City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Seventeen organizations were selected to receive a combined $1 million through the 2026 Sacramento Innovation Grant Program to support programs for local entrepreneurs. The grant program, whose funding was approved recently by the Sacramento City Council, is administered by the City's Office of Innovation and Economic Development through the Innovation and Growth Fund. Originally established in 2016 as RAILS, the Sacramento Innovation Grant Program is designed to support entrepreneurs at different stages of development. Funded projects have included incubator and accelerator programs, training initiatives and other services that help businesses start and grow. "Supporting local entrepreneurs means investing in the long-term economic health of Sacramento and creating more opportunities for businesses to grow here," said deputy director of the Office of Innovation and Economic Development Denise Malveti. The 2026 program includes three funding categories: entrepreneur

City Releases Proposed Budget for Fiscal Year 2026-27

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The City of Sacramento has released its proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2026-27, outlining a balanced plan that closes a $66.2 million General Fund gap while maintaining core services and advancing City Council priorities. The proposed budget totals $1.7 billion across all funds, including an $898.3 million General Fund, and supports approximately 4,822 full-time equivalent positions.

City officials continue to address a structural budget deficit, where ongoing expenses are growing faster than revenues. This imbalance is not the result of an economic downturn but reflects increased service demands, inflation and reduced state funding for homelessness programs. To close the gap, the proposed budget uses a combination of ongoing and one-time strategies, including expenditure reductions, revenue adjustments and funding shifts. Approximately 75% of the budget balancing solutions are ongoing, aimed at improving long-term financial stability. "This proposed budget reflects months of work to address a structural deficit that cannot be solved with one-time fixes," said City Manager Maraskeshia Smith. "It makes difficult but necessary decisions to align our ongoing costs with available revenues, while continuing to deliver core services and strengthen the city's long-term financial stability." The budget builds on work that began earlier

Sacramento Honors Producers at Ag Day

Story and photos by Khushi Salgia

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) held its Ag Day convention in front of the Capitol building on April 21 following National Ag Day on March 24. Ag Day, established by the Agriculture Council of America in 1973, is meant to increase public awareness of agriculture's vital role in society as well as honor the contributions of farmers, ranchers and agribusiness in providing safe, abundant food and fiber while highlighting career opportunities in the industry.

California makes up 11% of the U.S. population yet contributes to 17% of its agriculture. Thus, this year's Ag Day theme was "California Leads," with the intention of acknowledging and celebrating the richness in California's variety and innovation in the agriculture sector.

The event began with a welcome address from CDFA Secretary Karen Ross, who highlighted the vital role of agriculture in California and emphasized the importance of sharing knowledge and collaborating on new innovations.

"Ag education is important," Ross said.

Ross also introduced the California Foundation for Agriculture in the Classroom scholarship recipients and the Leopold Assembly Member Heather Hadwick brought her cows to Ag Day to draw attention to important issues concerning farmers.

Conservation award winners.

According to Sofia Goss, CDFA representative of the Fairs and Expositions branch, the main purpose of organizing an event such as this one is to "promote agriculture."

"Our state is agriculturally driven," Goss said.

One of these agriculture initiatives is the California Wheat Commission (CWC), which supports research for wheat plants. They partner with the UC Davis wheat breeding program to test qualities like nitrogen or genetic attributes of wheat.

Essentially, the idea is to create "better economics for wheat," according to Alejandra Andrade, the CWC lab manager. One of their projects focuses on making wheat safe for those with celiac disease or gluten intolerances.

Beyond efforts to expand access to wheat products, Ag Day organizers also highlighted milk's nutritional benefits. A representative for the "Got Milk?" campaign, in place since 1993, said the group promotes milk consumption among all age groups, noting its role in bone health.

In addition to promoting calcium intake, the Dairy Council was present as a nutrition education organization. They are funded by dairy farmers and one of their initiatives is to conduct research to forecast agricultural trends as well as bring a live cow to elementary schools to teach kids where milk comes from.

"We are so disconnected from our food nowadays," said Amy Delisio, executive director of Dairy Council. "Most kids in urban areas have never really been to a farm."

District 1 Assembly Member Heather Hadwick brought three cows in from her own farm, two adults and a baby.

As a farmer herself, as well as the assembly member for most of Sacramento's rural districts, her mission at Ag Day is "bringing the district to Sacramento" as many in the urban areas are not aware of the issues facing farms today. One of the biggest concerns is wolves, which tend to be the biggest predators for farm animals.

