Traffic Turkey Returns to Station

By a wing and a prayer, Frank, the beloved neighborhood turkey known to frequent the intersection near Sacramento Fire Station 13, has been spotted again following fears he may have taken his final roost. Courtesy photo

By Stephen B. Clazie

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The March 13 issue of both the Land Park News and the Pocket News featured a front-page story about a lone turkey roosting on the roof of Sacramento Fire Station 13 at 6135 Gloria Drive. Fire crews on different shifts offered various names: Fred or Tony, but “Frank” stuck.

The story recounted how Frank quickly established his territory at the nearby intersection. Despite the presence of a perfectly good traffic signal, he appointed himself traffic controller. Firefighters inside the station would hear eruptions of honking horns. When they stepped outside, they often found Frank planted squarely in the roadway, cars frozen in every direction.

He had strong opinions about vehicles. Brown UPS trucks and the neighborhood mail carrier ranked high on his list of offenders. No one ever clocked his speed, but Frank could match the posted limit while charging down the center of the street, wings flapping, feathers flying and drivers retreating.

In January, Frank was struck by a car and broke his left wing, ending his rooftop flights. The Station 13 crew made him a bed near the rear door and kept an eye on him. He continued to forage in Reichmuth Park, supplemented by breadcrumbs from

City Receives Grant to Support Cannabis Equity

City of Sacramento
News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - State officials have awarded the City of Sacramento $2.5 million to support equity efforts in the local cannabis industry.

The funding comes from the Cannabis Equity Grants Program for Local Jurisdictions, administered by the Governor’s Office of Business and Economic Development (Go-Biz). Sacramento received the second largest allocation from the program’s $15 million statewide funding pool, behind Los Angeles.

The city previously received this funding, which has helped support participants in the city’s Cannabis Opportunity Reinvestment and Equity (CORE) program.

“This grant expands the support available to CORE participants as they navigate the cannabis industry and build sustainable businesses,” said Al Romero-Gibu, who leads the city’s Office of Cannabis Management.

The grant funding will provide technical assistance and business support for CORE participants. Services may include guidance on legal and regulatory compliance, accounting and taxes, construction and architecture, security planning, marketing and branding, human resources and labor matters, and commercial real estate.

The city established the CORE program in 2018 to help reduce barriers to entry in the local cannabis industry. The program provides training, mentoring, financial assistance and other support to individuals affected by the disproportionate enforcement of cannabis-related laws.

Sacramento is one of 14 jurisdictions across California to receive local equity funding from the state this year.

The city also continues to expand its local cannabis regulatory framework. In 2024, the City Council approved a pilot program for cannabis social consumption and the city is developing regulations for cannabis consumption lounges and related zoning updates.

Front Street Animal Shelter Highlights Efforts in Annual Report

City of Sacramento News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The city’s Front Street Animal Shelter recently released its 2025 Annual Report, detailing the year’s successful programs and accomplishments.

Throughout the year, thousands of animals came through the shelter’s doors in need of safety, medical care and a second chance.

Many more animals were supported through community outreach and prevention services such as the free community microchip and vaccination clinics, which provided service to over 5,000 community animals last year.

A few highlights from 2025 include: 3,380 dogs and 2,472 cats were adopted; 1,724 lost pets were reunited with their families; and 803 volunteers donated more than 80,000 hours of their time.

“Every adoption, reunion and life saved is possible because of this community,” said Animal Care Services Manager

Phillip Zimmerman. “From the staff and officers who care for animals each day to the volunteers, fosters and supporters who stand beside us, you are the reason hope is possible for Sacramento’s animals.”

Last year, Front Street Animal Shelter continued its mission of caring for Sacramento’s animals while expanding programs like the Homeless Outreach and Assistance Program (HOAP) that help pets and their families stay together. In 2025, 1,888 pets, a 43% increase from the prior year, were provided with care such as medical exams and preventative treatments.

In addition, programs like Doggie Day Out were expanded to offer Jog-a-dog, and Pups and PJs, to give community members the opportunity to take a dog out of the shelter for a day or night. These programs help dogs decompress and increases their chances of adoption.

To learn more about these programs and how to get involved, community members can visit frontstreetshelter.org. ★

In a recent news release, the city highlighted the Front Street Animal Shelter’s efforts in animal control and care over the past year, citing its annual report, which includes thousands of adoptions, reunions of lost pets with their owners and hours of volunteer service. Stay Informed: How to Access Local News and Updates from Home

Land Park Neighborhood Association News Release

LAND PARK, CA (MPG) - Staying connected to what’s happening in your community has never been more important, or more accessible. Gone are the days when you had to wait for the morning paper or tune in at a specific time to catch the evening broadcast. Technology has transformed how we access information, putting local news and updates at our fingertips anytime, anywhere.

This shift offers a powerful advantage: You can stay informed about community events, emergency alerts and local developments without leaving your home. From neighborhood apps to streaming services, the tools available today make it easier than ever to engage with what matters most in your area.

A recent article from the Land Park Neighborhood Association outlines ways residents can stay informed at home through local news resources. Photo courtesy of Land Park Neighborhood Association run by local newspapers, TV stations or independent journalists. These sites typically feature breaking news, investigative reporting, community calendars and opinion pieces. Many offer free content, while others use subscription models to support quality journalism.

Apps like Google News and Flipboard curate stories from multiple sources, allowing you to customize your feed based on your location and interests. These platforms help you avoid missing important stories by gathering updates from various outlets in one place.

