized documents or unfamiliar liens have been recorded. Public kiosks are available for free record searches at the Clerk-Recorder's Office, located at 433 Second St. in Yuba City.

Residents are also advised to watch for warning signs such as missing property tax bills or receiving notices from lenders they do not recognize.

Anyone who believes they may be a victim of deed fraud should contact the Sutter County District Attorney's Office to file a report.

The Clerk-Recorder's Office said staying informed and checking records regularly can help prevent fraud and protect property ownership. ★

By MPG Staff

YUBA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Three members of the Yuba County Sheriff's Office were recently recognized as "Heroes with Heart" by the Trauma Intervention Program, an honor awarded to first responders who demonstrate exceptional compassion and professionalism while assisting individuals during crisis situations.

Deputy Chacartegui, Community Service Officer Ross and Deputy Manion were nominated by TIP volunteers who work closely with first responders and regularly witness their efforts during emotionally intense and high-stress incidents. According to TIP, the award recognizes individuals who consistently go above and beyond serving the community with empathy, composure and dedication. As part of the recognition, the three honorees have been invited to attend the annual Heroes with Heart Awards Gala and Fundraiser scheduled for Feb. 21. The event is open to the public and highlights first responders and community partners from across the region who exemplify service with heart. ★

Dobbins Vehicle Fire Ends Without Injuries

Firefighters with the Dobbins-Oregon House Fire Department respond to a vehicle fire involving a pickup truck towing a fifth-wheel trailer on Jan. 26. By MPG Staff

DOBBINS, CA (MPG) - A vehicle fire involving a pickup truck towing a fifth-wheel trailer was safely handled Sunday afternoon, Jan. 26, thanks to quick action by first responders and community members, according to the Dobbins-Oregon House Fire Department.

Fire crews responded to reports of a vehicle fire and arrived to find the cab and engine compartment of the pickup truck fully involved. The driver was initially unable to exit the vehicle because it would not shift into park. Community members and a Yuba County Sheriff's Office deputy placed wheel chocks, allowing the driver to safely exit.

During the incident, the driver's dog was rescued from the trailer with assistance from the Yuba County Sheriff's Office. The Sheriff's Office later recognized Sgt. Thomas, who was first on scene, for helping the driver to safety and removing the dog from danger.

Firefighters made an aggressive attack on the fire and were able to save the fifth-wheel trailer. The burned vehicle was removed from the roadway by B & K Towing of Brownsville, while a friend of the driver later towed the trailer to a local campground.

No injuries were reported. ★

Our weather is sure the opposite of weather in the east. There are many people in very dire straights. I can't imagine the power being out in a city. I have always lived in rural areas where we had wood heat and a plan when power went out. So far it has not been winter here, hardly any temperature in the 30s. Maybe this month it will change.

There is a taco dinner at the community center tomorrow, Feb. 7. It is to support Yuba Feather Community Services and with a membership, the dinner is free, non-members will pay $15.00. Dinner will be served from 5:00 - 7:00 and this membership supports the many activities of YFCS. It pays the taxes, insurance and utilities of the hall as well as maintenance and upkeep of the fields and park. It is a great plus for our area, so please help support it.

Yuba Feather Next Step will be very busy this month. First it is our regular monthly breakfast on Sunday, Feb. 8. We open at 8:00 and serve until 11:00 serving eggs, sausage or bacon, biscuits and gravy, pancakes or French toast. Then we are have a Valentine's Day dinner on Saturday, Feb. 14. The menu includes Marry Me Chicken or pork tenderloin and a veggie lasagna, all for $15.00. There will be spaghetti for kids for $5.00. Tickets are available at Books & More or from Next Step members. This beings at 5:00 and GG's Bar gals will be at work. Then we will begin our monthly Bingo & More with bingo, pool, games and a great place for kids to spend some time. The entry is $3.00 each and will run from 3:00 - 5:00. The proceeds from these activities go to help support the projects at Next Step. Come have fun, maybe get involved. We can always use more help.

Look Back in Time - In 1906 the Gold Bank mine in Forbestown was running and the miners looked happy on pay day. (most people are happy on pay day).

Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

Good Samaritan Returns More Than $6,000

By MPG Staff

NEVADA CITY, CA (MPG) - A Nevada City man who lost thousands of dollars while walking home has had all of it returned, thanks to a Good Samaritan.

On the morning of Jan. 21, the Nevada County Sheriff's Office was contacted by a resident who reported finding several personal belongings in the front yard of his Nevada City home. The items did not belong to anyone at the residence and included loose cash scattered across the property totaling $6,270.

Deputies were able to locate the rightful owner and learned the cash and personal items had been carried in a satchel that was left unsecured and fell out during the man's walk home. After realizing what had happened, the man retraced his steps but was unable to locate the missing money and belongings.

