suited for both adult beginners and returning players with no auditions and a genuine focus on music-making for enjoyment, according to its director, Donna Alpert.
Alpert founded the Encore Chamber Ensemble in 2021 to give adult musicians — whether starting a string instrument for the first time or returning after many years — the chance to play in a group in a non-competitive, friendly environment.
“Encore is always accepting new members; some are seasoned, experienced players who want to enjoy their music in new company and others are new to music playing and who have never played in an orchestral environment before,” she said in a recent telephone interview.
“My goal in starting the (Encore Chamber Ensemble) was to encourage, and enable adults to play together, so we can all improve and enjoy the experience of the music we love,” Alpert said.
Alpert asks that new members have basic music-reading skills, and beginners have at least one year of study of their instrument before joining.

“Playing with a group for the first time is exhilarating and always presents new challenges,” she said.
Music-making demands the continuous interaction of perception and action. Translating a written score into precise finger moments while monitoring their own sound and adjusting in real time.
“It takes time to refresh muscle memory of any instrument, but patience and taking time to play with a group can honestly help,” she said.
The ensemble’s general aim is to create a safe and welcoming environment for adults coming late (or recently returning) to music, as Alpert herself once was.
Alpert moved from Santa Cruz to Fair Oaks after a fulfilling professional career with a regional chapter of The Arc, the largest community-based disability organization in the United States which advocates for and with people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and their families.

It wasn’t long before she took a beloved violin out of its case and began playing actively once again.
“Encore is a no-judgment zone,” she said. “And it’s also important that you possess a healthy sense of humor and a fair amount of patience.”
“While every musician aims to improve, our goal is not necessarily total mastery of a particular piece,” she said.
“It matters not if you sometimes hit the wrong notes. Whatever your level, bring your instrument and come join the fun,” Alpert said.
“Even when the music is relatively simple, playing in an ensemble adds the elements of keeping time, paying attention to the conductor, and careful listening to the other parts to produce music that sounds integrated.”
“You will find that you develop your listening and sight-reading skills to a great degree by participating in an ensemble. And anyone who wants to experience the fun of group play is welcome.”

“Some pieces may be more challenging than others and may take some players longer to master,” she said. “Not mastering a piece is also OK.”
“Just relaxing and enjoying and working towards a goal of playing more notes each week is a perfectly worthwhile goal,” she said.
For beginners, in addition to its regular rehearsals, the ensemble offers extra help in the form of optional group coaching by its conductor, to help you with any specific areas a player might struggle with in learning the music.
“Because I insist on no auditions, our ensemble members’ abilities consist of a range of technical abilities and notational literacy,” she said.
Alpert said some of the ensemble’s more advanced players are counted on to not only take on the more challenging parts of the music but also to provide collective inspiration to the group at large.

“In bringing everyone together, members are placed in the position of being both mentor and mentee, and this is an arrangement which fosters growth and enjoyment at all levels,” she said.
The ensemble’s repertoire consists of mostly classical music, and classical arrangements of seasonal music.
“Infrequently we detour into contemporary compositions just to change things up,” she said.
The Encore Chamber Ensemble performs twice a year, and family members and friends are invited to attend.
Interested musicians should bring their instrument to each rehearsal session and are asked to have a folder or binder in which to keep all their music together and carry a pencil with an eraser to mark their music.
Sheet music is typically emailed in advance, and a personal portable music stand is essential, she said.
The cost to participate in the Encore Chamber Ensemble is $18 per rehearsal, $72 each month, and that amount is due at the beginning of each month, whether a participant attends each week. Payments are applied to the costs of rehearsal space, conductor, sheet music and insurance.

“The idea is to come as you are and have a good time,” she said. “Play the parts or measures that you can, listen to the parts you cannot, and strive to contribute to the best of your ability,” she said.
The Encore Chamber Ensemble is a string orchestra for beginner/intermediate adult string players with rehearsals on Tuesday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 pm at the Carmichael Elks Lodge, 5631 Cypress Ave.
The group’s website features links to both past public performances and examples of the technical level of music played.

Constitution Week Proclamations presented by Citrus Heights Mayor MariJane Lopez-Taff and Mark Cullum, district director for California State Assemblyman Josh Hoover. The highlight of the ceremony was the traditional “Ringing of the Bells” at 4 p.m., a symbolic tribute to the Constitution’s enduring legacy. Bells called the people of Philadelphia together on Sept. 17, 1787, for the first public reading of the new U.S. Constitution.

The annual observance of Constitution Week, held Sept. 17–23, originated from a 1955 NSDAR petition to Congress. This effort resulted in a joint resolution, signed into public law on Aug. 2, 1956, by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, establishing Constitution Week as a national observance. ★

Duchess & Teacups: A Time for Tea

By Thomas J. Sullivan

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Pinkies up. It's time for tea. Step into the unique world of Duchess & Teacups, a complete mobile tea experience based in Citrus Heights and providing customers in Eldorado, Placer and Sacramento counties the essential magic of a classic tea party right to their front door.

Good tea tends to bring people together, said owner Tammy Perez. Bookings for her home-based mobile tea business have grown steadily over the last 18 months as Duchess & Teacups has gained considerable public attention on social media.

"Life is simply better when shared over tea, treats, and beautiful moments," Perez said.

Duchess & Teacups originated in Southern California where Perez first operated "Cup a Tea," a similar mobile tea business while working as an insurance agent. She later rebranded the business when she and her husband relocated to the Sacramento area.

Whether a host is planning a children's tea party, bridal tea, ladies' tea, holiday gathering, birthday celebration or an elegant afternoon with friends, Dutchess & Teacups mobile tea events blend tradition, creativity and connection, she explains.

