Citrus Heights Police Department celebrates milestone

The Citrus Heights Police Department marked its 20th anniversary with a celebration that was not only a milestone event, but also a reflection on a promise made to a newly formed city two decades ago. Photo courtesy of the Citrus Heights Police Department

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - The Citrus Heights Police Department marked its 20th anniversary with a celebration that was not only a milestone event, but also a reflection on a promise made to a newly formed city and the people who have spent 20 years working to fulfill it.

Hundreds of current and former employees, elected officials, community partners and residents gathered on June 26 at the Citrus Heights Event Center to celebrate the department's anniversary. The event featured remarks from city leaders and elected officials, including Assemblyman

Josh Hoover, Sen. Roger Niello and Rep. Ami Bera, along with historical displays, video tributes and recognition of employees who have served since the department's founding in 2006.

"The police department being here for 20 years is a fulfillment of a promise," said Mayor MariJane Lopez-Taff. "It was a promise to our community that when we became a city that we would bring safety and law and order to our city."

That promise dates back to Citrus Heights' incorporation in 1997. For nearly a decade, law enforcement services were provided through a contract with the Sacramento County Sheriff's Office before city leaders elected to establish their own police department.

Former Mayor Jeannie Bruins, who helped guide those discussions, recalled the challenges of creating an agency from the ground up.

Council Conducts Mid-Cycle Budget Review

By Shaunna Boyd

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - At its June 24 meeting, the Citrus Heights City Council held a public hearing on staff vacancies, recruitment and retention efforts. Human Resources Manager Melissa Rojas explained that this annual presentation is required by Assembly Bill 2561, which aims to address issues with employee workload and effective delivery of public services by local governments.

Presented prior to budget adoption for the new fiscal year, the report identifies any changes to policies, procedures and recruitment that could be necessary to reduce hiring challenges. Additional obligations go into effect if any bargaining unit exceeds a 20% vacancy level. However, for 2025 the city had an average vacancy rate of 10.47%.

The city's workforce comprises general staff (43%), police employees (19%) and police officers (38%).

Current vacancies include one open position in the city manager's office, three in administration, six in general services and 17 in the police department (12 of which are officer positions). The community development department and the economic development and community engagement department are each fully staffed.

Rojas said employee retention efforts include competitive pay and benefits, alternative work schedules to promote work-life balance, development and training programs, and wellness and recognition programs.

The city has faced challenges with difficult-to-fill position, said Rojas, such as licensed engineers and sworn police officers. Outreach efforts aim to encourage lateral transfers in the police department to streamline the recruitment process.

The council accepted the report, and no action was required.

The council then considered the mid-cycle budget review for fiscal years 2025-26 and 2026-27, as the city operates on a two-year budget.

Sales tax is the General Fund's largest source of revenue, and it came in lower than projected for this fiscal year, due to high inflation and tariffs. But expenditures were also

Citrus Heights Little League 8-10 All Star Team Wins District Title

By Mike Powers

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - The Citrus Heights Little League 8-10 All Stars won the District 5 Championship on Tuesday, June 30, defeating College Glen Little League in the championship game at Glenbrook Park. It was the first Championship banner won for Citrus Heights since 2001.

The win was the culmination of a stellar run of success for Manager Cory Techau. He led the CHLL Minors Twins to an undefeated regular season and continued that run through the District 5 Tournament of Champions (TOCs). The CHLL Twins won the District 5 Minors TOC banner on June 6, beating the College Glen LL

Yankees 11-1.

With the TOC banner already in hand, Coach Cory then led the CHLL

8-10 All Stars on another undefeated run, beating Rancho Cordova LL 14-4, Sunrise LL 6-2, Arden LL

9-2, and finally College Glen LL 4-1 to claim another banner.

"We started with nothing," Bruins said. "We made history when we became a city. We made history again against all odds when we formed a successful police department."

