The Geauga County Board of Developmental Disabilities helps people live, learn and earn in our community

As March is Developmental Disabilities Awareness Month, it is the perfect opportunity to spotlight all of the tremendous work that the Geauga County Board of Developmental Disabilities (GCBDD) does for the community, the individuals with developmental disabilities they serve, and their families.

The GCBDD is a government agency located in Chesterland, Ohio that funds, oversees and helps individuals with developmental disabilities gain access to the services and supports they need to live happy, healthy and fulfilling lives. The GCBDD operates the Metzenbaum Center, which was established in 1966 to serve the needs of developmentally disabled individuals in Geauga County. It provides services from birth through adulthood. The Early Intervention Program serves children under the age of three, the Transitional Youth program provides educational services to individuals aged 4-22, and adult services are available for people 18 years of age and older.

In addition to traditional services such as family supports, educational programming and work placement, the GCBDD also emphasizes the importance of social programming and community events. The GCBDD and all of its staff members aim to build a caring community where individuals are integrated and accepted.

The annual Community Carnival will be held on March 7, 2020.

The Geauga County Board of Developmental Disabilities is celebrating Developmental Disabilities Awareness Month with several special events. To kick off the month, they will be hosting their fifth annual free Community Carnival on March 7, 2020 at the Metzenbaum Center. Event attendees will enjoy carnival-type games such as balloon break, coin toss, milk bottle knock-down and much more. There will also be a bounce house, face-painting and other activities as well as free carnival-style foods, such as popcorn and cotton candy.

“This event is very exciting and fun for us because it allows us to showcase the Metzenbaum Center and the services we help provide, while also giving the community a fun event, free of charge,” said GCBDD Superintendent Don Rice. “With March being Developmental Disabilities Awareness Month, it is the perfect time of year to raise awareness about developmental disabilities, teach the importance of inclusion within every aspect of life and share the stories of individuals with a disability to show that they are just like anybody else.”

This March, the Metzenbaum Center will also be hosting its sixth annual Night to Shine event for children enrolled in the Early Intervention Program. The event allows each child served by the GCBDD to walk a red carpet and showcase his/her personality and accomplishments. It also gives families the opportunity to come together and share their experiences with others who are going through similar developmental delays. The event is funded by donations received from local businesses in Geauga County.

Dating violence

Assault prevention workshop to teach how to avoid, control and escape

By Deanna Adams

Did you know that there are 1.5 million high school students in the U.S. alone who experience abuse by dating partners each year? That statistic includes one-third of all 10th-graders, with nearly the same amount being the perpetrators. While this behavior affects all demographics: age, gender, race, occupation, education or income level, there is more risk for teens from low-income families, racial and ethnic groups, and LGBTQ students.

Abuse, be it physical, emotional, sexual, or digital, has become so prevalent in adolescence that it is now considered a public health problem because victims are more prone later to depression, anxiety, suicide, and substance abuse.

The first step in reducing those somber statistics is education. Teaching young people about healthy relationships can reduce physical and sexual dating violence by 60 percent. Learning how to prevent it, or handle the outcome, is something all teenagers, as well as parents and educators, need to know.

That's why two professionals, Sensei Salvatore LaCorte, owner of North Coast Aikikai, and Gabriella Kreuz, founder of the organization, "Love Doesn't Shove," have made awareness of this issue their mission. Together they are hosting an interactive event, Assault Prevention and Dating Violence Workshop, which will take place at LaCorte's martial arts studio in Mentor on Sunday, March 8 from 1–3 pm.

The workshop is open to all ages, although those under 18 must be accompanied by an adult. LaCorte says the afternoon seminar is designed to not only address the problem itself, but to get attendees involved in knowing how to prevent and deflect the problem.

"The event will be split into two phases," LaCorte explains. "First, Gabriella will discuss her mission behind Love Doesn't Shove and how to recognize warning signs of abuse. She'll talk about dating issues and address situations that get out of hand and how to deal with them. Then I'll show a few short videos to demonstrate certain situations, and follow up by giving hands-on self-protection points."

The three core points that LaCorte always addresses in his classes are:

- 1) Avoid
- 2) Control
- 3) Escape

"The idea is not to harm, but to neutralize the situation," adds LaCorte, who gives classes for students ages 8 to 70. "The thing is, if you can't avoid a confrontation, then you need to learn how to take control of the situation, and then, if you can't do that, you need to know how to escape. Many times you won't need to use steps two and three, but you'll know what to do in all cases."

