The bay area's most rock and roll symphony, Renegade Orchestra comes to Davis

Don't miss out on the chance to experience the virtuosic skills of top bay area musicians blend the heart of rock music into their energetic performance. Photo courtesy of Renegade Orchestra

By Ryley Metten

DAVIS, CA (MPG) - Take everything you don't like about a classic orchestra and throw it out the window! Bay Area based "rock and roll symphony" Renegade Orchestra is performing at Davis Odd Fellows on Friday Oct. 16.

During the heat of the pandemic in 2021, a group of highly trained local orchestra players grew immensely tired of performing namelessly, dressed in black, to the same classical music they have heard for years on end.

After years of playing in major classical orchestras, they found themselves wanting to do something different, to create a unique experience for those concert attendees.

With extra time on their hands, they began practicing rock music and alas Renegade Orchestra was born!

While still keeping the talent and beauty of amazing string players in a traditional symphony, Renegade Orchestra throws everything you know about a traditional orchestra away. No longer do the members stand still, nameless, dressed in black, instead, each member of the 14-core ensemble is encouraged to dress in their unique style while performing rock hits.

Renegade Orchestra mixes top Bay Area strings players with a mix of symphony playing, wedding string quartets, Grammy Award-winning, Juilliard graduating violins, violas and cellos, while the rhythm section consists of a range of players from North Beach jazz musicians to recent college grads. With the mix of these worlds colliding, a new "rock band" sound manifests, attracting live music lovers and orchestra connoisseurs alike to their shows

"We take the strings and combine that with a rock band to create an entire new sound," Conductor Jason Eckl said.

Unlike most Orchestra's repeating the same songs, Renegade Orchestra approaches song selection quite differently. Each year, the symphony takes song requests from the audience which end up on a master list of songs to be played at their future shows.

Renegade Orchestra's Conductor then goes through the audience

News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Stop CIPA Shakedown Lawsuits coalition celebrated Governor Gavin Newsom's signing of SB 690 on Sept. 30, a major reform to the California Invasion of Privacy Act (CIPA) that will provide much-needed relief to thousands of California small businesses, nonprofits and public agencies facing abusive lawsuits and demand letters.

SB 690 passed the California Legislature without a single "no" vote, reflecting broad recognition among lawmakers of the need to address the misuse of a decades-old privacy law against organizations using ordinary website technologies. The new law will take effect Jan. 1, 2027, limiting private lawsuits involving CIPA's pen register and trap-and-trace provisions when claims arise from activity on websites, online applications, or mobile applications, while preserving California's strong consumer privacy protections and government enforcement authority.

"Tonight, thousands of California businesses have gotten relief from abusive litigation," said Andrew Kingman, Alliance for Legal Fairness General Counsel. "We applaud Governor Newsom for signing SB 690 into law and delivering real relief to businesses, nonprofits and public agencies that have been forced to spend valuable resources defending themselves against abusive CIPA lawsuits. This is a meaningful step forward for organizations across California that have faced costly litigation and significant disruption, even when there is no allegation of actual harm or injury."

"We thank Senator Caballero for her leadership and Assemblymember Bauer-Kahan for her

Board Honors Ben Flores During Chicano/Latino Heritage Month

board. “This year’s national theme calls for Latino leaders who are ‘Pioneers of Change,’ and Ben Flores is just that.”

Barajas traced Flores’s career from his days as a standout baseball pitcher, noting Flores as one of the top arms on a 36-win, state championship team at Merced College in 1974. The success continued at the University of Hawaii, where Flores won season-opening games for the Rainbows in both 1975 and 1976, earning a place among the university’s All-Time Baseball Letterwinners. From there, Barajas shifted to cover more than three decades of Flores’s contribution to Yolo County education.

After earning a degree in Spanish Language Teaching from Sacramento State, Flores returned home to Woodland, where he became principal of Beamer Elementary School just as it was launching one of the district’s first Spanish dual-immersion programs. He went on to serve seven years as principal of Woodland High School, followed by a term as Woodland Joint Unified School District’s Director of Curriculum and Instruction. Flores later served as principal of Inderkum High School in Natomas and spent six years as assistant superintendent for the Colusa County Office of Education, with additional work over his career in West Sacramento, Winters and Esparto.