Bruins said then-Police Chief Chris Boyd was tasked with creating the department before the city's contract with the sheriff's office expired.

"He did it in six months," Bruins said. "It was such an amazing task."

Since opening its doors in 2006, the department has grown into a full-service agency recognized for its community-policing approach and innovation.

Police Chief Alex Turcotte said one of the department's strengths has been its willingness to evolve rather than rely on tradition.

"We were never mired in tradition or the way we always did things," Turcotte said. "The folks that we attracted were innovators, big in community policing, never stuck to the way that things always have been."

That culture continues today through the department's use of technology, including aerial systems and crime-detection cameras, while maintaining a focus on relationships within the community, Turcotte said.

"One of the cornerstones of what we do is try to be where the people are," he said. "Wherever community members are going to get together and have discourse about a problem, I want myself or somebody to be there, so we can hear and we can help."

The department's emphasis on community engagement was a recurring theme throughout the celebration.

In remarks to attendees, Lopez-Taff said the department's success extends beyond crime statistics.

"From National Night Out to school visits, from safety fairs to neighborhood meetings, Citrus Heights Police has shown up not just as a police department but as a partner in this community," she said.

City Manager Ash Feeney highlighted what he described as measurable results from the department's work, noting that crime in Citrus Heights has declined by more than 50% since the agency's early years.

"In fact, last year the city experienced the lowest crime rate in its history," Feeney said.

Feeney credited those results to collaboration between city departments, residents and law enforcement, as well as initiatives such as the city's CARES campaign, which focused on issues including homelessness prevention and nuisance crimes.

"Results like this don't happen by accident," Feeney said. "They happen through intention."

The celebration also served as an opportunity to honor those who helped build the agency. Employees with 20 years of service were recognized alongside retirees and alumni who played a role in the department's development.

Lt. Nicole Garing told attendees that the department's legacy is rooted in the people who dedicated their careers to serving the community.

"Twenty years of service is more than a number," Garing said. "It represents dedication, resilience, professionalism and a deep investment in something bigger than oneself."

Throughout the afternoon, guests viewed historical displays documenting the department's evolution and watched video messages from city officials, regional partners and allied agencies. The Citrus Heights Police Department Honor Guard presented the colors, accompanied by the Sacramento Firefighters Band of Brothers Pipes and Drums.

The event concluded with remarks from Turcotte, who reflected on the sacrifices made by those who wear the badge.

He recalled a conversation with a young officer who asked whether the community truly understood what police officers experience on the job.

"While you are loved and appreciated, no, absolutely not. They don't get it," Turcotte said. "The reason they don't get it is because until you've walked a mile in that person's shoes, you really never will truly understand their experience."

Still, Turcotte said the support shown at the anniversary celebration demonstrated something equally important.

"You are supported and loved in this community," he told department members. ★

Bubbles in the Park Returns to Citrus Heights on July 18

Grace Communion Sacramento News Release

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Families, children and bubble enthusiasts are invited to enjoy a day of fun, fellowship and community connection as Bubbles in the Park returns to Rusch Community Park, located at 7801 Auburn Blvd. in Citrus Heights, on Saturday, July 18. The free event begins at 11 a.m. and continues throughout the day, offering a welcoming space for people of all ages to gather outdoors and enjoy the simple joy of blowing bubbles.

Hosted by Grace Communion Sacramento, the event is designed to bring neighbors together while creating opportunities for meaningful conversations, family fun and community engagement. Grace Communion Sacramento church is part of Grace Communion International, a Christian denomination that emphasizes the loving relationship of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit through Trinitarian theology. The congregation relocated to Citrus Heights in June 2024 with the goal of building relationships and serving its new community.

Last year's event attracted nearly 100 attendees who spent the day enjoying the park, fresh air and activities. Organizers hope to welcome even more families this year as children enjoy their summer break.