Facebook, Twitter and Nextdoor have become valuable sources for hyper-local information.

Many residents share real-time updates about traffic conditions, lost pets, community concerns and local events. Official government accounts and local organizations also use these platforms to communicate directly with residents. The community-driven nature of these spaces means you often get information faster than traditional outlets can report it.

Local news stations frequently stream their broadcasts live on YouTube, Facebook Live and their own websites. This allows you to watch newscasts on your schedule or catch live coverage of breaking news events from any device.

Streaming Services for Local Events and Updates

Beyond news broadcasts, streaming technology has opened doors to broader community participation.

Community-Centric Streaming: Many local governments now stream city council meetings, school board sessions and public forums online. This transparency allows residents to stay engaged with civic processes without attending in person; it is particularly valuable for those with work conflicts, childcare responsibilities or mobility challenges.

IPTV and Streaming Devices: Internet Protocol Television IPTV Canada services and streaming devices like Roku, Apple TV or Amazon Fire Stick can provide access to local news channels and community programming. Many local stations have developed apps specifically for these platforms, making it easy to watch from your living room.

Cable Alternatives: Services like Sling TV, Hulu + IPTV, and YouTube TV offer local channel packages in many markets. These alternatives to traditional cable often cost less while still providing access to local news broadcasts.

Smartphones have become essential tools for staying informed on the go with mobile apps for news and updates.

Local News Apps

Many local news organizations offer dedicated mobile apps with features like customizable news alerts, weather forecasts, traffic updates and emergency notifications.

These apps often include sections for sports, entertainment and classified ads, functioning as comprehensive community resources.

Push notifications have become critical for timely information delivery. You can receive immediate alerts about severe weather, traffic accidents, school closings or breaking news. The ability to customize these notifications ensures you only receive updates relevant to your interests and needs.

Podcasts and Audio News

Local news podcasts offer another way to stay informed, particularly during commutes or while completing other tasks. Many local stations produce daily news podcasts, and independent creators often focus on specific community topics. Platforms like Spotify, Apple Podcasts and Google Podcasts make it easy to subscribe and listen on your schedule.

The Benefits of Staying Informed at Home

The convenience of accessing local news from home offers several advantages that extend beyond simple comfort.

You can check updates while cooking dinner, during work breaks or whenever it suits your schedule. This flexibility means you’re less likely to miss important information because you can access it when it works for you.

Digital platforms deliver news as it happens. During emergencies or rapidly developing situations, this immediacy can be crucial. You’ll know about road closures, weather warnings or public safety alerts almost instantly.

Enhanced Community Engagement

Easy access to local information often leads to greater community involvement. When you’re aware of volunteer opportunities, town hall meetings or neighborhood initiatives, you’re more likely to participate. This creates stronger, more connected communities.

Overcoming Information Overload

While access to abundant information is valuable, it can also become overwhelming without the right approach.

Curating Your Sources: Choose a manageable number of trusted news sources rather than trying to follow everything. Identify which platforms consistently provide accurate, relevant information for your area, and focus your attention there.

Fact-Checking Matters: Not all information shared online is accurate. Verify important news through multiple reputable sources before sharing it with others. Look for reporting from established local news organizations with editorial standards and accountability measures.

Healthy Consumption Habits: Set boundaries around your news consumption. Constant exposure to negative news can increase stress and anxiety. Consider designating specific times for checking updates rather than continuously monitoring feeds throughout the day. Balance your news diet with positive community stories and solutions-oriented reporting.

Finding Your Information Balance: The digital transformation of local news has created unprecedented opportunities to stay informed about your community.

From traditional news websites to innovative streaming services and mobile apps, you have more options than ever to access the information that matters to you.

The key is finding the right balance, using enough sources to stay well-informed without becoming overwhelmed. Experiment with different platforms and tools to discover what works best for your lifestyle and information needs.

Staying connected to your community strengthens the bonds that make neighborhoods thrive. By exploring these various resources and finding your preferred methods, you’ll be better equipped to participate in local conversations, respond to important developments and contribute to your community’s vitality.

Start by identifying one or two new sources to explore this week.

You might discover a local podcast you enjoy, find value in a neighborhood app or appreciate the convenience of push notifications from your local news station. Each small step helps you build a more complete picture of your community and your place within it. ★

State Treasurer Honored with Champion of Agriculture Award

California Farm Bureau News Release

CALIFORNIA (MPG) - In recognition of her long record of advocacy for California farmers, ranchers and rural communities, California State Treasurer Fiona Ma has been honored with the Champion of Agriculture Award.

The California Farm Bureau presented the award March 18 at the organization’s annual legislative action day. The award recognizes dedicated service to agriculture and honors individuals who have demonstrated a commitment to protecting and advancing the needs of California farmers and ranchers.

Nicknamed “The Urban Cowgirl,” Ma is a founder of the San Francisco Farm Bureau and serves as its adviser. As the 34th state treasurer and throughout her career in public service, Ma has backed policies that support the Golden State’s diverse farming communities.

“Treasurer Ma has shown a long commitment to California agriculture,” said Shannon Douglass, president of the California Farm Bureau, which represents more than 23,000 farmers and ranchers statewide. “Her work on behalf of farmers and ranchers across the state is exactly what this award celebrates.”

A member of the state Assembly from 2006-2012, Ma authored and supported legislation beneficial to agriculture, including the Eat Local Buy California Grown Act, which prioritizes California-Grown products in state institutional purchasing and expanding market access for small, local and underserved farmers.