The business designs thoughtful tea settings, serves delicious bites and adds sweet details so participants and guests can focus on laughter and connection. Pricing is based on the number of guests in attendance, she said.

"Duchess & Teacups frees any host from creating the complete tea party experience exclusively by themselves," she explained.

Originating in 19th-century England, afternoon tea traditionally includes three courses: sandwiches, scones and sweets, all served with loose-leaf or bagged tea.

Today's tea parties can be as classic or contemporary as their host may like, tailored to one's guests' tastes with a mix of old-world charm and modern flair.

Duchess & Teacups creates that level of ambiance and experience with each event, she said. Selected tablecloths, floral arrangements and tiered trays set the theme.

Perez chooses individual teacup and saucer settings for each event from her own growing collection of fine china and offers a charming variety of mismatched sets that are easy for younger children to hold and enjoy.

She counted just under 100 different tea settings in her collection the last time she checked and dozens of teapots of all types. New individual cup and saucer settings are sourced from thrift stores and estate sales she frequents.

"Creating each and every tea experience I've hosted has been a special journey for me," she said.

What began as a passion for creating individual pretty tea moments has become a traveling experience especially made to delight every guest.

On average, it takes between 40 to 45 hours of advance preparation to carry out a two-hour tea party, she said. She hires additional staff to handle the responsibilities of larger events.

"I've always loved bringing people together and turning that passion into a mobile tea party experience for everyone has been incredibly rewarding," she said.

Perez reflected on a successful spring and summer season of past adult and children's tea parties, wedding showers and special events, looking forward to a busy fall and Christmas season.

And tea parties, she said, aren't just for little girls . . . they're for little gentlemen, too, providing an opportunity for the younger set to learn simple tea etiquette and good manners.

"This fall we'll be creating special tea experiences for little ladies and gentlemen for ages 5-12 during holiday school breaks," she said.

Bookings are opened for a Thanksgiving break themed tea event bringing fall inspired scones, Thanksgiving-themed tea bites and warm fall tea or hot cocoa to area families in Citrus Heights, Fair Oaks, Orangevale and Carmichael and the surrounding area.

In December, Duchess & Teacups will offer a "Magical Christmas" tea experience for children during winter break with time to enjoy Christmas music, holiday scones and festive Christmas bites on beautiful holiday table settings.

Recent business growth is leading Duchess & Teacups into a new opportunity as the business sees potential in increasing its marketing efforts to bring its mobile tearoom experience into the workplace, Perez said.

"Customized tea event packages can help celebrate important business milestones, show appreciation and help build morale," she said.

Thinking of a special tea party this fall? Just gather your favorite people and put your pinkies up.

Let Duchess & Teacups bring the tea sets, beautiful décor, tablescape, tea, delicious treats and all the little details that make your personal celebration feel extra special.

Rowing to Join the Mid-American Conference for the Upcoming 2027 Season

Sacramento State Athletics News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Mid-American Conference (MAC) announced on Sept. 23 that Sacramento State will join the league as an affiliate member in women’s rowing beginning with the upcoming 2027 season.

Sacramento State becomes the MAC’s seventh women’s rowing program, joining Delaware, Eastern Michigan, High Point, Massachusetts, Temple and Toledo.

“I am pleased to welcome Sacramento State to the Mid-American Conference as an affiliate member in women’s rowing,” said MAC Commissioner Dr. Jon A. Steinbrecher. “The Hornets bring an established program, a strong competitive tradition and a commitment to excellence that will strengthen our championship field. We look forward to having Sacramento State compete for a MAC championship beginning in 2027.”

Previously, Sacramento State Rowing had been affiliate members of the WCC (2025-26) - the only conference on the West Coast that currently sponsors rowing. The affiliate membership concluded, creating an opportunity for the Hornets to find a new conference home. The MAC is a nationally respected conference that will provide Hornet student-athletes with a memorable championship experience. Prior to the WCC, the Hornets were also members of the American Athletic Conference (2015-24), and Conference USA (2014).

“Joining the MAC as an affiliate member is an exciting next step for Sacramento State Rowing, and a tremendous opportunity for our student-athletes,” Director of Athletics Mark Orr said. “The MAC provides a competitive conference setting and will give our student-athletes the opportunity to compete for a championship alongside respected programs from across the country. We are grateful to the MAC for welcoming the Hornets, and look forward to competing in the conference and continuing to build Sacramento State Rowing on a national level.”

The MAC held its inaugural Women’s Rowing Championship this past May at Ford Lake in Ypsilanti, Mich. Massachusetts swept all five races to become the league’s first champion and earn the MAC’s first automatic berth to the NCAA Women’s Rowing Championship. The 2027 MAC Women’s Rowing Championship will take place May 15 at Ford Lake.

“I could not be happier to join such a strong and respected conference as the MAC,” Sacramento State head coach Sarah Puddicombe said. “This is an exciting opportunity for our rowing program, and our student-athletes who will have the chance to compete for a conference championship against crews from across the country. We look forward to building new rivalries, representing Sacramento State on a national stage, and being part of the MAC rowing community.”

The Hornets’ rowing program gained intercollegiate status in 1995, and had not been affiliated with an NCAA-sanctioned conference until joining Conference USA in 2014. Prior to 2014, Sacramento State had been a member of the Western Intercollegiate Rowing Association (WIRA) from 1995-2013.

The Hornets compete at the Sacramento State Aquatic Center, considered one of the finest rowing venues in the country. The site has hosted many regional and national events, including the NCAA Women’s Rowing Championship nine times.