The idea for Bubbles in the Park was developed by

Pictured is Kairis Chiaji, minister of Grace Communion Sacramento. "Our hope is to continue offering events like this and become an active part of the community," said Pastor Chiaji. Courtesy photo

Pastor Kairis Chiaji as a simple way to connect with local residents and provide a free family-friendly activity during the summer months.

"Our hope is to continue offering events like this and become an active part of the community," said Pastor Chiaji. "We love meeting people, sharing conversations, and offering encouragement. Each year we give away hundreds of bottles of bubbles, snacks, and if they'd like, prayers. Bubbles are a reminder that some prayers are answered immediately — they 'pop' right away — while others seem to float for a while before the answer comes."

Guests are welcome to bring their own bubble supplies, but free bubbles will be available throughout the event. In addition to bubbles, attendees may request prayer, enjoy a complimentary lunch, or take advantage of all three. Cold water and light refreshments will also be provided while supplies last.

The event is open to everyone and will take place in the main grassy area of Rusch Park. Whether attendees come to play, meet new friends, share a meal, receive prayer, or simply enjoy a summer afternoon outdoors, organizers hope the gathering will leave participants feeling encouraged and connected.

In Celebration and Gratitude

Paul V. Scholl, Publisher of Messenger Publishing Group and President of Western Web, Inc.

By Paul V. Scholl, Publisher Messenger Publishing Group

July 1st marked the celebration of Messenger Publishing Group reaching its 20-year anniversary of publishing local news, beginning with the American River Messenger in 2006. It all started in my garage and one converted bedroom into an office in my home in Roseville.

MPG is currently 18 publications strong, 15 of those would not exist if we hadn't rescued them from closure. The Sacramento region would be a local print news desert if these local newspapers hadn't been purchased as the years went on. Through all the tough times, good decisions and bad decisions, oppressive government regulations and overreach, MPG forged on. We did not surrender.

Over the years, many other publications ceased to exist or have been greatly diminished. At the same time, we re-organized and kept printing. MPG now consists of Carmichael Times, Citrus Heights Messenger, Rancho Cordova Grapevine Independent, Elk Grove Citizen, The Rio Linda News, The Galt Herald, Land Park News, East Sacramento News, Pocket News, River Valley Times, Gold River Messenger, American River Messenger, The Gridley Herald, Territorial Dispatch (Marysville/Yuba City), Colusa County Pioneer Review, Dixon Independent Voice, West Sacramento News Ledger, Arden Arcade News. Along with our special publications, we publish 722 issues each year. And we don't work on Sundays.

In January of 2026, I purchased Western Web, Inc., a commercial printing company in Northern California to produce and print our publications. Our new printing team has been awesome, and the products now look fantastic. We also print dozens more local newspapers and publications that serve their communities throughout Northern California all the way up to the Oregon border.

We are growing. Leadership matters. Commitment matters. Foundational principles matter. We are founded on "God, Country, Family", the same foundation that our great nation is founded upon. We are leaders in local print news because we are dedicated to a higher power. We lift people up. We lift communities up.

My teams at Messenger Publishing Group and Western Web and I want to thank all those who support us through their advertising, subscriptions, readership, printing work and contributions. I want to thank my entire team for all their hard work, especially when deadlines loom. It takes great teamwork at both companies to produce great products.

We will continue to grow. We will continue to serve.

God Bless America,
Paul V. Scholl

Women's Basketball Welcomes Erica Adams

UC Davis Athletics News Release

DAVIS, CA (MPG) - As UC Davis women's basketball prepares for its transition to the Mountain West Conference, head coach Jennifer Gross has strengthened her staff with the hiring of former Division I student-athlete Erica Adams as an assistant coach.

"We're thrilled to welcome Erica to our Aggie family!" said head coach Jennifer Gross. "From the moment we began getting to know her, it was clear that she would be a perfect fit for our staff and culture. Erica's positivity, enthusiasm and authentic approach to building relationships make her a tremendous addition to our program. She has a natural gift for connecting with people, and we're excited for the impact she'll have on our student-athletes, alumni and the entire UC Davis community."