Kreuz's talk will emphasize a healthy relationship—what it is, and what it isn't. "I'll be deep-diving into the various aspects of abuse," she says. "The physical, of course, but also the emotional and sexual impact, and we'll have an interactive conversation about it."

The issue is close to Kreuz's heart because she knows about it first-hand. "My personal experience was the springboard that led to my advocacy. I had a boyfriend in high school and it quickly became a very unhealthy relationship. When there was a physical altercation in school, I was fortunate to have found myself surrounded by a lot of supportive people, including school officials. He was a charming young man so prior to that, I was afraid no one would believe me about his behavior."

She wants people to understand the dynamics that often accompany dating violence and abuse. There is a cycle that often includes four stages: honeymoon, tension building, outburst, and apology. Many stay in a dangerous relationship because the apology stage gives them hope that the abuser will change. "Some people assume that it's just common sense not to stay with someone who abuses, but there are many factors that play into it. Everyone comes from different backgrounds, personal experiences, and thought processes."

LaCorte has been teaching Aikido, a martial art form that emphasizes defense, not offensive tactics, for 40 years. His Mentor school is now in its 6th year. Kreuz's "Love Doesn't Shove" began as a fundraiser in 2014 and became a nonprofit organization in 2016.

"The most important thing I want people to realize is that abuse is not just a woman's issue," says Kreuz, who gives more than 50 school presentations a year. "This is not a political movement, it can affect men, too. And teens are especially vulnerable because their brains are still developing and they have little life experience to know how to deal with it, or even talk openly about it. So this kind of knowledge can truly be a lifesaver."

To register for the Assault Prevention and Dating Violence Workshop, call (440) 622-6485, or visit www.ncaikikai.com. Cost for both seminars is $25 per person. Attendees are asked to wear loose clothing, bring athletic under support and a face towel.

YMCA has something for everyone for fitness & fun

Spectacular new West End Branch is a game changer

By Deanna Adams

Last fall began a new chapter for the 150-year-old West End YMCA. While the organization remains in Willoughby, the branch has moved to what is now called the Union Village—a complex uniting Willoughby Middle School, Willoughby South High, the YMCA and the Willoughby Senior Center. The campus, located off Shankland Road between Euclid Avenue and Ridge Road, supports the Y's ongoing efforts to foster strong community connections.

The YMCA has always been a community-rich environment, stressing personal fitness, camaraderie and recreational activities. The Lake County YMCA alone engages approximately 49,000 people a year through a variety of programs and annual membership. The recent move, which includes a four-court field house with indoor walking/jogging track and multi-purpose aquatic center, is expected to increase that number.

“The great thing about this move is that we can continue to offer all our programs, but now we can do it on a bigger scale and reach more people,” says executive director, Sherry Emerick. “We have two indoor, heated pools—a recreational pool for open swim and classes, and the school's eight-lane competition pool. So we're able to serve the community for all ages and abilities.” The YMCA also provides lifeguards.

Another feature of the West End YMCA includes comfortable viewing access to the pool, and a splash/play area for young children. There is also a nice space for parents to watch other family members participate in classes while their small children are in the child watch area. The fee for child watch is $2 per month for members. There are also after-school programs, and a free drop-in program where a parent can take a break and drop off their child so they can swim or exercise without worry, or perhaps enjoy a night out for a quiet dinner at a nearby restaurant for two hours. The Y child care programs are licensed by the Ohio Department of Job & Family Services.

In addition, the new facility boasts four basketball courts, along with a large shared space for people to congregate. “The social area is particularly welcome for students who want to hang out after school, do homework, or just relax with friends,” says Emerick, who has worked at six different locations in a YMCA career that spans 38 years.

The programs and classes encompass recreational sports, personal fitness, group exercise, strength training, group cycling and more. Popular programs and sports activities include pickleball for adults, teen dodgeball, as well as gym & swim and martial arts for kids.

