Carmichael Taps Into Water Future

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - "It's good to be Carmichael," said Matthew Ceccato, district director for Rep. Ami Bera.

City and state representatives, along with Kiwanis Club of Carmichael and members of the community gathered on the morning of April 10 to celebrate the opening of Carmichael Water District's La Sierra Aquifer Storage and Recovery Well, located on the corner of Garfield and Engle Avenues.

The project promotes long-term water sustainability and combats ongoing drought challenges in the region according to Kathy Lee, Carmichael Water district's general manager who fronted the project and secured funding from agencies such as the Bureau of Reclamation.

According to the Department of Water Resources, who also helped fund the project, groundwater supplies approximately 40 percent of California's total water supply in average water years, and in some regions of the state, up to 60 percent in dry years.

The amount of water in Carmichael's aquifer is comparable to having the entirety of Lake Folsom underneath us said Mark R. Emmerson, Carmichael Water District board president. When water banks from the Sierras or the American River are unreliable, access to this groundwater ensures that Carmichael's water supply remains steady for generations to come.

An additional three groundwater wells were recently placed in Antelope by the Sacramento Suburban Water District, whose service communities include Carmichael.

As rain clouds threatened to bring on a downpour, legislators congratulated the district, emphasizing the significance of the well site and its impact on the entire region.

Carmichael is a pioneer in groundwater management, and a leader for the rest of the state of California according to Senator Roger Niello. This sentiment was echoed throughout the celebration as Supervisor Rich Desmond, Mark Cullum representing Assemblyman Josh Hoover and Ceccato presented the

Annual Big Day of Giving Approaches

Sacramento Region Community Foundation News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Every year in May, thousands of people in the Sacramento region come together during a 24-hour giving drive to support hundreds of nonprofits that take care of our most vulnerable residents and vital local causes. The annual celebration, called Big Day of Giving, is coming up on May 7 and has raised more than $117 million since it began across the four participating counties of El Dorado, Placer, Sacramento and Yolo. Big Day of Giving is already breaking records with 910 nonprofits signed up to participate, the highest number since the event was launched in 2013 by the Sacramento Region Community Foundation (Foundation).

"Big Day of Giving is a critical fundraising tool for local nonprofits that help our children thrive, put food on the table for families, care for older adults, welcome new immigrants, protect animals, and bring the arts to life in our communities," said Kerry Wood, chief executive officer of the Foundation. "With hundreds of nonprofits to choose from, donors can easily support causes that matter to them and discover organizations making a difference right in their own community."

All 910 participating nonprofits have a profile at bigdayofgiving.org, which features a new tool this year called the Discovery Assistant to match donors with causes aligned with their interests. Donors can also search and filter nonprofits by location, mission, budget size and populations served.

The Foundation works year-round to support nonprofits with everything from setting fundraising goals to developing marketing plans. As Big Day of Giving approaches, they host free training workshops to provide peer support and inspiration. The success of Big Day of Giving has caught the attention of communities across the country, with more than a dozen reaching out to the Foundation for advice on how to launch their own giving days.

Donors can start making donations when Early Giving launches on April 23 through Big Day of Giving on May 7 as nonprofits host gatherings and special events throughout the region to celebrate. The minimum donation is $10, and donors can pay online with a credit

Playhouse Stages 50th Anniversary

Theater founder Rodger Hoopman cuts a ribbon to begin the second 50 years of Carmichael's Chautauqua Playhouse. Chautauqua directors, staffers and Carmichael Chamber of Commerce members join the celebration at La Sierra Community center.

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - A second half-century has begun for Carmichael's only community theater, the Chautauqua Playhouse.

Nearly 200 supporters recently joined a celebration banquet at the La Sierra Center, where the intimate playhouse is housed.

The Chautauqua Players began a long roster of shows in 1975, by staging "Dr Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" in the Eagle Theater, Old Sacramento. A Sherlock Holmes drama followed. The success of the two productions led the group to seek its own performing space.

The company soon occupied what Hoopman recalled as a "leaky warehouse," at 25th and R Streets. Here, seats were filled for evening shows. A children's theater program was also developed.

When an arsonist destroyed this building in 1983, the players headed for Carmichael. Their forever theater was established in the shuttered La Sierra High School campus.