Prior to joining the Matadors, Adams spent three seasons at Pacific. As a freshman in 2020-21, she earned All-West Coast Conference Freshman Team honors after leading the Tigers with a 50 percent three-point field goal percentage.

Following graduation, Adams began her coaching career as a graduate assistant at Concordia University Irvine while pursuing a master's degree in organizational leadership. In her lone season with the Golden Eagles, she helped guide the program to a 14-14 record and a berth in the PacWest Conference Championships.

Before her collegiate career, Adams was a standout student-athlete at California High School in San Ramon. She earned All-League honors in each of her four seasons and was named East Bay Athletic League MVP in 2020 after helping lead the program to its first league championship. Off the court, Adams gained early coaching experience working with her high school's girls basketball summer league, where she developed a passion for mentorship and leadership.

"I am incredibly grateful for the opportunity to join head coach Jennifer Gross and the UC Davis women's basketball program," Adams said. "My experiences as a Division I student-athlete and collegiate coach have cultivated a deep passion for mentoring and empowering young women through the game of basketball. Coach Gross has built a championship culture rooted in joy, excellence and meaningful relationships, and I am honored to be part of it. I am excited to get to work, invest in our student-athletes and help continue the tradition of success at UC Davis." ★

Keep Kids Safe Around Water This Summer

As temperatures rise and families look for ways to stay cool, Sacramento County reminds parents and caregivers that water safety should be a top priority throughout the summer months. Photo courtesy of Sacramento County

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG)

- As temperatures rise and families look for ways to stay cool, Sacramento County reminds parents and caregivers that water safety should be a top priority throughout the summer months. Drowning is one of the leading causes of injury-related death for children, but many incidents can be prevented through awareness, preparation and active supervision.

Whether spending time at a swimming pool, lake, river, water park or even at home, it's important to take steps to stay safe. Drowning can happen quickly and quietly. An adult should always be supervising children when they are in or near water. Parents and caregivers are encouraged to talk with children and teens about water safety this summer. These conversations should include the importance of following safety rules, swimming with a buddy and listening to lifeguards or supervising adults.

Before spending a day on the water:

Parents should take a few minutes to make sure they are prepared. Children under 13 in Sacramento County must wear properly fitted life jackets when boating or spending time in lakes, rivers or other open water. While floatation devices and water toys can be fun, they should never replace close adult supervision or a Coast Guard-approved life jacket.

Start the conversation with your kids:

It's also important to talk with children about what to do around water. Remind them to stay where adults can see them, avoid rough play near pools or waterways, and never enter the water without permission. Having these conversations before a family outing can help children make safer choices when they are excited and distracted by summer activities.

Drownings can happen in unexpected places:

Water safety discussions should not be limited to pools, lake rivers and oceans. Drownings can happen inside the home as well. Bathtubs, buckets, large containers and other sources of standing water can pose serious risks to young children. Babies can drown in as little as one inch of water. Parents and caregivers should never leave infants or young children unattended around water, even for a moment.

To help keep children safe, parents and caregivers should:

Always provide close, undistracted supervision when children are in or near water.

Designate a responsible adult as a "water watcher" during gatherings and swimming activities.

Ensure pools and spas are secured with proper fencing and self-latching gates.

Use properly fitted life jackets when boating or recreating near open water.

Enroll children in age-appropriate swim lessons when possible.

Learn CPR and know how to respond in a water emergency.

Talk with children regularly about water safety rules and expectations.

Empty buckets, kiddie pools and other containers after use and store them safely.

When visiting Sacramento

County Parks:

Sacramento County Regional Parks reminds residents to use extra caution when visiting local waterways. Rivers can have strong currents, cold water temperatures and hidden hazards that make them dangerous, even for experienced swimmers. Parents should talk with children about these risks and make sure they stay in approved recreation areas. Remember: County ordinance requires that all children under 13 wear an approved life jacket before entering lakes and rivers. Life jackets are also stationed in several areas along the river.