Following his formal retirement from education, Flores returned to Woodland once more to become the City of Woodland’s first coordinator for its Youth Gang Reduction, Intervention and Prevention Initiative (YGRIP), helping lead a citywide effort to keep young people safe and connected to their community.

The board also recognized Flores’s wife, Christina, and Dr. Jorge Ayala, who served as Yolo County Office of Education’s first Latino Superintendent of Schools from 1998 to 2014, for their own contributions alongside Flores over the years.

In accepting the recognition, Flores reflected on the many people across Yolo County who have worked to uplift the Latino community.

“To be recognized during Chicano/Latino Heritage Month means a great deal to me, because so many individuals in our county have worked tirelessly to promote the culture, heritage and contributions of the Latino community,” Flores said. “I can think of several others in our county who are equally, if not more, deserving. However, I accept this honor humbly and with deep gratitude to the Board of Supervisors.”

Flores also credited his wife of more than 45 years, Christina, along with colleagues such as Dr. Ayala, for their support throughout his career. “All this work in my career was made easier due to the support of my wife, Christina, and friends like Jorge Ayala,” he said.

Flores and his wife, Christina, are the parents of two sons, Miguel and Martin, both standout basketball players and Woodland High School graduates who went on to play collegiately.

Dave Ramsey Says The More Things Change, the More They Stay the Same

Dear Dave,

My best friend from college and his wife are always talking about how much your teachings have helped them with their finances. I was wondering if you have any suggestions for single people when it comes to getting control of their money and managing it wisely.

– Nate

Dear Nate,

Honestly? The first thing I’d say is the very same thing I say to married couples — spend less than you make, and live on a written monthly budget. This means sitting down at the end of each month and writing down all your expenses and income for the upcoming month on paper. Give every dollar a specific job to do, then spend everything, down to the last penny, on paper before the next month actually begins.

I know, a lot of folks hear the word “budget,” and their brains immediately turn off. They assume the process will be painful, boring and complicated. But when you stop to think about it, budgeting really isn’t difficult. All it takes is basic math skills and a few minutes of your time. Think about it. Some expenses, like your mortgage payment or rent, will be the same. If you have a car payment, it should remain constant, as well. Things like utilities and groceries may fluctuate a little based on the season, but you can estimate these pretty accurately by looking at past months.

I’d also recommend finding a mature family member or friend to help you along, and function as an accountability partner. This person should also be good with money, and your relationship should be strong enough that they’re not afraid to call you out, or hurt your feelings a little, if you start acting irresponsible with your cash. In your case, maybe the friend who turned you on to my principles for handling money.

Sit down, just the two of you, once a month and talk about your finances. You can even go over your income and budget line by line if it helps. The point is to get support from someone who cares about you, has experienced financial success and is willing to hold you accountable for the financial decisions you’re making.

Great question, Nate. You can do this!

Kings Korner

By V.G. Harris

Get Excited Kings Fans

By V.G. Harris

Time to wake from a summer slumber and embrace the 2026-27 season, because the Sacramento Kings will be in action Monday night against the daunting Los Angeles Lakers.

While the Lakers are without Lebron, they are arguably packed with talent and last year’s rookie Adou Thiero is just waiting for an opportunity to show the Laker fans what this highly athletic NBA forward can bring to the hard court.

Likewise, the Kings are blessed with a deep team, something that they have struggled with in the past, and that brings with it the looming question, who will be Doug Christie’s starters, and who will garnish the majority of minutes off the bench.

Minutes are a precious commodity in the NBA, and players like Malik Monk simply cannot get lost in the shuffle as new faces enter the arena, and the tendency is to play newcomers and rookies early while sometimes forgetting who it is that got you there.

Not lost on anyone is the paltry 22 wins of a season ago, but most fans have put that agonizing number in the “lost to injury” column and I believe rightfully so.