Now a community facility, the La Sierra Center is run by Carmichael Recreation and Park District.

Productions are staged thick and fast in Chautauqua's 95-seat arena. Open almost every weekend, offerings include mainstream adult dramas, children's productions and a live radio series where actors duplicate vintage radio broadcasts for audiences.

Currently playing is "Dial M for Murder," based on Alfred Hitchcock's 1950s movie thriller.

Albert Schweitzer Elementary School Alumni Give Back Through Theater

San Juan Unified School District
News Release

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Students walked to center stage with scripts in hand, where they practiced their lines in character as rehearsals for Albert Schweitzer Elementary School's production of Beauty and the Beast took place after school.

Helping guide them in bringing the story to life were three high school students and Schweitzer alumni, who offered encouragement and called out cues for the younger cast.

For the 11th-grade student directors, Leila Edwards, Elyse Jacinto and Lennox Henson, this production is more than just a play. It's a chance to return to the place where their own love for theater and connection to their school community first began.

Before the curtains opened on March 27, the three alumni spent months working with third through fifth-grade students to build not only a performance, but a welcoming space where students can grow in confidence, creativity and connection.

Leila, a student at Mira Loma High School, participated in Schweitzer's theater program from kindergarten through fifth grade. She credits the experience with helping shape who she is today.

"It really built my confidence and my speaking skills," she said. "It was a great way to make friends and connect with people."

Leila remembers being inspired by her own high school directors and always hoped she would one day return in the same role.

"They really helped us and pushed us along," she said. "I just wanted to come back and give it forward in a way."

Like Leila, Elyse found in theater a place of growth, creativity and connection to discover herself.

"You get to be a different version of yourself," Elyse said. "You don't have to feel judged; you can just have fun with it."

Now at Del Campo High School, Elyse is proud to witness the same transformation in the students she is directing that she experienced.

"It's amazing to watch their personalities come out," she said. "They're eager to learn, to perform and to be part of something together."

For Lennox, the experience is deeply personal as he was navigating a new school.

"I came in during third grade, and I remember watching the play because I was too scared to join," he said.

By fourth and fifth grade, that hesitation turned into participation, and eventually, a passion for theater and community. As a director, he focuses on creating a space where students can feel joy and a sense of belonging.

"For those two hours, I just want them to have fun," he said. "No matter what kind of day they had, I want them to smile at least once or twice."

For the elementary students, the experience has been just as meaningful.

"I think it's really fun meeting new people and hanging out with my friends," said Maggie, a fifth grader playing Mrs. Potts. "The directors are really nice and supportive."

Maggie also enjoys learning from students who once stood in her place. "They always talk about the plays they were in, and it's really cool to see how they did it," she said.

By returning to guide the next generation, these student directors show San Juan Unified's commitment to safe, welcoming learning environments. Through opportunities like this, students feel connected, supported and inspired to give back, helping build a stronger school community for the future. ★

Hoover's Bill to Immediately Lower Energy Bills

Assemblyman Josh Hoover News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - On April 8, the Assembly Utilities and Energy Committee approved Assembly Bill 2508 authored by Assemblyman Josh Hoover (R-Folsom), which would immediately lower energy bills and make life more affordable for all Californians. The bill would shift "public purpose program" costs from California ratepayers to the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund (GGRF). It passed 12-2 with bipartisan support.

"Our state's affordability crisis is crushing California families and is largely driven by the highest energy costs in the contiguous United States. If we're serious about bringing down these costs, then we must take urgent action to make energy prices more affordable," Assemblyman Hoover said. "By moving the funding of public purpose programs out of electricity bills, AB 2508 will reduce costs for all ratepayers."

Public purpose programs are designed to provide better energy efficiency, renewable energy and low-income assistance. AB 2508 addresses rising electricity costs by allowing certain public purpose programs, excluding the Family Electric Rate Assistance (FERA) program and the California Alternative Rates for Energy (CARE) program, to be funded through the Greenhouse Gas Reduction Fund, rather than being funded through electricity rates.