As families enjoy the summer season, a few simple precautions and conversations can go a long way toward preventing accidents and keeping children safe while they have fun in and around the water. ★

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

Darius Acuff Debut

By V.G. Harris

A new era has begun, and Darius Acuff Jr. will be a focal point in that new era.

Beginning with a rousing 79-76 victory on the Fourth of July over the visiting Nets, Darius Acuff Jr. received by far the most rousing applause from a frenetic Golden One crowd poised to see what the future will look like.

A lot of pressure on young Darius produced a shot that wasn't falling, and after one quarter Acuff missed all but one shot from the field and contributed a paltry three points.

But this crowd was inspired, and as it turns out, so was Darius. Putting doubters to rest, Darius showcased excellent ball handling skills throughout and exhibited court management like a veteran.

What impressed me the most as I sat and watched the Kings No. 1 draft choice in action, was his determination to get the job done, and seemingly no number of missed shots was going to deter him.

Playing alongside older and more experienced players, this young 19-year-old looked like a much older player as he simply put his head down and refused to quit.

The Nets led this game nearly the entire way, but with less than three minutes to play, Acuff sank his first NBA 3-pointer, and would prove to be the margin of victory.

Last year's No. 1 draft choice Nique Clifford made the deciding bucket with a "nothing but net" three-pointer on an assist from Acuff, but without a doubt Darius had made his presence felt, and his first NBA action ended with a win.

Criticized to some degree for his lack of defense coming in, Acuff showed a natural ability and even looked comfortable on the defensive end of the court.

Overall, the Kings fans were treated to an NBA debut that few will forget, and in spite of not having his best shooting night, Acuff finished the contest with a game high 25 points.

Not to be lost in all of this drama was the electric play of Dylan Cardwell, who picked up where he left off from last year, and kept the Kings in the game with his high intensity play. Without question, Cardwell is an intrinsic key into the success of this year's team, and his joy for the game is contagious and enthusiastic.

Stepping from the shadows was the almost forgotten man, 45th in the draft Emanuel Sharp, who added a well received 13 points and played a brand of defense the Sacramento Kings have been hoping to see for ages.

Defense seemed to come naturally for young Sharp, and he seemed to be everywhere at once. At 6-foot-3 and 210 pounds., Emanuel looked every bit of the NBA ready guard he appears to be, and what a welcome sight that is for a team that has struggled with defense like few other teams.

Although Alex Karaban did not see action due to a rolled ankle, both Acuff and Sharp carried the day and opened more than a few eyes, as the Kings did something that the Sacramento fans saw little of a year ago. They actually closed out a game.

The second game of summer league saw the Kings face their archrival, the Golden State Warriors, and although Darius Acuff was given the night off, once again Emanuel Sharp came to play, and just as the Kings had done the night before, they came from behind to post a solid 91-85 victory.

The final game at Golden One will take place on Monday night, and I expect to see Darius Acuff back in action. Look for attendance to be good as Kings fans are feeling the crescendo that is taking place with a bevy of rookies that are vying for a spot of the big squad.

It's hard to wish for more positivity than this young squad has presented to the Sacramento faithful in the first two games, but if you haven't been paying close attention so far, it's not too soon to get excited.

These guys don't like to lose, and that kind of energy is contagious.

Now surround them with the likes of Domantas Sabonis, Keegan Murray and Zach Lavine, and watch the temperature go up.

The real question is how many times will this new unit light the beam this year?

Stay tuned Kings fans, because the fun is just getting started!

All the best!

California Voters will Decide 14 Ballot Measures, Billionaire Tax Included. There Could've Been More

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

When California voters in 1978 passed Proposition 13, the iconic property tax limitation, they simultaneously rejected Proposition 8, which had been placed on the ballot by the Legislature as an alternate tax relief measure. While Prop. 13 flatly limited property taxes, Prop. 8 merely empowered the Legislature to lower property taxes on owner-occupied homes.