"We're in the middle of a crisis," she said.

According to Hadwick, there have been a hundred kills in the past year alone in District 1. Because wolves are an endangered species and therefore protected by the government, there is nothing anyone can do currently to mitigate the killings.

While wolves are the biggest issue facing cattle ranchers specifically, water is the main concern of farmers.

"They never have enough," Hadwick said.

The final top concern in agriculture is inflation. According to Hadwick, costs have increased 55% in the past two years. Because District 1 is a low-income county, they cannot raise prices without it drastically affecting people's livelihoods.

In addition to resources surrounding farming, crops and agriculture, there were also booths sharing technological innovations that can improve efficiency and sustainability.

One of these is a company called Sunzaun, a vertical solar company.

"We pride ourselves on our dual life systems," said Tia Hanes, business developer at Sunzaun.

The dual life system called agrivoltaics – the integration of solar panels and agriculture on the same land – allows for simultaneous food and renewable energy production. It increases land-use efficiency, reduces water consumption and provides shade for crops and livestock. It leads to diversified farmer income, reduced electricity costs and potential for increased crop yields, while overcoming land-use competition.

Another ag tech organization, F3i, is a nonprofit that acts as a bridge between university research (UC Merced, Fresno State and UC Agriculture and Natural Resources) and practical field applications to strengthen food security, supporting ag-based industries with new technology, workforce development and economic growth.

"Our mission is to build Sacramento into an ag tech system," said Ryan Dinubilo, director of innovation at F3i.

Women-led initiatives such as Miss Rodeo California and California Women for Agriculture (CWA) were also present at the Ag Day event; 2026 was declared the "International Year of the Woman Farmer" by the United Nations. The initiative focuses on improving women's access to land, financing and technical training to strengthen global food security.

"Rodeo is part of our history as ranchers," said Rachel Lancaster, Miss California Rodeo Salinas 2025 winner.

Despite rainy weather, Ag Day drew agriculture leaders from across California, underscoring the event's statewide reach and impact. ★ access and education for early and established entrepreneurs; incubator and accelerator support for idea-stage and growing businesses; and innovation and investment readiness focused on commercialization, as well as customer and funding acquisition.

Grant awards range from $15,000 to $100,000, with each category designed to help participants build skills, refine business ideas and connect to funding opportunities.

"Sacramento's innovation grant will help us expand Momentum's ASCEND program to support a diverse audience of advanced transportation and mobility sector startups and founders," said Matthew Hart, chief executive officer of Momentum, a 2026 Innovation Grant recipient. "Sacramento ASCENDS will provide the tools to effectively leverage non-dilutive funding to advance demonstration pilots, bring growth capital to the region and establish critical commercial partnerships."

The city received 105 applications requesting more than $7 million in funding.

Applications were evaluated by city staff and subject matter experts based on program design, expected outcomes, organizational capacity and impact on underserved entrepreneurs.

Projects are expected to begin in the second quarter of 2026 and be complete within one year.

The grant program aligns with the city's ScaleUp inclusive economic development strategy, which focuses on expanding economic mobility and opportunity and increasing access to entrepreneurship resources for underserved communities.

Bike Safety and Awareness Grant Applications Open

Sacramento Region Community Foundation News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

INSPIRING PHILANTHROPY

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Coinciding with National Bike Month, the Sacramento Region Community Foundation is pleased to announce that applications for the annual Bike Safety and Awareness Grant are open now through Friday, May 29.

The Foundation encourages nonprofit organizations that provide education about bike safety and bike/vehicle coexistence to apply.

Last year, a Field of Interest Fund was initiated when a generous local individual partnered with the Sacramento Region Community Foundation to open a grant in memory of his late wife who was a bicycling enthusiast and committed to bicycle safety. The first Maggie O'Mara Bicycle Safety Award of $8,500 was to Safetyville USA, which provides life-saving skills and awareness education to children and their caregivers through interactive tours, programs and events.

Safetyville USA used the funds to plan a family-focused event called Maggie's Ride to deliver hands-on, interactive education designed to teach children and families safe cycling practices while promoting mutual respect and coexistence between bicyclists and vehicles.