Diverting this funding from ratepayers to GGRF eliminates the regressive impact these fees have on low-income ratepayers. This reduces the burden currently placed on household electrical consumers and would help provide relief to families by reducing the high energy costs Californians pay. ★

Sacramento's First Integrated Healthcare Campus for Medi-Cal and Uninsured Residents Breaks Ground

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County and WellSpace Health leaders marked a significant step forward in expanding access to behavioral health services April 7, breaking ground on a new Community Wellness Campus in South Sacramento.

The 13-acre campus, located in the Little Saigon community, represents a major investment in addressing the growing need for behavioral, dental and physical health care across the region, especially for residents who rely on Medi-Cal or remain uninsured. County leaders joined project partners and community members for a ceremonial groundbreaking, highlighting the continued focus on building a more connected and accessible system of care.

"This project reflects Sacramento County's commitment to meeting people where they are and expanding access to critical behavioral health services," said District Two Supervisor, Patrick Kennedy. "As the need continues to grow, investments like this help ensure our community members can get the care and support they need."

The first phase of the project includes a 32-bed Mental Health Rehabilitation Center (MHRC), designed to provide 24-hour residential treatment for adults who need a higher level of behavioral health care. The facility will include residential living spaces, treatment and group rooms and outdoor areas to support recovery in a stable, supportive environment. The 24,700 square foot facility will also provide residential treatment for adults who require mental health care beyond what is currently offered at WellSpace Health's Co-Occurring Behavioral Health Continuum.

The $23.57 million needed for the construction of the MHRC comes from round 3 of the State of California's Behavioral Health Continuum Infrastructure Program (BHCIP) grant. In addition, the County will provide a required grant match of $1.98 million.

Once complete, WellSpace Health will operate the facility, with Sacramento County maintaining priority access to available beds. This partnership will help streamline how individuals are connected to care, reducing barriers and improving outcomes for those in need of services.

"The Mental Health Rehabilitation Center is essential to Sacramento County's commitment to improving behavioral health services and addressing the growing need for behavioral healthcare across the region," said Dr. Ryan Quist, Behavioral Health Services Director for Sacramento County. "This stable and supportive living environment for individuals in recovery will help break down the traditional barriers to behavioral health treatment and support. With their history in behavioral health services, WellSpace Health will be a great partner for this resource."

The facility is expected to open in 2027. To learn more about current and upcoming projects visit <https://dhs.sacounty.gov/BHS/Pages/BHS-Home.aspx>. ★

SCOE Hosts Fourth Annual Early Learning Conference

'Belonging by Design, Powered by STEAM'

Sacramento County Office of Education News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - High-quality early learning experiences matter deeply because they help lay the foundation for children's lifelong learning, development and sense of belonging. Events like the annual Early Learning conference create important space for educators to learn together, share ideas and strengthen the practices that help all young children thrive.

On Saturday, March 21, the Sacramento County Office of Education (SCOE) Early Learning department proudly hosted the 4th Annual Early Learning: At the Heart of It All conference, bringing together more than 250 early learning and care professionals who serve children from infancy through kindergarten. This year's theme, "Belonging by Design. Powered by STEAM," highlighted the powerful role science, technology, engineering, art and math can play in creating learning environments where all children feel included, engaged and supported. The conference offered a full day of learning, connection and joyful exploration, featuring a keynote and masterclass by UC Irvine Professor Dr. Andres Bustamante. His presentations helped set the tone for the day by emphasizing the value of meaningful, interactive learning experiences that nurture both curiosity and belonging.

Participants also attended one of two breakout sessions focused on hands-on, interactive learning. Together, these sessions demonstrated how STEAM can naturally support inclusion by offering multiple ways for children with different strengths, interests and learning needs to participate, express themselves and thrive. All were excited to bring back new ideas to implement in a wide variety of settings, such as family childcare homes, preschool centers, district classrooms and after-school programs. State partners from the California Department of Education and Department of Social Services joined the fun.

A special highlight of the conference was the Count, Play, Explore STEAM Room, designed and facilitated by the SCOE Early Learning team. In this interactive space, participants explored materials and activities independently while facilitators stood nearby to support, guide and explain key learning elements. The room gave educators a chance to experience the kind of playful, engaging and inclusive learning environment that helps young children feel a true sense of belonging.

