RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - What's better than a movie night under the stars? How about two movies, food trucks and a community gathering that has become a Rancho Cordova summer tradition? Friday Moonlight Movies returns in June with a monthlong lineup of free double features celebrating America's 250th anniversary, giving families another reason to grab lawn chairs, blankets and neighbors for a night out.

Hosted by the Cordova Community Council, the annual summer series will feature two films each Friday night throughout June, with animated family favorites starting at 5:30 p.m.

"Moonlight Movies means summer has arrived," said Shelly Blanchard, executive director of the Cordova Community Council. "No need to plan your Friday nights — we've got you covered."

This year's "Red, White and Movie Nights" theme ties into the nation's semicentennial celebration, also known as America 250. Organizers say attendees can also expect America 250 giveaways, sponsor activities, snacks and food trucks during the event series.

"In recognition of the 250th anniversary, we are showing a lineup of movies that celebrate

Sacramento County's New 311 Connect Mobile App is Here

Sacramento County's updated 311 Connect Mobile Application has been launched as of May 29. Photo courtesy of Sacramento County

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County is launching a newly updated 311 Connect Mobile Application now featuring a modern design, improved usability and enhanced security to deliver a smoother, more intuitive experience for our community.

Everything you count on from 311 is still at your fingertips, now with the following key improvements:

Modernized User Interface

The app features a refreshed appearance with an updated color palette and graphic style. Redesigned navigation helps users find what you need faster. New Sacramento County branding is highlighted throughout the app.

Unified Account Experience

App authentication now fully matches the 311 Connect web portal. Your Sacramento Countywide user profile powers both the app and website.

New Service Request Type

A new service request type, Report Illegal Fireworks, is available directly through the app.

What To Expect

If you already have the 311 Connect Mobile Application installed, update the app manually in the App Store or Google Play.

When signing in for the first time after updating the app, you will be prompted to authenticate using your Sacramento Countywide profile.

Your existing mobile app service request history will automatically transfer to the new app, allowing residents to pick up right where they left off.

Learn more about 311 Connect, your link to County Services, as well as Cami, the new digital assistant at saccounty.gov. ★

KP Market Hosts Korean Culture Festival

Sacramentans Gather to Celebrate Korean Culture

Story and photos by Khushi Salgia

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - What better way to bring people together than over a shared love of food, dance and music?

The Sacramento Korean Culture Festival Committee hosted their annual Korean Culture Festival at KP International Market on May 30, which falls within AAPI month. California houses the nation's largest Korean population, with over 570,000 residents as of 2024. Hundreds of people came out to this event of many diverse backgrounds showcasing a rich appreciation for Korean culture in Sacramento.

Unique to this year's festival was that it was in memoriam of independence fighter Hajeon Lee. Last year's festival honored Lee, who at the time, was 104 years old and the oldest surviving member of Korea's independence movement living abroad. A resident of Sacramento, Lee passed away February of this year at the age of 105.

As a student during Japan's colonization of Korea, Lee organized a secret society supporting the independence movement. While studying in Japan, he was arrested and served time in prison for his activism. After Korea's liberation in 1945, Lee became a professor and author and, in 1990, received South Korea's Order of Merit for National Foundation Patriotic Medal. The festival featured a booth honoring Lee's life and contributions to Korea's independence.

The festival served as a vibrant marketplace showcasing traditional craftsmanship. Among the featured vendors was Christine Cheng of Kong's Jade, a family business she took over from her sister. Cheng said the company sources its jade from Burma and previously had it cut and crafted in China. However, rising tariffs have made that process too costly, and the business is currently selling inventory from earlier shipments while exploring alternative production options.

With each piece personally handcrafted by Cheng herself, Kong's Jade sells a wide array of creations such as bracelets, earrings and decorations. According to Cheng, the bracelets are the most popular item because they have the most detail, especially in the carving of its jade flower. In many countries, such as in Korea and China, jade is considered a symbol of good fortune, and many believe that jade can absorb negative energy.

Beyond celebrating cultural heritage and arts, the festival also highlighted critical health initiatives impacting the community, with a strong focus on wellness and public education. Representatives from the Asian American Cohort Study at UC Davis initiative were present to advocate for a historic, nationwide cancer prevention and study effort. While the leading cause of death in the United States overall is heart failure, for Asian Americans specifically, the leading cause of death is cancer. This longitudinal study would track the lifestyles of middle-aged Asian Americans to see if any correlations can be drawn between lifestyle and cancer. UC Davis Health Educator Hien Ngo spoke passionately about the unique health disparities affecting Asian Americans.

"Cancer is the leading cause of death for most Asian American groups," Ngo noted, highlighting why a study specifically tailored to this demographic is so crucial. "We experience the most infectious of the cancers."

Among these are liver, stomach and cervical cancers, to name a few. Many of these cancers are highly treatable when detected early, but stigma surrounding screening and discussion often discourages people from getting tested. According to Nancy Tran, another representative from UC Davis, many Asian cultures tend to be superstitious which can also contribute to a reduction in open conversation.

"The idea is that if you talk about it, you might manifest it," she said.

The festival also emphasized community education, particularly through the work of the Korean School of Sacramento. Hyejung Bae, the Vice President of the Korean School, shared that the organization is deeply invested in helping the local community learn Korean language and culture. Their efforts include programs tailored for adults as well as after-school programs, a book club and initiatives aimed at helping Korean Americans remain in touch with their culture.

"For second generation Korean Americans, identity is really important," Bae said.

Additionally, the global popularity of Hallyu, or the Korean Wave, has led many Korean American youth to take an inter-centered around a Kpop dance contest. KP International Market President Byongju Yu gave a speech before the main event.

"This is our first Kpop contest," Yu said. "You can feel the energy from the youngsters."

This event's contest was the final of three contests, with the first one last October and the second one in March. All the winners from the previous two rounds competed against each other, with judges deciding who would ultimately take home the est in learning Korean as K-pop, K-dramas and other aspects of Korean culture have become increasingly mainstream.

This cultural wave was highly visible among the event's vendors, such as Maishoua Vang-Lapa of My Sister's Gifts. Her booth brought a slice of current South Korean trends to Rancho Cordova, specializing in popular items such as merchandise from the popular movie "Kpop Demon Hunters" as well as products from Japan such as Hello Kitty toys. According to Vang-Lapa, the most popular item, which has recently become trendy amongst Gen Alpha is a sensory fidget toy in the shape of a dumpling that comes in a mini dumpling steamer box.

The highlight of the afternoon for many attendees was the festival's entertainment, which

From students who perform for fun to professional musicians, there was a diverse array of people. Third place went to Liam, who danced to KATSEYE's "Gnarly" and won $500. The group Yeoboseyo took second place with a mashup that included BTS's "Boy In Luv," earning $1,000. First place went to NEWKIDZ, whose routine featured a mashup including "New Things," taking home the competition's $2,000 top prize. ★

American themes and doubling down with double features," Blanchard said.

The June lineup begins June 5 with the "National Journeys" theme, featuring "Spirit: Stallion of the Cimarron" at 5:30 p.m. followed by "National Treasure" at 7 p.m.

On June 12, the "American Adventures" theme will include "An American Tail" at 5:30 p.m. and "Independence Day" at 7 p.m.

The June 19 "American Heroes" lineup features "Balto" at 5:30 p.m. and "Captain America: The First Avenger" at 7 p.m.

The series concludes June 26 with the "Historical Voices" theme, showing "Pocahontas" at 5:30 p.m. and "Hamilton" at 7 p.m.

Blanchard said longtime residents often mark the start of summer by attending the weekly movie nights, which have become a staple of community life in Rancho Cordova.

"We have watched kids grow up over the years and new residents join in," she said. "It's laid back and it's free. It's just a great way to end the work week during June as summer really sets in."

This year's event will also feature a new video wall screen system instead of a traditional projector, which organizers hope will improve the viewing experience for attendees.