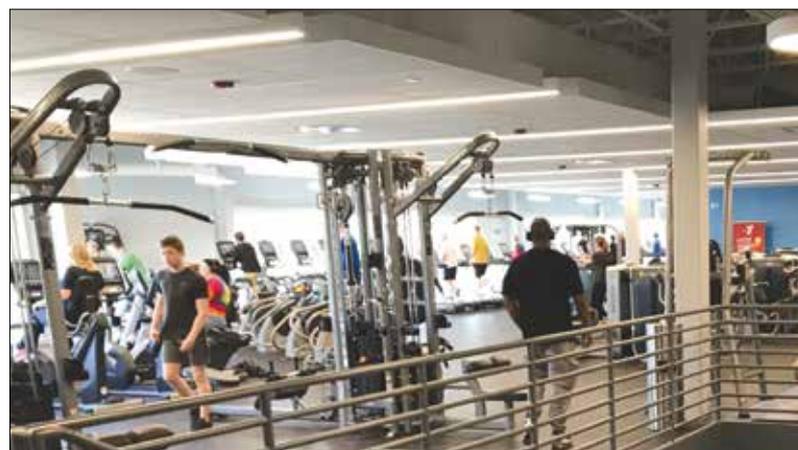

And for seniors, ages 55 and older, the Y offers a number of exercise programs, and accepts Silver Sneakers members. There is also a wellness center, located on the second floor, that features state-of-the-art strength and cardio equipment, exercise studio and coed steam and sauna rooms.

The YMCA has always been a great place for children, offering a number of programs and classes that nurture the values, skills, and social relationships that are so important to a young person's education, socialization, and overall health. Along with swim lessons and other sports activities, there are the ever-popular summer day camps where kids can explore and experience new adventures, cultivate friendships, and create lasting memories.

“We also have our 5K race coming up on Sunday, May 3, which is our biggest family event,” Emerick notes. The annual 5K or two-mile brings together hundreds of runners and walkers of all ages. The race starts and finishes at the West End YMCA. The age groups for teams span from 10 and younger, to 70 and older.

“The partnerships are going great,” Emerick says of the new complex. “We've all worked hard to make this a smooth transition and it's all been hugely successful. It has certainly been a great addition to the community and we're all excited about the future.”

For a full list of amenities and programs, see www.lakecountnymca.org, or call (440) 946-1160. The West End YMCA is located at 36909 Ridge Road in Willoughby.

A Prom to Remember

Local organization sponsors special night for northeast Ohio teens battling cancer

By Stacy Turner

Every spring, teens around the country participate in what has become an annual right of passage that many take for granted — high school prom. For kids battling cancer, prom is just one of the things they may need to set aside on their road to wellness. And that's something Jane and Mike Knausz set out to help change.

Wedding photographers by trade, the couple's first experience with A Prom to Remember took place when their daughter, Kim, asked them to volunteer with her at the first A Prom to Remember held in Fort Lauderdale, Florida in 2009. That experience impacted the couple so dramatically that they knew they wanted to bring the experience home to Cleveland.

The couple gathered together with friends to figure out how to host a similar event the very next spring. Ten years later, the event is firmly entrenched in Cleveland, giving area teens battling cancer an opportunity to celebrate their lives and their youth in an environment of acceptance and camaraderie.

The event is open to guests who are currently or have recently received treatment for cancer at three area hospitals — Akron Children's Hospital, Cleveland Clinic Children's Hospital, and University Hospitals Rainbow Babies & Children's Hospital. Patients aged 12–19 who are receiving treatment or have recently received treatment for cancer are extended invitations to attend the annual gala. Each year, roughly 75 children and their guests attend the special event, which will once again be held at the Ritz Carlton in Cleveland. This year, A Prom to Remember will be held on March 28.

As you would expect, the event garners a great deal of excitement. That night, these special kids are treated like movie stars arriving in limousines, walking the red carpet, and dancing the night away at a fabulous gala created just for them.

Local celebrities come in to make their evening even more amazing with live performances, autographs and pictures. Local police and fire department personnel attend, acting as escorts, and doctors and nurses from local hospitals serve as chaperones making it a parent-free evening for the honored guests. And best of all, the prom is held annually at no cost to the kids or their families.

"With the help of sponsors and donations, we provide everything necessary to make their prom unlike any other," shared this year's event chairperson Marianne J. Sumego, MD, a physician with the Cleveland Clinic.

Once she learned of the event, she was hooked. "Everyone has day jobs, but make time to help create a memorable event every year. This is a phenomenal organization," she exclaimed. When she learned of Jane's desire to 'retire' from running the event, she knew she wanted to help make sure it would continue.