It’s the reason Doug Christie is back for a second season, and with a solid draft and the acquisition of an apparently healthy Ben Simmons, Christie has the chess pieces to make last season’s 22 wins a distant memory.

Without question this team will need to walk before it can run. Putting too many minutes on rookie Darius Acuff Jr. or veteran Ben Simmon’s should be the last thing coach Christie should do, and developing a rotation that satisfies minutes while producing results is the balancing act that he has before him.

This is why we watch the game Kings fans, and while the offseason may not have been as active as you would have liked, I am grateful that the Kings have a post presence led by Domantas Sabonis and backed up by youngsters clamoring for playing time. Both Precious Achiuwa and Dylan Cardwell will undoubtedly get quality minutes and they should.

Coming out of the gate Sabonis needs to establish who he is, and once again be the cleaner of the boards that the NBA has seen over the past four seasons. With that rebounding acumen comes stopping the competition from second chance points and presents fast break opportunities for the Kings.

Many were critical when the Kings brought in Domantas Sabonis and sent Tyrese Haliburton to the Indiana Pacers, but with that trade the Sacramento Kings became the No. 1 scoring team in the NBA.

It was a magical season that saw the Kings win 48 games, make the playoff’s outright, and take the archrival Golden State Warriors to a seven-games series.

So, what will the partial rebuild from Scott Perry bring us this year?

Only time will tell, but I can assure every basketball fan reading this column that there is no shortage of talent on this team.

The Looming question resides in the coaching staff, and whether this team can play together and find a real identity. Every team needs one, and most have one.

If you talk to coach Christie, he will tell you defense is the name of the game, but my question is can you teach defensive strategies, and will this team that is getting younger buy into what you’re teaching?

No one is going to argue that the Kings need to play defense, but will your veterans step up and lead by example or simply buy into what the national pundits want to banty about.

Enter Keegan Murray who needs to impress and do it early!

Yes, the clock is ticking with regards to Keegan Murray’s tenure as a King, but the ball is still in his court and the opportunity starts tonight.

I still have faith that Keegan can find the game that made him the NCAA scoring champion in the nation, and he just needs to remember the accomplishments of his rookie year.

His defense has taken a step forward. Now, it’s time to find the shooting stroke that suddenly went dormant.

Mentorship, teaching, are not just words, they are where leadership begins. I’m waiting to see if this coaching staff and Scott Perry have it, but the question will be answered soon.

Get excited Kings fans!
All the best! ★

Californians Are in a Sour Mood but Don’t Want to Change the Political Status Quo

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Californians are in a sour mood these days, and for good reason.

The state’s economy is stuck in neutral with scant job creation since the end of the COVID pandemic. Major sectors, such as high technology, are experiencing layoffs and job shrinkage and California is tied with two other states for the nation’s highest unemployment rate.

Meanwhile, Californians’ cost of living — especially housing, utilities and fuel — has climbed sharply, more than 100% since 2000, while personal income, adjusted for inflation, has actually declined fractionally since 2020.

A recent poll by the Public Policy Institute of California reflects the angst.

“Majorities of California adults (54%) and likely voters (52%) say the state is headed in the wrong direction,” PPIC found. “This belief is held by nearly all Republicans (94%) and a majority of independents (55%), compared to one in three Democrats (32%).”

PPIC continues, “Californians are much more pessimistic about economic conditions over the next year, with seven in ten adults (71%) and likely voters (73%) as well six in ten or more across parties (61% Democrats, 90% Republicans, 72% independents) expecting bad economic times for the state.”

If Californians are dissatisfied with the present and sour on the future, one might assume that they would express that negative frame of mind by rejecting the state’s political status quo in favor of candidates who promise change.

However, with voting by mail beginning in a few days, the Democratic Party that has dominated California politics for the last three decades can comfortably expect to maintain — or even increase — its hegemony.

All of the statewide offices, including the governorship, will remain in Democratic hands. Polls by PPIC and UC Berkeley’s Institute of Governmental Studies have found Democrat Xavier Becerra with a double-digit lead over Republican Steve Hilton for the governorship.