The inaugural Maggie's Ride is scheduled for May 16 (rescheduled date due to rain). Participants will explore Safetyville USA's miniature city in a self-guided ride that allows children and families to move at their own pace while practicing essential cycling skills such as helmet use, proper signaling, navigating intersections and sharing the road responsibly. Trained staff and volunteers will be stationed throughout the course to offer instruction, answer questions and reinforce positive riding habits.

The event will also feature interactive learning stations and workshops focused on topics such as traffic awareness, visibility and understanding road signs. Families will receive printed and digital safety resources to extend learning beyond the event day. To reduce barriers to participation, 200 helmets will be distributed to attendees at no cost, and a bike giveaway will provide bicycles to children and families who may not have the means to purchase one. Safetyville USA will also host a free Bike/Trike-A-Thon for one Title I school or local nonprofit serving children.

Nonprofit organizations committed to the cause can apply for the 2026 Maggie O'Mara Bicycle Safety Award on the Sacramento Region Community Foundation's website at sacregcf.org/nonprofits/#apply on or before May 29.

Community members, businesses and/or organizations interested in establishing funds in partnership with this year, including Early Budget Work Sessions held in March. During those sessions, departments presented reduction strategies and potential service impacts as part of a baseline balancing plan.

Based on feedback from the City Council and community, the proposed budget restores several reductions identified in the March baseline. These include the Police Department Magnet Academy, partial restoration of Fire suppression vacancies, park maintenance services, and programs in Youth, Parks & Community Enrichment.

The proposed budget also reflects changes to previously considered revenue options. The city is not moving forward with parking meter rate increases and residential parking permit charges. These items appear in the proposed budget document but are not included in the final proposal, as the changes were made after it was sent to print.

Even with the restorations, reductions are still required to close the budget gap. The proposed budget includes the elimination of 46.1 filled full-time equivalent positions, in addition to vacant positions, as part of the overall balancing strategy.

Not all filled position eliminations will result in an employee being separated from the city as some impacted employees may move into other available positions. No sworn police or fire personnel will be separated from the city as a result of budget balancing.

The budget maintains a focus on City Council priorities, economic development, homelessness and public safety, while continuing to deliver core services.

Key investments include the creation of a new Economic Development Department, continued homelessness outreach and shelter expansion, and maintaining sworn police and fire staffing levels. The city is also maintaining its investments in the FUEL Network and RydeFree RT.

The city continues to face economic uncertainty, including inflation, potential recession risks and long-term financial challenges such as unfunded pension liabilities and deferred infrastructure needs.

The city will now enter the public review process, with City Council budget hearings scheduled throughout May and final adoption expected June 9.

Key dates include April 29, Release of the proposed budget; May 5, Budget overview and deliberations; May 12, Continued hearings and Council direction; and June 9, Final budget adoption.

Those interested in participating in the budget development process can attend public meetings, submit e-comments, and contact the mayor or their councilmember.

For more information on the proposed budget, visit at cityofsacramento.gov/finance/budget. ★

Celebrating Resilience, Achievements of Asian American, Pacific Islander Community

The Friends of California Archives News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Since California's statehood 175 years ago, members of the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community have left an indelible mark on California's rich history, overcoming extreme prejudice and discrimination to flourish in all walks of California life. The Friends of California Archives salutes their tenacity and accomplishments during the May celebration of AAPI Heritage Month.

embarrassing," said Caren Daniels Lagomarsino, president of The Friends of California Archives. "They were victims of riots, massacres and nativist racism. But through it all, they endured and contributed so much to the fabric of California life."

During the early wave of immigration after statehood, there was significant anti-Asian sentiment. In 1862, Gov. Leland Stanford referred to Asian immigrants as an "inferior race." He supported "repression of the immigration of the Asiatic races," although he hired hard-working Chinese immigrants to build his railroad and make him one of the wealthiest persons in California.

In addition, California imposed the Foreign Miners' Tax, which primarily targeted Chinese miners, and local and state laws restricted where Chinese immigrants could work and live. In 1882, Congress suspended immigration of Chinese laborers.

"What an amazing example of resilience and toughness," Lagomarsino added. "From champion skater Michelle Kwan and civil rights activist Fred Korematsu to Yahoo cofounder Jerry Yang and author Amy Tan, members of California's AAPI community have distinguished themselves in every walk of life."

One 19th century heroine was immigrant Mary Tape, born in Shanghai, who won a landmark state Supreme Court case that ruled public schools could not refuse to admit her daughter.