"Everything from tuxedos for the boys, dresses, hair and make-up for the girls, limousine transportation, prom photos, food, entertainment and much more are all provided for these courageous teens," she shared. She acknowledges that the event wouldn't be possible without the work of a large team of volunteers who begin planning up to a year in advance.

New and gently used dresses, shoes, wraps, and accessories are collected throughout the year. In mid-February, participants were invited to a dress extravaganza at Our Redeemer Church in Solon, giving young ladies the opportunity to select a gown from the hundreds available to them at no cost. The day after the extravaganza, any remaining items were offered for sale to the public, with all proceeds benefiting A Prom to Remember.

"Our Redeemer Church has been a wonderful new partner, providing a venue for the sale, and helping to set up dresses, shoes, and accessories, even providing food for our volunteers," she marveled.

Local seamstresses volunteer their time to make minor alterations that day, and a wide selection of shoes, wraps, and jewelry are also available, free for attendees and their guests. Volunteers prepare for that event at least two months prior, shared Sumego.

Jackie Custer, a previous A Prom to Remember attendee from Akron Children's Hospital, admitted she was more into sports than shopping.

“But when it comes to prom,” Jackie shared, “I was really excited to go shopping!” Her mom, Julie Custer, went to the dress extravaganza with her to help Jackie pick out a dress. “I was just overwhelmed with how many dresses were there,” Jackie marveled.

According to Jackie’s mom, her daughter’s battle with cancer had been long and difficult. In fact, during her treatment, Jackie suffered a stroke. But Jackie battled back. “She’s just amazing,” Julie shared. “She takes it all one day at a time.” Through hard work and determination, Julie learned to walk again, and was thrilled to be able to try out her dance moves at A Prom to Remember.

Reminiscing after prom, Jackie noted, “Arriving at the Ritz Carlton was just absolutely amazing! It made me feel like a star when I saw the Cavs and Browns players. I’ll never forget being out there with all the kids who had cancer, and feeling normal.” she shared. “Being able to dance...it was a dream come true,” she added.

“Brown Aveda has been a fabulous partner, as well. They’ve been with us since the beginning,” Sumego noted. “Not only do they provide hair styling and makeup services for attendees at no charge, the salons also serve as drop-off locations to collect new and gently used dresses, shoes and accessories for event-goers as well. Sumego noted that gentlemen who attend the annual event are fitted for evening wear courtesy of American Commodore Tuxedo, another long-time event partner.

At each event, the guest list is comprised of patients, doctors and nurses from the participating hospitals, giving young attendees a night away from the watchful eyes of caring parents. Special guests also include celebrity athletes from local sports teams, television personalities, and usually a surprise guest or two. Last year, attendees and volunteers alike were thrilled to meet Cleveland Indians pitcher Mike Clevinger.

Sumego explained, “Everyone who volunteers gets drawn in.” Most end up volunteering at the next year’s event, just like she did. “It speaks a lot to the atmosphere here,” she noted.

Volunteer opportunities are available with needs ranging from business expertise, time, finances, donation of dresses, accessories, and time. Student groups have been formed at Mentor High School and Notre Dame Cathedral Latin High Schools to provide opportunities for local teens to help make the event successful for kids their own age.

To learn more about the event and how you might help, search A Prom to Remember - Cleveland online, on Instagram, Twitter, or visit A Prom To Remember Ohio on Facebook.

Donations may be mailed to A Prom to Remember, 8827 Mentor Avenue, Suite B, Mentor, OH 44060.

Looking for child care or a preschool?

Starting Point can help!

Whether you're a mom who works or needs to go back to school, one of the hardest things to do is entrust your child to someone else when you need child care, or a preschool. For many of us, it's a wrenching decision. We want caregivers and teachers who'll give the nurturing care we would give and help our child grow and learn in healthy, constructive ways.

How do you find the right place? Perhaps a neighbor told you about a center, but is it the best choice for you? Who can you trust to give you advice on where to go or what to look for so your child gets the best start?

Luckily, there is a good answer—Starting Point, the most trusted source of information on child care, preschool and out-of-school time care in Cuyahoga, Geauga, Lake and Ashtabula counties. Starting Point is a nonprofit organization devoted to helping families find quality care for their children, and its services are free. For 30 years, Starting Point has been the go-to place for information on early childhood care and learning. And we can help you.

There are many types of early childhood programs: child care centers, family child care homes, in-home care, preschools, special needs care and more. Starting Point has developed the most comprehensive listing of early childhood programs in the area and can help you find the right fit for your child.