She also crafted legislation to create the California Blueberry Commission to help promote California-grown blueberries. In addition, Ma has worked to secure funding for agricultural programs and infrastructure. In her commitment to understanding California’s agricultural landscape, she has participated in numerous farm tours, visiting agricultural operations across the state.

“I’m honored to receive the Champion of Agriculture Award,” Ma said. “My appreciation for California agriculture began in 2009 when I helped protect the Cow Palace from being sold – an experience that opened my eyes to the vital role our farmers and ranchers play in producing more than 400 agricultural products and feeding our state and nation.”

“California Farm Bureau is proud to honor Treasurer Ma with the Champion of Agriculture Award and for her commitment to California farmers, ranchers and rural communities,” Douglass said.

California Flagged for “Weak Oversight” in Federal Fraud Crackdown

Assembly Republican Whip Macedo Cites Hospice Investigation Showing System “Wide Open” Under Newsom

Assembly Republicans News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - California was flagged for “insufficient safeguards and weak oversight” March 16 in a federal fraud crackdown announced by President Donald Trump.

The White House said states like California have failed to maintain basic safeguards, including verifying eligibility and enforcing oversight standards, creating conditions for large-scale fraud.

Assembly Republican Whip Alexandra M. Macedo (R-Tulare) said that lines up with what she has already seen on the ground.

“California did not end up on this list by accident,” Macedo said. “Seven years into Gavin Newsom’s governorship, the consequences of years of negligence are catching up, and the people in the most vulnerable moments of their lives are the ones being harmed.”

“When fraudulent actors bill for ‘ghost patients’ or enroll healthy individuals without their consent, they deplete the very funds intended to provide high-quality care by the legitimate hospice providers for those truly in their final days,” Macedo added.

In January, Macedo visited a Los Angeles property linked to 197 hospice licenses, all registered to the same address. Many of the phone numbers were disconnected, and there was no sign any legitimate hospice business was operating there.

A state audit warned that weak oversight was allowing large-scale fraud, including cases where licenses were approved despite red flags, and complaints have continued to mount.

“Programs meant to help vulnerable people in their time of need are being exploited. The Newsom Administration owns that failure 100%.”

The task force, led by Vice President JD Vance, will focus on fraud in federally funded programs, including health care, housing and food assistance. ★

César Chávez Day to be Renamed Farmworker Day

Assemblywoman Alexandra M. Macedo News Release

CALIFORNIA (MPG) - In light of the horrific news reports of César Chávez’s sexual assaults of minors and women, Assemblywoman Alexandra M. Macedo (R-Tulare) introduced legislation to rename the March 31 California State holiday to Farmworker Day.

“Farmworkers are essential to our everyday lives – from the food we eat to the economy we enjoy,” said Assemblywoman Macedo. “The fight for dignity in the fields was never about one person – it is about the millions of workers who sweat, toil and aspire for a better life.”

California is the largest state producer and exporter of agricultural products, including animal products, fruit and nuts. Over a third of the country’s vegetables and nearly three-quarters of the country’s fruits and nuts are grown in California. With 69,900 farms and ranches, California agriculture is a $49 billion dollar industry that generates at least $100 billion in related economic activity, according to the California Governor’s Office of Business and Economic Development.

California’s agricultural industry depends on farmworkers. Farmworkers ensure food safety and freshness by harvesting within tight windows. Their work supports hundreds of thousands of jobs and contributes to the state’s economy.

Without their hard work and dedication, perishable food would remain in the field – leading to severe shortages and higher food prices for consumers.

Assemblywoman Macedo is amending her current legislation, Assembly Bill 2407, to rename César Chávez’s Day to Farmworker Day.

“It is about the movement, not one individual,” said Assemblywoman Macedo. ★

California Comment on Latest Small Business Optimism Index

Main Street entrepreneurs thanked for helping keep the 20% Small Business Deduction alive

National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - From John Kabateck, state director for the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) in California, on findings from the monthly NFIB Small Business Optimism Index, which fell 0.5 points in February to 98.8 but remained slightly above the 52-year average of 98. The Uncertainty Index decreased three points from January to 88.

“With tax season upon us, I want to take this opportunity to once again thank every California small business owner who spoke up for keeping the 20% Small Business Tax Deduction alive and preventing it from expiring at the end of last year. I think of small business owners like Beth Booth from San Diego County, who is now chair of our leadership council, for traveling to Washington, D.C. to make a compelling case for preserving a valuable tool for small business solvency. It’s members like her and many others who provide optimism when it’s needed most.”

In conjunction with the February report, NFIB also released a new episode of the NFIB Research Center’s “Small Business by the Numbers” podcast. Listen to the latest episode here.

“Although optimism declined slightly, small businesses report feeling more certain in February as they look toward the coming months. High sales and increased profits made February a more positive month for many owners, but competition from large businesses is putting stress on Main Street firms as they navigate the current economic climate,” said NFIB Chief Economist Bill Dunkelberg.

Highlights from the Latest NFIB Small Business Optimism Index include the following.

Seasonally adjusted, a net 34% reported raising compensation, up 2 points from January and the highest level since March 2025.

The frequency of reports of positive profit trends rose 7 points from January to a net negative 14% (seasonally adjusted). The last time earnings trends were this high was in December 2021.

The net percent of owners raising average selling prices fell 2 points from January to a net 24% (seasonally adjusted). This marked the third consecutive month that actual price increases slowed, though the changes remain well above the historical average.