Nearly a century later, March Fong became the first Asian American woman to win a seat in the State Assembly. She would also serve 19 years as California's Secretary of State, then known as March Fong Eu. She was the first Asian American woman in U.S. history to be elected to a statewide office. Mary Tape and March Fong Eu are featured in The Time Travelers, published by The Friends of California Archives, which is designed to appeal to children in grades 4 through 6. It is included in the State Library's CA 175 reading list, which celebrates California's 175th anniversary.

*The Friends of California Archives is a 501 (c) (3) organization that promotes the Golden State's history by encouraging the preservation of archival materials and supporting their use through publications, lectures, grants, scholarships, exhibits, oral histories, and research. # Luu Appointed County Health Officer

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento County Board of Supervisors, at its April 28 meeting, unanimously concurred with the county executive's appointment of Dr. Phuong Luu as County Health officer, effective June 1.

"Dr. Luu's extensive experience, ranging from leading pandemic response efforts to driving major public health system improvements across multiple counties, makes this appointment an exceptional gain for Sacramento County," said County Executive David Villanueva. "Her leadership, expertise and commitment to community health will greatly strengthen our public health division as we move forward."

Dr. Luu brings more than a decade of experience in public health, all of it within the governmental public health sector.

For the past six years, she has served as the Bi-County Health officer for Sutter County and Yuba County. In that role, Dr. Luu is the medical executive providing overall public health clinical guidance, community health planning and emergency preparedness for both counties. She also serves as the medical/health branch lead for all disaster responses and actively engages in the planning and response to all disasters within both counties.

Prior to her current position, Dr. Luu was the medical director of Public Health for the Commonwealth Healthcare Corporation (CHCC) in Saipan, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, where she concurrently served as an internal medicine physician, practicing primary care at the top of her medical license. Prior to that, she was a General Internal Medicine fellow at Johns Hopkins University for two years.

Dr. Luu's notable work includes serving as the medical lead for the COVID-19 pandemic response in Sutter County and Yuba County, the key executive lead in the completion of the community health assessment and community health improvement plans for both Sutter County and Yuba County, and led the efforts of 10 Northern California counties to successfully pass ordinances to transition from a Regional Medi-Cal Managed Care Model to a County-Organized Health System Model with Partnership HealthPlan.

Dr. Luu's professional work includes being a board commissioner with Partnership HealthPlan for the last two years, an elected delegate for the Government-Employed Physician Forum Delegation with the California Medical Association for almost three years and is serving as president-elect of the California Conference of Local Health Officers and will assume the presidency this fall.

In addition to her professional experience, Dr. Luu has a Master of Health Science in Clinical Epidemiology from Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health, a medical degree with honors from the University of Washington School of Medicine, and a Bachelor of Science in Biology from Seattle University. She completed her internal medicine residency with George Washington University. Dr. Luu is board-certified in internal medicine and is a fellow with the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Luu earned the Circle of Service Award from the California State Association of Counties (CSAC) in December 2025. She was recognized as a 2020 Woman of the Year by Congressman John Garamendi with the U.S. House of Representatives California 3rd Congressional District in November 2020. She received the Andy Miller, MD, Public Health Excellence Award from Healthy Rural California in September 2020, was the Paul and Daisy Soros Fellowship for New Americans fellow in 2007, a Harry S Truman scholar for Washington State in 2004, and a Gates Millennium scholar for Washington State in 2001. ★

The initial Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is currently 6.75% for a new Home Equity Line of Credit (HELOC), and is fixed for the first 5 years of the loan which is called the draw period. After the initial 5 year period, the APR can change once based on the value of an Index and Margin. The Index is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury Securities adjusted to a constant maturity of 10 years and the margin is 3.50%. The current APR for repayment period is 7.75%. The maximum APR that can apply any time during your HELOC is 15%. A qualifying transaction consists of the following conditions: (1) the initial APR assumes a maximum HELOC of $200,000, and a total maximum Loan-to-Value (LTV) of 70% including the new HELOC and any existing 1st Deed of Trust loan on your residence; (2) your residence securing the HELOC must be a single-family home that you occupy as your primary residence; (3) if the 1st Deed of Trust loan is with a lender other than El Dorado Savings Bank, that loan may not exceed $300,000, have a total maximum Loan to Value (LTV) of 65% and may not be a revolving line of credit. Additional property restrictions and requirements apply. All loans are subject to a current appraisal or property evaluation, which typically range from $100 to $1,000. This cost will be disclosed in your commitment letter and paid at loan closing. Property insurance is required and flood insurance may be required. Rates, APR, terms and conditions are subject to change without notice. Other conditions apply. A $25 early closure fee will be assessed if the line of credit is closed within three years from the date of opening. An annual fee of $85 will be assessed on the first anniversary of the HELOC and annually thereafter during the draw period. Ask for a copy of our "Fixed Rate Home Equity Line of Credit Disclosure Notice" for additional important information. Other HELOC loans are available under different terms.