The quality of the program matters, too. In the early years, a child's brain has an amazing period of growth. Healthy brain development is influenced by your child's relationships, experiences and environment. You want to make certain your child is in a program that offers the stimulating experiences and nurturing relationships that lead to later success in school and in life. Starting Point can help you identify quality programs, too.

All you need to do is call Starting Point at (216) 575-0061 to reach an early childhood specialist who'll give you the information you need, answer your questions, offer guidance and send you a copy of Starting Point's Good Child Care Book, which contains valuable information on what to look for in a child care or early childhood education program and much more.

Starting Point specialists can also help you find interesting after-school, vacation and holiday activities for your older school-age children.

You can also search for a program online by logging onto www.starting-point.org/parents.html, where you'll also find the Good Child Care Book and information on all the ways Starting Point works to improve early childhood and after-school experiences for children.

Starting Point is a valuable resource for families throughout northeast Ohio. Including you!

Visit Mickey

FREE local service can help you plan your Disney vacation!

In addition to a 27-year friendship, Tricia Scott and Darlene Porter each share a passion for all things Disney. Because of this love they formed the travel company they call Visit Mickey.

Now in their sixth year of business, Visit Mickey focuses on helping families plan their magical vacations. Their team of over 20 are perfectly staffed to help families with all their travel dreams and have worked hard to be recognized as an Authorized Disney Vacation Planner.

It's important to note that Visit Mickey does not charge for their planning services. "Disney pays us to take care of you," Tricia explained. Just another reason she loves being part of the Disney family.

Visit Mickey also specializes in planning trips for families with special needs. It began when team member Darlene wanted to share her love of Disney with her young son who has special needs. Although she knew the parks and attractions well from years of visits through her childhood and into her adult life, she had never looked at them through the eyes of a special needs child. That trip prompted her to figure out how to help her son best enjoy the Disney experience.

Over the years, the Visit Mickey team has found a multitude of tips and tricks, and their experience has helped countless other families with special needs children capture the magic of Disney as well.

"It's important to note that at Visit Mickey, we serve guests, not clients. We interview all of our guests at length about their wants and needs for a pending trip. For special needs families, we find out the child's likes, needs, and particular sensory considerations, etc." Tricia explained. They have planned trips for families with children that have cerebral palsy, MS, seizures, and autism, and have helped those in wheelchairs or scooters successfully navigate magical Disney vacations. "We check in with the family along the way," she explained. "We're on the phone, contacting people to make sure it goes well." said Tricia.

A few years ago, they launched an offshoot called Tipster Travel to help families and individuals make non-Disney vacation plans. Through Tipster Travel, they are Universal Orlando Authorized Travel Professionals, and offer a variety of all-inclusive resorts and a variety of cruise line packages as well. Tricia and her team are driven to provide very memorable vacations for all, regardless of destination.

Prior to any Disney trip, every guest is provided with tips and tricks to make their vacation successful. They have the same agent throughout the planning process, and they're given their agent's phone number, as well as the office number, in case any issues arise during their trip.

For more information or help planning your next Disney vacation, see Visit Mickey online at visitmickey.com, call (440) 709-4379, or see Visit Mickey on Facebook.

It won't happen to me Is your family protected in the case of a freak accident?

Imagine a child and his friends playing with the family puppy in the backyard. Suddenly, the dog bites one of his friends in the face causing permanent disfigurement. The owners of the puppy are legally liable for the loss, but the limits on their homeowners policy aren't enough to cover the damages.

Now imagine a family heading to its favorite restaurant for dinner on a rainy night. Slippery conditions cause the car to slide off the pavement onto the shoulder. The driver over-corrects, sending the family car straight into the path of an oncoming vehicle. The family's automobile liability coverage isn't enough to pay for the injuries to the other car's occupants.

Think it couldn't happen to you? The stark reality is that accidents such as these happen nearly every day. Fortunately, protection is available should the unthinkable occur with a personal umbrella policy.

While it's easy to assume that a personal umbrella policy is only for people with substantial assets, the truth is anyone is at risk of being held liable for an accident. Settlements of $1 million or more have become commonplace and if you don't have an umbrella policy, you may have to pay whatever costs exceed your primary insurance policy directly out of your own pocket. Where will you find the money? Your children's college tuition savings? Your retirement savings? Your home?