When asked to evaluate the overall health of their business, 12% rated it as excellent (down 2 points), 55% as good (up 1 point), 26% as fair (down 1 point) and 5% as poor (up 1 point).

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

The End Is in Sight

Things are happening in Sactown and not every Kings fan is happy. Yes, even though our hometown ballers have won five out of the last eight games, there are long time Kings fans that aren’t entirely thrilled.

This is because with each win the Kings statistically have a lesser chance of garnishing the No. 1 pick, or even a top four pick in the upcoming NBA draft.

So, what’s the option. To intentionally try to lose a game. I hope our team never stoops to such measures. Tanking is a matter left better to the commissioner’s office, and I have no doubt Adam Silver has ideas to fix the problem. In the meantime, playing the youngsters and getting a look at as many players as possible, all while giving it their best effort is why fans are buying tickets.

Sunday afternoon saw a raucous Golden One Arena heartily applauding a consistent effort by the Kings as hometown favorite Malik Monk decided to put on a show, scoring 32 points and adding six assists to boot.

Devin Carter, finally getting a chance to play on a consistent basis, chipped in with 16 points, five rebounds, and three assists.

Maxime Raynaud added a double-double with 22 points and 10 rebounds and has been winning fans literally all season with his consistent play.

The question remains can he complement Domantas Sabonis and play alongside him, or will he become just a capable backup for Sabonis when he’s not on the floor.

Although I wish nothing but good things for Raynaud, I think the Kings have found a good backup center for years to come, but I’m not seeing the shot blocking ability that I would like to see from a 7-footer.

In the 126-122 win over the Brooklyn Nets the fans got to see newcomer Patrick Baldwin perform, and Patrick wasted no time in putting up nine points and shooting three for four from 3-point land.

Doug McDermott did the same and the Kings will be faced with some uncomfortable decisions in the off season as they make decisions on who to keep and who to let go. Sadly, McDermott’s 3-point shooting could have been used all season, but coach Christie relegated this talented sharpshooter to the bench for the majority of the season for reasons that have never been very clear.

Yes. Decisions will be made and not all Kings fans are going to like them. Names like Precious Achiuwa, Dylan Cardwell, Devin Carter and others are not promised next season, although I believe all the aforementioned need to come back next year.

The draft will be a mystery until the ping pong balls do their thing but just know this Kings fans. This year’s draft is deep, and whether the Kings choose #1 or #7 there is going to be a player with the talent to make the Sacramento Kings a better team.

More than anything what this franchise needs is people that can assess talent better than in the past. People that can separate the wheat from the chaff, the blue chippers from the pretenders.

Please, no more Marvin Bagleys or Thomas Robinsons. Surely, we can do better than the past has seen, and I’m convinced we will.

So, have heart Kings fans and let’s continue to put our hands together for players like Russell Westbrook that is breaking all-time records right in front of our hometown fans!

Westbrook has been a bright spot all season and has done everything asked of him.

I’m hoping the younger players have been paying attention because there is much to learn from this can’t miss future hall-of-famer.

Here’s some positive but I believe very accurate news.

The Sacramento Kings are closer to becoming a playoff team than the NBA expects.

I don’t like to dog on a coaching staff, but with the talent the Kings have and even in spite of the bad luck they’ve had with injuries, this team should have won 30 games.

Coach Christie is like a young rookie finding his way, but he has to do better than spout out that the Kings must play tough defense.

Start with being a better free-throw shooting team and take it from there.

Let’s stick together and look forward to a winning 2027!

All the best! ★

It’s Supposed to be a Race for Governor, but Candidates and Voters Seem Disengaged

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

The shortage and costs of housing are, by any rational standard, one of California’s most pressing issues, which is why several thousand advocates of affordable shelter gathered in Sacramento last week to ponder potential solutions.

Housing California, the event’s sponsor, invited candidates for governor to participate in a panel discussion of how they would approach the housing crisis.

Neither of the two Republican candidates, Steve Hilton and Chad Bianco, appeared, which was not surprising given the left-leaning tenor of the event.

It was, however, odd that only four of the eight Democratic candidates showed up, since it was a terrific opportunity for them to impress a large audience of political activists, with just a few weeks remaining before voters begin marking and mailing their ballots for the June 2 primary election.

Of the four who participated in the housing panel, just one candidate, billionaire Tom Steyer, is in the top tier of candidates, as revealed in a new poll by the UC-Berkeley’s Institute of Governmental Studies, with just barely 10% support.

The other three — state school Superintendent Tony Thurmond, former Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa and former state Controller Betty Yee — collectively garnered just 6% support among the sample of voters, with Thurmond and Yee at 1% each.

Although California is a thoroughly blue state, the two Republicans were 1 and 2 in the poll, thus feeding worries among Democratic leaders that they could wind up that way in the June 2 voting if none of the Democrats catches fire.

Among the Democrats, Congressman Eric Swalwell and former Congresswoman Katie Porter polled highest at 13% each, followed by Steyer at 10%, former Attorney General Xavier Becerra at 5%, with Villaraigosa and San Jose Mayor Matt Mahan at 4%.

Mark DiCamillo, director of the poll, told the Los Angeles Times he is stunned by how fragmented and disengaged voters are about choosing the state’s next governor.

“This is historic for me,” DiCamillo said, “and especially given that none of the candidates have really a positive image rating with voters, also startling. I mean, perhaps one of the reasons why voters are disengaged, they’re just not enthusiastic about any of the candidates. They’re kind of sleepwalking to this election.”