Families are encouraged to arrive early and participate in the ongoing "America the Beautiful" children's art project, which began during Kids Day and will later be featured in a Fourth of July art exhibit.

First-time attendees are encouraged to bring blankets, lawn chairs and sweaters for the cooler evening temperatures. Outside snacks are welcome, though concessions and food trucks will also be available on site.

Blanchard said the goal of Moonlight Movies is simple: bring the community together.

"Moonlight Movies is just another reason to get off the couch and into the community," she said. "We hope families come out and enjoy some laid-back fun together and feel good about our great country in our 250th year."

And for anyone wondering whether it's worth seeing a favorite movie one more time outdoors with friends and neighbors?

"While you may have seen them before," Blanchard said, "you probably haven't seen them like this." ★

Aquatic Center Hosts Rowing Champs

Folsom Cordova Adult School Honors ESL Students for Academic Progress

Harvard University men nail a light-weight division championship. The race is among final events in the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta at Lake Natoma (Gold River)

Biceps felt the burn and noses reddened in spring sunshine.

The American River lake provides ideal conditions for the contest, confirmed Sacramento Aquatic Center Director Brian Dulgar. "Weather seldom comes into play in determining winners, here," he said. "It's about the best athletes winning. We have one of the fairest courses in the nation."

The ornate Varsity Challenge trophy was up for grabs in Sunday's thrilling final race. Favored teams were from Washington, Princeton, California and Harvard universities.

Despite a strong start by Berkeley's Golden Bears, the Washington Huskies beat the Californians by one second. Princeton took bronze. A Harvard eights team finished first in the lightweight men's division. Princeton students claimed the women's eights championship.

The regatta drew more than 500 athletes and many more fans to the Sacramento State Aquatic Center in Gold River.

Top collegiate rowers upheld a century of sports tradition. Muscle and technology ruled as shells streaked through 2000-meter courses with the barest sound of blades. Onboard noise came from grunting athletes. Coxes with bull horns yelled "stay strong! Dig deep!"

Hundreds of spectators crowded the finish line, many wading knee-deep in icy water to welcome winners to shore. The weekend marked the fourth time the Aquatic Center has welcomed the championships since 2009, and first time since the pandemic.

"Only a few facilities in the nation can host this regatta," explained Brian Dulgar. "We're proud to be considered among the best locations. Athletes love being here. Officials appreciate that our races run like a Swiss watch. Our organizing team is fantastically efficient."

The event impacts Folsom, Gold River and Rancho Cordova economies. Hotel and restaurant business swells during competition days. Brian Dulgar confirms several overseas sports bodies are eyeing Lake Natoma as a training site for 2028 Olympic rowers.

"Our event is watched from all over the world," he said. "The regatta brings international recognition to our facility and to our region."

By MPG Staff

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Nearly 400 English as a Second Language students at Folsom Cordova Adult School were recognized for their academic achievement and community involvement during recognition assemblies held May 6.

According to information provided by Folsom Cordova Unified School District (FCUSD), the celebrations highlighted students' progress in developing English language skills while also recognizing their contributions to the community through volunteerism, workforce development and peer support.

More than 40 students received special recognition for volunteer service throughout the region. Their efforts included supporting the Rancho Cordova Rotary Corps, assisting at community events organized by the Folsom Cordova Community Partnership, including its biannual job fair and participating in paraeducator training programs.

In addition to serving the broader community, students also helped fellow learners within the adult school. Volunteers supported literacy development in high school completion and beginning English language classes, helping classmates strengthen foundational reading, writing and communication skills.

School administrators said the annual recognition assemblies celebrate not only academic milestones but also the positive impact students are making beyond the classroom. Through volunteer service, mentorship and community engagement, ESL students have become active contributors to programs that support education, workforce readiness and community connections across the region.

The event highlighted the adult school's commitment to helping students build language proficiency while creating opportunities for civic engagement and personal growth. ★

Is There a Hero in the House?

- Sacramento musician and restaurant owner Joe Gilman was recently named a "Jazz Hero" by the Jazz Journalists Association. The international writers group advocates for the preservation and visibility of jazz.

Carmichael resident Dr. Gilman (63) is a famed pianist and former teacher for American River College and Sacramento State University.

Upon his retirement, he and his Thai-born wife Kai took over a small Folsom Boulevard eatery. Adding live music to the menu, the couple created one of the hottest performance venues in Sacramento.

Jazz Journalists Association representative Joe Wirt presented the Journalists' award before a packed Twin Lotus Thai restaurant.

"What Joe has achieved here for jazz and for musicians is incredible," said Wirt. "His venue levels the playing field for a huge variety of artists. His work is multi-dimensional. Most of our award winners are leading musicians. But they don't also run restaurants that support other artists. And he's an Energizer bunny. Where else does a promoter and manager actually play piano with his performers and wait tables?"

The Jazz Hero accepted his honor and returned to refilling water glasses for Saturday night patrons. His award came as a surprise. "I'm familiar with the Jazz Journalists Association and the incredible artists they recognize," he noted. "But I'd no idea how they came to know what we're doing here."

"I'm grateful and honored," Gilman continued. "It's incredibly affirming to have our work recognized in this way. The award has given me a renewed sense of purpose."

Baseball's Postseason Run Ends in WAC Title Game

Sacramento State Athletics News Release

MESA, AZ (MPG) - Senior Ryan Ellis capped off an unbelievable week at the plate by finishing 4-for-4 with two more extra-base hits while Luis Pimentel-Guerrero added a home run and three RBI as part of his three-hit day, but Sacramento State's offense could not keep up with top-seeded Tarleton State, falling 21-11 in the highest scoring Western Athletic Conference Tournament game in league history on the afternoon of May 23 at Hohokam Stadium.

The Hornets, who were making their first WAC Tournament championship game appearance since winning the crown in 2019, finished their season at 29-32 overall, finishing 3-2 in tournament play.

With the win, the Texans improved to 37-19 overall and clinched the conference's automatic NCAA Tournament berth, winning both the league's regular season and postseason trophies.

Ellis and Pimentel-Guerrero were two of Sacramento State's all-tournament team honorees, joined on the list by reliever Sean Cary and infielder Jace Jeremiah. The quartet were the first Hornets named to the league's all-tournament team since Jack Bollengier earned a spot in 2021, while the four honorees were the most since 2019 when Dawsen Bacho was named MVP along with all-tournament picks Travis Martizia, Matt Smith, and Ryan Walstad.

Ellis finished a home run short of the cycle on Saturday, ending the day 4-for-4 at the plate with a pair of singles, a double, and a triple while also drawing a walk and scoring three times. The senior capped off one of the most explosive tournament performances in school history, tying the school WAC Tournament record with 12 hits — 10 of those going for extra bases — set by Ian Dawkins in 2018.

For the week, Ellis hit .632 (12-for-19) with nine runs scored, eight doubles, a triple, and a home run, driving in eight runs and slugging 1.316 for the weekend. The nine runs scored also set a school tournament record, surpassing both Dawkins and Keith Torres, who had eight in 2018 and 2019, respectively, while his .632 average topped Buddy Morales' mark of .600 (6-for-10) in 2006.

His eight doubles broke James Outman's mark of five in 2018, his four hits on Saturday are tied for the most in a single WAC Tournament game in school history, while his eight RBI are tied for the second-most in a tournament.

Jakob Poturnak, who finished with two hits and a pair of RBI, and Pimentel-Guerrero, who added three hits and three RBI, also slugged home runs in the game, while Jeremiah drove in four thanks to an RBI single in the third and three sacrifice flies. Jeremiah's four RBI matched the school single-game WAC Tournament record, becoming the ninth Hornet to do so.

After spotting Tarleton State a run in the first, the Hornets answered with three in the home half on Ellis' RBI triple, Jeremiah's first sac fly of the day, and Pimentel-Guerrero's blast over the right-field wall for a 3-1 lead.