A personal umbrella policy offers you an unbeatable layer of protection – you can select limits of $1 million up to $10 million in coverage – over the coverage limits you already have from your automobile, homeowners or other personal insurance policies. In the examples above, the personal umbrella policy would pay the difference between the primary policy coverage limits and damages amount, up to the limits of the personal umbrella policy.

While the odds are more likely you'll need the protection of a personal umbrella policy for liability from an accident, you'll also receive coverages not usually included in your basic policies such as libel, slander, false arrest, false imprisonment, wrongful eviction, violation of privacy rights, and wrongful detention. An added feature of the personal umbrella is the policy will also pay your defense costs – even on covered losses where you're found not legally liable. This additional coverage could save you thousands of dollars in legal defense fees.

Contact the Corsaro Insurance Group and ask us how you can further protect yourself, your family and your future with a personal umbrella policy.

Summer CAMP Guide

How to choose a summer camp your kids will love and that you approve

By Kimberly Blaker

Whether you're looking for enrichment for your child, a way to keep your child occupied and supervised while you work, or a short reprieve from parenting, there's a summer camp out there that's just right for every family.

The benefits of summer camp.

Summer camp offers plenty of benefits, and many kids thrill at the idea of going away to summer camp. But for some kids, particularly those who are shy, introverted, or homebodies, the thought of going away for a night, let alone a week or more, can be cause for considerable anxiety. For kids who are adamantly opposed, forcing summer camp on them may not be in their best interest.

But for kids who are more than eager – or at the very least willing to give it a shot without too much fuss – summer camp offers lots of opportunities kids aren't likely to experience at home or anywhere else. If you're not familiar with the benefits, summer camp:

- Fosters independence
- Is a place to develop new and lasting friendships
- Helps kids develop new skills
- Leads kids to discover new interests and hobbies
- Provides the opportunity for creative expression

- Gives kids a break from being plugged-in
- Offers daily exercise
- Improves their self-esteem
- Teaches kids to work with others
- Makes kids feel part of a community
- Prevents or reduces summer learning loss

Getting started in your search.

Before you begin looking into summer camps, first create a list of the criteria you're looking for. Here are some initial things to consider.

- What is your budget for summer camp?
- What is the purpose of sending your child to summer camp?
- Do you want a resident (overnight) or a day camp?
- Are you looking for a short-term (week or two) or summer-long program?
- Do you want a camp that's very structured or one that provides your child lots of freedom and choices?
- What are your child's interests, such as a particular sport, hobby, or other interest?

Once you've narrowed down some of the criteria, you can begin your search. An excellent place to start is right here in Today's Family and on www.TodaysFamilyMagazine.com! The American Camp Association

(ACA) accredits summer camps. So this is another excellent place to look for a camp. The ACA educates camp owners and directors in health and safety for staff and campers as well as program quality. It then accredits camps that meet the organization's standards.

Next steps to finding the perfect summer camp.

Once you've selected a few summer camps that meet your primary criteria and that fit your child's interests, share the choices to see what excites your child. Let your child know up front that you still need to thoroughly investigate the camp(s) before making a final decision. But do keep your child's choices in mind to ensure your child gets the most out of summer camp.

Once you and your child have narrowed the list to a manageable selection, you'll want to investigate the camps further. Several things to consider:

What are the staff's qualifications?

Many summer camps use teens to staff the camps. Teens make excellent mentors and can bring liveliness to summer camp programs. However, the programs themselves should be developed by professionals and have professional oversight to ensure kids are getting the most from the camp programs.

How does the camp ensure your child's safety?

Find out what kind of safety training the camp provides its staffers. Also, is there staff on hand at all times that knows CPR? What are the camp's procedures in the event your child becomes ill, has an accident, or there's an emergency?

What is the daily schedule for campers?

Ask for a daily itinerary, so you know your child will be getting everything you and your child anticipate from the program.

What are the rules?

Each camp has its own set of rules. So, find out whether your child is allowed to call you. If it's a summer-long residential camp, can parents come and visit? Can your child bring along a cell phone or electronics? Also, how much money should your child bring, and how is your child's money managed?

Don't sweat it.

Keep in mind, although there are many great camps, no camp is likely to offer everything precisely the way you want it. Just choose the one that best fits your child and satisfies your most important criteria. Remember, your child will have many summers to come and plenty more opportunities to work in more exciting camp experiences.