From inspiring presentations and interactive sessions to shared meals, playful learning and meaningful connections, the day reflected SCOE Early Learning's commitment to supporting educators and advancing high-quality early learning experiences for all children. ★

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

The Season Is in the Books

The NBA season has finally come to a close, and the Sacramento Kings face an uncertain future in many ways. Their coaching position is not among them however, with the announcement that Doug Christie will be retained for next season to mentor this group of veterans and youngsters one more time.

That decision comes with more than a few lifted eyebrows, as Christie came into question frequently this season with his decision making as it relates to rotations and much more.

Case in point was Doug McDermott who literally sat out the first half of the season, while finally getting playing time when half of the team went on the injured list. McDermott finished the season with 48 3-pointers on 39 percent shooting from beyond the arc.

Yes, the Sacramento Kings and their fan base have endured a gut-wrenching season as they managed a paltry 22 wins, making the 2025-26 season one of the worst since they landed in Sacramento over 40 years ago.

But the anemic 22 wins in all fairness doesn't tell the full story.

Injuries to key players like Domantas Sabonis and Keegan Murray robbed Sacramento of having any legitimate run at the playoffs, and as a result coach Christie and his staff had an unfettered opportunity to get a close look at the young talent on this team.

Players like Precious Achiuwa, Dylan Cardwell, Nique Clifford, Maxime Raynaud, Daequon Plowden, and even latecomer Killiam Hayes, made people sit up and take notice as they experienced NBA action under fire.

All acquitted themselves admirably although truth be told they are likely to become efficient bench players, as opposed to bonafide NBA starters.

That is not all bad, as Domantas Sabonis, Keegan Murray, De'Andre Hunter, Russell Westbrook, DeMar DeRozan and Zach Lavine represent a core of starters that have a proven track record.

The question is, what will the upcoming draft bring the Kings, and will the draft lottery be kind to them?

Sacramento finished with the fourth-worst record in the NBA tied with the Utah Jazz, so the likelihood of a high round draft choice although not a sure bet, is a definite possibility.

Someone of the caliber of a Cameron Boozer, or A.J. Dybantsa would help cement the front court that the Kings have been in need of for many years.

Sacramento is banking that they made a good decision in trading for De'Andre Hunter, and by adding another big body to the front court in the upcoming draft, the Kings could take on an entirely different look.

Domantas Sabonis remains the player that brings legitimacy to the starting unit, but question marks remain as to whether Russell Westbrook and Zach Lavine will return for a second season.

Westbrook continues to defy mother nature, averaging 15 points, five boards and 6.7 assists while logging an average of 29 minutes per game. His leadership and effervescent attitude were unmistakable, and many are looking at him as a future coach in some capacity.

Are we disappointed in the 22-win season? Of course we are. But the handwriting is on the wall, and all eyes turn to G.M. Scott Perry as the Sacramento fan base pause in unison to see what skills he can bring to this team in the upcoming draft.

Last season brought the Kings Nique Clifford and Maxime Raynaud, and although solid role players, the Sacramento Kings are in dire need of an impact player.

Will Scott Perry become the GM that everyone wants to believe is the game changer for the Kings or will it be business as usual.

Another question mark for next season is much heralded Keegan Murray. While many considered this season to be likely his coming out year, injuries put that opportunity on the back burner, and that question will need to be answered next year.

I sat courtside and watched this former NCAA scoring champ drain 11 3-pointers in a row in his rookie season, finally ending the game with 12, setting an all-time Sacramento record for 3-pointers in a game. It was a magical night but left every fan wondering what the possible was.

Cross your fingers and say your prayers Sacramento fans, because answers to many questions are less than a month away!

All the best!

California Voters Will Face Dueling Ballot Propositions This Fall. Confusion is Likely

By Dan Walters,
CALMatters.org

When California voters approved Proposition 13 in 1978, they forced a massive change in how government services are financed that continues to reverberate nearly a half-century later.

Prop. 13's limits on property taxes that had financed public schools and other units of local government for many decades forced fundamental changes in fiscal responsibilities — the state assuming education costs being just one example.

California media extensively covered Prop. 13's financial impacts at the time, and countless academic and journalistic analyses have done so since. But one aspect of its passage has been largely ignored.

California's political leadership in 1978 — Gov. Jerry Brown and a Legislature controlled by his fellow Democrats — did their best to torpedo Prop. 13 by placing a rival measure on the same primary election ballot. The alternative, Proposition 8, promised property tax relief for owner-occupied homes but denied it to commercial property.