The man's family later told deputies that having everything returned was "a dream come true and prayers answered." ★

The Nevada County Sheriff's Office thanked the Good Samaritan for the act of honesty and goodwill.

"The Good Samaritan serves as a reminder that doing the right thing doesn't require recognition, only compassion and the willingness to act," said Operations Captain Rusty Greene. "In a moment when it mattered most, he stepped up and showed how small choices can make a meaningful difference in the lives of others." ★

Yuba County Man Gets 150 Years to Life

By MPG Staff

YUBA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Earlier this week, a Yuba County judge sentenced Frank Anthony Villanueva to 150 years to life in prison for committing lewd acts against a child in Yuba County between 2018 and 2019.

The abuse came to light in 2024, when the child disclosed what had happened to Yuba County Child and Adult Protective Services. A joint investigation between Child and Adult Protective Services and the Yuba County Sheriff's Office followed, including a specialized forensic interview conducted by professionals trained to work with child victims. During the investigation, led by Deputy Garry Burdick, the child disclosed multiple incidents of abuse.

Investigators determined the Yuba County offenses occurred while Villanueva was already facing charges in Butte County for similar crimes. In 2021, a Butte County jury found Villanueva guilty of continuous sexual abuse of a child for offenses committed in 2013, and he was sentenced to six years in prison in 2022.

Following the 2024 disclosure, the Yuba County District Attorney's Office filed charges related to the Yuba County crimes. Villanueva was charged with three counts of lewd acts on a child under the age of 14. Deputy District Attorney Andrew Naylor prosecuted the case, during which jurors heard testimony from the child victim and two additional victims from Villanueva's past. On Dec. 11, 2025, the jury found Villanueva guilty on all three counts.

On Monday, the court sentenced Villanueva under California's Habitual Sexual Offender and Three Strikes laws. He received 50 years to life for each count, totaling 150 years to life in prison.

Anyone who believes they may have been victimized by Villanueva is encouraged to contact the Yuba County District Attorney's Office at 530-749-7770. ★

East Nic Girls Grinds Out Win in Colusa

The Spartans leading scorer Makinze Massey tossed in 22 points to lead East Nicolaus to a victory over Colusa on Jan. 30.

Story and photos by Jennifer Corriea

COLUSA, CA (MPG) - With 52 fouls assessed in the 32-minute game, it wasn't pretty, however the East Nicolaus girls' basketball team was able to outlast the RedHawks and prevail 50-47 in a Sacramento Valley League game played on Jan. 30.

Despite being plagued by foul trouble, the Spartans were able to hold an advantage throughout although things did get a little too close for comfort down the stretch.

With both Avelina Machado and Kendall Kocher leaving the game in the fourth quarter after receiving their fifth fouls and three others having four of their own, East Nicolaus played enough defense and hit crucial baskets to stave off the RedHawks whose attempt from beyond the arc fell short.

Makinze Massey, the third leading scorer in the Northern Section with an 18.0 ppg average, led the way with a team-high 22 points, while Kaylyn Ponce finished with 10 points.

It was a nice end to the week for the Spartans who lost to Durham 22-49 on Jan. 26 but bounced back on Jan. 28 to defeat Winters 40-33.

In the loss to the Trojans, Massey turned in a 10-point nine-rebound effort, while Kocher cleared away 11 boards.

Against Winters, Massey logged a double-double with 17 points and 10 rebounds, while Machado accounted for 14 points.

Now third in the SVL, East Nicolaus (12-9, 5-3) played its only contest this week on Feb. 3 when it hosted Willows. ★

East Nicolaus head coach Jess Hoffman told Yuba Sutter Butte Colusa Sports that she is ecstatic for Massey.

"She's become the vocal leader that this team needed and is the backbone of the team," Hoffman said.

Spartans' Comeback Bid Falls Short Against Colusa

Story and photos by Jennifer Corriea

COLUSA, CA (MPG) - On a night where at times they couldn't buy a basket, the scrappy Spartan boys' basketball team staged a frantic fourth quarter rally against the RedHawks that unfortunately came up just short as they fell 44-47 in a Sacramento Valley League battle last Friday evening.

Down 10 at the end of three quarters, East Nic actually outscored Colusa 15-8 in the final period but missed a chance to tie with five seconds left on the clock.

Wade Lauppe finished with a game-high 12 points, Colby Borges added 10 points, while Mason Taylor chipped in with nine.

It was the fifth straight loss for the Spartans against SVL opponents as they also dropped games to Durham and Winters last week.

Although no statistics were available, in Durham on Jan. 26 East Nic fell 40-47, then suffered another loss to Winters at home on Jan. 28 by a score of 42-56.

Looking to get back on track in its only game this week, the Spartans (6-18, 1-8) traveled to Willows on Feb. 2. ★