Types of camps to consider

By Cheryl Maguire

There are so many choices it can be overwhelming to figure out what type of camp would be a good fit for your child. Hopefully, the following descriptions will help you to match your child with the correct camp.

TRADITIONAL DAY CAMPS

A traditional day camp is six hours (half day options may be available) and offers a variety of activities such as sports, swimming, art, and music. These camps are located at YMCAs, schools, or private settings.

Is this a good fit for your child?

Most of the activities are outside so if your child loves the outdoors and playing sports or team building activities then this would be a good type of camp for them. Since there is a variety of activities this would also be a good fit for a child that likes to try different things.

SPORTS CAMPS

Specialty sports camps usually are one sport such as baseball or soccer that the child plays either for three or six hours. Depending on where you live there may even be an option for tennis, golf, surfing or sailing camp. This type of camp is typically owned by private organizations. Some towns may have town operated sports camps.

Is this a good fit for your child?

If your child loves a specific sport and would like to improve their skills, this would be a great option. It could even be a way for your child to try a sport such surfing that they might not otherwise have exposure to it.

ART/MUSICAL THEATER CAMPS

Specialty art or musical theater camps focus solely on the arts. Musical theater camps typically showcase a production such as "Beauty and the Beast," whereas in an art camp a child would use a variety of art mediums like painting or drawing. These type of camps are located in public schools or private organizations. In the public school setting the drama teacher usually runs the camp, and it isn't widely advertised but it is available for anyone to participate. To find out more information call schools in your area.

Is this a good fit for your child?

If your child is creative and prefers the indoors, then these types of camps would be worth looking into. It may be a good way to introduce the arts to your child since most of these camps are time-limited for one week.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPS

An educational camp focuses on learning a new skill or subject matter. Since it is camp and not school these types of camps tend to be hands-on with an emphasis on fun. These camps are located in schools, museums, and colleges.

Is this a good fit for your child?

If your child is curious and always asking questions about how/why things work, this may be a good match for them. If a child is interested in learning a new skill such as computer programming or speaking Spanish, some educational camps offer that as well.

OVERNIGHT CAMPS

Overnight camp is when your child lives at the camp for either a week or longer period. There are Boy/Girl Scout camps and private residential camps. These camps tend to offer options such as sailing, boating, archery, horseback riding and other activities that may not be available close to your home.

Is this a good fit for your child?

An overnight camp gives your child the chance to meet other kids from different states and countries. There is also more time to do activities and foster independence compared to traditional day camps.

St. Gabriel School eighth grade serves Greater Cleveland Food Bank with Cleveland Indians

To celebrate Catholic Schools Week, St. Gabriel School focused on serving others. The theme for the week was an inspirational quote by Mother Teresa, "Do small things with great love."

All Grizzlies rolled up their sleeves and got to work helping the community in various ways. Organizations that benefited were Little Annie's Hope Train with care packages; St. Gabriel Food Pantry with birthday party bags and donations; Karpos Meal Ministry with wrapping silverware with words of hope; Guardian Angel prayer cards for residents at Altercare; Birthright was given clothes and donations; and bagged lunches were prepared for Project Hope.

Eighth graders held a canned food drive for St. Gabriel Food Pantry and the Greater Cleveland

Food Bank. On Friday, January 31, Grizzlies took their donations to the Food Bank and worked side by side with Cleveland Indians pitchers, Carlos 'Cookie' Carrasco, and Logan Allen. The students and players packed 4½ pallets of to-go bags for the community in need.

The St. Gabriel School Student Council also presented a check to the Greater Cleveland Food Bank for $500 from a candy gram initiative.

After working, Carrasco and Allen shared their love of serving the community with the students in a question and answer time and challenged them to keep working to make the world a better place.

For more information, contact Alicia Henrikson, St. Gabriel School at Ahenrikson@St-Gabriel.org or log on to www.St-GabrielSchool.org.

Great Lakes Science Center to open Body Worlds Rx exhibit

Explore the intricate biology and physiology of human health through more than 100 real human specimens when Body Worlds Rx opens Friday, March 20, 2020 at Great Lakes Science Center!

Through the process of Plastination, a complex preservation method that removes the fluids from the body and replaces them with reactive resins and elastomers, the specimens in this special exhibition offer guests the unique opportunity to be inspired and amazed by the inner workings of the human body. From organs and muscles to the nervous system and skeletal structures, Body Worlds Rx is an enlightening dose from a prescription for healthier living.