Democrats will retain supermajorities in both houses of the Legislature and probably gain a few congressional seats, thanks to gerrymandered districts that voters adopted last year to help neutralize Republican gerrymanders in other states.

A handful of legislative and congressional districts are in play but the macro results favoring Democrats are certain. Republican candidates, from Hilton down, are handicapped by low voter registration and Californians’ deep disdain for President Donald Trump. Just 27% of California voters approve of Trump’s performance, according to the Berkeley IGS poll.

The most uncertain — and therefore most interesting — aspects of this year’s election are a very close battle for the mayoralty of Los Angeles, pitting veteran incumbent

Karen Bass against a left-leaning city council member, Nithya Raman, a few Democrat vs. Democrat duels for congressional seats, and some polarizing ballot measures.

Five of the 14 statewide ballot measures relate to taxes, including two that would increase them and three that would make increases less likely.

The biggest and most controversial is Proposition 40, which would impose a one-time 5% tax on the wealth of about 200 billionaires, with proceeds mostly going to shore up healthcare services.

Prop. 40 is sponsored by a healthcare worker union and generally draws support from some, but not all, Democratic political figures and unions. Meanwhile, billionaires are spending hundreds of millions of dollars to oppose Prop. 40 and pass two other measures, Proposition 41 and Proposition 42, that would undermine Prop. 40’s implementation if it survives the election.

Until recently, Prop. 40 was ahead in the polls, although barely. More recent surveys found that its base was eroding as the massive opposition campaign cranked up, so the result is very much in doubt. And even if Prop. 40 wins, it still could be neutralized by the passage of Props. 41 and 42.

Prop. 40 exemplifies the nation’s social and political polarization and its outcome, whatever that may be, will reverberate for years to come.

Social Security Matters Mom Worries Daughter Making Bad Social Security Decision

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: My question is not for me, but for my daughter who 62 years is old. She does not want to take her Social Security now. Her husband was a doctor and passed away recently. She had been married to him for more than 10 years and, in the meantime, he married someone else. I thought the President erased taxes on earned money so that people could collect what was due them no matter what they earned. My daughter keeps telling me she has already earned too much this year and cannot collect her widow’s benefits until next year. I don’t understand what no tax on Social Security means then. Also, she wants to wait until she is 67 before she collects her own money. She has been a nurse and believes her own benefits may be larger than her widow’s benefits. Is she correct to wait for that long?

Signed: Worried Mom

Dear Worried Mom: Your daughter is likely correct. There are two factors which come into play in your daughter’s circumstance – one is the Annual Earnings Test (for those collecting early SS benefits), and the other relates to Federal income tax on SS benefits received. I’ll try to clarify both of these for you:

If your daughter claims her widow’s benefit at age 62, her benefit will be significantly reduced (by approximately 20+%) from what she would get at her SS full retirement age, and that would be a permanent reduction. And, if she works (which you imply she does) she would also be subject to Social Security’s Annual Earnings Test (AET) which limits how much she can earn by working prior to reaching her SS full retirement age (her “FRA,” which is age 67). The earnings limit for 2026 is $24,480 (changes yearly) and, if her annual 2026 earnings exceed that amount, Social Security will take away $1 of benefits for every $2 she is over the annual limit. For example, if she is $25,000 over the limit, SS would take way benefits equal to $12,500. That would mean she wouldn’t get any SS benefits for the remainder of this year and likely some of next year also. And, if her earnings are significantly more than the annual limit, she may even be temporarily ineligible to receive a widow’s benefit (until she either reaches her FRA or earns less money). FYI, the Annual Earnings Test will go away when your daughter reaches age 67 but, until then, the AET will likely restrict her ability to receive Social Security benefits if she continues to work full time.