Puddicombe is currently in her first season as the Hornets’ head coach, taking over for longtime coach Mike Connors who recently retired. Puddicombe spent the previous three seasons as the Hornets’ assistant coach. She was a two-time All-American coxswain at UC Davis, a three-time team captain, and won an NCAA national championship as both an athlete and coach.

The Hornets’ fall schedule begins Oct. 24 at the Head of the American which will be held at the Sacramento State Aquatic Center. ★

Gbatu, Jr., Connors and Jones Named Big Sky Players of the Week

UC Davis Athletics News Release

FARMINGTON, UT (MPG) - Three Aggies were named Big Sky Players of the Week after UC Davis dominated Stetson 45-7 in its 2026 home opener on Sept. 19 at UC Davis Health Stadium. Samuel Gbatu, Jr. was named Big Sky Offensive Player of the Week, Porter Connors was named Big Sky Defensive Player of the Week and Zach Jones was named Big Sky Special Teams Player of the Week.

For UC Davis, it marked the second time ever the Aggies have swept the weekly Big Sky Player of the Week Awards. The first time came when Hunter Rodrigues (Offensive), Cole Hansen (Defensive) and Isaiah Thomas (Special Teams) swept the awards in Week 4 of the 2020-21 COVID-shortened season.

Gbatu, Jr. showed why he is one of the best players in the country yet again, setting new career-highs in receptions (10) and receiving yards (172) on Saturday night. The wide receiver broke free from the Stetson defense throughout the evening, including a 46-yard touchdown from Treyon Cleeland in the first quarter. This score was also his 25th career receiving touchdown, which ties him with Charley Enos for fourth in school history. It also marked his third 100+ yard receiving game this year, and his 12th career game with 100+ receiving yards.

Connors had his way defensively for the Aggies on Saturday night as the linebacker finished with a game-high 10 tackles, four of which were solo, one tackle for loss (-2 yards) and one forced fumble. The performance marked the sixth time in his career and second time this season he has finished with ten total tackles or more. The forced fumble was his first of his career. The tackle for loss was his second this season.

Jones electrified the UC Davis crowd during its home opener on Saturday night as the senior became the first Aggie in the modern era to return two punts for a touchdown in a single game. First, the Daly City native returned a punt 79 yards for a touchdown at 8:59 in the opening quarter, putting UC Davis up 21-0.

The touchdown marked the Aggies’ first punt return for a touchdown since Trent Tompkins returned a punt 85 yards at San Diego on Sept. 11, 2021. It was also the fifth-longest (79 yards) punt return touchdown in school history. Jones also showed out in the second half, returning a second punt for a touchdown at 3:07 in the third quarter to make it 38-0 in favor of the Aggies. In total, Jones finished with 140 punt return yards against Stetson, a new school record for a single game. It also marked a new career-high for Jones.

Meet the Inaugural Next Gen STEM Scholarship Winner

Sacramento Republic FC News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - During the Sept. 12 Back to School Night match, Republic FC teamed up with The PG&E Corporation Foundation to recognize the first-ever Next Gen STEM Scholarship recipient.

For Miguel Camacho Zamorano, engineering is more than a career goal. It’s a way to make a difference.

A recent graduate of Cordova High School, Miguel has already spent years putting his passion for engineering into action. From designing sensory and educational tools for neurodivergent students, to developing an innovative solution for flooding and pollution in the American River, he has used STEM to address real world challenges in his school and community.

During the Sept. 12 Back to School Night match, Republic FC teamed up with The PG&E Corporation Foundation to recognize Miguel Camacho Zamorano as the first-ever Next Gen STEM Scholarship recipient. Photo courtesy of Republic FC

“This experience helped me connect more with my community by using what I love, engineering, to give back. It made me feel accomplished and as if my hard work from all my years had paid off,” said Miguel. “Besides that, it taught me the process of community outreach and the importance of the design process in engineering projects. All-in-all, it helped me solidify and realize why I want to do engineering as I want to help the world, whether directly or indirectly.”

Miguel now attends Folsom Lake College and has big goals that go beyond his local involvement.

“I want to graduate from community college and then transfer to a four-year college to major in aerospace engineering,” he said. “After college, my goals are to work in an aerospace company and work on rocket propulsion systems. With aerospace engineering, I want to work on projects that will help humans advance in life and show that no matter what your situation is or what hardships you’ve faced, you can achieve your biggest dreams. I say this because not just aerospace engineering, but it is a difficult field to get into and achieve success in.”

A Message on the City’s Budget in Brief

Ash Feeney
By Ash Feeney,
City Manager,
City of Citrus Heights

Dear Citrus Heights Community,

This summer, the City Council unanimously approved the Fiscal Year 2026/27 budget. As we carry out that budget, I am pleased to share this Budget in Brief: a clear look at the choices behind our investments and the priorities guiding our work.

A good budget reflects good decisions made over time. We look beyond the year ahead, consider the long-term cost of each commitment and preserve the flexibility to respond when circumstances change. This year’s balanced budget maintains healthy reserve levels while continuing to support the services residents expect. Careful planning gives us the ability to make decisions based on what is right for Citrus Heights.

We are putting that approach into practice. The City continues its $4 million annual General Fund investment in infrastructure, improving more streets while pursuing grants that extend our local dollars. At the same time, we are protecting public safety and essential services, while welcoming private investment that will strengthen our economy.

This brochure shows how careful financial decisions support the work happening across our city. I hope you will join us for the State of the City on November 5, when we will share what Citrus Heights accomplished in 2026 and look ahead to the opportunities taking shape. I look forward to seeing you there.