The Texans punched right back with four in the second and a single run in the third, but Sacramento State responded with three in the home half to tie the game. Jeremiah's RBI single got the scoring started as Poturnak followed with another run-scoring hit and the Hornets evened things up on a bases-loaded wild pitch to make it 6-6.

That lit the powder keg for the rest of the day. Tarleton State took the lead for good with a five run fourth, added three in the sixth and scored seven times in the final two innings. Meanwhile, Sacramento State kept clawing, scoring twice in the fourth on a Jeremiah sac fly and a Pimentel-Guerrero single, and another run-scoring hit by Pimentel-Guerrero in the sixth.

Jeremiah added a sac fly in the eighth and Poturnak led-off the ninth with his 11th home run of the year, but the game was too far out of reach. ★

Suite Selection for Republic FC's New Downtown Stadium Begins

Sacramento Republic FC News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As construction crews advance important infrastructure work, Republic FC is launching a new, elevated matchday experience, marking a new era of premium offerings in Sacramento sports and entertainment hospitality.

Republic FC's new downtown home will feature two new suite types — 12 Field Suites and 15 Executive Suites — adding to the world-class venue set to open in 2028. Current Members, along with Suite depositors will have the first opportunity to select a suite, but fans can also sign-up to learn more about the club's new premium seating options. Visit RepublicStadium.com to place a deposit and set an appointment to learn more about the suite products that are now available.

"Sacramento's world-class venue is coming to life, and these suites represent our vision for what premium truly means in this market. We've designed a hospitality and benefits package that we believe will stand among the best in American soccer — but more importantly, it will feel distinctly Sacramento," said Republic FC President & General Manager Tim Holt. "Whether you're a business looking to entertain clients, a family wanting to create lasting memories, or a group looking for the ultimate matchday outing, we've built something special for each experience."

Designed by celebrated premium experience designer Edith Ponciano of EP Atelier, whose portfolio includes BMO Stadium, Chase Center Arena, Q2 Stadium and Snapdragon Stadium, the suites draw deep inspiration from Sacramento's distinctive architectural character and the warmth of its finest neighborhoods. The interior design of the suites, clubs and additional social spaces will complement the overall venue architecture and fan first design elements crafted by MANICA — leading sports architecture firm that recently opened Inter Miami CF's venue, NU Stadium.

"Sacramento has a unique elegance expressed through the region's homes, restaurants and architecture," said Edith Ponciano of EP Atelier. "Our goal has been to create spaces that honor Sacramento's timeless character while offering an elevated sense of comfort, creating environments that feel warm, inviting and residential in nature rather than traditionally sports-inspired. These suites are designed to feel equally suited for game day and everyday moments beyond the stadium."

The suites are inspired by Sacramento itself. Each space is designed to feel warm, welcoming and familiar, drawing from the homes and neighborhoods that define our region. Classic entryways, outdoor patios, shared spaces to gather and celebrate and the best seats in the house with elegant touches to showcase the core spirit of Sacramento through elevated design.

The Field Suite at Republic

FC's new stadium is a first-of-its-kind premium group experience in Sacramento — an indoor/outdoor, climate-controlled suite for private group gatherings and celebrations, positioned on the West touchline. Completely covered and fully all-inclusive, it places guests at the heart of the action for sports and entertainment events. The twelve suites will offer all-inclusive food and beverage programming, seating for twelve guests and spacious 24-inch seating and coveted field-level access, ensuring an intimate and luxurious view of the action.

Perched above the action, the Executive Suites at Republic

FC's new stadium delivers a refined, home-inspired premium experience for guests, clients, friends and families. Sightlines connect guests to every event, while refined interiors — featuring welcoming sitting spaces, shared dining areas and seamless indoor/outdoor flow — evoke the elegance of Sacramento's finest homes. The fifteen elevated suites will feature all-inclusive food and beverage service, room for twelve guests with the option for four additional tickets and generous 24-inch-wide theater-style seats, creating a premium setting with exceptional sightlines and a more private, upscale experience.

Suite holders will enjoy an unparalleled matchday experience, beginning with dedicated concierge hospitality service and access to premium parking upon arrival. Inside, guests are treated to all-inclusive food and beverage programming and exclusive access to the premium club and social spaces in the West Tower. Beyond matchday, suite holders can take full advantage of their investment year-round. Suites are available for private use on non-match and non-event days, supported by concierge event service to seamlessly arrange access to the venue's various club and social spaces for corporate gatherings or private celebrations. Packages are also available for additional stadium events, including concerts and other year-round events.

For more information, visit RepublicStadium.com to learn more about the suites, place a deposit and book an appointment with a representative. Republic Stadium is set to open in 2028 as the largest professional sports and entertainment venue in the region. Later this year, the club will open a stadium experience center where Season Ticket Members and depositors will be among the first to check out the features and amenities of the stadium. ★

Nonprofits Selected for Inaugural Capacity-Building Initiative

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County and the Sacramento Region Community Foundation are announcing the ten nonprofit organizations selected to participate in the inaugural cohort of the Sacramento Countywide Nonprofit Partnership Initiative (SCNPI), a 20-month capacity-building program designed to strengthen the sustainability of mid-sized nonprofits serving Sacramento County residents.

Selected organizations work across Sacramento County to address homelessness, housing instability and food insecurity – some of the region's most pressing challenges. Through SCNPI, each organization will receive practical training and workshops, one-on-one technical assistance, peer learning opportunities, mentorship from experienced nonprofit leaders, and flexible grant funding to support organizational improvements.

“Nonprofits are on the front lines of our region's most difficult challenges every day, and the strength of their internal systems is just as important as the services they provide. This initiative is about investing in organizations to build the leadership, infrastructure and sustainability they need to grow their impact over time. We're proud to partner with the County of Sacramento to support these ten organizations and the communities they serve,” said Kerry Wood, the Foundation's chief executive.

Chevon Kothari of the Sacramento County Health and Human Services Agency Deputy County Executive added, “Our nonprofit partners are essential to delivering critical SafetyNet services across the County. Through this initiative, we are investing in the capacity, tools and resources nonprofits need to sustain and strengthen their impact,” said Chevon Kothari, Sacramento County Health and Human Services Agency Deputy County Executive.

The ten organizations selected for the SCNPI cohort, their primary service area and major programs are as follows.

AcademySTAY (Sacramento): Transitional housing and wrap-around support for foster youth ages 18-24 pursuing college or vocational training.

Alchemist CDC (Sacramento): Connected programs spanning food access, workforce development, entrepreneurship and community space, helping residents move from immediate crisis toward long-term stability.

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County's Environmental Management

Department (EMD), in coordination with partner agencies, continues outreach and enforcement efforts aimed at improving food safety and helping sidewalk food vendors operate legally and safely throughout the county.

County staff regularly conduct inspections in areas with known or reported unpermitted food vending activity. These visits focus first on education and collaboration, providing vendors with information about permitting requirements, food safety standards and available business resources. Recent enforcement operations have included support from the Code Enforcement Division and the Department of Finance.

“People often think inspections are about closures, but our real focus is education, collaboration and helping vendors operate safely while protecting public health,” said Erica Uriarte, environmental health supervisor.

“Sacramento County Code Enforcement supports enforcement of food vendor regulations through proactive education and outreach,” said Mike Sanchez, chief of code enforcement. “Our mission is to protect the health and safety of residents in Unincorporated Sacramento County by collaborating with partner agencies to conduct routine inspections and promote compliance with applicable regulations.”

During recent inspections, county staff observed several examples of unsafe food handling and operating conditions that may pose a risk to public health. Inspectors documented issues such as raw meat stored on the ground in trash bags; foods requiring refrigeration being held at unsafe temperatures; lack of handwashing facilities; and unsafe cooking or food storage equipment.

When food is not prepared, stored or served following approved safety standards, there is an increased risk of foodborne illness and contamination.