The lethargic nature of the contest is also demonstrated by the inability of the California Federation of Unions to settle on one Democrat, instead giving endorsements to four of the eight.

One could say, therefore, that the passive attitude of candidates vis-a-vis this week’s housing conference captures the broader lack of enthusiasm among candidates and voters.

This should be a referendum on how California deals with not only housing and homelessness but the many other issues that Gavin Newsom will leave behind when he exits the office next January, almost certainly embarking on a quest for the White House.

However, the gubernatorial campaign so far has revealed very few differences among the eight Democratic candidates on those issues, nor any truly novel proposals. In response to questions about housing, homelessness, health care and living costs, the four who did participate in Thursday’s panel generally responded that they would spend a lot more money and impose new taxes on corporations and wealthy Californians to pay for it.

Given the paucity of new ideas and the overall lethargy, one could almost hope that Hilton and Bianco do finish 1-2 and give the state a Republican governor for the first time in two decades. The Capitol conflict that would ensue as a GOP governor battles with a Legislature dominated by Democrats would at least be interesting.

It would be karmic justice for a Democratic Party that apparently is incapable of generating enough energy to power a light bulb.

Dan Walters is one of the most decorated and widely syndicated columnists in California history, authoring a column four times a week that offers his view and analysis of the state’s political, economic, social and demographic trends.★

Social Security Matters

Help! Social Security Reduced my Monthly Payment

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: My last Social Security payment decreased by about $400, so I went to my online SS account and found a November 2025 letter explaining that my 2024 tax return showed a greatly enlarged AGI (Adjusted Gross Income). Thus, SSA decided to withdraw monies, as of Jan 2026, from my bank account because I’d owed far more monies to them! The letter itemized my greatly diminished 2026 SSA monthly payment, explaining should my next tax return show a regular AGI, then SSA would return my SS income to regular amounts (and return every prior month’s deficits?). Said letter also mentioned an optional recourse, that of compiling an “Appeal” to regain my ongoing decreased income! The extra amounts now withdrawn for Medicare Parts A and D alone are outrageously high. I’m a retired senior citizen on a fixed income.

According to SSA, my having sold a piece of land in 2024 allows SSA to decrease my SS income! Has this become a common practice against USA (senior) citizens? Thank you in advance for your input! Signed: Feeling Wronged

Dear Feeling Wronged: From what you have shared, it appears that your SS benefit amount has been affected by a provision known as “IRMAA” (Income-Related Monthly Adjustment Amount). IRMAA isn’t really a Social Security issue, rather it is a Medicare premium thing. But when IRMAA applies, it reduces your net Social Security payment because Medicare premiums are automatically taken from your Social Security benefit, thus making your net SS payment less. If you look at your gross Social Security payment (at your online “my Social Security” account) you will see that your gross SS payment did not change, but your Medicare premium did, thus affecting your net SS payment.

IRMAA, essentially, makes Medicare a “means tested” program, where those with a higher AGI can pay a higher Medicare Part B (and Part D) premium. However, IRMAA is usually based on AGI from two years prior to the current year (because your current AGI information isn’t available from the IRS when Medicare premiums are determined in October of each year). FYI, you may have received a notice in the mail in early December telling you what your 2026 Social Security and Medicare amounts would be. In a nutshell, the land you sold in 2024 apparently increased your AGI to exceed the base IRMAA thresholds (which are $109,000 if you file your taxes as a single, or $218,000 if you file your income tax as “married/jointly”). And the IRMAA supplements are “progressive” (higher if your AGI is more), so if your Medicare premiums went up by about $400 (about twice the 2026 standard premium) it’s likely that your 2024 AGI was over $137,000 if you filed as a single (or over $274,000 if you filed as “married/jointly”). FYI, you can see the 2026 IRMAA brackets/premium amounts at this link: www.ssa.gov/benefits/medicare-premiums.html

A couple of additional points:

- Your Medicare premiums will, indeed, revert to the standard amounts for 2027, if your 2025 AGI amount is under the IRMAA threshold for your tax filing status.
- There is no premium for Medicare Part A (which is coverage for inpatient hospitalization care) because you are receiving Social Security benefits. However, there is a premium for Part B of Medicare (which is coverage for outpatient medical services), and you must also separately pay a premium for Part D (which is coverage for prescription drugs offered by private insurers). And these IRMAA supplements apply even if you have a Medicare Advantage plan from a private insurer.
- Unfortunately, your only “recourse” is, as SSA suggested, to appeal the IRMAA supplement, but that is usually successful only if you can prove you had a “life changing event” which caused (or will cause) your AGI to be less than that used to determine your IRMAA surcharge. Your best option at this point will likely be to appeal using a “Request for Reconsideration” (Form SSA-561) asking that your 2026 Medicare premium be based on a recent year’s (e.g., 2025) lower income.
- Finally, IRMAA isn’t really a new thing – it was enacted in 2003, effective in 2007. But it does have a profound effect on many seniors, as I explained in this article I recently published on the topic: <https://amacfoundation.org/irmaa-a-medicare-surprise/> This article is intended for information purposes only and does not represent legal or financial guidance. ★

The reason why we have the Fifth Fleet, one of the most awesome naval forces ever assembled in the history of mankind, is to protect the sea lanes in the Middle East.

That the Strait of Hormuz is now effectively closed is not just a blow to the global economy and a key point of leverage for the Iranian regime, it is an assault against one of the foundations of American power.