The opening in March will mark the second time a Body Worlds exhibition has been featured at the Science Center. In 2005, the Science Center was the second location in North America to host Body Worlds 2 and it proved to be one of the most powerful and popular exhibitions in the Science Center's history, drawing more than 390,000 visitors.

The specimens on display in Body Worlds Rx show impressive comparisons of healthy organs and diseased organs, to reveal the physical impact of disease on the body's systems. Visitors will see how vital organs are positioned in their body and specimens that illustrate common ailments like arthritis, cancer, cardiovascular disease and dementia.

"We are thrilled to bring a Body Worlds exhibition back to Cleveland and introduce a whole new audience to this extraordinary experience," said Science Center President & CEO Dr. Kirsten Ellenbogen. "Body Worlds Rx gives an unprecedented look inside the most sophisticated mechanism in the world, the human body. And, we are excited that entry to the exhibit will be included with general Science Center admission."

"At the same time we are hosting Body Worlds Rx, we're excited to announce new additions to our permanent hands-on exhibits in the Science Phenomena gallery and new early childhood programs families are sure to love as we look toward our 25th anniversary next year," Dr. Ellenbogen continued.

(Editor's note: The Science Center's fall-winter schedule is 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.)

The many layers of March

Gearing up for winter coats, short sleeves and everything in between

By Stacy Turner

Charles Dickens must have visited Cleveland when he described, "It was one of those March days when the sun shines hot and the wind blows cold: when it is summer in the light, and winter in the shade."

March is one of those in-between months, where you're not really sure what season it is on any given day.

Although the same can be said of much of the weather in northeast Ohio during any given month -- especially this winter, it seems extremely true each March.

It doesn't seem to matter whether it comes in like a lion or a lamb, or whether the famous rodent to our east saw his shadow last month or not. Even so, in March our thoughts turn to springtime and warmer weather. Rain boots are on standby for puddle jumping, even though the snow boots can't be retired just yet. Tomorrow may bring the last chance to make one final snow person or take the last sled down a nearby hill for one more winter thrill. But the resulting snowmelt will create puddles that thrill young kids and bring new life to muddy garden beds that have been dormant through the long, cold winter.

The sun shines brightly, convincing daffodils to sprout, only to be covered a few days later in yet another blanket of snow. The majority of winter seems to have been this way, with Mother Nature equal parts playful and petulant. Now that March has arrived, however, we're ready to fast-forward to spring. Now that I've got middle and high schoolers, puddle jumping is passé, and winter coats are optional even on the coldest of days. At this stage, instead of enjoying Dr. Seuss parties with the "Cat in the Hat" or helping to engineer the most effective leprechaun-catching traps, March means added stress over tough coursework and the start of an exciting spring sports schedule.

For spring sports, track athletes are encouraged to 'dress for the weather' for practice after school each day. They hit the track in weather-appropriate running tights and fleece hoodies with gloves and hats when necessary. Unfortunately, their spring uniforms consist of flimsy little tank tops and shorts, which must be worn for meets, no matter what the weather.

Spectators can dress for the weather as they huddle together through rain, sleet or snow in fleece jackets, rain slickers, or gloves, hats, and puffy coats -- sometimes all on the same day.

Poor athletes must wear their team-sanctioned uniforms, but are mercifully allowed to layer spandex tights and long sleeve tops under to try and keep their muscles warm while waiting for their individual events to take place. It brings to mind Halloween costumes we would intentionally purchase a size larger to accommodate the base layers that are often required for our fickle fall festivities. It's often said that New Englanders are wicked tough; it's a little-known fact that northeast Ohioans really know how to layer.

Luckily, as the calendar progresses, each new day brings us closer to actual spring-feeling weather. The sun warms as we uncover our pale, formerly over-bundled skin and soaks into our cold-weary bones. Here and there, surprisingly warm weather allows both parents and kids the opportunity to remove some layers and revel in the warmth of the sun.

Track meets become more enjoyable when the weather improves; kids laugh and cavort while parents relax and converse. As the season progresses, it's harder to remember the frozen start to the season, as we pack extra Gatorade, adjust our sunglasses, and keep our cameras at hand for the best shots of our athletes shining moments.

Just remember, as base layers are retired and winter skin is exposed, don't forget to layer on some sunscreen.