“Providing education and helping vendors understand how to legally operate is our primary goal,” said Erica Uriarte, environmental health supervisor. “We want vendors to succeed while protecting public health and ensuring food sold in our communities is handled safely.”

All Sacramento County permitted vendors are inspected for food safety compliance and are required to display color-coded placards showing their inspection status.

At mobile food vendors, consumers are encouraged to look for a valid Sacramento County mobile food sticker displayed on the operation.

At local restaurants, consumers are encouraged to look for a Green Placard (Pass), Yellow Placard (Conditional Pass) and Red Placard (Closed).

Purchasing food from permitted vendors helps ensure the food has been inspected and handled under approved food safety standards.

Potential health and safety concerns associated with unpermitted food vending may include food from unapproved sources; food stored directly on the ground; no restroom access; lack of refrigeration to keep food cold; vermin and insects; no potable water; no handwashing facilities on-site; no food safety training for food handlers; poor personal hygiene; and unsafe cooking equipment.

Sacramento County's efforts are centered on reducing barriers to compliance and increasing awareness among vendors and consumers alike. The county also provides multilingual outreach and education resources to help vendors navigate the permitting process.

Residents can learn more about permitted food vendors and food safety resources by visiting the Sacramento County Environmental Management Department's Unpermitted Food Vendor webpage. ★

County Seeks Climate Emergency Task Force Members

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The County of Sacramento is seeking community members to serve on its Climate Emergency Mobilization Task Force, a volunteer advisory body helping shape the County's response to climate change through collaboration, public engagement and policy recommendations.

Applications are available through the Climate Emergency Mobilization Task Force website:

<https://green.sacounty.gov/us/en/climate-emergency-mobilization-task-force.html#gsc.tab=0>.

The Task Force meets every other month on the second Thursday of the month at 6 p.m. Meetings are held in the Sacramento County Board Chambers, located at 700 H St. in Sacramento.

Members receive a stipend of $70 per meeting.

The County is seeking applicants representing environmental justice communities, including North Highlands,

South Sacramento, Vineyard, West Arden Arcade and countywide representatives; subject matter experts in air quality, agriculture, the built environment, economics, energy and transit/transportation; and student and youth residents.

Task Force members are expected to attend one regular meeting every other month, with the possibility of one or two subcommittee meetings or events per month; dedicate approximately two to six hours per month to research, correspondence and outreach; complete ethics training and file annual financial disclosures related to conflicts of interest; and represent diverse viewpoints and collaborate with stakeholders across the community.

Task Force members work alongside County staff to develop and support implementation of a climate emergency response plan focused on reducing greenhouse gas emissions and preparing communities for the impacts of climate change.

“The Task Force's primary focus is gathering public input and providing informed recommendations to the County on actions to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and adapt to climate change,” said Josh Lathan, sustainability manager. “We invite anyone who has a commitment to collaboration, equity and partnerships in advancing public policy to apply.”

Residents interested in applying or requesting assistance or alternative application formats may contact Josh Lathan at lathanj@sacounty.gov or by calling 916-875-9493. ★

The Finals Are Here

If you've been watching what has turned out to be the coming out party for San Antonio's Victor Wembanyama, it would be easy to miss his impact in the final and deciding seventh game of the western division series. Wembanyama put up a solid 22 points, seven rebounds and two assists in what for him appeared to be a pedestrian performance. But stats alone won't tell this story which is one you don't want to miss.

When Oklahoma City ran the table last season with an overwhelming performance in the NBA playoffs and finals, they established themselves as by far the organization that had the best team. Many fans throughout the nation had to learn the names of the players as few were household names, but the chemistry on the court was something rarely seen.

At the center position the thunder reminded me of the 1975 Golden State Warriors when they came out of nowhere to win the championship with two no name centers that split time the entire series and were the consummate team players.

OKC took a chapter out of that book to produce seven-foot Chet Holgren and Isaiah Hartenstein who played as an ensemble that took the league by surprise and gave a lesson to one and all when it comes to true team basketball.

After enjoying one short year as NBA champions the Thunder have been dethroned, and of all things beaten at their own game.

Although the Spurs Victor Wembanyama will get the majority of the headlines and well deserved, it was the nearly perfect execution of team basketball that won the seventh game of this series. A total of seven players were in double digit scoring, and the Thunder were left wondering who beat us?

It was the team that beat you, and I have high hopes that the front office of the Sacramento Kings was watching.

Unable to capitalize on the stellar performance of MVP Shai-Gilgeous-Alexander who led the Thunder with 35 points, four rebounds and nine assists, OKC found out what they already knew. MVP or no, one player cannot do it by himself, and on their own court they had to watch as the San Antonio Spurs schooled the reigning champions of how to play effective team basketball.

I admit to not seeing this coming. I was confident that the Thunder would unveil what got them there last year, but on this night, it was not to be. Inexplicably Chet Holgren played 33 minutes and added a paltry four points for the night and a total of four rebounds. His counterpart Isaiah Hartenstein played 21 minutes and had seven points and five rebounds for his efforts. While neither made a noticeable impact, Holgren may well have had the worst performance of his NBA career.

Everyone that plays this game has a worst ever performance, but few save it for the seventh game of a series that would have propelled them to the NBA finals.

Already pundits all beating the drum that Holgren is on the chopping block, and sadly for him, Chet Holgren may have played his last game for the OKC Thunder.

Time has a way of healing all wounds, and things may look better when a week or two passes, but great players answer the bell when it counts, and without question Holgren did not answer the bell.

Congratulations to San Antonio for their historic win, and even more on showing the world how to build a championship team, because that is quite likely what they are about to become.

The New York Knicks are saying wait a minute! How about us?

They would be right to say so, and I believe the finals may well surprise some people, but at this moment San Antonio looks like the odds-on favorite.

Pay attention Sacramento, because it was team basketball and not any one player that took out the thunder. Yes, Wembanyama is a force, but 22 points and seven rebounds is not an overwhelming stat, and it's what San Antonio did as a team that won the day.

Will we all be watching the finals as they get under way on Wednesday? I certainly will and it should be an entertaining series, but I'll be glued to my TV set on June 23 when the NBA trots out Adam Silver for this year's highly anticipated draft night.

Gavin Newsom's Rosy Painting of California's Economy Leaves Out Its Darker Undertones

By Dan Walters,
CALMatters.org

As Gavin Newsom makes his increasingly frequent appearances outside the state — seemingly preparing for a 2028 presidential campaign — one of his stock messages is that California's economy is soaring.

"We dominate in every category," Newsom bragged during a recent presentation to the Center for American Progress, a left-leaning think tank. "We are the center of the universe (and) America's coming attraction."

He cited the state's $4-trillion-plus economic output that, were it a nation, would rank 4th or 5th largest in the world, and mentioned the ranks of Nobel Prize winners and vigorous venture capital investment in the state.

Moreover, he boasted, California has used that economic vigor to finance an array of social programs and services, such as universal health care, proving, he said, that such largesse can co-exist with capitalistic gains.

Subliminally, Newsom was pitching the notion that electing him as president could bring California-like prosperity and generosity to the nation as a whole. However, since Newsom is using the economy as a major talking point, it would be fair to provide key facts he fails to mention.

Yes, California has world-class economic output, but it is due largely to a very narrow sector, Silicon Valley's high-tech industry, which has hugely benefited its entrepreneurs and capital investors.

However the industry is undergoing a shakeout due to the artificial intelligence phenomenon and it's shedding thousands of jobs, thus concentrating wealth even more.

Meanwhile the state's other world-famous sector, Southern California's movie and TV industry, is hurting badly as production migrates to other states and nations — so badly that the state is offering subsidies in an effort to slow the hemorrhage.

Ever since the COVID-19 pandemic, California's unemployment rate has routinely ranked among the nation's highest, with a million members of its labor force lacking jobs.