Prop. 13 passed overwhelmingly but Prop. 8 lost narrowly. The failed counterplay was quickly forgotten as politicians — Brown most obviously — rushed to embrace the tax revolt. Brown even called himself a “born-again tax cutter.”

Prop. 13 sparked an explosion of ballot initiatives that continues today. Although the practice of allowing initiatives to make law while bypassing the Legislature had been in place since 1912, it was scantily used until Prop. 13 demonstrated its power. Hundreds of initiatives have been proposed since — nearly a thousand just in the last 20 years.

And while the rates of qualification and passage are relatively tiny, voters can anticipate facing about a dozen ballot propositions every two years. Most faintly resemble, if at all, truly grassroots movements. The vast majority are sponsored by narrow economic or ideological interests seeking to gain financial or political advantages.

Backers will spend millions of dollars to draft and qualify their measures using paid signature-gathers to fill their petitions and many more millions to sell them to voters. Swing Strategies, a Sacramento political consulting firm that specializes in ballot measures, says placing a measure on the ballot can cost more than $10 million, and campaigns can hit the $100 million mark.

During a webinar on the 2026 initiative picture this week, Swing Strategies said 48 measures were originally proposed, 36 of them tried to make the ballot by collecting the required number of valid voter signatures and 17 are true contenders as the April 17 deadline for submitting petitions draws near.

The 17 contenders fit the mold of reflecting narrow interests. Many harken back to 1978, when politicians placed a rival measure on the ballot in hopes of killing Prop. 13.

For example, Service Employees International Union-United Healthcare Workers West (or SEIU-UHW), a huge health care worker union, has a measure to limit health care executives' compensation, and the California Hospital Association countered with a proposition to compel health care unions to tell members how much money they spend on politics.

Another example: Personal injury lawyers have a measure to hold ride-share companies liable for sexual assaults by drivers, while Uber has one to limit lawyers' fees in auto crash lawsuits.

There's also a quadruple play on taxes.

SEIU-UHW is sponsoring a 5% tax on the wealth of California billionaires to provide more health care money, and the California Teachers Association wants to make a temporary surtax on high-income Californians permanent.

Meanwhile, business and anti-tax groups propose making local government tax increases more difficult by increasing their vote thresholds — paying homage to Prop. 13. But a measure placed on the ballot by the Legislature would torpedo it by requiring a higher vote threshold for measures that raise tax increase vote thresholds.

That's a clone of the Prop. 13 duel 48 years ago. Some things never change.

Social Security Matters

If Either of us Die, Will the other Get a Social Security Survivor Benefit?

By Russell Gloor,
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am 79. My husband is also 79 and we both receive Social Security benefits. We were both married before, and we married each other at the age of 58. Am I to understand correctly that when either of us dies, the surviving spouse is not eligible to collect the deceased spouse's Social Security benefits? Please correct me if I am wrong.
Signed: Curious Spouse

Dear Curious Spouse: A surviving spouse only gets one benefit - either their own SS retirement amount, or their deceased spouse's amount, whichever is more. So, the Social Security benefit that the deceased was receiving at death will be paid to the surviving spouse, replacing any smaller SS payment the survivor was already collecting. To be sure you are aware, the surviving spouse will also be eligible for a one-time lump sum death benefit of $255 (I know it isn't much, but it should be claimed anyway).

Also, unless the surviving spouse was already receiving a spousal benefit while both partners were living, the surviving spouse will need to contact Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (or at the local SS field office) to make an appointment to apply for their survivor benefit.

One other thing to be aware of since you were both married before: if either of you die, and your first marriage lasted at least 10 years and your ex-spouse has also died, the surviving spouse will have a choice to collect a survivor benefit from either the ex-spouse, or the most recently deceased spouse, whichever amount is more. But, again, you can only collect one benefit payment as a surviving spouse — either from your ex-spouse or from your recently deceased spouse, whichever benefit is higher.

FYI, survivor benefits are a confusing area of Social Security, so you might also find informative this article I recently published, as it goes more deeply into surviving spouse benefits (including benefits for surviving minor children and surviving adult disabled children). Read the article titled “Demystifying Social Security Survivor Benefits” at www.amacfoundation.org/demystifying-social-security-survivor-benefits/. So much for journalistic objectivity.