In your service,

Ashley J. Feeney,
City Manager,
City of Citrus Heights

Protecting Yosemite for Future Generations

Josh Hoover
By Assemblyman Josh Hoover

There are some places in California that belong to all of us. Yosemite is one of them.

More than 160 years ago, in the middle of the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Yosemite Grant Act of 1864. That law transferred Yosemite Valley and the Mariposa Grove of giant sequoias to California for public use, recreation and preservation. Among its most important provisions was a simple but powerful promise: the land would be “inalienable for all time.” That promise is worth remembering now.

Unfortunately, a proposed land exchange at Yosemite National Park would give a private developer access across federal park land to connect an adjacent property to a road inside the park. Kingsbarn Realty Capital owns an 83-acre parcel outside Yosemite’s western boundary and is seeking that access to facilitate development. The Department of the Interior has said no final decision has been made and that any exchange would have to comply with federal law and environmental review. Those assurances do not settle the larger question: whether Yosemite land should be on the table at all.

I do not believe it should. Earlier this month 61 members of the California Legislature — more than half of the state’s 118 lawmakers — sent a bipartisan letter to Interior Secretary Doug Burgum urging him to halt and reject the proposal. I was proud to sign it. Our message was straightforward: Yosemite belongs to no one and to everyone. It is held in trust for generations yet to come and this deal would break that promise.

The idea is not new. A previous owner sought private road access through park land beginning in the 2000s. The National Park Service refused. The owner sued. In 2012, a federal appeals court upheld the rejection. That should have ended the matter. Instead, after the current developer purchased the adjacent parcels in 2024, the same underlying request returned — not through the courts this time, but through a land exchange negotiated with federal officials.

We are also concerned by reports that the Department has considered using the Land and Water Conservation Fund in connection with the exchange. That fund exists to acquire and protect public land, not to underwrite its handoff to a private developer. Earlier this year, the Legislature adopted AJR 9 urging full funding and staffing for the National Park Service and opposing the transfer of federal park lands. We write in that same spirit.

The existence of a land-exchange mechanism does not make this appropriate use of it. Protecting Yosemite requires no creative reading of federal law. It requires the judgment to say no.

Californians disagree on many things. Protecting the places that belong to all Americans should not be one of them. Our national parks are not ordinary parcels of government property. They are part of the nation’s heritage. When Lincoln signed the Yosemite Grant, he was not thinking about the next news cycle. He was thinking about a future he would never see. It is now our responsibility to protect Yosemite for future generations.

DR. UNIVERSE

How did I get a hole in my heart since birth?

- Riley, 10, Florida

Dear Riley,

This week I learned that humans and cats have similar hearts. Yours is about the size of an apple. Mine’s more like a golf ball.

I talked about it with my friend Kathy Kincaid. She’s a nurse practitioner at Washington State University.

She told me our hearts have four chambers. The upper chambers are the right atrium and left atrium. The lower chambers are the right ventricle and left ventricle.

Your blood’s big job is carrying oxygen. It takes oxygen from your lungs and delivers it all over your body.

Here’s the route blood travels through your heart. Oxygen-poor blood returns to your heart through the right atrium and travels to the right ventricle.

Then, it goes out to your lungs. That’s where it picks up fresh oxygen.

That oxygen-rich blood goes back to your heart and travels through the left atrium and then the left ventricle. From there, it pumps out to your whole body.

A hole in your heart means there’s an opening in the wall between the right side and left side of the heart. That’s between the two atriums or the two ventricles. That opening allows blood to leak between the chambers instead of following the normal route.

Everybody starts out with one kind of hole in the heart. That’s because a fetus doesn’t breathe with lungs. Inside the uterus, the fetus floats in fluid—not air.

Here you can see the four chambers. The valves are one-way gates that direct blood along its route. The veins, arteries, aorta and vena cava are blood vessels. The pericardium is a sack that keeps the heart safe.

“When we’re in the womb, we’re getting all our oxygen from our birth parent,” Kincaid said.

“Once we’re born, we transition to getting oxygen from our lungs.”

So, a fetus’ heart gets oxygen through the placenta and umbilical cord. Most of the blood pumped toward the lungs takes a shortcut.

That shortcut is a natural opening between the upper chambers of the heart—called the foramen ovale. It allows blood to pump from the right side of the heart to the left side while mostly skipping the lungs.

When a newborn baby takes a first gulp of air, a flap closes over the hole. It usually seals completely.

Except when it doesn’t. In about 25% of people, the opening doesn’t close all the way. That’s called a patent foramen ovale. It’s usually no big deal. If it causes any problems, a heart doctor will manage

SMF Parking Rate Changes Support New Garage and Customer Improvements

Sacramento International Airport News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento International Airport (SMF) will adjust public parking rates when the new Parking Garage 2 opens later this year, supporting a major expansion and modernization of the airport’s parking system.

Daily rates will increase from $12 to $14 for Economy, $14 to $19 for the Daily Lot and $21 to $28 for garage parking. There will be no additional increase in 2027. Beginning Jan. 1, 2028, rates will increase by $1 per year through 2031.

The changes come as SMF adds several new parking amenities, including the six-story, 5,537-space Parking Garage 2 adjacent to Terminal B, parking guidance technology to help drivers find open spaces, new entry and exit equipment with expanded payment options and parking reservations beginning in 2027.

“We know paying more for parking isn’t the part travelers are excited about, but these investments are delivering the improvements our passengers have asked for; more spaces, more covered parking, easier ways to pay and a faster, more predictable parking experience,” said Sheri Thompson Duarte, Deputy Director of Operations and Public Safety. “Our goal is to give travelers more choices and make the start and end of their journey through SMF easier.”