Beacon Economics, a major consulting firm that closely charts California's economic situation puts it this way: "On one hand, California's economy is in good health. While the official figures for the last quarter are still being tallied, the state's economic growth comfortably outpaced the national average of 2.5% in 2025, tracking toward an annual growth rate near 3%."

"At the same time, the job market is sagging. California now has the highest unemployment rate of all fifty states in the Union, stubbornly hovering at 5.5%, and its job market appears to be going in the wrong direction. The total number of jobs in California actually shrank by 0.6% since the beginning of this year, making it the 17th worst-performing state in the nation in terms of job creation."

One result of these contradictory data is one of the nation's highest levels of income disparity, as a recent report from the Public Policy Institute of California points out. Only eight other states have wider gaps.

"The gap between top and bottom incomes in California has increased substantially (by 57%) since 1980, when families at the top earned seven times more than those at the bottom," the PPIC report says, reflecting 72% income growth for those in the top tenth in income but 19% growth for those in the bottom tenth.

The Census Bureau's calculation of poverty that includes the state's staggering living costs puts California's rate at the highest, 17.7%, tied with Louisiana. A similar calculation by PPIC and the Stanford Center on Poverty and Inequality puts it at 16.9%, while another 17.9% of the population is "near-poor."

About 15 million Californians are poor enough to qualify for healthcare under the state's Medi-Cal program but, as Newsom failed to mention in his Center for American Progress presentation, his new budget reduces Medi-Cal eligibility for some Californians to shrink the state's chronic budget deficit, which he also didn't mention during his recitation of cherry-picked data.

Social Security Matters

I'm being Released from Incarceration. What Are My Social Security Options?

By Russell Gloor,
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: In a previous column, you wrote about people who filed for Social Security late in life. I am currently incarcerated and will be filing for Social Security in the fall of 2029. I will be 74 years old in the first week of January 2029. Unless I read it wrong, could I be eligible to collect the previous 6 months? If this is so, how would that work? Would I get that all at once or incrementally? According to the chart we once got in the mail, I should be collecting the maximum amount. I've worked all of my life and never collected Social Security before. Also, my ex-wife remarried and has since passed away. Do I qualify for part of her Social Security? Signed, "D" in Danbury

Dear "D" in Danbury: I'm afraid you cannot receive Social Security benefits while you are incarcerated, even if you are eligible for them prior to your release. Thus, you cannot get retroactive Social Security benefits for any period you were still incarcerated. For clarity, although most who apply at a later age (e.g., in their 70s) do have the option to claim retroactive benefits, you cannot get any SS benefits for any month you were still incarcerated. Further, you will not get credit for delaying your application for SS benefits while you are incarcerated (you won't earn Delayed Retirement Credits (DRCs) during your incarceration).

Assuming (from what you shared) that you expect to be released from incarceration in the fall of 2029, you can apply for your SS benefits to start upon your release. Be aware, however, that it usually takes several months for your application for SS benefits to be processed, and you can specify the month you wish your benefits start. Your benefit amount will be based upon your average monthly earnings for the 35 highest earning years over your lifetime. But you cannot get retroactive SS benefits for time prior to your release from incarceration. Since Social Security does not pay benefits for partial months, you can file for your SS benefits to start effective with the month following the month in which your incarceration ends. Be sure you have your official prison release documentation (parole or discharge papers) in hand when you apply for your Social Security benefits.

FYI, some correctional facilities have a "Prerelease Agreement" with Social Security, which may enable you to file for your SS benefits three to four months prior to your release from incarceration. Be sure to check with your facility to see if they have such an agreement with Social Security and, if so, use it to apply for your benefits in advance of your release. This will facilitate your SS benefits starting more quickly upon your release.

You did not ask about healthcare coverage, but since you will be eligible for Social Security, you will also be eligible for Medicare upon your release. When you apply for your Social Security benefits, you can also apply for Medicare Part B (coverage for outpatient medical services), the premium for which will be deducted from your Social Security payment. FYI, Medicare Part A (coverage for inpatient hospitalization services) is free and automatic because you are also eligible for Social Security.

Finally, regarding survivor benefits from your ex-wife, you can only get a surviving ex-spouse benefit if you were married for more than 10 years and your own SS retirement amount is less than your ex-wife was receiving at her death. In other words, you can only get one SS benefit — either your own or your deceased ex-wife's amount, whichever is higher.

The Democrats couldn't complete their term paper, but handed it in anyway because too many people were wondering what had become of it.

Under pressure, the DNC finally released its autopsy of the 2024 election, after rampant speculation about what it contained and why it hadn't yet been made public. Did it include references to Gaza or didn't it? Why or why not? What explosive revelations were being kept from us?

It turns out that the autopsy is a thoroughly unimpressive, unfinished document that, in the sheer incompetence in its drafting and handling, says more about the low state of the current Democratic Party than any of its analysis.

DNC Chairman Ken Martin maintains that he delayed so long because he didn't want to create a distraction by releasing a poorly done report, which sounds like a typical Washington excuse for hiding something. Except it wasn't. Once everyone saw the report, they realized Martin was right about the embarrassingly poor handling of his own autopsy.

At the start, the autopsy contains a disclaimer that "the DNC was not provided with the underlying sourcing, interviews or supporting data for many of the assertions contained herein and therefore cannot independently verify the claims presented."

Then, throughout the document, there are hostile

An Autopsy as Malpractice

annotations casting doubt on its claims. And the report doesn't have a conclusion. The Democrats would have been better off going with ChatGPT.

That said, the report acknowledges that Democrats are out of touch and too dependent on the Republicans making poor candidate choices (something the GOP may be about to do again in its Texas Senate primary with the Trump-endorsed, scandal-plagued Attorney General Ken Paxton).

It notes how Trump's they/them ad hitting Kamala Harris on trans issues was devastating and unanswerable.

It recognizes that Harris didn't do enough to separate herself from Biden and make an affirmative case for herself, rather than relying on voters supposedly considering Trump unacceptable.

On the other hand, it fails to grapple with the issues of inflation and immigration (except to complain about Harris being given a role with some responsibility over the border). These were the two biggest substantive issues in the election, while the autopsy also whiffs on Biden's age and his catastrophically poor judgment in trying to run for reelection. (It also doesn't mention Gaza, bitterly disappointing the anti-Israel left.)

Yet, our expectations for such documents shouldn't be very high. What was the report going to say? That Democrats disgraced themselves by pretending that Biden was fit for a second term, and only shifted course when he got exposed in the first debate, and then had no alternative but to turn to a charmless nonentity as a last-minute substitute?

The history of party retrospectives like this isn't good. Donald Trump won the presidency in 2016 by taking the recommendations of the GOP autopsy after its 2012 election defeat and often doing the opposite in substance and tone.

Democrats may be rudderless and increasingly extreme, but that doesn't mean they won't have a good election night this coming November. Usually, a party that has just lost the White House rises or falls in the midterms based on the incumbent president's job approval rating, rather than its own political creativity or inherent appeal.

As for retaking the White House, that typically depends on nominating someone who is charismatic and fresh, who has an unexpected approach to politics, and who develops a new coalition -- think Barack Obama in 2008, or Donald Trump in 2016.

TITLE: None of this comes about by having a political strategist talk to a bunch of people about the immediate past election and write a long report about it. Needless to say, Democrats should be grateful that the stakes of their autopsy are so low -- otherwise, they would have had to endeavor to actually finish it, and grapple with truths about the 2024 election conveniently passed over in the just-released document.

Advertising Works!

NOTICE TO READERS

California law requires that contractors taking jobs that total $500 or more (labor and/or materials) be licensed by the Contractors State License Board. State law also requires that contractors include their license numbers on all advertising. Check your contractor's status at www.cslb.ca.gov or 800-321-CSLB (2752). Unlicensed persons taking jobs that total less than $500 must state in their advertisements that they are not licensed by the Contractors State License Board.