It may have been the first use of a campaign tactic that later became known as a "countermeasure." Rather than just oppose a measure, a rival interest group could place its own measure on the ballot, thus muddying the waters. Voters would either choose between the two or be confused enough to reject both.

A classic example occurred in 2022 when California's casino-owning Indian tribes proposed a measure to give them a virtual monopoly on sports wagering and digital sports betting companies countered with a measure of their own. Hundreds of millions of dollars were raised for the rival measures and voters rejected both, thus preserving the state's ban on sports wagering.

It also exemplified another aspect of ballot measure politics: the tendency of competing interests take their issues to the ballot when the Legislature could not resolve them.

Over time, both trends had made the ballot measure process — rather than legislation — California's dominant method of resolving big issues.

Legislative leaders disliked being forced into a reactive role. Thus, in 2016, the Legislature changed the rules of the ballot measure game to reassert its place. It decreed that even after they had qualified for the ballot, sponsors of initiative measures could remove them up to a deadline.

Sponsors of rival qualified measures could negotiate compromises with input from legislative leaders, have them written into law and avoid very expensive pro and con campaigns.

The 14 measures that will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot were going to be as many as 20 before last-minute compromises settled three dueling measure conflicts. One pitted personal injury lawyers against ride-share companies, a second involved hospital executives and a health care union, and the third dealt with vote minimums for local taxes.

Whether the compromises make policy sense or not, contending parties got enough out of them to warrant dropping their ballot measures.

However, the most prominent ballot measure conflict — over whether California should impose a 5% wealth tax on billionaires — defied resolution. The measure, sponsored by the SEIU healthcare workers union, will be Proposition 40 and will compete with two countermeasures sponsored by billionaire Sergey Brin and other Prop. 40 foes, Proposition 41 and Proposition 42.

They could, if passed with higher vote counts, kneecap the wealth tax.

At one point the wealth tax advocates offered to reduce its bite to 2% as a compromise, but made no headway with opponents, most prominently Gov. Gavin Newsom.

Another tax measure, sponsored by the California Teachers Association, would make permanent a temporary surtax on high-income taxpayers first enacted in 2012 — but it could get caught in the shootout over Prop. 40. Democratic legislative leaders gave it some protection with a last-minute decree that it would be appear on the ballot as Proposition 3. Thus voters will deal with it before confronting Props. 40, 41 and 42 much further down the ballot.

Given its high stakes and the attention it is getting in national media, the wealth tax is destined to be not only the single most controversial ballot measure this year but probably have the most expensive dueling campaigns, possibly setting a record.

At a webinar on Tuesday covering the array of ballot measures voters will face in November, campaign consultant Tino Rossi said "the pace car (for spending) is the billionaire tax."

Social Security Matters

Why Doesn't My Social Security Record Show All My Military Earnings?

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: When I look at my earnings on my Social Security account, I see that in 1955 and 1956 have no earnings. I was in the U.S. Navy as a first officer and have my DD-214 paperwork which shows my military service from Oct. 1954-Oct. 1958. My Social Security earnings record shows that I had earnings in 1954, 1957, and 1958 but doesn't show that I was paid in 1955 or 1956. Shouldn't I have received Social Security credit for all my service years? Signed: An Older Veteran

Dear Older Veteran: First, I want to thank you for your military service. Whether your earnings while in the military would provide you with any additional Social Security benefit depends on your career earnings after leaving military service. Here's why:

Your monthly Social Security (SS) benefit is based upon the highest earning 35 years over your lifetime (with earlier years adjusted for inflation). From those highest earning 35 years, SS develops your Average Indexed Monthly Earnings (your lifetime

"AIME") which is the basis of the SS benefit you get if you claim for benefits to start at your full retirement age (FRA). So, if - after you completed your military service - you had at least 35 years of other employment where you earned more money than you did while serving, then your military pay won't affect your Social Security benefit.