Crocker Art Museum – "Rebels with La Causa: Royal Chicano Air Force Art and Activism, 1970-1990," through June, explores the expansive production and creative impact of the Royal Chicano Air Force (RCAF), one of the Chicano Movement's most prolific and impactful artist collectives.

Beginning in 1970 at Sacramento State, the group produced individual artworks and group murals, as well as posters for educational, cultural, and political activities.

The RCAF's transformation into a broader collective not only initiated an explosion of Chicano art exhibitions, literary events, performances, and community celebrations, but expanded civic and political engagement.

While RCAF posters served as announcements for these wide-ranging activities, their multicultural aesthetics, subject matter, and strategic humor redefined Chicana/o art, as well as the history of art and activism in the United States. Details at crockerart.org.

Kings Look to Draft Lottery

If you're watching the NBA playoffs count yourself a true basketball fan, because the Sacramento Kings fans don't have a dog in the fight. That's true today, but it doesn't have to be that way.

Just 4 short years ago this city got a taste of what playoff basketball is all about, and I was amazed at the energy it brought to the capital city. I was at both games hosted by the Kings, and I've never experienced the energy that was present in Golden One Arena when the Golden State Warriors came to town.

The Kings came up a little short ultimately, but it marked a moment in time that said, we've arrived!

Sadly, leadership let us down, and what was the most potent offense in the NBA that season, morphed into something else with coaches preaching that the Kings needed to play better defense.

Today's team has a bevy of talent already present, but opportunity was stolen from them when injuries not only occurred but became an epidemic this past season.

So do we give ownership and coaching staff a pass since our best players sat out most of the season? Maybe not a pass, but as knowledgeable fans at least an understanding of what happened.

Time to turn our attention to present day, and what the upcoming season may have in store.

First order of business. Take stock in what you have and don't give it away.

First and foremost, wait on any trades to find out where in the June 23 draft the Sacramento Kings will be drafting.

Don't get the cart before the horse, and by all means don't listen to any offers that would raid this team of valuable talent. That already happened once with the departure of DeAaron Fox, and all Kings fans hope it will never happen again.

So, all eyes turn to May 10 when the ping pong balls will determine the order of the draft, and on that fateful night anything can happen.

Last season it was the Dallas Mavericks that defied the odds and secured the #1 draft choice. All they did was pick Cooper Flagg, who went on to start his NBA career by being last season's rookie of the year.

Such are the possibilities that the draft can bring, and will it bring fortune for the Sacramento Kings on May 10th?

Well, we are about to see.

I recently watched a documentary called The Logo, which told the life story of the unconquerable Jerry West. Everyone already knew of his prowess as a basketball player, but perhaps not everyone knew that he was equally as talented evaluating talent.

The documentary told how West built the Los Angeles Lakers into a dynasty and then took his talents to Memphis where he helped build the Grizzlies into a perennial playoff team. Just when one would have thought Jerry West's career was winding down, he brought his audacious talent to San Francisco where he helped the franchise build a dynasty around the likes of Steph Curry, Klay Thompson, and Draymond Green.

The ability to judge talent. Often working behind the scenes but men like Jerry West are the real stars of the show, and the Sacramento Kings are in need of such a man right now.

Is that the man sitting in the general managers seat by the name of Scott Perry? We are about to see, and what an opportunity to put your mark on a franchise thirsty for a new direction.

The Memphis Grizzlies haven't yet won a franchise, but they're a perennial playoff team, and what would the Sacramento fan base give to say that.

Yes, I'm preaching hope, but it has more than a realistic possibility of occurring, and it's time to rally around this franchise with renewed vigor.

I was present at a lot of basketball games last season that I didn't enjoy, but I'm happy to say it wasn't because of lack of effort. Our Sactown boys played hard, to the point they were actually receiving criticism for playing too hard down the stretch.