DISCLAIMER

Be wary of out of area companies. Check with the local Better Business Bureau before you send any money for fees or services. Read and understand any contracts before you sign. Shop around for rates.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING AND PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING AND PUBLIC HEARING CONCERNING THE MODIFICATION OF THE RANCHO CORDOVA TOURISM BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT (RCTBID) AND LEVY OF AN ASSESSMENT ON CERTAIN LODGING BUSINESSES WITHIN THE RCTBID

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on May 18, 2026, the City Council (Council) of the City of Rancho Cordova (City) adopted a Resolution of Intention to modify the Management District Plan (Plan) of the RCTBID and to levy an assessment on certain lodging businesses within the RCTBID as set forth in the Resolution of Intention.

NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN that at 5:30 PM on June 15, 2026, at Council Chambers, 2729 Prospect Park Dr, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670, a public meeting shall be held pursuant to Government Code section 54954.6 to allow public testimony regarding the modification of the RCTBID Plan and the levy of assessments therein as set forth in the Resolution of Intention.

NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN that at 5:30 PM on July 6, 2026, at the Council Chambers, 2729 Prospect Park Dr, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670, has been set as the time and place for a public hearing at which time the Council proposes to modify the RCTBID Plan and to levy the proposed assessment as set forth in the Resolution of Intention.

Location: The RCTBID includes all Lodging Businesses with two (2) rooms or more located within the boundaries of the City of Rancho Cordova, as shown on the map in Section IV. The RCTBID includes two benefit zones: assessments, services, and expenditures shall be administered in a manner consistent with the benefits anticipated to be conferred within each benefit zone.

Services: RCTBID is designed to provide specific benefits directly to payors by increasing awareness and demand for room night sales. Marketing and sales promotions and destination development programs will increase demand for overnight tourism and market payors as tourist, meeting and event destinations, thereby increasing demand for room night sales. For Dova Zone, such destination development programs may include visitor-serving capital improvements, public realm improvements, event and entertainment infrastructure, transportation and mobility improvements, programming, marketing, and related facilities, uses, and activities intended to support overnight visitation and lodging demand.

Budget: The total RCTBID annual assessment budget for the initial year of its ten (10) year operation is anticipated to be approximately $2,464,000. This amount may fluctuate as room sales do, as businesses open and close, and if the assessment rate is increased pursuant to this Plan. At the time of this modification, this budget reflects assessments generated from existing Lodging Businesses and does not include revenues attributable to Dova Zone, for which assessments will commence upon the operation of Lodging Businesses within Dova Zone.

Cost: The annual assessment rate is a percentage of gross room rental revenue, varied by benefit zone. The initial annual assessment rate for each benefit zone is shown in the table below.

Zone	Assessment Rate
DOVA Zone	6.0%
Zone 1	4.5%

At the City of Rancho Cordova City Council's discretion, assessments collected may be used to repay a capital infrastructure bond if the City Council chooses to issue bonds. Until and unless bonds are issued, any funds collected by the RCTBID will be used towards the services outlined in this Plan. The assessment levied pursuant to this Plan will also not be collected on stays pursuant to contracts executed prior to July 1, 2021. Stays pursuant to contracts executed between September 1, 2013 and June 30, 2021 shall instead be subject to assessment at the rate of $1.50 per paid occupied room per night. During the ten (10) year term, the assessment rate may be increased annually by the RCTBID Owners' Association by a maximum of one percent (1%) of gross room rental revenue per year, as described in Section IV. The total assessment rate may not exceed ten percent (10%) in any zone.

Collection: The City of Rancho Cordova (City) will be responsible for collecting the assessment on a monthly basis (including any delinquencies, penalties and interest) from each assessed Lodging business located in the boundaries of the RCTBID. The City shall take all reasonable efforts to collect the assessments from each Lodging Business.

Duration: RCTBID will have a ten (10) year life, beginning July 1, 2021 through June 30, 2031. Once per year, beginning on the anniversary of RCTBID renewal, there is a thirty (30) day period in which owners paying fifty percent (50%) or more of the assessment may protest and initiate a City Council hearing on RCTBID termination.

Management: Rancho Cordova Travel and Tourism Corporation (RCTTC) will continue to serve as the RCTBID Owners' Association. The Owners' Association is charged with managing funds and implementing programs in accordance with this Plan and must provide annual reports to the City Council.

Protest: Any owner of a lodging business within the modified RCTBID that will be subject to the assessment may protest the modification of the RCTBID. If written protests are received from the owners of lodging businesses in the modified RCTBID who represent fifty percent (50%) or more of the estimated annual assessments to be levied, the RCTBID shall not be modified and the assessment shall not be imposed.

You may mail a written protest to:

Office of the City Clerk
City of Rancho Cordova
2729 Prospect Park Drive
Rancho Cordova, CA 95670

Every written protest shall be filed with the clerk at or before the time fixed for the public hearing.

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Local author Crystel Patterson visited Rancho Cordova's Cordova Villa Elementary School on May 20 to read her book "I am Different" to third graders and talk about her book series, "Inspired to Be..."

Each child received a copy of the book, and volunteers then visited other classrooms to read to students and deliver books to each child. The event was part of United Way Kids Read, a partnership with school districts across the region to provide book readings and free books to elementary school children throughout the spring.

United Way California Capital Region has been a driving force across the region for more than 100 years, listening, responding and taking comprehensive action to meet local needs. From advancing youth opportunities and helping kids excel in school, to strengthening local communities and investing in families' financial security and health, United Way mobilizes communities to build a future where everyone can reach their full potential and thrive. Working across Amador, El Dorado, Placer, Sacramento and Yolo counties, the local United Way provides books and literacy tutoring, addresses housing and food security, leads the region's largest tax preparation initiative, works with foster youth across school districts, launched the region's first guaranteed income program and leads the Community Schools initiative in West Sacramento. ## CITY OF RANCHO CORDOVA RESOLUTION NO. 69-2026

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF RANCHO CORDOVA, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO MODIFY THE RANCHO CORDOVA TOURISM BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT, FIXING THE TIME AND PLACE OF A PUBLIC HEARING THEREON, AND GIVING NOTICE THEREOF

WHEREAS, the City of Rancho Cordova (City) created the Rancho Cordova Tourism Business Improvement District (RCTBID) on December 6, 2010, by Resolution No. 136-2010; and

WHEREAS, on April 19, 2021, the City Council subsequently adopted Resolution No. 44-2021 adopting the Management District Plan (Plan) and renewing the RCTBID for an additional ten (10) year term; and

WHEREAS, the Property and Business Improvement District Law of 1994 (Streets and Highways Code §36600 et seq.) authorizes cities to modify the Plan at the request of the Owners' Association; and

WHEREAS, the RCTBID Owners' Association, Rancho Cordova Travel and Tourism Corporation (RCTTC), has requested modification of the Plan.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF RANCHO CORDOVA as follows:

- The recitals set forth herein are true and correct.
- The City Council declares its intention to modify the RCTBID Plan.
- The proposed modifications of the RCTBID Plan will include implementing updates to modernize the Plan, modifying the boundaries of the RCTBID to establish two benefit zones and increasing the assessment rate within DOVA Zone from four and one-half of one percent (4.5%) to six percent (6%), as described below.
  - The boundaries of the RCTBID shall be modified to establish two benefit zones, as shown on the map attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.
  - The current annual assessment rate levied on all lodging businesses with two (2) rooms or more within the RCTBID is four and one-half of one percent (4.5%) of gross room rental revenue. The modified annual assessment rate for lodging businesses with two (2) rooms or more located within DOVA Zone shall be increased from four and one-half of one percent (4.5%) to six percent (6%) of gross room rental revenue, as shown in the table below:

Zone	Assessment Rate
DOVA Zone	6.0%
Zone 1	4.5%

- The time and place for a public meeting for comments on the modification of the RCTBID Plan are set for June 15, 2026, at 5:30 PM, or as soon as possible thereafter as the matter may be heard, at Council Chambers located at 2729 Prospect Park Drive, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670.
- The time and place for a public hearing on modification of the RCTBID Plan is set for July 6, 2026, at 5:30 PM or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard at Council Chambers located at 2729 Prospect Park Drive, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670.
- At the public meeting and hearing, the testimony of all interested persons for or against the modification of the RCTBID may be received. If at the conclusion of the public hearing, there are of record written protests by the owners of the lodging businesses within the modified RCTBID that will pay fifty percent (50%) or more of the estimated total assessment of the entire RCTBID, no further proceedings to modify the RCTBID shall occur for a period of one (1) year.
- This Resolution shall take effect immediately upon its adoption by the City Council.