FYI, Social Security payroll tax has been withheld from military pay since 1957, which is why your SS earnings record shows your military pay only for 1957 and 1958. Your SS record wouldn't show military pay prior to 1957 because you didn't contribute to SS from your military pay during those years. The earnings you see in your SS earnings record for 1954 are likely from non-military employment prior to starting active duty in October 1954.

SS does provide older veterans with "special extra credits for military service," but those credits are only a supplemental earnings amount added to your military pay record during the years you served. It is not a bonus amount added to your monthly Social Security payment; rather it is only an amount added to your military pay record used when calculating your Social Security benefit. For those who served prior to 1957, Social Security would have no record of your military earnings during those early service years. But when you claimed Social Security later in life, they would have asked if you served in the military and given you "special extra credit" in the form of presumed earnings for your service years. They likely asked for a copy of your DD-214 and would have added $160 to your military earnings record for each active-duty month from October 1954 through December 1956, and additional earnings credits for 1957 and 1958.

But that doesn't mean you get a special Social Security bonus for your military service. If you have at least 35 years of civilian employment after serving in the Navy, your service years would only affect your SS benefit if those military service years were among the highest paying 35 years over your entire lifetime. Trump's Three Retreats

Last month, the Department of Justice settled Donald Trump's $10 billion suit against the IRS over the leak of his tax returns. The department agreed to create a $1.8 billion fund for the compensation of victims of Democratic lawfare, a slush fund for his allies, presumably including Jan. 6 rioters. Faced with adverse legal rulings and opposition in the Senate, the administration abandoned the scheme that it had initially touted as a means to "right the wrongs that were previously done while ensuring this never happens again."

Then, of course, Trump signed a ceasefire with Iran that wasn't close to the "unconditional surrender" that he had once demanded. The 14-point agreement included more U.S. than Iranian concessions, and Trump admitted that the Iranian closure of the Strait of Hormuz had forced his hand.

TITLE: None of these were incidental initiatives. They all involved core commitments of this president -- to mass deportation, to turning on its head the lawfare campaign against him and to denying the Iranian regime a nuclear weapon.

They were also overreaches that displayed a heedlessness born of hubris. Trump had already driven down overall migration when he surged into Minneapolis; already pardoned the Jan. 6 rioters when his DOJ created the weaponization fund; and already struck a punishing blow against the Iranian nuclear program via Midnight Hammer when he launched Operation Epic Fury.

Trump isn't one for incremental progress toward an objective. He prefers the grand gesture and big gamble. He's drawn to the bridge too far when a drive a couple of blocks down the street would do just fine.

The worry about Trump was that he'd be unconstrained in his second term, and indeed, he's fashioned a team that is loath to tell him "no." But he's subject to checks from the other branches of government and, even more, from routine political pressures.

There was nothing that formally compelled him to remove DHS forces from Minneapolis or to relieve the military pressure on Iran, both of which were within his legitimate powers. It was the poor polling and the potential damage to Republican prospects in the midterms that obliged Trump to declare victory and go home.

The president may enjoy thinking of how he can do things that a Roman emperor never would have imagined, yet Marcus Aurelius wasn't hypersensitive to how stories were playing in the mass media, or to the latest public-opinion surveys.

As the creature of a democratic republic, Trump inherently is mindful of those considerations, which is one reason that it's been a year of retreats. Trump, surely, doesn't think of it that way. As Gen. Oliver Smith put it during the Korean War, he's merely attacking in a different direction -- although not the one he'd intended.

Speeding Catches Up with You: Slow the Fast Down

Citrus Heights Police Department News Release

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - This July and beyond, the Citrus Heights Police Department encourages drivers to follow the speed limit and "slow the fast down."