Never let it be said we play too hard.

Put on your lucky sock's Kings fans or buy a rabbit's foot, because May 10 is right around the corner!

All the best!

How the Supreme Court's Voting Rights Act Ruling Could Affect California's Gerrymandered Districts

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

When California's independent redistricting commissions drew new maps of the state's congressional and legislative districts after the 2010 and 2020 censuses, their members were emphatically told by legal advisors that the federal Voting Rights Act required them to maximize opportunities for ethnic communities to elect officeholders.

The commissions went to great lengths to fold that mandate into the geographic boundaries of the districts, even if it required them to ignore city and county lines.

The effect was to enhance the ranks of Black, Latino and Asian representatives in Congress and the state Capitol. It also helped Democrats achieve overwhelming majorities in the Legislature and the state's congressional delegation, thus leaving Republicans with only token representation.

The commission's redistricting plans were, in effect, gerrymanders, if one defines that term as meaning to seek predetermined outcomes — even though the commission was created, via two ballot measures in 2008 and 2010, in response to gerrymanders the Legislature had decreed in prior decades.

Last year, Gov. Gavin Newsom and the Legislature asked voters to set aside the commission's overwhelmingly pro-Democrat congressional districts and adopt even more lopsided maps, to give Democrats five more seats. It was a response to efforts, backed by President Donald Trump, to gerrymander more Republican districts in Texas and other red states.

Voters agreed by passing Proposition 50. This year's election will test whether the gerrymander has been successful and whether it has enough impact to restore Democratic control of the House of Representatives.

While setting aside the redistricting commission's maps, Prop. 50 promised that the maps would be effective not only this year, but for the 2028 and 2030 election cycles, after which the commission process would be restored using data from the 2030 census.

It's difficult to believe that when the time comes Democrats would truly allow the commission to once again draw the maps. The party's leaders never liked the commission process in the first place, and returning to it could force them to give up some of the seats they are capturing this year.

Additionally, California's congressional delegation, now 52 members, is likely to shrink by four or five seats due to the state's lack of population growth, meaning even fewer positions to distribute.

On Wednesday, the U.S. Supreme Court gave California's Democratic Party leadership another reason to eliminate the redistricting commission by weakening the Voting Rights Act's effect on drawing districts to maximize representation by non-white ethnic groups.

By a 6-3 vote, the court overturned congressional maps in Louisiana that had, by lower court order, been redrawn to create one more district for the state's Black residents. The split decision declared that a "racial gerrymander" violates the U.S. Constitution's equal rights language.

The revised congressional districts that California created via ballot measure last year will not be immediately affected by Wednesday's ruling, but it could impact states that had been weighing making changes but had not yet done so.

Furthermore, it could affect California's new maps going forward. When they were placed on the ballot, Democratic leaders boasted that they were fully in compliance with the Voting Rights Act's provisions that now have been reinterpreted. Republicans could contend via lawsuit that the maps are unconstitutional under the court's new standard.

The Supreme Court's ruling would also affect how California's redistricting commission approaches its task after the 2030 census by eliminating, or at least weakening, the mandate that guided its actions in the past.

Democratic leaders could minimize the court's decree by persuading voters to eliminate the commission, thus returning redistricting to a Legislature they overwhelmingly control — something they probably would prefer anyway.

Social Security Matters

I Want to do Everything Right When I Claim Social Security

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I will be 62 in two years. I plan on signing up for SS at age 62, but I have heard there are details that are important when signing up. When it comes time, I want to make sure I do everything right. Can you help me understand? Signed: Claiming Soon

Dear Claiming Soon: Deciding when to claim your Social Security benefit is a decision you should make only after careful consideration of your personal circumstances. And details are, indeed, important. For example, if you claim at age 62 (when you first become eligible), your monthly SS benefit will be only 70% of the amount you would get by waiting until age 67 to claim. And there are other considerations as well, including:

- If you are still working and claim at 62, you will be subject to Social Security's Annual Earnings Test (AET) which limits how much you can earn from working while collecting early SS benefits. The earnings limit changes each year, and for 2026 it is $24,480. If the annual limit after you claim early is exceeded, SS will take back $1 in benefits for every $2 you are over the limit. And, if your work earnings substantially exceed the annual limit, you may even be temporarily ineligible for early SS benefits (until you either stop working full time or reach your SS full retirement age). FYI, the AET lasts until you reach your FRA (age 67).