Fall Kindergarteners Can Sign Up for Summer KinderCamp with United Way

Dr. Dawnté Early of United Way California Capital Region gives a high five to a graduate of the group's KinderCamp last year alongside other community leaders at the graduation. Photo courtesy of United Way California Capital Region

By Kristin Thébaud, United Way California Capital Region

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Rancho Cordova children entering kindergarten this fall who have not attended preschool are invited to apply for United Way California Capital Region's KinderCamp school-readiness program this summer.

The Rancho Cordova program will take place at Rancho Cordova Elementary School from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 8 to July 2. For more information and to apply visit yourlocalunitedway.org/our-work/youth-opportunity/kindercamp/.

"KinderCamp is about opening doors, building confidence and surrounding every child with the support they need to walk into kindergarten ready to shine," said Dr. Dawnté Early, president and CEO, United Way California Capital Region. "When we invest in our children's education together as families, educators and as a community, we create a brighter path not just for our kids, but for our region."

Run in classrooms at elementary school sites in Woodland, West Sacramento and Rancho Cordova each summer, KinderCamp gives students the chance to participate in a variety of learning opportunities focused on increasing skills in math, literacy, social interactions, problem-solving and cause and effect. Every day a child attends, the child returns home with a new book. Children also receive a healthy lunch, participate in a weekly kids farmer's market and receive hygiene education. Each child then participates in a graduation ceremony.

The program is a partnership between United Way, Folsom-Cordova Unified School District, Washington Unified School District, Woodland Joint Unified School District and YMCA of Superior California and has served nearly 1,000 children.

Let Summer Move Them Forward

By Jason Harper

I remember the summer well. It was 1981. I was headed into fifth grade, and by my own description, I was a little chunkster. In movie terms, I was somewhere between Chunk from The Goonies and Ham Porter from The Sandlot, the round, red-headed legend who bellowed, "You're killing me, Smalls!"

Yeah. That was me.

My mom loved me deeply. Like many parents, she saw something she thought might hurt me later and wanted to help before it became harder. Her heart was in the right place. Her execution just needed a little coaching.

That summer, I learned about calorie counting, swimming for weight loss, and just about every miracle plan floating through the early 1980s. There was the Hollywood Diet, the USA Ski Team Diet, the Cabbage Soup Diet, Slim Fast Shakes, Deal-a-Meal, and even afternoon TV workouts with Richard Simmons. The general idea is that if I just moved more and ate less, everything would fall into place.

I was nine.

All these years later, my mom and I can chuckle about it. There is grace in the memory. There is love in the rearview mirror. But there is also a lesson. Even loving words can land hard when they touch a child's body, identity, or sense of belonging.

And that brings us to summer.

As school lets out, kids step into a season that should feel wide open. Longer days. Later mornings. Swimming pools. Bike rides. Backyard games. Popsicles. Bare feet. Sprinklers. Freedom. Summer should be fun. But summer is also a great time to help kids move, grow, and prepare for the next school year.

Not with shame. Not with pressure. Not with a parent turning the driveway into an NFL combine. Instead, make it fun to compete and move. Because there is a big difference between saying, "You need to lose weight," and saying, "Let's get stronger this summer." There is a big difference between "You are getting heavy," and "Let's move our bodies to be strong, feel better, play better, and live better."

There is a big difference between shame and strategy.

For families looking ahead, summer can be a simple bridge to fall baseball/softball, basketball, football, cheer, flag football, or whatever activity helps a child feel alive and connected. Cordova Hoops, Jr. Lancer Football and Cheer, and Girls Flag Football are among the local opportunities families may want to keep on the radar.

But a child does not have to be officially signed up for anything to start moving. A cheap fitness tracker can turn daily steps into a sibling rivalry worth watching. Suddenly, the same kids who had to be begged to go outside are checking step counts like stockbrokers watching Wall Street.

A Mom vs. Daughter, Dad vs. Son, or Kids vs. Parents step challenge can turn movement into a family game. Nobody needs to be a superstar athlete. Just walk, move, laugh, and keep score. And never underestimate the power of old-school backyard competition. Wiffle ball. A garage-hoop game of one-on-one. Backyard touch football. First to ten wins. Loser takes out the trash. Winner gets bragging rights until dinner.

That is summer. Simple. Active. Competitive. Fun.

The goal is not to turn every child into an elite athlete. The goal is to teach them that movement is normal, effort matters, and improvement can be enjoyable.

Rewards can help too. Not bribes. Not pressure. Not "perform well, and you are worthy." But simple rewards that celebrate effort, consistency, attitude, and courage. A sticker chart for daily movement. A special breakfast after five active mornings. Letting the child choose the family movie after a week of outdoor play. A new ball, water bottle, or pair of socks after reaching a simple goal.

The message should never be, "You are not enough." The message should be, "Your effort matters."

Summer is also a natural time to talk about the year ahead. Ask simple questions:

"What do you want to get better at this year?"
 "What sport sounds fun to try?"
 "What made you proud last season?"
 "What was hard, and how can we work on it together?"

Those questions do more than prepare a child for sports. They prepare a child for life. A child may forget the exact workout, the exact meal, the exact summer schedule. But they will remember how we made them feel. Let summer move them forward without weighing them down.

Because if we get this right, it is better than a home run by The Great Bambino, The Sultan of Swat, The Titan of Terror, The Colossus of Clout... The King of Crash himself.

That, my friends, is summer. And that, my friends, is a homerun. ★

A Year Worth Celebrating

Erik Swanson

By Erik Swanson,
Superintendent,
Folsom Cordova
Unified School District

As another school year comes to a close, those of us fortunate enough to work in education tend to get a little emotional this time of year. We watch students walk across stages, hug teachers, celebrate milestones, and take the next step in their journey. We watch kindergartners become readers, middle schoolers become leaders, and seniors become graduates ready to chase their dreams. And somewhere in all of that excitement and celebration, we inevitably find ourselves asking the same question every year: "Where did the time go?"

This year in Folsom Cordova Unified School District was one worth celebrating. Not because everything was perfect, but because our students, staff, families, and community continued showing up for one another in ways that make me incredibly proud to serve this district. There is something special happening in FCUSD, and you can feel it when you walk onto our campuses, attend our events, sit in our classrooms, or simply watch our students interact with one another. There is energy. There is pride. There is hope.

One of the things I am most proud of this year is the continued growth of positive school culture across our district. In October, 33 FCUSD schools received statewide recognition for their work implementing Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS). While recognition is always appreciated, what matters most is what it represents: schools where students feel safe, connected, supported, and seen. That matters deeply. Students learn best when they know they belong, and our staff continues to work tirelessly to create environments where every child feels valued and cared for.

This year also brought statewide recognition for our work around attendance. California State Superintendent Tony Thurmond selected Williamson Elementary as the launch site for the California Attendance Guide, highlighting FCUSD as a model district for reducing chronic absenteeism. Through intentional systems, personal outreach, and a relentless commitment to students and families, we reduced chronic absenteeism from 23.5% to 14.5% over the past three years. Behind those numbers are thousands of conversations, home visits, phone calls, and relationships built with families. More importantly, behind those numbers are students who are back in classrooms, connected to peers, building confidence, and finding success.