The next factor to be aware of is the so-called “One Big Beautiful Bill” (OBBB) which the President claimed means “no tax on Social Security.” This is an entirely different factor than the Annual Earnings Test (AET) described above. The above AET discussion dealt with SS earnings limits while taking benefits before FRA, whereas the OBBB deals with income tax on Social Security benefits actually received. The OBBB (enacted last year) provides an extra $6,000 deduction per person (on the tax return filed with the IRS) for those 65 years of age or older. That extra IRS deduction is designed to offset (either totally or partially) any income tax which is levied on Social Security benefits received by those age 65 or older. It’s also important to know that the OBBB only provides temporary income tax relief, because the law expires after the 2028 income tax year.

All of which leads me to conclude that your daughter’s decision to wait longer to claim her widow’s benefit from her deceased ex-husband is a prudent choice. As long as she is working and earning more than the annual earnings limit before age 67, the AET will restrict how much Social Security she is able to receive. If she later stops working or goes to part-time employment, she can revisit her decision at that time. And, depending on her own personally earned Social Security benefit amount at age 67 (vs. her widow’s benefit), she can assess whether to claim her personal SS retirement benefit or to, instead, claim her benefit as her ex-husband’s widow if that amount is larger than her own SS retirement. And, unless Congress later extends the OBBB prior to 2029, she will, at that time, likely need to pay income tax on the Social Security benefits she receives.

In 2016, Donald Trump’s support for tariffs helped propel him to a shocking electoral victory. In 2026, his tariff policy may help tank Republicans in the midterms. This turnabout counts as a surprise of Trump’s second term, and an unwelcome one for the president and his party.

During his political ascent in 2015-2016, Trump exploited issues where there was a disconnect between popular and elite opinion, and trade was prominent among them. His protectionism -- expressed in pungent and excoriating terms -- poached traditional Democratic ideological territory and appealed to the working-class voters that allowed him to crash the traditional Democratic “Blue Wall” states. In sheer political terms, what could go wrong? Well, nothing -- until he got his way.

It turns out that Liberation Day was the beginning of the end for any appreciable political support for his tariff policy. The assumption has usually been that the politics of tariffs favor protectionism -- the benefits are very visible and focused for specific sectors and businesses, so they will be highly committed to maintaining them, while the costs are widely dispersed among people who won’t care so much.

The logic here has been turned on its head, though. The costs felt by all the people with no direct stake in protectionism are tanking support for the tariffs. On top of this, there’s the fact that Trump won the second time promising to reduce prices, whereas import duties increase them. The Yale Budget Lab estimates the costs to households as about $1,000 a year. The shambolic and arbitrary rollout of the tariffs, as well as the dubious legal basis for many of them, hasn’t helped, either.

According to a poll that the libertarian Cato Institute conducted with Morning Consult, 74% of Americans say the tariffs increased the prices they pay, including 66% of Republicans. Fifty-three percent of the public says that the tariffs have weakened the economy, and 49% say they have hurt their quality of life. Regarding the latest trade spat with Canada, a Politico/Public First poll found that 56% of Americans think the tariffs against Canada were “wrong.” According to a CBS/YouGov survey, people prefer a candidate who opposes Trump’s tariffs over one who supports them, by 26 points.

Democratic Senate candidates are promising to reverse Trump’s tariffs, even the card-carrying protectionist Sherrod Brown is critical. And some Republican candidates in states with lots of trade with Canada have dissented from the trade war with Our Friendly Neighbor to the North.

The Midwest is a trouble spot for the GOP in the midterms, and it’s not hard to understand why. China cut its purchases of U.S. farm products in retaliation for Trump’s tariffs, and the farm sector has been slammed. Exports of wheat, cotton, beef and pork to China plummeted last year, and overall agricultural exports to China fell by 66%.

When you layer on top of this the price of diesel fuel jumping 80% and fertilizer increasing 15% because of the Iran war, it’s a formula for a revolt. The tariffs have led to a tangle a little more than a month before the election. Trying to address complaints about high grocery prices, the administration wants to relent on beef tariffs to help consumers, but farmers -- hurt by other tariffs -- are balking at a measure that will reduce prices at a time when they are struggling.