Guarding the safe passage of commerce has been a core Anglo-American commitment for a couple of centuries, with the baton of naval leadership passing from the British to the United States around the time of World War II.

British naval preeminence in the 19th century contributed to the creation of the modern world by enabling relatively safe and inexpensive global commerce. We have done the same in the post-World War II era.

This has never been an entirely altruistic endeavor, since -- as two commercially oriented nations heavily involved in international trade -- the U.K. and the U.S. benefited mightily from the arrangements guaranteed by their warships. But so did everyone else.

Just consider the global pain from the current effective closure of the strait, which is being felt at the pump in the U.S. and threatens to hammer Europe and countries throughout Asia. Not just oil, but aluminum, fertilizer and any number of other products are being affected. If shipping in the strait remains as constrained as it is now for months rather than weeks, the economic damage could become intolerable.

Iran is the equivalent of a piratical Barbary state that is managing to undermine a defining element of American geopolitical strategy, despite the beating that it is taking otherwise. We have two carrier strike groups in the region, representing alone more firepower than many nations can muster, and the Iranians have some missiles, drones and mines -- and yet, they’ve effectively closed the strait and we, for now, can’t reopen it.

This is a stark demonstration of asymmetrical power, and the longer it goes on, the more it will look like a national humiliation. There’s no one who is going to bail us out because we have a world-class navy, whereas our allies don’t -- even if they wanted to help.

Trump would like to muster an international force to reopen the strait, but Germany has rebuffed him, and the Japanese and Australians aren’t interested. France is putting together a force -- to deploy after the end of hostilities. Imagine if that had been our attitude about the Battle of Belleau Wood. The fact of the matter, though, is that allied countries aren’t going to think it’s possible to reopen the strait if we haven’t managed to do it on our own.

Trump’s two basic options are to seek some unsatisfactory accommodation with the Iranians that ends in a ceasefire -- with the Iranians having demonstrated their de facto control of one of the most consequential waterways in the world -- or to break their grip on the strait by force of arms, perhaps up to and including the deployment of ground forces to secure the shores of the strait.

Trump seems inclined to bludgeon the strait free of Iranian control. U.S. officials say we could begin naval escorts in a matter of weeks, and they worked during the Tanker War between Iran and Iraq in the 1980s.

The great 19th-century naval strategist Alfred Thayer Mahan argued, “Control of the sea by maritime commerce and naval supremacy means predominant influence in the world.” This was the experience of the British, and has been ours for a long time. “The necessity of a navy,” Mahan also said, “springs from the existence of peaceful shipping and disappears with it.”

In the Strait of Hormuz right now, peaceful shipping has largely disappeared, while we are deploying a mighty navy. If our forces can’t restore free navigation, it will represent a significant failure of a traditional pillar of U.S. power.

The initial Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is currently 6.75% for a new Home Equity Line of Credit (HELOC), and is fixed for the first 5 years of the loan which is called the draw period. After the initial 5 year period, the APR can change once based on the value of an Index and Margin. The Index is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury Securities adjusted to a constant maturity of 10 years and the margin is 3.50%. The current APR for repayment period is 7.625%. The maximum APR that can apply any time during your HELOC is 15%. A qualifying transaction consists of the following conditions: (1) the initial APR assumes a maximum HELOC of $200,000, and a total maximum Loan-to-Value (LTV) of 70% including the new HELOC and any existing 1st Deed of Trust loan on your residence; (2) your residence securing the HELOC must be a single-family home that you occupy as your primary residence; (3) if the 1st Deed of Trust loan is with a lender other than El Dorado Savings Bank, that loan may not exceed $300,000, have a total maximum Loan to Value (LTV) of 65% and may not be a revolving line of credit. Additional property restrictions and requirements apply. All loans are subject to a current appraisal or property evaluation, which typically range from $100 to $1,000. This cost will be disclosed in your commitment letter and paid at loan closing. Property insurance is required and flood insurance may be required. Rates, APR, terms and conditions are subject to change without notice. Other conditions apply. A $525 early closure fee will be assessed if the line of credit is closed within three years from the date of opening. An annual fee of $85 will be assessed on the first anniversary of the HELOC and annually thereafter during the draw period. Ask for a copy of our "Fixed Rate Home Equity Line of Credit Disclosure Notice" for additional important information. Other HELOC loans are available under different terms.

Help the family of a local hero

"Chief Warrant Officer 3 Robert Marzan. A Husband, Father, brother, Son and most importantly Hero. He lost his life while serving and protecting his country he loved. He was a lifelong member of the military, a family man and loving father. His unexpected and unfortunate passing left many of his family, friends and fellow service members at a loss. This heartbreaking loss is not something the people Robert has touched and left his mark on will ever forget. He lost his life far too young and leaves behind his wonderful wife, and two wonderful children. The hope for this fund is to help relieve some of the travel and housing expenses associated with this unforeseen tragedy. All funds and donations raised will go directly to the Marzan family. Rest in power Robert and may we meet again."

firefighters and birdseed from a neighborhood resident who stopped by regularly.

Near the end of February, Frank was attacked by a dog. The last sighting of the now-grounded traffic officer was of him running at full speed away from the station.

Frank had become more than a familiar face; he was a neighborhood legend.

The story noted that his memory would linger long after the bay doors closed each night.

In Southland Park, the children and families who came to visit him would not soon forget the warmth, laughter and quiet joy he brought to their lives.

Many visitors said they were offering prayers for Frank.

Then, exactly one month after the story was published, rumors began to circulate: Frank was alive!