The Department of Airports issued $390 million in new debt for construction of Parking Garage 2. Since FY2021, construction costs have increased 37.6% and airport operating costs have increased by $65.7 million.

Parking is SMF’s largest source of non-airline revenue, generating $77.08 million in FY2024-25. Parking revenue is reinvested in the airport to support operations, infrastructure, debt service and improvements that benefit SMF travelers.

Economy parking will remain the airport’s lowest-cost parking option at $14 per day. Travelers can also use rideshare, passenger drop-off or public transit.

Celebrating Early Literacy, Family Support and Dolly Parton’s Legacy

Sacramento County Office of Education News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Just one year after launching in August 2025, the Sacramento County Imagination Library has reached a remarkable milestone: Nearly 10,000 children from birth to age five are now enrolled and receiving free, high-quality books each month.

The achievement reflects a commitment to ensuring young children have access to books during the most important years of brain development and language growth. Through the program, children in targeted Sacramento County communities receive an age-appropriate book delivered directly to their home each month at no cost to families, helping build home libraries and foster a lifelong love of reading.

“This milestone represents our collective commitment as a community to giving our youngest learners the right start from the beginning,” said Sacramento County Superintendent of Schools Jacqueline White. “Nearly 10,000 young children are building language skills, strengthening family connections through shared reading and developing a foundation for future success in school and life.”

The Sacramento County Imagination Library is part of Dolly Parton's Imagination Library, the internationally recognized book-gifting program founded in 1995. Locally, the program is supported through a partnership with United Way California Capital Region.

The milestone also provides an opportunity to celebrate Dolly Parton's vision that every child deserves access to books, regardless of income or

ZIP code. Today, her program reaches millions of children worldwide and has distributed hundreds of millions of books.

The Parton family has shared that one meaningful way to honor Dolly’s legacy is by supporting the mission she championed: putting books into the hands of young children. Community members who would like to help expand access to local families may offer a donation by visiting <https://bit.ly/SacramentoImagination>.

As the program enters its second year, Sacramento County leaders remain committed to expanding enrollment to the entire county and ensuring even more children experience the joy of reading from birth. ★

Sacramento Suburban Water District News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - On Monday, Sept. 21, the Sacramento Suburban Water District (SSWD) Board of Directors approved the appointment of Ed Winkler to the SSWD Board by the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors. Winkler will represent Division 4, which includes portions of Carmichael, Del Paso Manor and Arden Arcade.

Winkler is a civil engineer with over 40 years of experience. He previously served as the Executive Director of the Regional Water Authority and the Sacramento Groundwater Authority. During his stewardship of those organizations, he helped secure millions of dollars in State and Federal grants, which improved SSWD’s infrastructure and its conjunctive use program.

“I’m honored to join the SSWD Board and continue my efforts to improve water supply reliability and give back to the local Sacramento community where I have lived my entire life,” said Winkler.

SSWD is governed by a five-member Board of Directors. Directors are elected to four-year terms, with elections held in even-numbered years. Winkler will be up for election on Nov. 3, along with Divisions 1, 3 and 5. ★

Expanding Recovery Housing for Women

Koala House 2 unites Sacramento County’s Department of Health Services mission while expanding Sacramento Recovery House’s continuum of recovery-centered services. Photo courtesy of Sacramento County

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County is celebrating the opening of Koala House 2, a new sober living and transitional residence designed to provide women with a safe, supportive environment as they continue their recovery journeys.

Koala House 2 unites Sacramento County’s Department of Health Services mission while expanding Sacramento Recovery House’s continuum of recovery-centered services and provides an important next step for women transitioning from Gateway House and other Sacramento County treatment programs.

Sacramento Recovery House is partnering with the County on this residence to provide gender responsive, trauma-informed residential services to adults seeking recovery from substance use and co-occurring disorders and their related issues.

“Recovery does not happen in isolation,” said Lori Miller, Division Manager, a representative of Sacramento County

Behavioral Health Services. “It happens when we work together, when there is support, when people have safe places to live, healthy relationships, meaningful opportunities and a community that believes in their ability to build a different future.”

The new residence is a needed substance use resource for Sacramento County to assist people in stepping down care with the goal of finding permanent supportive housing. Koala House 2 will help women build stability and independence while developing the skills, relationships and connections needed to sustain long-term recovery.

“We hope this space becomes a safe place where the women are celebrated, challenges are met together, dreams begin to feel possible again and lives are changed,” said Executive Director of Sacramento Recovery House, Dr. Davis.

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

Enter Elfred Payton Jr.

By V.G. Harris

The Sacramento Kings just had a moment to digest the signing of former all-star Ben Simmons and ruminate about the possibilities of what Simmons might bring to the team, when suddenly news arrived that another guard had been signed.

Not a household name, Elfred Payton Jr. is now a proud member of the Sacramento Kings.

Signed by the Philadelphia 76ers with the 10th overall pick in the 2014 draft, Payton brings with him a wealth of experience in what has been an up and down career thus far.

Entriguing is his penchant for triple doubles, something that most NBA players never achieve.

During the 2018-19 season, Payton achieved a feat that only Wilt Chamberlain, Michael Jordan, Russell Westbrook and Oscar Robertson ever achieved in NBA history when he amazingly recorded five triple-doubles in consecutive games.

Add to that the fact that Payton is known more for his defense than his offense, and the Kings just signed a player that potentially could raise some eyebrows in a positive way.