Of course, no year in FCUSD would be complete without incredible accomplishments from our students both inside and outside the classroom. Cordova High School students demonstrated innovation and creativity on a national stage through the school's nationally recognized InvenTeam project supported by Lemelson-MIT, where students developed real-world engineering solutions to address storm drain pollution in the Rancho Cordova community. Their work earned recognition from the City of Rancho Cordova, the California State Assembly, and the United States Congress. Whether in athletics, academics, engineering, arts, activities, or service, our students continue to demonstrate that excellence takes many forms across FCUSD. Watching them pursue their passions, overcome challenges, and achieve at high levels continues to be one of the greatest joys of serving this district.

This year was also about preparing for the future. In December, our Board of Education approved the district's Facilities Comprehensive Plan, helping establish a long-term vision for modernizing schools, improving safety, expanding opportunities, and preparing for future growth across Rancho Cordova. This work is bigger than buildings. It is about creating spaces where students can dream bigger, explore new opportunities, and feel pride in their schools and community. From STEAM labs and performing arts spaces to career technical education facilities and future campuses, we are building environments that reflect the greatness of our students.

What makes all of this possible are partnerships. FCUSD continues to benefit from incredible collaborations with local organizations, colleges, businesses, cities, and community leaders who believe deeply in our students. Whether it's dual enrollment opportunities with Folsom Lake College, career readiness supports through the Folsom Cordova Community Partnership, hands-on learning opportunities through Soil Born Farms, or the countless ways our cities continue to support schools, these partnerships are helping create real opportunities and brighter futures for students. We are better together, and this community continues to prove that every single day.

And finally, I want to thank our families, staff, and community members.

Public education is a team sport, and our district is stronger because of the people who continue to pour their time, energy, love, and support into our schools. Thank you to the parents and grandparents who ensured students arrived at school each morning. Thank you to the teachers, classified staff, administrators, and support teams who gave their all to students this year. Thank you to the volunteers, coaches, PTA members, community partners, and advocates who continue to believe in our schools. And thank you to our students, who inspire us daily with their resilience, creativity, kindness, and potential.

As we head into summer and begin preparing for another school year, I can honestly say this: the future of FCUSD is incredibly bright. We still have important work ahead of us, and we will continue striving to get 1% better every single day. But this year reminded me of something important, when a community believes in its students and works together in service of kids, extraordinary things happen. ★

Cordova Hires Nakagawa to Lead Lancers Basketball

By James Darnell

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Cordova Lancers have found the next head coach of their varsity boys basketball program.

After seeing two coaches dismissed in an 18-month span the past two seasons, the Lancers have landed on former Destiny Christian Academy boys basketball coach Eric Nakagawa as the best fit to lead the team moving forward. Nakagawa, who served as the boys' junior varsity head coach in 2025 at DCA following an assistant coach role on the varsity team in the four seasons prior, has a coaching background that extends nearly 15 years in both boys and girls' basketball.

Additionally, Nakagawa is a well-known figure in the AAU circuit and is familiar with the basketball landscape in the region. When asked what interested him in taking the job at Cordova, he gave an answer that spoke to his understanding of Cordova basketball and where the program stands currently.

"The challenge," Nakagawa said. "It hasn't been great the past few years, and at this point in my coaching career I am just looking for a challenge. I think one of the main things for me is that I want to try to help kids. I come from the east side of San Jose, and I come from the inner city, and I want to help kids get to the next level that may or may not have the opportunity to do so. It's about giving back or paying it forward, if you will. Basketball gave me a lot; it kept me off the streets and out of trouble. The challenge is giving these guys a program they can be proud of and hopefully that makes them want to be better."

While Nakagawa doesn't have any existing personal relationships with the current crop of student athletes at Cordova, he is familiar with their talent. He referenced talented junior guard Kaeden McDaniels as a player he's been aware of having coached in the area and said he is looking forward to diving in headfirst as he looks to establish the program in his vision.

Nakagawa is eager to get the ball rolling in the coming weeks as the team will participate in the Folsom Summer Classic tournament in late June after taking part in practice sessions the next two weeks. He mentioned that summer workouts will likely be halted in the month of July before reconvening in August and ultimately during the school year. For the new Lancers' head coach, however, the coming weeks and months won't be about wins and losses as much as they will be about setting the standard of what it takes to win.

"For me it starts with the culture," Nakagawa said. "I think you have to as a coaching staff provide a structure and a culture for the kids that lends itself towards success. I really don't focus on winning too much. I focus on daily habits and what it takes to win, and I think when you focus on building better young men, mysteriously when you start focusing on that you start winning." ★

Sacramento Life Center Receives CARES Foundation Grant

Sacramento Life Center News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento Life Center is proud to announce it has been selected as a recipient of a 2026 Q1 CARES Foundation grant from The Save Mart Companies CARES Foundation in recognition of the organization's ongoing commitment to supporting healthier, stronger communities throughout the Sacramento region.

The grant will help Sacramento Life Center continue providing vital support services, resources and care to women, children and families, including parenting support, wellness resources, community outreach and access to essential items for families in need.

"We are incredibly grateful to The Save Mart Companies CARES Foundation for investing in the well-being of our community," said Marie Leatherby, executive director of Sacramento Life Center. "This support allows us to continue serving families with compassion, dignity and hope while expanding access to resources that strengthen lives."

According to the CARES Foundation, Sacramento Life Center's mission aligns with its efforts to support programs that expand access to resources and opportunities that help children and adults thrive.

For years, Sacramento Life Center has remained dedicated to walking alongside families through compassionate support, community partnerships, educational resources and programs designed to empower parents and care for children across the region.

The Sacramento Life Center provides compassionate, life-affirming medical care and resources at no cost to pregnant women, empowering them to make informed choices and build strong families. You can learn more at saclife.org. ★

Mayer Makes It Two in a Row

By James Darnell

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- Cordova Lancers' sophomore standout Perry Mayer was recently named to the 2026 All-Metro League team for the second year in a row, coming off a superb season as the No. 1 singles player in the Lancers' lineup. But that shouldn't come as a surprise.

Mayer put together an impressive 8-2 record in league play this season, which was good for second place in singles competition within the Metro League. It is the second consecutive year Mayer has been named as an All-League performer after doing so during his freshman season last spring, further cementing him as one of the top singles players in the area despite being just a sophomore. Cordova head coach Jeff Pieczynski was thrilled with what he saw from the youngster.

"I was really pleased with the year he had," Pieczynski said. "I knew there were going to be four or five top players in our league including him, so I was really interested to see how he was going to perform against those top players. I was really pleased with how he played throughout the season."

Mayer fell just short of advancing to the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) Sac Joaquin Section Championship tournament this spring, but figures to be right back in the mix next year. Even if Mayer was disappointed in not competing for a Section singles championship, you would never know it according to his coach as he believes the top trait of the youngster is his ability to stay even-keeled.

"Perry (Mayer) is very strong mentally," Pieczynski said. "You can watch him play a match and you don't know if he won the point or lost the point unless you were watching and you saw the ball land in or out of play. If you look at his emotions, he's not like a lot of players, that if they lose the point, they'll get discouraged. His body language for the most part is always positive and he doesn't seem to get flustered."

Pieczynski has already been in discussions with Mayer about how he should approach the offseason and which areas of his game need improvement, but there is certainly excitement within the Lancers' program about the kind of player he can develop into during his upcoming junior and senior seasons.

Mayer will likely participate in local UTR (Universal Tennis Rating) tournaments and continue to play on his own as he looks to take the next step towards competing for a Section championship in the spring of 2027. Pieczynski is looking forward to what's to come.

"I'm very encouraged knowing that I've got him for two more years," Pieczynski said. "I'm very interested in seeing how he's going to progress and see that come to fruition." ★