After the dog attack, everyone assumed he couldn't escape; after all, wild turkeys can fly only about a quarter of a mile. People wondered if it could really be him, and some speculated he may have survived by a "wing and a prayer."

Station 13 firefighter Eric Pohl said he could hardly believe it. He went for a drive and was thrilled to confirm that Frank was, indeed, alive.

It brought to mind a famous line often attributed to Mark Twain; one Frank himself might appreciate: "The reports of my death are greatly exaggerated."

Guests will have the rare opportunity to explore select aircraft up close, climb inside, ask questions, and experience what it’s like to sit in the cockpit, while interacting with members of the Central California Garrison of the 501st Legion, a nonprofit costuming club known for its screen-accurate recreations inspired by the beloved space saga. Details at aerospacemuseum.org.

California Museum – “Kokoro: The Story of Sacramento’s Lost Japantown,” through March 29. Featuring rare family photographs drawn from the personal collections of community members, the exhibit documents the memories at the heart of a once-thriving downtown community devastated first by forced removal during World War II and again by redevelopment in the 1950s. Details at californiamuseum.org.

Sacramento History Museum – RCAF in Mictlán: 50th Anniversary of Dia de los Muertos, through April 5. The exhibit will be highlighted by public programs that document and celebrate the 50-year history of the Dia de los Muertos observance in Sacramento.

The exhibit will demonstrate why the anniversary is a major milestone in our city’s cultural history, as well an example of the enduring impact of the Royal Chicano Air Force (RCAF), a seminal collective of artists and activists. Details at sachistorymuseum.org.

California Automobile Museum – “A Little Fellow: The Legend of A.P. Giannini” documentary screening, 4 to 7 p.m. Thursday, April 16. Enjoy a screening of the film, a Q&A with Director Davide Fiore, a cash bar and concessions

Queens in Action

Purple Pageant marks a decade of empowering young women on and off stage

By Omella Rossi

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - For a decade, the Purple Pageant has been more than crowns and sashes; it has been a launching pad for leadership, confidence and community service. Since its debut in 2016, the Greater Sacramento-based pageant has nurtured young women and girls to become not just queens on stage, but leaders in their communities.

Lisa D. Taylor, the visionary behind the Purple Pageant, said the inspiration came from her own pageant journey.

“I have run in 13 pageants and won 12 titles, but I didn’t see very many young girls or women that looked like me,” Taylor said. That absence motivated her to create a space where multiculturalism, mentorship and service could shine alongside talent and grace.

With more than 30 years of community involvement in the Sacramento area, Taylor has built a system where giving back is key.

“What you put into the community is what you get out. You can’t build an empire alone,” Taylor said.

The pageant emphasizes leadership, confidence and service, and Taylor sees those qualities grow in participants over time. Mentors work closely with each contestant to identify goals, create career development plans and offer constructive guidance.

“The Purple Pageant has been a transformational force in my life, shaping me as a woman, mother, and entrepreneur,” said Queen Tamara Johnson. “Through this experience, I found my voice and gained the confidence to step into rooms of influence I once felt unqualified for. The pageant helped me recognize my gifts and turn them into action. It didn't just change my life, it expanded it, positioning me to lead, build and give back in ways I never imagined.”

The Purple Pageant’s programs start early. Princess and Ambassador programs lay the foundation for participants to develop leadership and community skills before vying for the title of Queen. Beyond stage presence, the pageant incorporates life skills, etiquette and mental health awareness into every aspect of its programming. Contestants attend galas, parades, fashion shows and even golf tournaments, learning to navigate a variety of social and professional settings.

Taylor calls mentorship “a trusted, experienced guide who facilitates personal, professional and emotional growth.” She says one of the most rewarding moments since launching the pageant has been witnessing her own growth in giving back to others.

“Seeing the growth within myself to give back, that’s priceless,” Taylor said.

Over the last 10 years, the pageant has helped teens graduate with honors, attend college and even launch businesses. Adult participants have pursued careers in nursing, the military and writing, often fueled by the skills and confidence gained through the program. Internationally, the Purple Pageant now has queens in Kenya and Nigeria, with plans to expand further.

The pageant’s mission is clear: to empower young women through community service, etiquette, life skills and leadership, all while fostering inclusivity. Taylor hopes the next generation will carry this mission forward by starting new chapters and mentoring future queens.

“Join the Purple Pageant and gain the skills to open a chapter in your own community,” Taylor advises aspiring participants.

The 10-year anniversary event is set for April 26 at Granite Bay Country Club, starting at 3 p.m., promising surprises for guests while celebrating a decade of achievements. Those interested in supporting the pageant as volunteers, sponsors or mentors can contact Taylor at 916-856-4536.

As Taylor puts it, the Purple Pageant is not just about who wears the crown, it’s about preparing young women to wear it well, on and off the stage. ★

Celebrating the First CARE Court Graduation

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - “I conclude you have completed the CARE plan and have officially graduated from the program,” said Honorable Jennifer K. Rockwell, the Collaborative Courts Supervising Judge.

An eruption of applause could be heard from the Sacramento Superior Courtroom on Tuesday morning as more than a dozen people gathered to celebrate the first Sacramento County CARE Court graduation.

Lorenzo Leon, joined by his mother and care team, marked a major milestone after a year-long journey through the program, becoming the County’s first CARE Court graduate.