Every NBA team knows the value of a solid bench and how important that is, and although not probably a starter for the Kings, Elfred Payton has seen his share of starting roles in the NBA.

As a junior in college playing for Lousiana-Layfayette Payton was awarded defensive player of the year in division one college basketball.

At just 6-foot-3 Payton drew enough interest to be picked up by the Orlando Magic, New York Knicks, Charlotte Hornets and the New Orleans Pelicans, after leaving the Philadelphia 76ers, and with the recent signing by the Sacramento Kings, Payton hopes to do what Ben Simmons is attempting, and resurrect a stuttering career.

A bio with such broad achievements, it's no wonder that Scott Perry decided to take a chance on this much traveled baller.

Already the Kings have three new rookies that the Sacramento fans can't wait to see in legitimate NBA action, and now they have both a healthy Ben Simmons and a 32-year-old Elfred Payton Jr. to see as well.

Can Elfred Payton Jr. remind Kings fans of what a young Davion Mitchell provided with his high energy defense off the bench and once again bring to the floor a player with true shut-down abilities.

Well, if he can, Scott Perry is beginning to give Doug Christie what he's been praying for in players that are defensive minded first.

Any time a player has been traveled as much as Elfred Payton Jr. the natural question is why, and only time will tell if he has holes in his game, or he simply never found the right fit.

I'm hoping Sacramento is just what the doctor ordered, and Mr. Payton is about to get the jump start he's been looking for.

You won't have to wait long Kings fans, because preseason is just one week away, and what remains to be seen is how Doug Christie will use his new faces, and can he build a team chemistry in under a month?

Everyone loves a feel-good story, and nothing feels better than seeing a player come back and soar to the heights.

Ben Simmons certainly knows what that feels like, and the question is whether he's truly healthy and does he have the motor every Sacramento fan is hoping he has.

I look for a full house on Oct. 23, as the Kings kick off the regular season against the Portland Trail Blazers at Golden One Arena.

After a better than solid draft, and now two very interesting acquisitions, Sacramento fans have plenty to root for, so time to get excited Kings fans and buy your tickets.

Now, along with Domantas Sabonis, the Kings have a legitimate triple-double threat in Elfred Payton Jr., and a player that has a nose for defense.

Make no mistake about it, the rebuild is happening right before your eyes, so now it's time to take stock in what you have and be careful not to trade away a player that is integral to the success of the team.

Let this young team play together and come together, and just maybe, something remarkable may show itself.

Time to watch NBA basketball and find your new favorite player. I know I already have, and I can't wait to see the Kings prove the pundits wrong.

All the best Kings fans! ★

Tilting California Voters Toward Raising Local Taxes Often Involves Tricks, Manipulation

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

California's Nov. 3 ballot contains 14 statewide ballot measures and five of them pertain to taxes, including the much-debated Proposition 40, which would tax the wealth of the state's billionaires.

Meanwhile, local ballots are also heavily loaded with measures that would either raise taxes to benefit school districts or local governments or authorize the issuance of bonds that require new taxes to repay.

The California Taxpayers Association has counted 273 such measures that, if all passed, would levy $3 billion a year in direct taxes on retail sales and property, and sanction $19.5 billion in bonds, with interest costs of more than $1 billion a year.

The largest tax measure asks voters in San Francisco and four other counties to hike sales taxes by nearly $1 billion a year to bolster public transit services.

In the last decade, a flurry of local sales tax measures has raised rates to over 11% in some jurisdictions. The biennial deluge of local tax and bond measures draws heavy campaign spending by proponents and opponents and some questionable gamesmanship by the local agencies that propose them.

Under the guise of "information," it's not unusual for them to spend taxpayer money on brochures and other forms of communication that approach out-and-out advocacy, often hiring professional campaign consultants to prepare the materials and otherwise use techniques that tout the supposed benefits that taxes or bonds will provide.

If it crosses the line, an "information" campaign violates a state law that declares, "An officer, employee, or consultant of a local agency may not expend or authorize the expenditure of any of the funds of the local agency to support or oppose the approval or rejection of a ballot measure, or the election or defeat of a candidate, by the voters."

However, prosecutions for violation are as rare as the proverbial hen's teeth, although the Fair Political Practices Commission does crack down when instances are brought to its attention.

Another technique officialdom uses to tilt tax elections in its favor is to pretend that ballot measures are not, in fact, tax increases.

Last month, the state Court of Appeal upheld a lower court's finding in Riverside County that the Hemet Unified School District misleadingly declared in the language of a $225 million bond issue that it would not raise taxes. The declaration hinged on the new measure continuing property taxes that had been collected for a previous ballot measure, but both courts rejected that rationale and ordered that the language be altered.

"While the full text of the measure may accurately explain the true nature of Measure I," the appellate court ruled, "the term 'no-tax-rate-increase,' on its face, connotes such a conclusive meaning, that voters are likely to find it unnecessary to read the full ballot materials, erroneously believing that 'no-tax-rate-increase' has the plain meaning their tax burden will not increase."

"The impact of such terms in ballot titles and questions has previously been addressed and found impermissible where the terms constitute advocacy or partiality ... Replacing 'no-tax-rate-increase' with 'rate-extension' would be accurate, neutral, and does not mislead voters into believing their tax burden will not increase."

It's also noteworthy that Hemet Unified's board of trustees voted on Aug. 12 to place the bond issue on the November ballot but gave the public just five days to submit arguments on the issue. Compressing the time for opponents to respond is another common technique employed to tilt the game.