Speeding remains a leading factor in deadly crashes and is consistently the top safety concern among surveyed California drivers, according to the 2025 California Traffic Safety Survey. Even small increases in speed reduce the time drivers have to react and significantly increase the force of a crash. Slowing down is a simple, effective way to prevent tragedies on our roads.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), 11,288 people died from speeding-related crashes in the U.S. in 2024, accounting for 29 percent of all traffic fatalities that year. In California alone, 1,139 people were killed in speeding-related crashes in 2024.

"Speeding is dangerous and puts everyone at risk," Citrus Heights Police Department Sergeant Kane Kissam said. "Your daily choice to drive within the speed limit protects everyone in our community. Risky driving behaviors like speeding continue to cause preventable tragedies on California roads."

Drivers can take simple steps to prevent speeding: plan ahead and allow extra travel time; follow posted speed limits, especially in school and work zones; drive at a speed that is safe for the conditions around you. Adjust your speed for changing weather, traffic and road conditions; and avoid aggressive driving behaviors like tailgating or weaving through traffic.

Crashes have severe and lasting consequences, and slowing down is one of the most important actions you can take to keep everyone using roads safe. By taking precautions and driving at safe speeds, we can make sure everyone in the community reaches their destination safely. ★ lower, mostly due to staffing vacancies. Updated projections reflect General Fund revenues of $47.8 million, covering expenditures of $46.1 million — with a projected $1 million year-end increase to General Fund reserves. This results in a surplus of $3.8 million, increasing the General Fund reserves to a projected ending balance of $36.5 million.

For the 2026-27 fiscal year, projected revenues are $47 million and expenditures are $46 million. Ending reserves are projected to hit $33.7 million expected, after allocating some reserves into street repairs.

Councilmember Schaefer pointed out that in addition to the $4 million for streets that will come from the General Fund, another $8 million is allocated from other restricted funds — for a total of $12 million invested in street repair.

Mayor MariJane Lopez-Taff encouraged residents to shop local so their sales tax will go to the city for reinvestment in the community.

The council voted 4-0 to approve the budget review, with Vice Mayor Porsche Middleton absent. ★

New Tech Reactors, Big Stakes: Why California Can't Afford to Sit Out Nuclear

By Josh Cook

If California is serious about reaching its clean energy goals, nuclear power must be part of the solution. While solar and wind are crucial, they alone cannot keep up with the rapidly growing energy needs driven by electrification, artificial intelligence, and data centers. Nuclear energy can fill this gap.

Today's small modular reactors are far safer and cleaner than older nuclear plants. They feature passive safety systems, require less land, and are built in factories, making them faster and cheaper to deploy.

Utah has already shown that this is possible. In February, the U.S. military delivered a five-megawatt Valar Atomic reactor to Hill Air Force Base in Emery County. The reactor achieved criticality in June and is expected to generate power by July 4. Meanwhile, Holtec International and Hi Tech Solutions plan to build up to ten small modular reactors at a new nuclear campus in Brigham City. These are not just experiments—Utah is providing a real-world example of how a state can go from announcement to operational reactor in months rather than decades.

The benefits extend far beyond electricity. Clean, reliable energy makes large-scale desalination affordable, turning nuclear power into a solution for water security as well as clean energy. As drought and water quality issues grow across the West, pairing reactors with desalination and water treatment could be a game changer. But here we sit, California still bans construction of new nuclear plants, a policy dating to the 1970s that no longer matches the technology or the moment; the rest of the world kept moving forward.

While we debate (and pay double for electricity), Utah and Nevada are building. The jobs, the manufacturing base, the water solutions, and the energy security that come with small modular reactors will land wherever the plants are built. Think about it - cleaning up environmental hazards and historic screw-ups always requires energy. If California doesn't lift its ban and start permitting now, we won't be leading the clean energy transition. We'll be watching our neighbors lead it for us (and we pay double for electricity). ★