The BBC science editor covering the launch of Artemis II couldn't contain her enthusiasm when the first plumes of smoke spread out from the launch pad. “Oh, my goodness! Oh, my goodness!” she exclaimed, clapping like a schoolgirl.

As the rocket lifted off, she got visibly emotional: “It's not just what you see and you hear as the rocket lifts off. You can feel the force of it through your body. This is the most powerful rocket that NASA has ever built!”

Rebecca Morelle can be forgiven for falling in love with the subject of her story. A rocket launch is an awe-inspiring event -- a controlled explosion hurling a gigantic projectile into the ether. There's the sheer power, the unavoidable risk, the questing spirit. A rocket feels and looks like the future, and there's something very human about gazing into the sky in wonder.

NASA hasn't been glamorous in decades. Once upon a time, kids were putting up glossy photos of Apollo rockets and astronauts on their bedroom walls. But the Apollo program was killed long ago -- civil-rights activists were among those mobilizing against it, oddly enough -- and nothing has captured the imagination the same way since.

The space shuttle made space flight routine and boring, and there was nothing particularly ambitious about the International Space Station. Rovers and telescopes were worthy endeavors, but not thrilling.

There is no substitute for manned space flight. The Artemis project is not exactly boldly going where no man has gone before, since it seeks to return to the moon after we were there half a century ago. But sending astronauts 250,000 miles from Earth as part of a project to eventually set up a base on the moon is the most enterprising NASA project since Apollo.

This is all to the good, but Artemis has been plagued by delays and cost overruns. NASA hasn't been able to replicate the urgent, mission-driven approach that characterized the Apollo program. It took eight years to get to the moon the first time, while Artemis has been going for nine years and we still aren't back.

NASA projects tend to get caught in a cycle: One president proposes a big new initiative, only for it to get canceled by his successor, who proposes his own initiative that is canceled in turn. The worst case scenario is that a Democratic president elected in 2028 nixes Artemis because President Trump favored it.

That said, the space expert Robert Zubrin notes that space is particularly appealing to Americans as a people defined, in part, by the frontier. JFK talked of “the New Frontier,” and the famous open of the TV show “Star Trek” called space “the final frontier.”

Certainly, the American space program is a marked contrast with that of the Europeans, the European Space Agency. NASA's budget is several times larger. We've sent men to the moon, whereas they haven't. And we've sent multiple successful landers and rovers to Mars (the first lander in 1976, the first rover in 1997), whereas the ESA has only managed two unsuccessful landers.

Getting back to the moon is nice, but it is a manned mission to Mars that should be our ultimate objective. It would truly be another giant leap for mankind, opening up a vista of homo sapiens as a multi-planetary species. The technological challenge would be significant, requiring Apollo-like exertions, while there's much of scientific importance to be learned on the Red Planet.

Right now, the most popular movie in America is “Project Hail Mary,” a sci-fi thriller about a desperate mission into space. The film plays to our inherent interest in journeys into the unknown, and to our admiration for those who have the courage to explore new worlds, from Francis Drake to Neil Armstrong.

Artemis II tapped into the same thing, which is why that BBC reporter -- and so many of the rest of us -- were so moved.

Defendant Convicted of Shooting Murder at Carmichael Apartment

Sacramento County District Attorney's Office News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - On April 7 Larell Weathers was convicted by jury of second-degree murder, shooting at an inhabited house and felon in possession of a firearm. The jury also found true allegations that Weathers used a firearm causing death and that Weathers suffered a prior conviction for residential burglary. The jury also found true two aggravating factors.

On June 21, 2021, Weathers was armed with a loaded handgun when he went to a Carmichael apartment and confronted a man who was in a dispute with his sister. Weathers forced the man to sit on a bench outside the front door of the man's apartment. The victim, Marcellus Cory Baker-Lee, was inside the apartment at the time. When the victim started to open the front door, Weathers shot at the door, killing the victim. Weathers immediately fled the scene and the firearm Weathers used was never recovered.

Weathers faces a maximum sentence of 61 years to life in prison. Sentencing is set for May 8 at 10 a.m. in Department 12B before the Honorable Ernest Sawtelle. ★