Tricking voters is election fraud as onerous as stuffing ballot boxes. Unfortunately, while officials may be a bit embarrassed if caught, such behavior does not invalidate a ballot measure that voters pass.

It should.

Social Security Matters

Mom Worries Daughter Making Bad Social Security Decision

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: My question is not for me, but for my daughter who 62 years is old. She does not want to take her Social Security now. Her husband was a doctor and passed away recently. She had been married to him for more than 10 years and, in the meantime, he married someone else. I thought the President erased taxes on earned money so that people could collect what was due them no matter what they earned. My daughter keeps telling me she has already earned too much this year and cannot collect her widow's benefits until next year. I don't understand what no tax on Social Security means then. Also, she wants to wait until she is 67 before she collects her own money. She has been a nurse and believes her own benefits may be larger than her widow's benefits. Is she correct to wait for that long?

Signed: Worried Mom

Dear Worried Mom: Your daughter is likely correct. There are two factors which come into play in your daughter's circumstance – one is the Annual Earnings Test (for those collecting early SS benefits), and the other relates to Federal income tax on SS benefits received. I'll try to clarify both of these for you:

If your daughter claims her widow's benefit at age 62, her benefit will be significantly reduced (by approximately 20+%) from what she would get at her SS full retirement age, and that would be a permanent reduction. And, if she works (which you imply she does) she would also be subject to Social Security's Annual Earnings Test (AET) which limits how much she can earn by working prior to reaching her SS full retirement age (her "FRA," which is age 67). The earnings limit for 2026 is $24,480 (changes yearly) and, if her annual 2026 earnings exceed that amount, Social Security will take away $1 of benefits for every $2 she is over the annual limit. For example, if she is $25,000 over the limit, SS would take way benefits equal to $12,500. That would mean she wouldn't get any SS benefits for the remainder of this year and likely some of next year also. And, if her earnings are significantly more than the annual limit, she may even be temporarily ineligible to receive a widow's benefit (until she either reaches her FRA or earns less money). FYI, the Annual Earnings Test will go away when your daughter reaches age 67 but, until then, the AET will likely restrict her ability to receive Social Security benefits if she continues to work full time.

The next factor to be aware of is the so-called "One Big Beautiful Bill" (OBBB) which the President claimed means "no tax on Social Security." This is an entirely different factor than the Annual Earnings Test (AET) described above. The above AET discussion dealt with SS earnings limits while taking benefits before FRA, whereas the OBBB deals with income tax on Social Security benefits actually received. The OBBB (enacted last year) provides an extra $6,000 deduction per person (on the tax return filed with the IRS) for those 65 years of age or older. That extra IRS deduction is designed to offset (either totally or partially) any income tax which is levied on Social Security benefits received by those age 65 or older. It's also important to know that the OBBB only provides temporary income tax relief, because the law expires after the 2028 income tax year.

All of which leads me to conclude that your daughter's decision to wait longer to claim her widow's benefit from her deceased ex-husband is a prudent choice. As long as she is working and earning more than the annual earnings limit before age 67, the AET will restrict how much Social Security she is able to receive. If she later stops working or goes to part-time employment, she can revisit her decision at that time. And, depending on her own personally earned Social Security benefit amount at age 67 (vs. her widow's benefit), she can assess whether to claim her personal SS retirement benefit or to, instead, claim her benefit as her ex-husband's widow if that amount is larger than her own SS retirement. And, unless Congress later extends the OBBB prior to 2029, she will, at that time, likely need to pay income tax on the Social Security benefits she receives.

The Lynching Epidemic that Wasn't were acts of suicide -- awful in their own right, but not evidence that we are once again living in the Deep South circa 1892. These news stories invariably recount how the local police have concluded a person found hanging on a tree died by suicide -- as well as all the speculation on social media that something more insidious must have been at play.

In one horrifying case, a young African-American woman was found hanging from a tree outside an abandoned house in Jackson, Mississippi, and her death was indeed ruled a murder. A CNN report several days ago related the heightened scrutiny around the crime given "Mississippi's long history of racial violence involving hangings." The police have now arrested a 51-year-old suspect and charged him with murder, although he doesn't advance the narrative of the Pressley letter -- since he, too, is African American.

According to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention figures, more than 11,000 people in the United States died by suicide by hanging or a related means in 2024 -- or, on average, more than 30 a day. Hundreds of these people were African Americans. In this context, a handful of black suicides by hanging occurring outdoors over the course of half a year or more wouldn't necessarily be shocking.

The will to believe the worst, though, is very strong among the people who signed the Pressley letter. They are perpetually convinced that the KKK is on the verge of riding again and making the U.S. the equivalent of the Reconstruction-era South.

One line in the Pressley letter says that black people have been found hanging from trees in places as dispersed as "Mississippi, Michigan and New York." The geographic randomness suggests a widely dispersed social phenomenon; the signatories conclude instead that there are racist murderers seeded throughout the country, all carrying out brutal, symbolically resonant killings.

This is a terrible thing to believe of one's own country -- not just of its people, but of all the law-enforcement authorities who must be suppressing evidence of systematic racial violence. No matter. The Squad and its ilk have a dim view of the United States and -- as racial obsessives who consider themselves fearless crusaders for justice -- must find great emotional satisfaction in the notion that they are fighting the same battle as, say, the legendary scourge of lynching Ida B. Wells.

Wells, though, didn't have to make up outrages, whereas the current crowd tends to give credence to every story based on a fake noose or a hate-crime hoax. Pressley and Co. clearly hoped to stir up a social panic, but the weakness and irrationality of their argument serve only to underline their own profound and disturbing racial paranoia.