One way or another, someone is going to be unhappy. Even if Trump’s theory of the tariffs is correct -- that higher import duties will lead to re-industrialization -- the policy involves immediate disruption and increased costs in exchange for a protectionism-driven build-out that will take years to be fully achieved.

Long before then -- indeed, by January -- an opposition congressional majority hostile to the president and his tariffs may be entrenched in Washington. In politics, it’s often “careful what you wish for,” especially if it involves higher prices on an inflation-fatigued public.

as: MORE ACCURATELY DESCRIBED IN SAID DEED OF TRUST. The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 2850 STONEGATE DR, WEST SACRAMENTO, CA 95691-6115 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 149659-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 149659-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. YCOE to Host Free ‘Cash for College’ Workshops

Free workshops to help Yolo County High School seniors and families complete financial aid applications

Yolo County Office of Education News Release

WOODLAND, CA (MPG) - The Yolo County Office of Education, Woodland Community College and RISE Inc. are partnering to offer free “Cash for College” workshops for Yolo County high school seniors and their families. The seven workshops will provide hands-on assistance completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, or FAFSA, or the California Dream Act Application, or CADAA. Students use these applications to apply for financial aid for college and other post-secondary education. The workshops will give students and families an opportunity to ask questions, receive one-on-one assistance and learn about financial aid resources that can help make college more affordable. Students do not need to have started their applications before attending, and advance registration is not required. The first workshop in the series was held Tuesday, Oct. 6 at Davis Senior High School. A second workshop will be held Thursday, Oct. 15, from 6 to 8 p.m. at River

City High School in West Sacramento. On Tuesday, Nov. 3, a workshop will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Capay Valley Health and Community Center in Esparto. Pioneer High School in Woodland will host a workshop Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 6 to 8 p.m., followed by a workshop at Woodland High School on Wednesday, Dec. 2, from 6 to 8 p.m. Esparto High School will host another workshop Tuesday, Feb. 2, 2027, from 6 to 8 p.m. The date and time for the workshop at Winters High School will be announced later.

Students and families are encouraged to attend a workshop even if they have not yet started their financial aid applications. The FAFSA or CADAA must be submitted by March 2, 2027, for students to be considered for California state financial aid, including the Cal Grant and Middle Class Scholarship. Completing the application can also help students access other federal, state and institutional financial aid. According to the California Student Aid Commission, 69.7% of Yolo County high school seniors completed a FAFSA or CADAA last year, compared with 70.8% of high school seniors at California public schools statewide. “By offering these free workshops, we are helping to ensure all students have access to the financial resources they need for college and career success,” said County Superintendent Garth Lewis. “We want students and families to know that help is available and that completing a financial aid application is an important step toward making higher education more accessible.” Students attending a workshop should bring 2025 tax information, including Form 1040 and W-2 forms, if available. They should also bring a driver’s license, Social Security card, recent bank statements, a list of colleges of interest and records of untaxed income, if applicable. The workshops are offered in partnership with the California Student Aid Commission and the Sacramento Cal-SOAP Consortium. For more information, visit the Yolo County Office of Education website at www.ycoe.org. ★

Newsom Signs SB 690, Reforming CIPAto Protect Small Businesses and Nonprofits

sincere engagement in moving this issue through the Legislature, and we thank Governor Newsom for recognizing the urgent need for CIPA reform,” Kingman said in the statement.
Originally enacted in 1967, CIPA was intended to protect Californians from unlawful wiretapping and eavesdropping on landline phones. But the decades-old law, written long before the internet existed, has increasingly been exploited to bring over 4,000 abusive lawsuits over common website tools such as analytics tools, pixels and other digital services, without any allegation of actual harm or injury.

The signing of SB 690 marks an important step toward modernizing CIPA and ensuring California’s privacy laws protect consumers without being exploited to pursue abusive litigation against businesses and organizations.

While SB 690 provides important relief, more work remains. The coalition will continue working with policymakers and stakeholders to pursue additional reforms addressing CIPA Section 631 and ensure California’s privacy laws provide strong protections for consumers without enabling abusive litigation.