- The benefit reduction for claiming SS early is permanent. After you claim, you will only get increases for Cost-of-Living Adjustments (COLA) which occur annually according to inflation. FYI, the average annual COLA adjustment is about 2.5%.

- If you are married, the reduced benefit you get by claiming early will potentially be the basis of your spouse's survivor benefit if you pass first. Surviving spouse benefits are based on the amount you are receiving at your death, thus waiting longer for a higher personal benefit may also provide your spouse with a larger survivor benefit as your widow.

- If you wait longer than age 62, your monthly benefit will continue to increase (by approximately 6% per year) until you reach your FRA, when you get 100% of the amount you are entitled to from a lifetime of working. FYI, you can even wait longer - up to age 70 - to claim an even higher monthly amount (8% more for each year of delay after FRA). At age 70, your SS benefit would be about 75% more than your age 62 benefit amount.

If you haven't already done so, I suggest setting up your personal online "my Social Security" account at www.ssa.gov/myaccount to see what your SS benefits are estimated to be at various ages. Then, when you are closer to age 62, contact us again to talk about your specific personal circumstances at the time, and we can provide you with everything you need to know about applying for Social Security.

In the end, when claiming your Social Security benefits, you should consider your financial need, your health and life expectancy, your plans for working, and your marital status. We commend you for exploring this well in advance of becoming eligible and we will be here to assist when it is time for you to apply.

Andrew Jackson is the only president of the United States who got the better of his attempted assassin.

The aged Jackson was at the Capitol for a congressional funeral when a crazed man named Richard Lawrence aimed a pistol directly at his chest and pulled the trigger. It misfired. Jackson bull-charged his assailant with his cane and, incredibly, Lawrence pulled out another pistol. It, too, misfired.

As bystanders intervened, an enraged Jackson supposedly yelled, "Let me alone! Let me alone! I know where this came from." Lest we think we live in a uniquely inflamed, conspiratorial moment, Jackson's Whig opponents dubbed him King Andrew, and John C. Calhoun reportedly called him "a Caesar who ought to have a Brutus." Jackson thought the Whigs had orchestrated the attack, and the Whigs thought he had staged it.

Trump isn't a former general or wizened old Indian fighter like Jackson, but he partakes of the same spirit of aggressive defiance. By all appearances, the least fearful people in the ballroom of the White House Correspondents' Dinner were a random older gentleman from New York who kept eating his dinner during the mayhem ... and the presidential target of the attack himself.

The Indomitable Trump

of the most indomitable figures in the history of our politics. No matter how much he's mocked or hated, no matter how intense the controversy or how impossible the fix, no matter how dramatic the situation, he never breaks or loses his sense of command.

The ever-ebullient Teddy Roosevelt, who once gave a speech from shot-through notes immediately after an assassination attempt, might tip his cap. (TR takes the cake for badassery in the face of a threat to his life, given that he delivered that 1912 campaign speech while bleeding and with the bullet still lodged in his chest.)

A fundamental part of the Trump ethos is, as he said right after the dinner attack, when everything was still confused, "Let the show go on." For him, the show must never stop, and he's always at the center of it.

This is one reason that he had the instinct to pump his fist in the air in Butler, Pennsylvania, after he'd been bloodied and nearly killed by an assassin's bullet, demonstrating fight and lack of fear in an instantly iconic moment.

Anyone inclined to dismiss this trait as that of a mere entertainer should consider how showmanship has always had an outsized role in high-level politics; FDR referred to himself, in a positive way, as one of the top actors in the country.

Trump's belief that he's always going to prevail and that if he doesn't, he'll find a workaround gives him an invincible self-confidence. It doesn't mean that he won't retreat if necessary, but whether he's being firm or flexible, he's equally upbeat and assured about his position.

He couples this with a hyperactive energy. Just look at Washington, D.C. He's deployed the National Guard to fight crime, cleaned up homeless encampments and public parks, vowed to make the grass look greener and the water in the Reflecting Pool look bluer, hosted a military parade, brought the coming attractions of an IndyCar race and an enormous fair on the National Mall, started construction of a massive new White House ballroom, and stated his intention to build a 250-foot triumphal arch.