The event will take place 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at The Cannery Place, 1601 Alhambra Blvd, Suite 200, in Sacramento, and will include charcuterie, wine and networking. Tickets are $65 per person. The event also will feature an interactive fireside chat with local women leaders, including: Dr. Dawnté Early, president and CEO, United Way California Capital Region; Lora Anguay, CEO and general manager, SMUD; and Mary Daffin, co-owner, The Jacquelyn, with emcee Brandi Cummings, anchor and reporter, KCRA3. Dr. Dawnté Early, president and CEO, United Way California Capital Region. “Every young person deserves the chance to dream boldly and pursue their future with confidence. By investing in foster youth today, we are helping build a stronger, more connected community where everyone has the opportunity to rise, lead and succeed.”

The local United Way’s Women United is a philanthropic network of more than 250 women who leverage their passions, ideas, expertise and resources to ensure foster youth are prepared for success in adulthood. Since its inception in 2002, Women United has raised more than $2 million to help foster youth gain the skills and education they need to thrive.

Through their signature initiative, the Collegiate Guaranteed Income Program, 20 former foster youth studying at Sacramento State and UC Davis receive $500 per month for one year, along with access to mentorship, financial coaching, digital tools and wraparound support, so students can cover basic needs like rent, groceries and transportation while focusing on their education. For more information and to get involved: www.YourLocalUnitedWay.org/Get-Involved/Women-United.

For more than 100 years, United Way California Capital Region has mobilized communities across Amador, El Dorado, Placer, Sacramento and Yolo counties to create opportunities for children and families to thrive. Through programs focused on youth opportunity, housing stability, financial security and community resilience, the local United Way has served more than 100,000 people in the past five years alone. During that time, more than 61,000 children received support through United Way programs, nearly 4,000 individuals found or maintained stable housing, nearly $4 million was distributed through guaranteed income initiatives, and volunteer tax preparation services helped secure more than $41 million in tax refunds for local households. CPF, CFF and PG&E announce $1 million in charitable grants to 75 departments to strengthen wildfire preparedness, response and community

In 2026, over 322,000 acres burned statewide with the 2026 Bug Fire burning more than 93,000 acres in Lassen and Sierra counties alone just last month. Despite the continued threat of large wildfires, maintaining a defensible space and vegetation management has been a key component to the California Fire Foundation's success in reducing the harm made by these fires. These outcomes are made possible through funding efforts such as the Wildfire Safety and of 5000 channels. This device makes it easier for firefighters to contact each other in times of emergency when towers are down.

One thing is for certain, wildfires will not disappear, but with programs such as the Wildfire Safety and Preparedness Program equipping departments and agencies with appropriate funding, we are more prepared to protect ourselves and local communities from the inevitable threat of wildfires. ★

Volunteers Wash 16 Aircraft, Help to Preserve Aeronautic History

SAFE Credit Union
News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)
- About 35 SAFE Credit Union employees gave back to the community in a very big way at the Aerospace Museum of California recently washing historical aircraft, some with wingspans varying between 21 and 57 feet long.

Volunteers helped care for and preserve the aircraft including the Fairchild-Republic A-10A Thunderbolt II “Warthog,” a Douglas A-1E “Skyraider” attack bomber, and a Lockheed F-104B “Starfighter” used by NASA. (Video 1, 2, 3, 4)

It was the second time since SAFE’s employee resource group VALOR (Veterans and Loved Ones Resource) organized to wash aircraft at the museum in McClellan Park. The first time they washed four planes. At the more recent turn-out, and with help from members of SAFE’s employee resource group EmpowHERment to commemorate Girls in Aviation Day, volunteers washed 16 planes in just over an hour.

“My favorite part about volunteering at the museum was bringing a large group of people together to experience these historic aircraft and play a small role in preserving them,” says SAFE Credit Union VALOR member Kimberly Ross, of Rio Linda, who organized the volunteer event. “Each plane has its own unique story, and it was great to learn more about their history while helping keep them in great condition for future visitors.”

Volunteers, like SAFE Credit Union Senior Engagement and Change Specialist Jolana Lance of Elk Grove, were excited to be a part of military history and aviation history.

“As the lead of EmpowHERment, I was excited to support an event that aligned so closely with our mission of empowering and inspiring women,” Lance says. “Girls in Aviation Day encourages young women to explore careers and opportunities in aviation, aerospace, and in STEM, which made this volunteer opportunity especially meaningful to me.”

Aerospace Museum of California Chief Executive Officer Tom Jones says he appreciates how much hard work each volunteer put into scrubbing and rinsing off all of the dirt that can accumulate onto the historic aircraft.

“We are grateful to SAFE volunteers who came out to the museum to wash the planes,” Jones says. “As a 501(c)(3) non-profit we rely on help like this from our partners and members of the community.”

SAFE’s 86-year heritage stretches back to 1940, when it started as a credit union serving Army Air Corps personnel at what would later become McClellan Air Force Base in Sacramento, now home to McClellan Park.

VALOR, formed in 2024, supports employees who are former and current military service members and their families as well as those living within Sacramento area communities. The group recently wrapped up its third annual flag collection drive to help members and the public retire old and worn U.S. flags properly and respectfully under the U.S. Flag Code.

EmpowHERment, like VALOR, is one of eight employee resource groups at SAFE committed to building a workplace where everyone feels respected, valued and connected.

For more information about SAFE’s employee resource groups VALOR and EmpowHERment, contact SAFE Credit Union Senior Communications and Public Relations Specialist Robyn Eifertsen at robyn.slagle-eifertsen@safecu.org or 916-809-7002.