CARE Court, short for Community Assistance, Recovery and Empowerment, is a civil court process designed to connect individuals living with untreated schizophrenia and other severe mental illnesses, such as bipolar I disorder, to community-based treatment, services and housing support. Through a court-ordered care plan, the program helps ensure participants receive the services they need while creating a pathway toward long-term stability.

For Lorenzo, that pathway led to housing, consistent treatment and a renewed sense of direction. Over the past year, he worked closely with County staff, service providers and his family to stay engaged in care and build a more stable future.

His care team, including County staff, community partners and loved ones, filled the room to recognize the work he put in to reach this moment. One by one, they took turns sharing how proud they are of his progress.

Judge Lawrence Brown, who presided over Lorenzo’s case, reflected on the journey and the family’s initial hesitation.

“I can recall that the mom in particular was a bit skeptical whether or not this was going to be able to make any real difference,” Brown said. “I remember the moment I saw her shift and begin to see the fruits of everyone’s efforts, and I couldn’t be more proud or honored to have witnessed your journey. While this may be the first graduation, Lorenzo is now setting the example for those who will follow. No pressure,” he added with a laugh.

Sacramento County Behavioral Health Director Ryan Quist encouraged Lorenzo to take in the moment and look around the room, reminding him that everyone there is part of his support system and a team he can continue to rely on moving forward.

For Lorenzo’s mother, the moment was not only a celebration, but a reflection of the persistence and care shown by the team around her son.

“May I take a moment to give a special shout out,” asked Lorenzo’s mom. “There was one County staff in particular who didn’t give up on him. Even when he would leave, she would go look for him and bring him back. I’m so thankful to the County staff and everyone who kept helping him and stayed on him, because it made all the difference.”

The celebration ended with cake, cards and yet more rounds of applause, marking not just the completion of the program, but the beginning of a new chapter.

Free Fair to Connect Families to Early Learning Options

The free Family Fun & Playfest at Fairytale Town will showcase early learning programs and community organizations, offering education, health, and wellness information to parents. Photo courtesy of SCOE

Sacramento County Office of Education News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- What a child learns in their early years is critical to building a foundation for lifelong success. High-quality preschool programs help children develop vital social skills and prepare them for academic achievement. California’s Universal Prekindergarten (UPK) initiative ensures all children have access to these opportunities before kindergarten. Through the use of a “mixed delivery system,” families get diverse choices (ranging from public schools to home-based care) to meet their specific needs.

The Sacramento County Office of Education (SCOE) invites families to explore these early learning options at its third annual Family Fun & Playfest, which will showcase 50 early learning programs and 30 community organizations, offering education, health, and wellness information to parents.

The Family Fun & Playfest takes place from 5 to 7 p.m. April 25 at Fairytale Town, 3901 Land Park Drive. This is a free event; however, families should register online at <https://bit.ly/SacEarlyLearning>.

Sponsored by the Local Child Care and Development Planning Council (LPC) and hosted by the SCOE Early Learning Department, the annual fair helps parents navigate the early education landscape.

“The fair is so much fun because it brings the early learning system to life by showcasing a vast network of providers in one location,” said Julie Montali, Ph.D., executive director of Early Learning. “Families are excited to discover new resources that help them make the best choices for their children.”

The event ties into one important element of the key vision, mission, and goals set forth by the Sacramento County Board of Education: to provide pathways for learners to thrive.

Flexible Options for Early Care

A key focus of the event is explaining the mixed delivery system. This approach emphasizes family choice, providing high-quality options for early care that fit specific family schedules and values. Instead of a single model, Universal Prekindergarten allows children to attend various programs, including Transitional Kindergarten at local public schools; California State Preschool Programs; Head Start; center-based care; licensed family childcare; and family, friend and neighbor care.

Sacramento County’s UPK Mixed Delivery Workgroup emphasizes the critical need for options starting as early as infancy, advocating that children aged 0 to 3 be fully integrated into the mixed delivery system to support continuous development. This system empowers parents to choose the best setting for their children, whether it is on a school campus or in a home-based environment. ★

Sacramento Republic FC News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Republic FC announced March 6 the addition of academy player Brooks Doolittle to the club's first team roster. The goalkeeper has signed a USL Academy Contract, pending league and federation approval, and will be eligible to play in first team matches in 2026.

“Bringing academy players onto the first team and introducing them to its environment prepares them for the next level,” said Republic FC Head Coach Neill Collins, “This is not an opportunity that everyone gets, and we’re looking forward to seeing how Brooks continues to grow from it.”

A Greenbrae, California native, Doolittle is a new addition to Republic FC's academy. Since joining the Indomitable Club just last year, he has earned seven clean sheets in 12 appearances. Prior to his appearance with SRFC, the 6'3" seventeen-year-old played for San Jose Earthquakes Academy and Bay Area Surf. He has also received invitations to both U.S. Soccer ID camps and national training camps.

Da'vian Kimbrough, Blake Willey and Chibi Ukaegbu have risen through the ranks to sign professional contracts with their hometown team, while defenders Rohan Chivukula and Luke Strassburg signed USL Academy Contracts in December. USL Academy Contracts allow academy players the chance to train and compete with the first team in professional matches while retaining their NCAA eligibility.

Since its inception in 2015, Republic FC's Academy has created a strong, local pipeline of youth players ready for professional-level competition, with over 40 players earning the opportunity to join the first team on USL Academy contracts and over 25 going on to sign professional contracts with Republic FC or other clubs. In 2025, players from Sacramento's youth academy combined for 80 gameday roster selections, 56 appearances and over 3,000 minutes.