His omnipresence, ambition and willingness to exercise power across two presidencies -- spanning 12 years with the Biden interregnum -- are going to make him one of the most dominant figures in American political history, up there with the likes of Reagan, FDR and TR in the modern era.

TITLE: None of this means that he's right or wrong on any given question, and, of course, these characteristics all come with downsides, sometimes considerable ones. But no one can question Trump's resilience, or his preternatural ability to proceed unbowed no matter what the circumstance.

The Falcons showcased depth and resilience across multiple matchups, going 4-1 in team competitions over the stretch. Their run began on April 10 with a tightly contested 3-2 victory over Solano in Sacramento. Folsom Lake claimed key wins at the No. 1, No. 3, and No. 4 pairs, with the duo of Lutsiv/Vorster setting the tone in straight sets and Ayers/Pham battling through a three-set win to clinch the match.

Later that day, the Falcons edged Cosumnes River by another 3-2 scoreline. Once again, Lutsiv/Vorster delivered at the top spot, while Quintanar/Triplett and Ayers/Pham added crucial victories to secure the team win.

Folsom Lake's strongest showing came on April 17 against Marin, where the Falcons dominated in a 5-0 sweep. Every pair delivered, highlighted by commanding straight-set wins across the lineup. The momentum carried into a neutral-site matchup against Santa Rosa Junior College, where Folsom Lake pulled out yet another narrow 3-2 victory.

That momentum led into the Big 8 Conference Pairs Championship on April 22. Competing in Sacramento, the Falcons faced Sacramento City in the opening round but fell in a close contest, 1-0.

Despite the early exit in pairs competition, Folsom Lake's recent body of work competitive toughness.

With multiple pairs finding rhythm and confidence, the Falcons have positioned themselves as a formidable group as championship play continues. ★

Men's Golf Wins Big Sky Title

Sacramento State Athletics
News Release

LITCHFIELD PARK, AZ (MPG) - The biggest drama of the final round of the Big Sky Men's Golf Championship was a playoff for the individual title. That proved to be a win-win scenario for Sacramento State as the battle was between Jai Bahl and Gabriel Smith who both finished the three-round tournament at 9-under par.

Smith claimed the individual title to earn his first career victory and the Hornets cruised to the team title behind a tournament record 54-hole total of 841 (23-under). The victory gives Sacramento State an automatic berth to an NCAA Regional. The field will be announced on May 6 (after press time) with regionals hosted by Arizona, Oregon State, Georgia, Texas A&M, Ohio State and Wake Forest.

The Hornets entered the final round with an 11-shot lead and saw Idaho pull within five strokes on a couple of occasions before adding some cushion. The team's total broke the tournament record by one stroke and was eight shots better than the previous school record at the conference tournament.

Zach Matzke led the team in the third round with a 4-under par 68. Matzke finished the tournament at 2-under par to move into a tie for ninth place. Matzke parred the first four holes before his only bogey on the day came on the par-5 fifth. Birdies on Nos. 6 and 8 left him 1-under at the midway point of the round before playing the back nine at 3-under. He parred the first four of those holes and then birdied

No. 14, 15 and 17.

Max Thomas moved into a tie for 14th place after shooting 70 on April 22. Thomas picked up birdies on No. 1 and 5 and remained 2-under through nine. He returned to even early on the back nine but eagled the 535-yard, par-5 14th. Thomas played the final four holes even with pars surrounding a birdie on the par-3 16th and a bogey on the par-4 17th.

Smith and Bahl traded the lead throughout the round. Smith had a strong start with four birdies and a bogey over the first five holes to leave him 3-under at the midway point. A bogey on No. 11 and a double bogey on No. 15 left him even on the day until a birdie on the par-3 18th forced the playoff. That birdie was one of only two for the team in the tournament.

Bahl, who was coming off a school-record 61 on April 21, started the round with a double bogey to snap a streak of 19 holes without a bogey. He was 3-over through 12 holes but responded with birdies on No. 14, 16 and 17 before a bogey on No. 18.

The playoff took the pair back to No. 1 where Smith recorded a birdie and Bahl a par. Smith became the eighth individual conference champion in the school's Div. I era and the pair were the fourth to account for the top two spots at conference championship for the Hornets.

Zach Mate added the final score to the team total with an even-par 72. Mate was even on both sides of the course with a birdie on No. 1 and a bogey on No. 3 on the front nine and a pair of birdies and bogeys on the back nine. ★
